INSTRUCTIONS—SALE OF CEDED CHIPPEWA ISOLATED TRACTS OF LANDS IN MINNESOTA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., March 26, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

Sirs: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress approved February 4, 1919 (40 Stat. 1055), entitled "An act for the sale of isolated tracts of the public domain in Minnesota." Said act reads as follows:

> That the provisions of section twenty-four hundred and fifty-five of the Revised Statutes of the United States, as amended by the act of March twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred and twelve (Thirty-seventh Statutes at Large, page seventy-seven), relating to the sale of isolated tracts of the public domain, be, and the same are hereby, extended and made applicable to ceded Chippewa Indian lands in the State of Minnesota: Provided, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to lands which are not subject to homestead entry: Provided further, That purchasers of land under this act must pay for the lands not less than the price fixed in the law opening the lands to homestead entry.

The Chippewa lands subject to sale under said act are only those which have been opened to homestead entry. Any application for the sale under said act of Chippewa lands not listed as lands subject to homestead entry in some Chippewa agricultural schedule should be rejected.

Applications to purchase these lands as isolated tracts and sales thereof as such tracts will be governed by the general regulations governing the offering at public sale of public lands under said section 2455, as amended by the said act of March 28, 1912. See instructions of January 11, 1915 [b] (43 L. D. 485, Circular No. 371). However, purchasers of land subject to sale under said act must pay for the lands not less than the price fixed in the law opening the lands to homestead entry.

[b] The instructions of January 11, 1915 (Circular No. 371), have been superseded by Circular of April 7, 1928 (No. 684), p. 742.

In referring applications for the sale of any tract under the isolated tract law to the Chief of Field Service, this office, for report as to the value of the land and any objection he may wish to interpose to the sale, you will accompany the application with a statement showing the date when and the price at which the land was opened to entry.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

CIRCULAR No. 1052[3]

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE AND REMOVAL OF PINE TIMBER ON CHIPPEWA INDIAN LANDS, MINNESOTA

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 27, 1926.

1. The merchantable pine timber on the lands described in the accompanying descriptive lists of ceded Chippewa lands in the State of Minnesota will be offered for sale, under sealed bids, under the fifth section of the act of January 14, 1889 (25 Stat. L. 642), as amended and modified by the acts of June 27, 1902 (32 Stat. L. 400), May 23, 1908 (35 Stat. L. 268), and section 27 of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. L. 862). Said descriptive lists give the quantity of the pine timber reported by the examiners as having been found on each legal subdivision. Schedule A gives the estimate of timber within the Minnesota National Forest, on which 90 per cent of the timber is to be sold, and Schedule B gives the estimates of timber on land outside of the Minnesota National Forest, all of which timber is to be sold.

2. Bids for the timber on these lands will be opened at the district land office at Cass Lake, Minn., at 10 o'clock a. m., on June 11, 1926. In order to receive consideration, all bids must be filed in said district land office before the hour fixed for the opening of bids. The bids shall be in accordance with forms furnished said district land office. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

3. No bid will be received for a sum less than at the rate of $4 per 1,000 feet for Norway pine and $5 per 1,000 feet for white pine.

4. Bids may be for the timber on any separate section, and also on groups of 10 contiguous sections of land; the bids for timber on groups of sections may be in addition to bids for timber on separate sections. With a view to facilitating a comparison of bids, group bids have been arranged under the caption "recapitulation," with the areas of the lands embraced in each group stated, as well as the amount of timber. Bidders are not required to follow these groups, but it is recommended that they do so. Awards will be made to the highest bidders for said groups unless it clearly appears that more money will be realized by accepting bids differently grouped. Preference will be given any combination of bids which will realize the most money for the Indians and at the same time sell the most of the timber.

5. Each bid shall be accompanied by cash or a certified check for 20 per cent of the amount of such bid, according to the value of the timber, to be ascertained by multiplying the amount of timber to be sold, which in Schedule A is only 90 per cent of the Government estimate, by the price bid per 1,000 feet, the deposit to be retained and credited as part payment of the purchase price for the timber included in such bid should the bid be accepted and applied as provided in rule 24 below, but to be retained by the United States as a forfeit if the bid be accepted and the bond and agreement required by these rules and regulations be not furnished. In case cash accompanies the bid the register will deposit the same as a special fund in the nearest United States depository. The certified check and certificate of deposit referred to in this rule should be made out in favor of the Secretary of the Interior.

6. The register will number the bids consecutively as they are received, beginning with No. 1, noting on each bid the date and hour of its receipt. On opening the bids the register will indorse on the inclosures the number of the bid and the name of the bidder. He will make a list of the bids and will without delay forward the list, bids, and accompanying checks or certificates of deposit to the General Land Office.

7. Within 10 days from receipt of notice by telegraph that his bid has been accepted by the Secretary of the Interior each successful bidder will be required to enter into and file an agreement and bond on forms approved by the Secretary of the Interior, copies of which will be furnished by the General Land Office, the penalty of the bond to be of an amount which shall be 50 per cent of the value of the timber, ascertained as provided in rule 5, embraced in his accepted bid and purchase. There is no authority for reducing the penalty of a bond after partial performance. The bidder may submit a separate agreement and bond for each bid, or one agreement and bond for all the timber purchased by him, described in either Schedule A or Schedule B, as the case may be, the agreement and bond for the timber in each schedule to be separate, the agreement and bond to sufficiently identify and describe all the land. The bond shall be conditioned for the payment for said timber and for the faithful performance of said agreement, and for the observance of these regulations. The agreement and bond may be acknowledged by the purchaser of the timber, and the bond by sureties, before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds in the State or Territory where executed, and the sufficiency of individual sureties must be certified by the United States judge or district attorney of the district where such sureties reside. In case of individual sureties, the parties will be required to justify in accordance with the special rules in regard thereto provided by the department.

8. Upon the filing in his office of said agreement and bond, duly executed, the register will immediately forward them to the General Land Office for transmission to the Secretary of the Interior. The right is reserved to reject any bond submitted.

9. Written notice of intention to begin removal of timber must be given by the purchaser to the superintendent of logging, Chippewa Indian lands, Cass Lake, Minn., at least 10 days in advance.

10. The superintendent of logging and his assistants, appointed under the said act of January 14, 1889, as amended by said act of June 27, 1902, shall supervise the cutting, scaling, and removal of the timber sold under the provisions of said act. It shall be their duty to see that the rules and regulations are fully complied with; to see that no timber other than pine is cut, except as is allowed by the secretary, and that no logs are removed from the place where banked until paid for; to see that all tops and refuse are promptly and properly burned or removed to prevent fire; to see that Indian labor is employed where practicable, and to supervise and direct the labor of the scalers. The superintendent shall make monthly reports of the progress of such work and of the time, habits, and competancy of his assistants and of the scalers, and he and his assistants shall generally perform such services in and about the sale of the pine timber on said lands and the cutting of the same therefrom and the care and protection of all timber on said lands as may be required of them by the said secretary.

11. The scalers shall see that before being removed from the tract where cut, every stick of timber is marked on both ends by the logger with a "U. S." marking hammer, and also that it is bark marked; and such scalers shall number and scale, under Scribner's rules, in the log after being cut and before the same is removed from the place where banked, all logs cut under the application and agreement under said act. Said scalers shall keep in suitable books for reference a record of the marks, also a complete list of numbers of all logs, with the scale of each log set opposite its number, said scale books to be open to the inspection of the check scaler or to any authorized Government representative at all times.

12. All timber must be scaled on the banking ground, landing, or skidway, and before it is placed on cars or put into the water.

13. The rules and regulations provided by the forester, and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, which are printed herewith, will govern in the cutting and removal of the timber from lands within the Minnesota National Forest. The superintendent of logging will as provided by law, supervise the cutting and scaling of the timber on said national forest, and see that the rules and regulations prescribed by the forester are complied with.

14. All trees shall be cut with a saw whenever practicable and as low down as practicable. In no case shall the height of the stump exceed the thickness or diameter of the tree 2 feet above the ground.

15. The maximum length for measurement of all white pine-logs shall be 16 feet, and of all Norway pine logs shall be 18 feet. Upon logs 24 inches or less in diameter 2 inches additional length, and upon logs over 24 inches in diameter 3 inches additional length, shall be allowed for trimming off battered and discolored timber. Longer logs shall be scaled as two or more logs. The length of logs shall be so varied that all merchantable timber 6 inches and over at the top end shall be utilized.

16. All merchantable-pine timber in felled trees which is 6 inches or over at the small end shall be logged. Any such timber left in the woods shall be scaled under the direction of the superintendent of logging and paid for by the purchaser of the timber at double the regular stumpage rate. No tree shall be left lodged in process of felling.

17. Merchantable-pine timber used for booms, skids, dams, bridges, for building camps, or for any other purpose, shall be scaled and paid for by the purchaser of the timber at the regular stumpage rate. All trees cut for booms shall be carefully measured, and the booms shall be cut in such lengths as will allow all the timber to be cut into merchantable logs. Sufficient green timber, other than pine, may be cut and used for purposes incidental and necessary to the economical conduct of said logging operations upon payment therefor at such rate as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior. However, the use of timber for any of the purposes mentioned shall, whenever possible, be confined to unsalable material and to dead and down timber.

18. The location of log landings, loading works on the shores of lakes or streams, or along railroads, and of railroad sidetracks, outside of the Minnesota National Forest, shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent of logging.

19. So far as reasonable all branches of the logging operations shall keep pace with each other. In no instance will the brush piling or burning be allowed to fall behind the cutting and removing of logs. It is the duty of the superintendent and of his assistants under his direction to see that the cutting is as far as practicable on consolidated areas and is not distributed here and there over the entire tract.

20. All tops, brush, chunks, knotty sections, litter, or other unutilized portions of trees on lands outside of the Minnesota National Forest must be burned at the time of cutting, under the supervision of the superintendent of logging and his assistants, excepting tops, brush, etc., cut during the months of April, May, June, July, August, September, and October, which shall be piled at the time of cutting, the piles being compact and large enough to burn clean without repiling. The piles must not be near standing trees so as to endanger them and must be placed where there is least danger of the fire spreading. The burning is to be done at such time as the weather and conditions will permit and when it is safe to do so without danger of forest fires. The superintendent of logging and his assistants are to be the judges and to be consulted as to the proper time of burning, and the work must be done under their direction.

21. In case of the failure of a purchaser to comply with the directions of the superintendent of logging and his assistants in the matter of the piling and the burning of the brush and débris, the superintendent of logging shall have the same properly piled and burned and charge the expense thereof to the purchaser of the timber in the next monthly scale bill, first, however, giving the purchaser written notice of his intention to pile and burn the brush and débris and allowing him 10 days from the date of such notice to comply with his instructions.

22. All instructions and demands from the superintendent or his assistants to or upon the loggers or purchasers shall be made in writing, including the demand for payment to be made when due, as hereinafter provided for.

23. The parties whose bid or bids may be accepted shall be required to cut and remove not less than 50 per cent of the timber embraced in their bid or bids on or before July 1, 1927, and the remainder by July 1, 1928. The entire amount of the timber in each such bid and contract must be cut and removed from the land where located on or before July 1, 1928. Failure to comply with any part of this regulation shall be sufficient cause to warrant the Secretary of the Interior to declare the bid and contract hereunder forfeited.

24. The money for the timber cut and scaled during each month shall become due and payable in monthly installments at the end of such month, or oftener, in the discretion of the superintendent of logging, and shall be paid before said logs are removed from the place where banked: Provided, That on the last payment required to be made on each bid or contract the 20 per cent deposit made at the time of the bid shall be applied as part payment, and in case the 20 per cent deposit exceeds the amount of the last payment required to be made on such bid or contract the excess of the 20 per cent deposit shall be applied as part payment of any other payments required to be made by the same purchaser. The timber may, by permission of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, be removed before the actual payment of the money in all cases where such course is recommended by the superintendent of logging and is approved by the proper Indian agent. If not paid when due, or within 30 days thereafter, and after written demand from the superintendent of logging, the contract and the money paid thereunder may be declared forfeited by the Secretary of the Interior, and the timber may be banked, shipped, and sold by the superintendent, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, and the deposit made at time of bid and the net proceeds, after deducting expenses of banking, shipping, and selling, applied to the amount due therefor from such purchaser or logger, and any excess shall be paid to him. If excess be due from the logger after such sale by the Secretary, he shall pay the same upon demand from the superintendent.

25. The scale bills must be approved by the superintendent of logging, and such approval confirmed by the superintendent of the Consolidated Chippewa Indian Agency, at Cass Lake, Minn., for the timber cut, after examination thereof and of the check scale, if any, and thereupon the superintendent shall demand payment, and such payment must be made to said Indian agent, who shall account therefor to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and also report the several amounts paid to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

26. The decision of the superintendent of logging shall be final in the execution of the foregoing rules.

27. The violation of any of these rules, if persisted in, shall be deemed a sufficient cause for annulling the contract and canceling the sale of the stumpage. In case of damages caused by such violation of the rules and annulment and cancellation of the contract and sale, demand for the amount thereof after ascertainment and approval by the Secretary of the Interior, shall be made by the superintendent of logging, and the purchaser will be allowed 30 days from such notice within which to pay the amount due.

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE FORESTER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE OF OCTOBER 21, 1903, AS AMENDED ON JUNE 23, 1910, FOR THE CUTTING AND REMOVAL OF 90 PER CENT OF THE PINE TIMBER ON CEDED CHIPPEWA LANDS WITHIN THE MINNESOTA NATIONAL FOREST

1. No tree shall be cut that is stamped with the letters "U. S."

2. No white pine or Norway (red) pine, 10 inches and under in diameter, 3 feet from the ground, shall be cut for any purpose, except where absolutely unavoidable in necessary logging operations.

3. All trees shall be cut with a saw whenever practicable.

4. In no case shall the height of the stump exceed the thickness or diameter of the tree 2 feet above the ground.

5. No tree shall be left lodged in process of felling.

6. So far as reasonable, all branches of the logging shall keep pace with each other. In no instance will the brush piling be allowed to fall behind the cutting and removing of logs.

7. All tops and litter from trees cut under these rules must be burned so as to be safe against fire, under the supervision of the inspector of the Bureau of Forestry, and at such time as he shall select, but the burning of tops or other material larger than 8 inches in diameter, or of tops or litter not made by logging under these rules will not be required. The piles must be compact and large enough to burn clean without repiling and must not be so near young growth or standing green trees as to endanger either of them and must be placed where there is least danger of the fire spreading.

If the purchaser fails to comply with the instructions of the supervisor of the Minnesota National Forest or of any of his assistants regarding the piling and burning of brush and débris, the superintendent of logging shall cause the same to be properly piled and burned and charge the expense thereof to the purchaser of the timber in the next monthly scale bill: Provided, That the purchaser shall first be given written notice that such action will be taken by the superintendent of logging and shall be allowed 10 days from the date of the notice within which to comply with said instructions.

8. Unnecessary damage to young growth or trees left for seed must be carefully avoided.

9. As few log roads as practicable shall be cut, nor shall they be made wider than is actually necessary.

10. All merchantable pine timber in felled trees which is 6 inches or over at the small end shall be logged. Any such timber left in the woods shall be scaled under the direction of the superintendent of logging and paid for by the purchaser of the timber at double the regular stumpage rate.

11. The use of timber in constructing corduroys and bridges or for road work, shall be confined, whenever possible, to unsalable material and to dead and down timbers.

12. Merchantable pine timber used for booms, skids, dams, bridges, for building camps, or for any other purpose, shall be scaled, and paid for by the purchaser of the timber at the regular stumpage rate.

13. The location of log landings, loading works on the shores of lakes or streams, or along railroads, and of railroad side tracks, shall be subject to the approval of the inspector of the Bureau of Forestry.

14. All trees cut for booms shall be carefully measured, and the booms shall be cut in such lengths as will allow all the timber to be cut into merchantable logs.

15. The maximum length for measurement of all white pine logs shall be 16 feet and of all Norway pine logs shall be 18 feet. Upon logs 24 inches or less in diameter 2 inches additional length, and upon logs over 24 inches in diameter 3 inches additional length shall be allowed for trimming off battered and discolored timber. Longer logs shall be scaled as two or more logs.

16. The length of logs shall so be varied that all merchantable timber 6 inches and over at the top end shall be utilized.

17. The decision of the inspector of the Bureau of Forestry shall be final in the execution of the foregoing rules.

18. The violation of any of these rules, if persisted in, shall be deemed a sufficient cause for annulling the contract and canceling the sale of the stumpage.

Circular No. 1175[4]

CHIPPEWA AGRICULTURAL LANDS, MINNESOTA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, November 23, 1928.

Register, Cass Lake, Minn.

Sir: I inclose herewith a schedule showing certain Chippewa lands, comprising 5,232.05 acres of " cut-over " lands in the Red Lake Reservation ceded under the act of January 14, 1889 (25 Stat. 642), which lands are to be disposed of to homestead entrymen and settlers in accordance with the provisions of section 6 of the act of January 14, 1889 (25 Stat. 642); section 4 of the act of May 23, 1908 (35 Stat. 268), as construed by Rule 5 of the regulations adopted May 17, 1910 (38 L. D. 594), by these regulations, and as modified by Public Resolution No. 29 of February 14, 1920, as amended by Public Resolution No. 36, approved January 21, 1922 (see Circular 822, 49 L. D. 1); and to town-site entrymen under the laws applicable thereto as provided in the act of February 9, 1903 (32 Stat. 820), as follows:

[4] This circular is the last one issued relating to homestead entries of ceded Chippewa agricultural lands.

2. Preference right of ex-service men.—The land shall be subject to entry only under the homestead laws, by ex-service men of the war with Germany, under the terms and conditions of said public resolutions and the regulations issued thereunder as set forth in said Circular No. 822 for a period of 91 days, beginning with the ninety-first day from the date hereof. They will be allowed to file their applications during the period of 20 days prior to the date fixed for opening the lands.

3. General public.—After the 91-day period fixed in paragraph No. 2 during which ex-service men are entitled to make entry, any of said lands remaining unentered will be subject to appropriation under applicable laws, by the general public, in accordance with said Circular No. 822. Simultaneous filing period of 20 days for the general public will be immediately prior to such opening. Prior to the date of restoration to general disposition as herein provided, no rights may be acquired to said lands by settlement in advance of entry or otherwise.

4. Former service men should file certified copies of their certificates of discharge with their applications to enter or sworn statements as to their military service, and regardless of the specific service relied upon to support a preference right, such applicants must show by their affidavits whether they were ever drafted for service under the provisions of the selective service act and refused to render such service or to wear the uniform of such service of the United States.

5. Homestead qualifications.—Homestead applicants for Chippewa lands must possess the necessary qualifications required in the case of ordinary homestead entries. Second and additional entries will be allowed under the laws and instructions governing such entries for public lands.

6. Payments.—Each entryman is required, by the act of January 14, 1889, to pay for the lands entered upon the sum of $1.25 for each acre, such payment to be made in five equal annual installments.

The usual fee and commissions must be paid at the time of original entry and when the commutation or final payment and proof are made. You will not collect any payment for lands in excess of 160 acres embraced in any entry when the original entry is allowed, as the payment for such excess area will be included in the whole amount required to be paid in installments. (See instructions of August 17, 1901, 31 L. D. 72, and September 6, 1901, 31 L. D. 106.)

Under section 8 of the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), entrymen for lands in the former Red Lake Reservation will be required to pay a drainage charge of 3 cents per acre. In all entries made for the lands you will note on the application and receipt the following: "Subject to act of May 20, 1908." (See 36 L. D. 477.)

The right of commutation under section 2301, Revised Statutes, is extended to ceded Chippewa lands by the act of March 3, 1905, (33 Stat. 1005), and in case of commutation you will require the entryman to pay the final homestead commissions in addition to the purchase price of the land, $1.25 per acre. (See 33 L. D. 551.)

7. Lands erroneously sold for drainage.—The following tracts are reported to have been sold by the State authorities under the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169) viz:

The sale of these lands prior to the date of opening to entry is not recognized by this office. Section 1 of the act of May 20, 1908 (above cited), provides in part as follows:

> That all lands in the State of Minnesota, when subject to entry, and all entered lands for which no final certificates have issued, are hereby made and declared to be subject to all of the provisions of the laws of said State relating to the drainage of swamp or overflowed lands for agricultural purposes * * *.

The lands above described have never previously been subject to entry and, therefore, were not subject to sale under the law cited.

8. Notices for publication, as required by said section 6 of the act of January 14, 1889, have been forwarded to the newspapers in which they are to be published. You will post a copy of said notice in your office.

Very respectfully,

COEUR D'ALENE LANDS—ACT OF MARCH 3, 1913

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 4, 1913.

Register and Receiver, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho:

Your attention is directed to Public Joint Resolution No. 72, approved March 3, 1913, which reads as follows:

> JOINT RESOLUTION Providing for extending provisions of the act authorizing extension of payments to homesteaders on the Coeur d'Alene Indian Reservation, Idaho
> Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the provisions of an Act of Congress approved April fifteenth, nineteen hundred and twelve, authorizing the extension of time within which to make payments of certain moneys by homestead entrymen upon the Coeur d'Alene Indian Reservation, in the State of Idaho, be extended and held to apply to payments that became due prior to the passage of the Act under the same conditions that apply to payments becoming due subsequent to the passage of the law. That nothing herein contained shall affect any valid adverse claim initiated prior to the passage of this resolution.

Said joint resolution is to be read in connection with the act of April 15, 1912 (37 Stat. 85), and the circular of May 2, 1912, issued thereunder (41 L. D. 1).

Very respectfully,

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO COEUR D'ALENE INDIAN LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 24, 1915.

Register and Receiver,
Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Sirs: I am in receipt of your letter of February 3, 1915, asking for instructions relative to the allowance of entries after May 1, 1915, for lands with the former Coeur d'Alene Indian Reservation, in Idaho.

Said reservation was opened to entry by the act of June 21, 1906 (34 Stat. 335), which among other things provides:

> * * * That the lands remaining undisposed of at the expiration of five years from the opening of the said lands to entry shall be sold to the highest bidder for cash, at not less than one dollar per acre, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and that any lands remaining unsold ten years after the said lands shall have been opened to entry may be sold to the highest bidder for cash without regard to the above minimum limit of price * * *

The lands were opened to entry on May 2, 1910, not on May 1, 1910, as stated in your letter. The latter date fell on Sunday.

In view of the foregoing you are directed not to allow any application for these lands which is received subsequent to May 1, 1915, for land which on that date is not covered by some right or appropriation initiated in pursuance of the aforesaid act of Congress. Land which on that date is covered by a valid settlement, may be entered thereafter and within the preference right period; and if a preference right of entry secured by contest is running on May 1, the successful contestant may be allowed to exercise it thereafter and within the preference right period. Land which on May 1 is covered by a valid existing entry, may be reentered should the land become vacant.

The purpose of Congress in making provision for the sale to the highest bidders of lands remaining undisposed of at the expiration of five years from the opening of the lands to entry, and thereafter, was evidently to effect a final disposition of the remaining lands and thus bring to a close the trust assumed by the United States, and in view of this fact if lands not disposed of at the expiration of five years from the opening of the lands to entry subsequently become subject to disposal and are unappropriated at such time as a sale to the highest bidders is directed, they will be listed for such disposition.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

EXTENSIONS OF TIME FOR PAYMENTS TO HOMESTEADERS ON SOUTH HALF OF FORMER COLVILLE INDIAN RESERVATION, WASH.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 26, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Spokane and Waterville, Wash.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to Public Resolution No. 33, approved March 19, 1920, which reads as follows:

> That the joint resolution entitled "Joint resolution providing additional time for the payment of purchase money under homestead entries within the former Colville Indian Reservation, Washington," approved March 11, 1918, be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows:
> "That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized in his discretion, to extend for a period of one year the time for the payment of any annual installment due, or hereafter to become due, of the purchase price for lands sold under the act of Congress approved March 22, 1906 (Thirty-fourth Statutes, page 80), entitled 'An act to authorize the sale and disposition of surplus or unallotted lands of the diminished Colville Indian Reservation, in the State of Washington, and for other purposes,' and any payment so extended may annually thereafter be extended for a period of one year in the same manner: Provided, That the last payment and all other payments must be made within a period not exceeding one year after the last payment becomes due by the terms of the Act under which the entry was made: Provided further, That any and all payments must be made when due unless the entryman applies for an extension and pays interest for one year in advance of 5 per centum per annum upon the amount due as herein provided, and patent shall be withheld until full and final payment of the purchase price is made in accordance with the provisions hereof: And provided further, That failure to make any payment that may be due, unless the same be extended, or to make any extended payment at or before the time to which such payment has been extended as herein provided shall forfeit the entry and the same shall be canceled and any and all payments theretofore made shall be forfeited."

The only material change made by the said public resolution in the act of March 11, 1918, is that the public resolution permits the same installments of purchase money to be extended from year to year upon the payment of interest in advance at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, subject to the condition "that the last payment and all other payments must be made within a period not exceeding one year after the last payment becomes due by the terms of the act under which the entry was made," while the act of March 11, 1918, did not permit any installment to be extended more than once or for more than one year.

You will promptly serve notice on all persons whose payments are in arrears that they will be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice within which to pay the sums due, without interest, or to secure extensions of time for the payments by paying interest thereon at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from the dates when the payments become due to the next anniversaries of the dates of the entries occurring after such notice, and that in the event of their failure to take such action within the time allowed, you will report their entries to this office for cancellation.

Amounts paid as interest should be noted on the receipts and abstracts of moneys received with the fact that they were paid in conformity with the said public resolution.

Final certificate and patent will not issue under any entry until the full payment has been made.

After extensions of time for payments on account of military or naval service, further extensions may be granted under the said Public Resolution No. 33 and in the granting of such further extensions you will observe the direction given in Circular No. 647 dated June 9, 1919, that the period of military or naval service should not be considered a part of the time originally allowed for the completion of the payments.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

PERIOD FOR FILING ON DIMINISHED COLVILLE INDIAN RESERVATION, WASH., EXTENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 1, 1926.

Sir: The act of Congress, approved May 17, 1926 (44 Stat. 558), directs:

> That the period provided by law for the filing of homestead entries upon the lands of the south half of the diminished Colville Indian Reservation in the State of Washington, as provided in the act of Congress, approved March 22, 1906, as amended by the act of Congress approved May 9, 1922, be, and is hereby, extended for a period of five years from and after the 4th day of September, 1926.

You will post a notice of this act in your office and will give as much publicity as possible thereto without expense to the Government. No formal regulations will be issued but the land will remain subject to homestead entry until September 4, 1931.

Very respectfully,

D. K. Parrott,
Acting Assistant Commissioner.

REAPPRAISEMENT OF COLVILLE INDIAN LANDS

Department of the Interior,
Office of Indian Affairs,
Washington, July 12, 1927.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

Sir:

* * * * * * *

The law under which these lands have been reclassified and reappraised is found in the act of June 6, 1912 (37 Stat. 125), which provides:

That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby authorized to cause to be classified or reclassified and appraised or reappraised, in such manner as he may deem advisable, the unallotted or otherwise unreserved lands within any Indian reservation opened to settlement and entry but not classified and appraised in the manner provided for in the act or acts opening such reservations to settlement and entry, or where the existing classification or appraisement is, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Interior, erroneous.

Considering the long period that has passed since the original appraisements were made, and the continued filing of applications for reappraisement, it is the opinion of this office that action should be taken to bring the matter definitely to an end. It is believed that ample authority is vested in the Secretary of the Interior under the act above cited, to set a definite date after which no further applications for reappraisement will be considered. It is also believed that if the action proposed is taken, it will result in settling the condition of unrest and dissatisfaction that now prevails among many of the settlers of the reservation.

It is therefore recommended that no further applications for reappraisement involving Colville lands be considered unless filed in the local land office on or before August 31, 1927. It is also recommended that in those cases where action has once been taken on an application for reappraisement, that no appeal or supplemental application for reappraisement be considered.

If these recommendations are approved a copy of this letter will be furnished the superintendent of the Colville Agency with instructions to give the matter all possible publicity among the residents of the reservation. A copy will also be furnished the Commissioner of the General Land Office with request that the local land office be notified to give the matter publicity through the local press as a matter of news and without expense to the Government.

Respectfully,

CHAS. H. BURKE.

Approved July 13, 1927.

JOHN B. EDWARDS,
Assistant Secretary.

CROW INDIAN LANDS—COAL CLASSIFICATION

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, June 1, 1915.

SWEENEY, Assistant Secretary:

I am in receipt of your (Commissioner of the General Land Office) letter of January 29, 1915, requesting instructions as to certain tracts within the former Crow Indian Reservation, which have been sold and later classified as coal.

The act of April 27, 1904 (33 Stat. 352), providing for the disposition of certain lands in the ceded Crow Indian Reservation in Montana fixed a price for the lands at $4 per acre, when entered under the homestead law. As to lands entered under the mineral land laws the act provided that the price should be that fixed by existing law but in no event less than that fixed for lands entered under the homestead laws. Section 5 of the act further provided:

> That when, in the judgment of the President, no more of the land herein ceded can be disposed of at said price, he may by proclamation, to be repeated at his discretion, sell from time to time the remaining land subject to the provisions of the homestead law or otherwise as he may deem most advantageous, at such price or prices, in such manner, upon such conditions, with such restrictions, and upon such terms as he may deem best for all the interests concerned.

Under the above authority the President by proclamation of September 9, 1910 (36 Stat. 2742), directed that all of the unentered, nonmineral, unsurveyed lands be sold at public auction at a price not less than $2 per acre. The purchaser of each tract was required to pay one-fifth of the price down, the remainder to be paid in four equal annual installments. The proclamation further provided as follows:

> If any purchaser shall at any time fail to make any payment when it becomes due all rights under his purchase, and all moneys theretofore paid thereunder will be forfeited. All lands offered but not sold, at the sale herein directed, shall thereafter be subject to purchase at private sale in the areas, under the terms, conditions, and limitations mentioned in this proclamation at $2 per acre.

Prior to the sale under the authority of the above proclamation a plat of the ceded lands of the Crow Reservation was prepared upon which was marked as reserved certain lands not to be sold because they were coal in character. Some 57 tracts which were sold at the first sale were later, upon July 13, 1912, reported by the Geological Survey as containing coal. They were classified August 12, 1913, as coal land, the price being fixed at from $10 to $30 per acre. As to these 57 tracts final payment of the purchase price had not been made at the time of the classification but such payments have now been made and the question presented is whether final certificate should issue with a reservation of the coal deposit to the United States or without such reservation.

You express the opinion that the lands were sold at the time of their offering, the equitable title vesting at that time, subject to defeasance in case of failure to pay the deferred installment. At the time of the sale the existence of coal under these particular tracts was not known, in fact they had been in effect classified as noncoal.

The United States in offering these lands for sale had through the Geological Survey classified the areas into nonmineral and mineral. The lands involved were offered for sale as noncoal and were purchased upon that basis. It would seem, therefore, that as a matter of fair dealing the sale so made should be consumated in the regular manner, that is with the regular final certificate and patent without reservation of the coal deposits be issued.

I am inclined to concur with the view expressed by you that an equitable title subject to defeasance vested at the date of the sale, and there being no known coal under the tracts at that time the purchaser is entitled to an absolute patent. The act also authorizes the President to dispose of the lands remaining unentered upon such terms and conditions as he sees fit. There is, therefore, ample authority granted by Congress to dispose of the land, even if coal, upon such terms as may be deemed advisable. Even assuming that under the law it might be within the power of the department to require these purchasers to take a limited patent, under the circumstances of the sale in which the tracts were offered by the United States as nonmineral, I am of the opinion that absolute patents should be issued.

The above renders it unnecessary to express any opinion upon the questions discussed by you as to whether such sales fall within the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), and also whether the final proviso of said act would require that a patent without reservation be issued

You are accordingly instructed to have final certificates and patents without reservation of the coal deposits issued and pursue the same course in similar cases.

Circular No. 1080

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER PROCLAMATION EXTENDING TIME FOR PAYMENT ON CROW INDIAN LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 14, 1926.

Register, Billings, Mont.

Sir: The President's proclamation issued June 5, 1926, providing for a further extension of time for payment by purchasers and entrymen under the President's proclamations of September 28, 1914 (38 Stat. 2029), and April 6, 1917 (49 Stat. 1653), of lands in the ceded portion of the Crow Indian Reservation, Mont., directs:

> That any purchaser or entryman of lands within said former reservation who is unable to pay the purchase money due under his purchase or entry made under the said proclamation of September 28, 1914, or the said proclamation of April 6, 1917, and who has complied with the provisions of the proclamation of June 9, 1924, upon filing in the local land office an affidavit corroborated by two persons setting out his inability to make the required payment of principal and satisfactory reasons therefor shall be granted an extension of time until the 1927 anniversary of the date of his entry or purchase, upon the payment to the register of the district land office of interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amounts extended from the maturities thereof to the expiration of the period of extension. The district land office will promptly notify all purchasers and entrymen entitled to the extension of the manner in which it may be obtained. If the affidavit is not filed and the interest paid within 30 days from receipt of notice, or if, within such time, the amounts in arrears are not paid in full, the purchases or entries for which the amounts are due will be reported by the district land office to the General Land Office for cancellation.

Pursuant to said Proclamation the following regulations are prescribed:

1. The said proclamation of September 28, 1914, provided that one-third of the price of the land must be paid when the entry or purchase is made. In case of a purchase, the balance of the price must be paid in two equal payments, one year and two years thereafter, and in case of an entry in two equal payments, three years and four years thereafter, unless paid sooner. The said proclamation of April 6, 1917, provided that one-fifth of the purchase price must be paid on the day following the sale and that the balance must be paid in four equal annual instalments in one, two, three, and four years after the date of sale unless paid sooner. By President's proclamations of May 5, 1920 (41 Stat. 1793), August 11, 1921 (42 Stat. 2246), July 10, 1922 (42 Stat. 2281), December 18, 1923 (43 Stat. 1931), and June 9, 1924 (43 Stat. 1955), extensions of time were allowed until the 1925 anniversaries of the dates of the purchases and entries made under the said proclamations of September 28, 1914 and April 6, 1917. Under the present proclamation, an extension of time to the 1927 anniversaries of said purchases and entries may be secured under the conditions specified therein only by those purchasers and entrymen who have complied with the provisions of the proclamation of June 9, 1924.

2. Within 30 days from receipt of notice to be given by you immediately, any purchaser or entryman whose payments both of principal and interest are in default at the time of such receipt must pay in full the amounts due; any purchaser or entryman whose payments of principal only are in default at the time of such receipt either must pay in full the amounts due or he may file in your office a corroborated affidavit setting out his inability to do so, and the reasons therefor, accompanied by interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amounts for which an extension is sought.

3. The time for any payment can not be extended to a date beyond the 1927 anniversary.

4. Proof may be submitted at any time before such anniversary provided the requirements of the law as to payments are complied with.

5. No extension will be allowed unless the affidavit and interest as herein required are transmitted to your office within the time allowed.

You will forward a copy of these instructions to each purchaser or entryman who is affected thereby advising him that in order to secure the benefits of said proclamation he must comply with its requirements as herein explained, and that in the event of his failure to take such action within the time allowed, the purchase or entry will be reported for cancellation and forfeiture of payments without further notice to him.

In those cases where an extension of time may be obtained, should a satisfactory affidavit be filed and the required interest paid, you will stamp the affidavit "Allowed" and transmit with your regular returns. You will in due time report the cases in which no action has been taken, transmitting evidence of service of notice.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

OPENING OF LANDS IN THE FLATHEAD INDIAN RESERVATION, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 22, 1918.[5]

Register and Receiver, Kalispell and Missoula, Mont.

Sirs: I inclose herewith a schedule of Flathead Indian lands, which have been duly classified and appraised in accordance with the provisions of the acts of April 23, 1904 (33 Stat. 302), and May 18, 1916 (39 Stat. 123).

The schedule includes in the Missoula district, 1,233.21 acres of lands, which have been appraised at $7,507.59, an average of $6.08 per acre, and the estimates show that said lands contain 3,381 M feet of timber, which has been appraised at $8,173.50, or an average of $2.42 per M feet. In the Kalispell district, there are 3,521.35 acres, appraised at $13,481.56, an average of $3.83 per acre, and these lands contain 13,982 M feet of timber, which has been appraised at $33,379, an average of $2.39 per M feet. The schedule for both districts contains a total of 4,754.56 acres, which were appraised at $20,989.15, and these lands contain 17,363 M feet of timber appraised at $41,552.50 The total value of the land and timber is $62,541.65, and the total initial payment required, if the lands are entered in accordance with the schedule, is $49,132.15.

The schedule gives the appraised price of the land and timber separately and the total appraised price of both together, but not the price per acre or per M feet. The price per acre for each legal subdivision is uniform, and can be ascertained by dividing the price of the land by the acreage.

These lands will be disposed of under the homestead laws and the following regulations, as authorized by the acts of Congress mentioned above.

1. Units.—To prevent confusion and more readily to dispose of conflicts, the lands have been arranged in units of not exceeding 160 acres each, indicated by tract numbers, and during the period of simultaneous applications mentioned in paragraph No. 2, all applications for these lands shall be filed for a unit or part of a unit, as thus arranged. An application filed during said period for lands embraced in more than one unit shall be rejected.

2. Simultaneous applications.—Any person qualified to make a homestead entry for said lands may file one application, accompanied by the required deposit as hereinafter specified, for a unit or part of a unit, at the land office of the district in which the land is located, either at Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., between 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, Saturday, June 1, 1918, and 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, June 15, 1918. All applications filed during said period will be treated as filed simultaneously. Any person having only an additional homestead right for less than 160 acres, may file an application for such portion of a unit as he may be entitled to enter, the land to be described according to legal subdivisions.

3. Disposition of applications.—The registers of said land offices will note on all applications received at or prior to 12 o'clock noon, June 15, 1918, the date and hour of receipt, and whether the land applied for is subject to disposition, according to the land office records. There shall also be appropriately indicated on a map of the reservation posted for public inspection the tracts for which applications have been filed. Where there is no conflict such applications, if in proper form and accompanied by the required payments, will be allowed immediately after the close of the period mentioned in paragraph 2. Where there are applications conflicting in whole or in part, the rights of the several applicants will be determined by a public drawing, at the United States land office at Missoula, Mont., beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., standard time, on Monday, June 17, 1918, or as soon thereafter as practicable, for lands in the Missoula district, and at the United States land office at Kalispell, Mont., beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., standard time, on Thursday, June 20, 1918, or as soon thereafter as practicable for lands in the Kalispell district.

The names of the conflicting applicants will be written on cards and each of these cards shall be placed in an envelope upon which there is no distinctive or identifying mark. These envelopes shall be thoroughly and impartially mixed, and then drawn, one at a time, by some disinterested person. As the envelopes are drawn, the cards shall be numbered, beginning with 1, and fastened to the applications of the respective persons, which shall be the order in which the applications shall be acted upon. If an applicant fails to secure any of the land applied for, his application shall be rejected. If he obtains part but not all of the land applied for, he shall be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice within which to notify the register and receiver whether to allow his application for the part obtained or to reject it in its entirety. If he does not notify the register and receiver within the time allowed, the application will be rejected.

4. Subsequent applications.—After the period mentioned in paragraph 2 has expired, applicants may disregard said units in making their applications, and the applications will be disposed of by the register and receiver in the usual way in the order in which they are filed in the district land office.

5. Execution and presentation of applications.—Applications to enter may be executed before the register or the receiver of the United States land office for the district in which the land is situated, or before a United States commissioner, or a judge or a clerk of a court of record in the county in which the land is situated, or before any such officer outside the county and in the land district who is nearest and most accessible to the land. All applications must be presented, with the required payment, to the register and receiver, in person, by mail, or otherwise.

6. Payments.—Under the laws mentioned above, each entryman is required at the time of making entry, to pay one-third of the purchase price of the land, the balance in five equal annual installments, and in addition, where the land is classified as timberland, the total price of the timber, as well as the regular land-office fee and commissions. The fee is $5 on each entry of less than 81 acres and $10 on each entry of 81 acres or more. The commissions for these lands are $1.50 for each 40-acre tract, which is equal to 3¾ cents per acre. The schedule indicates in the last column the initial payment, including the price of the land, timber, fee and commissions, required on each unit.

Each person presenting an application to enter these lands must accompany such application with the required first payment. The payment must be made in cash, by a certified check on a national or State bank or trust company which can be cashed without cost to the Government, or by a post office money order, made payable to the receiver of the land office. No other form of payment will be accepted. If an application is rejected the money paid will be returned. If an application is allowed in part, the money paid in excess of the required amount will be returned.

10. Completion of title.—Title to these lands may be acquired by complying with the 3-year homestead law, or commutation proof may be submitted on all homestead entries.

11. Forfeiture for nonpayment and reentry of lands.—In case any entryman fails to make the annual payments, or any of them when due all right in and to the lands covered by his entry shall cease; and any payment theretofore made shall be forfeited and the entry canceled. In the event of the cancellation of an entry for any cause, the land shall be again subject to entry under the provisions of the homestead law at the price fixed therefor, but in all cases the full amount of purchase money must be paid on or before the offer of final proof.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

Approved April 22, 1918.

WITHDRAWAL OF FLATHEAD INDIAN LANDS, MONTANA

Department of the Interior,
Washington, October 14, 1921.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

My Dear Mr. Commissioner: Because of proposed legislation (S. 3454) providing for allotments for undisposed of areas within the former Flathead Indian Reservation, Mont., the department on September 22, 1919, instructed you to take immediate steps to withhold from sale or entry all lands unsold and unentered within said former reservation until otherwise directed.

On March 3, 1920, the department approved your letter to the local land officers at Missoula, Mont., in which the order of withdrawal was construed as not affecting the rights of successful contestants, if duly qualified, to reenter lands embraced in entries canceled on contest.

The said order of withdrawal dated September 22, 1919, is hereby modified so as to permit entry by qualified applicants of lands relinquished which at the date of the order of withdrawal were embraced in entries of record, if otherwise subject to disposition.

Respectfully,

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 950[6]

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF THE VILLA SITE LOTS AROUND FLATHEAD LAKE, IN THE FORMER FLATHEAD INDIAN RESERVATION, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 16, 1924.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sir: Under the provisions of the act of April 12, 1910 (36 Stat. 296), you are directed to cause the lots subject to disposition surveyed as villa sites around Flathead Lake, in the former Flathead Indian Reservation, Mont., to be offered for sale at public outcry under the supervision of the Superintendent of Opening and Sale of Indian Lands, at not less than the prices indicated on the accompanying schedule, unless reappraised in the manner hereinafter provided. The lots will be offered at the United States Land Office, Kalispell, Mont., beginning 10 o'clock a. m., August 12, 1924, and continuing thereafter from day to day as long as may be necessary, Sundays and holidays excepted, in the manner and under the terms hereinafter prescribed.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of the sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—Payments will be required as follows: At least 25 per cent of the bid price of each lot sold must be paid on the date of the sale and the remainder, if the price bid is $50 or less, within 1 year from the date of sale; if the price bid be over $50 and less than $100, 75 per cent of the cost may be divided into 2 equal payments, due, respectively, 1 and 2 years from the date of the sale; if the price bid be $100 or more, the 75 per cent remaining unpaid may be divided into 3 equal payments, due, respectively, 1, 2, and 3 years from the date of sale. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment the register will issue a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate showing the amount of the bid and the terms of the sale, and reciting the right of the purchaser to make entry upon completing the payments; the receiver in such case will issue a memorandum receipt for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of the interests secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser, and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made. All lots affected by the easement provided for in the act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 527), as shown upon the approved plats of said lots, will be sold subject to said easement.

[6] See Circular No. 1000, p. 701.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased by him fails to make any succeeding payment required under these regulations at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot, after forfeiture is declared, will be subject to disposition at the next public sale thereafter as provided herein. Lots remaining unsold at the close of sale, or thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any part of the purchase price under the terms of the sale, will be subject to disposition at future public sales, the dates thereof to be fixed in the manner herein provided.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously, or which will in any way hinder or embarass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States, which reads as follows:

> Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

The Superintendent of Opening and Sale of Indian Lands, or any assistant so designated, will be and he is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to reappraise any lot, and by such reappraisal may fix a greater or less minimum price for such lot than that indicated in the accompanying schedule. He may reject any and all bids for any lot, and at any time suspend, adjourn, or postpone the sale to such time and place as he may deem proper, and the sale so adjourned may be further adjourned to a fixed date by public announcement of the person conducting the sale.

Very respectfully,

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 1000

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF THE VILLA-SITE LOTS AROUND FLATHEAD LAKE, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 25, 1925.

Register and Receiver,
Great Falls, Mont.

Gentlemen: On August 12 and 13, 1924, a sale of villa-site lots around Flathead Lake in the former Flathead Indian Reservation was held at the local office at Kalispell, Mont., under the provisions of the act of April 12, 1910 (36 Stat. 296). Upon the conclusion of the public sale the sale was adjourned to May 12, 1925, to be held at the land office at Kalispell.

In view of the fact that the office at Kalispell is to be abolished on April 30 the sale is hereby postponed until Tuesday, July 7, 1925, and will be held at Polson, Mont., under the direction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The lots will be offered at 10 o'clock a. m. on said date and continued as long as necessary under the regulations, dated July 16, 1924, prescribed for the last sale. A list of the unsold lots at the reappraised price is inclosed. The superintendent of the sale is hereby authorized, in his discretion, to reappraise any lot and may fix a greater or less minimum price for such lot than that indicated in the accompanying schedule. He may reject any and all bids for any lot and at any time suspend, adjourn, or postpone the sale.

It is desired that you give this sale as wide publicity as possible without expense to this office, by giving notice to the press and by posting notice of the sale in your office and by furnishing notices of the sale to a few of the leading post offices in the vicinity of the land including Polson and Kalispell for posting in their offices. Copies of the regulations of July 16, 1924, will be sent you.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved April 25, 1925.

E. C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 706

INSTRUCTIONS RE SALE OF ISOLATED TRACTS IN FORT BERTHOLD RESERVATION

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 28, 1920.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER, Minot, N. Dak.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress approved May 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 595), entitled "An act for the sale of isolated tracts in the former Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, N. Dak." Said act reads as follows:

> That the provisions of section 2455 of the Revised Statutes of the United States as amended by the Act of March 28, 1912 (Thirty-seventh Statutes at Large, page 77), relating to the sale at public auction of isolated tracts of the public domain be, and the same are hereby, extended and made applicable to lands within the portion of the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, North Dakota, opened under the act of June 1, 1910 (Thirty-sixth Statutes at Large, page 455): Provided, That the provisions of this Act shall not apply to lands which are not subject to homestead entry: Provided further, That purchasers of land under this Act shall pay for the lands not less than the price fixed in the law opening such lands to homestead entry.

The Fort Berthold Indian lands subject to sale under said act are only those which have been opened under the act of June 1, 1910 (36 Stat. 455), to homestead entry. Any application for sale, under said act, of Fort Berthold Indian lands not subject to homestead entry should be rejected.

Applications to purchase these lands as isolated tracts and sales thereof as such tracts will be governed by the general regulations governing the offering at public sale of public lands under said section 2455, as amended by said act of March 28, 1912, except that the minimum price of the lands will be the appraised price under the act of June 1, 1910. See instructions of April 16, 1920 (Circular No. 684).[7]

The lands affected by said act of June 1, 1910 (36 Stat. 455), were opened to entry under regulations of June 29, 1911 (40 L. D. 154).

In cases where the applications show the lands to be rough and mountainous, you will refer the applications to the Chief of Field Division for report as to the character of the land involved.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

Approved June 28, 1920.

Circular No. 944

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO EXTENSIONS OF TIME FOR PAYMENTS FOR FORT BERTHOLD INDIAN LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 19, 1924.

Register and Receiver,
Bismarck, N. Dak.

Gentlemen: The act of May 24, 1924 (43 Stat. 139), provides:

> That any homestead entryman or purchaser of Government lands within the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation in North Dakota who is unable to make payment of purchase money due under his entry or contract of purchase as required by existing law or regulations, on application duly verified showing that he is unable to make payment as required, shall be granted an extension to the 1925 anniversary of the date of his entry or contract of purchase upon payment of interest in advance at the rate of 5 per centum per annum on the amounts due from the maturity thereof to the said anniversary; and if at the expiration of the extended period the entryman or purchaser is still unable to make the payment he may, upon the same terms and conditions, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior, be granted such further extensions of time, not exceeding a period three years, as the facts warrant.

The act applies both to entries made under the act of June 1, 1910 (36 Stat. 455), and those made under the act of Aug. 3, 1914 (38 Stat. 681).

Previous requirements in the matter of payments.—The provisions of the act of June 1, 1910, were specifically extended to lands to be opened under the act of August 3, 1914. The said act of June 1, 1910, provides that one-fifth of the purchase price shall be paid at the time of entry and the balance in five equal annual installments commencing two years from the date of entry. Section 1 of the act of May 28, 1914 (38 Stat. 383), authorizes an extension of time for one year for the payment of any annual installment upon the payment of the interest in advance at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amounts so extended and that any payment so extended may annually thereafter be extended in like manner, provided that all payments are completed within a period not exceeding one year after the last payment becomes due under the act under which the entry was made. Accordingly the utmost time allowed for completion of payments on entries made under the act of June 1, 1910, or under the act of August 3, 1914, was seven years from the date of entry.

The said act of May 24, 1924, modifies the above requirements in the following respects:

On those entries on which the 7-year period for payment allowed under the acts cited above expires prior to the 1925 anniversary thereof, an extension of time may be obtained to said anniversary upon the filing of an application duly verified, accompanied by payment of interest in advance on the amounts due from the maturity thereof to the 1925 anniversary of the dates of the entries at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. If at the expiration of the extended period entryman is still unable to make the required payment, further extensions may be obtained from year to year in the same manner, but no extension will be granted beyond a period of three years from the 1925 anniversary of the date of the entry.

You are directed to serve notice on each entryman who is in default in the matter of payments either of principal or interest that if the required sums are not paid or an extension of time obtained as herein provided within 30 days from receipt of notice hereof, you will report his entry to this office for cancellation.

Very respectfully,

Approved June 19, 1924.

First Assistant Secretary.

FORT HALL INDIAN LANDS MADE SUBJECT TO SECTION 2455, UNITED STATES REVISED STATUTES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 26, 1926.

Register, Blackfoot, Idaho.

Sir: The act of May 19, 1926 (44 Stat. 566), entitled "An act extending the provisions of section 2455 of the United States Revised Statutes to ceded lands of the Fort Hall Indian Reservation," provides:

> That the provisions of section 2455, United States Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of June 27, 1906 (Thirty-fourth Statutes at Large, page 517), and by the act of March 28, 1912 (Thirty-seventh Statutes at Large, page 77), are made applicable to the ceded lands on the former Fort Hall Indian Reservation: Provided, That no land shall be sold at less than the price fixed by the law opening the lands to homestead entry.

You will take notice that this act allows lands on the former Fort Hall Indian Reservation to be sold under section 2455, but that the lands can not be sold at less than the price fixed by law for opening the lands to homestead entry.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Assistant Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 544

FORT PECK INDIAN LANDS—TIME FOR PAYMENT EXTENDED—ACT OF MARCH 2, 1917 (39 STAT. 994)

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 13, 1917.

Register and Receiver, United States Land Office, Glasgow, Mont.:

SIRS: Your attention is directed to section 1 of the act of Congress of March 2, 1917 (39 Stat. 994), which provides:

> That any person who has made or shall make homestead entry under the Act approved May thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eight (Thirty-fifth Statutes, page five hundred and fifty-eight), entitled "An Act for the survey and allotment of lands now embraced within the limits of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana, and the sale and disposal of all the surplus lands after allotment," may obtain extensions of time within which to pay one-half of any installments of purchase money, which have become due and are unpaid or which will hereafter become due by paying to the register and receiver of the land office for the district in which the lands are situated interest in advance on the amounts due and for the period of the desired extension at the rate of five per centum per annum, and any payment so extended may at its maturity be again extended in like manner: Provided, That payment of interest on installments now due must be made in order to secure the extension; interest payments must hereafter be made annually before the maturity of the payments to be extended, and no payment will be postponed for more than eight years from the date of entry nor will any extension be made for less than one year: Provided further, That if commutation proof is submitted all the unpaid payments must be made at that time.

2. The first entries for the lands, opened under the act of May 30, 1908, were made in May, 1914; under its provisions each homesteader was required to pay one-fifth of the appraised price of a tract at the time of filing application therefor, the balance being payable in five equal installments due respectively in one, two, three, four, and five years after the date of the entry, without interest. Under the present act an extension may be secured as to one-half of each installment, on all entries heretofore made and which may hereafter be made.

3. The act provides that no extension shall be made for less than one year and clearly contemplates that interest and installment periods coincide. In order that all entrymen may have due notice of this act, compliance with its provisions will not be insisted upon until November 1, 1917. On or before that date any homesteader who is then in default in any installment payment or payments must either pay the amounts due in full, without interest, under the provisions of the act of May 30, 1908 (35 Stat. 558), or he may pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on all moneys due prior to November 1, 1917, from date of maturity to the date when the next installment after November 1, 1917, is due on his entry. Should he fail to do one of these things on or before the date named, his entry will be canceled without further notice.

On or before the date when the next installment after November 1, 1917, falls due, at least one-half of the moneys past due and one-half of the installment then due must be paid, as well as 5 per cent interest on the half of any installment or installments for which extension of payment is desired, as advance interest on such deferred payments for one year.

4. As each succeeding installment falls due, the homesteader, instead of paying the amount in full, may pay one-half thereof and 5 per cent on the other half as interest for the next 12 months. Moreover, any half installment which has been extended may be extended for additional years by payment of 5 per cent thereon each year, as interest in advance.

5. No payment can be extended for a time longer than eight years from the date of the entry, and proof may be submitted within that period, provided the requirements of the law as to payments are complied with.

6. No special form of application for extension of time to make payment will be required; the payment of the required sums will be sufficient and the receiver will note upon the receipts and on the abstracts of collections the nature and purpose of the payment.

7. If compliance with the provisions of the act of May 30, 1908, and of the present act as to payments be continued, 3-year or 5-year proof on an entry may be submitted without the necessity of paying for the land in full. Such proof will be accepted by you if satisfactory, subject to the payment of the unpaid portions of the purchase price, but final certificate will not issue until full payment is made; and the proof will be accepted by this office on the same conditions if found satisfactory. After acceptance of such proof, the claim is subject to transfer, and you will issue all notices in connection with the case, not only to the entryman, but to the transferee, provided notice of the transfer be duly filed in your office; but when payment in full is made, final certificate will issue in the name of the entryman.

8. If commutation proof be submitted, payment of the price of the land in full must be made.

9. The act of March 2, 1917, makes no change in the requirements as to entries made under the provisions of the reclamation act, except as to the extension of the payments of the price of the land, hereinbefore discussed.

10. You will forward copies of these instructions to all homesteaders for these lands who are in arrears as to one or more installments, and to their transferees (if there be any), advising them that, in order to secure the benefits of the act, they must comply with its requirements, as herein explained, by November 1, 1917.

Very respectfully,

C. M. Bruce, Acting Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO PAYMENTS FOR LANDS WITHIN FORMER FORT PECK INDIAN RESERVATION, MONTANA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, January 23, 1920.

Register and Receiver, Glasgow, Mont.

Sirs: The act of December 11, 1919 (41 Stat. 365), provides—

> That any person who has made homestead entry under the provisions of the act of Congress approved May 30, 1908 (Thirty-fifth Statutes at Large, page 558), entitled "An act for the survey and allotment of lands now embraced within the limits of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana, and the sale and disposal of all the surplus lands after allotment," may obtain an extension of time for one year from the anniversary of the date of entry last preceding the passage of this act within which to pay the one-half of the installment then due or such part of any preceding installment, where payment has not been yet made and where an extension of time therefor is not authorized by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1917 (Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, page 994), by paying interest at the rate of 5 per centum per annum on the sums to be extended from the maturity of the unpaid installments to the expiration of the period of extension, the interest to be paid to the receiver of the land office for the district in which the lands are situated, within such time as may be prescribed for that purpose by the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, That the one-half of any installment which becomes due within one year from the passage of this act and for which an extension of time for payment is not authorized by the said act of March 2, 1917, may also be extended for a period of one year by paying interest thereon in advance at the said rate: Provided further, That any payment so extended may thereafter be extended for a period of one year in like manner: And provided further, That if commutation proof is submitted, all the unpaid payments must be made at that time.
> Sec. 2. That moneys paid as interest provided for herein shall be deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the Fort Peck Indians, the same as moneys realized from the sale of the lands.
> Sec. 3. That the failure of an entryman to make any payment that may be due, unless the same be extended, or to make any payment extended either under the provisions hereof or under the provisions of the said act of March 2, 1917, at or before the time to which such payment has been extended, shall forfeit the entry and the same shall be canceled, and any and all payments theretofore made shall be forfeited.

1. The one-half of installment payments which became due prior to December 11, 1919, which have not been paid and for which extensions of time for payments are not authorized by the act of March 2, 1917 (39 Stat. 994), Circular No. 544 (46 L. D. 75), may be extended for one year from the anniversary of the date of entry last preceding December 11, 1919, under the act of that date, upon the payment of interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

2. The one-half of installment payments, other than extended payments, which become due on the anniversary of the date of entry next occurring after December 10, 1919, for which extensions of time for payments are not authorized by the said act of March 2, 1917, may be extended for a period of one year, under the said act of December 11, 1919, upon the payment of interest in advance at the said rate.

3. The one-half of installment payments extended for one year from the anniversary of the date of entry last preceding December 11, 1919, in conformity with paragraph 1 hereof, which will become due between the dates December 11, 1919, and December 10, 1920, both dates inclusive, may, at the expiration of the period of the extension, be further extended for a period of one year, under the said act of December 11, 1919, upon the payment of interest in advance at the said rate. At the expiration of the period of such further extension, which will occur between the dates December 11, 1920, and December 10, 1921, both dates inclusive, the amount so extended must be paid.

4. The one-half of installment payments, extended for one year from the anniversary of the date of the entry next occurring after December 10, 1919, in conformity with paragraph 2 hereof, which will become due between the dates December 11, 1920, and December 10, 1921, both dates inclusive, may, at the expiration of the period of the extension, be again extended for a period of one year, under the said act of December 11, 1919, upon the payment of interest in advance at the said rate. At the expiration of the period of such further extension, which will occur between the dates December 11, 1921, and December 10, 1922, both dates inclusive, the amounts so extended must be paid.

5. Three-year proof may be submitted prior to the completion of the payments, by showing due compliance with the law in the matter of residence, cultivation, and improvements, the procedure in such case to be as stated in paragraph 7 of Circular No. 544, above cited. If commutation proof is submitted, all the unpaid amounts must be paid at that time.

6. Section 1 of the said act of December 11, 1919, provides that the interest payments required by that act shall be paid—> within such time as may be prescribed for that purpose by the Secretary of the Interior.

and section 3 of the act provides:

> That the failure of an entryman to make any payment that may be due, unless the same be extended, or to make any payment extended either under the provisions hereof or under the provisions of said act of March 2, 1917, at or before the time to which such payment has been extended, shall forfeit the entry and the same shall be canceled, and any and all payments theretofore made shall be forfeited.

7. You are directed to serve notice on all entrymen who are in default in the matter of payments, either of principal or interest, that if the required sums, as herein provided and as provided in Circular No. 544, above referred to, are not paid on or before June 1, 1920, you will report their entries to this office for cancellation.

8. Hereafter entrymen must make the required payments either of principal or interest at the time the payments become due. If such payments are not made you will serve notice on the entrymen, advising them of the defaults, and that in the event of their failure to make the payments within 30 days from receipt of notice you will report their entries to this office for cancellation.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

FORT PECK INDIAN LANDS, MONTANA, CLASSIFIED AS COAL LANDS AFTER ENTRY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, June 25, 1924.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: The department has considered your letter ("A"-CGF) of the 19th instant, requesting instructions as to whether a restricted patent should issue in a case where, after entry of a tract of land in the former Fort Peck Indian Reservation and prior to the submission of final proof and payment, the land is classified as coal land.

With your letter you forwarded the papers relating to the entry, (Glasgow 033991), of Cora J. Benson, whose application was filed June 4, 1915, and allowed January 29, 1916, for NE. ¼, N. ½ SE. ¼, and E. ½ NW. ¼, sec. 5, T. 32 N., R. 50 E., M. M. (319.71 acres). Final proof was submitted July 2, 1920, and the appraised price having been later paid, final certificate issued December 7, 1923. The register noted on the final certificate:

> Patent to contain provisions, reservations, conditions, and limitations of the act of February 27, 1917, (39 Stat. 944).

The disposition of the surplus land of the former Fort Peck Indian Reservation was provided for by the act of May 30, 1908 (35 Stat. 558). Sections 4, 5, and 6 made provision for the classification and appraisement of the surplus land into four classes—agricultural, grazing, arid, and mineral, except that the mineral land was not to be appraised. Section 8 provides:

> When an entryman shall have complied with all the requirements of the homestead law and shall have submitted final proof within seven years from date of entry and shall have made all required payments aforesaid, he shall be entitled to a patent for the lands entered.

The commission provided for by the act classified all of said section 5 as grazing land, and appraised it at $3 per acre. After the approval of the report of the commission on July 18, 1912, all of said section was, on April 26, 1913, classified as noncoal, but on April 27, 1917, it was classified as coal land at $10 per acre.

Section 1 of the act of February 27, 1917, supra, to which reference was made on the final certificate issued to Miss Benson, provides:

> That in any Indian reservation heretofore or hereafter opened to settlement and entry pursuant to a classification of the surplus lands therein as mineral and nonmineral, such surplus lands not otherwise reserved or disposed of, which have been or may be withdrawn or classified as coal lands or are valuable for coal deposits, shall be subject to the same disposition as is or may be prescribed by law for the nonmineral lands in such reservation whenever proper application shall be made with a view of obtaining title to such lands, with a reservation to the United States of the coal deposits therein and of the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same: Provided, That such surplus lands, prior to any disposition hereunder, shall be examined, separated into classes the same as are the nonmineral lands in such reservations, and appraised as to their value, exclusive of the coal deposits therein, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior for that purpose.

When Miss Benson made entry and paid the first installment of the appraised price she acquired rights which can not be affected by the subsequent legislation or classification. The correct rule for the disposition of the case under consideration may be stated thus:

Entries of land in the former Fort Peck Indian Reservation allowed pursuant to the classification provided for by the act of May 30, 1908, supra, and prior to any subsequent classification of the land as valuable for coal, are not affected by the act of February 27, 1917, supra.

The final certificate issued to Miss Benson should be corrected and an unrestricted patent issued to her. The local officers may be instructed accordingly.

Very truly yours,

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 986

PAYMENTS REQUIRED FOR FORT PECK LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 24, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, Glasgow and Great Falls, Mont.

Gentlemen: The act of March 4, 1925, (43 Stat. 1267), provides:

> That all persons who have made homestead entries, being actual settlers within the boundaries of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation are hereby granted an extension of time for payment of one-half the amount, including principal and interest due and unpaid on their homestead entries until the 1st day of November, 1925, and for payment of the other half until the 1st day of November, 1926; all such amounts to bear interest until the payment dates, at 5 per centum per annum: Provided, That upon failure to make complete payment of either installment by any such persons the entry shall be canceled and the land revert to the status of other tribal lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation.
> Sec. 2. All such persons who have abandoned residence on and cultivation of their entries and who are in arrears in any amounts are hereby required to make payment in full of both principal and interest on or before the 1st day of November, 1925: Provided, That all delinquent amounts of both principal and interest shall draw interest at the rate of 5 per centum per annum until paid: Provided further, That upon failure to make full and complete payment of both principal and interest on or before the 1st day of November, 1925, said entry or entries shall thereupon be canceled, and the land revert to the status of other tribal lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation.

1. For the information of entrymen, attention is called to the fact that beginning May 1, 1925, all business now handled by the Glasgow office will be handled by the land office at Great Falls, Mont. Until and including April 30, 1925, payments required by the act should be made to the receiver of the land office at Glasgow, and on and after May 1, 1925, they should be made to the register of the land office at Great Falls.

2. The act is construed to require the payment of interest on the principal which was due and unpaid on March 4, 1925, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from the maturity of the unpaid amounts and for the period of the extension, and to require the payment of interest on the interest which was due and unpaid on said date at the said rate from the date of the passage of the act and for the period of the extension.

3. Section 2 of the act is construed to include persons who have submitted satisfactory proof and who have abandoned residence on and cultivation of their entries. It is further construed not to relieve any entryman from the necessity of complying with the 3-year homestead law in the matter of residence, cultivation, and improvements, proof of which compliance must be made within the time allowed for the completion of the payments.

4. An entryman who on March 4, 1925, was an actual settler on the land embraced in his entry may pay one-half of the principal which was due and unpaid on March 4, 1925, on or before November 1, 1925, and the other half on or before November 1, 1926, with interest on both halves as indicated in paragraph 2 hereof.

5. An entryman who on March 4, 1925, was not an actual settler on the land embraced in his entry is required to pay the total amount which was due and unpaid on March 4, 1925, with the required interest on or before November 1, 1925.

6. Notices showing the total amount of principal and interest heretofore paid under each entry, together with the amount of principal which was due and unpaid on March 4, 1925, and the amount of interest required, computed under both sections of the act, will be prepared in this office and sent to the local office for service by registered mail. A copy of the notice, together with a copy of this letter, should first be sent to the entryman at his record address, and if service is not obtained at that address a further notice should be directed to the entryman at the post office nearest the land. This office will use the utmost care in preparing these notices in order that they may correctly show the amounts due, but before final certificate is issued the local officers will check the amount shown in the notice with the local office records in order to verify the figures given.

7. One who claims the right to make payment under section 1 of the act as an actual settler, must show by affidavit, corroborated by the affidavits of two persons, the facts relative to his settlement. The affidavit must show whether on March 4, 1925, he was actually residing upon the land embraced in his entry, and whether on that date he had his home upon the land to the exclusion of a home elsewhere.

8. The provisions in the act that upon the failure of an entryman to complete his payments as required the entry shall be canceled and the land revert to the status of other tribal lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation will be strictly observed, and entries for which payments are not made as required will be canceled without notice to the entrymen other than the notice advising them of the amounts due.

9. Upon payment being made, the local officers will so report to this office and if payment is not made they will so report as soon as possible after November 1, 1925. Where payment is made under section 1 of the act, the local officers will make further report upon the completion of the payments and if payments are not made as required they will so report as soon as possible after November 1, 1926.

10. Where payments are made as required, where satisfactory proof of residence, cultivation, and improvements has been submitted, and in the absence of objection shown by the local office records, the register will issue final certificate without special instructions from this office.

11. The act is supplemental to the acts of March 2, 1917 (39 Stat. 994), and December 11, 1919 (41 Stat. 365). See Circulars Nos. 544 (46 L. D. 75), and 667 (47 L. D. 335). Payments maturing after March 4, 1925, must be made as indicated in Circular No. 544.

12. Any entryman may, if he so desires, file a relinquishment of a portion of his entry and apply to have the money heretofore paid applied on the part retained. (46 L. D. 282.)

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved March 24, 1925.

PAYMENTS REQUIRED FOR FORT PECK LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 20, 1926.

Register, Great Falls, Mont.

Sir: The act of June 15, 1926, (44 Stat. 746), provides:

> That any entryman on the former Fort Peck Indian Reservation, or his successors or transferees, who is unable to make payment as required by the act of March 4, 1925 (Forty-third Statutes, page 1267), may obtain an extension of time for the payment of the total amount of prinicpal and interest required by that act for one year from the date when such sum became or shall become due under the provisions of said act, upon the payment of interest on the total amount involved at the rate of 5 per centum per annum: Provided, That the claimant shows to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the General Land

Office by affidavit corroborated by the affidavits of at least two persons, the fact of and the reason for his inability to make the payment: Provided further, That such claimant for the same reason and upon making payment of like interest and furnishing a like affidavit may obtain an additional extension of one year, but no more, for the payment of any amount so extended.

SEC. 2. Upon failure of any person to make complete payment of the required amount within the period of any extension granted in accordance with the provisions of this act, the homestead entry of such person shall be canceled and the lands shall revert to the status of other tribal lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation.

1. Under the provisions of this act any entryman on the Fort Peck Reservation or his successors or transferees who has not paid the amount due and required to be paid on November 1, 1925, by the act of March 4, 1925, (43 Stat. 1267), may obtain an extension of time for one year for payment of the total amount due both of principal and interest on filing in your office on or before November 1, 1926, an affidavit, corroborated by the affidavits of two persons satisfactorily showing that he is unable to make the required payment and accompanied by the payment of interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amount sought to be extended.

2. At the expiration of the first extension granted by the act an additional extension of one year may be allowed on a like showing of inability to pay the amount due if accompanied by the required interest.

3. In the case of the half payment allowed to be made November 1, 1925, under section 1 of the act of March 4, 1925, the entryman, if such payment has not been made, will be allowed an extension until November 1, 1926, within which to pay the amount due on the payment of interest in advance on or before November 1, 1926, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the total amount due November 1, 1925, provided a corroborated affidavit, as described above, is filed and found satisfactory. If at the expiration of the extension period entryman is still unable to pay the amount required, he may obtain a further extension until November 1, 1927, upon filing a similar affidavit and paying a like amount of interest.

4. In the case of the half payment allowed to be made November 1, 1926, under section 1 of the act of March 4, 1925, the entryman, if unable to make such payment, will be allowed an extension until November 1, 1927, within which to pay the amount due, on the payment in advance on or before November 1, 1926, of interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the total amount due November 1, 1926, provided a corroborated affidavit, as described above, is filed and found satisfactory. If at the expiration of the extension period entryman is still unable to pay the amount required, he may obtain a further extension until November 1, 1928, upon filing a similar affidavit and paying a like amount of interest.

5. Where relief is sought by persons falling under section 2 of the act of March 4, 1925, who were required to pay on November 1, 1925, the entire amount of principal and interest due, an extension will be granted to November 1, 1926, on the payment of interest in advance on or before November 1, 1926, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the total amount due and the filing of an affidavit, as described above, with the privilege of a further extension of one year to November 1, 1927, on the payment of the same amount of interest and the filing of a like affidavit.

6. A copy of each affidavit asking for the extension allowed by this act to those unable to pay the amounts due under the act of March 4, 1925, must be sent by the applicant by registered letter to the superintendent of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, Poplar, Mont., and the registry receipt must be filed in your office, together with an affidavit that such a notice was mailed. The Indian superintendent should promptly mail to this office any objection, and the reason therefor, entertained by him against the allowance of any extension requested.

7. The provision in section 2 of the act that the failure of any person to make complete payment of the required amount for the period of any extension granted in accordance with the provisions of the act shall result in the cancellation of his entry and the reversion of the land to the status of other tribal lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation will be strictly observed. Entries for which payments are not made as required will be canceled without further notice to the parties in interest other than the notice advising them of the amounts due.

8. On each entry on which payment has not been made as required by the act of March 4, 1925, a notice showing the total amount due on November 1, 1925, under the said act and the amount of interest required to extend the time for payment until November 1, 1926, will be prepared in this office and sent to your office for service by registered mail. A copy of the notice, together with a copy of this letter, should first be sent to the entryman at his record address and if service is not obtained at that address, a further notice should be directed to the entryman at the post office nearest the land.

9. Where the required interest is paid and the affidavit filed, you will transmit the affidavit to this office with a statement of the interest received, which you will hold in your unearned account until advised of the acceptance of the affidavit.

10. Where full payment has been made and satisfactory proof as to residence, cultivation, and improvements has been submitted, you will issue final certificate in the absence of objections shown by your records without special instructions from this office.

11. The act is supplemental to the acts of March 2, 1917 (39 Stat. 994), December 11, 1919 (41 Stat. 365), and March 4, 1925 (43 Stat. 1267). See Circulars Nos. 544 (46 L. D. 75); 667 (47 L. D. 335); and 986 (51 L. D. 76). Payments maturing after March 4, 1925, must be paid as indicated in Circular No. 544.

12. Any entryman may if he so desires file a relinquishment of a portion of his entry and apply to have the money heretofore paid applied on the part retained. (46 L. D. 282.)

Very respectfully,

Approved July 20, 1926.

First Assistant Secretary.

REAPPRAISEMENT OF FORT PECK INDIAN LANDS, MONTANA

Department of the Interior,
Office of Indian Affairs,
Washington, April 20, 1927.

The honorable the Secretary of the Interior.

Sir: There is submitted herewith certain correspondence relating to the reclassification and reappraisement of lands on the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, Mont., opened to homestead entry. Included with the papers is a report submitted by Inspector Samuel Blair, dated March 30, 1926, wherein he recommends that no further reappraisements and reductions be made.

* * * * * * *

Considering the long period that has passed since the original appraisements were made, and the continued filing of applications for reappraisement, it is the opinion of this office that action should be taken to bring the matter definitely to an end. It is believed that ample authority is vested in the Secretary of the Interior, under the act above cited, to set a definite date after which no further applications for reappraisement will be considered. It is also believed that if the action proposed is taken it will result in settling the conditon of unrest and dissatisfaction that now prevails among many of the settlers on the reservation.

It is therefore recommended that no further applications for reappraisement involving Fort Peck lands be considered unless filed in the local land office on or before July 31, 1927. It is also recommended that in those cases where action has once been taken on an application for reappraisement, that no appeal or supplemental application for reappraisement be considered.

If these recommendations are approved a copy of this letter will be furnished the superintendent of the Fort Peck Agency with instructions to give the matter all possible publicity among the residents of the reservation. A copy will also be furnished the Commissioner of the General Land Office with request that the local land office be notified to give the matter publicity through the local press as a matter of news and without expense to the Government.

Respectfully,

Chas. H. Burke, Commissioner.

Approved June 21, 1927.

John H. Edwards,
Assistant Secretary.

OIL AND GAS DEPOSITS RESERVED IN CERTAIN ENTRIES OF FORT PECK INDIAN LANDS, MONTANA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, January 18, 1929.

Register, Great Falls, Mont.

Sir: Reference is had to your letter of December 19, 1928, stating that you have never received a circular of instructions requiring that all homestead entries embracing Fort Peck Indian lands be made subject to the provisions of the act of March 3, 1927 (44 Stat. 1401).

The said act provides in part:

> That the act of May 30, 1908, (Thirty-fifth Statutes, page 558), providing for the allotment, sale, and disposal of lands on the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, Montana, is hereby amended by specifically reserving to the Indians having tribal rights on said reservation the oil and gas in the tribal lands undisposed of on the date of the approval of this Act, and leases covering such land for oil and gas, may be made by the Indians of the Fort Peck Reservation through their tribal council with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

In the future in all applications for homestead entries of Fort Peck lands or applications for reinstatement of canceled entries of such lands, you will require the applicant to file a consent to the reservation of the oil and gas to the Fort Peck Indians in accordance with the provisions of said act.

You will serve notice on Chris W. Enghusen of office letter of December 14, 1928, and in due time submit report.

Very respectfully,

UNDISPOSED OF LANDS IN KIOWA, COMANCHE, AND APACHE INDIAN RESERVATIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 29, 1911.

Register and Receiver, Lawton, Okla.

Sirs: I have to advise you that section 16 of the act of March 3, 1911 (36 Stat. 1069), contains the following provision:

> That the Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, is authorized to sell, upon such terms and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, the unused, unallotted and unreserved lands of the United States in the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Reservations.

In view thereof you will not allow any more entries of land on said reservations until further advised, and you will at once prepare a list of the unappropriated lands in your district in that part of the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache Reservations, opened to homestead entry under the act of June 6, 1900 (31 Stat. 672), and in the Fort Sill Wood Reserve. The unentered lands in the pasture reserves are to be allotted pro rata to each child of Indian parentage born since June 5, 1906, in accordance with the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 861).

You will prepare a list of vacant lands at as early a date as practicable. This legislation will not affect the disposal of the lands in the Wichita National Forest recently restored to settlement and entry at a date fixed in the notice restoring the same.

Very respectfully,

S. V. Proudfit,
Assistant Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 639

INSTRUCTIONS RELATING TO CONTESTS INVOLVING PASTURE AND WOOD RESERVE LANDS WITHIN FORMER KIOWA, COMANCHE, AND APACHE INDIAN RESERVATIONS, OKLA., AND AS TO PROCEEDINGS TO BE FOLLOWED WHERE REQUIRED PAYMENTS ARE NOT MADE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 8, 1919.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER, Guthrie, Okla.

SIRS: The act of Congress approved March 3, 1919 (40 Stat. 1318), entitled "An act to authorize the contesting and cancellation of certain homestead entries, and for other purposes," provides:

> That the homestead entries made for pasture and wood reserve lands in the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache Reservations, in the State of Oklahoma, opened to settlement and entry upon sealed bids, as authorized by the Act of June fifth, nineteen hundred and six (Thirty-fourth United States Statutes at Large, page two hundred and thirteen), be, and the same are hereby, made subject to contest, upon charges alleging that the entryman never established residence upon the land, or that having established such residence he failed to maintain same, or to improve and cultivate the land in accordance with law; and upon proof sustaining such charges, submitted in accordance with the rules of practice, the entries will be canceled and the money paid by the entrymen in default will be forfeited: Provided, That any person who has been residing upon the land for at least two years prior to the cancellation of such entry, and if there be no such settler, then the successful contestant, shall, if qualified to make a homestead entry, have a preference right for a period of sixty days from notice, to make a homestead entry for the land, paying therefor the price bid by the original entryman, or a price to be fixed by appraisement upon the applicant's request, the improvements made by such settler not to be taken into consideration in making such appraisement: Provided, further, That should there be two settlers on a tract, the land will be partitioned to them upon mutual agreement, or will be sold to the settler submitting the highest bid at a public offering: And provided further, That payment for the land shall be made in four equal installments, one installment at the date of entry, and the other installments in one, two and three years thereafter: And provided further, That failure to comply with the homestead law or to make the annual payment when due in the case of any entry under this Act shall be a sufficient cause for the cancellation of the entry and the forfeiture of the money paid: And provided further, That any vacant lands in the wood and pasture reserves in said Indian reservations, opened to entry under said Act of June fifth, nineteen hundred and six, for which no preference right of entry exists, as herein provided, or under the Act of June twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred and six (Thirty-fourth Statutes at Large, page five hundred and fifty), shall be subject to sale at public auction to the highest bidder under rules and regulations to be provided by the Secretary of the Interior: And provided further, That the moneys received from the sale of the lands under this Act shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States, shall draw interest, and be administered in accordance with the provisions of section two of said Act of June fifth, nineteen hundred and six."

In addition to the cancellation of homestead entries, upon contests, authorized by the said act, they may be canceled upon proceedings instituted by the Government for failure of the entrymen to submit proof and make payment by the 1919 anniversaries of the dates thereof. See departmental instructions of September 3, 1914. (43 L. D. 376.)

In acting upon contests, and in serving notice of default to entrymen who fail to submit proof and make payment within the prescribed period, you will be governed by the following regulations:

ACTION TO BE TAKEN ON CONTESTS

1. When hearing may be ordered.—A hearing may be ordered on an application to contest an entry at any time before, but not after, you have reported the entry to this office for cancellation for failure of the entryman to submit proof and make payment within the prescribed period.

2. Sworn statement required of contestant.—A contestant will be required to furnish with his application to contest or at least before a hearing is ordered thereon, a statement sworn to by himself and corroborated by the affidavits of at least two persons showing whether the land is or is not settled upon by a settler or settlers other than himself, and if such sworn statement shows that the land is settled upon by a settler or settlers other than himself, the names and addresses of each such settler and the period during which each of them has been residing upon the land, if that information is known.

3. Sworn statement required of settler.—If an application to contest is allowed, and if the affidavits furnished by the contestant show that there is a settler or settlers upon the land other than himself, you will promptly advise such settler or settlers of the pending contest, furnish each of them with a copy of these instructions, and notify each that if he contemplates basing any rights of entry on a preference right under the said act of March 3, 1919, he shall, within 30 days from notice, furnish a statement under oath, corroborated by two witnesses, showing the time his settlement commenced and the acts constituting such settlement. Failure to furnish such statement will be construed as a waiver on the part of such settler of any claims under this act, provided that a settler not named by the contestant may file such statement at any time prior to the cancellation of the original entry.

4. Method of determining person entitled to preference right where there is but one settler—When rights may be exercised.—Upon the cancellation of the homestead entry as the result of said contest proceedings, and where it appears that a settler has been residing upon the land for at least two years prior to the cancellation of such entry, and where it further appears that such residence was initiated prior to the filing of the aforesaid contest affidavit, you will, by registered mail, notify him that he will be allowed 60 days, after receipt of notice, within which to file in your office sworn statements in duplicate and duly corroborated, showing that he is entitled to the preference right under said act to enter said premises under the homestead law, together with his application to enter said land under said law (based upon such preference right), showing his qualifications to make homestead entry thereof. Such showing shall, on the filing of the homestead application referred to, be deemed to be and considered and treated as a part thereof. Upon the timely filing of said homestead application, accompanied by said sworn statement, you will receive and suspend the same, and at once notify the successful contestant, by registered mail, of the filing of said homestead application and accompanying papers, and advise him that he will be allowed 30 days from date of receipt of such notice within which to show cause why the homestead application should not be allowed. Upon the expiration of the said 30 days, and in the absence of protest against the application on the part of the successful contestant, you may, if all else be regular, allow the homestead entry of the settler. If, however, the successful contestant timely protests the allowance of the aforesaid application to make homestead entry and applies for a hearing to contest the right of said applicant to enter said premises in the exercise of his preference right mentioned and referred to in said act, a hearing shall be ordered and held by you as in other cases.

5. Partition of land between or sale to two or more settlers.—Should there be two or more settlers upon the land, each claiming to be entitled to a preference right of entry under said act of March 3, 1919, the land will, upon proof of such claim and all else being regular, be partitioned to them upon mutual agreement, or will be sold to the settler submitting the highest bid at public offering in conformity with said act. If such settlers desire to partition the land beween them, they must do so within the 60-day period. Or, if they desire to have the land sold, it may be offered for sale to them by you at your office at any time within the said 60-day period, but you will not accept any bid which is less than the price at which the land formerly sold. Except in case of protest filed by the successful contestant, entry must be made within the 60-day period, regardless of whether the land is partitioned between the settlers or sold to the one submitting the highest bid therefor.

6. Method of determining person or persons entitled to preference right where there is more than one settler—When right may be exercised.—Where the settlers mutually agree to partition the land between them and seasonably apply to make homestead entry thereof based upon such agreement and their claim to preference right, you will, where the original homestead entry has been canceled as the result of contest proceedings brought by a person other than one of said settlers, receive and suspend said homestead applications, notify the said successful contestant by registered mail of the filing of said partition agreement and of said homestead applications, and allow him 30 days from date of receipt of such notice within which to show cause why the aforesaid homestead applications should not be allowed. Copies of said partition agreement should be filed in your office by the homestead applicants along with their said homestead applications, and one of such copies should be by you transmitted to said successful contestant along with the notice hereinabove mentioned. Upon the expiration of said 30 days, and in the absence of protest against the allowance of said applications, you may, if all else be regular, allow the same. If, however, the successful contestant timely protests the allowance of the aforesaid applications and applies for a hearing to contest the right of said parties under said premises, a hearing shall be ordered and held by you as in other cases.

Where it is seasonably made to appear that the settlers are unable to arrive at any partition agreement and one of such settlers seeks to have the land sold to one of them at a public offering as provided for in the second proviso to said act, and to enter the premises under the homestead law at the price fixed at said sale, and where it further appears that the original homestead entry has been canceled as a result of contest proceedings brought by a contestant other than one of said settlers, you may proceed with the sale as hereinbefore authorized, sell the land to the settler submitting the highest bid therefor at the public offering, receive and suspend the homestead application based thereon, and notify the successful contestant that he will be allowed 30 days from and after date of receipt of notice in which to show why the homestead application of the successful purchaser should not be allowed. Upon the expiration of said 30 days, in the absence of objections upon the part of the successful contestant, you may, if all else be regular, award the land to the settler submitting the highest bid therefor at a public offering, and allow his homestead application to proceed to entry. If, however, the successful contestant timely protests the allowance of the aforesaid application to make homestead entry and sale, and applies for a hearing to contest the right of said applicant and bidder to enter said premises, a hearing shall be ordered and held by you as in other cases.

If, within said 60-day period the settlers do not mutually agree to partition said premises, or, if, during said period either of them shall fail to request that the land be put up for sale at public auction, you will advise the successful contestant that he will be allowed 30 days from date of receipt of notice within which to enter said premises in the exercise of his right as a successful contestant.

7. Fees, commissions and purchase money required.—A settler or a successful contestant must accompany his application to enter with the usual homestead fee and commissions, and, unless he files an application for appraisement, he must also accompany his application to enter with one-fourth of the price bid for the land by the original entryman. If he files an application for appraisement, he will be required to accompany his application to enter with only the usual homestead fee and commissions, pending action on the application for appraisement and after appraisement he will be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice within which to pay one-fourth of the purchase money.

8. Sale of vacant lands.—The sale authorized by the said act of March 3, 1919, of vacant lands for which no preference right of entry exists, will be made the subject of future instructions.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN ON ENTRIES WHERE PROOF AND PAYMENT ARE NOT MADE WITHIN PRESCRIBED PERIOD

1. Notice to be served on entryman in default.—In each case where proof and payment are not made by the 1919 anniversary of the date of entry, either under an entry allowed under the act of June 5, 1906 (34 Stat. 213), or under the act of June 28, 1906 (34 Stat. 550), you will serve notice on the entryman advising him of the default and that the entry will be promptly reported by you to this office for cancellation for such failure if proof is not submitted and if all sums due, both of principal and interest, are not fully paid on or before the expiration of six months from the date said entry became in default.

2. Issuance of final certificate after expiration of statutory period.—Where proof and payment are made after the statutory period has expired but within the said six months, you will, in the absence of further objection, issue final certificate under the entry, accompanying the same with a memorandum showing the facts. If all else be found regular in this office the case will then be submitted for confirmation to the board of equitable adjudication.

3. Entries to be reported for cancellation.—Where proof and payment are not made within the statutory period or within the said six months, you will at once make report transmitting evidence of service of notice, whereupon such further action will be taken by this office as the circumstances warrant.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

CIRCULAR NO. 971

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF KIOWA, COMANCHE, AND APACHE INDIAN LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, December 20, 1924.

The honorable the COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

MY DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: You are directed to cause to be sold for cash at not less than $1.25 per acre at public auction at the city of Lawton, in the State of Oklahoma, beginning on March 26, 1925, the unused, unallotted, unreserved lands and such portions of the school and agency lands as are no longer needed for administration purposes in the former Kiowa, Comanche, Apache, and Wichita Indian Reservations, in the State of Oklahoma under the acts of Congress, approved June 30, 1913 (38 Stat. 92), and March 3, 1919 (40 Stat. 1318).

2. Lands to be offered.—The lands for sale are listed below under the acts under which they will be sold. All the lands have been examined by the Geological Survey and a separate list is given under each act showing those which have been found to have a possible value for oil and gas deposits and which will be sold with a reservation of those deposits to the United States under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509). They will be offered for sale in accordance with the groupings given, but in case of the reoffering of any tract under rule 6, the officer in charge of the sale may in his discretion modify the groupings of the tracts.

3. Qualifications and restrictions.—Purchasers are not required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise, or to reside upon, improve, or cultivate lands sold to them.

4. Bids by agents, etc.—Bids and payments may be made either through agents or in person, but no bid of less than $1.25 per acre will be received. Bids will not be considered if made through the mail or at any time or place other than the time and place at which said tracts are offered for sale.

5. Payments and forfeitures.—All successful bidders to whom tracts are awarded must, on or before 4 o'clock, p. m., on the day on which awards are made to them, pay one-fourth of the total amount bid by them for such tracts, the balance to be paid in four equal, annual installments with interest at 4 per cent per annum on deferred payments. Any bidder who fails to make payment of one-fourth of the amount of his bid within the time required, will not thereafter be permitted to pay for the tract or bid on any other tracts. Any purchaser at the sale who fails to pay the annual installments, with interest at 4 per cent per annum, when due, will forfeit the amount already paid and such failure will be a sufficient cause for cancellation of his purchase.

6. Lands reoffered.—All tracts awarded to persons who fail to make payment therefor, and all tracts which shall not be sold when first offered, will be reoffered for sale after all of said lands have been once offered, or at any time during the sale when the officer in charge thinks best.

7. Combinations in restraint of the sale are forbidden by section 2375 of the United States Revised Statutes, which reads as follows:

> Every person who, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, bargains, contracts, or agrees, or attempts to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the lands so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof, or who by intimidation, combination, or unfair management, hinders or prevents, or attempts to hinder or prevent any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

8. Suspension or postponement of sale.—If at any time it becomes evident that there is a combination among bidders or any other cause which effectually suppresses competition, or if for any other cause it shall seem advisable, the officer in charge may suspend the sale temporarily or postpone it indefinitely, and if in his judgment the highest bid offered for any tract is below its reasonable cash value, he may reject all bids and reoffer the tract for sale as herein provided.

9. Disposition of proceeds.—The proceeds received from the lands sold under the act of June 30, 1913 (38 Stat. 92), will be deposited in the United States Treasury to the credit of the Kiowa Agency Hospital fund. The amounts received from the lands sold under the act of March 3, 1919 (40 Stat. 1318), will be deposited in the United States Treasury to the credit of the Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache Indians.

Very truly yours,

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

FORT BERTHOLD,[8] ROSEBUD, AND PINE RIDGE LANDS—TIME OF PAYMENTS EXTENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 17, 1914.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Minot, N. Dak., and Gregory, S. Dak.

SIRS: 1. Your attention is directed to section 1 of the act of Congress, approved May 28, 1914 (38 Stat. 383), which reads as follows:

> That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to extend for a period of one year the time for the payment of any annual installment due, or hereafter to become due, on the purchase price for lands sold under the act of Congress approved June 1, 1910, entitled "An act to authorize the survey and allotment of lands embraced within the limits of the Fort Berthold Reservation in the State of North Dakota, and the sale and disposition of a portion of the surplus lands after allotment, and making appropriation and provision to carry the same into effect," the act of Congress approved May 27, 1910, entitled, "An act to authorize the sale and disposition of the surplus and unalloted lands in Bennett County in the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, in the State of South Dakota, and making appropriation to carry the same into effect," and the act approved May 30, 1910, entitled "An act to authorize the sale and disposition of a portion of the surplus and unallotted lands in Mellette and Washabaugh Counties in the Rosebud Indian Reservation in the State of South Dakota, and making appropriation and provision to carry the same into effect," and any payment so extended may annually thereafter be extended for a period of one year in the same manner: Provided, That the last payment and all other payments must be made within a period not exceeding one year after the last payment becomes due, by the terms of the act under which the entry was made: Provided further, That any and all payments must be made when due, unless the entryman applies for an extension and pays interest for one year in advance at 5 per centum per annum upon the amount due as herein provided, and patent shall be withheld until full and final payment of the purchase price is made in accordance with the provisions hereof: And provided further, That failure to make any payment that may be due, unless the same be extended, or to make any extended payment at or before the time to which such payment has been extended, as herein provided, shall forfeit the entry and the same shall be canceled, and any and all payments theretofore made shall be forfeited.

2. Said section applies to entries made after the passage of the act as well as to those theretofore made; the time for the payment of any installment which is due, or is about to become due, will be extended for one year, provided the applicant pays 5 per cent on the amount as interest for the year after its original maturity. Further extensions may be obtained on the same conditions, from year to year, but no installment can be postponed beyond seven years from the date of the entry in question. Payment of interest on installments, now due and unpaid, must be made at once, in order to secure the extension, and such payments must hereafter be made at or before the maturity of the installments to be extended.

3. There need be no formal application for extension, but making the required payment will be sufficient. The receiver will note upon the receipts and on the abstracts of collections the nature and purpose of the payments.

4. Three-year proofs may be submitted when the necessary showing can be made, and the payments be postponed until their maturity

WITHDRAWAL OF SHOSHONE OR WIND RIVER INDIAN LANDS, WYO.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 23, 1911.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER,
Lander, Wyo.

SIRS: Your attention is called to the act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1016), under which the lands formerly within the Shoshone or Wind River Reservation became subject to entry on August 15, 1906. The unreserved, nonmineral, and noncoal lands which have not been entered under that act prior to August 15, 1911, will become subject to sale at public auction, and you are therefore directed not to allow entries for any of said lands after that date.

REAPPRAISEMENT OF SPOKANE INDIAN LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF INDIAN AFFAIRS,
Washington, August 29, 1927.

Mr. HARVEY K. MEYER,
Superintendent Colville Agency.

MY DEAR MR. MEYER: Reference is made to office letter of August 19, 1927, inclosing a copy of letter of this office dated August 11, 1927, approved by the department August 16, 1927, relating to the reclassification and reappraisement of lands on the Spokane and other Indian reservations opened to homestead entry.

In connection therewith this will advise that the General Land Office has invited our attention to the fact that it has been the policy of that office not to recognize any application of this nature where the price of the lands has been fixed by the opening act. As the price of the lands of the Spokane Reservation were fixed by the act of May 29, 1908 (35 Stat. 458), you are hereby requested to disregard the instructions contained in office letter of August 19, 1927. Please acknowledge receipt hereof.

Very truly yours,

E. B. MERITT,
Assistant Commissioner.

WITHDRAWAL OF UINTAH INDIAN LANDS, UTAH

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 26, 1910.

Register and Receiver, Vernal, Utah.

GENTLEMEN: I am in receipt of your letter of July 12, 1910, in which you ask, with reference to lands in the former Uintah Indian Reservation, in Utah.

(1) Whether the instructions sent you on June 29, 1910, directing you not to allow entries for lands within this reservation which remain unentered after August 27, 1910, apply to townsites on the reservation and that no private sales of lots within these townsites are to be made after that date.

(2) Whether successful contestants will be allowed to enter lands embraced in entries where the cancellation is secured after August 27, 1910.

(3) Whether persons who hereafter initiate contests against homestead entries will be allowed a preference right of entry when they secure their cancellation.

The act of March 3, 1905 (33 Stat. 1069), provides with reference to the undisposed of lands:

> That all lands opened to settlement and entry under this Act remaining undisposed of at the expiration of five years from the taking effect of this Act shall be sold and disposed of for cash, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, not more than six hundred and forty acres to any one person.

The lots in the townsites of Duchesne, Myton, and Randlett were not opened to settlement and entry under the act of March 3, 1905, but were reserved under section 2380 United States Revised Statutes, and disposed of under section 2381 United States Revised Statutes. The undisposed of lots in these townsites will remain subject to private sale at their appraised valuation after August 27, 1910.

The lands to which no valid existing rights have attached under any of the public land laws on August 28, 1910, and such lands only, are to be disposed of at the sale which is to be conducted on November 1, 1910. The lands which are embraced within an unperfected homestead entry on August 28, 1910 will not be sold. Where a preference right of entry is running on August 28, 1910, the successful contestant will be allowed to exercise his preference right of entry after that date and within the preference right period. The rules of practice relating to contests and other regulations applicable to entries under the homestead laws will continue in force as to homestead entries made on the reservation prior to August 28, 1910, until all lands which are embraced in such entries have been patented.

Respectfully,

S. V. PROUDFIT,
Acting Commissioner.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO SALE OF UMATILLA INDIAN RESERVATION LANDS, OREGON

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., July 29, 1902.

Register and Receiver, La Grande, Oreg.

Gentlemen: I inclose herewith a printed copy of the act of Congress approved July 1, 1902 (32 Stat. 730), providing for the sale of the unsold portion of the Umatilla Indian Reservation.

The law directs that the lands which were not sold at the public sale of said lands heretofore held, at the price for which they had been appraised, under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1885 (23 Stats. 340), shall be sold at private sale at not less than the appraised value thereof, and in conformity with the provisions of said act, thereby changing the former law only as to the manner of disposal of said lands, and giving a preference right to bona fide settlers thereon who have, prior to July 1, 1902, settled and made substantial improvements upon any of said lands with the intent of permanently residing upon the same as a homestead, to purchase the lands so settled upon at any time within 90 days after that date.

The amount that any applicant may purchase is still limited to 160 acres of untimbered lands and an additional 40 acres of timbered lands; and no person will be permitted to purchase timbered lands unless he is also the purchaser of untimbered lands.

The terms of payment will be the same as under former sales, viz: For untimbered lands, one-third at the time of purchase, one-third in one year, and one-third in two years from date of sale, with interest on the deferred payments at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. At the time of making the second payment, one year's interest on the third payment must also be collected. Full payment must be made for timbered lands at the date of purchase.

In cases of particular tracts on which improvements were situated and appraised, such appraised valuation is in addition to the price of the land, and must be paid in full at the time of the purchase. In any such cases there will be inserted in the prescribed form for receipt the words "and the improvements thereon valued at $——," giving the amount of appraisement.

Each purchaser will be required to make affidavit that he is purchasing said lands for his own use and occupation, and not for, or on account of, or at the solicitation of, any other person; that there is no other party having a superior right as a prior settler thereon; that he has made no contract whereby the title thereto shall, directly or indirectly, inure to the benefit of another. And if any conveyance or contract is made touching the same, or any lien thereon created before the issuing of the patent, such conveyance, contract, or lien shall be absolutely null and void.

No patents will be issued for untimbered lands until the purchaser shall have made all the payments, and also satisfactory proof that he has resided on the land purchased at least one year and reduced at least 25 acres to cultivation. A purchaser desiring to make proof of residence and cultivation of the land under this act will be required to file with the register a written notice of his intention to do so, in the manner prescribed under the homestead laws, and the register will thereafter cause such notice to be duly posted and published.

The proof, which must consist of the testimony of two witnesses and the claimant, accompanied by his final affidavit, must be made before the register or receiver, and the homestead proof forms will be used, modified when necessary.

For the payments made the receiver will issue his receipt in duplicate, to be numbered consecutively in the order of their issue in the existing Umatilla Indian land series, the duplicate to be delivered to the purchaser and the original to be sent to this office with a corresponding abstract.

In the event of the failure of any purchaser to make any payment when the same becomes due, the Secretary of the Interior shall cause said land to be again offered at private sale, after notice to the delinquent; and if said land shall sell for more than the balance due thereon, the surplus, after deducting expenses, shall be paid over to the first purchaser.

In compliance with the provisions of said law, conferring upon bona fide settlers upon any of said lands, with the intent of permanently residing upon the same as a homestead, a preference right to buy the land so settled upon, any settler will be permitted to exercise said right to purchase the tract, settled upon by him prior to July 1, 1902, at any time within 90 days thereafter, upon his making affidavit, duly corroborated by two witnesses, setting forth the date of his settlement, a statement specifically describing the improvements owned by him and their value, and that he so settled upon and improved said lands with the intent of permanently residing on the same as a homestead, but he will also be required to file the same affidavit prescribed for others; and he may, if he has resided upon and cultivated such lands for the required period, at any time thereafter submit proof thereof in the manner hereinbefore prescribed.

As the right to purchase timber lands is dependent upon the purchase of untimbered lands, no certificate will be issued to the purchaser of timbered lands until full payment and proof have been made on the untimbered land purchased by the party, when, if the proof of compliance with the requirements of the law is satisfactory, the register will issue his certificate for the entire area purchased, numbering such certificates consecutively.

The forms for affidavits, receipts, and certificates heretofore used in connection with the public sale of the Umatilla Indian lands will be used, modifying the same as may be necessary for compliance herewith.

Notice of the sale has been sent to the Journal, La Grande, Oreg., and the Tribune, Pendleton, Oreg., for publication, the date upon which the sale is to commence being fixed for September 15, 1902.

Very respectfully,

Binger Hermann, Commissioner.

Approved.

Thos. Ryan, Acting Secretary

CIRCULAR NO. 536

UMATILLA INDIAN LANDS—ACT OF FEBRUARY 17, 1917—INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 20, 1917.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER,
United States Land Office, La Grande, Oreg.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of February 17, 1917 (39 Stat 923), which reads as follows:

> That all persons who have heretofore purchased or may hereafter purchase any of the lands of the Umatilla Indian Reservation in the State of Oregon, and have made or shall make full and final payment therefor in conformity with the acts of Congress of March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, and of July first, nineteen hundred and two, and subsequent acts respecting the sale of said lands, shall be entitled to receive patents therefor upon submitting satisfactory proof to the Secretary of the Interior that the untimbered lands so purchased are not susceptible of cultivation or residence and are exclusively grazing lands, incapable of any profitable use other than for grazing purposes.
> SEC. 2. That where a party entitled to claim the benefits of this act dies before securing a patent therefor it shall be competent for the executor or administrator of the estate of such party, or one of the heirs, to make the necessary proofs and payments therefor to complete the same; and the patent in such cases shall be made in favor of the heirs of the deceased purchaser, and the title to said lands shall inure to such heirs as if their names had been especially mentioned.

1. This act is identical in its terms with that of February 11, 1913 (37 Stat. 665), except that its provisions are now extended to all entries heretofore or hereafter made. Proofs may be submitted only after publication and posting of notice, as in ordinary homestead cases. If the regularly introduced testimony shows that a tract is not susceptible of cultivation or residence and is exclusively grazing land, incapable of any profitable use other than for grazing purposes, the entryman is, by the act, relieved of the requirement of residence. Moreover, such proof entitles him to issuance of final certificate, upon payment of the unpaid installments of the price, and it is not necessary to show that the land has been actually used for grazing purposes.

2. Section 2 of the act allows submission of proof by one of the heirs, or by the executor or administrator of the estate of the entryman, if he be dead. However, the certificate is to be issued in favor of the heirs. The executor or administrator, offering proof, must produce record evidence of his appointment and qualification as such.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

IRRIGATION DISTRICTS

CIRCULAR 592

REGULATIONS CONCERNING STATE IRRIGATION DISTRICTS IN THEIR RELATION TO THE PUBLIC LANDS OF THE UNITED STATES

[Revision of Regulations (Circular 592) approved March 6, 1918 (46 L. D. 307), and of Reprint of August 16, 1920]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 3, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices:

1. The act of August 11, 1916, chapter 319 (39 Stat. 506), entitled "An act to promote the reclamation of arid lands," reads as follows: (Act omitted.)

PURPOSE AND EFFECT OF STATUTE

2. The purpose and effect of this statute is to empower the Secretary of the Interior, following the presentation of proper applications, to investigate the plans and financial and physical resources of irrigation districts heretofore or hereafter organized pursuant to the law of any State, and if he shall find and conclude that any such applicant has planned and is executing an altogether meritorious and feasible irrigation undertaking, to grant his approval of its plan and undertaking, provided a majority of acreage thereof is not unentered land, to the end that upon such approval, and upon compliance by such districts with the conditions in said act specifically set forth, all unentered public land and land which has been entered, but upon which final certificate has not issued, shall be subject to all the provisions of the laws of the State in which such lands shall be situated relating to the organization, government, and regulation of irrigation districts for the reclamation and irrigation of arid lands for agricultural purposes to the same extent and upon like terms as are privately owned lands within the district. This includes the right of the district to levy and collect taxes on unpatented land for the purpose of raising funds with a view to the construction, operation, and maintenance of the irrigation system, but does not grant the right to tax generally or for any purpose not definitely connected with the construction and maintenance of the irrigation works. The right of the district to sell lands which were entered at the date of the levy of any such lawful tax or assessment remaining unpaid is also provided for, together with the right of individuals to make entry of such land after the period of redemption from tax sales has expired.

REGULATIONS

3. Application.—Any irrigation district desiring to obtain the benefits of this act should file in the local United States land office within which the lands are situated an application, in duplicate, consisting of the following:

(a) A statement setting forth concisely the legal address of the district; the date when, by court decree or otherwise, it was finally declared to be fully organized; the name and title of all officers of the district qualified at the date of the filing of the application; the gross amount of land embraced in the district; the amount of irrigable land within the district; the amount of privately owned land within the district; the amount of entered land for which final certificate has not issued; the amount of unentered public land; the amount of land embraced within a withdrawal for a United States reclamation project; the amount of land otherwise withdrawn (within Indian, forest, power site, or other withdrawal); how much (per cent) of the project has been completed; what bond issue, if any, has been finally consummated, and the present bonded debt; whether contract has been made with the United States under the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), or is pending, and if any such, the date thereof; and any other facts or circumstances which would throw light on or be pertinent to a full understanding of the present condition or future prospects of the district.

(d) Maps showing the project.

(f) Such data as may be necessary to a full understanding of the situation.

DETAILS OF APPLICATION

4. Proof of organization, (see par. 3b).—A properly authenticated copy in duplicate of the proceedings through which the district claims corporate existence should be filed. The character of this proof will, of course, depend upon the State statute under which the organization was effected.

5. Evidence of water right, (see par. 3c).—If the lands to be reclaimed are wholly withdrawn lands within a United States reclamation project, and the right to the use of the water depends solely upon an appropriation by the Government, no evidence of water right will be required; but if dependence is placed upon any water appropriation other than one claimed by the Government, either for the reclamation of the whole or a portion of the lands sought to be made subject to this act, certified copies of such instruments as will show title to the water rights claimed should be filed with the application. A statement as to whether the stream or other body of water from which the water supply is to be secured has been adjudicated, and if so, the court in which the decree was granted and the date thereof, should be given. If water measurements have not been taken, a detailed report showing the foundation for the belief that sufficient water exists should be filed.

6. Maps.—There should also be filed in duplicate with the application tracings showing by smallest legal subdivision, in accordance with the latest official survey, all of the lands embraced within the confines of the district; the status of the various tracts should be differentiated, by markings on each legal subdivision, in black india ink, letters corresponding to the status of the land, as follows:

(b) Lands which have been entered but for which final certificate has not been issued.

(c) Lands withdrawn under the reclamation act.

NOTE.—If a tract of land appears to come within two of the designations, both letters should be used.

Unless one-eighth of any smallest legal subdivision (of 40 acres or less) is susceptible of reclamation from the irrigation system as planned or constructed, the district should not request its designation, except where it is shown that such irrigable area, where less than one-eighth of the subdivision, will when reclaimed be more valuable than the entire subdivision in its native state.

These tracings should be made on tracing linen with india ink. Three scales are permissible—2,000 feet to the inch, 1,000 feet to the inch, or 500 feet to the inch. No other scales should be used, and the scale most adaptable to a clear showing of the matters and things set forth thereon should be used, but in no case should any one tracing be over 36 inches in width.

The tracings should also show the outlines, properly tied, of any reservoirs, canals, ditches, power plants, transmission lines, or other aids to reclamation which are included in the system, as well as cross sections, properly drawn to scale, of dams and canals.

If the irrigation system relied upon for the reclamation of the lands within the district is entirely a United States reclamation project, it will be unnecessary to furnish a map. See section 3 of the act of May 15, 1922 (42 Stat. 541), hereinafter quoted. If, however, public lands are to be reclaimed, in whole or in part, by means other than under a United States reclamation project, such system or the portion thereof not connected with the United States reclamation project should be shown by map.

7. Plans and specifications (see par. 3e).—If the district irrigation works have been constructed, either fully or partially, plans and specifications of the principal structures, sufficient to show the designs and methods of construction, prepared by a competent engineer, should be filed together with an authenticated statement of the amount actually expended upon the construction and the estimated amount necessary to complete the system.

If no construction has been undertaken, preliminary plans showing the estimated cost of the project and the salient features thereof in sufficient detail to establish the feasibility of the project will be sufficient.

8. Other data (see par. 3f).—As each project must necessarily stand or fall upon its own merits, it will be impossible to specify minutely all of the data that may be required. In every instance, however, the data should be so full and complete as to place before the Secretary of the Interior all of the information necessary to an intelligent consideration of the feasibility of the project as a whole. Additional information may be required by the department if the data stated upon the original application prove insufficient.

9. Affidavits and certificates.—Each of the maps filed with the application for recognition should bear the certificate of the president or other presiding or chief officer of the district, countersigned by the secretary, clerk, or other recording officer and attested by the seal of the district, in accordance with Form No. 1 attached hereto. They should also bear the affidavit of the district's chief engineer, in accordance with Form No. 2 attached hereto. This certificate and affidavit should be inscribed upon the maps in india ink.

10. Rights of way.—If any unpatented public land or any reservation of the United States is affected by any of the proposed works of the irrigation district, application for right of way therefor must be filed by the district under the appropriate act before the application for recognition will be finally approved.

11. Unsurveyed lands.—Where any proposed district includes within its confines unsurveyed lands, the lines of survey nearest such unsurveyed lands will be protracted.

PROCEDURE

12. Lands in more than one district.—Where the lands within the confines of the proposed irrigation district lie within more than one local land district, it will only be necessary to file the data in duplicate hereinbefore adverted to in one of the land districts; a blueprint copy of the map and one copy of the statement, however, should be filed in the other districts, together with a notice to the register that the application, in duplicate, has been filed in the other district (naming it).

13. Duty of register.—Upon the filing of such an application in the local office the register will assign a serial number to same and note upon the maps filed with the application the name of the land office and the date of filing over his written signature. After testing by his records the accuracy of the notations on said map, as required by paragraph 6 of these regulations, he will note upon his records opposite all unpatented lands shown upon the map the fact and date of such filing, after which he will at once transmit the entire record to the General Land Office.

14. Consideration of application.—Upon receipt of the record in the General Land Office, it will be considered with reference to its regularity and compliance with the terms of these regulations and disposed of as follows:

(a) If all the unpatented lands are within a United States reclamation project, depending solely upon Government water appropriation, and the record is regular, it will be referred to the Bureau of Reclamation for consideration as to feasibility, which bureau will make its recommendation in the premises to the Secretary of the Interior through the General Land Office.

(b) If the lands within the district are partially within a United States reclamation project and partially unpatented public lands, depending for water upon other than Government appropriations, the case will be referred to the Bureau of Reclamation for such report as it may deem proper, after which and after field investigation the Commissioner of the General Land Office will consider the record with respect primarily to the lands not affected by the United States reclamation project, and transmit the record with proper recommendation to the Secretary of the Interior for appropriate action.

(c) If the unpatented lands within the district are all public and unaffected by United States reclamation withdrawal, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will, after investigation in the field, consider and transmit the record to the Secretary of the Interior with recommendation.

15. Upon the approval of an application by the Secretary of the Interior the Commissioner of the General Land Office will cause to be noted upon the tract books of his office the fact and date of such approval, and will transmit to the local land office or offices wherein the lands affected are situated one copy of the map. Upon receipt of such copy, the register will at once note on his records opposite each tract of unentered or entered and unpatented land designated the fact and date of such approval and notify the irrigation district thereof.

ACT OF MAY 15, 1922 (42 STAT. 541)

16. Section 3 of the act of May 15, 1922 (42 Stat. 541), provides as follows:

> That upon the execution of any contract between the United States and any irrigation district pursuant to this act, the public lands included within such irrigation district when subject to entry, and entered lands within such irrigation district, for which no final certificates shall have been issued and which may be designated by the Secretary of the Interior in said contract, shall be subject to all the provisions of the act entitled "An act to promote the reclamation of arid lands," approved August 11, 1916: Provided, That no map or plan as required by section 3 of the said act need be filed by the irrigation district for approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

This section is construed as an amendment of the act of August 11, 1916 (39 Stat. 506), in that it makes unnecessary the filing of a map or plan of the district for the approval of the Secretary of the Interior in those cases where the lands within a district are to be reclaimed by the Bureau of Reclamation under a contract between the Secretary of the Interior and the irrigation district entered into under the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and acts amendatory thereof, and in lieu thereof provides for the designation by the terms of such contract of the public lands included in such a district where subject to entry and entered lands on which no final certificates shall have been issued, such designation to make the land subject to all the provisions of the act of August 11, 1916, supra.

Accordingly it will not be necessary for a district, under such circumstances, to file formal application for the designation of the land, as provided for in the act of August 11, 1916, supra, but in connection with its negotiations with the Secretary of the Interior for the construction of the irrigation system or for repayment of cost if already constructed, it should make request for the designation of the lands under the act of August 11, 1916, supra, filing a list thereof.

In such a case the contract between the Secretary of the Interior and the irrigation district must contain a description according to the approved plats of survey of the lands within such district, properly subject to designation under said act of August 11, 1916, and the approval of such a contract by the Secretary, unless otherwise stipulated, will have the effect of designating the lands as provided for in said act and making them subject to all the provisions thereof.

In practice the Bureau of Reclamation will require the district to present a list of the land which it desires to have designated under the act of August 11, 1916 (39 Stat. 506). From this list the Bureau of Reclamation will eliminate tracts which for any reason will not be irrigated (at least to such an extent as to make the irrigable portion more valuable than the whole tract when unreclaimed) by the system as constructed or to be constructed.

These lists should then be referred by the Bureau of Reclamation to the General Land Office with a view to the elimination of any lands not subject to entry (i. e., withdrawn or reserved), whereupon the remaining tracts will be included in the contract between the district and the Secretary of the Interior.

The Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation will furnish the Commissioner of the General Land Office with two copies of all such contracts, together with two blue-print maps of the district.

From these the Commissioner of the General Land Office will cause proper notations to be made on the records of his office, and will also issue the necessary instructions to the local office with a view to the proper notation of the records and the enforcement of the provisions of the act of August 11, 1916, supra, as to the lands designated.

17. Taxes and assessments.—(a) Where an irrigation district has been approved by the Secretary of the Interior the district must, after each assessment, file with the register of the local land office within which the lands of the district are situated an officially certified list showing the amount assessed against each smallest legal subdivision of unentered or entered and unpatented public land within the district, which list shall contain a statement that such assessment was made in due form, in compliance with the provisions of the State law and of this act. Any assessment or sale, or attempted sale, of such lands prior to the approval of the district is without authority of law and void.

(b) Where contracts heretofore or hereafter made between the United States and irrigation districts involving public lands of the United States inhibit the assessment of unentered public land while in that status, the provisions of such contracts must, of course, be complied with by the district.

ENTRIES GENERALLY

18. For the purpose of entry, the act of August 11, 1916 (39 Stat. 506), may be considered as dividing the unpatented lands within a State irrigation district into two general classes, namely, lands withdrawn under the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and lands not so withdrawn.

For the purpose of administration the lands within such a district may be considered as divided into the following subordinate classes:

(1) Unpatented public lands when subject to entry.

(2) Entered unpatented lands.

(3) Entered lands which shall become vacant by relinquishment or cancellation for any cause.

The approval of a legally organized irrigation district by the Secretary of the Interior under said acts, unless otherwise provided by contract between the district and the United States, makes the public lands within such district, when subject to entry, and the entered lands on which no final certificates have issued, subject to a lien for all taxes and assessments thereafter lawfully levied by the district to the same extent and in the same manner as lands of a like character held under private ownership.

The following instructions will govern in the case of entries for lands within irrigation districts approved by the Secretary of the Interior either in the manner provided by the act of August 11, 1916 (39 Stat. 506), or section 3 of the act of May 15, 1922 (42 Stat. 541).

ENTRIES UNDER RECLAMATION ACT

19. Lands within an approved district withdrawn under the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), shall during the continuance of such withdrawal be subject to entry only in the manner provided by said act, and amendments thereto and the regulations thereunder.

When lands included in entries made under the act of June 17, 1902, supra, are sold for nonpayment of district taxes or assessments the purchaser on the presentation of proper evidence of his tax title shall be considered as one holding a complete and valid assignment under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), and shall perfect the entry in the same manner required of an assignee under said act.

The evidence of such tax title shall be the same as hereinafter provided in the case of an applicant under tax title for land not subject to the reclamation act.

The following paragraphs have no application to lands withdrawn under reclamation laws:

ENTRIES UNDER SECTION 5

20. Public lands within an approved district which were unentered at the time any tax or assessment was levied against same shall not be sold for such tax or assessment, but same shall be and continue a lien upon such land, and not more than 160 acres of such land shall be entered by any one person, and when such land shall be applied for after the approval of the district by the Secretary of the Interior, under the homestead or desert-land laws, the applicant shall be required to present a certificate from the proper district or county officer showing that no unpaid district charges are due, or delinquent, against said land.

Any such application for lands of this character, if unaccompanied by the required certificate, will be suspended by you for 30 days to enable the applicant to present such certificate, and if not furnished, the application will be rejected, subject to the right of appeal.

TAX TITLES GENERALLY

21. No application to enter or purchase land within an approved irrigation district under tax-sale title will be allowed if the sale was for taxes or assessments levied prior to the approval of the district by the Secretary of the Interior.

ENTRY OF LAND RELINQUISHED (SEC. 6 OF ACT)

22. In case where any tract of entered land within an approved district shall become vacant by relinquishment or cancellation for any cause, any subsequent applicant therefor shall, in addition to the qualifications and requirements otherwise provided, be required to furnish satisfactory proof by certificate from the proper district or county officer showing that he has paid all charges due to the district upon said land, and also that he has paid to the proper district or county officer for the holder, or holders, of any tax certificate, delinquency certificate, or other proper evidence of tax sale, the amount for which said land was sold at tax sale, together with the interest and penalties thereon provided by law.

Entries for such land will be limited to 160 acres, as such lands come within the general description of " unentered " lands.

It will be observed that as to such land the requirement as to payment of taxes, assessments, interest, and penalties applies to any subsequent applicant therefor and not solely to applicants under the homestead and desert land law as in the first instance. (Sec. 5 of act.)

If the application is not accompanied by this evidence you will suspend same for 30 days, and if the necessary proof of the required payments is not made within such time you will reject the application, subject to the right of appeal.

CASH ENTRIES (SEC. 6 OF ACT)

23. In case of entered lands within an approved irrigation district not subject to the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), the purchaser thereof at tax sale, or his assignee (no redemption having been made), may receive patent to the land upon the payment to the register of the local land office of the minimum price of $1.25 per acre, or such other price as may be fixed by law for such land, together with the usual fees and commissions charged in entries of like land under the homestead laws, and upon satisfactory showing that the irrigation works have been constructed and that water of the district is available for such land.

However, such purchaser or his assignee shall at the time of application for patent have the qualifications of either a homestead or desert-land entryman, and not more than 160 acres of such land shall be patented to any one purchaser.

If the purchaser at tax sale, or his assignee, shall not within 90 days after the time for redemption has expired pay to the proper register all fees and commissions and the purchase price to which the United States shall be entitled, as provided in this act, any person having the qualifications mentioned may pay to the proper register for not more than 160 acres of such land the unpaid purchase price, fees, and commissions to which the United States may be entitled, and upon satisfactory proof that he has paid to the purchaser at tax sale, or to his assignee, or to the proper officer of the district for such purchaser, or for the district, as the case may be, the sum for which the land was sold at sale for irrigation district charges, or bid in by the district at such sale, and in addition thereto the interest and penalties on the amount bid at the rate allowed by law, shall be subrogated to the rights of such purchaser to receive patent for said land.

FORM OF APPLICATION TO PURCHASE

24. An application to purchase under this act shall be under oath, and such application and all other proofs, affidavits, and oaths of any kind whatsoever required shall be executed before a proper officer as provided in section 2294, Revised Statutes, as amended. (See Circular 884,[a] 49 L. D. 497.)

The application shall contain a description according to the approved plats of survey of the land sought to be purchased and shall give the serial number or numbers of the entry or entries in which the land is then included. The applicant shall also show by like evidence required in such cases that he has the qualifications of a homestead or desert-land entryman, furnishing the proof thereof, together with evidence required by Circular 1066 of May 25, 1926.

He must show whether he is applying as purchaser at tax sale, as assignee of such purchaser, or is seeking to be subrogated to the right of such purchaser or assignee.

The application shall not embrace less than a legal subdivision or more than 160 acres and shall not include land in more than one land district and shall be accompanied by the usual fees and commissions provided in entries of like land under the homestead laws, together with the purchase price of the land, not less than $1.25 per acre, or such other price as may be fixed by law for such land.

As the laws governing the sale of lands for taxes are not the same in the several States affected by this act, and as in some instances more than one method of conducting sales is permitted, and as the period in which redemption may be made varies, it is not thought advisable to formulate specific rules governing proof of tax titles. However, the following general rules must be observed:

If the tax title is based on court proceedings a copy of the decree or order of the court under the seal of the clerk of the court must be furnished. The certificate of the clerk of court should make specific reference to the laws governing such sale and show that the period of redemption has expired without redemption having been made, citing the statute.

If the sale was made by the district or under other than court proceedings the certificate of the officer conducting such sale, under the seal of his office, must be furnished. This certificate should show that all steps necessary to legalize such sale were taken, citing the statutes, and should show that the period of redemption has expired without redemption being made.

[a] Circular No. 884, revised under date of Sept. 3, 1926, is reported in 51 L. D. 572. See p. 1035.

No application to purchase under this act will be accepted for lands included in more than one pending entry unless necessary in order to make the 160 acres maximum area to which the applicant may be entitled, but in such event the land applied for must, if practicable, be contiguous, and if not contiguous, as nearly so as the circumstances will permit.

On receipt of an application to purchase under this act you will serialize and note same on your records.

You will then examine the application as to its compliance with these provisions, especially as to the title of the applicant under the tax-sale provisions of the State law. If the application is not complete in substance, or based on an unredeemable tax title, you will hold same for rejection, subject to the usual right of appeal. If the application is found satisfactory and complete in all respects you will notify the entryman or entrymen, of the land affected and alleged to have been sold at tax sale, of the filing of the application to purchase such land, and that because thereof the entry, or entries, are held for cancellation (to the extent affected by such sale) subject to the usual right of appeal.

If appeal is filed you will transmit the entire record to the General Land Office, and if no appeal is filed you will transmit the application, together with a copy of the notice served on the entryman or entrymen, of record, together with proof of service of such notice.

If the application is without objection and contains the evidence herein required and water has been made available for the land, appropriate instructions looking to the issuance of cash certificate will be issued by the General Land Office. If appeal is filed the same will be considered and disposed of in the usual manner.

Pending the authorization of cash certificate, the purchase price of the land will be deposited to the credit of "unearned moneys."

If all be found regular and sufficient except that the irrigation works have not been constructed and water has not been made available, the cash certificate will be withheld pending proof of construction and of the availability of water.

When the application to purchase is approved by the General Land Office and, without regard to whether or not such purchaser shall then be entitled to certificate and patent (which will depend upon the question of construction of irrigation works and the availability of water), the conflicting entry, or entries, as the case may be, to the extent to which the land was sold for delinquent taxes or assessments, no appeal having been filed, will be canceled of record.

ISOLATED TRACTS[a]

FIELD EXAMINATION OF ISOLATED TRACTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, December 21, 1912.

Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: Your attention is called to the act of March 28, 1912 (37 Stat. 77), entitled "An Act to amend section 2455 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to isolated tracts of public land," particularly that portion contained in the proviso to the effect that legal subdivisions of public land not exceeding one-quarter section "the greater part of which is mountainous or too rough for cultivation, may * * * be ordered into the market and sold * * * upon the application of any person who owns lands or holds a valid entry of lands adjoining said tract, regardless of the fact that such tract may not be isolated or disconnected * * *."

The department has construed this proviso to apply only to lands which are both mountainous and too rough for cultivation.[b] Accordingly, in order to enable the office to determine whether or not applications for sale under the authority of this proviso shall be granted, it will be necessary to have a field examination made of each tract applied for. The agent making the examination should determine and report specifically on these two features, as well as upon the value of the land, for under the ruling of the department the fact that the land is mountainous will not alone warrant its sale under the law.

The instructions herein contained will apply only to applications which are filed under the authority of the proviso referred to. In all other cases it will not be necessary to cause a field examination to be made unless special warrant therefor appears. The Chief of Field Division should be able, from the information in his possession or that possessed by his agents, to determine and report the approximate value of the land in such cases.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

APPRAISEMENT OF ISOLATED TRACTS—NOTATION ON RECORDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 11, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Upon receipt of a report of the Chief of Field Division provided for in section 2, paragraph 23, of Circular No. 72, dated January 19, 1912, and in section b, paragraph 8, of Circular No. 202, dated December 18, 1912,[c] you will make notations on your records of the price of the land as reported by the Chief of Field Division, and should no sale result based upon the application presented, any subsequent applications under said acts for the same land, presented within three years from date of the report of the Chief of Field Division, need not be referred to the Chief of the Field Division, but you will, before transmitting same to this office, note thereon the price of the land as reported by the Chief of Field Division, making reference to the serial number of the former application.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

ISOLATED TRACTS—MOUNTAINOUS OR ROUGH LANDS

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 17, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In order to conform the same to the terms of the first proviso to the act of March 28, 1912 (37 Stat. 77), the regulations thereunder on page 5 of Circular No. 202, dated December 18, 1912, and page 8 of Circular No. 203, regulations under the Kinkaid Acts effective only in Nebraska, dated December 18, 1912 (41 L. D. 448, 500), are hereby amended so that wherever the words "mountainous and too rough for cultivation" appear the same shall read "mountainous or too rough for cultivation."[d]

These instructions will apply to all supplemental circulars and regulations under said act and you will be governed accordingly in the disposition of applications thereunder.

Very respectfully,

PUBLIC SALE OF LANDS—QUALIFICATIONS AS TO CITIZENSHIP

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 18, 1914.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In accordance with departmental instructions of January 31, 1914, you are advised that the department is of the opinion that the rule announced in the case of Andrew Rafshol (38 L. D. 84), was a proper one and that it should be applied to all purchasers at public sale where the right to purchase was not limited by the statutes to native born or naturalized citizens.

Therefore, in the case of all sales of public lands where the right to purchase is not thus limited, it will be sufficient if the purchaser shows that he has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States in order to entitle him to purchase at such sale. You will be governed accordingly and will adjudicate all pending cases of purchases at public sale in accordance with this regulation.

The regulation of December 18, 1912 (41 L. D. 443), requiring purchasers of isolated tracts to be citizens of the United States, is modified to conform to the foregoing.

Very respectfully,

JOHN MCPHAUL,
Acting Assistant Commissioner.

INDORSEMENT ON APPLICATIONS UNDER SECTION 2455, REVISED STATUTES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 24, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: For the information of the chief of field division to whom the paper is sent, you will indorse on the margin of all applications for offering under section 2455, Revised Statutes, "Tract isolated," or "Tract not isolated." If the application is indorsed "Tract isolated," the chief of field division will understand that the tract is isolated within the meaning of paragraph 7 of Circular No. 371 [e]; if "Tract not isolated" appears, it will advise him that the application is for the offering of a tract under the first proviso to section 2455, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of March 28, 1912 (37 Stat. 77).

OFFERINGS AT PUBLIC SALE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 7, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The sale of isolated tracts of unreserved public land and tracts not isolated, but which are mountainous or too rough for cultivation, is authorized by section 2455 of the Revised Statutes (section 1171, title 43, United States Code), as amended by the acts of June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 517), March 28, 1912 (37 Stat. 77), and March 9, 1928 (45 Stat. 253). Special provisions as to lands in western Nebraska are found in the act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat. 1224).

The present instructions constitute a revision of those of February 25, 1926 (51 L. D. 357).

GENERAL REGULATIONS

1. Applications to have isolated tracts ordered into market must be filed with the register of the local land office for the district wherein the lands are situated except in the States of Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin. These States have no district land office, and applications for land therein should be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, Washington, D. C.

2. Applicants must show by their affidavits, corroborated by at least two witnesses, that the land contains no salines, coal, or other minerals; the amount, kind, and value of timber or stone thereon, if any; whether the land is occupied, and if so, the nature of the occupancy; for what purpose the land is chiefly valuable; why it is desired that same be sold; that applicant desires to purchase the land for his own individual use and actual occupation and not for speculative purposes; and that he has not heretofore purchased under section 2455, Revised Statutes, or the amendments thereto, isolated tracts, the area of which when added to the area applied for will exceed approximately 320 acres; and that he is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention to become such. Also a duly corroborated affidavit showing that no spring or water hole exists, if it be a fact, upon any legal subdivision of the land applied for; or if there be any spring or water hole, the affidavit should state the exact location and size thereof, together with an estimate of the quantity of water in gallons which it is capable of producing daily. If applicant has heretofore purchased lands under the provisions of the acts relating to isolated tracts, same must be described in the application by subdivision, section, township, and range.

These provisions are modified, however, in the class of cases referred to in paragraph 5 (b).

3. The affidavits of applicants to have isolated tracts ordered into market and of their corroborating witnesses may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths in the county or land district in which the tracts described in the applications are situated. Affidavits relating to lands in those States having no local office may be executed anywhere within the State.

4. The officer before whom such affidavits are executed will cause each applicant and his witnesses to fully answer the questions contained upon the accompanying form and, after the answers to the questions therein contained have been reduced to writing, to sign and swear to same before him.

5. (a) No sale will be authorized upon the application of a person who has purchased under section 2455, Revised Statutes, or the amendments thereto, any lands the area of which, when added to the area applied for, shall exceed approximately 320 acres.

(b) Where one or more tracts, each not exceeding 120 acres in area, are entirely surrounded by land owned by the applicant and have been isolated for five or more years, an offering may be allowed without regard to the limitations as to extent of purchases by the applicant, set forth in paragraphs 2 and 5 (a), provided the lands sought are not valuable for farming but are chiefly valuable for grazing or for special use in connection with the adjoining lands. Applicants under this subparagraph must furnish proof of ownership of the land surrounding that applied for; also detailed evidence as to the character of the land applied for, particularly with respect to its comparative values for farming, grazing, and special use in connection with the adjoining lands, which evidence must consist of an affidavit by the applicant corroborated by the affidavits of not less than two disinterested persons having actual knowledge of the facts. In other respects these cases are governed by the general regulations.

6. No tract exceeding approximately 320 acres in area will be ordered into the market. An application may include several incontiguous tracts provided their aggregate area does not exceed 320 acres. Each tract will be offered separately and certificates will be issued under different numbers unless they are bought by the same person.

7. No tract of land will be deemed isolated and ordered into the market unless, at the time application is filed, the said tract has been subject to homestead entry for at least two years after the surrounding lands have been entered, except in cases where some extraordinary reason is advanced which may be found sufficient to warrant waiving this restriction.

8. The register will, on receipt of applications, note same upon the tract books of his office, and if the applications are not properly executed or not corroborated he will reject the same, subject to the right of appeal. Applications found to be properly executed and corroborated will be disposed of as follows:

(a) If the applicant does not show himself qualified, or if the tract appears not to be subject to disposition under the provisions of paragraph 7, or if all the land is appropriated, the register will reject the application subject to the usual right of appeal; if part of the tract is appropriated, he will reject the application as to that part, and, in the absence of an appeal after the usual notice, he will eliminate the description thereof from the application and take further action as though it had never been included therein. Where an appeal is filed, the Commissioner of the General Land Office, if he decides to order into market a part, or all, of the lands, will call upon the register and the division inspector for the reports as next provided for, concerning the value of the land. Adverse action by the commissioner will be subject to appeal to the Secretary of the Interior.

(b) If all the land applied for is vacant and not withdrawn or otherwise reserved from such disposition and the status of the surrounding lands is such that a sale might properly be ordered under paragraph 7, the register, after noting the application on his records, will promptly forward the same to the division inspector for report as to the value of the land and any objection he may wish to interpose to the sale, and the register will make proper notations on his schedule or serial numbers in the event the application is not returned in time to be forwarded with the current returns. Upon receipt of the application from the division inspector with his report thereon, the register will attach his report as to the status of the land and that surrounding, the value of the land applied for, if he has any knowledge concerning the same, and any objection to the sale known to him, and forward the papers to the General Land Office with the current returns.

9. An application for sale will not segregate the land from entry or other disposal, for such lands may be entered at any time before the receipt in the local land office of the letter authorizing the sale and its notation of record or, as to land in those States having no local officer, before the date of the order of sale. If any or all of the land applied for be entered or filed upon while the application for sale is in the hands of the division inspector, the register will so advise him; if all the land be thus entered or filed upon he will request the return of the application for forwarding to the General Land Office.

If all of the land applied for be entered or filed upon at any time prior to receipt of a letter from the General Land Office authorizing an offering, the register will at once close the case on his records, notify the applicant of the action, and promptly report the facts to said office, where the matter will be closed on its records without letter; similarly, a case will be closed in part and like notice and report will be sent if an entry or filing be made for part of the land involved.

10. Upon receipt of letter authorizing the sale the register will at once examine the records to see whether the tract, or any part thereof, has been entered. If the examination of the record shows that all of the tract has been entered or filed upon, the register will not promulgate the letter authorizing the sale, but will report the facts to the General Land Office, whereupon the letter authorizing the sale will be revoked. If a part of the land has been entered, he will so report and note on the tract book, opposite such portion of the tract as is found to be clear, that sale has been authorized, giving the date of the letter. Thereupon the land will be considered segregated for the purpose of sale. The minimum price set by the order for sale should also be noted on the records. In the event no sale is had the price so noted will be effective as to any subsequent application for offering, filed within three years after the date of the report of the division inspector.

The register will prepare a notice for publication on the form hereinafter given, describing the land found to be unentered, and fixing a date for the sale, which date must be far enough in advance to afford ample time for publication of the notice, and for the affidavit of the publisher to be filed in the local land office prior to the date of the sale. The register will also designate a newspaper as published nearest to the land described in the notice. The notice will be sent to the applicant with instructions that he must publish the same at his expense in the newspaper designated by the register. Payment for publication must be made by applicant directly to the publisher, and in case the money for publication is transmitted to the register he must issue receipt therefor and immediately return the money to the applicant by his official check, with instructions to arrange for the publication of the notice as hereinbefore provided.

If evidence of publication is not filed at or before the time set for the offering, the register will close the case on his records, and will report the default to the General Land Office, which will, without letter, close the case on its records.

11.[f] Notice must be published for 30 days preceding the date set for the sale, and a sufficient time should elapse between the date of last publication and the date of sale to enable the affidavit of the publisher to be filed in the local office. The notice must be published in the paper designated by the register as nearest the land described in the application. If this be a daily paper, the publication must be inserted in 30 consecutive issues; if daily except Sunday, in 26; if weekly, in 5; and if semiweekly, in 9 consecutive issues. The register will cause a similar notice to be posted in his office, such notice to remain posted during the entire period of publication. The applicant must file in the local office, prior to the date fixed for the sale, evidence that publication has been had for the required period, which evidence may consist of the affidavit of the publisher, accompanied by a copy of the notice published.

12. At the time and place fixed for the sale the register will read the notice of sale and allow all qualified persons an opportunity to bid. Bids may be made through an agent personally present at the sale, as well as by the bidder in person. The register conducting the sale will keep a record showing the names of the bidders and the amount bid by each. Such record will be transmitted to this office with the other papers in the case.

When all persons present shall have ceased bidding, the register will, in the usual manner, declare the sale closed, announcing the offerer thereof (or his principal) will be declared the purchaser, provided he immediately pay to the register the amount of the bid; in name of the highest bidder; the highest bid will be accepted and the the absence of such payment the register will at once proceed with the sale, excluding bids by him, and starting with the highest bid not withdrawn. The accepted bidder must, within 10 days after the sale, furnish evidence that he is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention to become such; also, a nonmineral affidavit or (in the States where that is sufficient) a nonsaline affidavit,

Upon the filing of these papers the register will issue final cash certificate.

13. No lands will be sold at less than the price fixed by law, nor at less than $1.25 per acre; but a minimum price will be set by the letter ordering the sale, based upon the report of the division inspector. Should any of the lands offered be not sold, the same will not be regarded as subject to private entry unless located in the State of Missouri (act of March 2, 1889, 25 Stat. 854), but may again be offered for sale in the manner herein provided.

14. After each offering where the lands offered are not sold, the register will close the case on his records and report by letter to the General Land Office. No report by letter will be made when the offering results in a sale; but the register will issue cash papers as in ordinary cash entries, noting thereon the date of the letter authorizing the offering, and report the same in his current returns. With the papers must also be forwarded the affidavit of publisher showing due publication and the register's certificate of posting. In all cases where no sale is had the land will, in the absence of other objections, become subject to entry or filing at once without action by this office.

ACT OF MARCH 9, 1928 (45 STAT. 253)

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 2455 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (section 1171, title 43, United States Code), as amended, be, and is hereby, amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 2455 (section 1171, title 43, United States Code). It shall be lawful for the Secretary of the Interior to order into market and sell at public auction, at the land office of the district in which the land is situated, for not less than $1.25 an acre, any isolated or disconnected tract or parcel of the public domain not exceeding three hundred and twenty acres which, in his judgment, it would be proper to expose for sale after at least thirty days' notice by the land office of the district in which such land may be situated: Provided, That any legal subdivisions of the public land, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, the greater part of which is mountainous or too rough for cultivation, may, in the discretion of the said Secretary, be ordered into the market and sold pursuant to this section upon the application of any person who owns land or holds a valid entry of lands adjoining such tract, regardless of the fact that such tract may not be isolated or disconnected within the meaning of this section: Provided further, That this section shall not defeat any valid right which has already attached under any pending entry or location."

REGULATIONS UNDER FIRST PROVISO TO ACT OF MARCH 9, 1928

15. The first proviso to the act copied above authorizes the sale of legal subdivisions not exceeding one-quarter section, the greater part of which is mountainous or too rough for cultivation, upon the application of any person who owns or holds a valid entry of lands adjoining such tract and regardless of the fact that such tract may not be actually isolated by the entry or other disposition of surrounding lands. Applications will be disposed of by you in accordance with the "General Regulations," except paragraph 7, which is not applicable. Applications may be made upon the form provided (4–008b), and printed herein, properly modified as necessitated by the terms of the proviso. In addition the applicant or applicants must furnish proof of his or their ownership of the whole title to adjoining land, or that he holds a valid entry embracing adjoining land, in connection with which entry he has met the requirements of the law; also detailed evidence as to the character of the land applied for, the extent to which it is cultivable, and the conditions which render the greater portion unfit for cultivation; also a description of any and all lands theretofore applied for under the proviso or purchased under section 2455 or the amendments thereto. This evidence must consist of an affidavit by the claimant, corroborated by the affidavits of not less than two disinterested persons having actual knowledge of the facts.

No person will be allowed more than one application under this proviso, except that two or more applications may be allowed to the same person if all the lands sought adjoin the same body of land owned by the applicant or included in his pending entry. An application under the first proviso will be rejected in all cases where the applicant has purchased under section 2455, or the amendments thereto, an area which, when added to the area applied for, shall exceed approximately 160 acres.

In acting on applications for offering under the proviso, regard will be had to the character of each subdivision applied for, as reported by the division inspector, and offering of an entire tract will not be had upon the ground that the greater part is of the character contemplated thereby, if taken as a whole.

16. In the notices for publication and posting, where sale is authorized under the proviso, you will add after the description of the land, " This tract is ordered into the market on a showing that the greater portion thereof is mountainous or too rough for cultivation."

ISOLATED TRACTS OF COAL LAND

17. The act of Congress approved April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), provides:

> That * * * unreserved public lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, which have been withdrawn or classified as coal lands, or are valuable for coal, shall * * * be subject * * * to disposition * * * under the laws providing for the sale of isolated or disconnected tracts of public lands, but there shall be a reservation to the United States of the coal in all such lands so * * * sold, and of the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same in accordance with the provisions of the act of June 22, 1910, and such lands shall be subject to all the conditions and limitations of said act.

An application to have coal land offered at public sale must bear on its face the notation:

> Application made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

Where such an application does not bear this notation, you will afford applicant an opportunity to consent thereto and will reject the application if this requirement be not complied with.

In the printed and posted notice of sale will appear the statement:

> This land will be sold in accordance with, and subject to, the provisions and reservations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

The purchaser's consent to the reservation of the coal in the land to the United States will not be required, but the cash certificate and patent will contain respectively the provisions specified in paragraph 7 (b) of the circular of September 8, 1910.

TRACTS CONTAINING PHOSPHATE, ETC.

18. The act of Congress approved July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), provides:

> That * * * lands * * * withdrawn or classified as * * * phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals, or which are valuable for those deposits, shall be subject to * * * purchase, if otherwise available, under the nonmineral land laws of the United States, whenever such * * * purchase shall be made with a view to obtaining or passing title with a reservation to the United States of the deposits on account of which the lands were withdrawn or classified or reported as valuable, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same.

An application for offering of the lands referred to in said act must bear on its face the notation:

> Application made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

If an application for such mineral land does not bear that notation, you will afford the applicant opportunity to consent thereto, and if he fails to do so, you will reject the application.

In the printed and posted notice of sale will appear the statement:

> This land will be sold in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

The purchaser's consent to the reservation of the minerals in the land to the United States will not be required, but the cash certificate and patent will contain, respectively, the provisions specified in paragraph 6 of the circular of March 20, 1915 (44 L. D. 32, 34).

19. All applications for the sale of public lands under these regulations must be rejected where it appears that the land applied for is within the limits of a producing oil or gas field or is embraced in an existing oil or gas prospecting permit or lease under act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), or an application for such permit or lease, and an application for such permit or lease filed before the land becomes segregated in the manner indicated in paragraph 9 hereof will defeat the application hereunder.

Very respectfully,

Thos. C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved April 7, 1928.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

LOUISIANA LANDS

[Reported, 51 L. D. 86]

Circular No. 991

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 19, 1925

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 2, 1925.

Register and Receiver, Baton Rouge, La.

Gentlemen: The act of February 19, 1925 (43 Stat. 951), entitled "An act granting to certain claimants the preference right to purchase unappropriated public lands," provides:

That the Secretary of the Interior, in his judgment and discretion, is hereby authorized to sell, in the manner hereinafter provided, any of those lands situated in the State of Louisiana which were originally erroneously meandered and shown upon the official plats as water-covered areas and which are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman claiming under the public land laws.

That any citizen of the United States who, or whose ancestors in title in good faith under color of title or claiming as a riparian owner has, prior to this act, placed valuable improvements upon or reduced to cultivation any of the lands subject to the operation of this act, shall have a preferred right to file in the office of the register and receiver of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, an application to purchase the lands thus improved by them at any time within 90 days from the date of the passage of this act if the lands have been surveyed and the plats filed in the United States land office; otherwise within 90 days from official notice to such claimant of the filing of such plats. Every such application must be accompanied with satisfactory proof that the applicant is entitled to such preference right and that the lands which he applies to purchase are not in the legal possession of an adverse claimant or in the actual possession of a person, or persons, who have improved the property and have attempted to enter same in compliance with the laws and regulations of the United States land office

That upon the filing of an application to purchase any lands subject to the operation of this act, together with the required proof, the Secretary of the Interior shall cause the lands described in said application to be appraised, said appraisal to be on the basis of the value of such lands at the date of the appraisal, exclusive of any increased value resulting from the development or improvement thereof for agricultural purposes by the applicant or his predecessor in interest, but inclusive of the stumpage value of any timber cut or removed by the applicant or his predecessor in interest.

That an applicant who applies to purchase lands under the provisions of this act, in order to be entitled to receive a patent, must within six months from receipt of notice of appraisal by the Secretary of the Interior pay to the receiver of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, the appraised price of the lands, and thereupon a patent shall issue to said applicant for such lands as the Secretary of the Interior shall determine that such applicant is entitled to purchase under this act. The proceeds derived by the Government from the sale of the lands hereunder shall be covered into the United States Treasury and applied as provided by law for the disposal of the proceeds from the sale of public lands.

That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for administering the provisions of this act and determining conflicting claims arising thereunder.

SEC. 2. That all purchases made and patents issued under the provisions of this act shall be subject to and contain a reservation to the United States of all the coal, oil, gas, and other mineral in the lands so purchased and patented, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same

Applications to purchase under the above act must be sworn to and may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths in the county or land district in which the lands are located, and must be filed with the register and receiver of the local land office in that district within 90 days from the passage of this act, if the lands have been surveyed and plats filed in the local office, otherwise within 90 days from the filing of such plat. The applicant must show that he is either a native-born or a naturalized citizen of the United States, and, if naturalized, file record evidence thereof; must describe the land which he desires to purchase, together with the land claimed as the basis of his preference right to the lands applied for if he applies as a riparian owner, or if claiming otherwise, under what color of title his claim is based; in other words, a complete history of the claim, and that the lands applied for are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman under the public land laws, nor in the legal possession of any adverse applicant; the kind, character, and value of the improvements on the land covered by the application; when they were placed thereon; the extent of the cultivation, if any, and how long continued. Such application must be supported by the affidavit of at least two persons having personal knowledge of the facts alleged in the application. Upon receipt of such application the local officers will assign a current serial number thereto.

If the land applied for is surveyed and is vacant, the local officers, after noting the application on their records, will suspend action thereon and will promptly forward it to the division inspector for investigation and appraisement of the land in accordance with the provisions of the act. If for unsurveyed land, the local officers will note the application and suspend same transmitting it to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for consideration as to whether or not the lands applied for are in fact public lands and of the class contemplated by the act under which title is sought. During such suspension the lands described in the application shall not be disposed of.

When an application is received by the division inspector he will assign same to a field examiner for investigation and appraisement of the land in accordance with the provisions of the act. The examiner will make a written report thereon as to the development or improvement for agricultural purposes and the evidence obtained as to whether or not the lands are of the class contemplated by the act, also recommending the allowance or rejection of the application. If such report is favorable, and the division inspector is of the opinion that the application should be allowed, he will return it to the register and receiver with the appraisement, report, and recommendation to that effect, whereupon the register and receiver will pass upon it in regular order in the light of the report which is to be attached to the record and made a part of the application, and transmit same to the General Land Office with their recommendations. If, however, the division inspector is of the opinion that the entry should not be allowed he will have a full report prepared and transmit the entire record to the General Land Office for consideration and action, advising the register and receiver thereof. If the report justifies such action, this office will direct proceedings against the application under the circular of February 26, 1916, under which the claimant would have the right to apply for a hearing to determine whether or not he is entitled to purchase the lands applied for.

If, upon consideration of the application in the General Land Office, with report and appraisement, it shall be determined that the applicant is entitled to purchase the lands applied for, the local office will be authorized to notify the applicant at once, by registered mail, that he must within six months from receipt of notice deposit with the receiver the appraised price of the land or else forfeit all his rights under his application.

Upon payment of the appraised price of the land the local officers will issue notice of publication. Such notice shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a newspaper of general circulation designated by the register in the vicinity of the lands, once a week for five consecutive weeks, or 30 consecutive days if in a daily paper, immediately prior to the date of sale, but a sufficient time shall elapse between the date of the last publication and the date of sale to enable the affidavit of the publisher to be filed in the local office.[a] The notice will advise all persons claiming adversely to the applicant that they should file any objections or protests against the allowance of the application within the period of publication, otherwise the application may be allowed. Any objections or protests must be under oath, corroborated, and a copy thereof served upon the applicant. The register and receiver will also cause a copy of such notice of publication to be posted in their office during the entire period of publication. The applicant must file in the local office prior to the date fixed for the sale evidence that publication has been had for the required period, which evidence must consist of the affidavit of the publisher accompanied by a copy of the notice so published.

Upon the submission of satisfactory proof, the register and receiver will, if no protest or contest is pending, allow a final entry and issue final certificate, such certificate to contain a stipulation that all the minerals in the lands described in the application are reserved to the United States with the right to prospect for, mine and remove same, transmitting same to the General Land Office, with their regular monthly returns.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 1065

REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO THE DISPOSITION OF CERTAIN LANDS IN THE LIVE OAK NAVAL RESERVE, LA.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 25, 1926.

REGISTER, Baton Rouge, La.

SIR: Under the act of March 1, 1817 (3 Stat. 347), certain lands in Louisiana were reserved for naval purposes by Executive order of February 29, 1820, because of the " live oak " thereon.

The act of February 16, 1923 (42 Stat. 1258), entitled "An act to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to certify to the Secretary of the Interior, for restoration to the public domain, lands in the State of Louisiana not needed for naval purposes," reads, in part, as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Navy be, and he is hereby, authorized to cause to be certified to the Secretary of the Interior, for restoration to the public domain, the whole or such portion or portions of the several tracts of land in the State of Louisiana heretofore set apart and reserved for naval uses as are no longer required for the purpose for which they were reserved or for any purpose connected with the naval service, and upon such certification the tracts of land described herein shall be duly restored to and become a part of the public lands of the United States; and a preference-right entry for a period of six months from the date of this act shall be given all bona fide settlers who are qualified to enter under the homestead law and have made improvements and are now residing upon any agricultural lands in said reservations and for a period of six months from the date of settlement, when that shall occur, after the date of this act: Provided, That persons who enter under the homestead laws shall pay for such lands the value heretofore or hereafter determined by appraisement, not less than the price of the land at the time of entry; and such payment may, at the option of the purchaser, be made in five equal installments, at times and at rates of interest to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior. * * *

Certification of such lands to the Secretary of the Interior was made effective by a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Navy, dated March 30, 1923, whereby the restoration to the public domain of all those several tracts of land in the State of Louisiana which were reserved and set apart for naval purposes by said order of the President of February 29, 1820, was accomplished.

The said act of February 16, 1923, provided further for confirmation of title to lands covered by certificates of purchase issued by the Opelousas land office which certificates were specifically enumerated in said act. Instructions relative to the confirmation of title to such lands were issued July 3, 1923. All such lands have been confirmed to the purchasers under such certificates and patents issued therefor.

The lands in such Live Oak naval reserve, situated in St. Mary and St. Martin Parishes, La., that are not embraced in the confirmed claims and are subject to homestead entry have been appraised as follows. The appraised price per acre is at the rate of $1.25 for the land and $2 per M. for the timber.

The merchantable timber is comprised of tupelo, cypress, red oak, and willow on each tract containing timber.

The appraisers reported no surface indication of mineral upon any of these lands, but that there was a possibility that oil may be found underneath, for the reason that lands in the vicinity have been leased for oil and a number of test wells have been sunk near by. Application for such lands must, therefore, be made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

The lands above described will become subject to entry under the homestead law, and as provided by said act of February 16, 1923, at not less than the appraised price thereof by ex-service men of the war with Germany, under the terms and conditions of Public Resolution No. 29 of February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 434), as amended by Public Resolution No. 36, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), Circular No. 822, for a period of 91 days, beginning with the 28th day from the date hereof. Thereafter, any of said land remaining unentered will be subject to settlement and homestead entry by the general public.

Subsequent to the approval of these regulations, and prior to the date of restoration to general disposition as herein provided for, no rights may be acquired to said land by settlement in advance of entry, or otherwise, except strictly in accordance herewith.

Persons having valid existing rights or equitable claims may avoid confusion by asserting such rights during the 20 days preceding the soldiers' preference-right period.

Ex-service men should file certified copies of their certificates of discharge with their applications, and persons claiming preference rights should file affidavits supporting such claims with their applications.

Entryman may, at his option, commute after 14 months from the date of settlement with full payment in cash. In all cases where 3-year proof is submitted and after its acceptance, entryman may pay for the land the full amount of the appraised value thereof without interest, or he may make payment in five equal installments, the first payment to be made one year after the acceptance of his final proof, and the subsequent payments to be made annually thereafter, interest to be charged at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from the date of acceptance of final proof until all payments are made.

In case the full amount is paid after 14 months from the date of settlement, you will, if the proof is satisfactory, issue cash certificate, and in the event that regular final proof is made and the full amount then paid, you will issue final certificate, but when partial payments are made, you will issue a receipt only for the amount of the principal and the interest paid, and at the time the last payment is made, you will issue final certificate.

In issuing final papers you will make the proper annotations thereon, as well as on the applications and abstracts, to show that the entry covers land in the Live Oak naval reserve.

Where, upon submitting final proofs, the entrymen elect to make payment for the lands entered in five annual installments, you are authorized to make the usual charges for the testimony reduced to writing, but as the final certificate can not be issued until the last payment is made, you can not charge the final commissions until said final payment is made. Therefore, if the proofs submitted are acceptable, you will make proper notes on your records showing that satisfactory proofs have been made and the date upon which the partial payments must be made, so advise entryman in each case, and then transmit said proofs to this office for filing with the original entries.

The appraisers reported that there is an old frame house located on lot 2, section 37, T. 15 S., R. 12 E., Louisiana meridian, Louisiana, on Navy Commissioner's Island, which was built some 40 years ago by George Morgan (deceased). The house is occupied by the widow of said George Morgan and her son, George Morgan, and family, who have resided on this island all their lives, apparently believing they own such tract, but as such lands have been embraced in a naval reserve since February 29, 1820, any claim made by them under the contract for sale made between individuals for lands embraced therein is invalid. You will forward a copy of these regulations to Mrs. Morgan and call her particular attention to her right to apply for the land upon which she has been living during the 20 days preceding the soldiers' preference-right period mentioned herein.

The State's claim to such lands as swamp under the act of September 28, 1850, (9 Stat. 519), was rejected by letter G of December 18, 1913.

You will, upon receipt hereof, make the proper notations of these regulations upon your records, post a copy hereof in your office, and give as much publicity as possible to the opening as a matter of news without expense to the Government, by forwarding a copy hereof to the post office nearest the land for posting therein for the information of the public, and by transmitting copies hereof, or an item concerning the opening, to the newspapers published nearest the land, being careful not to send such copy or item without calling particular attention to the fact that the same is sent as news, and that the Government will not be responsible for the cost of any publication thereof.

Promptly report your compliance with the instructions herein contained.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 1153

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT OF APRIL 11, 1928

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 29, 1928.

The act of April 11, 1928 (45 Stat. 422), entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to sell and patent certain lands in Louisiana and Mississippi, provides:

> That the Secretary of the Interior, in his judgment and discretion, is hereby authorized to sell, in the manner hereinafter provided, any of those lands which he has found or shall hereafter find are public lands of the United States that have accreted to section 14 of township 5 north, range 4 west, Washington meridian, in the State of Mississippi, and to sections 65, 66, 67, and 68 of township 5 north, range 9 east, Louisiana meridian, in the State of Louisiana, and which are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman or other adverse claimant claiming under the public land laws.

SEC. 2. That the owners of said above-described lots or sections shall have a preferred right to file in the office of the register of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated an application to purchase the public lands thus formed by accretion at any time within ninety days from the filing of plats of such accreted area in the United States land office. Every such application must be accompanied with satisfactory proof that the applicant is entitled to such preference right by virtue of the ownership of said above-described lots or sections and that the lands which he applies to purchase are not in the legal possession of any adverse claimant.

SEC. 3. That upon the filing of any application to purchase any lands subject to the operation of this act, together with the required proof, the Secretary of the Interior shall cause the lands described in said application to be appraised, including the timber thereon and the stumpage value of any timber cut or removed by the applicant or his predecessors in interest. Such appraisement shall be exclusive of any increased value resulting from the development or improvement of the land for agricultural purposes by the applicant or his predecessors in interest.

SEC. 4. That an applicant who applies to purchase land under the provisions of this act, in order to be entitled to receive a patent must, within thirty days from receipt of notice of appraisal by the Secretary of the Interior, pay to the register of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated the appraised value of the lands, and thereupon patent shall issue to said applicant for such lands as the Secretary of the Interior shall determine that such applicant is entitled to purchase under this act. The proceeds derived by the Government from the sale of lands hereunder shall be covered into the United States Treasury and applied as provided by law for the disposal of the proceeds from the sale of public lands.

SEC. 5. If, at the date of the approval of this act, any of the lots or sections or parts of lots or sections above described are covered by a pending entry on which satisfactory final proof in support thereof has not been submitted, patent based on any application to purchase land subject to the provisions of this act shall be withheld to await the completion of the pending entry. If, upon completion of the pending entry it shall then be found that applicant has shown due compliance with the law under the said pending unperfected entry and his application to purchase is otherwise satisfactory patent on said application to purchase shall then be issued.

SEC. 6. That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for administering the provisions of this act and determining conflicting claims arising hereunder.

Applications to purchase under this act must be sworn to and may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths in the State in which the land is situated and must be filed with the commissioner of this office within 90 days from the filing of the official plat of survey.

The applicant must describe the land which he desires to purchase, together with the land claimed as the basis of his preference right to the lands applied for and must show by affidavit corroborated by two witnesses that the lands applied for are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman under the public land laws, nor in the legal possession of any adverse applicant. Abstracts of title covering the lands claimed as the basis of a preference right must be submitted to this office as evidence of ownership. Any such abstracts will be returned to the owners upon request after issuance of patent for the land applied for.

When an application is filed in this office under this act it will be noted upon the records of this office and as soon as practicable thereafter, if everything is found to be regular, will be forwarded to the chief inspector for investigation and appraisement of the land in accordance with the provisions of this act.

When an application is received by the chief inspector he will cause an investigation and appraisement of the land to be made in accordance with the provisions of the act. The inspector making the investigation and appraisement will make a report as to the development or improvement of the land for agricultural purposes, and will estimate the value of the timber thereon, if any, including the stumpage value of any timber cut or removed by the applicant or his predecessors in interest. Such appraisement shall be exclusive of any increased value resulting from the development or improvement of the land for agricultural purposes by the applicant or his predecessors in interest.

If upon consideration of the application in this office, with report and appraisement, it shall be determined that the applicant is entitled to purchase the lands applied for, this office will notify the applicant at once, by registered mail, that he must within 30 days from service of notice deposit with the receiving clerk of this office the appraised price, or he will, without further notice, forfeit all rights under his application.

Upon payment of the appraised price of the land this office will issue notice for publication. Such notice shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a newspaper of general circulation, designated by the commissioner of this office, in the vicinity of the land. once a week for five consecutive weeks immediately prior to the date of sale, but a sufficient time shall elapse between the date of the last publication and the date of sale to enable the affidavit of the publisher to be filed in this office. The notice will advise all persons claiming adversely to the applicant that they should file any objections or protests to the allowance of the applications within the period of publication, otherwise the application may be allowed. Any objections or protests must be under oath, corroborated, and a copy thereof served upon the applicant. The commissioner of this office will cause a notice similar to the notice of publication, to be posted in this office, such notice to remain posted during the entire period of publication. The publisher of the newspaper must file in this office, prior to the date fixed for the sale, evidence that publication has been had for the required period, which evidence must consist of the affidavit of the publisher, accompanied by a copy of the notice published.

Upon submission of satisfactory proof, if no protest or contest is pending final certificate will issue followed by patent.

If any such accreted lands remain after the disposal of the preference right claims provided for by this act, the accreted lands so remaining will be subject to entry by qualified former service men of the World War, under the homestead laws, for a period of 90 days, following the 90-day period provided for by this act, and thereafter by the general public.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 527 [1]

THE FILING OF TOWNSHIP PLATS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 6, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Instructions of October 21, 1885 (4 L. D. 202), relative to the filing of plats of surveys are amended as follows:

When an approved plat of survey of any township or part of a township is transmitted to you by the surveyor general you will not regard such plat as officially received and filed in your office until the following regulations have been complied with:

1. You will at once post a notice in a conspicuous place in your office, specifying the township or part of township that has been surveyed and stating that the plat of survey will be filed in your office on a day to be fixed by you and named in the notice, which shall be not less than 30 days from the date of such notice, and that on and after said day the lands in such township or part of township will be subject to proper disposition. If any of the lands are embraced in any withdrawal, the notice should so state.

2. You will send a copy of such notice to the postmaster in the town in which your office is situated and postmasters of the post offices nearest the land, to the clerk or clerks of courts of record in the town where the land office is located and in the county where the land is situated, and such adjoining county or counties deemed advisable by you.

3. You will also furnish, as a matter of news, copies of the notice to the newspapers published in the town where the land office is situated and in the neighborhood of the land, particularly in the county in which the land is located, and to newspapers known to have a circulation in the vicinity of the land.

Very respectfully,

CIRCULAR No. 935

NOTICES OF FILING OF PLATS AND OPENING OF LANDS TO ENTRY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 14, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Hereafter, in giving public notice relative to:

(a) The official filing of plats of surveys under the requirements of circular of October 21, 1885 (4 L. D. 202), as amended by Circular No. 527 of February 6, 1917 (45 L. D. 648);

(b) The opening of public or Indian lands to entry, or the restoration to entry of public lands in accordance with the provisions of Circular No. 822 of May 1, 1922, relative to preference right of soldiers, sailors, and marines of the late war, or

(c) Where lands are in any manner to be made subject to entry, selection, appropriation, or disposal through the issuance of a public notice, you will, in addition to observing the existing requirements, send a copy of your notice to the United States surveyor general and chief of field division in whose districts the lands are situated and to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The surveyor general and chief of field division will not only assist in disseminating the information thus received, but will also make appropriate use thereof in the discharge of their respective duties as occasion may require.

The foregoing will not relieve registers and receivers from reporting on Form 4–352 when plats of surveys are officially filed in their offices.

Very respectfully,

COST OF MAPS AND PLATS

Photolithographic copies of plats of Government surveys, showing land lines and general topography in townships 6 miles square or fractions thereof, scale 2 inches to the mile, comprising the public-land States of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and the other States west of the Mississippi River, except Texas, may usually be supplied at a cost of 50 cents per copy, in accordance with the act of Congress approved June 5, 1920. Photostat copies (white lines and letters on black background) may be made at a cost of 40 cents per copy only in case photolithographic copies are not available. If certified copies of plats are desired, add 25 cents for each certificate. A single certificate may be made embracing several plats when but one township is involved.

Township plats do not show lands subject to entry; diagrams showing vacant land, if any, are furnished by the registers of the United States district land offices, where the current work of the particular office will permit, at a cost of $1. No county maps are published by the General Land Office.

In specifying township plats desired, applicants should give township and range numbers in order by ranges; the number or name of the meridian; and whether north and east, north and west, south and east, or south and west. All townships in Louisiana west of the Mississippi River are governed by the Louisiana meridian and all other are St. Helena meridian in that State.

Remit by draft, money order, registered letter, or certified personal check, payable to the order of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. If check sent by the General Land Office be returned on a new order, it should be properly indorsed.

There is a general rule requiring prepayment of charges, which does not in any way imply a doubt as to the financial integrity of applicant.

Maps of the public-land States, scale 12 miles to an inch, are sold by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., at 25 cents each, except that of California, which is printed in two sheets and costs 75 cents, and Michigan, Minnesota, and New Mexico, which cost 35 cents each.

A large wall map of the United States issued by the General Land Office, 63 by 84 inches in size, scale approximately 37 miles to an inch, is sold by the Superintendent of Documents at a cost of $2, mounted on muslin and with roller and hanger attached. This map is also delivered to Congress for free distribution.

A circular giving prices of post-route maps may be obtained from the chief disbursing clerk, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C.

Photostat copies of the field notes of the public-land surveys can be obtained from the Commissioner, General Land Office, for 15 cents per page.

MILITARY AND NAVAL SERVICE

[Reported, 46 L. D. 174]

Circular No. 564

MILITARY SERVICE BY HOMESTEADERS DURING WAR—ACT OF JULY 28, 1917 (40 STAT. 248)

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., August 22, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices:

Sirs: The act of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), provides:

> That any settler upon the public lands of the United States, or any entryman whose application has been allowed, or any person who has made application for public lands which thereafter may be allowed under the homestead laws, who, after such settlement, entry, or application, enlists or is actually engaged in the military or naval service of the United States as a private soldier, officer, seaman, marine, national guardsman, or member of any other organization for offense or defense authorized by Congress during any war in which the United States may be engaged, shall, in the administration of the homestead laws, have his services therein construed to be equivalent to all intents and purposes to residence and cultivation for the same length of time upon the tract entered or settled upon; and hereafter no contest shall be initiated on the ground of abandonment, nor allegation of abandonment sustained against any such settler, entryman, or person unless it shall be alleged in the preliminary affidavit or affidavits of contest and proved at the hearing in cases hereinafter initiated that the alleged absence from the land was not due to his employment in such military or naval service; that if he shall be discharged on account of wounds received or disability incurred in the line of duty, then the term of his enlistment shall be deducted from the required length of residence, without reference to the time of actual service: Provided, That no patent shall issue to any homestead settler who has not resided upon, improved, and cultivated his homestead for a period of at least one year.
> Sec. 2. That any settler upon the public lands of the United States, or any entryman whose application has been allowed, or any person who has made application for public lands which thereafter may be allowed under the homestead laws, who dies while actually engaged in the military or naval service of the United States, as a private soldier, officer, seaman, marine, national guardsman, or member of any other organization for offense or defense authorized by Congress during any war in which the United States may be engaged, then his widow, if unmarried, or in case of her death or marriage, his minor orphan children, or his or their legal representatives, may proceed forthwith to make final proof upon such entry or application thereafter allowed, and shall be entitled to receive Government patent for such land; and that the death of such soldier while so engaged in the service of the United States shall, in the administration of the homestead laws, be construed to be equivalent to a performance of all requirements as to residence and cultivation upon such homestead.

WHO ENTITLED TO CREDIT FOR MILITARY SERVICE

2. The present war began, as to the United States, April 6, 1917. The special privileges given by the act accrue, as to each homestead claimant, on that date if he was already in the United States service; otherwise from the time, after that date, when he enlisted or shall enlist in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or when, as a member of any other organization for offense or defense authorized by Congress, he was or shall be mustered into or engaged in the military or naval service of the United States. The benefits of the act do not extend to any persons not engaged in the service for offense or defense as set forth therein. In these instructions the word "soldier" will be used to indicate any person coming within the purview of the act.

3. The benefits of the act are conferred upon a person who, before going into the service, had actually made a homestead entry, had effected and maintained a valid settlement upon a tract properly subject to entry by him, or had filed an allowable application for the land. This last includes one who had filed a petition for designation under the enlarged homestead act or the stock-raising homestead law, accompanied by an application to enter, provided his entry be allowed pursuant to a designation made while the war lasts, and credit will be given for the service of such soldier had after the date of the designation. The act does not protect any entry from cancellation on account of defaults of the homesteader occurring before he went into the service.

PERIOD OF CREDIT ALLOWED—RESIDENCE REQUIRED

4. A soldier is entitled to credit on the residence and cultivation prescribed by the homestead law for the time of his service during the war; but one whose discharge is on account of wounds received or disability incurred in the line of duty is entitled to credit for the entire term of his enlistment, without reference to the time of actual service. However, the homesteader will be required to show at least one year's residence and cultivation in connection with his entry, regardless of the length of his service or the fact that he has been discharged on one of the grounds indicated. During each year's residence which he may be required to show he is entitled to the five months' absence privilege like other homesteaders.

RIGHTS OF WIDOW, MINOR CHILDREN, HEIRS, OR DEVISEES

5. If the soldier dies while actually engaged in the military or naval service of the United States, his widow, if unmarried, may at once submit proof on his entry, if one has been made; if there is no widow, or she has remarried, his minor children may, through their guardian, thus submit the proof; and if he leaves no widow, or the widow has remarried, and if all of his children, if any there be, are not minors, then proof may be submitted by his heirs in general or by his devisees, as the case may be.

In the event the soldier had not made entry for the land claimed, then the right to make entry therefor and submit proof accrues to the parties indicated at once or as soon as the land becomes subject to entry. In such proof it will be necessary only to prove the identity of the entryman, settler, or applicant with the soldier; that he died while actually engaged in the service, and that the person or persons submitting proof bear to him one of the relations mentioned. When the claim is based on settlement only, the facts with respect thereto must be shown, otherwise the manner and method of submitting final proof will follow the usual practice.

NO CREDIT WHERE CLAIM INITIATED AFTER ENTERING SERVICE

6. Neither this act nor any other legislation contains a provision by which a person who initiates a homestead claim, by filing application or by making settlement on public land, after entering the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or other organization in the present war, may obtain credit in connection therewith on account of his service.

CONTEST—MUST PROVE ABSENCE NOT DUE TO MILITARY SERVICE

7. No application hereafter filed to contest a homestead entry on the ground of abandonment will be allowed by you unless there is an allegation therein that the entryman's alleged absence from the land was not due to his employment in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or other organization described in the act. No allegation of abandonment will be sustained against a homestead settler in connection with a contest initiated after April 6, 1917, unless it has been proved at the hearing, if one be had, that the entryman's alleged absence from the land was not due to his employment in military or naval service as indicated.

NOTICE TO LAND DEPARTMENT OF ENTERING MILITARY SERVICE

8. While the law thus protects entrymen engaged in the military service from contests against their entries on the ground of abandonment, and it is not obligatory upon them to advise the Land Department as to their reasons for leaving their claims, it is advisable that each shall notify the local United States land office of the facts in that regard.

FINAL PROOF BY ENTRYMAN IN MILITARY SERVICE

9. The entryman, if desirous of submitting proof, may give his own testimony before any officer authorized to administer oaths and having an official seal at the place where he is then stationed, but the testimony of the witnesses must be taken within the proper county or land district, and publication and posting of notice must be duly made. It is not obligatory upon the homesteader thus to submit the proof, though the period given by law for its submission be about to expire; he will be allowed a reasonable time after his discharge for that purpose.

SETTLER ON UNSURVEYED LAND—NOTICE OF ENLISTMENT

10. Following the practice under the provisions of the act of July 3, 1916 (39 Stat. 341), any qualified person who in good faith makes settlement upon and improves unsurveyed, unreserved, unappropriated public land of the United States with intention to enter it under the homestead laws after survey thereof, who has plainly marked on the ground the exterior boundaries of the tract claimed by him, and who, as a soldier, becomes entitled to the benefits of the act of July 28, 1917, may file at the local United States land office a notice of his enlistment and that he claims the benefits of that act. A tract is regarded as unsurveyed within the meaning of the homestead laws until a survey has been accepted and the plat thereof filed.

11. You will give the current serial numbers to such notices, make due record of them on your serial-number registers, with a plain notation at the top of the page that no entry has been made, and will forward the notices with your monthly returns. You will also make note of such papers on your tract books where the description of the land is given therein by section, township, range, and legal subdivisions.

CIRCULAR NO. 506 NOT SUPERSEDED

12. These instructions do not supersede those of September 27, 1916 (Circular 506,[a] 45 L. D. 488), relating to special privileges accorded homestead settlers on account of military service rendered in connection with operations in Mexico or along the border thereof or in mobilization camps elsewhere.

EXECUTION OF AFFIDAVITS BEFORE COMMANDING OFFICER—ACT OF OCTOBER 6, 1917

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 19, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. 391), which reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That during the continuance of the present war with Germany, and until his discharge from service, any man serving in the armed forces of the United States who, prior to the beginning of his services, was a settler, an applicant, or entryman under the land laws of the United States, or who has, prior to enlistment, filed a contest with the view of exercising preference right of entry therefor, may make any affidavit required by law or regulation of the department, affecting such application, entry, or contest, or necessary to the making of entry in the case of the successful termination of such contest awarding him preference right of entry, before his commanding officer as provided in section twenty-two hundred and ninety-three of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which affidavits shall be as binding in law and with like penalties as if taken before the register of the United States land office.

2. Since the enactment of section 2293, United States Revised Statutes, an applicant for homestead entry has been permitted to execute his application before his commanding officer where it is shown that his wife or minor child is residing on the land in question. The law is not changed by the present legislation and an application may, under those circumstances, be thus executed, even though the homestead claim was not initiated, by settlement or otherwise, before the applicant's entrance into the military service. In such cases the nonmineral affidavit may be executed by the wife or by a minor child if he is of such age as to intelligently make the required oath. However, if the claim was not initiated prior to the man's enlistment no credit may be given on account of the period of his service.

3. The present act extends the privilege of executing an affidavit in connection with a claim under any of the public-land laws before the party's commanding officer only to such persons as had initiated their claims prior to enlistment. If this had not been done by the filing of an application for the land or of a contest against a pending entry therefor, and the claim is based only on an alleged settlement under the homestead laws or on possession held pursuant to the desert-land laws, he must, in the first affidavit executed by him under the provisions of this act, set forth the facts showing its initiation prior to his entrance into the service.

4. In the case of voluntary entrance of privates into the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or appointment of officers (including those appointed from the Officers' Training Corps), the enlistment mentioned in the act dates from that time; in the case of a person enlisted in the Naval Reserve, from the time he is called into active service; in the case of a drafted man, from the time he is mustered into service; in the case of members of the Federalized National Guard, from the time they are mustered into the United States service, and the act has no application to other State troops; in the case of members of the Red Cross, only from the time they actually become identified with, and a part of, the military or naval forces of the United States, and the act does not apply to other members of the Red Cross.

5. The provisions of the act cover all affidavits required to be executed by a claimant under the public land laws in connection with final proof on his claim, but the testimony of any witnesses required by law must be given in the manner and at the place indicated by general statutory provisions. The published and posted notice of intention to submit proof must name the time and place where the witnesses will testify, and must contain a statement that the claimant himself will testify before his commanding officer pursuant to the provisions of this act, but no attempt need be made to indicate the time or place where claimant's testimony will be submitted. In such cases you will wait a reasonable time for the arrival of the claimant's testimony, and if this does not come to hand you will forward to this office for consideration all papers received by you.

6. The term "commanding officer," used in the act, signifies the officer who commands the smallest unit in which the party serves. Often the matter of determining the proper officer will depend upon the circumstances of the case, but it may be mentioned, by way of illustration, that the captain of a company would primarily be regarded as such officer, where the party is serving in the fighting forces of the Army.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

PERSONS IN MILITARY SERVICE—INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS ON ENTRIES OF CEDED INDIAN LANDS—INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 20, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Where a person has entered or shall enter land formerly embraced in an Indian reservation, for which he is required to pay a certain price per acre for the benefit of the Indians, and thereafter has entered, or shall enter, the military or naval service of the United States, the entry will not be canceled on account of the failure of the soldier or sailor to make the payments of any amounts falling due during the term of his enlistment, but it will be held suspended, pending consideration by Congress of legislation designed to extend the time for such payments beyond the period of military service or the existing war.

2. The question whether such entrymen shall be required to pay interest, except as required by existing laws, will depend on the terms of the legislation which Congress may enact.

3. In cases where the entryman has filed notice of his entrance into the military or naval service as permitted by paragraph 8 of the circular of instructions of August 22, 1917, issued under the act of July 28, 1917, you will nevertheless call upon him for the payment when due, but will in your notice inform him that if he is unable to pay on account of his employment in the military service he should advise you to that effect. In all cases where there is response by him, or on his behalf, that he has entered the military or naval service, you will forward the papers to this office with your report.

MILITARY SERVICE OF DESERT-LAND ENTRYMEN DURING THE WAR WITH GERMANY—ACT OF AUGUST 7, 1917 (40 STAT 250)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 18, 1918.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Subjoined is a copy of the act of August 7, 1917 (40 Stat. 250), entitled " An act for the protection of desert-land entrymen who enter the military or naval service of the United States in time of war," the provisions of which operate to protect desert-land claims held by persons serving in the military or naval service of the United States during the present war with Germany from contest and cancellation for failure to make the required yearly expenditures, or to effect reclamation within the regular statutory period.

[2] See Circular No. 647, p. 774.

Persons entitled to credit for military service.

1. The present war with Germany began, as to the United States, April 6, 1917, and to entitle a claimant to the benefits of the act it must be established that he was, at the outbreak of the war, serving as an officer or enlisted man in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or Organized Militia of the United States, or has since entered such service.

The benefits of the act are conferred only upon any officer or enlisted man who, before entering the service, had actually made a desert-land entry, or had acquired such an entry by assignment, or had filed an allowable application to make a desert-land entry, or has acquired a preference right to unsurveyed land under the act of March 28, 1908, (35 Stat. 52). Under the provisions of the act, the claimant's rights are protected as against contest and cancellation upon the ground of failure to make the required yearly expenditures or to effect reclamation during the period of his service and for six months after its termination, and in effect operates to extend the regular statutory time provided for submitting yearly and final proofs for a period equal to the claimant's service. There is, of course, no waiver of ultimate compliance with the law's requirements of expenditure and reclamation, but, on the contrary, such compliance must be effected and proofs thereof duly submitted within the extended period of time granted by this statute, as above stated.

The act does not protect an entry on account of defaults occurring before the claimant entered the service.

Notice of muster into the service.

2. In order to avail himself of the benefits of this act, the claimant must have filed in the local land office of the district wherein the claim is situated, within six months after its passage a notice of his muster into the service and of his desire to hold the claim under its provisions; or if his muster into the service does not antedate the passage of the act, then the notice must be filed within six months after such muster. For purposes of identification and verification, the notice should set forth the date of muster into the service and the military or naval organization to which the claimant is attached, together with his service in full.

You will make a record of all notices claiming the benefits of the act and transmit them with your monthly returns.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' CIVIL RELIEF ACT (40 STAT. 440, 448)—INSTRUCTIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 16, 1918.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Section 501 of the act of March 8, 1918 (40 Stat. 440, 448), known as the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act, provides:

> That no right to any public lands initiated or acquired prior to entering military service by any person under the homestead laws, the desert-land laws, the mining-land laws, or any other laws of the United States, shall be forfeited or prejudiced by reason of his absence from such land, or of his failure to perform any work or make any improvements thereon, or to do any other act required by any such law during the period of such service. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to deprive a person in military service or his heirs or devisees of any benefits to which he or they may be entitled under the act entitled "An act for the relief of homestead entrymen or settlers who enter the military or naval service of the United States in time of war," approved July twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred and seventeen; the act entitled "An act for the protection of desert-land entrymen who enter the military or naval service of the United States in time of war," approved August seventh, nineteen hundred and seventeen; the act entitled "An act to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products," approved August tenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen; the joint resolution "To relieve the owners of mining claims who have been mustered into the military or naval service of the United States as officers or enlisted men from performing assessment work during the term of such service," approved July seventeenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen; or any other act or resolution of Congress: Provided, That nothing in this section contained shall be construed to limit or affect the right of a person in the military service to take any action during his term of service that may be authorized by law, or the regulations of the Interior Department thereunder, for the perfection, defense, or further assertion of rights initiated prior to the date of entering military service, and it shall be lawful for any person while in military service to make any affidavit or submit any proof that may be required by law, or the practice of the General Land Office in connection with the entry, perfection, defense, or further assertion of any rights initiated prior to entering military service, before the officer in immediate command and holding a commission in the branch of the service in which the party is engaged, which affidavits shall be as binding in law and with like penalties as if taken before the register of the United States land office.

You will observe that the purpose of said section is generally to enlarge, but in no respect to limit, the benefits conferred upon persons in the military or naval service in connection with public-land claims by the acts and resolution therein mentioned, or any other act or resolution of Congress. No attempt will be made to issue detailed instructions to govern the many situations which will arise under the several public-land laws and this act, though it may be said that the general purpose of the act is to relieve claimants, under the conditions stated, from the penalty of forfeiture on the ground of their failure to do any act required by the law under which their claims are made during the period of their military service. The department has already had occasion to hold that the act has effect to suspend payments by those in the military or naval service in connection with homestead entries for ceded Indian lands, and for lands within reclamation projects.

[3] See Circular No. 647, p. 774.

3. With respect to payments on homestead entries for ceded Indian lands, by the instructions of November 20, 1917 (Circular No. 574), you were advised that where a person entered land formerly embraced in an Indian reservation for which payment of a certain price per acre for the benefit of the Indians was required, and thereafter entered the military or naval service of the United States, the entry would not be canceled on account of the failure of the soldier or sailor to make payment of any amounts falling due during the term of his enlistment, but such entry would be held suspended, pending consideration by Congress of legislation designed to extend the time for such payments during the period of military service or the existing war. As said act of March 8, 1918, operates to grant such extension, no entries will be canceled upon the ground indicated until the expiration of six months after the end of the war and after the discharge of the entryman from the service, unless such discharge shall have occurred at an earlier date, in which case said six-month period will begin to run from the time of his discharge.

4. In cases where the entryman has filed notice of his entrance into the military or naval service, as permitted by paragraph 8 of the circular of instructions of August 22, 1917, issued under the act of July 28, 1917, you will nevertheless call upon him for the payment when due, but will in your notice inform him that he is entitled to the benefits of said act of March 8, 1918, and need not make such payment while in the service unless he wishes to do so. In all cases where there is response by him or on his behalf that he has entered the military or naval service you will forward the papers to this office with your report.

5. The same procedure should be followed in connection with payments required under other classes of entries.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

SOLDIERS UNDER 21 YEARS OF AGE—SPECIAL PRIVILEGES UNDER PUBLIC LAND LAWS—ACT OF AUGUST 31, 1918, AND RESOLUTION OF SEPTEMBER 13, 1918—INSTRUCTIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., October 9, 1918.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Section 8 of the act of Congress of August 31, 1918 (40 Stat. 955), reads as follows:

> Sec. 8. That any person, under the age of twenty-one, who has served or shall hereafter serve in the Army of the United States during the present > emergency, shall be entitled to the same rights under the homestead and other land and mineral entry laws, general or special, as those over twenty-one years of age now possess under said laws: Provided, That any requirements as to establishment of residence within a limited time shall be suspended as to entry by such person until six months after his discharge from military service: Provided further, That applications for entry may be verified before any officer in the United States, or any foreign country, authorized to administer oaths by the laws of the State or Territory in which the land may be situated.

The joint resolution of Congress (40 Stat. 960), approved September 13, 1918, and referring to the above provision, reads as follows:

> That no relinquishment of any public-land entry made under or by authority of section eight of the act of the Sixty-fifth Congress, second session, entitled "An act amending the act entitled 'An act to authorize the President to increase temporarily the Military Establishment of the United States,' approved May eighteenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen," shall be valid or effective for any purpose unless executed after the entryman shall have actually resided upon and cultivated the land, in the case of a homestead entry, for at least six months, and in the case of an entry made under other than the homestead laws, after the entryman shall have complied with the provisions of the applicable law for at least one year.
> Any person, firm, or corporation soliciting or dealing with the relinquishment of such claim or entry prior to the completion of compliance with the applicable law and with this resolution, and who or which solicits, demands, or receives or accepts any fee or compensation for locating, filing, or securing the claims or entries for persons entitled to the benefits of said section shall, upon conviction, be fined not to exceed $1,000 or imprisoned for not exceeding two years, or both.

2. Said section 8 of the act of August 31, 1918, confers the right of entry under any of the agricultural or mineral public-land laws upon persons under the age of 21 who have served, or shall hereafter serve, in the Army of the United States during the present war, in the same manner as they could have made entry if over that age. This right is conferred only upon persons who have been actually mustered into the service and who are under 21 years of age at the time their applications are executed.

A drafted man is regarded as serving in the Army from the time he reports for entrainment; a man in the Officers' Reserve Training Corps from the time of his admission.

This department is of the opinion that the expression "the Army of the United States," as used in section 8 of the act, includes the Navy and Marine Corps, and that construction will stand unless Congress shall otherwise direct.

3. An application for entry by a person coming within the meaning of the law may be executed at any place where he is located, whether it be in a State, Territory, or District of the United States, or in a foreign country. It may be executed before any officer whose authority to administer oaths is recognized by the laws of the State or Territory in which the land sought is situated. These laws differ, and it will not be attempted here to give a synopsis of all of them. An examination of the State laws leads to the conclusion that they all recognize affidavits executed in any part of the United States before a notary public or the clerk of a court of record, and those executed outside of this country before a notary or before any diplomatic or consular officer of the United States.

4. An applicant claiming the benefits of said section must execute an application for entry on the ordinary prescribed form; but, where he has not examined the tract sought, there should be omitted from the form so much as refers to personal examination of, or acquaintance with, the tract, and recites the applicant's knowledge as to its character (nonmineral, nonirrigable, etc.). For example, there should be stricken from an application for entry under the enlarged homestead act all that part of the form beginning with the words "that I am well acquainted with the character of the land" and ending with "it is not susceptible of successful irrigation," etc.

In such cases there must accompany the application an affidavit setting forth the facts as to the character of the land, executed by some other person who states that he is himself familiar therewith; but this will not be received as sufficient unless the affiant deposes that his statement is made at the request of the applicant; that he has not solicited, demanded, received, accepted, or been promised, nor intends to receive, a fee or compensation of any nature for his assistance in securing allowance of the claim or entry.

5. The act does not exempt an applicant from payment of the regular fee and commissions chargeable to other applicants; as to that matter, you will treat the filings like oher applications.

For the information of prospective applicants it may be stated that the fee and commissions on a 320-acre entry under the enlarged homestead act amount to $22 in most of the States, or to $34 where the lands are within the granted limits of Government-aided railroads; the amount due on a stock-raising homestead application for 640 acres is $34, or $58 under the circumstances last mentioned.

6. A person making a homestead entry under this act is entitled to the benefits of the act of Congress of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248). That act provides that a homesteader shall have his military services construed as equivalent to residence and cultivation for the same length of time upon the tract entered, and that if he be discharged on account of wounds received or disability incurred in the line of duty the entire term of his enlistment shall be thus counted; also, that no patent shall issue to any homesteader who has not resided upon, improved, and cultivated the land for at least one year, but he is entitled to the five months' absence privilege like other homesteaders during each year's residence, which he may be required to show. It provides, further, that if a homesteader dies while actually engaged in the military or naval service of the United States his widow, if unmarried, or (if she be married) his minor orphan children, or his or their legal representatives may forthwith make proof upon his entry.

A person making a desert-land entry under this act is entitled to the benefits of the act of Congress of August 7, 1917 (40 Stat. 250). Therefore, such an entry will not be subject to cancellation for failure to expend $1 per acre in improvements upon the claim, or to effect its reclamation, during the period of his service and until six months thereafter, and the time for complying with the law is extended for a period equal to that of said service. This relief is conditioned, however, upon his filing in the local land office, within six months after he is mustered into the service, a notice of his muster in and of his desire to hold the desert claim under said act.

7. The soldier will not be required to establish residence upon the land in his homestead entry until six months after his discharge from military service. No contest against the entry will lie on the ground of failure to establish residence until the expiration of that period, and the time elapsing before such discharge from the service will not be counted on the statutory life of the entry.

8. The joint resolution above set forth provides for imposition of a fine of not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment for not exceeding two years, or both, upon any person, firm, or corporation which solicits, demands, receives, or accepts any fee or compensation (whether it be in money or in other value) for locating, filing, or securing any claim or entry for any person entitled to the benefits of section 8 of the act of August 31, 1918. It is desired that if there be violations of this prohibition they be promptly brought to the attention of the General Land Office or the Chief of Field Division, to the end that immediate steps may be taken to stop such illegal practices and to bring the offenders to justice. Moreover, the attention of the soldiers is very strongly directed to the fact that any one of them who pays or promises compensation of any kind for securing an entry, even though it be merely by the grant of grazing privileges, will be conniving at the breach of a law which Congress enacted for the protection not only of the soldiers but of the general interests in the public domain. As above shown, it will frequently be necessary for some person to execute, on behalf of the applicant, an affidavit regarding the character of the land; but this must in all cases be done by a relative or by some other person who is willing to afford the service without compensation. The clear purpose of the act is to give soldiers under the age of 21 an opportunity to hold a homestead or other land claim for their own personal benefit, but not for speculation on the part either of themselves or of others.

9. The resolution provides that no relinquishment of an entry made under the act in question shall be valid unless executed after the entryman shall have resided upon and cultivated the land covered by a homestead entry for at least six months; or, as to other classes of claims, until he shall have complied with the provisions of the applicable law for at least one year. Moreover, it provides that any person, firm, or corporation soliciting or dealing with the relinquishment of such claim or entry, prior to the completion of one year's compliance with the applicable law and with the resolution, shall be subject to the punishments above mentioned. Accordingly, the registers and receivers are instructed not to make on their records any notation regarding receipt of a relinquishment of an entry made under the act of August 31, 1918, unless it shall be made to appear through the affidavit of the entryman, corroborated by those of two witnesses, that the above conditions have been complied with; and soldiers are warned not to execute relinquishments of their entries prior to the arrival of the time indicated.

In case of death of the entryman the entry will be subject to relinquishment by his widow, heirs, or devisees, as the case may be, under the following conditions:

(a) If a homestead, not until after the expiration of six months from the date of his death, if he had not established residence on the land, or at any time after the expiration of six months from the date residence was established by him.

(b) If any other class of entry, not until after the applicable law has been complied with for at least one year.

As in the case of relinquishment by the entryman, such relinquishments must be supported by affidavit, duly corroborated, establishing the material facts.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS REQUIRED IN CONNECTION WITH HOMESTEAD AND OTHER ENTRIES AFTER PERIOD OF MILITARY OR NAVAL SERVICE

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., June 9, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Payments required in connection with entries of ceded Indian lands and other entries by those in the military or naval service were suspended during the period of such service by section 501, of the act of March 8, 1918 (40 Stat. 440, 448).

No direction was given in Circular No. 600, issued under the said section 501, as to when the said suspended payments must be paid, other than the direction that—> * * * no entries will be canceled upon the ground indicated (nonpayment of sums due) until the expiration of six months after the end of the war and after the discharge of the entryman from the service unless such discharge shall have occurred at an earlier date, in which case said six-months' period will begin to run from the time of his discharge.

The period of the military or naval service should not be considered a part of the aggregate period of time originally allowed for the completion of installment payments, and the time for making such payments should be appropriately extended. Where the duration of the military or naval service is one year or less, the time of payment of each installment maturing during or after the term of the military or naval service, under the law under which the entry was made, will be extended for one year; where the military or naval service is between one and two years, the extension will be for two years; and similar extensions will be granted for longer terms of military or naval service. The payments so extended will be due upon the same day of the year as now fixed, and no interest will be charged during the period of the suspension of any payment.

As to entries in reclamation projects, see Circular No. 820, dated May 16, 1919, issued by the United States Reclamation Service.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

DISCHARGED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS—TIME TO RETURN TO HOMESTEADS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 10, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The act of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), provides that, in connection with homestead claims, initiated prior to entering the service, the military or naval service of the claimant shall be "equivalent to all intents and purposes to residence and cultivation for the same length of time upon the tract entered or settled upon." In view of this provision, the soldier may, promptly upon his discharge, file in the United States land office in which his entry was made notice of his intention to take the five months' absence allowed in each residence year (or such lesser absence as he may be entitled to in that residence year); such period to be counted as residence and a contest on the ground of abandonment will not be permitted until the expiration of six months in addition to the absence taken under such notice.

Under this ruling, where the discharge occurs 5 months or more before the end of the residence year and proper notice is given, the entry will be protected from contest for eleven months after his discharge.

The residence years referred to in this circular are computed in periods of 12 months each, dating from the soldier's enlistment or entrance into the service, or from the date he established residence upon the land if he did so prior to entering the service.

Very respectfully,

D. K. PARROTT,
Acting Assistant Commissioner

CIRCULAR NO. 745

PROOFS ON HOMESTEADS BY INCAPACITATED SOLDIERS—ACT OF MARCH 1, 1921 (41 STAT. 1202)—INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 2, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of March 1, 1921 (41 Stat. 1202), which provides:

> That any settler or entryman under the homestead laws of the United States, who, after settlement, application, or entry and prior to November 11, 1918, enlisted or was actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, who has been honorably discharged and because of physical incapacities due to service is unable to return to the land, may make proof, without further residence, improvement, or cultivation, at such time and place as may be authorized by the Secretary of the Interior, and receive patent to the land by him so entered or settled upon: Provided, That no such patent shall issue prior to the survey of the land.

2. The benefits of this act extend to persons who, prior to November 11, 1918, and during the war with Germany, were actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, regardless of the dates of their enlistments, provided they entered the service after making settlement upon the land claimed or after filing an allowable application for entry thereof.

3. If the land involved be unsurveyed, and entry be not yet allowed, the proof may nevertheless be submitted and accepted, the current serial number being given the case; but final certificate will not issue unless and until all moneys properly due shall have been paid and entry by the soldier shall have been allowed, according to an approved survey.

4. Notice of intention to submit proof must be given in the usual manner by posting and publication; and, in case of unsurveyed land, affidavit evidence must be filed, showing posting of the notice in a conspicuous place on the land.

5. The proof shall consist (a) of affidavit of the homesteader (taken before any officer at any place who is authorized to administer oaths and who uses an official seal), showing that he is unable to return to the land on account of physical incapacity due to service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, and describing the nature and extent of such disability; (b) of the testimony of two witnesses taken in similar manner corroborating the statements in that regard and of these witnesses at least one must be a practicing physician; (c) of the copy of his discharge from the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or an affidavit showing all the facts regarding his service and discharge. In each case the facts will be verified so far as possible from the records of the War Department.

Where no application for entry had been filed prior to claimant's entrance into the service and the benefits of the act are claimed on account of settlement before the beginning of his service, the proof must also include the affidavit of the soldier showing that he had resided upon the land in a habitable house before his entrance into the service, and, besides the other witnesses, there must be the testimony of two witnesses taken in the usual manner in the county or land district in which the land is situated, showing the facts as to claimant's compliance with the law before entrance into the service.

6. Where the proof appears satisfactory and entry for the land has already been allowed, the register and receiver will issue final certificate, provided the proper sums are paid. In cases where entry has not yet been allowed, all the papers will be forwarded to the General Land Office for consideration.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 750

PUBLIC RESOLUTION NO. 64, APPROVED MARCH 3, 1921—WAR TERMINATED TO CERTAIN INTENTS—INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 16, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Public resolution No. 64, approved March 3, 1921, provides that in the interpretation of any provision relating to the termination of " the present war " or of " the present or existing emergency," the date of the resolution shall be treated as the date of the termination of the war and emergency. Certain exceptions are made but these do not appear to include any public land matters.

2. Attention is invited to the following statutes affected by this legislation:

(a) The act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. 391), relating to execution of affidavits before the commanding officer of a public land claimant.

(b) The act of February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), relating to the credit accorded a soldier, sailor, or marine, in connection with a homestead claim on account of military service.

(c) [4] The act of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), giving credit for military service after initiation of a homestead entry and requiring certain allegations to be made in contest affidavits. Notwithstanding the present legislation, an affidavit of contest on the ground of abandonment must negative the fact that the homesteader is in the military service pursuant to an enlistment antedating March 3, 1921; also the fact that any part of the entryman's alleged absence from the land before that date was due to employment in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps or other organization described in the act of July 28, 1917. Proof at the hearing must cover these points.

(d) The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act of March 8, 1918 (40 Stat. 440). To all intents and purposes within the meaning of this act, the war terminated March 3, 1921; but this termination does not affect any extension of time for payment of installments of the price of land to which a person had already become entitled under rules and regulations heretofore issued.

(e) The act of August 7, 1917 (40 Stat. 250), granting further time to soldiers to fulfill requirements on desert land entries.

(f) Section 8 of the act of August 31, 1918 (40 Stat. 955), relating to entries by persons under 21 years of age, who were in the military service during the war.

(g) The farm labor leave act of December 20, 1917 (40 Stat. 430). The war ended to all intents and purposes within the meaning of this act on March 3, 1921.

Very respectfully,

AMENDMENT—DEFECTIVE CONTEST AFFIDAVITS, MILITARY SERVICE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 2, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The act of July 28, 1917, provides in part as follows:

> Hereafter, no contest shall be initiated on the ground of abandonment, nor allegation of abandonment sustained against any such settler, entryman, or person unless it shall be alleged in the preliminary affidavit or affidavits of contest and proved at the hearing in cases hereinafter initiated that the alleged absence from the land was not due to his employment in such military or naval service.

The requirement, that in all contests hereafter initiated it shall be alleged in a preliminary affidavit that the absence from the land was not due to military or naval service, is mandatory according to the holding of the department on February 17, 1921, in Carrel v. Thrall (Lewistown 040803). In view thereof you will examine carefully all affidavits of contest filed in your office and should the allegation as to military service of the contestee be not in conformity with the statute, you will call attention to that fact and permit the contest affidavit to be amended so as to cure the defect, but should such amendment not be filed within the time allowed for that purpose, you will reject same subject to the right of appeal.

If, however, another contest has been filed in the meantime, fully complying with the law, the amended affidavit must be considered as junior to the other contest.

These instructions do not modify the instructions contained in Circular 750, approved April 16, 1921.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY,
Commissioner.

Approved August 2, 1921.

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 30, APPROVED JANUARY 21, 1922, PUBLIC RESOLUTION NO. 36, AMENDING JOINT RESOLUTION OF FEBRUARY 14, 1920 (41 STAT. 434), GIVING TO DISCHARGED SOLDIERS, SAILORS, AND MARINES A PREFERRED RIGHT OF HOMESTEAD OR DESERT LAND ENTRY

CIRCULARS 678 AND 803 SUPERSEDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 1, 1922.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: House Joint Resolution No. 30, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), amended joint resolution of February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 434), to read as follows:

> That hereafter, for the period of ten years following the passage of this act, on the opening of public or Indian lands to entry, or the restoration to entry of public lands theretofore withdrawn from entry, such opening or restoration shall, in the order therefor, provide for a period of not less than ninety days before the general opening of such lands to disposal in which officers, soldiers, sailors, or marines who have served in the Army or Navy of the United States in the war with Germany and been honorably separated or discharged therefrom or placed in the Regular Army or Naval Reserve shall have a preferred right of entry under the homestead or desert land laws, if qualified thereunder, except as against prior existing valid settlement rights and as against preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation: Provided, That the rights and benefits conferred by this act shall not extend to any person who, having been drafted for service under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, shall have refused to render such service or to wear the uniform of such service of the United States. * * *

DURATION OF WAR

SEC. 1. The war began April 6, 1917, and for the purpose of House Joint Resolution No. 30 (42 Stat. 358), terminated with the adoption of Public Resolution No. 64 (41 Stat. 1359), approved March 3, 1921.

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT ON ORDERS OF RESTORATION PRIOR TO JANUARY 21, 1922

SEC. 2. Lands that had become subject to general disposition prior to January 21, 1922, will not be affected by the amendment, but where lands have been restored heretofore and the period of 63 days' preference right provided by Circulars 678 (47 L. D. 346) had not expired January 21, the preference right for the officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines will be held to extend for the period of 91 days from the beginning of the period.

DURATION OF PREFERENCE-RIGHT PERIOD

SEC. 3. Public or Indian lands opened to entry or restored from withdrawals or reservations after February 14, 1920, and prior to

[6] See Circular No. 302, p. 792.

February 15, 1930, are subject to the provisions of the public resolution. The time provided therein for filing homestead and desert land applications by those entitled to exercise the privileges conferred thereby will begin and terminate as provided hereinafter, unless otherwise directed in the order opening or restoring the lands. Where such period begins prior to February 15, 1930, it will continue for the time prescribed, even though such period extends after February 15, 1930.

PERSONS ENTITLED TO THE BENEFITS OF THE PUBLIC RESTORATION

SEC. 4. (a) The words "officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines," as employed in the public resolution, are generic terms and embrace privates, seamen, sailors, nurses, and all other persons, male or female, who by enlistment or otherwise were regularly enrolled in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States during the war with Germany, and who could not voluntarily terminate such service, but does not include civilian employees nor officers, nurses, or members of other organizations not so enrolled in the Army or Navy. Persons entitled to the foregoing privileges will be referred to hereinafter generally as soldiers.

(b) A person now in the active service of the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps is not entitled to the privileges of the public resolution unless he can show an honorable discharge or separation from a previous service in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps subsequent to April 6, 1917, and prior to March 3, 1921. Whenever such person can show an honorable discharge or separation from such service he may avail himself of the benefits of the public resolution. Persons who were honorably discharged or separated from service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps after April 6, 1917, and prior to March 3, 1921, and who by reenlistment or otherwise are now engaged in such service, may exercise the privileges conferred by the public resolution, but must, if they make entry, comply in all particulars with the applicable law and regulations.

(c) An alien soldier who served in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, during the war with Germany, and was honorably discharged, is given the status of a declarant by the act of May 9, 1918 (40 Stat. 542), and if otherwise qualified, may exercise the privileges conferred by the public resolution, and may make an original homestead entry or desert-land declaration, but must, before proving his title under either act, complete his citizenship.

(d) A minor soldier, if otherwise within the provisions of the public resolution, may, under the act approved August 31, 1918 (40 Stat. 955), make either a homestead or desert-land entry, and during his minority, or until he reaches the age of 21 years, may verify his homestead or desert-land application before any officer, at any place, authorized to administer oaths under the laws of the State within which the land applied for is situated. Among officers so recognized may be mentioned notaries public, and clerks of courts of record in this country, and consular and diplomatic officers in foreign countries. In connection, however, with public-land entries made by minor soldiers, attention is directed to the restrictive provisions attaching to such entries by public resolution approved September 13, 1918 (40 Stat. 960), and departmental instructions thereunder of October 9, 1918, circular 622 (46 L. D. 451).

QUALIFICATION OF SOLDIERS

SEC. 5. The public resolution provides that the privileges thereunder may be exercised only by those qualified to make a homestead entry or desert-land declaration. A soldier who at date of application is the owner of more than 160 acres of land in any State or Territory of the United States can not make an original homestead entry. The ownership of land is no bar to making a desert-land declaration, but the soldier at the time of filing such declaration must be a resident of the State in which the land is situated. If the soldier at the time his application is filed is not the owner of more than 160 acres of land in any State or Territory, has not made homestead entry or desert-land declaration, nor taken by assignment a desert-land entry, nor acquired agricultural lands from the Government, he may make either an original homestead entry or desert-land declaration, or both, within the limitations fixed by law, if the land applied for is subject to the entry sought. If he has made a homestead or desert-land entry, or has acquired from the Government title to agricultural lands, he should, before filing his application, consult Suggestions to Homesteaders, Circular No. 541, and Statutes and Regulations Governing Entries Under the Desert Land Laws, Circular No. 474, both of which may be obtained by request from the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

SHOWING REQUIRED TO ENTITLE THE SOLDIER TO THE PREFERENCE PROVIDED

SEC. 6. The soldier must show his qualifications to make the entry sought, and in addition thereto, either as a part of his application or by an accompanying statement sworn to before an officer qualified to verify homestead or desert-land applications, that he served in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps on or after April 6, 1917, and prior to March 3, 1921; the approximate period of such service; the unit or units in which such service was performed; that he was honorably separated or discharged from such service or placed in the Regular Army or Navy Reserve, and the date thereof, and that he did not refuse to perform such service or wear the uniform thereof. He should attach to his application a copy of his honorable discharge or separation, or the order placing him in the Regular Army or Navy Reserve, as the case may be, certified as correct by an officer having and using a seal, but he will not be required to file the original order of discharge or transfer. If he has lost his discharge, or is otherwise unable to secure a copy thereof, he must in a verified statement explain fully why such copy was not furnished. A minor soldier must show, in addition to the above, that he was under 21 years of age at the date of the execution of his application.

SOLDIER'S DECLARATORY STATEMENT NOT EFFECTIVE—ENTRY MUST BE MADE

SEC. 7. Rights extended by the public resolution can not be supported by soldier's declaratory statement under the homestead law, but must be exercised through an application to make homestead entry.

EXECUTION AND PRESENTATION OF APPLICATIONS

SEC. 8. To avail himself of the privileges conferred by the public resolution, the soldier, unless he be a minor, must, if not within, go to the land district in which the land is situated, and he should personally examine the land applied for. He must execute his application, whether it be under the homestead or desert-land laws, before either the register or receiver of the local land office, or before a United States commissioner, or a judge or clerk of a court of record in the county in which the land is located, or before one of such officers in the land district and nearest or most accessible to the land. When so executed, the application may be presented to the land office in person, by mail, or otherwise. A minor soldier may execute his application in the manner provided in paragraph (d), section 4, hereof.

SOLDIER MUST MAKE ENTRY UNDER THE LAW APPLICABLE

SEC. 9. Where under the law or order of restoration issued pursuant to the provisions of the act of September 30, 1913 (38 Stat. 113), the lands are restored to entry only under the provisions of either the homestead law or the desert-land law, applications by soldiers must be restricted to the applicable law, but where under the law or order of restoration entries may be made under either or both of such laws for lands properly subject thereto, a soldier may file an application under the homestead law and one under the desert-land law, if he does not by such application include more land than he may lawfully acquire under the agricultural laws, provided he is qualified to make the entry sought, and the lands embraced in such applications are lawfully subject thereto, but he will not be permitted to file under both acts for the same tract.

PAYMENTS

SEC. 10. The soldier must make the payments required of other persons under the law, pursuant to which his application is filed or entry is made.

COMPLIANCE WITH LAW AFTER ENTRY

SEC. 11. The soldier must comply with the provisions of the desert-land law in the same manner and make the expenditures on the land and the payments required of other entrymen under that law. Where entry is made under the homestead law, the soldier may, under the provisions of the act approved February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), extending the provisions of section 2305, Revised Statutes, to service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, in connection with the operations on the Mexican border, or in the war with Germany, receive credit for such service, not exceeding two years, in proving his claim. He must establish residence within the time and during at least the first year of his entry reside on the land and otherwise comply with the law in the manner required of other persons. He may at any time after the first year of his entry submit his proof, when he can show that the period of his compliance with the law after establishing residence and his military service equal 36 months. In applying credit for military service under the general or enlarged provisions of the homestead law, the following rule will be observed:

A soldier with 19 months or more military service will be required to reside on the land at least 7 months during the first entry year; with more than 12 and less than 19 months, he must reside on the land 7 months during the first year and such part of the second year as, added to his excess over 12 months' service, will equal 7 months, and must cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year; with 7 and not more than 12 months, he must reside upon the land 7 months during each of the first and second years, and cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year; with 90 days and less than 7 months, he must reside upon the land 7 months during each year for the first and second years, and such part of the third year as, added to his service, will equal 7 months, and cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year and one-eighth the third year; and with less than 90 days' service, will receive no credit therefor in lieu of residence and cultivation. If he delays the submission of proof beyond the period of residence required, the cultivation necessary for the years elapsing before the submission of proof must be shown. He may apply for and receive a reduction in the area to be cultivated, in the same manner and under the conditions required of other applicants. Where the entry is made under the stock-raising provisions of the homestead law, the above rule with respect to residence will be applicable, but the soldier must make the improvements on the land required of other persons under that law, and show that he actually used the land for raising stock and forage crops during the period that he was required to reside on the land. He must show, in any entry under the homestead laws, that he had a habitable house on the land at the date of submitting proof.

LANDS AFFECTED BY THE PUBLIC RESOLUTION

SEC. 12. The public resolution affects only lands that may be entered under the homestead or desert land acts, and does not extend the provisions of either of said laws to areas not otherwise subject thereto. It applies in all cases where such lands become subject to entry, (a) by the filing of township plats of survey or resurvey, or (b) where Indian lands are opened to entry, or (c) where public lands are restored from withdrawals or reservation, or (d) where lands are embraced in relinquishments which do not become effective upon being filed in the proper local land office, but upon which action by the commissioner or Secretary is necessary before the lands affected are restored to disposition, or (e) where titles are recovered through actions in the courts. It does not apply to lands that were open to entry on the date of its approval, nor to lands embraced in entries canceled by contests, or by reason of expiration of the statutory period, nor to lands embraced in entries or selections where under the law such lands become subject to entry upon the filing of proper relinquishments thereof in the local land office. Where, however, entries made under the provisions of the public resolution are relinquished before the expiration of the preference-right period accorded to soldiers, the lands affected thereby may be entered only by soldiers during such preference-right period.

CLASSES OF HOMESTEAD AND DESERT-LAND ENTRIES ALLOWABLE

SEC. 13. The public resolution applies to all classes of homestead entries, whether under the 160, 320, or 640 acre provisions, and homestead and desert-land entries whether the entire estate is sought or whether the minerals are reserved to the United States. A soldier's homestead application under the enlarged, the stock raising, or other special provisions of the law, will be governed by the regulations applicable thereto, and if by drawing, in case of simultaneous applications, or by time of filing such application is accorded priority, it will be disposed of accordingly.

UNSURVEYED LANDS

SEC. 14. The public resolution will not prevent settlement on unsurveyed lands otherwise subject thereto prior to the filing of the township plat of survey, and where settlements are so made by qualified persons and maintained in the manner required by law, the rights secured thereby will not be subordinated, upon the restoration of the lands, to preferences asserted under the public resolution, but, from the date of the filing of the township plat of survey and until the preference period provided for soldiers has expired, settlements on the lands affected will confer no rights whatsoever.

RIGHTS THAT MAY DEFEAT THE SOLDIER'S APPLICATION

SEC. 15. The rights conferred by the public resolution are subject to existing valid settlement rights and preference rights under existing laws, or equitable claims that are subject to allowance and confirmation. Without attempting to enumerate all the valid claims and existing preference rights that might defeat a soldier's application, the following may be mentioned:

(a) Settlement made by a qualified person at a time when the land was lawfully subject thereto, and maintained in the manner required by law to date of such application. The soldier may avoid conflict with such settlers' claims by carefully examining the land before filing his application.

(b) The preference rights granted under the provisions of the act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 394), to the States of Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, and to Utah upon its admission into the Union, and subsequently extended to the States of New Mexico and Arizona by sections 11 and 29 of the enabling act of June 20, 1910 (36 Stat. 565, 575). Where the States mentioned applied for the survey of public lands within their respective limits, and complied with the requirements of said act, the preference rights accorded by said act, if exercised within the 60 days provided, will defeat a soldier's application. The period within which the State must apply in order to protect its preference will begin with the date of the order of restoration of lands withdrawn or in reservation, and surveyed during the time of withdrawal or reservation, and from the date of the filing of the township plat of survey, where the lands were not so withdrawn or reserved.

(d) The act of June 11, 1906 (34 Stat. 233). Lands restored under the provisions of the said act of June 11, 1906, are, under the terms of such act, subject to preference rights as follows:

(1) For a period of 60 days by settlers prior to January 1, 1906, who shall not have abandoned such settlement prior to application;

(2) For a like period by persons, if qualified to make homestead entry, upon whose applications the lands were examined and listed.

The foregoing preferences are granted in the order named, and the 60-day period begins on the date the list and order of restoration reach the local land office.

(e) Preference rights extended certain Carey Act entrymen under the act approved February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 407). The rights granted settlers under the provisions of the act of February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 407), are not absolute, but are conditioned upon the recognition of such rights by the Secretary of the Interior in the order restoring such lands to the public domain. Where the order restoring Carey Act lands does not recognize the preference rights of settlers, nor provide for the exercise thereof, soldiers' applications will be governed by paragraph (a), section 16 hereof.

ORDER APPLICABLE TO LANDS OPENED OR RESTORED SUBJECT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE PUBLIC RESOLUTION

SEC. 16. It is ordered and directed that hereafter, and until February 15, 1930, when any surveyed lands within the provisions of the public resolution are opened or restored to disposition under the authority of the department, such lands, unless otherwise provided in the order of restoration, shall become subject to appropriation under the laws applicable thereto in the following manner, and not otherwise:

(a) Lands not affected by the preference rights conferred by the acts of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 394), or June 11, 1906 (34 Stat. 233), or February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 407), will be subject to entry by soldiers under the homestead and desert land laws, where both of said laws are applicable, or under the homestead law only, as the case may be, for a period of 91 days, beginning with the date of the filing of the township plat, in case of survey or resurvey, and with the sixty-third day from and after the order of restoration, in all other cases, and thereafter to disposition under all of the public land laws applicable thereto. For the period of 20 days prior to the restoration or opening of such lands to soldiers' entry, and for a like period prior to the date such lands become subject to entry generally, soldiers in the first instance, and any qualified applicants in the second, may execute and file their applications, and all such applications presented within such 20-day periods, together with those offered at 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, on the dates such lands become subject to appropriation under such applications shall be treated as filed simultaneously.

(b) Where the lands are subject to the preference rights conferred by the acts of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 394), or June 11, 1906 (34 Stat. 233), and where in the order restoring Carey Act lands preference rights of settlers are recognized under the provisions of the act approved February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 407), the lands not appropriated under such dominant preference rights will become subject to entry by soldiers under the provisions of both the homestead and desert land laws, or the homestead laws only, at 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, on the first office day after the termination of such preference-right periods, and to entry under all the applicable public land laws at 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, on the ninety-first day from and after such first office day. Soldiers' applications may be filed at any time during such preference-right periods, and will be held subject to such superior preference rights. If the controlling preference right be exercised within the time prescribed, applications of soldiers in conflict therewith will be rejected. If such preference rights be not so exercised, the applications by soldiers filed during such preference-right periods, together with those filed at 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, on the first office day following the termination of such periods, will be treated as filed simultaneously.

DISPOSITION OF APPLICATIONS

SEC. 17. (a) Applications treated as filed simultaneously will be rejected where they conflict with superior claims; otherwise they will be disposed of in the manner required by circular 324, approved May 22, 1914 (43 L. D. 254).

(b) Soldiers' applications and those of other qualified persons filed after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, on the dates the lands become subject to such applications, will be disposed of in the order filed.

RESTORATION OF LANDS TO GENERAL DISPOSITION

SEC. 18. (a) While the special privileges extended by the public resolution may be exercised by soldiers of the war with Germany only, when the lands shall have been restored to disposition generally, under the applicable public land laws, soldiers of any war may proceed on terms of equality with other qualified persons. Those who served for 90 days or more in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the Civil War, Spanish-American War, or Philippine Insurrection, and were honorably discharged, may initiate claims under the homestead law by filing declaratory statements, either in person or by agent. Those who served in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps for 90 days or more in connection with the operations on the Mexican border or during the war with Germany, and were honorably discharged, may file declaratory statements in person, but not by agent. The soldiers who make entry after restoration of the land to general disposition may apply such military service in lieu of residence in proving claims under the homestead laws, to the extent indicated in section 11 hereof.

(b) Where the lands are affected by the provisions of the act of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat. 592), the applications of soldiers and other persons will be held subject to the rights of the State for a period of 60 days from and including the date of such general restoration.

Very respectfully,

Circular No. 830

PROOFS UPON RECLAMATION HOMESTEAD ENTRIES AND DESERT-LAND ENTRIES SUBJECT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE RECLAMATION ACT BY INCAPACITATED SOLDIERS—ACT OF APRIL 7, 1922 (42 STAT. 492)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 29, 1922.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is called to the amendatory act of April 7, 1922 (42 Stat. 492), which provides:

> That the act approved March 1, 1921 (Forty-first Statutes, page 1202), be amended to read as follows: "That any bona fide settler, applicant, or entryman under the homestead laws of the United States, or any desert-land entryman whose entry is subject to the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902 (Thirty-second Statutes, page 388), who, after settlement, application, or entry, and prior to November 11, 1918, enlisted or was actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, who has been honorably discharged and because of physical incapacities due to the service is unable to return to the land, may make final proof, without further residence, improvement, cultivation, or reclamation, at such time and place as may be authorized by the Secretary of the Interior, and receive patent to the land by him so entered or settled upon, subject to the provisions of the act or acts under which such settlement or entry was made: Provided, That no such patent shall issue prior to the conformation of the entry to a single farm unit, as required by the act of August 13, 1914 (Thirty-eighth Statutes, page 686): And provided further, That this act shall not be construed to exempt or relieve such applicant or entryman from payment of any lawful fees, commissions, purchase moneys, water charges, or other sums due to the United States, or its successors in control of the reclamation project, in connection with such lands."

2. This amendatory act relates to lands in Federal reclamation projects lawfully subject to homestead entry or for which homestead or desert land entry has been allowed, and the benefits of this act extend to persons who prior to November 11, 1918, and during the war with Germany were actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, regardless of the dates of their enlistments, provided they entered the service after making settlement upon the land claimed or after filing an allowable application for homestead entry thereof, or after making a homestead or desert land entry for surveyed lands, and who having been honorably discharged are unable to accomplish reclamation of the land on account of physical disabilities due to such service, provided, however, that in the case of a homestead entry the entry be conformed to a single farm unit.

3. Notice of intention to submit proof must be given in the usual manner by posting and publication. The proof shall consist (a) of affidavit of claimant (taken before any officer, at any place, who is authorized to administer oaths and who uses an official seal) showing that he is unable to return to the land on account of physical incapacity due to service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, and describing the nature and extent of such disability; (b) of the testimony of two witnesses taken in similar manner corroborating the statements in that regard, and of these witnesses at least one must be a practicing physician; (c) of a certified copy of claimant's discharge from the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or an affidavit showing all the facts regarding his service and discharge, in which latter case the facts will be verified so far as possible from the records of the War Department; and (d) claimant's sworn statement, corroborated by two persons having personal knowledge of the facts, and whose testimony must be taken in the county or land district in which the land is situated, setting forth in detail the date when he settled on the land (if a homestead entry) and what acts he performed thereon touching the matter of residence, improvement, and reclamation up to the time of his entering the Military Establishment.

4. Where no application for homestead entry had been filed prior to claimant's entrance into the service, and the benefits of the act are claimed on account of settlement before the beginning of his service, the proof must also include the affidavit of the soldier showing that he had resided upon the land in a habitable house before his entrance into the service, and the testimony of two witnesses showing the facts as to claimant's compliance with the law before entrance into the service, the testimony of these witnesses to be taken in the usual manner in the county or land district in which the land is situated.

5. Where entry for the land has been allowed and the final proof appears satisfactory, and also shows payment of all reclamation moneys which are due to the time of submission of such final proof, you will, in the absence of other objection, issue final certificate, subject to the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and also subject to lien under the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), for the payment of all sums due or to become due to the United States or its successors in control of the irrigation project in connection with such lands and water right. In cases of claims based upon settlement only and where no application has been filed prior to claimant's entering the military service, or where application has been filed but entry not yet allowed, or protest is filed, you will forward all the papers to the General Land Office for consideration.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 949

CONTESTS AGAINST HOMESTEAD ENTRIES ON THE CHARGE OF ABANDONMENT—CIRCULAR NO. 815 REVOKED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 11, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Pursuant to a recent departmental ruling, Circular No. 815 of March 22, 1922 (48 L. D. 594), is hereby revoked, and you will be governed by the following:

In view of the provisions of section 1 of the act of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), you will not entertain a contest against a homestead entry on the charge of abandonment unless the affidavit of contest contains an allegation to the effect that the absence of entryman was not due to military or naval service, provided the entry was made prior to the termination of the war with Germany (fixed as March 3, 1921, by Public Resolution No. 64, 41 Stat. 1359) or was based on an application filed prior to that date, or in which the claimant has filed a showing of settlement prior thereto.

As to entries made, or applications filed, or settlements initiated since March 3, 1921, the act of 1917 has no application, and in such cases it is unnecessary to allege or prove that the absence of entryman was not due to military or naval service.

Where the averment required by the act of 1917 is necessarily made, and the contestee in his answer joins issue on the allegation, it will be necessary for the contestant to submit evidence in support thereof; otherwise the averment will be treated as established by the affidavits of the witnesses who corroborated the contest affidavit. Likewise, in those cases in which the contestee fails to answer after due service of notice of the contest, the averment of nonmilitary service will be treated as established by the affidavits of the corroborating witnesses.

The provisions of paragraph (c) of Circular No. 750 (48 L. D. 78), are modified to agree with the foregoing.

Circular No. 805 (Revised)

PROOFS UPON CLAIMS INITIATED UNDER THE DESERT-LAND LAWS BY INCAPACITATED SOLDIERS—ACT OF DECEMBER 15, 1921 (42 STAT. 348)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., November 21, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: The act of December 15, 1921 (42 Stat. 348), amends the act of March 1, 1921 (41 Stat. 1202), by adding the following section:

> Sec. 2. That any entryman under the desert-land laws, or any person entitled to preference right of entry under section 1 of the act approved March 28, 1908 (Thirty-fifth Statutes at Large, page 52), who after application or entry for surveyed lands or legal initiation of claim for unsurveyed lands, and prior to November 11, 1918, enlisted or was actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, who has been honorably discharged and because of physical incapacities due to service is unable to accomplish reclamation of and payment for the land, may make proof without further reclamation thereof or payments thereon under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and receive patent for the land by him so entered or claimed, if found entitled thereto: Provided, That no such patent shall issue prior to the survey of the land.

The purpose of the amendment is to relieve from further compliance with the requirements of the desert-land law those persons physically incapacitated, as set forth therein, except as to submission of specified proofs.

2. The benefits of this amendment extend to persons who, prior to November 11, 1918, and during the war with Germany, were actually engaged in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, regardless of the date of their enlistment, provided they entered the service after having filed an effective desert-land application or made a desert-land entry for surveyed lands, or acquired a preference right to make entry under the desert-land laws of unsurveyed land, or taken a desert-land entry by assignment, and who, having been honorably discharged, are unable to accomplish reclamation of and make payment for the land on account of physical disabilities due to such service.

3. If the land is unsurveyed and entry is not yet allowable, a claimant having a preference right of entry should file his application therefor on Form 4–274, accompanied by his sworn statement, corroborated by two persons having personal knowledge of the facts, setting forth in detail the date when he took possession of the land and what acts he performed thereon touching the matter of its reclamation and improvement. You will assign to the application the current serial number. Final proof may be submitted and accepted, but the final certificate will not issue until entry shall have been lawfully allowed, and adjustment to legal subdivisions made according to an approved survey.

4. Notice of intention to submit proof must be given in the usual manner by posting and publication; and in case of unsurveyed land, the notice of intention to submit proof must be posted thereon in a conspicuous place, and affidavit evidence must be filed showing such posting.

5. The proof shall consist (a) of affidavit of the claimant (taken before any officer at any place who is authorized to administer oaths and who uses an impression seal) showing that he is unable to return to the land on account of physical incapacity due to service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, and describing the nature and extent of such disability; (b) of the testimony of two witnesses taken in similar manner corroborating the statements in that regard and of these witnesses at least one must be a practicing physician; (c) of a certified copy of his discharge from the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or an affidavit showing all the facts regarding his service and discharge. In each case the facts will be verified so far as possible from the records of the War Department.

6. No payment of moneys will be required in connection with any application made, or proofs offered, other than testimony fees, when the testimony is taken before the register or receiver.

7. Where the proof appears satisfactory, and entry for the land has already been allowed, the register will issue the final certificate if there is no objection disclosed by the records. In cases where entry has not yet been allowed, all the papers will be forwarded to the General Land Office for consideration.

Very respectfully,

TRANSMITTING REGULATIONS IN RE: RELINQUISHMENTS UNDER ACT FEBRUARY 21, 1925 (43 STAT. 956)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 9, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: There is inclosed a copy of the regulations approved April 17, 1925,[7] by the Acting Secretary of the Interior under the act of February 21, 1925 (43 Stat. 956), providing for refunds by the Bureau of Reclamation to veterans of the World War of construction charges paid by them under Federal irrigation projects. Your attention is called to the fact that the act applies to reclamation homestead entries made since April 6, 1917, which were either canceled or relinquished at the date of the act, or are relinquished within one year from the date of the act and prior to the issuance of the final certificate. Where the entry was canceled or relinquished prior to the date of the act it matters not whether a final certificate had issued, but no refund is authorized where final certificate has issued since the passage of the act. The regulations state that if refund is allowed by the Bureau of Reclamation, the relinquishment will be transmitted by that bureau to this office. Thereupon, this office will notify you in order that the appropriate notations may be made upon the records.

[7] These regulations have been omitted from this publication.

Very respectfully,

Thos C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner.

Circular No. 302

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' HOMESTEAD RIGHTS

[Reprint and revision of regulations of May 26, 1922 (49 L. D. 118)]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., January 21, 1929.

1. Any officer, soldier, seaman, or marine who served for not less than 90 days in the Army or Navy of the United States during the Civil War and who was honorably discharged and has remained loyal to the Government, and who makes a homestead entry, is entitled under section 2305 of the Revised Statutes and the act of June 6, 1912 (37 Stat. 123), to have the term of his service in the Army or Navy, not exceeding two years, deducted from the three years' residence required under the homestead laws.

Similar provisions are made in the acts of June 16, 1898 (30 Stat. 473), and March 1, 1901 (31 Stat. 847), for the benefit of like persons who served in the war with Spain, or during the suppression of the insurrection in the Philippines. The act of February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), as amended by act of April 6, 1922 (42 Stat. 491), makes similar provisions for the benefit of like persons who rendered military or naval service in connection with the Mexican border operations or during the late war with Germany.

2. A soldier or sailor of the classes above mentioned who makes entry as such must begin his residence and cultivation of the land entered by him within six months from the date of filing his declaratory statement, but if he makes entry without filing a declaratory statement he must begin his residence within six months after the date of the entry. Thereafter he must continue both residence and cultivation for such period as will, when added to the time of his military or naval service (under enlistment or enlistments covering war periods), amount to three years; but if he was discharged on account of wounds or disabilities incurred in the line of duty, or honorably discharged but subsequently awarded compensation by the Government for wounds received or disabilities incurred in line of duty in accordance with the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. 398–405), as amended by the act of August 9, 1921 (42 Stat. 147–153), credit for the whole term of his enlistment may be allowed, notwithstanding he may not have served 90 days. However, no patent will issue to such soldier or sailor until there has been residence by him for at least one year.

A soldier with 19 months' or more military service will be required to reside on the land at least 7 months during the first entry year; with more than 12 and less than 19 months, he must reside on the land 7 months during the first year and such part of the second year as, added to his excess over 12 months' service, will equal 7 months, and must cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year; with 7 and not more than 12 months, he must reside upon the land 7 months during each of the first and second years, and cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year; with 90 days and less than 7 months he must reside upon the land 7 months during each year for the first and second years, and such part of the third year as, added to his service, will equal 7 months, and cultivate one-sixteenth of the area the second year and one-eighth the third year; and with less than 90 days' service, will receive no credit therefor in lieu of residence and cultivation unless he was discharged for disabilities or wounds received in line of duty, in which event he would be given credit for the term of his enlistment, not, however, for more than two years. If he delays the submission of proof beyond the period of residence required, the cultivation necessary for the years elapsing before the submission of proof must be shown. He may apply for and receive a reduction in the area to be cultivated, in the same manner and under the conditions required of other applicants. Where the entry is made under the stock-raising provisions of the homestead law, the above rule with respect to residence will be applicable, but the soldier must make the improvements on the land required of other persons under that law, and show in lieu of cultivation that he actually used the land for raising stock and forage crops during the period that he was required to reside on the land. He must show, in any entry under the homestead laws, that he had a habitable house on the land at the date of submitting proof.

3. No credit for military service can be allowed where commutation proof is submitted.

4. A party claiming the benefit of his military service must file with the register a certified copy of his certificate of discharge, showing when he enlisted, when he was discharged, and the organization in which he served, or the affidavit of two reputable, disinterested witnesses, corroborative of the allegations contained in his affidavit on these points, or if neither can be procured his own affidavit to that effect.

PERIODS OF SERVICE FOR WHICH CREDIT MAY BE GIVEN IN LIEU OF RESIDENCE

5. In determining the rights of parties under sections 2304–2309 of the Revised Statutes the Civil War is held to have lasted from April 15, 1861, to August 20, 1866; the Spanish war and Philippine insurrection from April 21, 1898, to July 15, 1903. The operations in Mexico or along the borders thereof began May 9, 1916, and continued until the beginning of the war with Germany, April 6, 1917, which was officially terminated March 3, 1921, by Public Resolution No. 64 of that date.

No credit for military service can be given unless the soldier or sailor served for at least 90 days between the dates above mentioned, unless discharged for disabilities or wounds received in line of duty or died while in the service.

In computing the period of service of a soldier "who has served in the Army of the United States," within the meaning of that phrase as used in section 2304 of the Revised Statutes, the entrance of the soldier into the Army will be considered as dating from the time of voluntary entrance of privates into the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or appointment of officers (including those appointed from the Officers' Training Corps); in the case of a person enlisted in the Naval Reserve, from the time he was called into active service; in the case of a drafted man, from the time he was mustered into the service; in the case of members of the Federalized National Guard, from the time they were mustered into the United States service.

An entryman having enlisted and served 90 days during any one of the wars above mentioned is entitled under section 2305 of the Revised Statutes as amended to credit for the full term of his service under that enlistment, although such term did not expire until after the war ceased.

The period of service for which credit may be claimed under section 2305, Revised Statutes, upon the submission of proof by a member of the Naval Reserve Force or of the Federalized National Guard, who was called into active service during the Mexican border operations or during the war with Germany, terminates upon the date of his discharge, and not upon the date that he was ordered to inactive duty.

6. A person who served for less than 90 days in the Army or Navy of the United States during said wars is not entitled to have credit for military service on the required period of residence upon his homestead, unless he was discharged because of disabilities incurred in line of duty in which event he is entitled to have deducted the whole term of his enlistment without reference to the length of time he may have served, but no patent shall issue unless the residence and other requirements have been fulfilled for a period of at least one year.

7. A person serving in the Army or Navy of the United States may make a homestead entry if some member of his family is residing upon the land applied for, and the application and accompanying affidavits may be executed before the officer commanding the branch of the service in which he is engaged. The soldier's family in this connection is restricted to his wife and minor children. Such soldier or sailor is not required to reside personally upon the land, but may receive patent if his family maintain the necessary residence and cultivation until the entry is three years old or until it has been commuted. If the soldier has had war service he may claim credit therefor under the three-year homestead law.

8. A soldier is entitled to the same credit for military service in connection with homestead entries under the enlarged homestead act of February 19, 1909 (35 Stat. 639), and its amendments, and the stock raising act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), and its amendments, as is allowed in connection with ordinary homestead entries, but the improvement required by the stock raising act must be placed upon the land as prescribed by the act.

9. The special privileges accorded soldiers or sailors, as above indicated, are not subject to sale or transfer, and can only be exercised by the soldier or sailor himself; but the unmarried widow of a soldier or sailor of the Mexican border operations or of the war with Germany, or the unmarried widow or minor orphan children of a veteran of the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, or the Philippine insurrection, is entitled to the same privileges, under the homestead laws, as the deceased soldier or sailor if he died possessed of a homestead right. The adult child of a soldier has no special privileges in connection with the homestead laws on account of his father's military service.

HOMESTEAD RIGHTS OF WIDOWS AND MINOR ORPHAN CHILDREN OF DECEASED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

10. (a) If a soldier or sailor makes an entry or files a declaratory statement, and dies before perfecting the same, the right to perfect the claim, including the right to claim credit for the soldier's military service, passes to the persons named in section 2291, Revised Statutes; that is, to his widow, or, if there be no widow, to his heirs or devisees.

(b) In case of the death of a veteran of the Civil War, the Spanish War, or the Philippine insurrection, who would be entitled to a homestead under the provisions of section 2304 of the Revised Statutes, but who died prior to the initiation of a claim thereunder, his widow, or in case of her death or remarriage, his minor orphan children, by a guardian, duly appointed and officially accredited at the Department of the Interior, may make the filing and entry in the same manner that the soldier or sailor might have done, subject to all the provisions of the homestead laws in respect to settlement and improvements; and the whole term of service, or in case of death during the term of enlistment, the entire period of enlistment in the military or naval service will be deducted from the time otherwise required to perfect the title to the same extent as might have been allowed the soldier. (Sec. 2307, Rev. Stat.)

Where a homestead entry is made under section 2307, Revised Statutes, by the widow or minor orphan children of a deceased soldier or sailor of the Civil War, the Spanish War, or the Philippine insurrection, compliance with law both as to residence and improvements is required to be shown to the same extent as would have been required of the soldier or sailor in making entry under section 2304, Revised Statutes, except that credit will be given upon the three-year period for the entire term of the enlistment, not exceeding two years, where the soldier or sailor died during the term of his enlistment.

(c) In case of widows the prescribed evidence of military service of the husband must be furnished with affidavit of widowhood, giving the date of her husband's death.

In case of minor orphan children, in addition to the prescribed evidence of military service of the father, proof of death or remarriage of the mother must be furnished. Evidence of death may be the testimony of two witnesses or a physician's certificate, duly attested. Evidence of marriage may be certified copy of marriage certificate, or of record of same, or testimony of two witnesses to the marriage ceremony.

Minor orphan children must make a joint entry through their duly appointed guardian, who must file certified copies of the powers of guardianship, which must be transmitted to the General Land Office by the register.

(d) In the case of the death of any person who would be entitled to a homestead under the provisions of the act of February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), because of service in the war with Germany or during the Mexican border operations, but who died prior to having initiated a claim thereunder, pursuant to the provisions of the act of September 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 990), his widow, if unmarried and otherwise qualified, may make entry of public lands under the provisions of the homestead laws of the United States and shall be entitled to all the benefits enumerated in the said act of February 25, 1919, subject to the provisions and requirements as to settlement, residence, and improvements contained in the said act. In such case, the whole term of service will be deducted from the time otherwise required to perfect title to the same extent as may have been allowed the soldier.

Where a homestead entry is made under the act of September 21, 1922, by the widow of a deceased soldier or sailor of the war with Germany or the Mexican border operations, compliance with law, both as to residence and improvements, is required to be shown to the same extent as would have been required of the soldier or sailor in making entry under the act of February 25, 1919.

In the case of such entry, the widow must furnish the prescribed evidence of military service of the husband, with affidavit of widowhood, giving the date of her husband's death, and that she is still unmarried.

Where the widow of a deceased soldier or sailor makes entry pursuant to the act of September 21, 1922, and dies prior to perfection of title, leaving only a minor child or children, patent shall issue to the said minor child or children, upon proof of her death and of the minority of the child or children, without further showing of compliance with the law. The proof may consist merely of affidavits setting forth the facts and duly corroborated. The usual publication and posting of notice of intention to make proof is required in such case.

If the widow of a deceased soldier or sailor makes and perfects the entry pursuant to the foregoing, the final certificate will issue to her, by name, as widow of the deceased soldier or sailor. If the entry is made by the widow and perfected by the minor orphan children as above set forth, the final certificate will issue to such child or children, by name, as minor orphan child or children of (giving the name of the widow), widow of (name of deceased soldier or sailor).

11. All homestead applicants who are not native-born citizens of the United States must have declared their intention to become citizens of this country, and before submitting proof must be fully naturalized.

SOLDIERS' DECLARATORY STATEMENTS

12. (a) Soldiers' and sailors' declaratory statements may be filed in the land office for the district in which the lands desired are located by any person entitled to the benefit of sections 2304 and 2307, Revised Statutes, as explained above. Veterans of the Civil War, the Spanish War, or the Philippine insurrection may file declaratory statements of this character, either in person or through an agent acting under power of attorney, but the entry must be made in person, and not through an agent, within six months from the filing of the declaratory statement, and residence must also be established within that time. Veterans of the World War may file such declaratory statements in person, but not through agent.

The party entitled to file a declaratory statement may make entry in person without filing a declaratory statement if he so desires.

The soldier's declaratory statement, if filed in person, must be accompanied by the prescribed evidence of military service and the oath of the person filing the same, stating his residence and post-office address, and setting forth that the claim is made for his exclusive use and benefit for the purpose of actual settlement and cultivation, and not, either directly or indirectly, for the use or benefit of any other person; that he has not heretofore made a homestead entry or filed a declaratory statement under the homestead law (or if he has done so, he must show his qualifications to make a second or additional homestead entry); that he is not the proprietor of more than 160 acres of land in any State or Territory; and that since August 30, 1890, he has not entered or acquired title under the agricultural land laws of the United States, nor is he now claiming under said laws a quantity of land which with the tracts applied for would make more than 320 acres, or, in the case of a claim under the enlarged homestead laws, 480 acres, or in case of a claim under the stock-raising laws, 800 acres.

(b) In case of filing a soldier's declaratory statement by agent, the oath must further declare the name and authority of the agent and the date of the power of attorney or other instrument creating the agency, adding that the name of the agent was inserted therein before its execution. It should also state in terms that the agent has no right or interest, direct or indirect, in the filing of such a declaratory statement.

The agent must file (in addition to his power of attorney) his own oath to the effect that he has no interest, either present or prospective, direct or indirect, in the claim; that the same is filed for the sole benefit of the soldier; and that no arrangement has been made whereby said agent has been empowered at any future time to sell or relinquish such claim, either as agent or by filing an original relinquishment of the claimant.

(c) Where a soldier's declaratory statement is filed in person, the affidavit of the soldier or sailor must be sworn to before either the register or the acting register of the United States land office, or before a United States commissioner, or a notary public, or before a judge or clerk or prothonotary of a court of record, or the deputy of such clerk or prothonotary, or before a magistrate authorized by the laws of the State, District, or Territory of the United States to administer oaths, in the county, parish, or land district in which the land lies, or before any officer of the classes mentioned who resides nearer or more accessible to the land, although he may reside outside of the county and land district in which the land is situated. Whether a declaratory statement is filed by an agent, the agent's affidavit must be executed before one of the officers above mentioned, but the soldier's affidavit may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths generally, and not necessarily within the land district in which the land is situated.

The fee to be paid to the register of the land office where the declaratory statement is filed is $2, except in the Pacific States, where it is $3.

(d) A homestead entry under a declaratory statement can not be made through an agent, and the entry must be made and settlement on the land commenced within six months after the filing of the declaratory statement. Residence, cultivation, and improvements must be shown to the same extent as though no declaratory statement had been filed.

13. The filing of a declaratory statement will not be held to bar the admission of filings and entries by others, but any person making entry or claim during the period allowed by law for the entry of the soldier will do so subject to his right; and the soldier's application, when offered within such time, will be allowed as a matter of right, and the intervening claimant will be notified and afforded an opportunity to be heard.

14. As implied by the requirements of the oath, a soldier will be held to have exhausted his homestead right by the filing of his declaratory statement, it being manifest that the right to file is a privilege granted to soldiers in addition to the ordinary privilege only in the matter of giving them power to hold their claims for six months after selection before entry but is not a license to abandon such selection with the right thereafter to make a regular homestead entry independently of such filing. This is clear from the statutory language. Section 2304 provides: "A settler shall be allowed six months after locating his homestead and filing his declaratory statement in which to make entry and commence his settlement and improvement"; and section 2309 requires him "in person" to "make his actual entry, commence settlement, and improvement on the same, and thereafter fulfill all the requirements of the law." These must be done on the same lands selected and located by the filing.

15. Soldiers and sailors are cautioned against dealing with the so-called soldiers' claim agencies or persons or companies who represent themselves as authorized by the Government to make entries or filings for soldiers. The Government does not employ nor authorize particular individuals to locate soldiers or sailors, or to file declaratory statements for them, except under the conditions above set forth.

RIGHTS OF WORLD WAR VETERANS

16. House Joint Resolution No. 30, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), amended Joint Resolution No. 29, approved February 14, 1920, (41 Stat. 434), by extending the provisions of the last-mentioned resolution for a period of 10 years from and after February 14, 1920, and increased the preference right conferred thereby from not less than 60 to not less than 90 days from the beginning of the preference right period. Said resolution as amended is applicable to all openings of public or Indian lands to entry or to restoration to entry of public lands withdrawn from entry, and confers upon officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines in the Army or Navy of the United States during the late war, who were honorably separated or discharged from such service or placed in the Regular Army or Naval Reserve, a preference right of not less than 90 days from the date of opening or restoration in which to make entry for the land under the homestead or desert-land laws, except as against prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation.

Said resolution was further amended by Public Resolution No. 79, approved December 28, 1922 (42 Stat. 1067), extending its provisions to those citizens of the United States who served with the allied armies during the World War, and who were honorably discharged upon the resumption of citizenship in the United States, provided the service with the allied armies was similar to service with the Army of the United States for which recognition is granted by said Resolution No. 29 as amended.

17. The act of July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), protects persons who after making entry or initiating claims under the homestead laws by settlement, application, or entry and thereafter enlisted or were mustered into the military or naval service during the World War or prior to March 3, 1921, from a forfeiture of their claims by reason of the failure of the claimant to do any act otherwise required by law during the period of his service and credits the time in the service as equivalent to residence on and cultivation of the homestead with a maximum credit of two years in case of discharge for disability incurred in line of duty, regardless of actual period of residence and grants complete exemption from further compliance with law by the widow, minor orphan children, or legal representatives where the claimant died in the service, and forbids contest against any homestead entry unless it be alleged and proved that the absence from the land was not due to employment in the military or naval service of the United States.

18. Under the act of February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), as amended by section 1 of the act of April 6, 1922 (42 Stat. 491), and by Public Resolution No. 79, approved December 28, 1922, one who was in the military or naval service of the United States during the Mexican border operations (regarded as having begun May 9, 1916, and continued until the declaration of war with Germany) or the late war, and who was honorably discharged after having served at least 90 days during such period, or who served for such period with the allied armies during the World War and was honorably discharged and resumed citizenship in the United States, is entitled to a deduction from the homestead residence requirements (three years) equal to the period of service but not to exceed two years—that is, there must be shown residence on the homestead for at least one year even though the military or naval service exceeded two years. If the soldier or sailor was discharged because of disability incurred in line of duty or regularly discharged from the service but subsequently awarded compensation by the Government for wounds received or disabilities incurred in the line of duty, he may claim credit for the full period of his enlistment, subject to the requirement that residence on the homestead for at least one year must be shown. In either case, the credit is in lieu of the cultivation specified by law as well as residence, and if the period of service is such that residence for but one year need be shown, no cultivation is required to be shown for that year. A year's residence under the homestead laws consists of actual residence for at least seven months and allowable absence of five months in not more than two periods, notice of leaving the homestead and returning thereto to be given to the proper district land office. The final proof must show that there is a habitable house on the land and must not be submitted until the full period of compliance with the requirements of the homestead laws has been effected.

Those citizens of the United States who, during the existence of the war with Germany, entered the military or naval service of a country allied with this country in the World War and who, by taking the oath of allegiance to such foreign country prior to April 6, 1917, expatriated themselves, must, before they may avail themselves of the benefits of this resolution, resume their American citizenship.

A citizen who entered such service after April 6, 1917, did not expatriate himself as the last proviso to section 2 of the act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat. 1228), provides that:

> No American shall be allowed to expatriate himself when this country is at war.

The service for which credit may be claimed under said resolution must have continued for a period of at least 90 days during the World War and the claimant must show his qualifications to make the entry sought in order to exercise the preference right of entry conferred thereby and in addition thereto as a part of his application or by an accompanying statement sworn to before an officer qualified to verify homestead applications must show the date when his service began, the country with which he served, the nature and length of such service, and that he was honorably separated or discharged therefrom, giving the date thereof. The original or certified copy of the discharge or order of separation from such military or naval service should be attached to the application to make entry or proof thereon. If the claimant has lost his discharge or is otherwise unable to secure a copy thereof, he must in a verified statement explain fully why he can not furnish the same.

19. The act of September 29, 1919 (41 Stat. 288), as amended by section 2 of the act of April 6, 1922 (42 Stat. 491), grants to ex-service men of the late war who made or may hereafter make entry under the homestead laws or who initiate valid homestead claim by settlement or application, and thereafter enter upon a course of training under the vocational rehabilitation act or are furnished hospital treatment by the Government for wounds received or disabilities incurred in line of duty, a leave of absence from the homestead for the purpose of taking such course, or to receive hospital treatment by the Government, and allows the time while so engaged to be credited as constructive residence upon and cultivation of the homestead, subject to the condition that before title by patent may be granted the claimant shall have resided upon, improved, and cultivated the homestead for a period of at least one year. A person who is entitled to the benefits of this act should forward to the local district land office notice of his absence from the land and of the fact that he has been admitted to take a course of vocational training under the act of June 27, 1918 (40 Stat. 617), or that he is receiving hospital treatment by the Government, together with a certificate to that fact by the proper official. He should also file notice of his return to the land so that the district officer may make due notation on his records.

20. The act of March 1, 1921 (41 Stat. 1202), authorizes homesteaders, applicants, or entrymen who initiated their claims and thereafter enlisted prior to November 11, 1918, in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, and were honorably discharged or separated because of physical incapacities due to service, and for that reason are unable to return to the land, to make proof without further residence, improvements, and cultivation at such time and place as may be authorized.

Notice of intention to submit proof under this act must be given in the usual manner by posting and publication, and the proof should consist of the affidavit of the homesteader, executed before an official authorized to administer oaths and use an official seal, showing that he is unable to return to the land on account of physical incapacities, due to service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during the war with Germany, and should describe the nature and extent of the disability, which facts should be corroborated by the testimony of two witnesses taken in similar manner, one of whom must be a practicing physician. Such affidavit should be accompanied by a copy of the claimant's discharge from the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or an affidavit showing all the facts about his service and discharge.

PLACER-MINING CLAIMS—AFFIDAVITS OF IMPROVEMENTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 23, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Where placer-mining claims are applied for by legal subdivisions and proofs of improvements are furnished in accordance with paragraphs 25 and 60, Mining Regulations, you will require the applicant to furnish the affidavits of improvements in duplicate, one copy to be forwarded by you immediately to the chief of field division, in order that he may have the information necessary to expedite an investigation of the claim. If preferred, the applicant may furnish copies of the original affidavits, instead of duplicates.

Very respectfully,

S. V. PROUDFIT,
Assistant Commissioner.

VALIDATED PLACER LOCATIONS ON PHOSPHATE LANDS—PROOFS AND NOTICE—ACT OF JANUARY 11, 1915 (38 STAT. L. 792)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 31, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress approved January 11, 1915 (38 Stat. L. 792), entitled "An act validating locations of deposits of phosphate rock heretofore made in good faith under the placer-mining laws of the United States."

The act applies only to placer-mining locations made on lands containing deposit of phosphate rock. It prescribes that phosphate placer locations made in good faith prior to the passage of the act, and prior to the withdrawal of such lands from location, upon which assessment work has been annually performed, shall be valid and may be perfected under the placer-mining laws, except as to lands included in an adverse or conflicting lode location. It authorizes the issuance of patents for such locations, where the provisions of the mining laws in other respects have been complied with.

In addition to the usual proofs claimants, under all pending and future applications based on such validated locations, must submit evidence showing that the assessment work has been annually performed up to and including the year preceding that in which the entry certificate is issued. Such proof may be made by filing the original or authenticated copies of the proofs of annual labor of record in the local recording office, provided such proofs are definite and specific. Where such evidence is not available, a sufficient corroborated affidavit, describing the nature and giving the approximate cost and reasonable value of the work done each year upon or for the benefit of each claim included in the application for patent, will be accepted. Similar proof must be furnished in support of all pending cases, where the entry certificates are outstanding, before such entries will be approved for patent, all else being regular.

The act does not apply to lands included in an adverse or conflicting lode location, unless such adverse or conflicting claim is abandoned. The usual statutory notice of the application must have been or will be given in all cases. Section 2325, Revised Statutes, provides that if no adverse claim is filed during the 60 days of publication "it shall be assumed that the applicant is entitled to a patent * * * and that no adverse claim exists."

Where proper statutory notice has been given and no adverse claim or protest has been filed, it will be conclusively assumed, for patent purposes, that no adverse or conflicting lode location exists; and that if any such once existed, it has been abandoned. No new notice, if the notice already given be found regular and sufficient, will be required in support of any pending entry or application.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 425

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ACT OF JANUARY 11, 1915 (38 STAT. L. 792), PROVIDING FOR THE PURCHASE AND DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN LANDS CONTAINING THE MINERALS KAOLIN, KAOLINITE, FULLER'S EARTH, CHINA CLAY, AND BALL CLAY, IN TRIPP COUNTY, FORMERLY A PART OF THE ROSEBUD INDIAN RESERVATION, IN SOUTH DAKOTA

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 15, 1915.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER,
United States Land Office, Gregory, S. Dak.

SIRS: 1. The act approved January 11, 1915 (38 Stat. L. 792), provides that all lands containing the minerals kaolin, kaolinite, fuller's earth, china clay, and ball clay, in Tripp County, in what was formerly within the Rosebud Indian Reservation in South Dakota, as have heretofore been opened to settlement and entry under acts of Congress which did not authorize the disposal of such mineral lands, shall be open to exploration and purchase and be disposed of under the general provisions of the mining laws of the United States, and the proceeds arising therefrom shall be deposited in the Treasury for the same purpose for which the proceeds arising from the disposal of other lands within the reservation in which such mineral-bearing lands are located were deposited.

2. The territory referred to in said act is that portion of the former Rosebud Indian Reservation in Tripp County, S. Dak., opened to settlement and entry by the act of March 2, 1907, (34 Stat. 1230). No mineral locations or entries may be made in said area except for lands containing the minerals described in said act of January 11, 1915.

3. Applications for patents for lands described in said act of January 11, 1915, must contain, in addition to the matter required by paragraph 60 of the mining regulations, approved March 29, 1909 (37 L. D. 769), full and explicit data showing clearly that the lands sought to be patented thereunder are of the character contemplated by said act.

4. By the first proviso to said act of January 11, 1915, it is provided "that the same person, association, or corporation shall not locate or enter more than one claim, not exceeding 160 acres in area, hereunder."

(a) Under this clause and the preceding part of the act to which it relates, which provides that the lands containing the designated mineral deposits "shall be open to exploration and purchase and be disposed of under the general provisions of the mining laws of the United States," no location or entry of a claim under said act of January 11, 1915, by a single natural person or corporation can exceed 20 acres in area and in the case of an association no location or entry can exceed 20 acres for each individual participating therein; that is, a location by two persons can not exceed 40 acres, one by three persons can not exceed 60 acres, and one by eight persons can not exceed 160 acres.

(b) Rights obtained by location under the mining laws are assignable, and the assignee may make the entry in his own name; so, under this act a person, association, or corporation holding as assignee may make entry in his, their, or its name: Provided, such person, association, or corporation has not held under said act of January 11, 1915, at any time, either as locator or entryman, any other lands; his, their, or its right is exhausted by having held under said act any particular tract, either as locator or entryman, either as an individual or as a member of an association or corporation. It follows, therefore, that no application for patent or entry, made under said act, shall embrace more than one single location.

(c) In order that the conditions imposed by said first proviso may duly appear, the application for patent must contain or be accompanied by a specific statement, under oath, by each person whose name appears therein that he never has, either as an individual or as a member of an association or corporation, located, held, or entered any other lands under the provisions of said act of January 11, 1915. Where the application is by an association or corporation, it must, in like form as above provided, show that each person forming the association or holding stock in the corporation is qualified to make entry in his own right and that he is not a member of any other association or a stockholder in any other corporation which has located a claim or filed an application for other lands under the provisions of said act of January 11, 1915.

5. Said act of January 11, 1915, contains the further proviso "that none of the lands or mineral deposits, the disposal of which is herein provided for, shall be disposed of at less price than that fixed by the applicable mining or coal-land laws, and in no instance at less than their appraised value, to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior."

As soon as the register and receiver shall have filed and acted upon the mineral application for patent, and issued notice of allowance thereof they will forward to the chief of field division a duplicate of the sworn statement filed with said application for patent, which duplicate must be furnished by the mineral applicant, and, among other things, fully and accurately describe the land applied for and contain the other data herein prescribed. In the letter transmitting said duplicate sworn statement the local officers will advise the chief of field division as to the land for which the application for patent has been allowed, and the status of such land as shown by their records. Upon the receipt of these papers the chief of field division will docket the case and will promptly make, or cause to be made by a competent special agent, a personal examination of the land as to which the application for patent has been allowed and appraise said land for the purpose of determining the price at which the same shall be sold, which, however, must, in no event, be less than $5 per acre, or fraction of an acre. The schedule of appraisement must be prepared in duplicate, and fully describe, by legal subdivisions, each 10-acre tract, examined and valued, be signed by the appraiser and be approved by the chief of field division; and, on being so completed, (which must be prior to the expiration of the 60-day period of publication of notice of application for patent), they must be at once transmitted to the register and receiver, who will immediately send, by registered mail, one copy of the schedule of appraisement to the record address of the applicant for patent.

When the appraisement is completed, the register and receiver will note the price on their records, and thereafter the land will be sold at such price only, under the provisions of said act of January 11, 1915, in the absence of instructions to the contrary by the Commissioner of the General Land Office. If appraisement be not made and returned prior to the expiration of the period of newspaper publication and within 30 days thereafter, the applicant may, if duly qualified, and in the absence of other objections, purchase the land applied for at the minimum price, viz, $5 for each acre and $5 for each fractional part of an acre.

6. As to matters not covered by these regulations, you will, in general, be governed in the administration of said act of January 11, 1915, by the provisions of the United States mining laws and, so far as applicable, the regulations thereunder of March 29, 1909, and the various amendments thereof.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

A. A. JONES,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 430 [1]

UNITED STATES MINING REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO THE RESERVATION, EXPLORATION, LOCATION, POSSESSION, PURCHASE, AND PATENTING OF THE MINERAL LANDS IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 11, 1922.

Special Acts

The act of March 2, 1907 (34 Stat. L. 1232), section 4, provides that the surveyor general of Alaska, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, shall furnish receivers a sufficient quantity of numbers to be used in the different classes of official surveys that may be made in the Nome and Fairbanks land districts to meet the requirements thereof, authorizes receivers to furnish numbers for official surveys and an order directing surveyor to make same, such application order and the fee required to be paid to the surveyor general shall be transmitted to the surveyor general, and provides that all surveys thus made shall be approved by the surveyor general as at present.

The act of May 27, 1908 (35 Stat. 317, 365), prohibited mining locations thereafter within the Mount Rainier National Park, but prior valid existent claims were not affected.

Sections 7, 8, and 12 of the act of May 30, 1908, (35 Stat. 558), provides for the extension of the mineral land laws to the classified surplus lands of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation, in the State of Montana.

The act of May 11, 1910 (36 Stat. 354), provides for the establishment of the Glacier National Park, in Montana, and reserves and withdraws from occupancy or disposal under any of the land laws of the United States the lands therein, but protects valid existing claims and locations.

The act of June 7, 1910 (36 Stat. 459), provides for the granting of public lands to certain cities and towns in the State of Colorado for public park purposes and reserves to the United States the oil, coal, and other mineral deposits in such lands.

The act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 848), contains provisions for the establishment and enforcement of miners' labor liens in the Territory of Alaska.

The act of September 30, 1913 (38 Stat. 113), authorizes the President to provide a method for opening public lands restored from reservations, etc.

The act of August 21, 1916 (39 Stat. 519), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to lease for production of oil and gas ceded lands of the Shoshone or Wind River Indian Reservation in Wyoming. This act is administered through the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297). makes potash deposits subject to disposition only under prospecting permits and leases issued by the Secretary of the Interior, except valid claims existent at date of the act and thereafter duly maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under such laws. Regulations under said act are contained in a separate circular.

Section 26 of the act of June 30, 1919 (41 Stat. 3), authorized the Secretary of the Interior to lease for the purpose of mining metalliferous mineral lands in Indian reservations in certain States. This act is administered through the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

By the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), deposits of coal, phosphate, sodium, oil, oil shale, and gas in lands valuable for such minerals were made subject to disposition only under prospecting permits and leases issued by the Secretary of the Interior, except valid claims existent at date of said act and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under such laws, including discovery. Regulations under said act are contained in separate circulars.

REGULATIONS

NOTE.—In view of the repealing provisions of the potash act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), and the leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), the following regulations are not applicable to deposits of potash, oil, oil shale, gas, phosphate, or sodium, except as to valid claims existent at date of such repeal and thereafter duly maintained pursuant to the law under which located.

NATURE AND EXTENT OF MINING CLAIMS

1. Mining claims are of two distinct classes: Lode claims and placers.

LODE CLAIMS

2. The status of lode claims located or patented previous to the 10th day of May, 1872, is not changed with regard to their extent along the lode or width of surface; but the claim is enlarged by sections 2322 and 2328, by investing the locator, his heirs or assigns, with the right to follow, upon the conditions stated therein, all veins, lodes, or ledges, the top or apex of which lies inside of the surface lines of his claim.

3. It is to be distinctly understood, however, that the law limits the possessory right to veins, lodes, or ledges, other than the one named in the original location, to such as were not adversely claimed on May 10, 1872, and that where such other vein or ledge was so adversely claimed at that date the right of the party so adversely claiming is in no way impaired by the provisions of the Revised Statutes.

4. From and after May 10, 1872, any person who is a citizen of the United States, or who has declared his intention to become a citizen, may locate, record, and hold a mining claim of 1,500 linear feet along the course of any mineral vein or lode subject to location; or an association of persons, severally qualified as above, may make joint location of such claim of 1,500 feet, but in no event can a location of a vein or lode made after the 10th day of May, 1872, exceed 1,500 feet along the course thereof, whatever may be the number of persons composing the association.

5. With regard to the extent of surface ground adjoining a vein or lode, and claimed for the convenient working thereof, the Revised Statutes provide that the lateral extent of locations of veins or lodes made after May 10, 1872, shall in no case exceed 300 feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, and that no such surface rights shall be limited by any mining regulations to less than 25 feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on May 10, 1872, may render such limitation necessary; the end lines of such claims to be in all cases parallel to each other. Said lateral measurements can not extend beyond 300 feet on either side of the middle of the vein at the surface, or such distance as is allowed by local laws. For example: 400 feet can not be taken on one side and 200 feet on the other. If, however, 300 feet on each side are allowed, and by reason of prior claims but 100 feet can be taken on one side, the locator will not be restricted to less than 300 feet on the other side; and when the locator does not determine by exploration where the middle of the vein at the surface is, his discovery shaft must be assumed to mark such point.

6. By the foregoing it will be perceived that no lode claim located after May 10, 1872, can exceed a parallelogram 1,500 feet in length by 600 feet in width, but whether surface ground of that width can be taken depends upon the local regulations or State or Territorial laws in force in the several mining districts; and that no such local regulations or State or Territorial laws shall limit a vein or lode claim to less than 1,500 feet along the course thereof, whether the location is made by one or more persons, nor can surface rights be limited to less than 50 feet in width unless adverse claims existing on the 10th day of May, 1872, render such lateral limitation necessary.

7. Locators can not exercise too much care in defining their locations at the outset, inasmuch as the law requires that all records of mining locations made subsequent to May 10, 1872, shall contain the name or names of the locators, the date of the location, and such a description of the claim or claims located, by reference to some natural object or permanent monument, as will identify the claim.

8. No lode claim shall be located until after the discovery of a vein or lode within the limits of the claim, the object of which provision is evidently to prevent the appropriation of presumed mineral ground for speculative purposes, to the exclusion of bona fide prospectors, before sufficient work has been done to determine whether a vein or lode really exists.

9. The claimant should, therefore, prior to locating his claim, unless the vein can be traced upon the surface, sink a shaft or run a tunnel or drift to a sufficient depth therein to discover and develop a mineral-bearing vein, lode, or crevice; should determine, if possible, the general course of such vein in either direction from the point of discovery, by which direction he will be governed in marking the boundaries of his claim on the surface. His location notice should give the course and distance as nearly as practicable from the discovery shaft on the claim to some permanent, well-known points or objects, such, for instance, as stone monuments, blazed trees, the confluence of streams, point of intersection of well-known gulches, ravines, or roads, prominent buttes, hills, etc., which may be in the immediate vicinity, and which will serve to perpetuate and fix the locus of the claim and render it susceptible of identification from the description thereof given in the record of locations in the district, and should be duly recorded.

10. In addition to the foregoing data, the claimant should state the names of adjoining claims, or, if none adjoin, the relative positions of the nearest claims; should drive a post or erect a monument of stones at each corner of his surface ground, and at the point of discovery or discovery shaft should fix a post, stake, or board, upon which should be designated the name of the lode, the name or names of the locators, the number of feet claimed, and in which direction from the point of discovery, it being essential that the location notice filed for record, in addition to the foregoing description, should state whether the entire claim of 1,500 feet is taken on one side of the point of discovery, or whether it is partly upon one and partly upon the other side thereof, and in the latter case, how many feet are claimed upon each side of such discovery point.

11. The location notice must be filed for record in all respects as required by the State or Territorial laws and local rules and regulations, if there be any.

12. In order to hold the possessory title to a mining claim located prior to May 10, 1872, the law requires that $10 shall be expended annually in labor or improvements for each 100 feet in length along the vein or lode. In order to hold the possessory right to a location made since May 10, 1872, not less than $100 worth of labor must be performed or improvements made thereon annually. Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved January 22, 1880, the first annual expenditure becomes due and must be performed during the calendar year succeeding that in which the location was made. (See change, act August 24, 1921 (42 Stat. 186). Where a number of contiguous claims are held in common, the aggregate expenditure that would be necessary to hold all the claims, may be made upon any one claim. Cornering locations are held not to be contiguous.

13. Failure to make the expenditure or perform the labor required upon a location made before or since May 10, 1872, will subject a claim to relocation, unless the original locator, his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives have resumed work after such failure and before relocation.

14. Annual expenditure is not required subsequent to entry, the date of issuing the patent certificate being the date contemplated by statute.

15. Upon the failure of any one of several coowners to contribute his proportion of the required expenditures, the coowners, who have performed the labor or made the improvements as required, may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent coowner personal notice in writing, or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim for at least once a week for 90 days; and if upon the expiration of 90 days after such notice in writing, or upon the expiration of 180 days after the first newspaper publication of notice, the delinquent coowner shall have failed to contribute his proportion to meet such expenditures or improvements, his interest in the claim by law passes to his coowners who have made the expenditures or improvements as aforesaid. Where a claimant alleges ownership of a forfeited interest under the foregoing provision, the sworn statement of the publisher as to the facts of publication, giving dates, and a printed copy of the notice published, should be furnished, and the claimant must swear that the delinquent coowner failed to contribute his proper proportion within the period fixed by the statute.

TUNNELS

16. The effect of section 2323, Revised Statutes, is to give the proprietors of a mining tunnel run in good faith the possessory right to 1,500 feet of any blind lodes cut, discovered, or intersected by such tunnel, which were not previously known to exist within 3,000 feet from the face or point of commencement of such tunnel, and to prohibit other parties, after the commencement of the tunnel, from prospecting for and making locations of lodes on the line thereof and within said distance of 3,000 feet, unless such lodes appear upon the surface or were previously known to exist. The term "face," as used in said section, is construed and held to mean the first working face formed in the tunnel, and to signify the point at which the tunnel actually enters cover; it being from this point that the 3,000 feet are to be counted upon which prospecting is prohibited as aforesaid.

17. To avail themselves of the benefits of this provision of law, the proprietors of a mining tunnel will be required, at the time they enter cover as aforesaid, to give proper notice of their tunnel location by erecting a substantial post, board, or monument at the face or point of commencement thereof, upon which should be posted a good and sufficient notice, giving the names of the parties or company claiming the tunnel right; the actual or proposed course or direction of the tunnel, the height and width thereof, and the course and distance from such face or point of commencement to some permanent well-known objects in the vicinity by which to fix and determine the locus in manner heretofore set forth applicable to locations of veins or lodes, and at the time of posting such notice they shall, in order that miners or prospectors may be enabled to determine whether or not they are within the lines of the tunnel, establish the boundary lines thereof, by stakes or monuments placed along such lines at proper intervals, to the terminus of the 3,000 feet from the face or point of commencement of the tunnel, and the lines so marked will define and govern as to specific boundaries within which prospecting for lodes not previously known to exist is prohibited while work on the tunnel is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence.

18. A full and correct copy of such notice of location defining the tunnel claim must be filed for record with the mining recorder of the district, to which notice must be attached the sworn statement or declaration of the owners, claimants, or projectors of such tunnel, setting forth the facts in the case; stating the amount expended by themselves and their predecessors in interest in prosecuting work thereon; the extent of the work performed, and that it is bona fide their intention to prosecute work on the tunnel so located and described with reasonable diligence for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, or both, as the case may be. This notice of location must be duly recorded, and, with the said sworn statement attached, kept on the recorder's files for future reference.

PLACER CLAIMS

19. But one discovery of mineral is required to support a placer location, whether it be of 20 acres by an individual, or of 160 acres or less by an association of persons.

20. The act of August 4, 1892, extends the mineral land laws so as to bring lands chiefly valuable for building stone within the provisions of said law by authorizing a placer entry of such lands. Registers and receivers should make a reference to said act on the entry papers in the case of all placer entries made for lands containing stone chiefly valuable for building purposes. Lands reserved for the benefit of public schools or donated to any State are not subject to entry under said act.

21. The act of February 11, 1897, provides for the location and entry of public lands chiefly valuable for petroleum or other mineral oils, and entries of that nature made prior to the passage of said act are to be considered as though made thereunder.

22. Upon the presentation of every case within the purview of the act of March 2, 1911 (36 Stat. L. 1015), the local officers must advise the chiefs of field division, in order that the latter may make such field examinations as are advisable or necessary, particularly if the land involved has been embraced in a withdrawal, as to the time when the development work was begun, and be prepared to submit the results, if possible, before entry is allowed. Each such case will be considered and adjudicated upon its record in the regular manner.

Observing that the operation of the act is retrospective only, being confined to locations made prior to the date thereof, you will, upon the presentation of any application for patent affected by the provisions of said act, immediately communicate to the proper chief of field division due and full information thereof, to the end that he may procure to be made such investigations as may be necessary to ascertain the facts concerning the inception and subsequent prosecution of development operations, the extent and character of such works, and any other facts bearing upon and affecting the validity of the claim, including the continuousness and diligence with which development proceeded from the date of inception.

Report made of the results of such examinations will be submitted to this office, upon receipt of which the local officers will be advised as to the action to be taken.

23. By section 2330 authority is given for subdividing 40-acre legal subdivisions into 10-acre tracts. These 10-acre tracts should be considered and dealt with as legal subdivisions, and an applicant having a placer claim which conforms to one or more of such 10-acre tracts, contiguous in case of two or more tracts, may make entry thereof, after the usual proceedings, without further survey or plat.

24. A 10-acre subdivision may be described, for instance if situated in the extreme northeast of the section, as the "NE. ¼ of the NE. ¼ of the NE. ¼" of the section, or, in like manner, by appropriate terms, wherever situated; but, in addition to this description, the notice must give all the other data required in a mineral application, by which parties may be put on inquiry as to the land sought to be patented. The proofs submitted with applications must show clearly the character and extent of the improvements upon the premises.

25. The proof of improvements must show their value to be not less than $500 and that they were made by the applicant for patent or his grantors. This proof should consist of the affidavit of two or more disinterested witnesses. The annual expenditure to the amount of $100, required by section 2324, Revised Statutes, must be made upon placer as well as lode locations.

26. Applicants for patent to a placer claim, who are also in possession of a known vein or lode included therein, must state in their application that the placer includes such vein or lode. The published and posted notices must also include such statement. If veins or lodes lying within a placer location are owned by other parties, the fact should be distinctly stated in the application for patent and in all the notices. But in all cases, whether the lode is claimed or excluded, it must be surveyed and marked upon the plat, the field notes and plat giving the area of the lode claim or claims and the area of the placer separately. An application which omits to claim such known vein or lode must be construed as a conclusive declaration that the applicant has no right of possession to the vein or lode. Where there is no known lode or vein, the fact must appear by the affidavit of two or more witnesses.

27. By section 2330 it is declared that no location of a placer claim made after July 9, 1870, shall exceed 160 acres for any one person or association of persons, which location shall conform to the United States surveys.

28. Section 2331 provides that all placer-mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as nearly as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, and such locations shall not include more than 20 acres for each individual claimant.

29. The foregoing provisions of law are construed to mean that after the 9th day of July, 1870, no location of a placer claim can be made to exceed 160 acres, whatever may be the number of locators associated together, or whatever the local regulations of the district may allow; and that from and after May 10, 1872, no location can exceed 20 acres for each individual participating therein; that is, a location by two persons can not exceed 40 acres, and one by three persons can not exceed 60 acres.

30. The regulations hereinbefore given as to the manner of marking locations on the ground, and placing the same on record, must be observed in the case of placer locations so far as the same are applicable, the law requiring, however, that all placer-mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as near as practicable with the United States system of public land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, whether the locations are upon surveyed or unsurveyed lands.

Conformity to the public-land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions thereof will not be required where compliance with such requirement would necessitate the placing of the lines thereof upon other prior located claims or where the claim is surrounded by prior locations.

Where a placer location by one or two persons can be entirely included within a square 40-acre tract, by three or four persons within two square 40-acre tracts placed end to end, by five or six persons within three square 40-acre tracts, and by seven or eight persons within four square 40-acre tracts, such locations will be regarded as within the requirements where strict conformity is impracticable.

Whether a placer location conforms reasonably with the legal subdivisions of the public surveys is a question of fact to be determined in each case, and no location will be passed to patent without satisfactory evidence in this regard. Claimants should bear in mind that it is the policy of the Government to have all entries whether of agricultural or mineral lands as compact and regular in form as reasonably practicable, and that it will not permit or sanction entries or locations which cut the public domain into long narrow strips or grossly irregular or fantastically shaped tracts. (Snow Flake Fraction Placer, 37 L. D. 250.)

REGULATIONS UNDER SALINE ACT

31. Under the act approved January 31, 1901, extending the mining laws to saline lands, the provisions of the law relating to placer-mining claims are extended to all States and the Territory of Alaska, so as to permit the location and purchase thereunder of all unoccupied public lands containing salt springs, or deposits of salt in any form, and chiefly valuable therefor, with the proviso, "That the same person shall not locate or enter more than one claim hereunder."

32. Rights obtained by location under the placer-mining laws are assignable, and the assignee may make the entry in his own name; so, under this act a person holding as assignee may make entry in his own name: Provided, He has not held under this act, at any time, either as locator or entryman, any other lands; his right is exhausted by having held under this act any particular tract, either as locator or entryman, either as an individual or as a member of an association. It follows, therefore, that no application for patent or entry, made under this act, shall embrace more than one single location.

33. In order that the conditions imposed by the proviso, as set forth in the above paragraph, may duly appear, the application for patent must contain or be accompanied by a specific statement under oath by each person whose name appears therein that he never has, either as an individual or as a member of an association, located or entered any other lands under the provisions of this act. The application for patent should also be accompanied by a showing under oath, fully disclosing the qualifications as defined by the proviso, of the applicants' predecessors in interest.

Procedure to Obtain Patent to Mineral Lands

LODE CLAIMS

34. The claimant is required, in the first place, to have a correct survey of his claim made under authority of the surveyor general of the State or Territory in which the claim lies, such survey to show with accuracy the exterior surface boundaries of the claim, which boundaries are required to be distinctly marked by monuments on the ground. Four plats and one copy of the original field notes in each case will be prepared by the surveyor general; one plat and the original field notes to be retained in the office of the surveyor general; one copy of the plat to be given the claimant for posting upon the claim; one plat and a copy of the field notes to be given the claimant for filing with the proper register, to be finally transmitted by that officer, with other papers in the case, to this office, and one plat to be sent by the surveyor general to the register of the proper land district, to be retained on his files for future reference. As there is no resident surveyor general for the State of Arkansas, applications for the survey of mineral claims in said State should be made to the commissioner of this office, who, under the law, is, ex officio, the United States surveyor general.

The surveyor general will prepare the original plat on Form 4–675. All lines clear and sharp in black. All letters and figures clear and sharp in black.

The original plat, so prepared, will be signed and dated by the surveyor general and forwarded to the General Land Office flat or in tube and unmounted.

As to plats of survey of mining claims outside of the Territory of Alaska, the commissioner will have three photolithographic copies made upon drawing paper, which copies, with the original plat, will be forwarded to the surveyor general, the four plats to be filed and disposed of in the same manner as provided in paragraph 34 of the Mining Regulations, viz: One plat and the original field notes to be retained in the office of the surveyor general; one copy of the plat to be given the claimant for posting upon the claim; one plat and a copy of the field notes to be given the claimant for filing with the proper register, to be finally transmitted by that officer, with other papers in the case, to this office, and one plat to be sent by the surveyor general to the register of the proper land district, to be retained on his files for future reference.

As to plats of survey of mining claims in the Territory of Alaska, the commissioner will have three photolithographic copies made upon drawing paper, two copies of which, with the original plat, will be forwarded to the surveyor general, the three plats to be filed and disposed of as follows: One plat and the original field notes to be retained in the office of the surveyor general; one plat and a copy of the field notes to be given the claimant, for filing with the proper register, to be finally transmitted by that officer, with other papers in the case, to this office, and one plat to be sent by the surveyor general to the register of the proper land district to be retained in his files for future reference. The commissioner will mail one photolithographic copy of the plat, made upon drawing paper, direct to the applicant for survey, or to his agent or attorney, when the application is made by agent or attorney, at his record address, to be used for posting on the land.

A certain number of photolithographic copies will be furnished the surveyor general for sale at a cost of 25 cents each, and a photolithographic copy printed on tracing paper will be furnished the surveyor general, from which blue prints may be made, to be sold at cost.

35. The survey and plat of mineral claims required to be filed in the proper land office with application for patent must be made subsequent to the recording of the location of the claim (if the laws of the State or Territory or the regulations of the mining district require the notice of location to be recorded), and when the original location is made by survey of a United States mineral surveyor such location survey can not be substituted for that required by the statute, as above indicated.

36. The surveyors general should designate all surveyed mineral claims by a progressive series of numbers, beginning with survey No. 37, irrespective as to whether they are situated on surveyed or unsurveyed lands, the claim to be so designated at date of issuing the order therefor, in addition to the local designation of the claim; it being required in all cases that the plat and field notes of the survey of a claim must, in addition to the reference to permanent objects in the neighborhood, describe the locus of the claim with reference to the lines of public surveys by a line connecting a corner of the claim with the nearest public corner of the United States surveys, unless such claim be on unsurveyed lands at a distance of more than 2 miles from such public corner, in which latter case it should be connected with a United States mineral monument. Such connecting line must not be more than 2 miles in length, and should be measured on the ground direct between the points, or calculated from actually surveyed traverse lines if the nature of the country should not permit direct measurement. If a regularly established survey corner is within 2 miles of a claim situated on unsurveyed lands, the connection should be made with such corner in preference to a connection with a United States mineral monument. The connecting line or traverse line must be surveyed by the mineral surveyor at the time of his making the particular survey and be made a part thereof.

37. (a) Promptly upon the approval of a mineral survey the surveyor general will advise both this office and the appropriate local land office, by letter (Form 4–286), of the date of approval, number of the survey, name and area of the claim, name and survey number of each approved mineral survey with which actually in conflict, name and address of the applicant for survey, and name of the mineral surveyor who made the survey; and will also briefly describe therein the locus of the claim, specifying each legal subdivision or portion thereof, when upon surveyed lands, covered in whole or in part by the survey; but hereafter no segregation of any such claim upon the official township-survey records will be made until mineral entry has been made and approved for patent, unless otherwise directed by this office.

(b) Upon application to make agricultural entry of the residue of any original lot or legal subdivision of 40 acres, reduced by mining claims for which patent applications have been filed and which residue has been already reallotted in accordance therewith, the local officers will accept and approve the application as usual, if found to be regular. When such an application is filed for any such original lot or subdivision, reduced in available area by duly asserted mining claims but not yet relotted accordingly, the local officers will promptly advise this office thereof; and will also report and identify any pending application for mineral patent affecting such subdivision which the agricultural applicant does not desire to contest. The surveyor general will thereupon be advised by this office of such mining claims, or portions thereof, as are proper to be segregated, and directed to prepare at once, upon the usual drawing-paper township blank, diagram of amended township survey of such original lot or legal 40-acre subdivision so made fractional by such mineral segregation, designating the agricultural portion by appropriate lot number, beginning with No. 1 in each section and giving the area of each lot, and will forthwith transmit one approved copy to the local land office and one to this office. In the meantime the local officers will accept the agricultural application (if no other objection appears), suspend it with reservation of all rights of the applicant if continuously asserted by him, and upon receipt of amended township diagram will approve the application (if then otherwise satisfactory), as of the date of filing, corrected to describe the tract as designated in the amended survey.

(c) The register and receiver will allow no agricultural claim for any portion of an original lot or legal 40-acre subdivision, where the reduced area is made to appear by reason of approved surveys of mining claims and for which applications for patent have not been filed, until there is submitted by such agricultural applicant a satisfactory showing that such surveyed claims are in fact mineral in character; and applications to have lands asserted to be mineral or mining locations segregated by survey, with the view to agricultural appropriation of the remainder, will be made to the register and receiver for submission to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, for his consideration and direction, and must be supported by the affidavit of the party in interest, duly corroborated by two or more distinterested persons, or by such other or further evidence as may be required in any case, that the lands sought to be segregated as mineral are in fact mineral in character; otherwise, in the absence of satisfactory showing in any such case, such original lot or legal subdivision will be subject to agricultural appropriation only. When any such showing shall be found to be satisfactory and the necessary survey is had, amended township diagram will be required and made as prescribed in the preceding section.

38. The following particulars should be observed in the survey of every mining claim:

(1) The exterior boundaries of the claim, the number of feet claimed along the vein, and, as nearly as can be ascertained, the direction of the vein, and the number of feet claimed on the vein in each direction from the point of discovery or other well-defined place on the claim should be represented on the plat of survey and in the field notes.

(2) The intersection of the lines of the survey with the lines of conflicting prior surveys should be noted in the field notes and represented upon the plat.

(3) Conflicts with unsurveyed claims, where the applicant for survey does not claim the area in conflict, should be shown by actual survey.

(4) The total area of the claim embraced by the exterior boundaries should be stated, and also the area in conflict with each intersecting survey, substantially as follows:

	Acres
Total area of claim	10.50
Area in conflict with survey No. 302	1.56
Area in conflict with survey No. 948	2.33
Area in conflict with Mountain Maid lode mining claim, unsurveyed	1.48

It does not follow that because mining surveys are required to exhibit all conflicts with prior surveys the areas of conflict are to be excluded. The field notes and plat are made a part of the application for patent, and care should be taken that the description does not inadvertently exclude portions intended to be retained. The application for patent should state the portions to be excluded in express terms.

39. The claimant is then required to post a copy of the plat of such survey in a conspicuous place upon the claim, together with notice of his intention to apply for a patent therefor, which notice will give the date of posting, the name of the claimant, the name of the claim, the number of the survey, the mining district and county, and the names of adjoining and conflicting claims as shown by the plat survey. Too much care can not be exercised in the preparation of this notice, inasmuch as the data therein are to be repeated in the other notices required by the statute, and upon the accuracy and completeness of these notices will depend, in a great measure, the regularity and validity of the proceedings for patent.

(a) The notices of applications for patent for lands in Alaska are, in many cases, not sufficient to apprise adverse claimants and the public generally of the location of the land applied for, and therefore do not serve the purpose for which such notices are required; nor can the location of the land be ascertained from the application papers themselves and without obtaining information from other sources. This is due principally to the large area of unsurveyed land in the district and remoteness from centers of population of much of the country. In order to give a more definite description of the land applied for the following special instructions with reference to the Territory of Alaska are issued, which are supplemental to but do not change or modify existing regulations:

(b) The field notes of survey of all claims within the Territory of Alaska, where the survey is not tied to a corner of the public survey, shall contain a description of the location or mineral monument to which the survey is tied, by giving its latitude and longitude, and its position with reference to rivers, creeks, mountains or mountain peaks, towns, or other prominent topographical points or natural objects or monuments, giving the distances and directions as nearly accurate as possible, especially with reference to any well-known trail to a town or mining camp, or to a river or mountain appearing on the map of Alaska, which description shall appear in the field notes regardless of whether or not the survey be tied to an existing monument, or to a monument established by the surveyor when making the survey in accordance with existing regulations with reference to the establishment of such monuments. The description of such monument shall appear in a paragraph separate from the description of the courses and distances of the survey.

(c) All notices of applications for patent for lands in the Territory of Alaska, where the survey on which the application is based is not tied to a corner of the public survey, shall, in addition to the description required to be given by existing regulations, describe the monument to which the claim is tied by giving its latitude and longitude and a reference by approximate course and distance to a town, mining camp, river, creek, mountain, mountain peak, or other natural object appearing on the map of Alaska, and any other facts shown by the field notes of survey which shall aid in determining the exact location of such claim without an examination of the record or a reference to other sources. The registers and receivers will exercise discretion in the matter of such descriptions in the published notices, bearing in mind the object to be attained, of so describing the land embraced in the claim as to enable its location to be ascertained from the notice of application.

40. After posting the said plat and notice upon the premises the claimant will file with the proper register and receiver a copy of such plat and the field notes of survey of the claim, accompanied by the affidavit of at least two credible witnesses that such plat and notice are posted conspicuously upon the claim, giving the date and place of such posting, a copy of the notice so posted to be attached to and form a part of said affidavit.

41. At the time the foregoing are filed the claimant must file an application for patent, under oath, showing that he has the possessory right to the claim, in virtue of a compliance by himself (and by his grantors, if he claims by purchase) with the mining rules, regulations, and customs of the mining district, State, or Territory in which the claim lies, and with the mining laws of Congress, such sworn statement to narrate briefly, but as clearly as possible, the facts constituting such compliance, the origin of his possession, and the basis of his claim to a patent. The application should contain a full description of the kind and character of the vein or lode and should state whether ore has been extracted therefrom; and if so, in what amount and of what value. It should also show the precise place within the limits of each of the locations embraced in the application where the vein or lode has been exposed or discovered and the width thereof. The showing in these regards should contain sufficient data to enable representatives of the Government to confirm the same by examination in the field and also enable the Land Department to determine whether a valuable deposit of mineral actually exists within the limits of each of the locations embraced in the application.

(a) The register and receiver will require each person applying to enter or in any manner acquire title to any of the lands in Alaska, under any law of the United States, to file a corroborated affidavit to the effect that none of the lands covered by his application are embraced in any pending application for an allotment under the act of May 17, 1906 (34 Stat. 197), or in any pending allotment; that no part of said land was at the date of the location of the land claimed under the mining law occupied or claimed by any Indian whose occupancy or claim existed on the date of the acts granting to natives of Alaska the right to hold land used, occupied, or claimed by them (acts of Congress of May 17, 1884, 23 Stat. 24, and June 6, 1900, 31 Stat. 330), and had been continued down to and including date of location; that such land is in the bona fide legal possession of the applicant; and that no part of such land is in the bona fide legal possession of or is occupied by any Indian or native. (37 L. D. 616 and 43 L. D. 88, 272.)

42. This sworn statement must be supported by a copy of each location notice, certified by the legal custodian of the record thereof, and also by an abstract of title of each claim, certified by the legal custodian of the records of transfers or by a duly authorized abstracter of titles. The certificate must state that no conveyances affecting, or purporting to affect, the title to the claim or claims appear of record other than those set forth.

Outside of the Territory of Alaska the application for patent will be received and filed if the abstract is brought down to a day reasonably near the date of the presentation of the application and shows full title in the applicant, who must as soon as practicable thereafter file a supplemental abstract brought down so as to include the date of the filing of the application. Publication will not be ordered until the showing as to title is thus completed and the local land officers are satisfied that full title was in the applicant on the day of the filing of the application.

In the Territory of Alaska the application for patent will be received and filed and the order for publication issued if the abstract showing full title in the applicant is brought down to a day reasonably near the date of the presentation of the application. A supplemental abstract of title brought down so as to include the date of the filing of the application must be furnished prior to the expiration of the 60-day period of publication.

No certificate from an abstracter or abstract company will be accepted until approval by the commissioner of the General Land Office of a favorable report of the chief of field division, or United States district attorney whose division or district embraces the lands in question, as to the reliability and responsibility of such abstracter or company.

43. In the event of the mining records in any case having been destroyed by fire or otherwise lost, affidavit of the fact should be made, and secondary evidence of possessory title will be received, which may consist of the affidavit of the claimant, supported by those of any other parties cognizant of the facts relative to his location, occupancy, possession, improvements, etc.; and in such case of lost records, any deeds, certificates of location or purchase, or other evidence which may be in the claimant's possession and tend to establish his claim, should be filed.

44. Before approving for publication any notice of an application for mineral patent, local officers will be particular to see that it includes no land which is embraced in a prior or pending application for patent or entry, or for any land embraced in a railroad selection, or for which publication is pending or has been made by any other claimants, and if, in their opinion, after investigation, it should appear that notice of a mineral application should not, for this or other reasons, be approved for publication, they should formally reject the same, giving the reasons therefor, and allow the applicant 30 days for appeal to this office under the rules of practice.

Local officers will give prompt and appropriate notice to the railroad grantee of the filing of every application for mineral patent which embraces any portion of an odd-numbered section of surveyed lands within the primary limits of a railroad land grant, and of every such application embracing any portion of unsurveyed lands within such limits (except as to any such application which embraces a portion or portions of those ascertained or prospective odd-numbered sections only, within the limits of the grant in Montana and Idaho to the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., which have been classified as mineral under the act of February 26, 1895, without protest by the company within the time limited by the statute or the mineral classification whereof has been approved).

Should the railroad grantee file protest and apply for a hearing to determine the character of the land involved in any such application for mineral patent, proceedings thereunder will be had in the usual manner.

Any application for mineral patent, however, which embraces lands previously listed or selected by a railroad company will be disposed of as provided by the first section of this paragraph, and the applicant afforded opportunity to protest and apply for a hearing or to appeal.

Notice should be given to the duly authorized representative of the railroad grantee, in accordance with the Rules of Practice. When the claims applied for are upon unsurveyed land, the burden of proving that they are situate within prospective odd-numbered sections will rest upon the railroad.

Evidence of service of notice should be filed with the record in each case.

45. Upon the receipt of these papers, if no reason appears for rejecting the application, the register will, at the expense of the claimant (who must furnish the agreement of the publisher to hold applicant for patent alone responsible for charges of publication), publish a notice of such application for the period of 60 days in a newspaper published nearest to the claim, and will post a copy of such notice in his office for the same period. When the notice is published in a weekly newspaper, 9 consecutive insertions are necessary; when in a daily newspaper, the notice must appear in each issue for 61 consecutive issues. In both cases the first day of issue must be excluded in estimating the period of 60 days.

46. The notices so published and posted must embrace all the data given in the notice posted upon the claim. In addition to such data the published notice must further indicate the locus of the claim by giving the connecting line, as shown by the field notes and plat, between a corner of the claim and a United States mineral monument or a corner of the public survey, and thence the boundaries of the claim by courses and distances. (See also par. 39 (a), (b), (c).)

47. The register shall publish the notice of application for patent in a paper of established character and general circulation, to be by him designated as being the newspaper published nearest the land.

48. The claimant at the time of filing the application for patent, or at any time within the 60 days of publication, is required to file with the register a certificate of the surveyor general that not less than $500 worth of labor has been expended or improvements made, by the applicant or his grantors, upon each location embraced in the application, or if the application embraces several contiguous locations held in common, that an amount equal to $500 for each location has been so expended upon, and for the benefit of, the entire group; that the plat filed by the claimant is correct; that the field notes of the survey, as filed, furnish such an accurate description of the claim as will, if incorporated in a patent, serve to identify the premises fully, and that such reference is made therein to natural objects or permanent monuments as will perpetuate and fix the locus thereof: Provided, That as to all applications for patents made and passed to entry before July 1, 1898, or which are by protests or adverse claims prevented from being passed to entry before that time, where the application embraces several locations held in common, proof of an expenditure of $500 upon the group will be sufficient, and an expenditure of that amount need not be shown to have been made upon, or for the benefit of, each location embraced in the application.

49. The surveyor general may derive his information upon which to base his certificate as to the value of labor expended or improvements made from the mineral surveyor who actually makes survey and examination of the premises, in so far as such matters rest in the personal knowledge of the mineral surveyor. The mineral surveyor should specify with particularity and full detail the character and extent of such improvements. As to when and by whom the improvements were made and other essential matters not within such mineral surveyor's personal knowledge, recourse may be had by the surveyor general to corroborated affidavits by persons possessing such personal knowledge, or the best evidence in this behalf otherwise obtainable. This showing should accompany the report of the mineral surveyor as to improvements.

50. It will be convenient to have this certificate indorsed by the surveyor general, both upon the plat and field notes of survey filed by the claimant as aforesaid.

51. After the 60-day period of newspaper publication has expired, the claimant will furnish from the office of publication a sworn statement that the notice was published for the statutory period, giving the first and last day of such publication, and his own affidavit showing that the plat and notice aforesaid remained conspicuously posted upon the claim sought to be patented during said 60-day publication, giving the dates.

52. Upon the filing of this affidavit the register will, if no adverse claim was filed in his office during the period of publication, and no other objection appears, permit the claimant to pay for the land to which he is entitled at the rate of $5 for each acre and $5 for each fractional part of an acre, except as otherwise provided by law, the receiver issuing the usual receipt therefor. The claimant will also make a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by him for publication and surveys, together with all fees and money paid the register and receiver of the land office, after which the complete record will be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and a patent issued thereon if found regular.

53. At any time prior to the issuance of patent protest may be filed against the patenting of the claim as applied for, upon any ground tending to show that the applicant has failed to comply with the law in any matter essential to a valid entry under the patent proceedings. Such protest can not, however, be made the means of preserving a surface conflict lost by failure to adverse or lost by the judgment of the court in an adverse suit. One holding a present joint interest in a mineral location included in an application for patent who is excluded from the application, so that his interest would not be protected by the issue of patent thereon, may protest against the issuance of a patent as applied for, setting forth in such protest the nature and extent of his interest in such location, and such a protestant will be deemed a party in interest entitled to appeal. This results from the holding that a coowner excluded from an application for patent does not have an "adverse" claim within the meaning of sections 2325 and 2326 of the Revised Statutes. (See Turner v. Sawyer, 150 U. S., 578–586.)

54. Any party applying for patent as trustee must disclose fully the nature of the trust and the name of the cestui que trust; and such trustee, as well as the beneficiaries, must furnish satisfactory proof of citizenship; and the names of beneficiaries, as well as that of the trustee, must be inserted in the final certificate of entry.

55. The annual expenditure of $100 in labor or improvements on a mining claim, required by section 2324 of the Revised Statutes, is, with the exception of certain phosphate placer locations, validated by the act of January 11, 1915 (see regulations thereunder, dated March 31, 1915), solely a matter between rival or adverse claimants to the same mineral land, and goes only to the right of possession, the determination of which is committed exclusively to the courts.

56. The failure of an applicant for patent to a mining claim to prosecute his application to completion, by filing the necessary proofs and making payment for the land, within a reasonable time after the expiration of the period of publication of notice of the application, or after the termination of adverse proceedings in the courts, constitutes a waiver by the applicant of all rights obtained by the earlier proceedings upon the application.

57. The proceedings necessary to the completion of an application for patent to a mining claim, against which an adverse claim or protest has been filed, if taken by the applicant at the first opportunity afforded therefor under the law and departmental practice, will be as effective as if taken at the date when, but for the adverse claim or protest, the proceedings on the application could have been completed.

PLACER CLAIMS

58. The proceedings to obtain patents for placer claims, including all forms of mineral deposits excepting veins of quartz or other rock in place, are similar to the proceedings prescribed for obtaining patents for vein or lode claims; but where a placer claim shall be upon surveyed lands, and conforms to legal subdivisions, no further survey or plat will be required. Where placer claims can not be conformed to legal subdivisions, survey and plat shall be made as on unsurveyed lands.

59. The proceedings for obtaining patents for veins or lodes having already been fully given, it will not be necessary to repeat them here, it being thought that careful attention thereto by applicants and the local officers will enable them to act understandingly in the matter, and make such slight modifications in the notice, or otherwise, as may be necessary in view of the different nature of the two classes of claims; the price of placer claims being fixed, however, at $2.50 per acre or fractional part of an acre.

60. In placer applications, in addition to the recitals necessary in and to both vein or lode and placer applications, the placer application should contain, in detail, such data as will support the claim that the land applied for is placer ground containing valuable mineral deposits not in vein or lode formation and that title is sought not to control water courses or to obtain valuable timber but in good faith because of the mineral therein. This statement, of course, must depend upon the character of the deposit and the natural features of the ground, but the following details should be covered as fully as possible: If the claim be for a deposit of placer gold, there must be stated the yield per pan, or cubic yard, as shown by prospecting and development work, distance to bedrock, formation and extent of the deposit, and all other facts upon which he bases his allegation that the claim is valuable for its deposits of placer gold. If it be a building stone or other deposit than gold claimed under the placer laws, he must describe fully the kind, nature, and extent of the deposit, stating the reasons why same is by him regarded as a valuable mineral claim. He will also be required to describe fully the natural features of the claim; streams, if any, must be fully described as to their course, amount of water carried, fall within the claim; and he must state kind and amount of timber and other vegetation thereon and adaptability to mining or other uses.

If the claim be all placer ground, that fact must be stated in the application and corroborated by accompanying proofs; if of mixed placers and lodes, it should be so set out, with a description of all known lodes situated within the boundaries of the claim. A specific declaration, such as is required by section 2333, Revised Statutes, must be furnished as to each lode intended to be claimed. All other known lodes are, by the silence of the applicant, excluded by law from all claim by him, of whatsoever nature, possessory or otherwise.

While these data are required as a part of the mineral surveyor's report under paragraph 167, in case of placers taken by special survey, it is proper that the applicaton for patent incorporate these facts under the oath of the claimant.

Inasmuch as in case of claims taken by legal subdivisions, no report by a mineral surveyor is required, the claimant, in his application in addition to the data above required, should describe in detail the shafts, cuts, tunnels, or other workings claimed as improvements, giving their dimensions, value, and the course and distance thereof to the nearest corner of the public surveys.

As prescribed by paragraph 25, this statement as to the description and value of the improvements must be corroborated by the affidavits of two disinterested witnesses.

Applications awaiting entry, whether published or not, must be made to conform to these regulations, with respect to proof as to the character of the land. Entries already made will be suspended for such additional proofs as may be deemed necessary in each case.

Local land officers are instructed that if the proofs submitted in placer applications under this paragraph are not satisfactory as showing the land as a whole to be placer in character, or if the claims impinge upon or embrace water courses or bodies of water, and thus raise a doubt as to the bona fides of the location and application, or the character and extent of the deposit claimed thereunder, to call for further evidence, or if deemed necessary, request the specific attention of the Chief of Field Service thereto in connection with the usual notification to him under the circular instructions of April 24, 1907,[2] and suspend further action on the application until a report thereon is received from the field officer.

Attention is directed to the act of Congress approved August 1, 1912 (37 Stat. L. 242), entitled "An act to modify and amend the mining laws in their application to the Territory of Alaska, and for other purposes." In administering this act the foregoing regulations should be followed in so far as they are applicable, and these additional instructions of October 29, 1912, are prescribed:

It is important to note that this act applies exclusively to placer mining claims located in Alaska on or after August 1, 1912. It does not in any manner relate to lode mining claims, or to placer mining claims located prior to said date. The terms of the act lay strict limitations and conditions with respect to placer locations made upon or after said date.

Section 1 of the act provides that no association placer claim shall be located after August 1, 1912, in excess of 40 acres. This limitation is positive whatever may be the number of persons associated together or whatever the local district rules or regulations may permit.

Said section further provides that on every placer mining claim located in Alaska after the passage of the act, and until patent therefor has been issued, not less than $100 worth of labor must be performed or improvements made during each year, including the year of location, for each and every 20 acres or excess fraction thereof included in the claim. This means that the first annual expenditure on such a placer mining location must be accomplished for and during the calendar year in which the claim is located, instead of during the calendar year succeeding that in which the location is made. Moreover, the amount of annual expenditure is dependent upon the size of the claim, it being required that at least $100 must be expended for each 20 acres, or excess fraction thereof, embraced in the location.

By section 2 it is provided that no person, as attorney or agent for another, may locate any placer mining claim unless duly authorized by a power of attorney properly acknowledged and recorded in some recorder's office within the judicial division where the location is made. Furthermore, an authorized agent or attorney can act in making locations of placer mining claims for only two individual principals or one associate principal during any calendar month and during that period may not lawfully locate more than two claims for any one principal either individual or association. No placer claim can lawfully be located except in compliance with and under the limitations of the act.

In order that the land department may be fully advised in the premises, the following requirements must be met with regard to applications for placer mining claims located in Alaska on or after August 1, 1912:

(a) Where location is made by agent or attorney the power of attorney must be in writing and must be executed and acknowledged in accordance with the laws of the Territory of Alaska or of the State, Territory, or District in which it shall be executed. It must be recorded in the proper recorder's office, as prescribed by the act. The application for patent must be accompanied by a certified copy of such power of attorney which must show the recordation thereof; but it will be sufficient if such certified copy is attached to and made a part of the abstract of title.

[2] Rule 7 of this circular amended Oct. 30, 1913. See 42 L. D. 474; see also p. 1095.

(b) One of the principal purposes of the act is to limit the number of placer mining locations made in Alaska through agents or attorneys. An agent or attorney can not at one time represent more than two individuals or one association under powers of attorney. A duly authorized agent may make two locations for each of two individual principals, or for one association principal, during any calendar month, but he can make no further locations during that month for those or other principals.

The application for patent should accordingly be accompanied by the sworn statement of the agent or attorney setting forth specifically the names of all placer mining claims, together with the date of location and names of the locators, which were located or attempted to be located by him under powers of attorney during the calendar month in which the placer claim applied for was located.

(c) By section 3 it is prescribed that no person shall directly locate, or through an agent or attorney cause or procure to be located, for himself more than two placer mining claims in any calendar month: Provided, however, That one or both of such locations may be included in an association claim.

Whenever a person or an association has participated in the locating of placer mining claims in Alaska to the extent of two such claims in any calendar month, such person or such association thereby exhausts the right to make placer location for that month. The application for patent, therefore, for a placer mining claim located in Alaska on or after August 1, 1912, must contain or be accompanied by a specific statement, under oath, as to each locator who had an interest therein, showing specifically and in detail all placer locations made by him, or in which he was associated, either directly or through any agent or attorney, during the calendar month in which the claim applied for was located. If no locations in excess of those permitted by law were made during such calendar month a specific statement, under oath, to that effect, should be submitted. This showing must be made in addition to that hereinabove required of the agent himself.

Section 4 of the act prohibits the patenting of any placer mining claim located in Alaska after the passage of the act, which contains a greater area than that fixed by law or which is longer than three times its greatest width. The surveyor general will be careful to observe the above requirements and will not approve any survey of a placer location which does not in area and dimensions conform to the provisions of law.[a]

By section 5 of the act it is declared that any placer mining claim attempted to be located in violation of the provisions and limitations of the act shall be null and void and the whole area covered by such attempted location may be located by any qualified person the same as if no such prior attempted location had been made. Consequently, any attempted placer location not made in conformity with the act is a nullity and the land covered thereby is open for and subject to proper location at any time.

[a] See amendment, p. 845.

It will be observed that the act does not affect the number of claims, lode or placer, and if placer whether located before or after the passage of the act, which may be included in a single application proceeding.

MILL SITES

61. Land entered as a mill site must be shown to be nonmineral. Mill sites are simply auxiliary to the working of mineral claims, and as section 2337, which provides for the patenting of mill sites, is embraced in the chapter of the Revised Statutes relating to mineral lands, they are therefore included in this circular.

62. To avail themselves of this provision of law, parties holding the possessory right to a vein or lode claim, and to a piece of nonmineral land not contiguous thereto for mining or milling purposes, not exceeding the quantity allowed for such purpose by section 2337, or prior laws, under which the land was appropriated, the proprietors of such vein or lode may file in the proper land office their application for a patent, under oath, in manner already set forth herein, which application, together with the plat and field notes, may include, embrace, and describe, in addition to the vein or lode claim, such noncontiguous mill site, and after due proceedings as to notice, etc., a patent will be issued conveying the same as one claim. The owner of a patented lode may, by an independent application, secure a mill site if good faith is manifest in its use or occupation in connection with the lode and no adverse claim exists.

63. Where the original survey includes a lode claim and also a mill site the lode claim should be described in the plat and field notes as "Sur. No. 37, A," and the mill site as "Sur. No. 37, B," or whatever may be its appropriate numerical designation; the course and distance from a corner of the mill site to a corner of the lode claim to be invariably given in such plat and field notes, and a copy of the plat and notice of application for patent must be conspicuously posted upon the mill site as well as upon the vein or lode claim for the statutory period of 60 days. In making the entry no separate receipt or certificate need be issued for the mill site, but the whole area of both lode and mill site will be embraced in one entry, the price being $5 for each acre and fractional part of an acre embraced by such lode and mill-site claim.

64. In case the owner of a quartz mill or reduction works is not the owner or claimant of a vein or lode claim the law permits him to make application therefor in the same manner prescribed herein for mining claims, and after due notice and proceedings, in the absence of a valid adverse filing, to enter and receive a patent for his mill site at said price per acre.

65. In every case there must be satisfactory proof that the land claimed as a mill site is not mineral in character, which proof may, where the matter is unquestioned, consist of the sworn statement of two or more persons capable, from acquaintance with the land, to testify understandingly.

66. The proof necessary to establish the citizenship of applicants for mining patents must be made in the following manner: In case of an incorporated company, a certified copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation must be filed. In case of an association of persons unincorporated, the affidavit of their duly authorized agent, made upon his own knowledge or upon information and belief, setting forth the residence of each person forming such association, must be submitted. This affidavit must be accompanied by a power of attorney from the parties forming such association, authorizing the person who makes the affidavit of citizenship to act for them in the matter of their application for patent.

67. In case of an individual or an association of individuals who do not appear by their duly authorized agent, the affidavit of each applicant, showing whether he is a native or naturalized citizen, when and where born, and his residence, will be required.

68. In case an applicant has declared his intention to become a citizen or has been naturalized, his affidavit must show the date, place, and the court before which he declared his intention, or from which his certificate of citizenship issued, and present residence.

69. The affidavit of the claimant as to his citizenship may be taken before the register or receiver, or any other officer authorized to administer oaths within the land districts; or, if the claimant is residing beyond the limits of the district, the affidavit may be taken before the clerk of any court of record or before any notary public of any State or Territory.

70. If citizenship is established by the testimony of disinterested persons, such testimony may be taken at any place before any person authorized to administer oaths, and whose official character is duly verified.

71. No entry will be allowed until the register has satisfied himself, by careful examination, that proper proofs have been filed upon the points indicated in the law and official regulations. Transfers made subsequent to the filing of the application for patent will not be considered, but entry will be allowed and patent issued in all cases in the name of the applicant for patent, the title conveyed by the patent, of course, in each instance inuring to the transferee of such applicant where a transfer has been made pending the application for patent.

72. The mineral entries will be given the current serial numbers according to the provisions of the circular of June 10, 1908, whether the same are of lode or of placer claims or of mill sites.

73. In sending up the papers in a case the register must not omit certifying to the fact that the notice was posted in his office for the full period of 60 days, such certificate to state distinctly when such posting was done and how long continued. The schedule of papers, form 4–252f, should accompany the returns with all mineral applications and entries allowed.

Possessory Right

74. The provisions of section 2332, Revised Statutes, will greatly lessen the burden of proof, more especially in the case of old claims located many years since, the records of which, in many cases, have been destroyed by fire, or lost in other ways during the lapse of time, but concerning the possessory right to which all controversy or litigation has long been settled.

75. When an applicant desires to make his proof of possessory right in accordance with this provision of law, he will not be required to produce evidence of location, copies of conveyances, or abstracts of title, as in other cases, but will be required to furnish a duly certified copy of the statute of limitation of mining claims for the State or Territory, together with his sworn statement giving a clear and succinct narration of the facts as to the origin of his title, and likewise as to the continuation of his possession of the mining ground covered by his application; the area thereof; the nature and extent of the mining that has been done thereon; whether there has been any opposition to his possession, or litigation with regard to his claim, and if so, when the same ceased; whether such cessation was caused by compromise or by judicial decree, and any additional facts within the claimant's knowledge having a direct bearing upon his possession and bone fides which he may desire to submit in support of his claim.

76. There should likewise be filed a certificate, under seal of the court having jurisdiction of mining cases within the judicial district embracing the claim, that no suit or action of any character whatever involving the right of possession to any portion of the claim applied for is pending, and that there has been no litigation before said court affecting the title to said claim or any part thereof for a period equal to the time fixed by the statute of limitations for mining claims in the State or Territory as aforesaid other than that which has been finally decided in favor of the claimant.

77. The claimant should support his narrative of facts relative to his possession, occupancy, and improvements by corroborative testimony of any disinterested person or persons of credibility who may be cognizant of the facts in the case and are capable of testifying understandingly in the premises.

Adverse Claims

78. An adverse claim must be filed with the register and receiver of the land office where the application for patent is filed or with the register and receiver of the district in which the land is situated at the time of filing the adverse claim. It must be on the oath of the adverse claimant, or it may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney in fact of the adverse claimant cognizant of the facts stated.

79. Where an agent or attorney in fact verifies the adverse claim, he must distinctly swear that he is such agent or attorney, and accompany his affidavit by proof thereof.

80. The agent or attorney in fact must make the affidavit in verification of the adverse claim within the land district where the claim is situated.

81. The adverse claim so filed must fully set forth the nature and extent of the interference or conflict; whether the adverse party claims as a purchaser for valuable consideration or as a locator. If the former, a certified copy of the original location, the original conveyance, a duly certified copy thereof, or an abstract of title from the office of the proper recorder should be furnished, or if the transaction was a merely verbal one he will narrate the circumstances attending the purchase, the date thereof, and the amount paid, which facts should be supported by the affidavit of one or more witnesses, if any were present at the time, and if he claims as a locator he must file a duly certified copy of the location from the office of the proper recorder.

82. In order that the "boundaries" and "extent" of the claim may be shown, it will be incumbent upon the adverse claimant to file a plat showing his entire claim, its relative situation or position with the one against which he claims, and the extent of the conflict: Provided, however, That if the application for patent describes the claim by legal subdivisions, the adverse claimant, if also claiming by legal subdivisions, may describe his adverse claim in the same manner without further survey or plat. If the claim is not described by legal subdivisions it will generally be more satisfactory if the plat thereof is made from an actual survey by a mineral surveyor and its correctness officially certified thereon by him.

83. Upon the foregoing being filed within the 60-day period of publication, the register, or in his absence the receiver, will immediately give notice in writing to the parties that such adverse claim has been filed, informing them that the party who filed the adverse claim will be required within 30 days from the date of such filing to commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction to determine the question of right of possession, and to prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment, and that, should such adverse claimant fail to do so, his adverse claim will be considered waived and the application for patent be allowed to proceed upon its merits.

84. When an adverse claim is filed as aforesaid, the register or receiver will indorse upon the same the precise date of filing and preserve a record of the date of notifications issued thereon; and thereafter all proceedings on the application for patent will be stayed with the exception of the completion of the publication and posting of notices and plat and the filing of the necessary proof thereof, until the controversy shall have been finally adjudicated in court or the adverse claim waived or withdrawn.

(a) The act of Congress approved June 7, 1910 (36 Stat. L. 459), relates to the filing of adverse claims and the institution of suits thereon, with respect to mineral applications in the Territory of Alaska.

In administering this act the foregoing regulations should be followed in so far as they are applicable, and these additional instructions are prescribed.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR FILING ADVERSE CLAIMS

The act provides that adverse claims may be filed at any time during the 60-day period of publication or within 8 months thereafter. This provision applies to any application where the 60-day period of publication ended with, or ends after, June 7, 1910, and operates to enlarge by 8 months additional the time within which an adverse claim may be filed. This provision does not apply to any application under which the 60-day period of publication ended with, or before, June 6, 1910, for, if no adverse claim was seasonably filed in such case, the statutory assumption that none existed has arisen, upon the expiration of the publication period, in favor of the applicant.

EXTENSION OF TIME WITHIN WHICH ADVERSE SUITS MAY BE INSTITUTED

(b) It is also provided by the act that adverse suits may be instituted at any time within 60 days after the filing of adverse claims in the local land office. This provision applies to any adverse claim under which the 30-day period fixed under the former law for commencing the adverse suit was running on, or expired with, June 7, 1910, and enlarges such time to a period of 60 days, and also to any adverse claim which is seasonably filed on, or after, June 7, 1910. Such provision has no operation in a case where, under the former law, the 30-day period within which to institute suit on an adverse claim expired with, or ended before, June 6, 1910, and the 60-day publication period also expired on or before June 6, 1910.

Registers and receivers of United States land offices in Alaska will exercise the greatest care in applying the provisions of the act, and will allow no mineral entry until after the expiration of the full period granted for the filing of adverse claims. For example, on any application under which the publication period ended with, or after, June 7, 1910, no entry will in any event be allowed until after the expiration of the 8-month period following the publication period.

85. Where an adverse claim has been filed and suit thereon commenced within the statutory period and final judgment rendered determining the right of possession, it will not be sufficient to file with the register a certificate of the clerk of the court setting forth the facts as to such judgment, but the successful party must, before he is allowed to make entry, file a certified copy of the judgment roll, together with the other evidence required by section 2326, Revised Statutes, and a certificate of the clerk of the court under the seal of the court showing, in accord with the record facts of the case, that the judgment mentioned and described in the judgment roll aforesaid is a final judgment; that the time for appeal therefrom has, under the law, expired, and that no such appeal has been filed, or that the defeated party has waived his right to appeal. Other evidence showing such waiver or an abandonment of the litigation may be filed.

86. Where such suit has been dismissed, a certificate of the clerk of the court to that effect or a certified copy of the order of dismissal will be sufficient.

87. After an adverse claim has been filed and suit commenced, a relinquishment or other evidence of abandonment of the adverse claim will not be accepted, but the case must be terminated and proof thereof furnished as required by the last two paragraphs.

88. Where an adverse claim has been filed but no suit commenced against the applicant for patent within the statutory period, a certificate to that effect by the clerk of the State court having jurisdiction in the case, and also by the clerk of the district court of the United States for the district in which the claim is situated, will be required.

APPOINTMENT OF SURVEYORS FOR SURVEY OF MINING CLAIMS AND CHARGES

89.[3] Section 2334 provides for the appointment of surveyors to survey mining claims, and authorizes the Commissioner of the General Land Office to establish the rates to be charged for surveys and for newspaper publications in mining cases. Under this authority of law, the following rates have been established as the maximum charges for newspaper publications:

(1) The charge for the publication of notice of application for patent in a mining case, in all districts, exclusive of Fairbanks, Alaska, shall not exceed the legal rates allowed by the laws of the State, wherein the notice is published, for the publication of legal notices, and in no case shall the charge exceed $7 for each 10 lines of space occupied where publication is had in a daily newspaper, and where a weekly newspaper is used as a medium of publication $5 shall be the maximum charge for the same space. Such charge shall be accepted as full payment for publication in each issue of the newspaper for the entire period required by law.

For such publications in the Fairbanks and Nome districts the maximum rate is fixed at $10 for each 10 lines of space in a daily newspaper for the required period, and at $7 for the same space and time if publication be had in a weekly newspaper.

It is expected that these notices shall not be so abbreviated as to curtail the description essential to a perfect notice, and the said rates are established upon the understanding that they are to be in the usual body type used for legal notices.

(2) For the publication of citations in contests or hearings, involving the character of lands, the charges may not exceed the rates provided for similar notices by the law of the State, and shall not exceed $8 for five publications in a weekly newspaper, or $10 for publication in a daily newspaper for 30 days.

90. The surveyors general of the several districts will, in pursuance of said law, appoint in each land district as many competent surveyors for the survey of mining claims as may seek such appointment, it being distinctly understood that all expenses of these notices and surveys are to be borne by the mining claimants and not by the United States. The statute provides that the claimant shall also be at liberty to employ any United States mineral surveyor to make the survey. Each surveyor appointed to survey mining claims before entering upon the duties of his office or appointment shall be required to enter into a bond of not less than $5,000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

91. With regard to the platting of the claim and other office work in the surveyor generals' office, that officer will make an estimate of the cost thereof, which amount the claimant will deposit with any assistant United States treasurer or designated depository in favor of the United States Treasurer, to be passed to the credit of the fund created by "deposits by individuals for surveying public lands," and file with the surveyor general duplicate certificates of such deposit in the usual manner.

[3] See amendment, p. 844. Also see Circular No. 39, p. 1442, Circular No. 996, p. 1476, and Circular No. 1042, p. 1478.

92. The surveyors general will endeavor to appoint surveyors to survey mining claims so that one or more may be located in each mining district for the greater convenience of miners.

93. The usual oaths will be required of these surveyors and their assistants as to the correctness of each survey executed by them.

The duty of the surveyor ceases when he has executed the survey and returned the field notes and preliminary plat thereof with his report to the surveyor general. He will not be allowed to prepare for the mining claimant the papers in support of an application for patent, or otherwise perform the duties of an attorney before the land office in connection with a mining claim.

The surveyors general and local land officers are expected to report any infringement of this regulation to this office.

94. Should it appear that excessive or exorbitant charges have been made by any surveyor or any publisher, prompt action will be taken with the view of correcting the abuse.

Fees of Registers and Receivers

95. The fees payable to the register and receiver for filing and acting upon applications for mineral-land patents are $5 to each officer, to be paid by the applicant for patent at the time of filing, and the like sum of $5 is payable to each officer by an adverse claimant at the time of filing his adverse claim. (Sec. 2238, R. S., par. 9.)

(Paragraphs 96, 97, and 98 are superseded by the general circular instructions of August 9, 1918 (46 L. D. 513), prescribing the method of keeping records and accounts relating to the public lands.)

Hearings to Determine Character of Lands

99. The Rules of Practice in cases before the United States district land offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior will, so far as applicable, govern in all cases and proceedings arising in contests and hearings to determine the character of lands.

100. Public land returned by the surveyor general as mineral shall be withheld from entry as agricultural land until the presumption arising from such a return shall be overcome by testimony taken in the manner hereinafter described.

101. Hearings to determine the character of lands:

(1) Lands returned as mineral by the surveyor general.

When such lands are sought to be entered as agricultural under laws which require the submission of final proof after due notice by publication and posting, the filing of the proper nonmineral affidavit in the absence of allegations that the land is mineral will be deemed sufficient as a preliminary requirement. A satisfactory showing as to character of land must be made when final proof is submitted.

In case of application to enter, locate, or select such lands as agricultural, under laws in which the submission of final proof after due publication and posting is not required, notice thereof must first be given by publication for 60 days and posting in the local office during the same period, and affirmative proof as to the character of the land submitted. In the absence of allegations that the land is mineral, and upon compliance with this requirement, the entry, location, or selection will be allowed, if otherwise regular.

(2) Lands returned as agricultural and alleged to be mineral in character.

Where as against the claimed right to enter such lands as agricultural it is alleged that the same are mineral, or are applied for as mineral lands, the proceedings in this class of cases will be in the nature of a contest, and the practice will be governed by the rules in force in contest cases.

(Paragraphs 102 to 104, inclusive, are superseded by appropriate instructions relative to nonmineral proofs in railroad, State, and forest lieu selections contained in separate circulars.)

105. At hearings to determine the character of lands the claimants and witnesses will be thoroughly examined with regard to the character of the land; whether the same has been thoroughly prospected; whether or not there exists within the tract or tracts claimed any lode or vein of quartz or other rock in place bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, or copper, or other valuable deposit which has ever been claimed, located, recorded, or worked; whether such work is entirely abandoned, or whether occasionally resumed; if such lode does exist, by whom claimed, under what designation, and in which subdivision of the land it lies; whether any placer mine or mines exist upon the land; if so, what is the character thereof—whether of the shallow-surface description, or of the deep cement, blue lead, or gravel deposits; to what extent mining is carried on when water can be obtained, and what the facilities are for obtaining water for mining purposes; upon what particular 10-acre subdivisions mining has been done, and at what time the land was abandoned for mining purposes, if abandoned at all. In every case, where practicable, an adequate quantity or number of representative samples of the alleged mineral-bearing matter or material should be offered in evidence, with proper identification, to be considered in connection with the record, with which they will be transmitted upon each appeal that may be taken. Testimony may be submitted as to the geological formation and development of mineral on adjoining or adjacent lands and their relevancy.

106. The testimony should also show the agricultural capacities of the land, what kind of crops are raised thereon, the value thereof; the number of acres actually cultivated for crops of cereals or vegetables, and within which particular 10-acre subdivision such crops are raised; also which of these subdivisions embrace the improvements, giving in detail the extent and value of the improvements, such as house, barn, vineyard, orchard, fencing, etc., and mining improvements.

107. The testimony should be as full and complete as possible; and in addition to the leading points indicated above, where an attempt is made to prove the mineral character of lands which have been entered under the agricultural laws, it should show at what date, if at all, valuable deposits of minerals were first known to exist on the lands.

108.[b] When the case comes before this office, such decision will be made as the law and facts may justify. In cases where a survey is necessary to set apart the mineral from the agricultural land, the United States surveyor general for the district in which the lands are located will be authorized to prepare special instructions for its execution, and upon approval of such instructions by this office assignment will be made to a United States surveyor to make the survey. The work will be performed without expense to the agricultural claimant or to the mineral claimant, and upon completion, approval, and acceptance thereof the local land office will be supplied with an authenticated copy of the plat of said segregation survey, which will become the basis for the disposal of the nonmineral lands exhibited thereon. The local land office will, in all cases, be advised of the issuance of authority for the survey and a copy thereof will be furnished for service on the mineral claimant.

109 and 110. (Omitted.)

111. The fact that a certain tract of land is decided upon testimony to be mineral in character is by no means equivalent to an award of the land to a miner. In order to secure a patent for such land, he must proceed as in other cases, in accordance with the foregoing regulations.

Blank forms for proofs in mineral cases are not furnished by the General Land Office.

TERRITORY OF ALASKA

112. Section 13, act of May 14, 1898, according to native-born citizens of Canada " the same mining rights and privileges " in the Territory of Alaska as are accorded to citizens of the United States in British Columbia and the Northwest Territory by the laws of the Dominion of Canada, is not now and never has been operative, for the reason that the only mining rights and privileges granted to any person by the laws of the Dominion of Canada are those of leasing mineral lands upon the payment of a stated royalty, and the mining laws of the United States make no provision for such leases.

113. For the sections of the act of June 6, 1900, making further provision for a civil government for Alaska, which provide for the establishment of recording districts and the recording of mining locations; for the making of rules and regulations by the miners and for the legalization of mining records; for the extension of the mining laws to the Territory of Alaska, and for the exploration and mining of tide lands and lands below low tide; and relating to the rights of Indians and persons conducting schools or missions, see page 21 of this circular.[c]

MINERAL LANDS WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS

114. The act of June 4, 1897, provides that " any mineral lands in any forest reservation which have been or which may be shown to be such, and subject to entry under the existing mining laws of the United States and the rules and regulations applying thereto, shall continue to be subject to such location and entry," nothwithstanding the reservation. This makes mineral lands in the forest reserves subject to location and entry under the general mining laws in the usual manner.

The act also provides that " The Secretary of the Interior may permit, under regulations to be prescribed by him, the use of timber and stone found upon such reservations, free of charge, by bona fide settlers, miners, residents, and prospectors for minerals, for firewood, fencing, building, mining, prospecting, and other domestic purposes, as may be needed by such persons for such purposes; such timber to be used within the State or Territory, respectively, where such reservations may be located."

TRANSFER OF NATIONAL FORESTS

Act of February 1, 1905 (33 Stat. 628)

The Secretary of the Department of Agriculture shall, from and after the passage of this Act, execute or cause to be executed all laws affecting public lands heretofore or hereafter reserved under the provisions of section twenty-four of the Act entitled "An act to repeal the timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and Acts supplemental to and amendatory thereof, after such lands have been so reserved, excepting such laws as affect the surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, relinquishing, reconveying, certifying, or patenting of any of such lands.

SURVEYS OF MINING CLAIMS

GENERAL PROVISIONS [3a]

115. Under section 2334, Revised Statutes, the United States surveyor general " may appoint in each land district containing mineral lands as many competent surveyors as shall apply for appointment to survey mining claims."

116. Persons desiring such appointment should therefore file their applications with the surveyor general for the district wherein appointment is asked, who will furnish all information necessary.

117. All appointments of mineral surveyors must be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for approval.

118. The surveyors general have authority to suspend or revoke the appointments of mineral surveyors at any time, for cause, and to suspend or revoke the appointments at such times as the bonds become subject to renewal under the act of March 2, 1895 (28 Stat. 808), for reasons appearing sufficient to sustain a refusal to appoint in the first instance. The surveyors, however, will be allowed the right of appeal from the action of the surveyor general in the usual manner. The appeal must be filed with the surveyor general, who will at once transmit the same, with a full report, to the General Land Office. (20 L. D. 283.)

119. (Omitted.)

120. Neither the surveyor general nor the Commissioner of the General Land Office has jurisdiction to settle differences relative to the payment of charges for field work, between mineral surveyors and claimants. These are matters of private contract and must be enforced in the ordinary manner—i. e., in the local courts. The department has, however, authority to investigate charges affecting the official actions of mineral surveyors, and will, on sufficient cause shown, suspend or revoke their appointment.

121. The surveyors general should appoint as many competent mineral surveyors as apply for appointment, in order that claimants may have a choice of surveyors, and be enabled to have their work done on the most advantageous terms.

122. The schedule of charges for office work should be as low as is possible. No additional charges should be made for orders for amended surveys, unless the necessity therefor is clearly the fault of the claimant, or considerable additional office work results therefrom.

123. (Omitted.)

124. Mineral surveyors will address all official communications to the surveyor general. They will, when a mining claim is the subject of correspondence, give the name and survey number. In replying to letters they will give the subject matter and date of the letter. They will promptly notify the surveyor general of any change in post-office address.

125. Mineral surveyors should keep a complete record of each survey made by them and the facts coming to their knowledge at the time, as well as copies of all their field notes, reports, and official correspondence, in order that such evidence may be readily produced when called for at any future time. Field notes and other reports must be written in a clear and legible hand or typewritten, in non-copying ink, and upon the proper blanks furnished gratuitously by the surveyor general's office upon application therefor. No interlineations or erasures will be allowed.

126. No return by a mineral surveyor will be recognized as official unless it is over his signature as a United States mineral surveyor, and made in pursuance of a special order from the surveyor general's office. After he has received an order for survey he is required to make the survey and return correct field notes thereof to the surveyor general's office without delay.

127. The claimant is required, in all cases, to make satisfactory arrangements with the surveyor for the payment for his services and those of his assistants in making the survey, as the United States will not be held responsible for the same.

128. A mineral surveyor is precluded from acting, either directly or indirectly, as attorney in mineral claims. His duty in any particular case ceases when he has executed the survey and returned the field notes and preliminary plat, with his report, to the surveyor general. He will not be allowed to prepare for the mining claimant the papers in support of his application for patent, or otherwise perform the duties of an attorney before the land office in connection with a mining claim. He is not permitted to combine the duties of surveyor and notary public in the same case by administering oaths to the parties in interest. It is preferable that both preliminary and final oaths of assistants should be taken before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths, other than the mineral surveyor. In cases, however, where great delay, expense, or inconvenience would result from a strict compliance with this rule, the mineral surveyor is authorized to administer the necessary oaths to his assistants, but in each case where this is done, he will submit to the proper surveyor general a full written report of the circumstances which required his stated action; otherwise he must have absolutely nothing to do with the case, except in his official capacity as surveyor. He will not employ chainmen interested therein in any manner.

METHOD OF SURVEY

129. The survey made and returned, must, in every case, be an actual survey on the ground in full detail, made by the mineral surveyor in person after the receipt of the order, and without reference to any knowledge he may have previously acquired by reason of having made the location survey or otherwise, and must show the actual facts existing at the time. This precludes him from calculating the connections to corners of the public survey and location monuments, or any other lines of his survey through prior surveys made by others and substituting the same for connections or lines of the survey returned by him. The term survey in this paragraph applies not only to the usual field work, but also to the examinations required for the preparation of affidavits of $500 expenditure, descriptive reports on placer claims, and all other reports.

130. The survey of a mining claim may consist of several contiguous locations, but such survey must, in conformity with statutory requirements, distinguish the several locations, and exhibit the boundaries of each. The survey will be given but one number.

131. The survey must be made in strict conformity with, or be embraced within, the lines of the location upon which the order is based. If the survey and location are identical, that fact must be clearly and distinctly stated in the field notes. If not identical, a bearing and distance must be given from each established corner of survey to the corresponding corner of the location, and the location corner must be fully described, so that it can be identified. The lines of the location, as found upon the ground, must be laid down upon the preliminary plat in such a manner as to contrast and show their relation to the lines of survey.

132. In view of the principle that courses and distances must give way when in conflict with fixed objects and monuments, the surveyor will not, under any circumstances, change the corners of the location for the purpose of making them conform to the description in the record. If the difference from the location be slight, it may be explained in the field notes.

133. No mining claim located subsequent to May 10, 1872, should exceed the statutory limit in width on each side of the center of vein or 1,500 feet in length, and all surveys must close within 50–100 feet in 1,000 feet, and the error must not be such as to make the location exceed the stautory limit, and in absence of other proof the discovery point is held to be the center of the vein on the surface. The course and length of the vein should be marked upon the plat.

134. All mineral surveys must be made with a transit, with or without solar attachment, by which the meridian can be determined independently of the magnetic needle, and all courses must be referred to the true meridian. The variation should be noted at each corner of the survey. The true course of at least one line of each survey must be ascertained by astronomical observations made at the time of the survey; the data for determining the same and details as to how these data were arrived at must be given. Or, in lieu of the foregoing, the survey must be connected with some line the true course of which has been previously established beyond question, and in a similar manner, and, when such lines exist, it is desirable in all cases that they should be used as a proof of the accuracy of subsequent work.

135. Corner No. 1 of each location embraced in a survey must be connected by course and distance with nearest corner of the public survey or with a United States location monument, if the claim lies within 2 miles of such corner or monument. If both are within the required distance, the connection must be with the corner of the public survey.

136. Surveys and connections of mineral claims may be made in suspended townships in the same manner as though the claims were upon unsurveyed land, except as hereinafter specified, by connecting them with independent mineral monuments. At the same time, the position of any public-land corner which may be found in the neighborhood of the claim should be noted, so that, in case of the release of the township from suspension, the position of the claim can be shown on the plat.

137. A mineral survey must not be returned with its connection made only with a corner of the public survey, where the survey of the township within which it is situated is under suspension, nor connected with a mineral monument alone, when situated within the limits of a township the regularity and correctness of the survey of which is unquestioned.

138. In making an official survey, corner No. 1 of each location must be established at the corner nearest the corner of the public survey or location monument, unless good cause is shown for its being placed otherwise. If connections are given to both a corner of the public survey and location monument, corners Nos. 1 should be placed at the corner nearest the corner of the public survey.

139. In case a survey is situated in a district where there are no corners of the public survey and no monuments within the prescribed limits, a mineral monument must be established, in the location of which the greatest care must be exercised to insure permanency as to site and construction. (See, also, provisions of par. 39*b*.)

140. The site, when practicable, should be some prominent point, visible for a long distance from every direction, and should be so chosen that the permanency of the monument will not be endangered by snow, rock, or landslides, or other natural causes.

141. The monument should consist of a stone not less than 30 inches long, 20 inches wide, and 6 inches thick, set halfway in the ground, with a conical mound of stone 4 feet high and 6 feet base alongside. The letters U. S. L. M., followed by the consecutive number of the monument in the district, must be plainly chiseled upon the stone. If impracticable to obtain a stone of required dimensions, then a post 8 feet long, 6 inches square, set 3 feet in the ground, scribed as for a stone monument, protected by a well-built conical mound of stone of not less than 3 feet high and 6 feet base around it, may be used. The exact point for connection must be indicated on the monument by an X chiseled thereon; if a post is used, then a tack must be driven into the post to indicate the point.

142. From the monument connections by course and distance must be taken to two or three bearing trees or rocks, and to any well-known and permanent objects in the vicinity, such as the confluence of streams, prominent rocks, buildings, shafts, or mouths of adits.

Bearing trees must be properly scribed B. T. and bearing rocks chiseled B. R., together with the number of the location monument; the exact point on the tree or stone to which the connection is taken should be indicated by a cross or other unmistakable mark. Bearings should also be taken to prominent mountain peaks, and the approximate distance and direction ascertained from the nearest town or mining camp. A detailed description of the locating monument, with a topographical map of its location, should be furnished the office of the surveyor general by the surveyor.

143. Corners may consist of—

First. A stone at least 24 inches long set 12 inches in the ground, with a conical mound of stone 1½ feet high, 2 feet base, alongside.

Second. A post at least 3 feet long by 4 inches square, set 18 inches in the ground and surrounded by a substantial mound of stone or earth.

Third. A rock in place.

A stone should always be used for a corner when possible, and when so used the kind should be stated.

144. All corners must be established in a permanent and workmanlike manner, and the corner and survey number must be neatly chiseled or scribed on the sides facing the claim. The exact corner point must be permanently indicated on the corner. When a rock in place is used, its dimensions above ground must be stated and a cross chiseled at the exact corner point.

145. In case the point for the corner be inaccessible or unsuitable a witness corner, which must be marked with the letters W. C. in addition to the corner and survey number, should be established. The witness corner should be located upon a line of the survey and as near as possible to the true corner, with which it must be connected by course and distance. The reason why it is impossible or impracticable to establish the true corner must always be stated in the field notes, and in running the next course it should be stated whether the start is made from the true place for corner or from witness corner.

146. The identity of all corners should be perpetuated by taking courses and distances to bearing trees, rocks, and other objects, as prescribed in the establishment of location monuments, and when no bearings are given it should be stated that no bearings are available. Permanent objects should be selected for bearings whenever possible.

147. If an official mineral survey has been made in the vicinity, within a reasonable distance, a further connecting line should be run to some corner thereof; and in like manner all conflicting surveys and locations should be so connected, and the corner with which connection is made in each case described. Such connections will be made and conflicts shown according to the boundaries of the neighboring or conflicting claims as each is marked, defined, and actually established upon the ground. The mineral surveyor will fully and specifically state in his return how and by what visible evidences he was able to identify on the ground the several conflicting surveys and those which appear according to their returned tie or boundary lines to conflict, if they were so identified, and report errors or discrepancies found by him in any such surveys. In the survey of contiguous claims which constitute a consolidated group, where corners are common, bearings should be mentioned but once.

148. The mineral surveyor should note carefully all topographical features of the claim, taking distances on his lines to intersections with all streams, gulches, ditches, ravines, mountain ridges, roads, trails, etc., with their widths, courses, and other data that may be required to map them correctly. All municipal or private improvements, such as blocks, streets, and buildings, should be located.

149. If, in running the exterior lines of a claim, the survey is found to conflict with the survey of another claim, the distances to the points of intersection, and the courses and distances along the line intersected from an established corner of such conflicting claim to such points of intersection, should be described in the field notes: Provided, That where a corner of the conflicting survey falls within the claim being surveyed, such corner should be selected from which to give the bearing, otherwise the corner nearest the intersection should be taken. The same rule should govern in the survey of claims embracing two or more locations the lines of which intersect.

150. A lode and mill-site claim in one survey will be distinguished by the letters A and B following the number of the survey. The corners of the mill site will be numbered independently of those of the lode. Corner No. 1 of the mill site must be connected with a corner of the lode claim as well as with a corner of the public survey or United States location monument.

151. When a placer claim includes lodes, or when several contiguous placer or lode locations are included as one claim in one survey, there must be given to the corners of each location constituting the same a separate consecutive numerical designation, beginning with corner No. 1 in each case.

152. Throughout the description of the survey, after each reference to the lines or corners of a location, the name thereof must be given, and if unsurveyed, the fact stated. If reference is made to a location included in a prior official survey, the survey number must be given, followed by the name of the location. Corners should be described once only.

153. The total area of each location and also the area in conflict with each intersecting survey or claim should be stated. But when locations embraced in one survey conflict with each other such conflicts should only be stated in connection with the location from which the conflicting area is excluded.

154. It should be stated particularly whether the claim is upon surveyed or unsurveyed public lands, giving in the former case the quarter section, township, and range in which it is located, and the section lines should be indicated by full lines and the quarter-section lines by dotted lines.

155. The title-page of the field notes must contain the post-office address of the claimant or his authorized agent.

156. In the mineral surveyor's report of the value of the improvements all actual expenditures and mining improvements made by the claimant or his grantors, having a direct relation to the development of the claim, must be included in the estimate.

157. The expenditures required may be made from the surface or in running a tunnel, drifts, or crosscuts for the development of the claim. Expenditures for drill holes for the purpose of prospecting and securing data upon which further development of a group of lode mining claims held in common may be based are available toward meeting the statutory provision requiring an expenditure of $500 as a basis for patent as to all of the claims of the group situated in close proximity to such common improvement. Improvements of any other character, such as buildings, machinery, or roadways, must be excluded from the estimate, unless it is shown clearly that they are associated with actual excavations, such as cuts, tunnels, shafts, etc., are essential to the practical development of and actually facilitate the extraction of mineral from the claim.

158. All mining and other improvements claimed will be located by courses and distances from corners of the survey, or from points on the center or side lines, specifying with particularity and detail the dimensions and character of each, and the improvements upon each location should be numbered consecutively, the point of discovery being always No. 1. Improvements made by a former locator who has abandoned his claim can not be included in the estimate. but should be described and located in the notes and plat.

159. In case of a lode and mill-site claim in the same survey the expenditure of $500 must be shown upon the lode claim.

160. If the value of the labor and improvements upon a mineral claim is less than $500 at the time of survey the mineral surveyor may file with the surveyor general supplemental proof showing $500 expenditure made prior to the expiration of the period of publication.

161. The mineral surveyor will return with his field notes a preliminary plat on blank sent to him for that purpose, protracted on a scale of 200 feet to an inch, if practicable. In preparing plats the top is north. Copy of the calculations of areas by double meridian distances and of all triangulations or traverse lines must be furnished. The lines of the claim surveyed should be heavier than the lines of conflicting claims.

162. Whenever a survey has been reported in error the surveyor may, in the discretion of the surveyor general, be required promptly to make a thorough examination upon the premises and report the result, under oath, to the surveyor general's office. In case he finds his survey in error he will report in detail all discrepancies with the original survey and submit any explanation he may have to offer as to the cause. If, on the contrary, he should report his survey correct, the surveyor general will, if necessary, order a joint survey to settle the differences with the surveyor who reported the error. A joint survey must be made within 10 days after the date of order, unless satisfactory reasons are submitted, under oath, for a postponement. The field work must in every sense of the term be a joint survey, and not a separate survey, and the observations and measurements taken with the same instrument and chain, previously tested and agreed upon.

Nothing contained in the foregoing paragraph shall be construed as intending to invest surveyors general with jurisdiction to try and determine purely adverse claims to mining ground, and the procedure herein prescribed shall not be resorted to in any case where it is apparent that the controversy is not one concerning the professional efficiency of the surveyor, or the accuracy of results achieved by the methods employed by him in the execution of the survey, but relates substantially to the relative merits of rival claims to the same parcel of ground.

163. The mineral surveyor found in error, or, if both are in error, the one who reported the same, will make out the field notes of the joint survey, which, after being duly signed and sworn to by both parties, must be transmitted to the surveyor general's office.

164. Inasmuch as amended surveys are ordered only by special instructions from the General Land Office, and the conditions and circumstances peculiar to each separate case and the object sought by the required amendment, alone govern all special matters relative to the manner of making such survey and the form and subject matter to be embraced in the field notes thereof, but few general rules applicable to all cases can be laid down.

The expense of amended surveys, including amendment of plat and field notes, and office work in the surveyor general's office will be borne by the claimant.

165. The amended survey must be made in strict conformity with, or be embraced within, the lines of the original survey. If the amended and original surveys are identical, that fact must be clearly and distinctly stated in the field notes. If not identical, a bearing and distance must be given from each established corner of the amended survey to the corresponding corner of the original survey. The lines of the original survey, as found upon the ground, must be laid down upon the preliminary plat in such manner as to contrast and show their relation to the lines of the amended survey.

166. The field notes of the amended survey must be prepared on the same size and form of blanks as are the field notes of the original survey, and the word "amended" must be used before the word "survey" wherever it occurs in the field notes.

167. Mineral surveyors are required to make full examinations of all placer claims at the time of survey and file with the field notes a descriptive report, in which will be described—

(a) The quality and composition of the soil, and the kind and amount of timber and other vegetation.

(b) The locus and size of streams, and such other matter as may appear upon the surface of the claims.

(c) The character and extent of all surface and underground workings, whether placer or lode, for mining purposes, locating and describing them.

(d) The proximity of centers of trade or residence.

(e) The proximity of well-known systems of lode deposits or of individual lodes.

(f) The use or adaptability of the claim for placer mining, and whether water has been brought upon it in sufficient quantity to mine the same, or whether it can be procured for that purpose.

(g) What works or expenditures have been made by the claimant or his grantors for the development of the claim, and their situation and location with respect to the same as applied for.

(h) The true situation of all mines, salt licks, salt springs, and mill sites which come to the surveyor's knowledge, or a report by him that none exist on the claim, as the facts may warrant.

(i) Said report must be made under oath and duly corroborated by one or more disinterested persons.

168. The employing of claimants, their attorneys, or parties in interest, as assistants in making surveys of mineral claims will not be allowed.

169. The field work must be accurately and properly performed and returns made in conformity with the foregoing instructions. Errors in the survey must be corrected at the surveyor's own expense, and if the time required in the examination of the returns is increased by reason of neglect or carelessness, he will be required to make an additional deposit for office work. He will be held to a strict accountability for the faithful discharge of his duties, and will be required to observe fully the requirements and regulations in force as to making mineral surveys. If found incompetent as a surveyor, careless in the discharge of his duties, or guilty of a violation of said regulations, his appointment will be promptly revoked.

PARAGRAPH 89, CIRCULAR NO. 430 OF APRIL 11, 1922, AMENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 18, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Paragraph 89 of the circular of April 11, 1922 (49 L. D. 15), is hereby amended so as to read:

(1) The charge for the publication of notice of application for patent in a mining case in all districts shall not exceed the legal rates allowed by the laws of the State for the publication of legal notices wherein the notice is published, and in no case shall the charge exceed $10 for each 10 lines of space occupied where publication is had in a daily newspaper, and where a weekly newspaper is used as a medium of publication $7.50 shall be the maximum charge for the same space. Such charge shall be accepted as full payment for publication in each issue of the newspaper for the entire period required by law.

It is expected that these notices shall not be so abbreviated as to curtail the description essential to a perfect notice, and on the other hand that they shall not be of unnecessary length. The printed matter must be set solid without paragraphing or any display in the heading and shall be in the usual body type used in legal notices. If other type is used, no allowance will be made for additional space on that account. The number of solid lines only used in advertising by actual count will be allowed. All abbreviations and copy must be strictly followed. The following is a sample of advertisement set up in accordance with Government requirements and contains all the essential data necessary for publication:

M. A. No. 04421, U. S. Land Office, Elko, Nevada, October 5, 1921. Notice is hereby given that the Jarbidge Buhl Mining Company by W. H. Hudson, attorney in fact, of Jarbidge, Nevada, has made application for patent to the Altitude, Altitude No. 1, Altitude No. 3, and Altitude Annex, lode mining claims, Survey No. 4470, in unsurveyed T. 46 N., R. 58 E., M. D. B. and M., in the

AMENDMENT TO PARAGRAPH 60 OF THE MINING REGULATIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 7, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices in Alaska.

Gentlemen: Your attention is directed to the following act of Congress (43 Stat. 1118), amending section 4 of the act of August 1, 1912 (37 Stat. 242, 243):

[H. R. 4148]

AN ACT To modify and amend the mining laws in their application to the Territory of Alaska, and for other purposes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 4 of the act of Congress of August 1, 1912, section 129 d compiled laws of Alaska, entitled "An act to modify and amend the mining laws in their application to the Territory of Alaska, and for other purposes," be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 4. That no placer mining claim hereafter located in Alaska shall be patented which shall contain a greater area than is fixed by law, nor which is longer than three times its greatest width, as determined by a transverse line drawn within the lines of the claim and at right angles to its longest side:

Provided, That where any isolated parcel or placer ground lies between and adjoins patented or validly located claims on all of its sides and is not over 1,320 feet in length, this dimensional restriction shall not apply.

Approved March 3, 1925.

In accordance with this act, that portion of paragraph 60 (c) of the mining regulations relative to section 4 of said act of August 1, 1912, is amended to read:

> Section 4 of the act prohibits the patenting of any placer mining claim located in Alaska after the passage of the act, which contains a greater area than that fixed by law or which is longer than three times its greatest width. The act of March 3, 1925, provides that the greatest width of a placer claim in Alaska shall be determined by a transverse line drawn within the lines of the claim and at right angles to its longest side, and that this dimensional restriction shall not apply to any isolated parcel of placer ground which lies between and adjoins patented or validly located claims on all of its sides, and is not over 1,320 feet in length. The surveyor general will be careful to observe the above requirements and will not approve any survey of a placer location which does not in area and dimensions conform to the provisions of law.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

SHOWINGS BY APPLICANTS FOR PLACER PATENTS

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 4, 1925.[4]

Register, Glenwood Springs, Colo.:

In reference to applications for patents filed in your office for oil shale placer mining claims, taken by legal subdivisions of the public land surveys, your attention is called to the requirements of paragraphs 41 and 60 of the Mining Regulations, Circular No. 430 (49 L. D. 15), as to the applicant showing in detail data with regard to discovery, placer character of the land, nature, value, and location of the improvements made on the claim, etc.

Paragraph 60 provides that in placer applications, in addition to the recitals necessary in and to both vein or lode or placer applications, the applicant must furnish certain data, and that since no report of a mineral surveyor is required where the claim is described by legal subdivisions, the claimant should describe in detail the shafts, cuts, tunnels, or other workings claimed as improvements, giving their dimensions, value, and the course and distance thereof to the nearest corner of the public surveys. Under paragraph 41 it is provided that the application should show the precise place within the limit of each of the locations where the vein or lode has been exposed or discovered. The provisions of paragraph 41, so far as applicable, must be followed by applicants for placer mining claims, and under this the precise point of discovery on the placer claim should be given along with the points on the claim where cuts or other work has been done by the placer claimant as patent expenditure.

[4] See Circular No. 1128, p. 847.

You are therefore authorized and directed to require every applicant for placer mining patent where the claims are described by legal subdivision to make full showing under paragraphs 41 and 60, and any application which fails to contain the required data should be held for rejection, subject to amendment or appeal within 30 days from notice of your action. Since this data is especially valuable to the inspector who may examine the claim, it should be completed and copy furnished to the division inspector at the time you give him the usual notice of the filing of the application.

DATA FOR USE IN FIELD EXAMINATION IN MINERAL CASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 14, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices, District Cadastral Engineers, and Division Inspectors.

Sirs: In order to facilitate examination in the field by inspectors of this department of mining claims for which applications for patents are filed, registers, where lode claims are sought to be patented, will require the applicants to furnish in duplicate the statement required by paragraph 41 of the mining regulations, relative to the kind and character of the vein or lode; whether ore has been extracted therefrom; and if so, in what amount and value, and the precise place within the limits of each claim sought to be patented, where the vein or lode has been exposed or discovered and the width thereof. The duplicate copy is to be sent to the division inspector.

The procedure in this regard, in the case of placer claims sought to be patented, is contained in the instructions of November 4, 1925 (51 L. D. 265), to the register of the Glenwood Springs land office, which instructions are hereby extended to all district land offices.

District cadastral engineers will cause to be made a copy of the description of the improvements on mining claims as contained in the field notes of survey and transmit this copy to the division inspector.

Very respectfully,

Thos C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner,

MINERAL LOCATIONS ON STOCK DRIVEWAY LANDS—INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ACT OF JANUARY 29, 1929 (45 STAT. 1144).

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 4, 1929.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The act of January 29, 1929 (45 Stat. 1144), entitled "An act to amend section 10 of an act entitled 'An act to provide for stock-raising homesteads, and for other purposes,' approved December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862)," reads as follows:

> That the following be added as an additional proviso to section 10 of an act entitled "An act to provide for stock-raising homesteads, and for other purposes," approved December 29, 1916 (Public, Numbered 290, Sixty-fourth Congress):
> "Provided further, That the withdrawal from entry of lands necessary to insure access by the public to watering places reserved hereunder shall not apply to deposits of coal and other minerals in the lands so withdrawn, and that the provisions of section 9 of this act are hereby made applicable to said deposits in lands embraced in such withdrawals heretofore or hereafter made, but any mineral location or entry made hereunder shall be in accordance with such rules, regulations, and restrictions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior."

Under authority of the provisions of the act, the following rules, regulations, and restrictions are prescribed for prospecting for minerals of the kinds subject to the United States mining laws, and the locating of mining claims upon discovery of such minerals, in lands within stock driveway withdrawals heretofore or hereafter made.

All prospecting and mining operations shall be conducted in such manner as to cause no interference with the use of the surface of the land for stock driveway purposes, except such as may actually be necessary.

While a mining location will be made in accordance with the usual procedure for locating mining claims, and will describe a tract of land, having due regard to the limitations of area fixed by the mining laws, the locator will be limited under his location to the right to the minerals discovered in the land and to mine and remove the same, and to occupy so much of the surface of the claim as may be required for all purposes reasonable incident to the mining and removal of the minerals.

All excavations and other mining work and improvements made in prospecting and mining operations shall be fenced or otherwise protected to prevent the same from being a menace to stock on the land.

No watering places shall be inclosed, nor proper and lawful access of stock thereto prevented, nor the watering of stock thereat interfered with.

Prospecting for minerals and the location of mining claims on lands included in such withdrawals shall be subject to the provisions and conditions of the mining laws and the regulations thereunder (Circular No. 430) as modified by section 9 of the act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862).

Mining claims on lands within stock driveway withdrawals, located prior hereto and subsequent to the date of the withdrawal, may be held and perfected subject to the provisions and conditions of the act and these regulations.

Every application for patent for any minerals located subject to this act must bear on its face, before being executed by the applicant and presented for filing, the following notation:

> Subject to the provisions of section 10 of the act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), as amended by the act of January 29, 1929 (45 Stat. 1144).

Like notation will be made by the register on the final certificates issued on such a mineral application.

Patents issued on such applications will contain the added condition:

> That this patent is issued subject to the provisions of the act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), as amended by the act of January 29, 1929 (45 Stat. 1144), with reference to the disposition, occupancy and use of the land as permitted to an entryman under said act.

POTASH REGULATIONS UNDER ACT OF OCTOBER 2, 1917

Department of the Interior,
Washington, March 21, 1918.

To the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Dear Sir: Under authority conferred by the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), entitled "An act to authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium," the rules and regulations herewith are prescribed to carry out the purpose of said act:

Lease regulations.
Form of application for lease.
Form of lease.
Use permit for camp site and refining works.
Form of use permit.
Patents for lands containing potash.

These regulations, together with those approved December 1, 1917, governing the issuance of "permits authorizing exploration of public lands for potassium," comprise full working instructions under said act, and you will be governed thereby in the administration thereof.

In the event of applications under this act for lands embraced within reservations, under the jurisdiction of this or any other department, they will be referred to the appropriate bureau or department for a report and recommendation; and, if it be found necessary for the protection of rights and interests created by, or incident to, said reservations, such restrictions and conditions will be made in permits and leases as may be required to effectuate such purpose.

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary.

Permits Authorizing Exploration of Public Lands for Potassium

(Regulations approved December 1, 1917, by First Assistant Secretary)

The act of Congress approved October 2, 1917, entitled "An act to authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium" (40 Stat. 297), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to issue prospecting permits for a period not to exceed two years, for the exploration of the land described therein for potash in any of the forms named in said act, and under authority thereof the following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such permits:

[1] All instructions involving oil and gas applications should be considered in connection with departmental instructions of Mar. 20, 1929, p. 972.

[2] Amended by Circulars Nos. 925, p. 925; 961, p. 1473; and 1056, p. 936. These instructions are now effective only as to applications filed prior to Jan. 1, 1926. See Circular No. 1120, p. 951.

1. Permits may be issued to (a) citizens of the United States, (b) an association of such citizens, (c) or a corporation organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof.

2. The permit thus issued may include not more than 2,560 acres of public lands of the United States in reasonably compact form, or a similar area of lands that may have been disposed of under laws reserving to the United States the potassium deposits therein. In the latter case full compliance shall be made with the laws making such reservation.

3. The permit will confer upon the recipient the exclusive right to prospect for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, nitrates and salts of potassium on the lands embraced therein. In the exercise of this right the permittee shall be authorized to remove from the premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work, and the demonstration of the existence of such deposits or any of them in commercial quantities.

4. If the permittee within the two years specified shall discover valuable deposits of one or more of the forms of potassium, as described in said act, within the area covered by his permit, such discovery shall entitle him to a patent of not to exceed one-fourth of the land embraced in the permit to be taken in compact form. The discovery of a valuable deposit of potash under this permit shall be construed as the discovery of a deposit which yields commercial potash in commercial quantities.

The remainder of the land embraced in such permit, if containing deposits of potash, will thereafter become subject to lease, under such regulations as may be found requisite in dealing with the land containing said deposit.

5. In addition to land embraced in the permit the Secretary may, in his discretion, issue to the permittee, during the life of the permit, the exclusive right to use a tract of unoccupied, nonmineral, public land not exceeding 40 acres in area, for purposes connected with and necessary to the development of the deposits covered by the permit.

6. Applications for permits should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and after due notation promptly forwarded for his consideration. No specific form of application is required, but it should cover, in substance, the following points, namely:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant—by affidavit of such fact, if native born; or, if naturalized, by the certificate thereof, or affidavit as to time and place when issued; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles thereof.

(c) Description of land for which the permit is desired by legal subdivisions if surveyed and by metes and bounds if unsurveyed, in which latter case, if deemed necessary, a survey sufficient more fully to identify and segregate the land may be required before the permit is granted.

(d) Reasons why the land is believed to offer a favorable field for prospecting.

(e) Proposed method of conducting exploratory operations, amount of capital available for such operations, and the diligence with which such explorations will be prosecuted.

(f) Statement of the applicant's experience in operations of this nature, together with references as to his character, reputation, and business standing.

7. On the receipt of the application, if found in compliance with the terms of the act, a permit will issue and the district land officers be promptly notified thereof; thereafter no filings will be accepted for the lands embraced therein during the lifetime of said permit.

A copy of the act you will find herewith, together with a form of permit which may be modified to meet the conditions of any particular case.

FORM OF PERMIT AUTHORIZING EXPLORATION OF PUBLIC LANDS FOR POTASSIUM

The form of permit issued under this act will be, in substance, as follows:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Know all men by these presents that I, Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of the act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium," approved October 2, 1917, have granted and do hereby grant a permit to ———— of the exclusive right for a period of two years from date hereof to prospect the following described lands ———— for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, nitrates, or salts of potassium, but for no other purpose, upon the express conditions as follows, to wit:

1. To begin the prospecting for said minerals within 90 days from date hereof and to prosecute diligently the exploration and experimental work during the period of such permit, in the manner and extent as follows, to wit:
2. To remove from said premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work and the demonstraton of the existence of such deposits in commercial quantities.
3. To afford all facility for inspection of such exploratory work on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior, and to report fully, when required, all matters pertaining to the character, progress, and results of such exploratory work, and to that end to keep and maintain such accounts, logs, or other records, as the Secretary may require.
4. Not to assign or transfer the permit granted hereby, without the express consent in writing of the Secretary of the Interior.
5. To observe such conditons as to use and occupancy of the surface as may be provided by law in case any lands embraced herein have been granted with a reservation to the United States of the potassium deposits therein.

Expressly reserving to the Secretary of the Interior the right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way upon, through, or in the lands covered hereby, as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in said act; and further reserving the right and authority to cancel this instrument for failure of the permittee or licensee to exercise due diligence in the execution of the prospecting work in accordance with the terms hereof.

Valid existing rights, acquired prior hereto, on the lands described herein, will not be affected hereby.

In witness whereof I have affixed my signature hereto and the seal of the Department this —— day of ————.

[SEAL.]

————————,
Secretary of the Interior.

REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO LEASES FOR LANDS CONTAINING POTASH

The act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such general regulations as he may adopt, to lease, for the production of the potash and other mineral deposits contained therein, public lands—

(A) Known to contain potash in commercial quantity and character and found in some or any of the forms described in said act.

(B) Embraced in any permit under which the existence of such deposits has been demonstrated, but not included in the patent awarded to the permittee.

(C) In and adjacent to Searles Lake, Calif., and by virtue of such authority, the following regulations are hereby prescribed:

(1) From and after the 20th day of December, 1917, applications for leases in the form as herein provided may be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for any lands in class (A) (which includes lands in Sweetwater County, Wyo., wherein the coal deposits are reserved to the United States), by citizens of the United States, an association of such citizens or corporations organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof; the qualifications of the applicant in this respect to be fully covered by the application.

(2) Leases are authorized by the terms of the act for an area not exceeding 2,560 acres, but will be granted only for such area as may be shown, to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior, to contain deposits of potash in such form and quantities as to constitute a commercial value, and will be limited to lands reasonably compact in form and described by legal subdivisions of the public-land surveys, if surveyed, or, if unsurveyed, by the approximate description they will bear when surveyed; the survey in the latter case to be made at the expense of the Government if the application for lease is otherwise found satisfactory, the descriptions of the land in the lease when granted to conform to the official survey.

(3) Applications when filed with the district land office will be promptly noted of record and transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by a statement as to the status of the lands embraced therein. After the receipt of such applications, no applications, filings, or selections for the lands embraced therein will be permitted until so directed, except applications for leases under this act.

(4) When an application for a lease is filed in the district land office, notice thereof shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a general newspaper to be designated by the register, published at the capital of the State, describing the lands embraced therein, stating the purpose of the application and that it will be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for action within 30 days from the date fixed therein, advising all adverse claimants or protestants that if they desire to object or protest any interests as against the application, prompt action to that end should be taken; and further advising the public that any other applications for lease of the same lands may be filed at any time during said period of publication, without publication of notice of said second or further application, in which case, applications so filed will be considered as prescribed in section 5 hereof. Proof of publication will be required prior to action by the commissioner on the application for lease.

(5) On the receipt of the application or applications in the General Land Office, the same will be considered, investigation made if deemed necessary, and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with appropriate recommendation and report as to the proper action to be taken thereon, giving due consideration to the proposed effectual development of the alleged potash deposits and the amount of capital to be invested therein; the award of priority in case of conflicting applications to be determined by the respective proposed investments, date of productive development proposed by the several applicants, and any equities that may exist in one or more of the applicants resulting from improvement or development under claims made under other laws.

(6)[3] The lands in class (B), if containing potash in some or any of the forms specified in said act, will be offered for leasing by publication for a period of 30 days in a newspaper designated by the register of the proper land district, published at the capital of the State, inviting applications therefor, on or before a date specified. Applications for such excess permit lands will be considered without further notice, and leases awarded thereunder in general accordance with the provisions of paragraph 5 herein. Lands once included in a published notice of leasing offer, remaining unleased, may thereafter be applied for without publication of notice.

(7) The verity of all representations contained in applications for leases shall be deemed an essential thereto, and a moving consideration to the award of a lease, if such action is taken. Misrepresentations in this respect will be treated as a proper ground for proceedings in forfeiture, as provided in section 8 of the act.

(8) The acceptance of a lease under the provisions of this act will be construed as a waiver and relinquishment of all claims on the part of the applicant for any lands embraced within said lease and claimed under the provisions of any other law.

(9) If the application for lease covers deposits of potassium, referred to in section 9 of the act, reserved to the United States, the applicant will be required, among other things, as a condition precedent to the granting of a lease, to furnish a bond to indemnify and protect the agricultural claimant.

(10)[4] Lands in class (C) will not be open to lease until such time as final action has been taken upon the claims now pending before the department.

(11) A form of application, proposed form of lease and copy of the act of October 2, 1917, will be found herewith.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR LEASE

Blank forms for applications for lease will not be furnished, but such applications should follow substantially the form given below:

FORM OF LEASE OF POTASH LANDS

(Under the act of October 2, 1917)

This indenture of lease entered into, in triplicate, this ______ day of ______, A. D. 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by ______, Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ______ ______, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress approved October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), entitled "An act to authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium," hereinafter referred to as the act, which is made a part hereof, witnesseth:

SECTION 1. That the lessor, in consideration of the rents and royalties to be paid, and the covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to mine, remove, and dispose of all the potassium and other minerals in, upon, or under the following-described tracts of land situated in the county of ______, State of ______, and more particularly described as follows, to wit:

______, containing ______ acres, more or less, together with the right to construct and maintain thereupon all works, buildings, plants, waterways, or reservoirs necessary to the full enjoyment hereof, together also with the right to use any timber, stone or other materials on said land in connection with the operations to be conducted hereunder, for an indeterminate period, upon condition that at the end of each 20-year period succeeding the date hereof such readjustment of terms and conditions may be made as the party of the first part may determine: Provided, That this lease shall extend only to or include any right or interest in the lands, or the minerals therein, reserved to the United States under any entry that may be allowed, or patent that may issue or may have issued, with a reservation of certain specified minerals to the United States. (For leases in Sweetwater County, Wyo., insert reservation of coal.)

SEC. 2. In consideration of the foregoing the lessee hereby agrees:

(a)[5] To invest ______ dollars within four years from the date hereof, not less than one-fourth thereof to be expended during each of said four years, in the substantial development and production of the deposits of potassium and other minerals in the land above described, or in the reduction, manufacture, and preparation of such mineral products for market, and to furnish a bond with a specified corporate surety in the sum of one-tenth of the proposed investment, but in no case less than $5,000, conditioned upon the performance of such agreement; such development, reduction works or other improvements for which said investment and expenditures are to be made shall, subject to agreed modifications to meet future conditions, in general, consist of the following: ------

[5] See amendment, p. 925.

(b) To pay a royalty of the percentage hereinafter stipulated of the gross value of any and all salable mineral products from the lands covered hereby at the point of shipment, or on demand of the lessor, its equivalent in the products of this lease f. o. b. at the point of shipment. (Special provisions defining and construing "point of shipment" and "gross value," depending on the conditions in each case, will be here inserted.) Such royalty shall be equal to 2 per cent of such gross value during the first 10 years of the lease, and 3 per cent thereafter up to the first adjustment period at the end of the first 20 years of the lease, payable monthly, the royalties for each month to be paid during the next succeeding month to the receiver of the United States land district in which the land is situated, or, if not in a land district, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office: Provided, That royalties over 2 per cent may be reduced by the lessor on proper showing made.

(c) To pay the receiver of the district land office on all leases annually, in advance, beginning with the date of the execution of the lease, the following rentals: Twenty-five cents per acre for the first year; thereafter 50 cents per acre for the second, third, fourth, and fifth years, respectively; and $1 per acre for each and every year thereafter during the continuance of the lease, such rental for any year to be credited against the royalties as they accrue for that year.

(d) To pay when due all taxes assessed and levied under the laws of the State upon the improvements, output of mines, or other rights, property or assets of the lessee.

(e) To furnish monthly certified statements in detail in such form as may be prescribed by the lessor of the amount and value of output from the leasehold at the "point of shipment" as a basis for determining amount of royalties. All books and accounts of the lessee shall be open at all times for inspection by any duly authorized officer of the department. Falsification of such statements shall be a basis for action for the cancellation of the lease.

(f) To furnish annually a plat in the manner and form prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior showing all prospect and development work on the leased lands, and other related information, with a report as to all buildings, structures or other works placed in or upon said leased lands, or on lands covered by permit issued under section 3 of the act, as well as any buildings, reduction works or equipment situated elsewhere and owned or operated in conjunction with, or as a part of, the operations conducted hereunder, accompanied by a report, in detail, as to the stockholders, business transacted, assets and liabilities of the lessee, together with a statement of the amount of potassium and other minerals produced and secured by operations hereunder, and the cost of production thereof.

(g) Where the minerals are taken from the earth in solution, such extraction shall not be within 500 feet of the boundary line of leased lands without permission from the Secretary of the Interior.

(h) To develop and produce in commercial quantities, with reasonable diligence, the potassium and other mineral deposits susceptible of such production in the lands covered hereby; to carry on all mining, reducing, refining, and other operations in a good and workmanlike manner in accordance with approved methods and practice, having due regard to the health and safety of miners and other employees, the prevention of waste and the preservation and conservation of the property for future productive operations, observing all State laws relative to the health and safety of such workmen and employees, all mining and related productive operations to be subject to the inspection of the lessor.

(i) To deliver up to the lessor on the termination of this lease, as a result of forfeiture thereof pursuant to section 8 of the act, the lands covered hereby, together with any land permission for the use of which has been granted under and pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of said act, including all fixtures, improvements, and appurtenances, other than machinery, tools, and personal property, located and used above ground, situate on any of said lands, in good order and condition, so as to permit of immediate continued operation to the full extent and capacity of the leased premises: Provided, That on such forfeiture the lessor, his agent, licensee or lessee shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's option, and at any time within six months from such forfeiture, to purchase such machinery, tools, and personal property located and used above ground, the purchase price thereof to be determined in the manner prescribed in section 5 of this lease.

(k) To comply with all statutory requirements where the surface of the lands embraced herein has been disposed of under laws reserving to the United States the potassium deposits therein.

(l) Not to assign or sublet, without the consent of the Secretary of the Interior, the premises covered hereby.

(m) To observe faithfully the provisions of section 5 of the act whereunder this lease is executed as to the interest or interests that may be taken or acquired under leases authorized by said act.

SEC. 3. The lessor expressly reserves—

(a) The right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way upon, through, or in the lands hereby leased, occupied, or used as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in this act; and the treatment and shipment of the products thereof by or under authority of the Government, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes.

(b) The right to dispose of the surface of the lands embraced herein under existing law, or laws hereafter enacted, in so far as said surface is not necessary for use of the lessees in extracting and removing the deposits therein.

(c) The right on the part of the President of the United States to regulate the price of all mineral extracted and sold from the leased premises, so that the price or prices fixed shall be such as to yield a fair and reasonable return to the lessee upon his investment, and secure to the consumer any of such products at the lowest price reasonable and consistent with the provisions hereof; also the right so to regulate the disposal of the potassium products produced hereunder as to secure its distribution and use wholly within the limits of the United States or its possessions.

SEC. 4. The lessee may, on consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had obtained, surrender and terminate this lease at any time after the first four years of the term herein provided for, by giving six months' notice in writing to the lessor, and upon payment of all rents, royalties, and other debts due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages or moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary of the Interior that all other creditors or others having an interest are fairly and equitably protected, and that the public interest will not be impaired; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines or productive works or permanent improvements on the lands covered hereby: Provided, That in such case the right of valuation and purchase accorded the lessor in the section next following (5) shall be exercised within said period of six months.

SEC. 5. That on the termination of this lease, pursuant to the last preceding section, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, all buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools, whether fixtures or personalty, placed by the lessee in or on the land leased hereunder, or on lands covered by permit under section 3 of the act, save and except underground improvements, machinery, equipment, or structures, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation; that the purchase price to be paid for said buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased as aforesaid, shall be fixed by appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons, (one to be designated by each party thereto and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive; that pending such election to purchase within said period of six months none of said buildings or other property shall be removed from their normal position; that if such valuation be not requested, or the lessor shall affirmatively elect not to purchase within said period of six months, the lessee shall have the privilege of removing said buildings and other property, except said underground equipment and structures, as aforesaid.

SEC. 6. If the lessee shall fail to comply with the provisions of the act or make default in the performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations hereof, or of the general regulations promulgated and in force at date hereof, and such default shall continue for 90 days after service of written notice thereof by the lessor, then the lessor may institute appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for the forfeiture and cancellation of this lease as provided in section 8 of the act. A waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture shall not prevent the cancellation and forfeiture of this lease for any other cause of forfeiture, or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 7. The lessee further agrees and covenants that the obligations entered into hereby shall extend to and be binding upon his heirs and successors in interest hereunder.

SEC. 8. It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

USE PERMITS FOR CAMP SITE AND REFINING WORKS

Section 3 of the act of October 2, 1917, "To authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium," provides:

> That in addition to areas of such mineral land to be included in prospecting permits or leases, the Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, may issue to a permittee or lessee under this act the exclusive right to use, during the life of the permit or lease, a tract of unoccupied nonmineral public land not exceeding 40 acres in area for camp sites, refining works, and other purposes connected with and necessary to the proper development and use of the deposits covered by the permit or lease.

In accordance with the provisions of this section the following regulations are prescribed, by which a permittee or lessee under the act may acquire the right therein granted.

1. Application may be made by the permittee or lessee identifying by serial number his permit or lease, setting forth in detail the specific reasons why it is necessary for the applicant to have the use of an additional tract of land for a camp site, refining works or other purposes connected with and necessary to the proper development and use of the deposits covered by the permit or lease.

2. The application should contain a description of the lands by legal subdivisions, if surveyed, or, if not surveyed, by the approximate description thereof as it will appear when surveyed, for which the right of use is desired, together with a statement of the particular reasons why it is especially adapted thereto, either in point of location, topography, or otherwise, and that it is unoccupied nonmineral land.

3. Use permits granted hereunder will be for indeterminate periods, dependent in that respect upon the existence of the permit or lease made the basis of the right authorized by section 3. Upon the termination of such permit or lease all rights secured hereby will also cease and terminate, and such condition shall be expressly recognized and stated in the application.

4. No blank forms of application will be furnished to applicants hereunder, but they will be guided by the foregoing as to the essential requirements of the application, which will be verified by the affidavit of the applicant.

FORM OF USE PERMIT FOR CAMP SITE OR REFINING WORKS

The form of use permit issued under section 3 of the act of October 2, 1917, will be in substance as follows:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA:

Know all men by these presents that I, Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of section 3 of the act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize exploration for and disposition of potassium," approved October 2, 1917, have granted and do hereby grant to ______, the holder of ______, bearing serial number ____, the exclusive right to use, during the life of the aforesaid ______, the following-described tract of land, to-wit: __________ for a camp site, refining works and other purposes connected with and necessary to the proper development and the use of the deposits covered by the aforesaid ______, all rights hereunder to cease and terminate upon the termination of the aforesaid ______.

In witness whereof I have affixed my signature hereto and the seal of the department this ____ day of ____.

[SEAL.]

______ ______,
Secretary of the Interior.

PATENTS FOR LANDS CONTAINING POTASH

(a) Claims under existing mining laws.—Valid claims existent on October 2, 1917, and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated may be perfected and patented under the provisions of the general mining laws and the regulations thereunder.

In addition to the usual proofs required by said laws and regulations, claimants, under all pending and future applications based on valid claims, must submit evidence showing that the assessment work has been annually performed up to and including the year preceding that in which the entry certificate is issued. Such proof may be made by filing the original or authenticated copies of the proofs of annual labor of record in the local recording office, provided such proofs are definite and specific. Where such evidence is not available, a sufficient corroborated affidavit, describing the nature and giving the approximate cost and reasonable value of the work done each year upon or for the benefit of each claim included in the application for patent, will be accepted. Similar proof must be furnished in support of all pending cases, where the entry certificates are outstanding, before such entries will be approved for patent, all else being regular.

(b) Claim resulting from discovery under permit.—A permittee (or the assignee or transferree of a permittee in those cases where the consent to the assignment or transfer of the permit has been authorized by the Secretary), who has discovered valuable deposits of one or more of the substances enumerated in section 1 of the act, within the area covered by, and the two years specified in, the permit, shall file, in the proper local land office an application, under oath, for a patent for the land desired by him in the exercise of his right to a patent, as discoverer, which land, including the discovery on which the right to a patent is predicated, shall not exceed one-fourth of the area embraced in the prospecting permit, and shall be taken in compact form and described by legal subdivisions; or, if the land is unsurveyed, then in a tract which shall not exceed 2 miles in length, described by metes and bounds and by reference to regular survey corners, if practicable, or by the approximate description the lands will bear when surveyed, to the end that the location of the land desired can be readily determined on the ground.

Application for patent may be filed by the permittee at any time during the two years specified in the permit or 30 days thereafter. No right in the permittee or in the assignee of the permittee to patent any part of the land embraced in the permit will be recognized where the application for patent is not filed within the period herein prescribed. Application for patent and proof in support thereof by the assignee must be made within the same time as though there had been no assignment.

Applications for patents will be properly noted of record by the local land officers, and, prior to the issuance of the order of publication of notice of application for patent, will be, by special letter, transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied by a statement as to the status of the land embraced in the application for patent. After the receipt of such application, no applications, filings, or selections for the lands embraced therein will be permitted until so directed, nor will publication of the aforesaid notice be ordered until receipt of instructions with regard thereto from the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

After application for patent, in case the land is unsurveyed, an estimate will be made of the approximate cost of survey, including necessary office work incident thereto, of which the applicant will be duly notified, which amount applicant will deposit, as required by section 2 of the act, with any Assistant United States Treasurer or designated depository in favor of the United States Treasurer, to be passed to the credit of "Deposit of individuals for survey of public lands," and file with the surveyor general duplicate certificates of such deposit in the usual manner. Additional amounts will be deposited if necessary. Such survey will, if all be regular, be made by United States surveyors, by or under the direction of the supervisor of surveys and the United States surveyor general. As far as practicable all such surveys will be an extension of the regular Government surveys, after which the applicant will be required to conform his boundaries thereto. Special instructions for each such survey will be issued by the surveyor general.

Except as otherwise provided in these regulations, the procedure to be followed by the applicant-permittee to obtain patent shall be conformable to that provided by the regulations for obtaining patent to mining claims, under the general mining laws, as to filing the application, payment of fee of $5 to each the register and receiver, posting and publication, proof of mineral discovery, character of minerals, formation, etc., except that proof of patent expenditure of not less than $500 in improvements will not be required, nor statement of fees and charges, nor payment of any purchase money for the land, and publication will be required for only 30 days.[b] The discovery of a valuable deposit of potash under applicant's permit shall be construed as the discovery of a deposit which yields commercial potash in commercial quantities. The applicant must show under oath all facts in support of his claim for patent, giving kinds of minerals discovered, character and extent of the deposits, together with a showing of the facts relative to transportation facilities, water supply, possible process of manufacture, and other factors which make the alleged discovery commercially valuable.

It will be noted that said act of October 2, 1917, makes no provision for determining adverse claims through the institution of adverse suits in local courts, hence all such claims, if any, and upon the filing of sufficient and proper protests, will be determined by the Land Department. The "Rules of Practice in cases before the United States District Land Offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior" will, as far as applicable, govern in the handling and disposition of protests.

If all be regular patent shall issue only for such portions of the premises applied for, as aforesaid, (or for the reserved mineral deposits in land applied for where the surface thereof has been disposed of with reservation of the potash deposits to the United States), as are shown to the satisfaction of the Government to be valuable for the potash therein contained.

(Act omitted.)

OIL-SHALE REGULATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 11, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Section 21 of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to lease any deposits of oil shale belonging to the United States, and the surface of such lands as may be necessary for the extraction and reduction of the minerals leased. The following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such leases:

1. Qualifications of applicants.—Pursuant to section 1 of said act, leases may be made to (a) a citizen of the United States; (b) an association of such citizens; (c) a corporation organized under the laws of the United States, or of any State or Territory thereof; or (d) a municipality.

2. Lands and deposits to which applicable.—The lease may include such deposits and the surface of so much of the land containing same, or of land adjacent thereto, as may be required for the extraction and reduction of the leased minerals, the aggregate area not to exceed 5,120 acres.

Such leases may not include lands or deposits in (a) national parks, (b) forest reserves created under the act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 961), known as the Appalachian forest reserve act, (c) lands in military or naval reservations, (d) Indian reservations, or (e) ceded or restored Indian lands, the proceeds from the disposition of which are credited to the Indians.

All permits or leases for the exploration for or development of oil-shale deposits under this act within the limits of national forests or other reservations, or withdrawals to which this act is applicable, shall be subject to and contain such conditions, stipulations, and reservations as the Secretary of the Interior shall deem necessary for the protection of such forests, reservations, or withdrawals, and the uses and purposes for which created.

3. Form and contents of application.—Applications for leases must be under oath, and should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. No specific form of application is required, and no blanks will be furnished, but it should cover in substance the following points:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant, by affidavit of such fact if native born; if naturalized, by a certified copy of a certificate thereof in the form provided for use in public land matters, unless such copy is on file. If the applicant is an association, each member thereof must show his qualifications as above stated; if a corporation, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation must be filed, together with a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders; if a municipality a showing of (1) the law or charter and procedure taken by which it has become a legal body corporate; (2) that the taking of a permit or lease is authorized under such law or charter; and (3) that the action proposed has been duly authorized by the governing body of such municipality.

(c) A statement that the applicant has no lease under the provisions of this section, nor any other application for lease thereunder pending, and that he does not hold interests in such leases or applications which, with the land applied for, will exceed 5,120 acres.

(d) Description of land for which the lease is desired, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, and by metes and bounds if unsurveyed, in which latter case the description should be connected to some corner of the public land surveys where practicable, or to some permanent landmark. If the land is unsurveyed, the applicant, after he has been awarded the right to a lease, but before the issuance thereof, will be required to deposit with the United States surveyor general of the State where the land is located the estimated cost of making a survey of the lands, any balance remaining after the work is completed to be returned. This survey will be an extension of the public land surveys over the tract applied for, the leased land to be conformed to legal subdivisions of such survey when made.

(e) Evidence that the land is valuable for its oil-shale content, except so much thereof as is necessary for the extraction and reduction of the leased materials, with a statement as accurate as may be of the character and extent and mode of occurrence of the oil-shale deposits in the lands applied for.

(f) Proposed method, so far as determined, as to the process of mining and reduction to be adopted, the diligence with which such operations will be carried on, and the contemplated investment in reduction works and development, and the capital available therefor.

(g) The application shall be accompanied by a notice for publication, in duplicate, prepared for the signature of the register, in substantially the following form:

Serial No. ----
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
U. S. LAND OFFICE AT------,
------ ---- 19--.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR OIL-SHALE LEASE

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the act of Congress, approved February 25, 1920, ------ ------ whose post-office address is ------ has made application for oil-shale lease covering the following described lands: ------.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any of the above-described lands are required to file their claims in this office on or before ------, otherwise their claims will be disregarded in the granting of such lease.

------ ------ Register.

The register will fix the time within which adverse or conflicting claims may be filed at not less than 30, nor more than 40 days from first publication.

4. Disposition of application.—(a) The application will be given the current serial number by the register and receiver, noted on their records, and the notice for publication will be signed by the register.

(b) One copy of the signed notice will be delivered to the applicant, who will cause the same to be published in a newspaper to be designated by the register, of general circulation, and best adapted to give the widest publicity, in the county where the land is situated. If the land is in two or more counties, notice must be published in each. Notice must also be posted in the local land office during the period of publication.

(c) At the expiration of the period of publication the application, together with evidence of publication and posting in said office, should be promptly transmitted by the register and receiver to the Commissioner of the General Land Office with a statement of the status of the land involved as to conflicts, withdrawals, protests, and any other matters that may be necessary to determine the availability of the land or deposits therein for lease.

5. Action on application.—As the area and form of lands leased hereunder is entirely discretionary with the Secretary of the Interior, if the area applied for is considered too large, or the form unsatisfactory, or in case of conflicting applications, the application may be held for rejection, but the applicant given an opportunity to amend his application in conformity with requirements. Should the application be found satisfactory by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, he will submit it to the Secretary of the Interior with a recommendation that a lease for the described lands be awarded the applicant. If the right to a lease be granted, the applicant will be required, within 30 days from notice, to pay the rental of 50 cents per acre for the first year, which the receiver will carry in his unearned account, until the lease is acted upon, and to furnish a lease duly executed on his part, which lease will be substantially in the following form:

6. Form of lease—

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Serial No. ----. UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE AT ------.

OIL SHALE LEASE

Date—Parties.—This indenture of lease entered into in triplicate this ---- day of ------, 192--, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by the Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ------ ------, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under and pursuant to the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," witnesseth:

1. Purposes.—That the lessor in consideration of the rents and royalties to be paid, and the covenants to be observed as hereinafter set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the right and privilege to mine and dispose of all the oil shale or the products thereof that may be mined under the terms of this lease from the following described lands ------, containing ------ acres, together with the right to construct thereon all such works as may be necessary or convenient for the reduction of such shale and the preparation of its oil or other contents for market.

2. Subject to limitations of act.—It is expressly understood that this lease is granted subject in all respects to the conditions, limitations, and provisions of the act under which this lease is made, which act, so far as it relates to oil shale, is hereby made a part hereof to the same extent as if incorporated herein.

3. Rights reserved.—The lessor expressly reserves the right to grant, upon such terms as the Secretary may determine to be just, such easements or rights of way, including easements in tunnels, upon, through, or in the lands leased, as may be necessary to the working thereof, or of other lands containing coal, oil, oil shale, phosphate, gas, or sodium, and the treatment or shipment of any of the products of such lands by, or under authority of the United States, its lessee or permittee, and for other public purposes.

4. The lessee, in consideration of the lease of the rights and privileges aforesaid, hereby covenants and agrees as follows:

(a) Investment.—To invest in mining operations, reduction plants, or other equipment for the mining and reduction of the minerals leased, as follows: That is to say [Here give detailed description of proposed reduction plant and other equipment or works], upon the lands included herein the sum of ------ dollars, of which sum not less than one-fifth be expended during the year succeeding the execution of this instrument, and a like sum each year for the succeeding four years, unless such amount may be sooner invested.

(b) Bond.—To furnish within 30 days after signature of the lease a bond in the sum of one-half the amount to be expended each year, conditioned upon the expenditure of such sum within said period, and submit annually at the expiration of each year for the said period an itemized statement as to the amount and character of the expenditure during said year.

(c) Annual rentals.—To pay as an annual rental, for each acre or part thereof covered by this lease, the sum of 50 cents per acre each year during the life of this lease, all such annual payments of rental to be paid in advance to the receiver of the proper local land office on the anniversary of the date hereof, and to be credited to the first royalties becoming due hereunder during the year for which rental was paid, unless during any of the first five years of the existence of the lease the lessor waives the payment of royalty or rental.

(d) Royalty.—To pay to such receiver a royalty of ------ per centum of the market value of the commercially extractable crude oil content, and other primary products of all shale mined and sold or reduced, unless the Secretary of the Interior waves the payment of such royalty during any or all of the first five years of the lease. The lessee agrees to make and keep a record of, by methods and practices satisfactory to the lessor, all necessary gagings, measurements, or analyses of all shale mined and sold or reduced, and all products manufactured therefrom by the lessee, to afford an adequate basis for computing and ascertaining the amount and grade of the crude and other primary products on the basis of which such royalty is to be paid; the decision of the Secretary of the Interior as to the market value of such products on which the royalty is computed shall be conclusive. The royalty must be paid on the last day of March, June, September, and December, each payment to cover the royalty on all production during the preceding three months.

(e) Reports.—To keep accurate account of the amount and value of the production under the lease, and to make a report on the last day of March, June, September, and December of the amount and value of the production during the preceding three months; also the amount invested in the property, the cost of operation, contracts in force as to disposal of proceeds, and depreciation of the property used in working the leased land; the books, records, property leased, and reduction works to be subject to inspection at any time by an accredited agent of the lessor.

(f) Sublease.—Not to assign this lease or any interest therein, nor sublet any portion of the leased premises, or any of the rights and privileges herein granted without the written consent of the lessor being first had and obtained.

(g) Diligence.—To proceed diligently to develop and mine the oil shale upon the leased lands and extract therefrom the oil and other valuable contents by the most approved methods, and in such a manner as to utilize all of the shale that can be successfully mined, leaving no available mineral abandoned where the mining is being conducted.

(h) Regulations.—To comply with such regulations as have been adopted by the Secretary of the Interior and were in force at date of this lease relative to (1) the safety and welfare of the workmen; (2) the prevention of undue waste; and (3) the exercise of reasonable diligence, skill, and care in the conduct of mining operations, which are made a part hereof as fully as if incorporated in this lease; it is also agreed that the workday shall not exceed eight hours for underground workers, except in cases of emergency, prompt report of which must be made to the lessor; that no boy under 16 years of age, nor any girl or woman shall be employed in any mine below the surface; that the workmen shall have absolute freedom to purchase their supplies wherever they may desire; that wages shall be paid twice each month in lawful money of the United States.

(i) Interest in leases.—To observe faithfully the provisions of section 27 of the act, defining the interest or interests that may be taken, held, or exercised under leases authorized by the act.

5. Prevention of monopoly.—The lessor reserves full power and authority to carry out by order and to enforce all the provisions of section 30 of the act, to insure the sale of the production of such lands to the United States and to the public at reasonable prices, and for the prevention of monopoly, and the lessee hereby covenants and agrees to comply with any such reasonable order issued in pursuance hereof.

6. Relinquishment.—The lessee, upon consent in writing of the lessor, may make a written relinquishment of all rights under the lease, and thereupon be relieved of all future obligations hereunder, or he may with like consent surrender any legal subdivisions of the area included herein, upon payment of all rents, royalties, and other debts due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages or moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary of the Interior that the public interest will not be impaired; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines or productive works or permanent improvements on the lands covered by such relinquishment.

7. Purchase of improvements.—On the termination of this lease pursuant to the last preceding section, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee, shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase, at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, all buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools, or other personalty placed by the lessee in or on the land leased hereunder, save and except underground improvements, machinery, equipment, or structures, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation; that the purchase price to be paid for said buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased as aforesaid shall be fixed by appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons (one to be designated by each party hereto and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive; that pending such election to purchase within said period of six months none of said buildings or other property shall be removed from their normal position; that if such valuation be not requested, or the lessor shall affirmatively elect not to purchase within said period of six months, the lessee shall have the privilege of removing said buildings and other property, except said underground equipment and structures as aforesaid.

8. Forfeiture.—If the lessee shall make default in the performance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations of this lease, and such default shall continue after written notice thereof by the Secretary of the Interior or his authorized representative, the lessor may, by appropriate proceedings, have this lease forfeited and canceled in a court of competent jurisdiction, but this provision shall not be construed as depriving the lessor of any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor would otherwise have. A waiver of any particular cause for forfeiture shall not affect the right to proceed against the lessee for any other cause of forfeiture or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

9. Heirs and successors.—It is further agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

10. Readjustment of royalties.—The lessor shall have the right to readjust and fix the royalties payable hereunder at the end of 20 years from the date of this lease, and to so readjust at the end of each succeeding period of 20 years, but the lessee may, if dissatisfied with the royalties imposed, relinquish and surrender this lease in the manner provided in sections 6 and 7 hereof.

11. Unlawful interest.—It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom; and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States, approved March 4, 1909, (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this lease, so far as the same may be applicable.

In witness whereof—

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
By ------ ------ [L. S.]
Secretary of the Interior.

7. Preferred right to a lease.—Under a proviso of section 21 of the act, a person having a valid claim to oil shale deposits under existing law, prior to January 1, 1919, shall, upon the relinquishment of such claim or claims, be entitled to a lease for not exceeding 5,120 acres, provided " that no claimant for a lease who has been guilty of any fraud, or who had knowledge or reasonable ground to know of any fraud, or who has not acted honestly and in good faith, shall be entitled " to such lease.

The beneficiaries of this proviso are those persons or their grantors who, in the honest belief that the mining laws were applicable to oil shale deposits, have proceeded in absolute good faith to make mineral locations, lode or placer, of shale deposits, and who have, in all respects, fully complied with the provisions and requirements of such laws, including discovery.

The same form of procedure in making applications for lease should be followed as in other cases, except that, in addition to the points referred to in section 3 of any ordinary application, an application for a preference-right lease should be accompanied by a full and detailed showing under oath, duly corroborated, of the facts on which the applicant claims a preferred right, together with copies of the location notices, abstracts of title, and such other evidence as may be deemed necessary to establish the claimant's preferred right and entire absence of fraud. Claimants of such preferred rights to leases should present same promptly; otherwise the lands may be leased to others, in which case any preference rights under this proviso will be deemed to have lapsed.

FEES AND COMMISSIONS

Under the authority of section 38 of the act, the following fees and commissions are prescribed for transactions under the act:

(a) For receiving and acting on each application for a permit, lease, or other right filed in the district land office in accordance with these regulations there shall be paid a fee of $2 for every 160 acres, or fraction thereof, in such application, but such fee in no case to be less than $10, the same to be paid by the applicant and considered as earned when paid, and to be credited in equal parts on the compensation of the register and receiver within the limitations provided by law.

(b) A commission of 1 per cent of all moneys received in each receiver's office to be equally divided between the register and receiver; such commission will not be collected from the applicant, lessee, or permittee in addition to the moneys otherwise provided to be paid.

(c) It should be understood that the commission here provided for will not affect the disposition of the proceeds arising from operations under the act as provided in section 35 thereof; also that such commission will be credited on compensation of registers and receivers only to the extent of the limitation provided by law for maximum compensation of such officers.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved March 11, 1920.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
Acting Secretary.

OIL AND GAS REGULATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 11, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Under the authority of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," the following rules and regulations are prescribed for the administration of the provisions of said act relative to oil and gas:

1. OIL AND GAS PERMIT

Section 13 of the act authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to grant a qualified applicant the exclusive right to prospect for oil or gas for the period of two years, unless extended, and under authority thereof the following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such permits:

1. Qualifications of applicants.—Pursuant to section 1 of the act, permits may be issued to (a) a citizen of the United States; (b) an association of such citizens; (c) a corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof; or (d) a municipality.

2. Lands to which applicable.—The permit thus issued may include not more than 2,560 acres of land wherein such deposits belong to the United States and are not within any known geological structure of a producing oil or gas field, the lands applied for to be taken in a reasonably compact form, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, and in an approximately square or rectangular tract if unsurveyed, the length of which must not exceed two and one-half times its width. Incontiguous tracts within a limited radius may be included in a permit when conditions are such that, because of prior disposals, a reasonable area of contiguous land can not be procured.

Such permits may not include land or deposits in (a) national parks; (b) forests created under the act of March 1, 1911 (36 Stat. 961), known as the Appalachian Forest Reserve act; (c) lands in military or naval reservations; or (d) Indian reservations. The application of the act to ceded Indian lands depends on the laws controlling their disposition.

All permits or leases for the exploration for or development of oil or gas deposits under this act within the limits of national forests or other reservations or withdrawals to which this act is applicable shall be subject to and contain such conditions, stipulations, and reservations as the Secretary of the Interior shall deem necessary for the protection of such forests, reservations, or withdrawals, and the uses and purposes for which created.

The boundaries of the geological structures of producing oil or gas fields will be determined by the United States Geological Survey, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, and maps or diagrams showing same will be placed on file in local United States land offices.

It should be understood that under the act, the granting of a prospecting permit for oil and gas is discretionary with the Secretary of the Interior, and any application may be granted or denied, either in part or in its entirety, as the facts may be deemed to warrant.

3. Permits or leases for other materials.—The granting of a permit or lease for the development or production of oil or gas will not preclude other permits or leases of the same land for the mining of other minerals, under this act, with suitable stipulations for such joint operation, to the end that the full development of the mineral resources may be secured, nor will it necessarily preclude the allowance of applicable entries, locations, or selections of the lands included therein with a reservation of the mineral deposits to the United States.

4. Form and contents of application.—Applications for permits should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, be suspended for 30 days to enable preference-right claims to be presented before action, and after due notation then forwarded for his consideration, with a full report as to status and conflicts. No specific form of application is required, and no blanks will be furnished, but it should cover, in substance, the following points, and be under oath:

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant, by affidavit of such fact, if native born; or if naturalized, by a certified copy of the certificate of naturalization on the form provided for use in public-land matters, unless such a copy is already on file; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles of incorporation, and a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders; if a municipality a showing of (1) the law or charter and procedure taken by which it has become a legal body corporate; (2) that the taking of a permit or lease is authorized under such law or charter; and (3) that the action proposed has been duly authorized by the governing body of such municipality.

(c) [10]A statement that the applicant is not the holder of more than two other subsisting permits in the same State, nor of any permit in the same geologic structure, together with a statement of any other applications for permits in the same State, in which the applicant is directly or indirectly interested, fully disclosing the nature and extent of such interests. In this connection attention is directed to the limitations and exceptions of section 27 of the act.

(d) [11] Description of the land for which the permit is desired, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, and by metes and bounds if unsurveyed, in which latter case, if deemed necessary, a survey sufficient more fully to identify the land may be required before the permit is granted. In order to properly identify unsurveyed lands, great care should be taken, and if practicable the metes and bounds description should be connected by course and distance with some corner of the public land surveys.

(e) A statement that to the best of applicant's knowledge and belief the land applied for is not within any known geological structure of a producing oil or gas field.

(f) Three references as to applicant's reputation and business standing.

(g) If the applicant is claiming a preference right as explained in the next succeeding section of these regulations, he should set up fully the facts upon which such preference right is based, together with a true copy of the posted notice.

(h)[12] The applicant must furnish a bond, with qualified corporate surety, in the sum of $1,000, conditioned against the failure of the permittee to repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation. The penalty of the bond may be increased by the Secretary of the Interior when conditions warrant, particularly in relief cases. This bond may be filed with the application, which will expedite action thereon, or within 10 days after receipt of notice by the applicant that the permit will be granted when the bond is filed.

[10] See amendments, pp. 935, 937, and 962.
[12] See amendment, p. 948 and supplemental instructions, p. 950.

Additional bonds, or a bond with additional obligations therein, will be required in special cases where a permit embraces reserved deposits in lands theretofore entered or patented with a reservation of the oil and gas to the United States, together with a right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), or where the lands constitute a portion of a reclamation project.

A revenue stamp must be attached to the bond at the rate of 1 cent on each $1 or fractional part thereof of premium paid.

The following form of bond is prescribed for use in ordinary cases in connection with applications for permit:

Bond of oil and gas permittee

[Act of Feb. 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437)]

Know all men by these presents, That we, ________ ______, of the county of ______, in the State of ______, as principal, and ______ ______ of the county of ______, in the State of ______, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America in the sum of ______ dollars, lawful money of the United States to be paid to the United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, and each of us, and each of our heirs, executors, administrators, or successors, and assigns, jointly and severally by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals this ______ day of ______ in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ______.

The condition of the foregoing obligation is such that, whereas the said principal has made application under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for a permit to prospect for oil and gas for two years upon the following described lands _____________; and whereas said permit, if granted, will be on condition that all operations shall be conducted in accordance with approved methods; that all proper precautions shall be exercised to prevent waste of oil or gas developed in the lands, or the entrance of water through wells drilled by, or on behalf of, the principal to the oil sands or oil-bearing strata to the destruction of the oil deposits.

Now therefore, if said principal shall promptly repair any damage that may result to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation, or from failure to comply fully with the aforesaid conditions of said permit, then the above obligation is to be void and of no effect; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

In lieu of corporate surety, the applicant may deposit United States bonds of the par value of not less than $1,000, pursuant to section 1320 of the act of February 24, 1919 (see Treasury Circular No. 154, of June 30, 1919). When United States bonds are submitted as security in lieu of corporate surety same should be accompanied with a bond and power of sale duly executed by the applicant in substantially the following form:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

GENERAL LAND OFFICE

U. S. Land Office ———
Serial No. ———

Bond of oil and gas permittee where United States bonds are accepted in lieu of surety or sureties, and power of attorney

[Act of Feb. 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437)]

Know all men by these presents, That ______ of ______, State of ______, as obligor, is held and firmly bound unto the United States of America in the sum of $1,000, lawful money of the United States, to be paid to the United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, binds himself, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns by these presents.

The condition of the foregoing obligation is such that whereas the said obligor has made application under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for a permit to prospect for oil and gas for two years upon the following-described land; __________; and

Whereas said permit, if granted, will be on condition that all operations shall be conducted in accordance with approved methods; that all proper precautions shall be exercised to prevent waste of oil or gas developed in the lands, or the entrance of water through wells drilled by or on behalf of the obligor to the oil sands or oil-bearing strata to the destruction of the oil deposits.

Now, therefore, if said obligor shall promptly repair any damage that may result to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation, or through failure to comply fully with the aforesaid conditions of said permit, then the above obligation is to be void and of no effect; otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

The above-bounden obligor, in order the more fully to secure the United States in the payment of the aforesaid mentioned sum, hereby pledges as security therefor bonds of the United States in the principal sum of $1,000, which said bonds are numbered serially and are in the denominations and amounts and are otherwise more particularly described as follows:

______ bonds of $______ bearing ______ per cent interest with ______ coupons attached to each, numbered ______, which said bonds have this day been deposited with the Secretary of the Interior and his receipt taken therefor.

That the said obligor does hereby constitute and appoint the Secretary of the Interior as his attorney, for him and in his name to collect or to sell, assign and transfer the said United States bonds above described and deposited by the obligor as aforesaid, pursuant to authority conferred by section 1320, of the revenue act of 1918, approved February 24, 1919, as security for the faithful performance of any and all of the conditions or stipulations as hereinbefore set out, and it is agreed that, in case of any default in the performance of the conditions and stipulations of such undertaking the said attorney shall have full power to collect said bonds or any part thereof, or to sell, assign, and transfer said bonds or any part thereof without notice, at public or private sale, free from any equity of redemption or without appraisement or valuation, notice and right to redeem being waived, and to apply proceeds of such sale or collection in whole or in part to the satisfaction of any damages, or deficiencies arising by reason of such default, as said attorney may deem best. The interest accruing upon said United States bonds deposited as above stated, in the absence of any default in the performance of any of the conditions or stipulations of the bond, shall be paid to said obligor. The said obligor hereby for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns ratifies and confirms whatever his said attorney shall do by virtue of these presents.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this ______ day of ______ 19__.

5. PREFERENCE RIGHT, HOW SECURED.—A preference right over others to a permit may be obtained, under section 13 of the act, by—

(a) Erecting upon the land desired, subsequent to the approval of the act, a monument not less than 4 feet high, at some conspicuous place thereon, of such a size as to be visible to anyone who may be interested. The monument may be of iron, stone, or durable wood, not less than 4 inches square or in diameter, and must be firmly embedded in the ground.

(b) Posting on or near said monument a notice stating that an application for permit will be made within 30 days after date of posting said notice, the notice to give the date and hour of posting, to be signed by the applicant, and give such a general description of the land to be covered by the permit, by reference to courses and distances from such monument and other natural objects and permanent monuments, as will reasonably identify the land. The area, approximately, must also be stated, and the notice must be so protected as to prevent its destruction by the elements. The preference right will exist for 30 days after the date of posting such notice, and if no application is filed within that time, the land will be subjected to any other application for permit or to other disposal.

(c) In cases of conflict between a preference right application and one filed without any claim of preference, the priority of the initiation of the claim will govern; for example, the filing of a proper application in the land office prior to the posting of notice by another, as aforesaid, will give a prior right.

6. FORM AND REQUIREMENTS OF PERMIT.—A permit will confer upon the recipient the exclusive right to prospect for oil or gas upon the lands embraced therein, provided he complies with the terms thereof, which permit will be, in form and substance, substantially as follows:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

General Land Office

U. S. Land Office ______
Serial Number ______

Know all men by these presents, That the Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of the act of Congress entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," approved February 25, 1920, has granted and does hereby grant a permit to ______ ______ granting ______ the exclusive right for ______ years from date hereof to prospect for oil or gas, but for no other purpose, the following described lands: ________, upon the express conditions following:

1. To mark each of the corners of the claim within 90 days from date hereof with substantial monuments so that the boundaries can be readily traced on the ground, and post in a conspicuous place, upon the lands covered hereby, a notice that such a permit has been granted, and a description of the lands covered by this permit.

2. Within six months (two years in Alaska) from date hereof to install upon some portion of the lands a substantial and adequate drilling outfit and to commence actual drilling operations.

3. Within one year (three years in Alaska) from date hereof to drill one or more wells, not less than 6 inches in diameter to a depth of at least 500 feet each, unless valuable deposits of oil or gas shall be sooner discovered.

4. Within two years (four years in Alaska) from date hereof to drill one or more wells to a depth of at least 2,000 feet, unless valuable deposits of oil or gas shall be sooner discovered.

5. Not to drill any well within 200 feet of any of the outer boundaries of the lands covered by this permit unless the adjoining lands have been patented or the title thereto otherwise vested in private owners.

6. To carry on all operations hereunder in accordance with approved methods and practice; to use all reasonable precautions to prevent waste of oil or gas developed in the land, or the entrance of water through wells drilled by permittees to the oil sands or oil-bearing strata to the destruction or injury of the oil deposits, and to carry out, at the expense of the permittee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior relative to prevention of waste and preservation of property, and to comply with such regulations as may be issued by the Secretary of the Interior as to methods of operation.

7. To furnish and maintain during the period of this permit a bond with qualified corporate surety in the sum of $______, conditioned against the failure of the permittee to repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation.

8. That as to any lands covered by this permit embraced at the date hereof in any entry or patent with a reservation of the oil and gas deposits to the United States pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), or the act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), permittee shall reimburse such entrymen or patentee for all damage to crops and improvements caused by drilling or other prospecting operations.

9. That this permit is granted upon the express condition that the right is reserved to the Secretary of the Interior to permit upon such terms as he may determine to be just, for joint or several use, such easements or rights of way, including easements in tunnels upon, through, or in the lands covered thereby, as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in the act under which this permit is granted.

10. This permit is granted on the express condition that if any of the land covered thereby is embraced in a forest, reclamation, power, or other withdrawal, or is segregated for any particular purpose operations under this permit shall be so conducted as not to interfere with the administration and use of the land for the purpose for which withdrawn or segregated to a greater extent than may be determined by the Secretary of the Interior to be necessary for the most beneficial use of the land.

11. The granting of this permit shall not preclude the allowance of entry, location, or selection of any of the lands included therein, where such entry, selection, or location is made with a reservation of the mineral deposits to the United States.

12. That until this permittee shall apply for a lease of one-quarter or more of the area included herein, he shall pay to the United States 20 per cent of the gross value of all oil or gas secured by him from the lands and sold or otherwise disposed of, or held by him for sale or other disposition.

13. The Secretary of the Interior reserves the right and authority to cancel this instrument for failure of the permittee to comply with any of the conditions enumerated herein or to exercise due diligence in the work of development.

14. Valid rights existing at the date of this permit will not be affected thereby.

Dated this ______ day of ______, 19__.

______ ______,
Secretary of the Interior.

7.[13] EXTENSION OF LIFE OF PERMIT.—If for any good reason the permittee is unable, with the exercise of diligence, to test the land within two years, application for extension for not to exceed two years may be filed within the life of the permit, and must be accompanied by a showing under oath, corroborated, as to the causes that make such extension necessary, and as to what efforts have been made to comply with the condition of the permit; ordinarily no extension will be granted in the absence of the minimum amount of drilling required by the permit. This application should be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, and be filed either in the district land office or in the General Land Office. This privilege is not applicable to Alaska.

8.[14] REWARD FOR DISCOVERY.—Upon establishing to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that valuable deposits of oil or gas have been discovered within the limits of the land embraced in the permit, within the period of the permit or extension thereof, the permittee is entitled (a) to a lease of one-fourth of the land included in the permit, on a royalty of 5 per cent, or for at least 160 acres if there be that area in the permit; (b) to a preference right to a lease for the remainder of the land covered by his permit at such royalty as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, not less than 12½ per cent in amount or value of the production, nor more than the royalties fixed for leases under section 18 of the act (sec. 19, par. c, of these regulations), except that on that portion of the average production exceeding 200 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, the royalties shall be 33⅓ per cent for oil of 30° B. or over and 25 per cent for oil of less than 30° B.

9. PENALTY FOR DEFAULT.—The permit will be subject to cancellation by the Secretary of the Interior for failure of the permittee to comply with any of the conditions enumerated therein or to exercise due diligence in the work of development.

In the absence of discovery of oil or gas within the period of the permit or extension thereof, the permit will thereupon terminate and the lands or deposits will automatically revert to their original status, but the land will continue segregated pending action by the Land Department on any application for extension that is timely filed.

10. PERMITS IN ALASKA.—The foregoing rules and regulations generally will apply to permits in Alaska, under section 13 of the act, but with some modifications, viz:

(a) A person, association, or corporation is authorized to hold five permits at one time in said territory, but only one permit in the geologic structure of any one producing oil field; hence subdivision c of section 4 of these regulations should be modified accordingly in making application for permits for lands in Alaska under section 13 of the act.

(b) The preference right treated under section 5 of these regulations extends for a period of six months after the erection of monument and posting of notice provided for therein, and the period for marking of the corners is extended to one year after the granting of the permit.

[14] See amendment, p. 939, and added paragraph 8 (a), p. 916.

(c) The time for exploratory work in Alaska is four years, instead of two, and there is no provision for extension of such period. The various items necessary in this exploratory work are set forth in the form of permit herein provided, the Alaskan period being included in parentheses, after the period prescribed in the States.

11. PERMITS FOR RESERVED DEPOSITS.—The deposits of oil and gas in all lands for which a patent has issued with a reservation of the oil and gas to the United States, under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), subject to the preference right, if any, explained in the next succeeding section hereof, may be included in a permit under the provisions of this act, conditioned upon the permittee filing with the Secretary of the Interior a satisfactory bond or undertaking as security for the payment of all damages to crops and improvements on such lands by reason of prospecting, as required by the said act. (See G. L. O. Circular No. 393, 44 L. D. 32.)

12. PREFERENCE RIGHT OF OWNER OF SURFACE.—Under section 20 of the act a preference right to a prospecting permit is given to an entryman or owner of land not claimed under any railroad grant, under the following conditions: (1) The entry must have been made prior to February 25, 1920; (2) the entry must have been bona fide under and pursuant to the act under which made; (3) the entry must have been made without a reservation of the oil and gas, for land unwithdrawn, not classified as oil and gas land, and not known to be valuable for its oil or gas deposits, at date of entry; (4) in case the entry is patented, it must have been with a reservation of the oil and gas to the Government; if the entry is not patented, the entryman must waive all right under the entry to the oil and gas in the land; (5) if the entry has been assigned or transferred, such assignment or transfer must have been prior to January 1, 1918.

(a) Should an application for permit for entered or patented lands with a reservation of the oil and gas content to the United States be filed by a person other than the entryman or owner of the land, the applicant will be required to serve personal notice of such application upon the owner or owners of the land so entered or patented, with a warning therein that if said owner desires to exercise his preference right, if any, to a permit, he must file within 30 days his application therefor in the proper local land office. The application must furnish evidence of the service of notice on the owner and evidence that the party served is the owner of the land involved, either by his affidavit, duly corroborated, or by certificate of the officer in whose office transfers of real property are to be recorded.

(b) The preference-right applicant must show that he is entitled under the section above outlined, together with his qualifications, to hold a permit as previously set forth in these regulations, and if such an application be filed, the Secretary of the Interior will award the permit to the party entitled thereto.

(c) If the land, either withdrawn or unwithdrawn, is covered by an unpatented nonmineral entry without a reservation of the oil and gas content to the Government, a prospecting permit may not be granted so long as the entry subsists without such reservation. In cases where applications for prospecting permits are filed by persons other than the entrymen for land in this status such applications will be referred to the United States Geological Survey for classification as to the prospective oil value of the land affected. If the Geological Survey shall conclude and report that the land embraced in such a nonmineral entry is without prospective oil or gas value, the application for permit will be rejected as to such land; but if the Geological Survey shall report that the land has a prospective oil or gas value and offers a favorable opportunity for prospecting operations, then the General Land Office will direct the proper local officers to serve notice on the nonmineral entryman to the effect that said land has been reported as valuable for its oil or gas content, and that the said entryman will be allowed 15 days within which (1) to file in the local office his consent to a reservation to the Government of the oil and gas content of the land embraced in his entry and in which to exercise his preference right, if any, to a prospecting permit for said land by filing a proper application therefor, or (2) to show cause, if any there be, why he should not consent to the mineral reservation, failing in either of which his entry will be canceled without further notice. The local office will thereupon report the action taken to the commissioner, whereupon (1) if the nonmineral entryman shall have failed to take any action, order of cancellation of the nonmineral entry will be made and action taken on the prospecting permit accordingly; (2) if consent to the reservation shall have been filed, a prospecting permit will be granted to the entryman or the former applicant, as the case may be, for the reserved mineral deposits; (3) if the nonmineral entryman shall submit a showing why the entry should not be impressed with a reservation of the mineral to the Government, such showing will be referred to the Geological Survey for consideration and report. If upon the receipt of such report the department shall conclude that the land is without mineral value, the application for prospecting permit will be rejected; but if the department shall conclude that, notwithstanding the showing made by the entryman, the land has a prospective oil and gas value, such action will be taken as the facts may warrant.

From the above it will be seen that it is desirable on the part of any applicant for a prospecting permit for land already embraced in a nonmineral entry without a reservation of the mineral, and likewise desirable on the part of any nonmineral entryman who is contending that the land is nonmineral in character, to submit with their respective applications or showings as complete and accurate geological data as may be procurable, preferably the reports and opinions of qualified experts.

(d) In case of conflict between a preference-right claim under section 20 of the act and one claimed by virtue of section 18 or 19, the issue will be determined on the basis of priority.

(e) Claimants under this section of the act may combine their holdings for the purpose of making joint application for a permit, provided in the aggregate area does not exceed 2,560 acres and that all the lands for which application is made are within an area of 6 miles square or within the same township.

(f) The right of a permittee under a preference-right permit to a lease after discovery is governed by other provisions of the act, as set forth in section 8 of these regulations.

12½. Assignment of permits.—Permits, after being awarded, may be assigned to qualified persons or corporations upon first obtaining consent of the Secretary of the Interior. Mere rights to receive a permit are not assignable.

II. OIL AND GAS LEASES

13. Designation and offer of lands for lease.—Pursuant to the provisions of section 17 of the act, the unappropriated deposits of oil or gas situated within known geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields, and the lands containing same, will be divided into leasing blocks or tracts in areas not exceeding 640 acres each, and not exceeding in length two and one-half times their width, and offered for lease at a stated royalty by competitive bidding to the highest responsible bidder having the qualifications prescribed by section 15, paragraph (a) hereof.

14.[d] Notice of lease offer..—Notice of the offer of lands for lease will be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the lands or deposits are situated for a period of 30 days; such notice will state the day and hour on which the offering will be made at public auction at the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, to the qualified bidder offering the highest bonus for the lease at the stated rental and royalty. Copy of the notice will be posted in said local office during the period of publication. This notice will be published at the expense of the Government. All bidders at any such auction are warned against violation of the provisions of section 59 of the United States Criminal Code, approved March 4, 1909, prohibiting unlawful combination or intimidation of bidders.

15. Auction of lease.—At the time fixed in the notice, the register or receiver will, by public auction, offer the land for lease on the terms and conditions as to payments of royalties and rents fixed in the notice, to the qualified bidder of the highest amount offered as a bonus for the privilege of leasing the land. The successful bidder must deposit with the receiver on the date of the sale, certified check on a solvent bank, or cash, for one-fifth of the amount bid by him, which payment the receiver will credit to "Trust funds—Unearned moneys." At the time of such payment the successful bidder will also file the requisite showing of his qualifications to receive a lease, which shall include the following:

(a) Proof of citizenship of applicant; by affidavit of such fact, if native born, or if naturalized, by certified copy of the certificate of naturalization, on the form provided for use in public-land matters, unless such copy is already on file; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles of incorporation and a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(b) The affidavit of the bidder or the affidavit of one of the officers of a corporate bidder that the bidder does not hold another lease in the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field, nor more than two leases, or a lease and a permit, in the State, except under sections 18, 18*a*, 19, and 22 of the act; and also that the acceptance of the lease by such successful bidder will not be in violation of the provisions of section 27 of the act relative to excess holdings by individuals or corporations.

The register and receiver will thereupon transmit such showing, together with a report of the proceedings had at the auction, by special letter to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

16. AWARD OF LEASE.—On receipt of the report of the auction from the register and receiver, the Secretary of the Interior will take action thereon, and either award the lease to the successful bidder or reject same, notice of which will be forthwith transmitted to the bidder through the local office. If the lease shall be awarded, the notice will be accompanied by copies of leases for execution by the lessee, who shall, within 30 days from receipt of such notice, execute said lease in triplicate, and pay to the receiver the balance of the bonus bid by him, together with the first year's rental, and also cause to be filed in the Land Office the bond required by section 2 (a) of the lease; in lieu of such bond, Liberty bonds will be taken at par in the amount of the bond, as provided in the act of February 24, 1919 (40 Stat. 1148). If the bid be rejected, the receiver will return by his official check the deposit made at the auction. In case of the award of a lease and failure on the part of the bidder to execute same, and otherwise comply with the applicable regulations, the deposit made will be considered forfeited and disposed of as other receipts under this act.

17. FORM OF LEASE.—The lease referred to in the preceding sections will be in form and substance substantially as follows:

U. S. Land Office ______
Serial No. ______

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Lease of oil and gas lands under the act of February 25, 1920

Date—Parties.—This indenture of lease entered into, in triplicate, this ______ day of ______ A. D., 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by the Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ______ of ______, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437) entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," hereinafter referred to as the act, which is made a part hereof, witnesseth:

SECTION 1. Purposes.—That the lessor in consideration of rents and royalties to be paid, and the covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to drill for, mine, extract, remove, and dispose of all the oil and gas deposits in or under the following described tracts of land situated in the county of ______, State of ______, and more particularly described as follows: ____________ containing ______ acres, more or less, together with the right to construct and maintain thereupon all works, buildings, plants, waterways, roads, telegraph or telephone lines, pipe lines, reservoirs, tanks, pumping stations, or other structures necessary to the full enjoyment hereof, for a period of 20 years, with the preferential right in the lessee to renew this lease for successive periods of 10 years, upon such reasonable terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the lessor, unless otherwise provided by law at the time of the expiration of such periods.

SEC. 2. In consideration of the foregoing, the lessee hereby agrees:

(a) Bond.—To furnish a bond with approved corporate surety in the penal sum of $5,000, conditioned upon compliance with the terms of the lease.

(b) Commence drilling.—The lessee agrees, within three months from delivery of executed lease, to proceed with reasonable diligence to install on the leased ground a standard or other efficient drilling outfit and equipment, and to commence drilling at least one well, and to continue such drilling with reasonable diligence to production, or to a point where the well is demonstrated unsuccessful, and thereafter to continue drilling with reasonable diligence at least one well at a time until the lessee shall have drilled wells equal in number to the number of 40-acre tracts embraced in the leased premises, unless the lessor shall, for any reason deemed sufficient, consent in writing to the drilling of a less number of wells; the lessee further agrees to drill all necessary wells fairly to offset the wells of others on adjoining land or deposits not the property of the United States.

(c) Royalty and rents.—To pay the lessor in advance, beginning with the date of the execution of this lease, a rental of $1 per acre per annum during the continuance hereof, the rental so paid for any one year to be credited on the royalty for that year, and, in addition to such rental, a royalty of ---- per cent of the value of oil or gas produced from the land leased herein (except oil or gas used for production purposes on said lands or unavoidably lost), or, on demand of the lessor, ---- per cent of the oil or gas produced (except oil or gas used for production purposes on said lands, or unavoidably lost), in which case credit for rent shall be on the basis of the current field price of oil, the royalty, when paid in value, to be due and payable monthly on the 15th of each month following the month in which produced, to the receiver of public moneys of the proper land district; and when paid in kind, to be delivered in the field where produced at such times, and in such manner as may be required by the lessor; such royalties, whether in value or kind, shall be subject to reduction whenever the average daily production of any oil well shall not exceed 10 barrels per day, if in the judgment of the lessor the wells can not be successfully operated upon the royalties fixed herein.

(d) Sales contract.—To file with the Secretary of the Interior copies of all sales contracts for the disposition of oil and gas produced hereunder, except for production purposes on the land leased, and, in the event the United States shall elect to take its royalties in money instead of in oil or gas, not to sell or otherwise dispose of the products of the land leased, except in accordance with a sales contract or other method first approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

(e) Monthly statement.—To furnish monthly statements in detail in such form as may be prescribed by the lessor, showing the amount, quality, and value of all oil and gas produced and saved during the preceding calendar month as the basis for computing the royalty due the lessor. The leased premises, and all wells, improvements, machinery, and fixtures thereon or connected therewith, and all books and accounts of the lessee shall be open at all times for the inspection of any duly authorized officer of the department.

(f) Plats and reports.—To furnish annually and at such times as the Secretary shall require, in the manner and form prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, a plat showing all development work and improvements on the leased lands, and other related information, with a report as to all buildings, structures, or other works placed in or upon said leased lands, accompanied by a report in detail as to the stockholders, investment, depreciation, and cost of operation, together with a statement as to the amount and grade of oil and gas produced and sold, and the amount received therefor, by operations hereunder.

(g) Log of wells.—To keep a log in the form prescribed by the Secretary of all the wells drilled by the lessee, showing the strata and character of the ground passed through by the drill, which log, or copy thereof, shall be furnished to said lessor on demand.

(h) Diligence—Prevention of waste—Health and safety of workmen.—To exercise reasonable diligence in drilling and operating wells for the oil and gas on the lands covered hereby while such products can be secured in paying quantities, unless consent to suspend operations temporarily is granted by the Secretary of the Interior; to carry on all operations hereunder in a good and workmanlike manner, in accordance with approved methods and practice, having due regard for the prevention of waste of oil or gas developed on the land, or the entrance of water through wells drilled by the lessee to the oil sands or oil-bearing strata, to the destruction or injury of the oil deposits, the preservation and conservation of the property for future productive operations, and to the health and safety of workmen and employees; to plug securely any well before abandoning the same so as to effectually shut off all water from the oil or gas bearing strata; not to drill any well within 200 feet of any of the outer boundaries of the lands covered hereby unless the adjoining lands have been patented or the title thereto otherwise vested in private owners; to conduct all mining, drilling, and related productive operations subject to the inspection of the lessor; to carry out at expense of the lessee all reasonable orders and requirements of lessor relative to prevention of waste and preservation of the property and the health and safety of workmen, and on failure so to do the lessor shall have the right to enter on the property to repair damage or prevent waste at lessee's cost; to abide by and conform to regulations in force at the time the lease is granted covering the matters referred to in this paragraph: Provided, That lessee shall not be held responsible for delays or casualties occasioned by causes beyond lessee's control.

(i) Taxes and wages—Freedom of purchase.—To pay when due all taxes lawfully assessed and levied under the laws of the State upon improvements, oil, and gas produced from the lands hereunder, or other rights, property, or assets of the lessee; to accord all workmen and employees complete freedom of purchase, and to pay all wages due workmen and employees at least twice each month in the lawful money of the United States.

(j) Reserved deposits.—To comply with all statutory requirements and regulations thereunder, if the lands embraced herein have been or shall hereafter be disposed of under laws reserving to the United States the deposits of oil and gas therein, subject to such conditions as are or may hereafter be provided by the laws reserving such oil or gas.

(k) Excess holdings.—To observe faithfully the provisions of section 27 of the act defining the interest or interests that may be taken, held, or exercised under leases authorized by said act.

(l) Assignment of lease.—Not to assign this lease or any interest therein, nor sublet any portion of the leased premises, except with the consent in writing of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained.

(m) Deliver premises in case of forfeiture.—To deliver up the premises leased, with all permanent improvements thereon, in good order and condition in case of forfeiture of this lease.

Sec. 3. The lessor expressly reserves:

(a) Rights reserved—Easements and rights of way.—The right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way, including easements in tunnels upon, through, or in the lands leased, occupied, or used as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same or of other lands containing the deposits described in said act, and the treatment and shipment of products thereof by or under authority of the Government, its lessees, or permittees, and for other public purposes.

(b) Disposition of surface.—The right to lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of the surface of the lands embraced within this lease under existing law or laws hereinafter enacted in so far as said surface is not necessary for the use of the lessee in the extraction and removal of the oil and gas therein.

(c) Pipe lines to convey at reasonable rates.—The right to require the lessee, his assignee, or beneficiary, if owner, or operator of, or owner of a controlling interest in any pipe line, or any company operating the same which may be operated accessible to the oil derived from lands under such lease, to accept and convey at reasonable rates and without discriminating the oil of the Government or of any citizen or company, not the owner of any pipe line, operating a lease or purchasing oil or gas under the provisions of this act.

(d) Monopoly and fair prices.—Full power and authority to carry out and enforce all the provisions of section 30 of the act, to insure the sale of the production of such leased lands to the United States and to the public at reasonable prices to prevent monopoly and to safeguard the public welfare.

(e) Helium.—Pursuant to section 1 of the act, the lessor reserves the right to take all helium from any gas produced under this lease, but the lessee shall not be required to extract and save the helium for the lessor; in case the lessor elects to take the helium, the lessee shall deliver all gas containing same, or portion thereof desired, to the lessor in the manner required by the lessor, for the extraction of the helium in such plant or reduction works for that purpose as the lessor may provide, whereupon the residue shall be returned to the lessee with no substantial delay in the delivery of gas produced from the well to the purchaser thereof; provided, that the lessee shall not, as a result of the operation in this section provided for, suffer a diminution in value of the gas from which the helium has been extracted, or loss otherwise, for which the lessee is not reasonably compensated, save for the value of the helium extracted; the lessor further reserves the right to erect, maintain, and operate any and all reduction works and other equipment necessary for the extraction of helium on the premises leased.

Sec. 4 Surrender and termination of lease.—The lessee may, on consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained in writing, surrender and terminate this lease upon the payment of all rents, royalties, and other obligations due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages and moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary that the public interest will not be impaired; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made full provision for conservation and protection of the property; upon like consent had and obtained the lessee may surrender any legal subdivisions of the area included herein.

Sec. 5. Purchase of materials, etc., on termination of lease.—Upon the expiration of this lease, or the earlier termination thereof pursuant to the last preceding section, the lessor or another lessee may, if the lessor shall so elect within six months from the termination of the lease, purchase all materials, tools, machinery, appliances, structures, and equipment placed in or upon the land by the lessee and in use thereon as a necessary or useful part of an operating or producing plant on the payment to the lessee of such sum as may be fixed as a reasonable price therefor by a board of three appraisers, one of whom shall be chosen by the lessor, one by the lessee, and the other by the two so chosen; pending such election all equipment shall remain in normal position. If the lessor, or another lessee, shall not within six months elect to purchase all or any part of such materials, tools, machinery, appliances, structures, and equipment, the lessee shall have the right at any time within 90 days to remove from the premises all the materials, tools, machinery, appliances, structures, and equipment which the lessor shall not have elected to purchase, save and except casing in wells and other equipment or apparatus necessary for the preservation of the well or wells.

Sec. 6. Judicial proceedings in case of default.—If the lessee shall fail to comply with the provisions of the act or make default in the performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations hereof, or of the general regulations promulgated and in force at the date hereof, and such default shall continue after service of written notice thereof by the lessor, then the lessor may institute appropriate judicial proceedings for the forfeiture and cancellation of this lease in accordance with the provisions of section 31 of said act; but this provision shall not be construed to prevent the exercise by the lessor of any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor might otherwise have. A waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture shall not prevent the cancellation and forfeiture of this lease for any other cause of forfeiture, or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

Sec. 7. Heirs and successors in interest.—It is further covenanted and agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon and every benefit hereof shall inure to the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

Sec. 8. Unlawful interest.—It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress or Resident Commissioner after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior shall be admitted to any share or part in this lease or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts enter into and form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

GENERAL LAND OFFICE

U. S. Land Office ______
Serial Number ______

Bond of oil and gas lessee

[Act of Feb. 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437)]

Know all men by these presents, That we, ______ ______, of the county of ______, in the State of ______, as principal, and ______ of the county of ______, ______, in the State of ______, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America in the sum of ______ dollars, lawful money of the United States, for the use and benefit of the United States and of any entryman or patentee of any portion of the land covered by the hereinafter described lease heretofore entered or patented with a reservation of the oil and gas deposits to the United States, to be paid to the United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, and each of us, and each of our heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, jointly and severally by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals this ______ day of ______, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ______.

The condition of the foregoing obligation is such that—

Whereas the said principal, by instrument dated ______, has been granted the exclusive right to drill for, mine, extract, remove, and dispose of all the oil and gas deposits in or under the following described lands ______________ under and pursuant to the provisions of the act approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437); and

Whereas the said principal has by such instrument entered into certain covenants and agreements set forth therein, under which operations are to be conducted:

Now, therefore, if said principal shall faithfully comply with all the provisions of the above described lease, then the above obligation is to be void and of no effect, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue.

Where Government bonds are deposited as security in lieu of a surety bond, in compliance with paragraph 2 (a) of the lease form, same should be accompanied with a combined bond and power of attorney to sell, duly executed by the lessee, along the same general lines as the form set out in paragraph 4 (h) of these regulations with suitable changes made in the condition of the bond to correspond with the condition in the lease bond, form for which is above set out.

III. RELIEF MEASURES

Sections 18, 19, and 22 of the act provide for the "relief," so called, of certain defined claimants of oil and gas lands, who at date of the act had not perfected their claims under the preexisting mining laws, and are prevented from doing so by withdrawal of the land or by this act.

18. CONDITIONS FOR RELIEF UNDER SECTION 18:

(a) That the land claimed must have been included in the Executive order of withdrawal of September 27, 1909, and must have remained so withdrawn.

(b) That the claim must have been initiated under the placer mining laws prior to July 3, 1910, and claimed and possessed continuously from that time.

(c) That no claimant who has acquired any interest in the land since September 1, 1919, from another claimant who, on that date or since that time, was, or is claiming or holding, more than the maximum allowed a claimant under section 18 of the act, may secure a lease under section 18, or any interest therein. This limitation does not, however, apply to an exchange of an interest in such lands made prior to January 1, 1920, which did not increase or reduce the area or acreage held or claimed, in excess of the maximum by either party to the exchange.

(d) That claimant or predecessors must have drilled an oil or gas well on the land to discovery.

(e) That all conflicting claims asserted prior to July 1, 1919, must have been disposed of, as provided in section 28 hereof or otherwise.

(f) That no claimant who has been guilty of any fraud or who had knowledge or reasonable grounds to know of any fraud, or who has not acted honestly and in good faith, shall be entitled to any of the benefits of this section.

(g) That claimant must, on or before August 25, 1920, file a relinquishment to the United States of all right, title, and interest in and to the land, together with an application for a lease. This relinquishment may be in the form of an unconditional quitclaim deed, duly executed and acknowledged, but not recorded, and when filed will be held for such action as the facts and the law in the case warrant and require.

(h)[15] That claimant must pay for one-eighth of the value at the time of production of all oil and gas produced prior to date of filing relinquishment and application for relief, exclusive of oil and gas used on the land for production purposes, or unavoidably lost.

19. RELIEF THAT MAY BE GRANTED UNDER SECTION 18:

(a) Lands not in naval petroleum reserves.—A qualified claimant, upon complying with the provisions of the act and these regulations, will be entitled to a 20-year lease from the United States, commencing and effective as of the date of filing relinquishment and application for relief, substantially in the form prescribed in section 17 hereof, at a royalty to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, but not less than 12½ per cent of all oil and gas produced exclusive of that used for production purposes on the claim, or unavoidably lost. There is, however, a limitation placed by the act upon the acreage that may be included in such lease. If the geologic oil or gas structure of the producing field in which the claim is situated does not exceed 640 acres in area the lease may include the entire area if covered by the claim; but if the area of such structure exceeds 640 acres the act provides that not more than one-half of the area, same to be selected by the claimant but in no case to exceed 3,200 acres, may be leased to any one claimant.

[15] See Circular No. 733, p. 126.

(b) Lands in naval petroleum reserves.—If the land claimed is within a naval petroleum reserve the claimant will be entitled to lease only the producing wells on the claim, together with an area of land sufficient for the operation of such wells, upon a royalty to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, but not less than 12½ per cent of the production, except that used for production purposes on the claim or unavoidably lost. The act forbids the drilling of any wells in lands subject to this provision within 660 feet of the leased wells without the consent of the lessee. It further provides that the President may, in his discretion, lease the remainder or any part of the claim on which such wells have been drilled, and in the event of such leasing the claimant shall have a preference to such lease. The President may also permit the lessee of any well to drill additional wells within the limited area of 660 feet upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe. These terms and conditions can not be prescribed here, but will be determined on the merits in each separate case.

(c) Royalties.—The royalties payable under leases granted pursuant to section 18 of the act are cumulative, and are hereby determined and prescribed as follows:

For all oil produced of 30° B. or over upon each claim on which the wells average not exceeding 20 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 12½ per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 20 barrels and not more than 50 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 16⅔ per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 50 barrels and not more than 100 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 20 per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 100 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 25 per cent.

For all oil produced of less than 30° B. upon each claim on which the wells average not exceeding 20 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 12½ per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 20 barrels and not more than 50 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 14²⁄₇ per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 50 barrels and not more than 100 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 16⅔ per cent; upon each claim on which the wells average more than 100 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, 20 per cent.

Only wells which have a commercial production during at least a part of the month shall be considered in ascertaining the average production herein, and the Secretary of the Interior shall determine what are commercially productive wells under this provision.

The royalties on gas produced, if any, will be fixed and determined in each lease.

20. CONDITIONS FOR RELIEF UNDER SECTION 19:

A. For permit.—(a) That the land must not be in a naval petroleum reserve.

(b) The applicant or his predecessor in interest must have been an occupant or claimant of the land on or before October 1, 1919, under a claim initiated under the placer mining laws, when the land was not withdrawn, provided that a transferee of such a claim subsequent to October 1, 1919, will not be permitted to hold permits under section 19 of the act to exceed 2,560 acres in the same geologic structure nor for more than three times that area in the same State.

(c) That claimant, by himself or predecessor in interest, must have performed all acts under the preexisting laws necessary to valid locations, except to make discovery.

(d) That prior to February 25, 1920, claimant must have performed work or expended on or for the benefit of such locations an amount equal in the aggregate to $250 for each location.

(e) That no claimant who has been guilty of any fraud or who had knowledge, or reasonable grounds to know of any fraud, or who has not acted honestly and in good faith, shall be entitled to any of the benefits of this section.

(f) That claimant must, on or before August 25, 1920, file a relinquishment to the United States of all right, title, and interest in and to the land, together with an application for a permit. This relinquishment may be in the form of an unconditional quit-claim deed, duly executed and acknowledged, but not recorded, and when filed will be held for such action as the facts and the law in the case warrant and require.

B. For lease.—The conditions necessary to obtaining a lease under section 19 of the act are identical with those outlined in paragraphs (a), (b), (e), and (f), for permits, together with the following additional conditions:

(a) That claimant must have made a discovery of oil or gas on or before February 25, 1920.

(b) That claimant must not be entitled to relief on the land in question under section 18 of the act.

(c)[16] That claimant must pay for one-eighth of the past production up to date of filing application for relief, exclusive of that used on the land for production purposes or unavoidably lost.

21. RELIEF THAT MAY BE GRANTED UNDER SECTION 19:

(a) A claimant qualified under the above conditions relating to permits, upon complying with the provisions of the act and these regulations, will be entitled to a prospecting permit upon the same terms, conditions, and limitations as to acreage, as other permits provided for in the act, substantially in form prescribed in section 6 hereof.

(b) A claimant qualified under the above conditions relating to leases is entitled to a 20-year lease from the United States, effective from date of filing application for relief, substantially in the form prescribed in section 17 hereof, the royalty to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, but such royalty may not be less than 12½ per cent of all oil and gas produced exclusive of that used for production purposes on the land or unavoidably lost. In the event the land is in the geologic structure of proven territory at the time of granting the permit under this section, the royalty required under the lease based thereon shall not be less than 12½ per cent, but if at the time the permit is granted the land is not in proven territory the amount of royalty will be governed by the general terms of the act as set out in section 14 thereof.

22. ALASKA CLAIMS—CONDITIONS FOR RELIEF UNDER SECTION 22:

A. For permit.—(a) That claimant must have been an occupant or claimant of the land on February 25, 1920, under a claim initiated under the placer mining laws by claimant or predecessors prior to November 3, 1910, the date of the Executive order withdrawing all public lands in Alaska containing petroleum deposits, including those in national forests.

[16] See Circular No. 733, p. 126.

(b) That claimant must have performed all acts prior to November 3, 1910, under the then existing laws necessary to valid locations except to make discovery.

(c) That claimant, (1) prior to November 3, 1910, must have made substantial improvements for the discovery of oil or gas on or for each location, or (2) prior to February 25, 1920, expended not less than $250 in improvements on or for the benefit of each location.

(d) That claimant must on or before February 25, 1921, or within six months after final denial or withdrawal of application for patent, file a relinquishment to the United States of all right, title, and interest in and to the land. This relinquishment must be in the form of an unconditional quitclaim deed, duly executed and acknowledged, but not recorded, and when filed will be held for such action as the facts and the law in the case warrant and require.

In addition to the above, the conditions outlined in paragraph (e) of section 20 hereof are applicable to relief in Alaska.

B. For lease.—The conditions necessary to obtaining a lease under section 22 of the act are identical with those outlined in the paragraphs relating to permits in Alaska, together with the following additional conditions:

(a) That claimant or predecessors must have drilled an oil or gas well on the land to discovery.

(b) That claimant must pay for one-eighth of the past production exclusive of that used on the land for production purposes or unavoidably lost.

23. ALASKA CLAIMS—RELIEF THAT MAY BE GRANTED UNDER SECTION 22:

(a) A claimant qualified under the above conditions relating to permits, upon complying with the conditions of the act and these regulations, will be entitled to prospecting permits under the same terms and conditions as other permits in Alaska provided for in section 13 of the act, substantially in the form prescribed in section 6 hereof.

(b) A claimant qualified under the above conditions relating to leases is entitled to a lease substantially in the form prescribed in section 17 hereof, the rental and royalty to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior and specified in the lease, subject to readjustment at the end of each 20-year period of the lease.

(c) Only five permits or leases in the aggregate may be held at any one time by any claimant, and not more than 1,280 acres may be included in one permit under section 22 of the act.

23½. ROYALTIES AND RENTALS ON OIL AND GAS LEASES IN ALASKA.—The royalties and rentals payable under oil and gas leases granted in Alaska pursuant to sections 14 and 22 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), are hereby determined and prescribed as follows:

(b) Upon leases granted in Alaska under section 14 of the act, the permittee who discovers oil will be entitled to a lease for one-fourth of the area of the permit without payment of royalty for the first five years succeeding the date of the lease and thereafter shall pay a royalty of 5 per cent upon all oil produced. On the remaining lands included within the area of the permit, the permittee will be given a preference right to a lease without payment of royalty for the first five years succeeding the date of the lease, except in the case of leases whereon the producing wells yield an average of 100 barrels or more per well per day for the calendar month, in which event the royalty shall be 5 per cent; for the second five years, the lessee will be required to pay a royalty of 5 per cent upon all oil produced, and for the succeeding 10 years, a royalty of 10 per cent upon all oil produced.

(c) No royalty will be charged in any case upon leases wherein the wells upon the lands average less than 10 barrels per well per day for the calendar month.

(d) No rental upon any oil or gas lease in Alaska will be charged during the first five years succeeding the date of the lease. After the expiration of the first five years succeeding the date of the lease, a rental of 10 cents per acre per annum will be charged on all leases, payable in advance: Provided, That the rentals so paid for any one year shall be credited upon the royalties accruing for that year.

(e) The royalties on gas produced, if any, will be fixed and determined in each lease.

24. BENEFICIARIES UNDER LEASES OR PERMITS.—All leases or permits under sections 18, 19, and 22 shall inure to the benefit of the claimant and all persons claiming through or under him by lease, contract, or otherwise, as their interests may appear, subject to the same limitations as to area and acreage as is provided for claimant, but such persons will not necessarily be made parties to Government leases, and may assert their rights in the courts. Disputes of this character are not to be confused with adverse claims based upon independent title, hereinafter referred to. (See sec. 28 hereof.)

24½. WHO MAY APPLY.—All proper parties to a claim for relief under section 18, 19, or 22 of the act should join in the application, but, if for any sufficient reason that is impracticable, any person claiming a fractional or undivided interest in such claim may make application for a lease or permit, stating the nature and extent of his interest, and the reasons for nonjoinder of his coowner or coowners. In cases where two or more applications are made for the same claim or part of a claim, leases or permits will be granted to one or more of the claimants, as the law and facts shall warrant and as shall be deemed just.

25. FORM AND CONTENTS OF APPLICATION.—No set forms of application for a lease under section 18, 19, or 22, or a permit under section 19 or 22 of the act can be prescribed because the facts and circumstances pertaining to claims for relief are so varied. Applications for such leases or permits must be made under oath and the supporting documents and papers certified or under oath so far as practicable. The application, with all the accompanying papers, should be filed in the United States land office of the district in which the land is situated. Applications and supporting papers need not be executed in duplicate, but one complete copy of each application and supporting papers (except abstract of title) should be filed with the application, which copy will be transmitted by the register and receiver to the Chief of Field Division and notation to that effect made on the original. The application should contain full information as to the facts upon which the applicant relies for relief, covering the following points and such additional matters as may, from the peculiar facts in the case, be material in the establishment of his claim under the law:

(a) Date of application for lease or permit.

(c) Description of land.—The land for which the application is made must be described by legal subdivisions of section, township, and range, if surveyed; if not surveyed, then by metes and bounds and courses and distances from some permanent monument. If the application is for a lease of unsurveyed land, the applicant, after he has been awarded the right to a lease, but before issuance thereof, will be required to deposit with the United States surveyor general of the State in which the land is situated the estimated cost of making a survey of the land, the balance, if any, after the survey is completed to be returned.

(d) Origin and basis of applicant's claim for relief.—The applicant must bring his claim clearly within all the requirements of the act as specifically pointed out in sections 18, 20, and 22 of these regulations. Every application must be supported by a duly certified abstract of title to the land brought up to the date of filing the application. In the event an abstract of title is already on file in the Land Department, a supplemental abstract extending over the period or periods not covered by the former may be furnished, and if furnished will be considered in connection with the abstract already on file. If any fraud has been committed in connection therewith, then a full affirmative showing must be made by the applicant to the effect that he has not been a party to such fraud, and that he has not been guilty of any fraud or had knowledge of fraud or reasonable grounds to know of any fraud in connection with his claim. If an application for patent has been filed, a brief résumé of the actions taken thereon should be stated. If the land is or has been involved in litigation in the courts to which the United States is a party, the status or result of such litigation should be furnished.

(e) Particulars as to conflicting claims or interests.—All conflicting or disputed claims, if any, to the land or production therefrom, specifying the character and extent of such interests, must be shown.

(f) Discovery.—Before a lease may be awarded under the relief sections of the act it must be satisfactorily shown that the applicant or his predecessors have drilled a well to a substantial and certain discovery of oil or gas in a producing stratum on the land covered by the location under which the applicant is asserting his claim.

(g) Wells, improvements, and production.—With each application for a lease under section 18, 19, or 22 of the act there must be filed a complete and detailed statement showing the number, depth, condition, and present daily production of all wells drilled on the land by the applicant and his predecessors in interest, and the nature and extent of all other improvements placed thereon by them.

With each application for a permit under section 19 or 22 of the act, a description of the work performed and improvements made upon or for the benefit of the location by the applicant and his predecessors must be filed, together with an itemized statement of the cost thereof. If the application is made under section 22, the date the work was performed or the improvements made must also be shown.

In either case applicant must show the position of all wells and improvements by courses and distances from the nearest corner of the public land survey, if the land is surveyed; if not surveyed, then from a corner of the claim. This may be shown by means of a diagram.

(h) Amount and value of past production.—Claimant must furnish a complete detailed statement, by months, of all past production from the land, up to the date of filing the application and relinquishment, showing (1) the grade and total quantity of oil and gas produced; (2) the amount sold or otherwise disposed of, to whom sold, and the selling price or other consideration received therefor; (3) a statement of the grade and amount of any and all such production held in storage, when produced, and the value at time of production; and (4) the amount consumed for production purposes on the land, or unavoidably lost.

Copies of any and all contracts under which oil or gas produced from the land has been or is being sold or otherwise disposed of must be furnished.

(i) Inspection of records.—The agreement on the part of the applicant to permit the inspection of any and all books, records, and accounts having any bearing on the data or information required by the application and to furnish copies or abstracts of such books, records, or accounts, on demand.

(j) Interest in other leases and permits.—The applicant will also furnish a complete statement of all lands for which he has filed application for lease or permit under sections 18, 19, and 22 of the act, and of such lands as are included in other applications in which he has any direct or indirect interest, together with a full disclosure of such interest by stock ownership or otherwise. If the applicant is a corporation, a certified copy of its articles of incorporation must be furnished, and a full disclosure made of the ownership of its stock, whether such stock is owned, held, or controlled directly or indirectly by any other person or corporation, who or which is an applicant for or a holder of a lease under said sections, and, in the event of such ownership, a description of the legal subdivisions of all the lands affected thereby is required. Lists of stockholders need not necessarily be filed in the local land offices, but may be filed directly with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, where they will be kept confidential except for Government purposes. In the event the lands so affected are not surveyed they may be described by the usual method of courses and distances and acreage.

(k) Limitation of area.—Applications for lease under section 18 of the act should disclose all other applications in which the applicant is directly or indirectly interested, for lease under said section for lands (describing same) in the same geologic structure; and applications under section 22 of the act should show all other applications for leases or permits under said section. The boundaries of the geologic structures of the various producing fields will be determined and announced by the United States Geological Survey under supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, and such information will be placed on file in all United States land offices.

(l) Interests of beneficiaries.—In applications for lease the nature and extent of the interests of all beneficiaries thereof by virtue of operating contracts or otherwise, not covered by paragraph 25 (j), must be disclosed, together with a full showing of all their interests in other leases or applications for leases under this act. If the beneficiary is a corporation or joint-stock company, a full disclosure must be made of the ownership of its stock and the residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

26. Payment of royalty on past production.—The application must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount of one-eighth of the gross value of all oil and gas produced and sold or held in storage, as per the statement required in paragraph 25 (h). All such sums will be held by the receiver in his account of "Trust funds—Unearned moneys" to await instructions as to their disposition. In lieu of the certified check herein required, the applicant may be permitted to deposit a bond by approved surety company in an amount not less than one-eighth of the estimated gross value of all oil and gas produced and sold or held in storage, securing the payment to the United States within 30 days from the award of the lease of the cash value of the past production due the United States under this act. In cases where the proceeds, or part thereof, of such past production have been deposited in escrow, pursuant to operating agreements under the act of August 25, 1914 (38 Stat. 708), or where in suits brought by the Government affecting such lands the proceeds of production, or part thereof, have been impounded in the custody of receivers, a formal tender may be made of the funds so held in escrow or impounded to the extent available or in the amount necessary, as the case may be, in lieu of such cash payment. In such cases the interest accumulating on such escrowed or impounded moneys after the tender is made will go to the Government.

Liberty bonds will be accepted at original cost in payment of royalty on past production in such proportion as the escrowed or impounded moneys have been invested therein.

Operating contracts made under the provisions of the act of August 25, 1914, supra, and in operation at the time of such tender, will not be terminated until the entire transaction of granting a lease and payment of royalty on past production shall have been consummated; nor will the Department of Justice be requested to dismiss any suits involving the land affected until the application for a lease has been adjudicated and approved; whereupon, after the suit has been dismissed and the impounded money tendered paid over to the Government, the lease will be executed and delivered.

27. Publication of notice.—Immediately upon the filing of an application for a lease or permit under section 18, 19, or 22 of the act, the register and receiver will cause to be published, at the expense of the applicant, in a newspaper designated by the register, published in the vicinity of the land and most likely to give notice to the general public, a notice of the said application in substantially the following form:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE

______ ______,
______ __, 19__.

Notice is hereby given that ______ ______, of ______, has appied for an oil and gas ______ under section ______ of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for ______ section ______, township ______ of range ______, ______ meridian, ______ county, State of ______. Any and all persons having adverse or conflicting claims to said land are hereby notified that a full statement, under oath, of such claim should be filed in this office showing a superior right to a permit or lease under said act or a valid existing adverse or conflicting claim to the land or the minerals therein under the public-land laws, on or before ______; otherwise such claim may be disregarded in granting the permit or lease applied for.

______ ______,
Register.

The register and receiver will fix a date in the notice on or before which adverse or conflicting claims may be asserted, which date should be not less than 30 nor more than 40 days after the date of first publication of the notice.

Such notice will be published in the regular issue and not in any supplement of the newspaper, once each week for a period of five consecutive weeks if in a weekly paper, or if in a daily paper for a period of 30 days.[e] The register and receiver will post a copy of said notice in a conspicuous place in their office during the period of publication.

Upon the applicant's furnishing satisfactory proof of such publication, but not earlier than the day following that set in the published notice on or before which adverse or conflicting claims were to be filed, the register and receiver will transmit by special letter all papers in the case, including any adverse or conflicting claims that may have been filed, together with proof of posting said notice in their office, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

28. ADVERSE OR CONFLICTING CLAIMS—PROCEDURE.—In case of adverse or conflicting claims for leases under section 18, 19, or 22, or permits under section 19 or 22, the Secretary of the Interior is clothed with authority to grant leases or permits, as the case may be, to one or more of them, as shall be deemed just.

(a) To have their claims considered in connection with the awarding of leases or permits it will be necessary for adverse claimants to make full showing (1) of a superior right to a lease or permit under this act, or (2) a superior right under some other public-land law. If the former, the conflicting claimant must make out a complete case in his own behalf as required by these regulations on or before August 25, 1920.

(b) Upon receipt of the application and showing of an adverse claimant the Commissioner of the General Land Office will consider same. If, in his judgment, the adverse claimant has failed to make a prima facie case showing that he is entitled to a lease or permit, as the case may be, for at least part of the land, his application will be rejected, subject to appeal to the Secretary of the Interior. But if the adverse claimant makes out a prima facie case the commissioner will take such course as may be advisable under the circumstances of each particular case to settle and adjust the rights of the respective parties, and may, if deemed necessary, order a formal hearing to settle disputed questions of fact. In the absence of appeal to the Secretary of the Interior from the final order or decision of the commissioner same shall be conclusive.

29. COMPROMISES UNDER SECTION 18A.—No special procedure will be outlined under this section. Any request for a compromise or settlement under this section which may be filed in the Land Department will be transmitted to the President with such report as may be deemed advisable under the circumstances of the particular case. In case the land is in a naval petroleum reserve the Navy Department will be consulted before making such report.

IV. RIGHTS OF WAY FOR PIPE LINES

30. Section 28 of the act grants to any applicant having the qualifications outlined in section 1 of these regulations rights of way through public lands of the United States, including national forests, for pipe-line purposes for the transportation of oil or natural gas, on condition that the pipe lines for which rights of way are granted shall be operated and maintained as common carriers. The grant carries with it the right to the use of the ground actually occupied by the pipe line, and 25 feet on each side thereof for the purpose of construction, maintenance, and operation of the pipe line. Applicants for rights of way under this act will be governed by the regulations set forth in circular of June 6, 1908, (36 L. D. 567), in so far as applicable, appropriate changes being made in the forms therein prescribed to make them applicable to right-of-way cases arising under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for pipe lines to be constructed, maintained, and operated as common carriers. Failure on the part of grantee to fulfill the conditions imposed by the act shall be ground for forfeiture of the grant by the United States district court for the district in which the property, or some part thereof, is situated.

V. FEES AND COMMISSIONS [f]

31. Under the authority of section 38 of the act, the following fees and commissions are prescribed for transactions under the act:

(a) For receiving and acting on each application for a permit, lease, or other right filed in the district land office in accordance with these regulations, there shall be paid a fee of $2 for each 160 acres, or fraction thereof, in such application, but such fee in no case to be less than $10, the same to be paid by the applicant and considered as earned when paid, and to be credited in equal parts on the compensation of the register and receiver within the limitations provided by law.

(b) A commission of 1 per cent on all moneys received in each receiver's office, to be equally divided between the register and receiver; such commission will not be collected from the applicant, lessee, or permittee in addition to the moneys otherwise provided to be paid.

It should be understood that the commission here provided for will not affect the disposition of the proceeds arising from operations under the act as provided in section 35 thereof; also that such commission will be credited on compensation of registers and receivers only to the extent of the limitation provided by law for maximum compensation of such officers.

VI. REPEALING AND SAVING CLAUSES

32. Section 37 of the act provides that hereafter the deposits of coal, phosphate, sodium, oil, oil shale, and gas, referred to and described therein, may be disposed of only in the manner provided in the act "except as to valid claims existent at date of passage of this act, and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under such laws, including discovery.

Stated negatively under this section of the act the following classes of oil or gas placer locations, so called, notwithstanding absence of fraud and full compliance with law in other respects, may not proceed to patent, viz:

(a) Any location made after withdrawal of the land.

(b) Any location made before withdrawal of the land, but not perfected by discovery at date of withdrawal, which does not come within the protective proviso of section 2 of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847); that is to say, any claimant who, at date of withdrawal, was not a bona fide occupant or claimant in diligent prosecution of work leading to discovery of oil or gas, and who has not continued in such diligent prosecution to discovery.

(c) Any location on lands not withdrawn, on which, at the date of the act, the claimant had not made discovery or was not in diligent prosecution of work leading to discovery, and does not continue such work with diligence to discovery.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

JOHN BARTON PAYNE, Secretary.

DIGEST OF DECISIONS AND OPINIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920, AS APPLIED TO OIL AND GAS.[g]

Permits for lands in Government reclamation projects.—In the case of permits issued for lands within reclamation withdrawals the following additional conditions will be included in the permit:

7. (b) To reimburse damage sustained by any reclamation homestead entryman pursuant to the requirements of paragraph 8 hereof: (c) To pay any damage caused to any reclamation project or the water supply thereof by failure to comply fully with the requirements of paragraph 9 hereof.

8. That as to any lands covered by this permit which are also embraced in any reclamation homestead entry with a reservation of the oil and gas to the United States, permittee shall reimburse the entryman for all damage to crops or improvements caused by such drilling or other operations, such damage to include reimbursement of the entryman by the permittee of all reclamation charges for construction, operation, and maintenance for the portion of the land used and occupied by the permittee during the period of such use and occupation.

9. That as to any lands covered by this permit within the area of any Government reclamation project or in proximity thereto the permittee shall erect such dikes and embankments or take such other precautions as may be necessary, as required by the project manager, effectively to impound any flow of refuse oil, salt water, or oil from wells drilled, to prevent any injury to lands susceptible of irrigation under such project or injury to the water supply thereof.

In such case the following form of bond will be required:

Bond of oil and gas permittee

[Act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437)]

Know all men by these presents, That ______ ______ of ______ State of ______ as principal, and ______ ______ of ______ State of ______, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America, for the use and benefit of the United States and of any reclamation homestead entryman on any of the hereinafter described lands embraced in that certain prospecting permit hereinafter referred to, in the sum of $5,000, lawful money of the United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, and each of us and each of our heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns jointly and severally by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals this ______ day of ______, 19__.

The condition of the foregoing obligation is such that, whereas the said principal has been granted under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), a permit (Serial No. ____) to prospect for oil and gas for two years, upon the following described lands: ____ on condition that the permittee shall (a) repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation; (b) reimburse any homestead entryman of land covered by said permit for all damage to crops and improvements caused by drilling or other operation by the permittee, such damage to include reimbursement of the entryman by the permittee of all reclamation charges for construction, operation and maintenance for the portion of the land used and occupied by the permittee during the period of such use and occupation by the permittee; and (c) erect such dikes and embankments or take such other precautions as may be necessary, as required by the project manager, effectively to impound any flow of refuse oil, salt water, or oil from wells drilled, to prevent any injury to lands susceptible of irrigation under any government irrigation project or injury to the water supply thereof.

Now, therefore, if said principal shall promptly and in all respects comply with said conditions, then the above obligation shall be void and of no effect; otherwise and in default of full and complete compliance therewith the said obligations shall remain in full force and effect.

Permits for deposits reserved under act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).—In the case of permits issued for deposits of oil or gas reserved to the United States under the provisions of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), the following additional condition will be included in paragraph 7 thereof:

(b) To reimburse any entryman or owner of any portion of said lands heretofore entered with a reservation of the oil and gas deposits to the United States made pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), for any damage to the crops and improvements of such entryman or owner resulting from drilling or other prospecting operations.

In such case the following form of bond will be required:

Bond of oil and gas permittee

[Act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437)]

Know all men by these presents, That ------ ------, of ------, State of ------ as principal, and ------ ------, of ------, State of ------, as surety, are held and firmly bound unto the United States of America, for the use and benefit of the United States, and of any entryman or owner of any of the hereinafter described lands embraced in that certain prospecting permit hereinafter referred to, in the sum of $1,000 lawful money of the United States, for which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, and each of us, and each of our heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns, jointly and severally by these presents.

Signed with our hands and sealed with our seals this ------ day of ------, 19--.

The condition of the foregoing obligation is such that, whereas the said principal has been granted under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), a permit (Serial number ----) to prospect for oil and gas for two years upon the following lands: -------------- on condition that the permittee shall (a) repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation; (b) reimburse any entryman or owner of any portion of said lands heretofore entered with a reservation of the oil and gas deposits to the United States made pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), for any damage to the crops and improvements of such entryman or owner resulting from drilling or other prospecting operations.

Now, therefore, if said principal shall promptly and in all respects comply with said conditions, then the above obligation shall be void and of no effect; otherwise and in default of full and complete compliance therewith the said obligations shall remain in full force and effect.

Attorneys in fact.—In making applications for lease or permit corporations may act by attorneys in fact. Individuals and associations of individuals should execute their own papers.

Limitation of holdings.—A corporation (except under the relief sections) may not have an interest in more than three leases, either directly as a lessee, or indirectly as a stockholder in a corporate lessee.

An individual may hold stock in any number of corporations holding leases provided his stock interests do not represent a greater acreage than 2,560 in the same producing structure, or 7,680 acres in the same State.

Alien ownership.—Aliens may not have any direct holding of lease under the oil-leasing act, but may be stockholders in American corporations holding leases, provided the laws of their country do not deny like privilege to American citizens. American corporations, some of whose stock is owned by aliens, may make application for lease with a full disclosure of the residence and citizenship of its stockholders, and the department will then determine whether a lease may be granted.

Conflicting preference rights under sections 19 and 20.—The preference right attaches to the claim first initiated and legally maintained. A locator of a mining claim who has complied with all the provisions of section 19 of the act will be entitled to a preference right over a homestead entryman whose entry was made after the location, the homesteader, however, being entitled to hold the surface right. If the homestead entry was made prior to the date of the placer location, the homestead claimant will have the superior right, except in the case of a stock-raising homestead, wherein all minerals are reserved to the United States.

Permit for unwithdrawn land covered by agricultural entry.—No permit will be granted until entryman has elected to take patent with reservation of oil and gas to the United States. If such a waiver is filed, entryman may then exercise his preference right, if any, to permit for lands covered by such entry.

Preference rights under section 20.—Preference rights under section 20 exists in cases where entry was made prior to February 25, 1920, for unwithdrawn or unclassified lands, without any reservation of the minerals by the United States, and thereafter the claimant files a waiver of his right under the entry to the oil or gas. No preference right exists where land is covered by stock-raising entry, nor where entry is made subject to the act of July 17, 1914, with oil and gas reservations.

Assignability of permits.—Assignment of a mere right to a permit will not be recognized, but after permit is granted it may be assigned upon consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained.

Incontiguous tracts.—Incontiguous tracts within a limited radius may be included in a permit where conditions are such that because of prior disposals, a reasonable area of contiguous land can not be procured.

Pending application for permit, land designated as oil structure.[17]—Where after application under section 13 for a permit and before permit is granted the land is designated as within the structure of a producing oil or gas field, permit can not be allowed.

Preference right under section 20.—A permit to prospect will be granted an applicant entitled thereto under section 20 of the act, notwithstanding the land is part of a producing oil structure, but only one permit may be granted in the same structure to the same applicant.

[17] See instructions of Apr. 23, 1921, p. 915.

Carey Act segregation as affected by leasing law.—The lands in a Carey Act segregation come under the provisions of section 2 of the oil and gas regulations, and permits and leases may be granted for such lands, subject to such stipulations and requirements as the Government may impose for the protection of the reclamation project, to the end that the best development of the lands, both for mineral and agricultural purposes, may be accomplished.

Neither the State nor its contractor would be entitled to any preference right under section 20 of the act, and whether a Carey Act entryman would have such a right would depend upon the conditions affecting his entry being such as to bring him within the provisions of section 20.

Office practice—Conflicting applications.—The issuance of a permit should be deferred, where all is regular and the applicant appears entitled to the permit, until the conflicting applicants have been notified that their applications have been rejected, because subsequent in time, subject to the right to show cause or to appeal within 15 days from receipt of notice.

Posting notice by agent.—Under the law, the action of an agent in posting notice is the action of his principal, but the application for permit may not be executed by agent, unless applicant is a corporation.

Permits of corporations as affected by stockholders' permits.—The maximum number of permits to a corporation under section 13 of the act is not limited by permits of individual stockholders, but a corporation may not have an interest in more than three permits in same State, nor in more than one in the same geologic structure, directly or indirectly. An individual may hold a direct interest in not more than three permits and his total interest as permittee and stockholder may not exceed an aggregate of 7,680 acres in the same State, or 2,560 acres in the same geologic structure.[h]

Preference right permits to qualified assignees.—Section 19 of the act of February 25, 1920, is construed to permit qualified assignees since October 1, 1919, to secure preference right permits, but no such transferee will be permitted to hold permits exceeding 2,560 acres for such lands in the same geologic structure, nor more than three times that area in the same State.[h]

Permits in Alaska.—The same rule applies in Alaska as in the States, that is, not more than one permit in the same structure.[h]

Rights under "paper locations."—Arguments have been presented in favor of a construction of section 37 of the leasing act that would have the result of validating so-called "paper locations" of placer mining claims and assuring the ultimate right to absolute patent to such claims in case of discovery. Such locations consist merely of setting stakes to indicate the boundaries, posting a notice, and perhaps filing that notice in a proper recording office. It is understood that practically all the public domain having known possible prospective value for oil, is covered by such locations. It is not believed that Congress had any such intention or that the language of the act justifies any such conclusion.

Under the express requirements of the mining laws and the decisions of the courts covering a long period of years, discovery of mineral has been the sole basis for the location of a mining claim. Without such discovery the mere posting of notices and marking the boundaries creates no right whatever.

The mining law gives the right to any citizen to explore the public domain for the purpose of finding mineral; hence, the courts have protected a citizen in actual, physical possession of a prospective claim on the public domain, while he is engaged in diligent prosecution of work leading to the discovery of mineral, but this is as far as the courts have gone. As applied to oil lands, this rule was well stated by the Supreme Court of California, in the case of McLemore v. Express Oil Co. (158 Calif., 559), in the following language:

> But where the location is incomplete no question of assessment work is involved. What the attempting locator has is the right to continue in possession, undisturbed by any form of hostile or clandestine entry, while he is diligently prosecuting his work to a discovery. This diligent prosecution of the work of discovery does not mean the doing of assessment work. It does not mean any attempted holding, by cabin, lumber pile, or unused derrick. It means the diligent, continuous prosecution of the work, with the expenditure of whatever money may be necessary to the end in view.

These propositions of law were reiterated by the United States Supreme Court as recently as March 15, 1920, in the case of Cole v. Ralph.

From the foregoing it will be seen that no rights whatever could be obtained by mere staking and posting unless such act was followed up with diligent and continuous work leading to discovery. Section 37 of the new leasing act excepts from the operation of that act "valid claims existent at date of passage of this act and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under such laws, including discovery." Obviously a valid claim under the former law is one that the courts and the Land Department will protect and respect as against the claims of others. The mere staking and posting of notices do not constitute such a claim, and the regulations so hold.

Any other view as to the construction of section 37 is inconsistent with the provisions of other sections of the leasing law. Section 19 provides for relief, so-called, for those persons who initiated claims on the public domain at a time when the lands were not withdrawn or classified, and who, at the date of the act, had not perfected such claims by discovery, and it further provides that where such a claimant had expended an amount equal in the aggregate to $250 toward the development of his claim, such claimant, if in good faith and the claim was initiated prior to October 1, 1919, would be entitled to a prospector's permit for the area embraced in his claim.

The provisions of the relief sections (18, 18*a*, 19, and 22) were the subject of extended consideration by the committees of Congress, and it is clear that the provisions of section 19 are just as far as Congress intended to go in the protection of claims and locations of the class here under discussion. To construe the act as validating mere "paper locations" would be placing Congress and this department in the position of saying that one who had expended $250 on his claim would be entitled only to a prospecting permit, while one who had only a stake and notice would be left with the privilege for an indefinite time of ultimately getting absolute title. It is further argued that under the act claimant has the option of taking a relief permit under section 19 or standing on his " paper location " under section 37. One might as logically argue that claims for relief under section 18, over which there has been so much controversy, may now go to absolute patent by virtue of section 37. Congress never contemplated any such anomalous situation.

If the view urged in these arguments were adopted, there would be little use for a leasing act for oil lands outside the withdrawn areas, and perhaps for lands within such areas. The purpose and policy sought to be accomplished by this important legislation would be largely negatived, and the States and the Reclamation Service would be deprived of funds they are counting on for development purposes. Moreover, there is no practical necessity for the construction urged to protect any legitimate interest. The new law is liberal in the extreme in giving all good-faith claimants, who have made any material expenditures on the ground, fair and reasonable opportunity to transmute such claims into permits and leases under the new law under far more practical working conditions than existed under the former laws.

Oil-land leases—Stock-raising homesteads.—The question has arisen as to whether or not the provisions of section 20 of the leasing act are applicable to lands covered by stock-raising homestead entries.

Section 20 is one of the so-called relief sections of the law, all of which sections are based upon alleged equities of the persons to whom a preference right to a permit or lease is accorded. It was designed to recognize the equities of persons who had gone upon the public domain and made homestead entries under the 160 or 320 acre homestead law, neither of which contains any reservation of minerals, upon the theory and under the belief that they were obtaining an unrestricted title to the land. Because of a subsequent withdrawal or classification of the land as mineral after the allowance of their entries, and after they had spent their time and money upon the land, they were under the necessity of either losing the land entirely or accepting a patent under the provisions of the act of July 17, 1914, reserving the oil and gas deposits in the land to the United States. No such equity or reason exists in the case of entries under the 160 or 320 acre homestead law made upon lands theretofore withdrawn or classified as mineral, because the entryman knew at the time he made the entry that the mineral was known and reserved to the United States, and the most he could obtain was a patent expressly excluding the oil and gas deposits. This is true of all stock-raising homestead entries; for by the terms of the act itself all minerals within the land are expressly reserved to the United States, together with the right to enter upon the lands, mine and remove the same.

Lands within stock-raising homestead entries need not be withdrawn or classified for the purpose of preventing disposition of minerals under the agricultural land laws, because the minerals are reserved in the law itself. It is, therefore, clear that Congress, when it used in section 20 of the leasing act, the words " lands bona fide entered as agricultural and not withdrawn or classified as mineral at the time of entry," had in mind only the entries under the 160 or 320 acre homestead law, which contains no reservation or classification of mineral, and where subsequently, by reason of a withdrawal or classification, the entryman was, as stated above, under the necessity of accepting a restricted patent. Any other construction of the statute would involve the disregarding of the language "and not withdrawn or classified as mineral at the time of entry."

The regulations specifically state that the preference right under section 20 of the act exists only where the land was entered prior to withdrawal or classification, and subsequent to entry was withdrawn or classified as oil or gas bearing in character. This clearly could have no application to entries under the stock-raising homestead law, where all minerals are reserved and where no withdrawal or classification is necessary.

Preferential rights of agricultural claimants.—Whatever preferential rights homesteaders or other agricultural entrymen as such may have to oil permits or leases must be found in section 20 of the act. While this section is not as clear and specific in some respects as might be desired, it is apparent that the class of entrymen or patentees on which Congress intended by this section to confer a preference right is those who made their entries when the land was not withdrawn or classified as mineral, and who were therefore permitted to make their entries without any reservation of the mineral to the Government, but were or will be compelled to take a patent with the reservation because of a withdrawal or classification of the land, or because in the meantime the land has become of known mineral character, before submission of final proof. It is also apparent that this section is in the nature of a relief provision, designed to take care of those who found themselves in the situation above described at the time the act was passed, and not intended to provide generally for the disposition of mineral rights under the homestead law in the future.

With these general propositions in mind, the following specific statements may be made:

1. If the land was withdrawn or classified at the time of entry so that the entry was made with a reservation of the mineral, there is no preference right. Conversely, to entitle the homesteader to a preference right the entry must have been properly made without a reservation of the mineral.
2. There can be no preference right on an entry allowed after February 25, 1920. See section 12 of the regulations.
3. There can be no preference right on a stock-raising entry under the act of December 29, 1916, for under that act all entries are made with a reservation of the mineral.
4. If the homestead entry was made without reservation of the mineral, but after the lands were of known mineral character, and for the purpose of acquiring mineral rights, there is no preference right to a permit because (a) such an entry should have been made with a reservation of the mineral and the requisite nonmineral affidavit on which the entry was procured was fraudulent, and (b) the entry is not "of lands bona fide entered as agricultural."
5. But where one has an original entry under the 160 or 320 acre law and an additional entry under the stock-raising (640-acre) law, the entryman will have the same rights under the original as he would have had had he not made the additional.
6. Where one has an entry without a reservation of the mineral, nobody (not even the entryman himself) may acquire a permit or lease for the mineral so long as the entry stands in that shape.
7. But if the entryman in the case last above mentioned files a waiver of the mineral rights in the land, then he may exercise his preference right, if he has any, and if not, others may file application for a mineral permit or lease.
8. The "reservation" of the mineral above referred to is pursuant to section 2 of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), which provides that the mineral occupant shall pay any damage caused to the agricultural claimant.

9. Where a patented entry, or one on which final certificate has issued, has been sold or transferred, the transferee would have the same rights as the entryman, provided he acquired the land before January 1, 1918, but if he acquired it after that date, there would be no preference right in anybody.

10. A patentee, or entryman with final certificate, with a reservation of the mineral to the Government, who has a preference right can not withhold the land from development indefinitely. Section 12 of the regulations provides that if anybody else applies for a permit on the land, the preference-right man shall be given notice and allowed 30 days within which to exercise his preference and apply for a permit himself; otherwise he will be out.

11. The preference-right claimant must be qualified to take a permit under the law the same as anybody else; for instance, an alien transferee of patented land could not get a permit or lease; one who has already received the limit of permits allowed could not get a permit.

12. The matter of whether the agricultural entry on which a preference right to a permit is predicated is within or without a known producing structure cuts no figure in connection with the preference rights here under consideration, provided that only one permit may be granted to the same structure.

13. In case of conflict between a preference-right claimant under sections 18 and 19 and one under section 20 the one would prevail whose rights were prior in their lawful inception.

Conflicts between nonmineral claims and oil placers.—When an otherwise valid oil-placer location is perfected by discovery the land is not subject to other appropriation so long as the mining claim is maintained, and should it be entered or applied for under some other law prior to the filing of an application for patent by the mining claimant the burden of protecting his claim by contest will rest upon him. This is necessarily so, as the land is not segregated from record entry by a mere mining location of which the land department has no record.

An oil placer location, perfected by discovery, laid over land embraced in a prior, valid, subsisting homestead entry, is ineffective so long as the homestead stands. (Prior to the act of July 17, 1914, the mineral claimant could contest the homestead and cause its cancellation; under that act the homesteader may retain surface rights and the mineral is automatically withdrawn; and under the leasing act the homesteader might have a preference right to a permit for the mineral.) A stock-raising homestead is an exception to this rule, for all minerals are reserved therefrom, and the oil deposits could have been located under the placer law up to February 25, 1920.

A mere "paper" oil placer location (that is, one without a discovery) will not prevent a homestead entry for the land, but where the claimant of a "paper location" is on the ground in diligent prosecution of work leading to discovery at the time the land is homesteaded, he may by contest defeat the homestead entry.

The allowance (after February 25, 1920) of a homestead entry on land covered by valid rights to relief permits or leases under sections 18 or 19, is entirely within the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior.

Reservation of mineral—When required.—Where a homestead entry (not under the grazing act) is made without a reservation of the oil to the Government and the land is withdrawn or classified as oil land before completed final proof is submitted, the entryman must take patent with a reservation of the oil, unless he can procure a reclassification of the land by the department or a removal of the withdrawal, or unless he can show at a hearing (the burden of proof being on him) that the land was not of a known mineral character at date of final proof.

But where, in the case last stated, the withdrawal or classification as mineral was not made until after final proof was submitted, the entryman will be entitled to a patent without a reservation, unless the Government can show (the burden of proof being on the Government), at a hearing if necessary, that the land was of known mineral character at the date of final proof. If the Government can show this, the result will be the same regardless of whether there has been a withdrawal or classification.

Interests under drilling contracts.—A drilling contract carrying with it a right in the proceeds, or in the land itself, will be considered an interest in the lease, and when it comes time to grant a lease such drilling contractor will have to show himself qualified to take a lease. In all cases where the drilling is performed under contract the nature and terms of the contract must be disclosed before lease is granted.

As to permits, the situation is different. If a contractor desires to be recognized by the department in connection with a permit, it will be necessary for him to file his contract for approval; but if he so desires he may explore the land under contract with the permittee and bring his contract to the attention of the department only when and if he wishes to be recognized as being interested in such lease as may be applied for.

Discovery on adjoining claims.—In case of two claims that adjoin, it is necessary to have discovery on each claim to secure lease for both under section 18. If the discovery is only on one claim, the lease must be confined to the limits of the claim containing the discovery.

Right of assignees to a lease under section 18.—Good faith locators or their grantees, whose right to a lease is governed by the provisions of section 18 of the act, may transfer their interests to contractors, assignees, or lessees who were in undisputed possession prior to July 1, 1919; and such owners may then jointly apply for a lease for their aggregate holdings or they may make a division of the area and each seek a separate lease for his individual holdings.

Discovery applicable to all parts of location.—A discovery on any part of a placer claim used as a basis for relief under sections 18, 19, or 22 of the act will be deemed applicable to every part thereof for leasing purposes.

Only citizens may obtain permits or leases.—The oil and gas leasing bill provides for the issuance of prospecting permits and leases to citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens, corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof, or municipalities. It follows from this that no one but a citizen can obtain a lease or permit, but aliens may be stockholders in some cases.

Citizenship of agent immaterial.—A notice of a prospecting permit may be posted by an agent or attorney in fact in the name of his principal. The citizenship of such agent is immaterial.

Oil claims antedating leasing act.—Oil placer claims for unwithdrawn and unclassified lands upon which discovery was made prior to the enactment of the mineral leasing law are not, in the absence of fraud, affected thereby so long as the claimant complies with the law. If discovery was not made, the claimant in order to protect his right to a patent, must have been engaged in diligent work leading to a discovery at the date of the act and must be able to show that he has continued such work to discovery.

Preference right of State grantee.—To entitle the grantee of a State to a preference right under section 20 of the mineral leasing law, the selection must have been approved and transferred by the State prior to January 1, 1918.

When the mineral leasing act took effect.—Under the general rule of law applicable to such cases, the act of February 25, 1920, was in force and operation during that entire day, subject, however, to the privilege of any person having a substantial right which would be affected by the application of the general rule to prove, if he can, the exact time of approval.

The act of February 25, 1920, supra, section 13, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such rules as he may prescribe, to grant to qualified persons a prospecting permit " upon not to exceed 2,560 acres of land," and allows would-be applicants to initiate a preference right, good for 30 days, by posting notice upon the ground. This statute and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder do not, however, confer upon such locators a right to obtain a prospecting permit for the entire acreage described in any notice of location. The statute simply fixes the maximum amount which may be embraced in a single permit, 2,560 acres.

Paragraph 2 of the regulations approved March 11, 1920, states that the granting of such a permit " is discretionary with the Secretary of the Interior, and any application may be granted or denied, either in part or its entirety, as the facts may be deemed to warrant."

Subject to the foregoing, the following rule is announced for the guidance of the officers of the Interior Department and of parties in interest in the disposition of conflicts and controversies arising out of locations and applications made or filed during the day of February 25, 1920:

All locations made or applications filed, pursuant to section 13 of the act of February 25, 1920, at any time during the day of February 25, 1920, will be held, treated, and regarded as simultaneous, and in case of conflict of location and application, in whole or in part, between two or more qualified applicants, all such applicants will be allowed 30 days from notice within which to compromise their differences by division of lands or otherwise, in default of which this department will make such division or disposition as the facts may warrant.

Limitations under section 27.[18]—It will be noted that section 27 seems to apply to two classes of interests, namely, those held directly from the Government and those held indirectly through ownership of stock in corporations. As to leases held directly, there does not seem to be much doubt that the same person or corporation may not at the same time have more than three leases in any one State, or more than one lease within the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field.

The section further provides that " no corporation shall hold any interest as a stockholder of another corporation in more than such number of leases." This language, taken in conjunction with the language preceding it, seems to hold that a corporation may not have an interest in more than three leases, either directly as a lessee, or indirectly as a stockholder in a corporate lessee. True, the next clause provides that "no person or corporation shall take or hold any interest or interests as a member of an association or associations, or as a stockholder of a corporation or corporations," in which the aggregate leasehold interests exceed an amount equivalent to the maximum number of acres allowed to one lessee. It is clear that as to a corporation the clause last quoted is inconsistent with the clause first quoted, and as the clause first quoted is more restrictive as to a corporation than the following clause, it is considered that the former controls. But this leaves an individual with the right to hold three leases directly, and, at the same time, to have a stock interest in corporations having leases, provided his direct and indirect holdings do not exceed the maximum for one person, namely, not exceeding 2,560 acres in the same structure or 7,680 in the same State. It follows also that a person may hold stock in any number of corporations holding leases provided his stock interests do not represent a greater acreage than that above stated.

[18] See Circulars Nos. 1073, p. 937, and 1129, p. 962.

While under the regulations substantially the same restrictions apply to permits as apply to leases, the number of leases one has will not necessarily limit the number of permits he may have, but when a permit ripens into a lease, then the restrictions as to leases apply to both.

Bond with preference right application.—In the case of a preference right application under section 19, the bond may be filed therewith, or deferred until permit is authorized.

Articles of incorporation.—Under section 25 of the regulations, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation should be filed with the original application, but an uncertified copy is sufficient to accompany the duplicate.

Rights of association in geologic structure.—An association may hold only one permit in the same geologic structure, and the interest of a member of different associations may aggregate 2,560 acres in the same structure.

Ceded Ute Indian lands subject to leasing act.—By departmental decision of August 9, 1920, it was held that the oil and gas deposits contained in that portion of the Ute Indian Reservation in the State of Colorado formerly occupied by the Uncompahgre and White River Utes, ceded to the United States by the confederated bands of Ute Indians by the treaty of March 2, 1868, as amended, accepted, and ratified by the act of June 15, 1880 (21 Stat. 199), and opened to disposal under the provisions of the act of July 28, 1882 (22 Stat. 178), are subject to disposal under the mineral leasing act.

Uintah ceded Indian lands subject to leasing act.—The Uintah Indian lands opened to sale and entry by act of May 27, 1902, (32 Stat. 263), are subject to the operation of the leasing act of February 25, 1920.

CIRCULAR No. 696[6]

PHOSPHATE REGULATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 22, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Sections 9 to 12, inclusive, of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," authorize the Secretary of the Interior to lease lands belonging to the United States containing deposits of phosphates, and accordingly the following rules and regulations are prescribed for the administration of the provisions of said sections of the act:

1. Lands to which applicable.—The act applies to the lands belonging to the United States containing deposits of phosphates, including lands in national forests and including the phosphate deposits reserved under laws authorizing entries and patents with reservation to the United States of such deposits; also to phosphate lands in ceded or restored Indian reservations the proceeds from the disposition of which are the property of the United States. The act is not applicable to lands in the Appalachian Forest Reserve (under act of March 1, 1911, 36 Stats. 961), lands in national parks, lands withdrawn for military or naval purposes, or lands in ceded or restored Indian reservations the proceeds from the disposition of which belong to the Indians.

All leases of phosphate deposits within the limits of national forests or other reservations or withdrawals to which the act is applicable shall be subject to and contain such conditions, stipulations, and reservations as the Secretary of the Interior shall deem necessary for the protection of the forests, reservations or withdrawals, and the uses and purposes for which created.

2. Leasing area.—Leases may embrace not exceeding 2,560 acres of lands or deposits, in compact form, the length of which shall not exceed two and one-half times its width. If surveyed, the lands must be taken by legal subdivisions of such survey; and if unsurveyed, to be surveyed by the Government at the expense of the applicant prior to the issuance of lease. Such surveys will be made under the regulations governing public land surveys, prior to the execution of which applicants will be required to deposit with the United States surveyor general the estimated expense thereof.

3. Qualifications of applicants.—Leases may be issued to (a) citizens of the United States, (b) associations of citizens, and (c) to corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof.

4.[7] Minimum development.—An actual bona fide expenditure for mine operations, development or improvement purposes of the amount determined by the Secretary of the Interior will be a condition in each lease as the minimum basis on which each lease will be granted, with the requirement that not less than one-third of such proposed investment shall be expended in development of the mine during the first year, and a like amount each year for the two succeeding years, the investment during any one year over such proportionate amount for that year to be credited on the expenditure required for the ensuing year or years. A bond executed by the lessee with approved corporate surety will be required to be furnished in the sum of $10,000, conditioned upon the expenditure of the specified amount of investment. After said investment has been made a similar bond in the sum of $5,000, conditioned upon compliance with the terms of the lease will be required.

5.[8] Minimum production.—Under the provision of the act requiring leases to be for indeterminate periods upon condition of a minimum annual production after the first three years, except where interrupted by strikes, the elements or casualties not attributable to the lessee, each lease will contain appropriate conditions fixing such minimum production of phosphates or phosphate rock from the land.

6. Application for lease.—Application for a lease must be under oath and filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. No specific form is required and no blanks will be furnished, but the application should cover the following points:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Citizenship of applicant, whether native born or naturalized; and if naturalized, furnish a certificate thereof in the form provided for use in public land matters, if one is not already on file in the Land Department; if an association, citizenship of each member must be shown; if a corporation, furnish a certified copy of its articles of incorporation and a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(c) A statement that the applicant holds no lease of phosphate lands under said act within the State in which the land is situated; nor, as a member of an association or stockholder in a corporation, holds any interest or interests in any lease or leases of phosphate lands under said act, which, together with the lands applied for, exceed in the aggregate 2,560 acres.

(d) Description of the land, whether vacant or unclaimed; if surveyed, by legal subdivisions; if unsurveyed, by metes and bounds, and where possible by the approximate subdivisions the land will be when surveyed. If the land is unsurveyed, a survey thereof at the expense of the applicant must be provided for prior to the execution of a lease thereof, as provided in section 10 of the act.

(e) Description of the phosphate deposits in the land, giving nature and extent thereof; the proposed method of mining and reduction of same; and proposed investment in mining operations thereon and reduction facilities therefor if a lease be granted the applicant.

7.[9] Action by local office.—Registers and receivers will assign current serial numbers to such applications when filed, promptly note their records, and require a notice of the application to be published at the expense of the applicant for a period of 30 days in a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the deposits are situated, advising all adverse claimants or protestants that if they desire to object, or protect any interest as against the applicant, prompt action to that end should be taken, and upon proof of such publication, transmit the applications to the General Land Office with report of record status of the land described therein.

[8] See amendment, p. 928.

[9] See instructions of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

After receipt of such an application, no filing for any of the land described therein will be accepted until so directed, unless the application be rejected.

8. Action on application.—Upon consideration of the application in the General Land Office, if the tracts of land or deposits are found subject to lease and the application is otherwise satisfactory, a lease substantially in the form herewith will be submitted to the applicant for his execution.

9. Action by successful applicant.—The successful applicant will be allowed 30 days after receipt of the lease for execution within which to (a) file in the district office the lease duly executed by him in triplicate and in the form herein prescribed; (b) file evidence of citizenship and qualifications as required by paragraph 6 hereof, if not theretofore filed by him; (c) file the bond required by paragraph 2 b of the lease, or United States bonds in lieu thereof under the act of February 24, 1919 (40 Stat. 1148); and (d) pay the annual rental for the first year of the lease.

10. Action by local office.—At the end of the 30 days allowed the successful applicant, or sooner if the foregoing be complied with by him, the local officers will forward by special letter all papers with full report of action taken.

11. Form of lease.—Leases hereunder will be in substantially the following form:

MINING LEASE OF PHOSPHATE LANDS UNDER ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920

This indenture of lease, entered into, in triplicate, this______day of______, A. D. 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by______, Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and __________ of __________, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress, approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," hereinafter called the "act."

Witnesseth:

That the lessor, in consideration of the rents and royalties to be paid and the covenants to be observed as hereinafter set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to mine and dispose of all the phosphate and phosphate rock in, upon, or under the following described tracts of land, situated in the State of __________, to wit: __________________

containing __________ acres, more or less, together with the right to construct all such works, buildings, plants, structures, and appliances as may be necessary and convenient for the mining and preparation of the phosphates for market, the manufacture of products thereof, the housing and welfare of employees, and, subject to the conditions herein provided, to use so much of the surface as may reasonably be required in the exercise of the rights and privileges granted.

SECTION 1. That the lessor expressly reserves:

(1a) The right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way, including easements in tunnels upon, through, or in the land leased, occupied, or used as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same or other lands containing the deposits described in said act, and the treatment and shipment of the products thereof by or under authority of the Government, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes.

(1b) The right to lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of the surface of said lands or any part thereof under existing law or laws hereafter enacted, in so far as said surface is not necessary for the use of the lessee in the mining and removal of the phosphates therein, and to lease other mineral deposits in the lands, under the provisions of said act.

(1c) Full power and authority to carry out and enforce all the provisions of section 30 of said act to insure the sale of the production of said leased lands to the United States and to the public at reasonable prices, to prevent monopoly, and to safeguard the public welfare.

SEC. 2. The lessee in consideration of the lease of the rights and privileges aforesaid hereby covenants and agrees as follows:

(2a) To invest in actual mining operations, development or improvements upon the land leased, or for the benefit thereof, the sum of ---------- dollars, of which sum not less than one-third shall be so expended during the first year succeeding the execution of this instrument and a like sum each of the two succeeding years, unless sooner expended; and submit annually, at the expiration of each year for the said period, an itemized statement of the amount and character of said expenditure during such year.

(2b) To furnish a bond in the sum of $10,000, conditioned upon the expenditure of the amount specified herein, (2a), and after said investment has been made, a similar bond in the sum of $5,000, conditioned upon compliance with the terms and provisions of this lease.

(2c) To pay as an annual rental for each acre or part thereof covered by this lease the sum of 25 cents per acre for the first year, payment of which amount is hereby acknowledged, the sum of 50 cents per acre per year for the second, third, fourth, and fifth years, and $1 per acre for the sixth and each succeeding year during the life of this lease, all such annual payments of rental to be made to the receiver of the United States land office of the district in which said land is situated, on the anniversary of the date hereof, and to be credited on the first royalties to become due hereunder during the year for which said rental was paid.

(2d) To pay to such receiver a royalty of ---- per cent, (not less than 2 per cent), of the gross value of the output of phosphates or phosphate rock at the mine during the first 20 years succeeding the execution of this lease. (Special provisions suited to operations under the lease may be here inserted if found necessary.) Royalties shall be payable quarterly within 30 days from the expiration of the quarter in which the phosphates are mined.

(2e) To determine accurately the weight or quality of all phosphates or phosphate rock mined from the leased premises, and to accurately enter the weight or quantity thereof in due form in books to be kept and preserved by the lessee for such purpose.

(2f) To furnish quarterly, within 30 days after the expiration of the quarter, a written report covering such quarter, certified under oath by the superintendent of the mine, or by such other agent having personal knowledge of the facts as may be designated by the lessee for such purpose, showing the amount of phosphate or phosphate rock mined during the quarter, the character and quality thereof, and amount of its products and by-products disposed of and price received therefor, and amount of phosphates or phosphate rock and its products in storage or held for sale.

(2g) Also to furnish in such manner and form as may be prescribed by the lessor, at the end of each year, beginning on the first anniversary of the date of the lease, and at such other times as the lessor may require, a plat showing all development work and improvements on the leased lands, and other related information, with a report under oath as to all buildings, structures, or other works placed in or upon said leased lands, accompanied by a report in detail as to the stockholders, investment, depreciation, and cost of operation, together with a statement as to the amount of phosphate or phosphate rock produced and sold, and the amount received therefor, by operations hereunder.

(2h) To keep at the mine office clear, accurate, and detailed maps, on a scale not more than 200 feet to the inch, in the form of horizontal projections on tracing cloth, of the workings in each phosphate bed in each separate mine on the leased lands, a separate map to be made for each such bed, and for the surface immediately over the underground workings, and to be so arranged with reference to a public land corner that the maps can be readily superimposed.

Blue prints or reproductions in duplicate of the maps required as aforesaid shall be furnished the lessor when made, and supplemental prints or reproductions in duplicate furnished on or before the first day of each succeeding year, showing the extensions, additions, and changes since the last map or supplement was submitted. All mine progress maps kept by the lessee shall at all times be subject to examination by lessor.

(2i). That, beginning with the fourth year of the lease, except when such operation shall be interrupted by strikes, the elements, or casualties not attributable to the lessee, the lessee shall mine each year and pay a royalty thereon, not less than ---------- tons of phosphate rock from the leased premises, unless operations are suspended as provided in section 11 of the act.

(2j) That the lessee shall not assign this lease or any interest therein, nor sublet any portion of the leased premises without the written consent of the lessor being first had and obtained.

Sec. 3. It is mutually understood and agreed that the lessor shall have the right to readjust and fix the royalties payable hereunder and other terms and conditions including amount of minimum annual production, at the end of 20 years from the date hereof, and thereafter at the end of each succeeding 20-year period during the continuance of this lease unless otherwise provided by law at the time of the expiration of any such period, but in case the lessee be dissatisfied with the rate of royalty or other terms and conditions so fixed, he may terminate this lease in the manner and under the conditions provided in sections 6 (b) and 6 (c) hereof.

Sec. 4. This lease is made subject to the following provisions, which the lessee accepts and covenants faithfully to perform and observe, unless the laws of the State where the leased land or deposits are situated otherwise provides, in which case such State laws control:

(4a) The lessee shall carry out and observe regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior and in force at the date hereof relative to (1) reasonable diligence, skill, and care in the operation of said property in accordance with approved methods and practices, (2) the prevention of undue waste, and (3) the safety and welfare of miners.

(4b) And also shall pay all miners and other employees, both above and below ground, at least twice each month in lawful money of the United States, and shall permit such miners and other employees full and complete freedom of purchase, but with a view to increasing safety this provision shall not apply to the purchase of explosives, detonators, or fuses; and shall not require or permit miners or other employees, except in case of emergency, to work underground for more than eight hours in any one workday, and shall not employ any boy under the age of 16 years or any girl or woman without regard to age in any mine below the surface.

Sec. 5. And the lessee also expressly agrees that all mining and related operations shall be subject to the inspection of authorized representatives of the lessor, and that such representatives may at all times enter into and upon the leased lands and survey and examine same and all surface and underground improvements, works, machinery, equipment, and operations.

(5a) And also shall permit the lessor to examine all books and records pertaining to operations under this lease and to make copies of and extracts from any or all of same, if desired.

(5b) And also shall permit the lessor, or its lessees or transferees, with the approval of the lessor, to make and use upon or under the leased lands any workings necessary for freeing any other mine from water or gas, or extinguishing fires, causing as little damage or interference as possible to or with the mine or mining operations of the lessee hereunder: Provided, That any such use by a transferee or another lessee shall be conditioned upon the payment to the lessee hereunder of the amount of actual damages sustained thereby and adequate compensation for such use.

(5c) And also shall, at the termination of this lease, as the result of forfeiture thereof, pursuant to paragraph (6d), deliver up to the lessor the lands covered thereby, including all fixtures, machinery, improvements, and appurtenances, other than strictly personal property, situate on any of said lands, in good order and condition, so as to permit of immediate continued operation to the full extent and capacity of the leased premises.

SEC. 6. It is further mutually understood and agreed as follows:

(6a) That the lessor may in writing waive any breach of the covenants and conditions contained herein except such as are required by the act, but any such waiver shall extend only to the particular breach so waived and shall not limit the rights of the lessor with respect to any future breach; nor shall the waiver of a particular cause of forfeiture prevent cancellation of this lease for any other cause, or for the same cause occurring at another time.

(6b) The lessee may, on consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained, surrender and terminate this lease upon payment of all rents, royalties, and other debts due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages or moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary of the Interior that the public interest will not be impaired; and the lessee may with like consent surrender any legal subdivision of the area included within the lease; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines or productive works or permanent improvements on the lands covered hereby.

(6c) That on the termination of this lease, pursuant to the last preceding paragraph, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, all buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools, placed by the lessee in or on the land leased hereunder, save and except all underground timbering, and such other supports and structures as are necessary for the preservation of the mine, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation; that the purchase price to be paid for said buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased as aforesaid, shall be fixed by appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons (one to be designated by each party hereto and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive; that pending such election to purchase within said period of six months none of said buildings or other property shall be removed from their normal position; that if such valuation be not requested, or the lessor shall affirmatively elect not to purchase within said period of six months, the lessee shall have the privilege of removing said buildings and other property, except said timbering and other supports and structures, as are necessary for the preservation of the mine, as aforesaid.

(6d) If the lessee shall fail to comply with the provision of the act or make default in the performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations hereof, or in the general regulations promulgated and in force at date hereof, the lessor may institute appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for the forfeiture and cancellation of this lease as provided in section 31 of the act, but this provision shall not be construed as depriving the lessor of any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor might otherwise have.

SEC. 7. It is further covenanted and agreed that, should the lessee fail to take prompt and necessary steps to prevent loss or damage to the mine, property, or premises, or danger to the employees, the lessor may enter on the premises and take such measures as may be deemed necessary to prevent such loss or damage or to correct the dangerous or unsafe condition of the mine or works thereof, which shall be at the expense of the lessee.

SEC. 8. It is further covenanted and agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 9. It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, shall be admitted to any share or part in this lease, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts enter into and form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

12. Use permits for additional lands.—Under section 12 of the act a lessee may be granted a right to use the surface of not exceeding 40 acres of unappropriated and unentered land as may be necessary for the proper prospecting for or development, extraction, treatment, or removal of the phosphate deposits in the leased lands.

Applications for permits for such additional tracts shall be filed in the district office having jurisdiction over the lands and should identify the lease by the serial number under which issued, and be filed under the same number. Such applications must be under oath and set forth the specific reasons why the additional tract is necessary to the lessee for the use named, describe the land desired by legal subdivision if surveyed, and if unsurveyed, by the approximate description it will be when surveyed, and also set forth the reasons why the land is desirable and adapted to the uses named, either in point of location, topography, or otherwise, and that it is unoccupied and unappropriated.

FORM OF USE PERMIT UNDER SECTION 12

Land Office at__________
Serial No_______________

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

USE PERMIT UNDER SECTION 12, ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920

Know all men by these presents, that the Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," hereby grants to __________, holder of lease bearing serial No. __________, the exclusive right, so long as needed, used, and occupied during the life of the aforesaid lease, the use of the surface of the following described tract of land, to wit, ____ for the proper prospecting for or development, extraction, treatment, or removal of the phosphate deposits covered by the aforesaid lease, all rights hereunder to cease and terminate upon the termination of the aforesaid lease.

Dated this __________ day of __________, 19__.

______________________________,
Secretary of the Interior.

13. Repealing and saving clause.—Section 37 of the act provides that hereafter the deposits of coal, phosphate, sodium, oil, oil shale, and gas referred to and described in the act may be disposed of only in the manner provided by the act, " except as to valid claims existent at date of passage of this act, and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under said laws, including discovery." As to phosphate claims, those claims initiated under the preexisting law may go to patent which, at the date of the act, were valid mining locations, duly made and maintained as such on lands subject to such location at the date initiated.

14. Fees and commissions.—(a) For receiving and acting upon each application for lease filed in the district land office in accordance with these regulations, there shall be paid by the applicant a fee of $2 for every 160 acres or fraction thereof in the application, such fee in no case to be less than $10, the same to be considered as earned when paid, and to be credited in equal parts to the compensation of the register and receiver within the limitations provided by law.

(b) Registers and receivers shall be entitled to a commission of 1 per cent of all moneys received in each register's office, to be equally divided between the register and receiver. Such commission will not be collected from the applicant or lessee in addition to the moneys otherwise provided to be paid.

It should be understood that the commissions herein provided for will not affect the disposition of the proceeds arising from operations under the act, as provided in section 35 thereof; also that such commissions will be credited on compensation of registers and receivers only to the extent of the limitation provided by law for maximum compensation of such officers.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

PROCEDURE IN RELATION TO AGRICULTURAL CLAIMS IN CONFLICT WITH PERMITS OR LEASES, OR SUBJECT TO PREFERENTIAL RIGHTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 6, 1920.[19]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Instructions have been requested from several local offices as to the proper procedure to take in connection with nonmineral applications or selections filed for lands embraced in applications for prospecting permits or leases, or which may be subject to preference rights, under the leasing act of February 25, 1920.

A prospecting permit is granted in contemplation of a future lease for a part or all of the same land in case of discovery; hence as to subsequent nonmineral entries, with a reservation of the oil or gas to the United States, the lands embraced in a prospecting permit should be treated the same as if embraced in an oil or gas lease, with a reservation to the United States of the right "to lease, sell, or otherwise dispose of the surface of the lands embraced within such lease under existing law or laws hereafter enacted, in so far as said surface is not necessary for the use of the lessee in extracting or removing the deposits therein," pursuant to section 29 of the leasing act. As the placing of such a reservation in a lease is made discretionary with the secretary, it necessarily follows that any disposition of the surface of lands embraced in permits or leases is by the act left entirely discretionary with the Land Department, to be determined on the facts of each particular case.

The so-called relief sections of the act (18, 18 (a), 19, and 22) recognize equitable rights in the owners and occupants of claims initiated under the general mining laws and accord to them a preference right which may be exercised by applying within the time and in the manner prescribed by said sections for oil or gas leases or permits. These prior rights or claims, if asserted within the time accorded the claimants by the statute, are superior, both in time and right, to nonmineral applications or selections having their inception subsequent to the leasing act. It is apparent also that the allowance of nonmineral appropriation of the surface of vacant lands in producing structures will interfere with the leasing of such lands by competitive bidding under section 17 of the leasing act.

You are therefore directed:

LANDS OUTSIDE PRODUCING STRUCTURES

(1) In all cases of applications to make nonmineral entries or selections of lands outside of areas which have been designated by the department as within the geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields, and which lands are also embraced in applications for prospecting permits or in permits granted, such nonmineral applications should be received, noted on your records, suspended, and transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for instructions. If in any case such nonmineral entry or selection shall be allowed by you on instructions from the Commissioner, the same will be with a reservation of the oil or gas to the United States, and subject to the rights of the permittee or lessee, as the case may be, to use so much of the surface of such land as is necessary in extracting and removing the mineral deposits, without compensation to the nonmineral entryman for such use, in accordance with section 29 of the leasing act.

LANDS IN PRODUCING STRUCTURES

(2) You will reject all applications to enter, file upon, or select under the nonmineral land laws, lands which have been or shall be designated by the department as being within the known geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields, pending consideration by the department of the agricultural character and value of such lands and a determination as to whether the surface of the land is of agricultural character and value and may be disposed of without detriment to the public interest.

CONFLICTS WITH PREFERENCE RIGHTS

(3) All homestead entries or other nonmineral filings or selections allowed prior to receipt of these instructions and subsequent to February 24, 1920, which are found to be in conflict with preference rights timely asserted under the remedial provisions of the act of February 25, 1920, shall be suspended pending the consideration of the application for the permit or lease, and the parties in interest so advised. If the permit or lease be allowed or granted, such homestead entry or other allowed nonmineral application or selection will be canceled if the lands are within designated geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields. If outside of such designations, the agricultural entries, applications, or selections will be allowed to stand or will be canceled in the discretion of the department, as provided in section 1 hereof.

LIABILITY FOR DAMAGES

(4) Your attention is drawn to the distinction which exists under the law with respect to the rights of permittees and lessees of mineral deposits in cases where the nonmineral entry or selection is allowed subsequent to the application for permit or lease or subsequent to February 25, 1920, in conflict with rights recognized by sections 18, 18 (a), 19, and 22 of the leasing act, and those cases where the nonmineral entry, filing, or selection with a reservation of the mineral (either at time of entry or later) under the acts of July 17, 1914 (36 Stat. 509), or December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), precedes the permit lease, or mineral right, for in the latter case the nonmineral claimant is entitled to be reimbursed for all damages to crops and improvements by reason of the operations of the permittee or lessee, as provided in those acts, while in the former the respective rights of the mineral and surface claimants are governed by section 29 of the leasing act.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

DESIGNATION OF LAND AS STRUCTURE OF PRODUCING OIL OR GAS FIELD, AFTER FILING OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT

Department of the Interior,
Washington, April 23, 1921.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Dear Mr. Commissioner: Based upon rulings of the Secretary of the Interior, the regulations concerning oil and gas permits and leases approved October 29, 1920, state on page 36, "Where after application under section 13 for a permit and before permit is granted the land is designated as within the structure of a producing oil or gas field, permit can not be allowed."

This regulation and the rulings on which it is based were not issued under a mandatory provision of the statute, section 13 of the act of February 25, 1920, authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to grant to any qualified applicant a prospecting permit upon lands "wherein such deposits belong to the United States and are not within any known geological structure of a producing oil or gas field."

Rulings of this department in cases involving a like situation, arising under other land laws, are to the contrary. In the case of Charles C. Conrad (39 L. D. 432), where a homestead application was filed, and where the entryman had performed all acts necessary to complete his application, but by reason of delay in action thereupon by the local office a first form withdrawal under the reclamation act intervened, the department held that his rights could not be prejudiced by the inability of the local office to allow the application until after the withdrawal, but that they related back to the time when he filed in the local land office his application, accompanied by the required showing, including the fees, the land being then subject to his application.

This and similar rulings of the department are approved in principle by the recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of Payne v. Central Pacific Railway Co. (Feb. 28, 1921); Payne v. New Mexico (Mar. 7, 1921); and Wyoming v. United States (Mar. 28, 1921).

Applying the principle so announced, it is clear that not only equitably but legally qualified persons, who filed proper applications for oil or gas prospecting permits under the act of February 25, 1920, can not and should not be deprived of their rights if, because of delay in action upon the applications so filed, there intervenes a designation by this department of the lands as being within the geological structure of a producing oil or gas field occasioned by a discovery of oil or gas subsequent to the filing of the application in the local land office. Accordingly, said regulation is hereby revoked, and in future applications will be adjudicated in accordance with the views herein expressed.

The statute, however, specifically forbids the allowance and approval of a prospecting permit upon lands within a "known geological structure of a producing oil or gas field" (section 13), and in section 17 provision is made for the disposition of unappropriated lands in such structures by competitive bidding. Therefore, nothing in this opinion shall be construed as modifying or affecting previous decisions of this department to the effect that prospecting permits can not be allowed within the geological structure of a producing oil or gas field, so known and existing at and prior to the filing of the application for the prospecting permit.

Respectfully,

ALBERT B. FALL, Secretary.

REWARD FOR DISCOVERY; AMENDMENT OF CIRCULAR 672

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 15, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States District Land Offices.

SIRS: The regulations pertaining to and governing oil and gas permits and leases, pursuant to the act of Congress of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), published as Circular No. 672, are hereby amended so as to incorporate therein a new paragraph, to be numbered paragraph 8 (a), reading as follows:

> 8 (a). When an application for a lease of the one-fourth part of the area affected by a prospecting permit is submitted, supported by the requisite evidence of discovery and production of oil or gas, such application must be accompanied by further application by the permittee, or by an assignee of such permittee, for a lease of the remaining portion of the area described in the permit; or, in the alternative, a relinquishment of the permit and waiver of preference right in respect of such remaining area must be submitted.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATING TO NONCOMPLIANCE WITH TERMS OF PERMIT

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, October 14, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: In the case of oil and gas prospecting permits issued under section 13 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), and where more than 12 months and 10 days have elapsed you will not call for corroborated affidavits describing the work done upon the land pursuant to the letter of the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 12, 1921, unless directed to do so by this office in any specific case.

The department, however, will consider any information as to noncompliance with the terms of a permit and should such showing be filed you will transmit same to this office for consideration.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO RENTAL DEDUCTIONS IN OIL AND GAS LEASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 8, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Section 14 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), relative to oil and gas leases, provides for the payment in advance of an annual rental of $1 per acre in cash on the acreage covered by the lease, the rental paid for any one year to be credited against the royalties as they accrue for that year.

[20] Modified by Circular No. 874, p. 919.

For the purpose of establishing a uniform practice of handling this rental problem the following rules are prescribed:

1. On the first day of each year of the lease, reckoned from the date stated in the first paragraph thereof, the annual rental becomes due and payable in cash. This must be paid directly to the receiver of public moneys of the land district in which the land is situated.
2. In the event the royalty is to be paid in cash, the lessee shall deduct from royalty payments to the local receiver the amount of the rental paid for that year from the first royalty due, until the accrued royalty equals the annual rental paid.
3. If the royalty is to be paid partly in crude oil and partly in cash, the entire deduction necessary to offset the rental paid shall be taken from the first accrued cash royalty only.
4. If the royalty is to be paid in kind only, the lessee shall deduct from the first accrued royalty product such quantity thereof as will, at the approved selling price on the date of deduction, equal in value the cash rental paid for that year.
5. The date, amount, and character of the deduction made to offset rental payments must be shown in the itemized monthly statement required in the lease covering the month when the deduction is made.

ACCOUNTS: LESSEES OF OIL LANDS NOT REQUIRED TO FURNISH ITEMIZED STATEMENTS WITH PAYMENTS OF ROYALTIES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 20, 1922.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: By order, dated March 2, 1921, it is required that all payments of royalty in money shall be accompanied by a statement showing the production for the month, number of wells from which production was made, grade of oil produced, the value thereof, and the royalty due the Government.

The Bureau of Mines advises that its field offices are now established and that the employees in these offices are now computing the royalty statements. Oil and gas lessees are required to submit to such field offices itemized statements of the oil and gas produced by them, which results in their submitting two sets of figures. As the Bureau of Mines is furnishing this office with monthly statements of royalty due the Government from each lease, you will notify lessees that send in itemized royalty statements that such statements are no longer necessary and that all royalty statements should be submitted directly to the deputy supervisor of the Bureau of Mines.

Order of March 2, 1921, is modified accordingly.

OIL-PROSPECTING PERMITS IN POWER-SITE RESERVES—SUBDIVISION 10 OF PERMIT FORM, MODIFIED

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., April 7, 1922.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office:

On August 30, 1921, you submitted application for oil and gas prospecting permit, Salt Lake City 028589, filed by Alvina L. Kamen, involving lands withdrawn for power site purposes, recommending that the permit be issued on the standard form, without reference to proposed amendment thereto suggested by the Federal Power Commission.

I now transmit herewith for your information a copy of the opinion of the solicitor, dated September 30, 1921 (48 L. D. 459), and approved by the Secretary, holding that the sole authority to determine what, if any, provisions should be inserted in a prospecting permit or lease affecting power site lands, rests with the Secretary of the Interior.

In accordance with the suggestion of the solicitor, on the last page of his opinion, in all permits involving power-site lands you will add to subdivision 10 of the permit form the following:

> He further agrees that in the event of discovery of oil or gas within the permit area appropriate conditions for the protection of the power development and use may be incorporated in any lease or leases to be issued to him or his successors.

Kamen's permit is returned for action in accordance with the above.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

MODIFICATIONS OF RULE 4, CIRCULAR NO. 795, RELATIVE TO REFUNDING PREPAID RENTALS ON OIL AND GAS LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., February 24, 1923.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: For the convenience of lessees of oil and gas lands and to avoid the confusion resulting from the present practice of deducting from royalty paid in kind such quantity thereof as will equal in value the cash rental paid in advance, rule 4 of Circular No. 795, dated December 8, 1921, is hereby modified to read as follows:

> 4. If the royalty is to be paid in kind only, the lessee shall deduct from the first accrued royalty product such quantity thereof as will, at the approved selling price on the date of deduction, equal in value the cash rental paid for that year: Provided, however, That by consent of the lessee the amount of annual rental paid in any one year may, in lieu of being refunded in oil, continue to be held by the Government as a deposit through succeeding years subject to correction if the acreage of the lease shall change or to refund any amount due when the lease shall terminate.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 876

INSTRUCTIONS ON OIL AND GAS PERMITS AND LEASES ON LANDS SOUTH OF MEDIAL LINE OF RED RIVER IN OKLAHOMA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 7, 1923.

Register and Receiver, Guthrie, Okla.

Sirs: Your attention is called to the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 4, 1923 (42 Stats. 1448), entitled "An act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to issue to certain persons and certain corporations permits to explore, or leases of, certain lands that lie south of the medial line of the main channel of Red River, in Oklahoma, and for other purposes." A copy of the act is appended.

The Regulations Concerning Oil and Gas Permits and Leases, as amended to October 29, 1920, Circular No. 672 (47 L. D. 437), contains the departmental instructions under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), and they are hereby extended to the act of March 4, 1923, so far as applicable. Attention is called to the fact that not more than 160 acres may be granted by lease or permit to any one person or corporation, except where two or more claims have been assigned to one person or corporation, in which event the assignee is limited to the amount of his assigned interests, but not to exceed 640 acres. The following supplementary instructions are issued:

1. The application for an oil and gas prospecting permit or for a lease must be filed in the United States land office at Guthrie, Okla., between the opening hour of March 5, 1923, and the closing hour of May 3, 1923. The application must be made under oath and the supporting papers certified or under oath as far as necessary and practicable. They should specifically include the following, and such additional matter as may be of assistance in establishing the right to relief:

A. Application:

(a) Applicant's name and headquarters address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant, by affidavit of such fact, if native born; or if naturalized, by a certified copy of the certificate of naturalization on the form provided for use in public land matters, unless such a copy is already on file; if a corporation, by certified copy of articles of incorporation.

(c) Whether the application is for a permit to prospect for oil and gas, or is for a lease based on a substantial discovery of oil or gas.

(d) Exact description of the land applied for and the acreage thereof. If the land is not embraced within the plat of an official survey, its boundaries must be located by an accurate, instrumental, metes-and-bounds, closed survey, a point of which must be connected with an established corner of the approved public-land survey fronting on the left bank of Red River, in Oklahoma. A diagram of each river-bed location will be laid down upon a copy of the official "Map of Disposals of Lands Bordering Red River," which will be furnished for the purpose.

(e) The respective interests and the nature and extent thereof, of the applicant and all who claim with or through him.

(f) A full statement of the facts and a historical résumé of the origin and basis of the claim for relief, and of the chain of title under which it is asserted. It must be specifically shown on what date the applicant or his predecessor in interest initiated the rights upon which the claim for relief is based and the full circumstances of such initiation.

(g) A statement of any litigation that the land may be involved in, and of all adverse claims being asserted for the land or its production.

(h) An itemization and description of all improvements made by the applicant or his predecessor in interest and the dates during which they were made, together with a map or sketch showing their location. Full details of the nature, extent, and date of any discovery of oil or gas must be shown.

(i) Statement of all interests being held or applied for under this act by each applicant.

(j) Agreement to permit the inspection or to furnish copies of all records having a bearing on the application.

B. Detailed statement by months of all past production up to date of filing the application, giving value of the production and to whom disposed.

C. An unconditional quitclaim deed to the United States of the involved land from the applicants and the claimants of record.

D. Authority of any representative of an individual or corporation to act.

E. A certified stocklist, if the application is made by an association or corporation, showing name and address and number of shares of each stockholder, together with a statement as to the citizenship of the stockholders. The stocklist will be retained in the confidential files.

F. A certified abstract of title brought down to the date of the application, which must be filed within 30 days after application.

The application (A) and the supporting papers (B to D, inclusive) must be filed in duplicate. Only one copy of the stock list and the abstract of title should be filed. A bond for the protection of the oil strata or deposits against improper methods of drilling and operation need not be filed at time of making the application for a permit or lease.

2. Applications, so far as possible, should be prepared from the viewpoint that lease or permit, if issued, will be granted to the claimants of record; if any of these are not brought into the application, their absence must be explained and the fullest evidence presented that they can not be brought into the application. Protests will be received at any time up to the issuance of permits or leases, but neither a protest nor a notice of intention to make application can be used as the basis of an application. A full and formal application as indicated under paragraph A above must be filed within the stated 60-day period, but the supporting papers may be filed within a reasonable time thereafter if proper reasons for the delay are shown.

3. Applicants should note that under the terms of the act the following conditions are necessary to the issuance of a permit or lease:

(a) That the title to the oil and gas is in the United States.

(b) That the lands lie south of the medial line of the main channel of Red River, Okla.

(c) That the lands were claimed and possessed by the applicant or his predecessor in interest prior to February 25, 1920.

(d) That such claim and possession prior to February 25, 1920, was in good faith.

(e) That expenditures were made upon the land and with reasonable diligence in an effort to discover or to develop oil or gas.

4. The act states " That after the adjudication and disposition of all applications under this act any lands and deposits remaining unappropriated and undisposed of shall, after date fixed by order of the Secretary of the Interior, be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of said act of February 25, 1920." Due notice in accordance therewith will be given at the proper time, but until such notice is given no application can be received under said act of February 25, 1920, nor will any rights be acquired by any occupation prior to the announced date.

Approved.

CIRCULAR No. 905

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO IDENTIFICATION OF LANDS IN ALASKA; AMENDING CIRCULARS NOS. 672 AND 845

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 15, 1923.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices in Alaska.

GENTLEMEN: Owing to the difficulties encountered in the adjustment of conflicting claims for oil-prospecting permits under the leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for unsurveyed land in Alaska, section 4 (d) of the regulations of March 11, 1920 (47 L. D. 437), Circular No. 672 and section 2 (c) of Circular No. 845, approved August 12, 1922 (49 L. D. 207), are modified to make the following requirements:

WHERE PERMITS HAVE NOT ISSUED

1. All applicants must hereafter describe lands with reference to true cardinal directions and in cases where applications have heretofore been made and can be conformed to such directions without prejudice to valid intervening claims said applications must be amended to conform to true cardinal directions.

2. In order to permit adjustment of conflicts the claims of all conflicting applicants must be identified with reference to a common monument which can be definitely ascertained and located upon the records and plats in this office.

These conflicting claims fall into two general classes: (a) Those involving lands located in the vicinity of the public-land surveys; (b) those involving lands which are removed from such surveys.

The following regulations are prescribed for the designation of these lands in applications for prospecting permit:

(a) In all cases where circumstances permit, applicants for prospecting permits for unsurveyed lands must describe the lands applied for by metes and bounds connecting such description by courses and distances to some monument of an approved public-land survey.

The point of reference utilized may be the initial monument erected by another applicant who has described said monument by courses and distances with reference to a public-survey monument, provided the location of said monument has been definitely established with reference to the public-land survey. In such case, however, the location of the adopted monument, with respect to such public-land survey monument, must be stated or the field notes or calculations by which the location of the applicant's initial monument with reference to the public-survey monument was obtained, must be furnished.

(b) In cases where there are no available public-land survey monuments the applicant for permit must describe the land by metes and bounds designating the location of his initial monument by courses and distances, with reference to such permanent monuments as will enable this office to identify its location from its records and maps. A plat or chart illustrating the location of said monument will aid in a determination of its location.

3. An applicant for permit must state, under oath, whether his application is for any lands described in any prior application, or in any notice posted on the ground within six months prior to the date of the filing of his application.

In the event that there are any prior conflicting claims for permits the applicant initiating the subsequent claim must describe the land desired with reference to the initial monuments of each prior claimant.

WHERE PERMITS HAVE ISSUED

4. Numerous permits have been issued for unsurveyed land in cases where the department could not determine whether conflicting claims existed, or the extent of apparent conflicts, upon the following conditions:

> This permit is granted upon the express condition that the permittee will adjust any conflict with any prior applicant within six months from date hereof.

In numerous instances where conflicts have apparently existed the permittees have failed to comply with this condition. Any extension of time for beginning or completing drilling operations, granted pursuant to the act of January 11, 1922 (42 Stat. 356), does not extend the time for compliance with the foregoing condition and these permits are subject to cancellation for default in this respect.

5. All permittees who have received permits upon the foregoing conditions and are in default must, within 90 days from receipt of notice, submit:

(a) Their affidavits that there are no conflicting claims initiated simultaneously with, or prior to, their initiation of a claim to a permit, and where this office has stated that such conflicts apparently existed, they must furnish amended descriptions locating the claim with reference to the initial monuments of the prior claimants, clearly indicating that such conflicts do not exist; or

(b) Their affidavits showing an adjustment of these conflicts or such effort as was made to procure one, which must be accompanied by such amended descriptions with reference to the initial monuments of the prior conflicting claimants as will enable this office to make such final adjudication of rights as the facts may warrant.

(c) In the case of conflicting claims simultaneously initiated the claimants must furnish a description with reference to a public survey monument if possible, but if no such monument is available the parties must furnish amended descriptions with reference to a common monument.

6. Failure of the permittees to comply with the requirements of the preceding section shall constitute proper grounds for the cancellation of their permits without further notice from this office.

7. You will examine all applications for prospecting permits and require compliance with sections 1 and 2 hereof, within 90 days from notice, in cases where such applications do not comply therewith, transmitting said applications in due course with a report as to the action taken. These regulations will be given the widest publicity possible without cost to the Government.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

POTASH REGULATIONS AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 29, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: March 25, 1924, the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior amended Circular No. 594 of March 21, 1918 (46 L. D. 323), governing permits and leases for potassium, under the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), as amended by Circular No. 781 of October 10, 1921 (48 L. D. 221).

Section 2a of the lease form, Circular No. 594, is amended as follows:

> To invest ______ dollars within four years from the date hereof, not less than one-fourth thereof to be expended during each of said four years, in the substantial development and production of the deposits of potassium and other minerals in the land above described, or in the reduction, manufacture, and preparation of such mineral products for market. Such development, reduction works, or other improvements for which said investment and expenditures are to be made shall, subject to agreed modifications to meet future conditions, in general, consist of the following:

A new paragraph, 10a, is added to said Circular No. 594 as follows:

> 10a. The lessee shall furnish a bond, with approved corporate surety or with two qualified individual sureties, in the sum of one-tenth of the proposed investment, but in no case less than $2,500, conditioned upon the expenditure of the specified amount of investment. After the required investment has been made, a bond in a like amount, with approved corporate surety, conditioned upon compliance with the terms of the lease, will be required. With bonds signed by individual sureties must be filed affidavits of justification by the sureties that each is worth double the sum specified in the undertaking over and above his just debts and liabilities in real property exempt from execution, and a certificate by a judge or clerk of a court of record, a United States district attorney, a United States commissioner, or a United States postmaster, as to the identity, signatures, and financial competency of the sureties. All bonds will be examined from time to time as to their sufficiency, and additional security will be required whenever deemed necessary.

NOTATION OF CANCELLATION OF OIL AND GAS PERMITS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 23, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Owing to the many complaints of the operation of the present rule as to the noting of the cancellation of the oil and gas permits on the tract books of your offices in order that other applications may be received for the same land and in the interest of good administration and equal rights to all, the following administrative rule is adopted:

Hereafter the cancellation of an oil and gas permit will be made effective on a certain date, (probably 20 days from the date of the letter of this office taking such action), when the cancellation will be noted on the tract books of the local land office at 10 o'clock a. m. Applications for the land may be filed personally or by mail between the hours of 9 a. m. and 10 a. m. of the day of cancellation becomes effective, and all applications so filed will be treated as having been filed at 10 a. m., and in case of conflict will be disposed of by a drawing held publicly by you at 2 p. m. on the same day.

Letters of this office canceling the oil and gas permits will name the date when cancellation becomes effective and will state the hour when applications may be filed as indicated in the preceding paragraph.

A carbon copy of such letter should immediately upon its receipt be posted in your office as notice to the public. The drawing should be conducted in such a manner that no valid criticism can or may be made as to its fairness.

Circular No. 915, dated February 5, 1924, is accordingly modified as to oil and gas prospecting permits.

Very respectfully,

RIGHTS OF SETTLERS TO MINERAL DEPOSITS PURSUANT TO OIL LEASING ACT

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 28, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: In a recent decision the department held that a settler upon the public domain prior to the passage of the leasing act, where the lands involved were not at time of settlement withdrawn or classified as valuable for oil and gas deposits, is entitled under certain conditions to a preference right to a permit to prospect for oil and gas, pursuant to section 20 of the leasing act, for the lands settled upon.

The following statements and regulations are hereby made to govern future action in cases of this kind:

1. No preference right can be accorded a settler who made his settlement on or after February 25, 1920 (see Charles R. Haupt, 48 L. D. 355), nor to one whose settlement was for lands withdrawn or classified as valuable for oil or gas deposits.

2. In order to be entitled to a preference right, the settler must have, at the time the lands were withdrawn, classified or reported as valuable for oil or gas, done everything possible under the nonmineral land laws toward making entry. If the lands were subject to entry at that time and were not entered by him, the settler does not acquire any preference by later making application to enter said lands. Ada Fletcher (49 L. D. 204).

3. A preference right may be exercised by a settler on lands subject to settlement although he has not made entry, if said failure is due to the fact that the lands are not open to entry under the homestead laws. In such case he will upon the withdrawal, classification, or report that the lands are valuable for minerals, be required to file an election to make entry, when the lands become subject thereto, with a reservation of the oil and gas deposits to the United States in accordance with the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

4. In cases where the prospective oil and gas value of unsurveyed lands, or lands suspended for survey upon which there is a valid settlement, is brought to the attention of the Land Department by an applicant for a permit under section 13 of the leasing act, the procedure directed in section 12 (c) of the leasing regulations, approved March 11, 1920 (47 L. D. 437), will be followed and the mineral waiver above described will be required. Newton v. Flesher (unreported), decided March 31, 1922, and departmental letter dated December 7, 1922, in re Flora A. Kable.

5. Every applicant for permit for unsurveyed lands, or lands which though subject to settlement are not subject to entry, must state in his application or show by affidavit of a credible witness, that there are no settlers upon the land, or if there be settlers, give the name and post-office address of each and a description of the lands claimed, by metes and bounds and approximate legal subdivisions, if unsurveyed. Upon receipt of an application which shows that there are settlers on the land included therein you will serve notice by registered mail on each settler that an application for permit has been filed and allow him 30 days from notice within which to file a full statement of the facts of his settlement claim and any objection he has to the issuance of the permit, and to state whether he will claim a preference right to a permit to prospect the land if he be found entitled thereto. If no objection be filed in response to such notice, the application for permit will be considered without regard to the claim of such settler, except that a bond will be required in proper cases as security for damage to the settler's crops and improvements. Such settler will be required, when he makes entry for the land, to file consent to a reservation of the oil and gas to the United States, unless the permit has been canceled.

If the settler files objection to the issuance of the permit and shows that he has a valid settlement claim, the procedure will be as follows:

a. If the lands have not been withdrawn or classified as valuable for oil and gas deposits, the General Land Office will proceed as indicated in section 4 of these regulations.

b. If, however, the lands have already been withdrawn or classified as mineral, the General Land Office will proceed in accordance with section 3 hereof.

6. Where settlement has preceded the filing of an application for a prospecting permit, and no preference right is claimed or exists in the settler, the applicant for permit will be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $2,000 as security for damage to his crops and improvements, as in the case of applications or entries made pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

7. Any permits issued pursuant to representations by the applicants that there are no settlers on the land are and will be issued subject to the rights of any settlers upon the land at the time the application was filed, and the claims of said settlers are hereby declared to be of the class covered by the term "valid rights" in the general excepting clause in each permit, which reads "valid rights existing at the date of this permit will not be affected hereby."

You will examine all applications hereafter presented and require compliance with the requirements hereof during the 30-day period of suspension prescribed in section 4 of the general regulations approved March 11, 1920, Circular No. 672. (47 L. D. 437.)

Please secure the widest publicity possible, without expense to the Government, for these regulations.

Respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

PHOSPHATE REGULATIONS AMENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 23, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: In departmental decision of May 3, 1924, in the case of Reginald C. Willis, Missoula 09035, paragraphs 4 and 5 of the regulations concerning phosphate leases and use permits, under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), contained in Circular No. 696, were amended to read as follows:

4. Minimum development.—(a) An actual bona fide expenditure for mine operations, development, or improvement purposes of the amount determined by the Secretary of the Interior will be a condition in each lease as the minimum basis on which each lease will be granted, with the requirement that not less than one-third of such proposed investment shall be expended in development of the mine during the first year, and a like amount each year for the two succeeding years, the investment during any one year over such proportionate amount for that year to be credited on the expenditure required for the ensuing year or years.

(b) Where, however, the lands involved are in an unproven territory, the portion of the total minimum investment required to be made during the first few years of the lease will be fixed in such amounts as the circumstances in each case require.

(c) A bond in the sum of $5,000 executed by the lessee with approved corporate surety and conditioned upon the making of the minimum investment required and upon compliance with the terms of the lease will be required.

Section 5 of the regulations is amended by the addition of the following:

But in a case where the lands are in an unproven territory, the minimum production requirement may be made to begin at such time and to run for such periods as the Secretary may find warranted.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

AMENDMENT OF CIRCULAR NO. 929—RELATING TO NOTATION OF CANCELLATION OF OIL AND GAS PERMITS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 28, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: The second paragraph of Circular No. 929, dated April 23, 1924, relating to filing oil and gas applications for lands embraced in a canceled permit, is hereby amended by adding thereto the following:

However, where application is filed by the former permittee, such application must be accompanied by an agreement to furnish bond in the sum of $1,000, conditioned as security that drilling operations will be commenced within six months from the date of issuance of said permit and for compliance with the remaining drilling requirements of such permit. This bond is to be in addition to the bond required by the regulations in other cases. In case the former permittee is successful at the drawing, his application and that of the party next in order in the drawing will be suspended for 15 days, within which time the bond herein required must be furnished by the successful applicant. In case he fails to furnish said additional bond within this period, his application will be rejected, and that of the remaining applicant forwarded for consideration in due course.

Where it appears that the former permittee has associated himself with others who are successful in the drawing, or is a stockholder in a corporation which acquires priorities at the drawing, such fact will not require the suspension of said application, nor the furnishing of a bond as above required, although such requirement may be made by this office where it appears that the control of the permit will be in the hands of the former permittee.

ASSIGNMENT OF PARTICULAR TRACT IN OIL AND GAS LEASE TO BE GIVEN NEW SERIAL NUMBER

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 19, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Where an assignment is made of a part of the area described in an oil and gas lease, and said assignment is approved by the Secretary of the Interior, the assignee becomes a lessee of the Government as to the tract described and is bound by the terms of the lease the same as though he had obtained the lease to the said land through an application filed in his own name.

For the above reason it has been deemed advisable, in order that the production on the land segregated by the assignment may be properly accounted for, as well as the rental to be paid by the assignee on the particular tract assigned, to consider the assignment, after it approval by the Secretary of the Interior, as the basis of a new case on which a new serial number will be given. In each such case you will be notified by this office when the assignment is approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and directed to assign a current serial number thereto, advising this office of such number by special letter. Reference will be made on your serial register under the original lease number to the number given the assignment as well as a cross reference on the assignment number to the original lease number.

All assignments filed in your office will be transmitted promptly under the serial number of the original lease, and no number will be given to the assignment until such action is directed by this office. Should the assignment cover part of land received by the assignor through a prior assignment in transmitting same to this office you will refer to serial number given by your office to the prior assignment.

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER CIRCULARS NO. 929 AND NO. 939

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, November 13, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Referring to Circular No. 929, entitled "Notation of Cancellation of Oil and Gas Permits," approved April 23, 1924, and amended Circular No. 939, approved May 28, 1924, you are further instructed as follows:

1. Where the cancellation of more than one permit becomes effective on the same day the land will be opened to applications for permits without regard to the particular areas embraced in each of the canceled permits; and where, in such cases, drawings are required, all allowable applications filed within the prescribed time for the areas opened should be included in a single drawing.

2. Where drawings are held you will follow the procedure laid down by paragraph 4 of circular of May 22, 1914 (43 L. D. 254). You will issue your official receipt for the fees paid by each applicant but apply only the fees paid by the successful applicants, returning by your official check the fees paid by the unsuccessful applicants, noting on the abstract of moneys returned or applied, opposite the check number, the word "drawing." Also note on the oil and gas applications the word "drawing" and the date, amount, and number of the check.

At the completion of a drawing furnish this office a list of the applications involved therein, showing: (1) date of drawing, (2) description of the land involved, (3) names of successful applicants and serial numbers of applications, and (4) names of unsuccessful applicants and serial numbers of their applications.

ISSUANCE OF OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS FOR LANDS IN THE PLACE LIMITS OF RAILROAD GRANTS

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, September 17, 1925.

FINNEY, First Assistant Secretary:

Reference is had to an appeal by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., pending in your (Commissioner of the General Land Office) office from action by the register and receiver at Los Angeles, California, in rejecting the company's listing September 28, 1922, of sec. 3, T. 11 N., R. 3 E., S. B. M., California, for the reason that this department had previously granted a permit covering the land, under the provisions of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), to prospect for oil and gas therein.

Calling attention to that proceeding you request instructions on the general question as to whether permits may be lawfully issued under said act to prospect upon unpatented odd-numbered sections within the place limits of certain railroad grants.

In view of the importance of the question involved, I referred the matter to the Attorney General for an opinion, which was given August 29, 1925. His opinion concludes:

> I am therefore of the opinion, and so advise you, that your department has the right and authority to issue oil prospecting permits under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), for lands within the primary limits of grants to railroads, which lands, if nonmineral and not otherwise appropriated or reserved at the date of the grant, were granted to the railroads.

This department will be governed by the conclusions reached by the Attorney General, and you are authorized and instructed to proceed in accordance with his opinion in disposing of cases of the class described therein.

Any application to prospect such lands will be handled administratively as near as may be as provided in paragraph 12 (c) of subsisting oil and gas regulations as of land covered by nonmineral entry within mineral reservation. It will be referred to the Geological Survey for classification as to prospective oil and gas values. If the Geological Survey reports that the land is without such value, the application will be rejected. If the Survey reports that it has such value and affords a favorable opportunity for prospecting, the railroad company will be so notified and required to file consent to a mineral reservation or to show cause why such reservation should not be made.[24] The decision of this department of January 31, 1922, in Northern Pacific Railway Co. (48 L. D. 573), is hereby overruled, in so far as it holds that a railroad company is not entitled to the benefits of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509). But no railroad company or person claiming land under a railroad land grant shall be entitled to a preference right to a permit and lease under the act of February 25, 1920. See section 20 of said act.

PROCEDURE RELATING TO THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE MINERAL LEASING LAWS—GENERAL LAND OFFICE AND GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., September 22, 1925.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE:
The DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY:

The following outline of procedure under the mineral leasing laws is promulgated for your guidance, in view of the additional functions, duties, power, and authority vested in the Geological Survey, pursuant to departmental order No. 54, dated June 25, 1925, issued in conformity with the exceptions noted in Executive order of June 4, 1925.

1. Prior to the issuance of prospecting permits, leases, licenses, or patents under the mineral leasing laws, the General Land Office will refer to the Geological Survey for report the following described applications, submitting for each phosphate, coal, and oil-shale application a plat showing status of mineral deposits in and adjacent to the area applied for:

(a) Coal prospecting permits, leases, and licenses.
(b) Potash prospecting permits, patents, and leases.
(c) Sodium prospecting permits and leases.
(d) Phosphate leases.
(f) Oil and gas permits and leases.

With respect to such applications the Geological Survey will report on prospecting permits, other than for oil and gas, as to whether prospecting is necessary; on all leases, as to the leasing area, the rate of royalty, and, where necessary, the investment and production terms, discovery, and any other matters affecting the issuance of and operations under the lease; on licenses, as to whether the license should be issued; and on potash patent, as to the adequacy of the alleged discovery. Reports on oil and gas prospecting permit applications will be as to (a) relations to geologic structures of producing oil and gas fields, (b) as to other applications and interests of the same applicant on the same structure or on different structures in the same State or Territory, and (c) when necessary, as to prospective oil and gas value under paragraph 12 (c), Circular No. 672 (47 L. D. 437).

[24] Railroad should not be required to file consent to mineral reservation, as to lands within primary limits, but should be required to show cause why permit should not issue. Departmental decision of Nov. 9, 1926, A–9127, Billings 021068.

2. Subsequent to the issuance of prospecting permits, leases, and licenses under the mineral leasing laws, the General Land Office will refer to the Geological Survey for report, or submit recommendations to the Secretary through the Geological Survey and for its concurrence all applications for:

(a) Amendments, modifications, and consolidations.
(b) Cancellations other than oil and gas prospecting permits.
(c) Relinquishments.
(e) Renewals.
(f) Working agreements.
(g) Reduction or cancellation of bonds.
(h) Relief.
(i) Sales contracts.

The Geological Survey will, upon receipt of such requests, make appropriate report or indicate its concurrence.

In oil and gas prospecting permit cases subject to cancellation the Geological Survey, on request of the General Land Office, will report as to whether any well is being drilled or has been completed on the geologic structures involving the land and whether the land may be opened to further prospecting or whether it should be held for lease.

3. Letters prepared by the General Land Office for the approval or signature of the Secretary, defining the conditions to be imposed under the mineral leasing laws or any requirements affecting the administration thereof, will be transmitted through the Geological Survey for concurrence. The Geological Survey will indicate its concurrence and forward the record to the Secretary or, if not in accord with the proposed action, and agreement can not be reached informally between the two offices, the Survey will forward the record to the Secretary with a statement of its views.

After action has been taken by the Secretary, copies of such General Land Office and departmental letters will be forwarded by the General Land Office to the Geological Survey for its files.

4. The General Land Office will forward to the Geological Survey the case record in appeals from decisions where the action of the General Land Office is based primarily on the report of the Geological Survey and that office will either report to the Secretary or return the case record with recommendation.

5. The General Land Office will promptly notify the Geological Survey of the award of each lease, will forward to the Geological Survey the small card record of approval of permits and leases, and will furnish for the files of the Geological Survey a copy of each permit, lease, license, and contract, together with copies of all material correspondence thereafter conducted by the General Land Office relative to past and future production, amount, rate and payment of royalty, the payment of rentals, assignments, extensions of time, cancellations, relief, agreements, and information regarding the administration of the permit, lease, or license.

6. The Geological Survey will submit to the General Land Office monthly statements setting forth the oil and gas royalties due and payable or delivered in kind, and will submit quarterly statements of the royalties and rentals due and payable for all other minerals covered by the leasing laws and after the termination of each lease and coal permit and license, a final report will be made to the General Land Office by the Geological Survey.

7. The Geological Survey will refer to the General Land Office all matters regarding the appropriate surface marking of leases and permits, the underground marking of boundaries of leases in mining operations, and the tying in of mine openings with corners of the public land surveys.

8. Such additional references, reports, and interchange of information and advice shall be made by or between the General Land Office and Geological Survey as may be necessary to perpetuate or improve current practice and to accomplish economical and effective administration of the mineral leasing laws, it being the intent that under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, the General Land Office shall be the office of record, law, and collections in mineral leasing matters while the Geological Survey shall furnish scientific or technical information and advise, supervise prospecting and mining operations, record production, and determine royalties and rentals.

E. C. Finney, Acting Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE OIL AND GAS LEASING ACT—PARAGRAPH 4 (c) OF CIRCULAR NO. 672, AMENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, October 16, 1925.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The department has decided that no person can under the law be allowed to have more than three proceedings, being, or having originated in, applications for permits under section 13 of the leasing act, pending or subsisting at the same time for lands in one State, and in order that applicants for oil and gas permits may show their qualifications as so determined, paragraph 4 (c) Circular No. 672 (47 L. D. 437) is hereby amended so as to read:

> (c) A statement that the applicant is not the holder of, nor has pending applications for, more than two other oil and gas permits in the same State, nor holder of or applicant for any other permit in the same geologic structure, together with a statement of any other applications for permits or permits issued in the same State in which the applicant is directly or indirectly interested, fully disclosing the nature and extent of such interests, is required. In this connection attention is directed to the limitations and exceptions of section 27 of the act.

In all cases where applicants fail to show their qualifications as above indicated, you will allow them 15 days from notice thereof within which to cure the defects; but when an application is filed that shows the applicant disqualified by having three such proceedings pending in the State or one in the same geologic structure, you will reject the same subject to the right of appeal within 15 days from notice thereof.

All instructions or regulations in conflict herewith are hereby amended so as to conform hereto.

You will give the widest publicity to the above regulations that may be possible without expense to the United States.

Very respectfully,

Approved October 16, 1925.

POTASH REGULATIONS AMENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 27, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Section 6 of the potash regulations, Circular No. 594, approved March 21, 1918 (46 L. D. 323), under the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), is hereby amended to read:

> (6) The lands in class (B), if containing potash in some or any of the forms specified in said act, will thereupon become subject to lease, with a preferential right of the permittee thereto upon such reasonable royalty as shall be fixed by the Secretary, on condition that the permittee shall apply for lease at the time he applies for patent, else he will be held to have waived his preference right to a lease. If not made the subject of such a preferential lease, such lands may be offered for leasing by publication for a period of 30 days in a newspaper designated by the register of the proper land district, published at the capital of the State, inviting applications therefor, on or before a date specified. Applications for such excess permit lands will be considered without further notice, and leases awarded thereunder in general accordance with the provisions of paragraph 5 herein. Lands once included in a published notice of leasing offer, remaining unleased, may thereafter be applied for without publication of notice.

Very respectfully,

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT APPROVED APRIL 30, 1926 (44 STAT. 373), AMENDING SECTION 27 OF THE LEASING ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920 (41 STAT. 437)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 18, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: By the act of April 30, 1926 (44 Stat. 373), section 27 of the leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), was amended so as to read as follows:

> That no person, association, or corporation, except as herein provided, shall take or hold coal, phosphate, or sodium leases or permits during the life of such leases or permits in any one State exceeding in aggregate acreage 2,560 acres for each of said minerals; no person, association, or corporation shall take or hold at one time oil or gas leases or permits exceeding in the aggregate 7,680 acres granted hereunder in any one State, and not more than 2,560 acres within the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field; and no person, association, or corporation shall take or hold at one time any interest or interests as a member of an association or associations or as a stockholder of a corporation or corporations holding a lease or leases, permit or permits, under the provisions hereof, which, together with the area embraced in any direct holding of a lease or leases, permit or permits, under this act, or which, together with any other interest or interests as a member of an association or associations or as a stockholder of a corporation or corporations holding a lease or leases, permit or permits, under the provisions hereof for any kind of mineral leases hereunder, exceeds in the aggregate an amount equivalent to the maximum number of acres of the respective kinds of minerals allowed to any one lessee or permittee under this act. Any interests held in violation of this act shall be forfeited to the United States by appropriate proceedings instituted by the Attorney General for that purpose in the United States district court for the district in which the property, or some part thereof, is located, except that any ownership or interest forbidden in this act which may be acquired by descent, will, judgment, or decree may be held for two years and not longer after its acquisition: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to limit Sections 18, 18a, 19, and 22 or to prevent any number of lessees under the provisions of this act from combining their several interests so far as may be necessary for the purposes of constructing and carrying on the business of a refinery, or of establishing and constructing as a common carrier a pipe line or lines of railroads to be operated and used by them jointly in the transportation of oil from their several wells, or from the wells of other lessees under this act, or the transportation of coal or to increase the acreage which may be acquired or held under Section 17 of this act: Provided further, That any combination for such purpose or purposes shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior on application to him for permission to form the same: And provided further, That if any of the lands or deposits leased under the provisions of this act shall be subleased, trusteed, possessed, or controlled by any device permanently, temporarily, directly, indirectly, tacitly, or in any manner whatsoever, so that they form a part of, or are in anywise controlled by any combination in the form of an unlawful trust, with consent of lessee, or form the subject of any contract or conspiracy in restraint of trade in the mining or selling of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, or sodium entered into by the lessee, or any agreement or understanding, written, verbal, or otherwise to which such lessee shall be a party, of which his or its output is to be or become the subject, to control the price or prices thereof or of any holding of such lands by any individuals, partnership, association, corporation, or control, in excess of the amounts of lands provided in this act, the lease thereof shall be forfeited by appropriate court proceedings.

In accordance with the provisions of said act, every applicant for coal or sodium permit, or coal, phosphate, or sodium lease must show that, with the area applied for, his or its interest or interests in such permits, leases and other applications therefor, directly and indirectly, will not exceed in the aggregate 2,560 acres for each of said minerals in any one State.

Every applicant for oil or gas permit, lease or for approval of assignment of any interest in such permit or lease must show that, with the area applied for, his or its interest or interests in such permits, leases and other applications therefor, directly and indirectly, will not exceed in the aggregate 7,680 acres in any one State and not more than 2,560 acres within the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field, together with a full disclosure, nature and extent of his or its other holdings with identification of the records where such interests may be found.

The act of April 30, 1926, applies to the Territory of Alaska in so far as it allows an applicant to hold direct and indirect interests not exceeding in the aggregate 2,560 acres on the same geologic structure, but such applicant may not take or hold more than five permits and leases within the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field, nor more than five in said Territory.

Within the limitations herein stated, assignments of any interest in permits or leases should be submitted for approval, accompanied by the necessary papers and showing of the qualifications of the assignee.

Drilling contracts and operating agreements entered into by holders of prospecting permits should not be submitted for approval unless and until discovery is made and application for lease filed, at which time all such contracts must be disclosed. If the contract carries with it a right or interest in the proceeds or in the permit or lease to be issued thereunder, the contractor must then show his qualifications to take the interest so acquired.

Prior to discovery on oil and gas permits, drilling contracts and operating agreements or copies thereof filed in connection with applications for extensions of time, will usually be considered only for the purpose of determining whether the permittees have exercised diligence and are entitled to the extensions of time applied for.

In computing the area held by any person, association, or corporation, only those interests which are represented in applications for permits, for leases, and for approval of assignments of any interest in permits or leases, and those interests held or recognized in permits or leases granted or assignments approved, will be considered.[27]

All instructions and regulations in conflict herewith are hereby modified so as to conform hereto.

You will give the widest publicity to the above regulations that may be possible without expense to the United States.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved June 18, 1926.

AMENDMENT OF CIRCULAR NO. 929 RELATING TO DRAWINGS UPON CANCELLATION OF OIL AND GAS PERMITS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 23, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: On June 3, 1926, in considering a protest filed as the result of a drawing held in accordance with Circular No. 929 (50 L. D. 387), upon the cancellation of an oil and gas prospecting permit the department directed that:

> Hereafter parties desiring to file applications for participation in drawings of this kind be required to allege that they are filing in their own interest and not in the interest of any other person or persons, association, or corporation; or to show clearly in whose interest if not in their own exclusive interest.

It must be stated in each application that the applicant files the same in good faith for his or its own benefit, and not directly or indirectly, in whole or in part in behalf of any other person or persons, association, or corporation, or if made in the interest of any other person or persons, association, or corporation, a full disclosure thereof must be made, accompanied by a showing of the qualifications of all the interested parties. Any such application filed that does not meet the above requirements will not be allowed to participate in the drawings when held.

Any applicant who fails to disclose any and all interests other than his own which shall tend to give an advantage in the drawing, will forfeit any claim to a return or repayment of moneys tendered with his application and subject the permit, in the event that one is awarded to him, to cancellation for fraud.

Circular No. 929 is hereby amended so as to conform hereto.

You will give the widest publicity to the above regulations that may be possible without expense to the United States.

Very respectfully,

AMENDMENT OF SECTION 8 OF CIRCULAR NO. 672 RELATIVE TO LEASES AS A REWARD FOR DISCOVERY

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 23, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: On August 30, 1926, the department amended section 8 of the regulations concerning oil and gas permits and leases published as Circular No. 672 of the General Land Office to read as follows:

8. Reward for discovery.—Upon establishing to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that compliance has been made with the terms and conditions of the permit and the operating regulations applicable thereto and that valuable deposits of oil or gas have been discovered within the limits of the land embraced in the permit, within the period of the permit or extension thereof, the permittee is entitled (a) to a lease of one-fourth of the land included in the permit, on a royalty of 5 per cent, or for at least 160 acres if there be that area in the permit; (b) to a preference right to a lease for the remainder of the land covered by his permit at such royalty as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, not less than 12½ per cent in amount or value of the production, nor more than the royalties fixed for leases under section 18 of the act, (sec. 19, par. c, of these regulations), except that on that portion of the average production exceeding 200 barrels per day per well for the calendar month, the royalties shall be 33⅓ per cent for oil of 30° B. or over and 25 per cent for oil of less than 30° B. Application for lease based on a claim of discovery of oil or gas within the limits of land embraced in a permit should set forth in detail the operations that have been conducted and the amount and value of the discovery claimed to have been made; and must include a certificate by the officer of the department empowered to supervise operations under the permit to the effect that the permittee has conducted his prospecting operations in accordance with approved methods and practice and has made satisfactory compliance with the operating regulations; that each and every well drilled on the permit area is in a satisfactory condition, and that the well or wells relied upon for evidence of discovery have been put in condition for operation and thereafter tested adequately for productive capacity.

Very respectfuly,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 823

(Dated May 5, 1922, reissued with amendments)

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO APPLICATIONS FOR LEASES BY PERMITTEES UNDER SECTION 14 OF THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 1, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In order to expedite and coordinate the work of the General Land Office and of the Geological Survey in acting upon applications for leases filed under section 14 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), by the holders of oil and gas prospecting permits, you are instructed as follows:

Leases following permits.—An application for lease as a reward for discovery by permittees shall be filed in duplicate in the United States Land Office of the district in which the land is situated. The register will immediately transmit the original to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, by special letter, and the duplicate to the supervisor of the Geological Survey having jurisdiction in the district.

Such applications should set out the following items:

1. Serial number of permit.
2. Name and address of permittee.
3. Name and address of operator.

4. Subdivision on which discoveries have been made. Character of discoveries. Exact date of discovery.

5. Number and definite location of each well brought in.

6. Complete itemized production statement by calendar months from first discovery to date of application.

7. The applicant must give description of the land for which he desires a lease at the minimum royalty accorded discoverers under permits. He must also at the same time apply for lease of the remaining lands covered by the permit, or waive claim to his preference right to lease same or such part thereof as he does not desire to lease. A permittee under section 13, and a permittee under section 19 of the act (for lands not within the known geologic structure of a producing oil and gas field at the date the permit application was filed), is entitled to lease one-fourth of the land in the permit, or at least 160 acres, if the permit includes that area, at a flat royalty of 5 per cent. If a permit under section 19 includes areas which were at the date the permit application was filed partly inside and partly outside the known geologic structure of a producing oil and gas field, the permittee is entitled to select one-fourth of the area for lease wholly outside, or wholly inside, or partly inside and partly outside the known structure, provided, however, that the royalty on lands within the known structure shall in no event be less than 12½ per cent, and provided, further, that the permittee is entitled to a lease at 5 per cent flat royalty upon so much of the outside area as does not exceed one-fourth of the total area covered by the permit.

8. A statement of what interests are to be held under the lease, together with (a) the necessary contracts, assignments, etc., for the approval of the Secretary of the Interior; (b) proof of citizenship of any assignee or interested party by affidavit of such fact if native born, or if naturalized, by certified copy of the certificate of naturalization on the form provided for use in public-land matters unless such copy is already on file, or, if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles of incorporation, and a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders; (c) a statement as to interests held by the assignee or interested party in leases and permits in the geologic structure of the same producing oil or gas field. If the showings required under (a) and (b) have already been made, a reference thereto may be made giving the land office district and serial number of the case in which the showings were made.

9. A certificate to be furnished by the supervisor in charge of operations to the effect that the permittee has conducted his prospecting operations in accordance with approved methods and practice, and has made satisfactory compliance with the operating regulations, that each and every well operated on the permit area is in a satisfactory condition, and that the well or wells relied upon for discovery have been put in condition for operation and thereafter tested adequately for productive capacity.

Should such a certificate be lacking when an application is filed in your office, you will reject the application and advise the applicant that upon obtaining the certificate a new application for lease may be presented, which application will be given the current date of filing, the purpose of this being to avoid the establishment of a date of application for lease prior to bona fide compliance with the terms and conditions of the permit.

For address list of supervisors of oil and gas operations, see last page of this circular. Applications for certificates may be filed with the supervisor or his local representative.

Relinquishments.—Relinquishments of permits must be accompanied by an affidavit of the permittee giving the facts as to operations under the permit. If no drilling was done, it should be so stated. If drilling has been done, the number of wells drilled, their location and depth, the depth and thickness of oil, gas and water sands, and detailed method of plugging the wells for abandoning them must be stated.

Abandonment of wells.—Upon plugging or abandoning a well drilled under a permit or lease, the casing shall not be drawn from the well until authority has been obtained in writing from the supervisor of the Geological Survey or other authorized agent of the Department of the Interior.

Sales contracts.—Triplicate signed copies of sales contracts submitted for the approval of the Secretary of the Interior under paragraph 2 (d) of the lease must be filed with the supervisor of the Geological Survey having jurisdiction of the district in which the leased land is situated. The supervisor will retain one copy for his files and forward the other copies with his report to the Director of the Geological Survey. One copy will then be transmitted for appropriate action to the Commissioner of the General Land Office with recommendation of the Director of the Geological Survey.

If a sales contract is submitted to any official of the Interior Department other than the supervisor without its having been approved by him or other authorized official, the contract should be returned to the person submitting it with instructions to file triplicate signed copies at the office of the local supervisor, who will handle it in the regular manner.

ADDRESS LIST OF SUPERVISORS OF OIL AND GAS OPERATIONS

Pacific district (Arizona, except Indian reservations in northeastern portion, California, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington): Supervisor, oil and gas operations, United States Geological Survey, Taft, Calif.

Mid-continent district (Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, and Oklahoma): Supervisor, oil and gas operations, United States Geological Survey, Muskogee, Okla.

Rocky Mountain district (Arizona, including only Indian reservations in northeastern portion, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, and Wyoming): Supervisor, oil and gas operations, United States Geological Survey, 508 Consolidated Royalty Building, Casper, Wyo.

In the Rocky Mountain district the engineer in charge, oil and gas operations, United States Geological Survey, at each of the following addresses, is a local representative of the supervisor: 312 Electric Building, Billings, Mont.; Shelby, Mont.; Cat Creek, Mont.; Midwest Wyo.; Fort Washakie, Wyo; 212 Custom house, Denver, Colo.; Shiprock, N. Mex.; Federal Building, Roswell, N. Mex.

You will give the widest publicity to the foregoing that may be possible without expense to the United States.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

OIL AND GAS PERMIT APPLICATIONS MADE BY ATTORNEYS IN FACT

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 19, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Under date of September 21, 1926, the Department directed, in connection with applications for oil and gas prospecting permits filed under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), that—

> From and after November 1, 1926, prospecting permit applications signed by attorneys in fact must be accompanied by powers of attorney and affidavits by the applicants as to their qualifications. Such applications not accompanied by proof of authority and qualifications will be received and rejected, subject to the right to complete or to appeal, but will not be noted on the tract books or plats prior to the filing of powers of attorney and affidavits by the applicants as to their qualifications.

You will, in acting on cases coming under these instructions, allow 15 days in which to cure the defects or to appeal, and in default, transmit the papers to this office as a closed case. If the power of attorney is filed and the land has not in the meantime been appropriated under a proper oil and gas application, you will note the hour and date the application is so completed and hold same suspended for 30 days after completion, at which time you will take action as prescribed in section 4, Circular No. 672 (47 L. D. 437).

Any application presented by agent or attorney in fact which appears to have been executed by the applicant in blank and the land description later filled in by the agent or attorney, should be received and noted filed, and promptly transmitted here for instructions, accompanied by your report of all the facts and circumstances known.

You will give the widest publicity possible for these regulations without expense to the Government.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

Circular No. 1104

REGULATIONS CONCERNING SULPHUR-MINING LEASES AND PROSPECTING PERMITS IN THE STATE OF LOUISIANA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 22, 1926.

Register, Baton Rouge, La.

Sir: The act of Congress approved April 17, 1926 (44 Stat. 301), entitled "An act to promote the production of sulphur upon the public domain within the State of Louisiana," authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to grant prospecting permits and leases for sulphur lands belonging to the United States in that State.

The similarity of this act to the general mineral leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), is such that the provisions of Circular No. 672, approved March 11, 1920, relating to oil and gas permits and leases are generally applicable, and to the extent that they are not inconsistent with the said act of April 17, 1926, they will govern the procedure in applications for permits and leases under the latter act.

A sulphur permit may, however, be allowed for a maximum of 640 acres only.

The royalty in sulphur leases granted consequent upon a permit shall be 5 per cent of the quantity or gross value of the output of sulphur at the point of shipment to market.

An oil permittee who shall make a discovery of sulphur in lands covered by his permit shall have the same privilege of obtaining a sulphur lease as is given to a sulphur permittee.

All sulphur leases for lands known to contain valuable deposits of sulphur and not covered by permits or leases shall be conditioned upon the payment by the lessee of such royalty as may be fixed in the lease and upon the payment in advance of a rental of 50 cents per acre per annum, the rental paid for any one year to be credited against the royalties accruing for that year.

No person, association, or corporation shall take or hold more than three sulphur permits or leases in any one State during the life of such permits or leases.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 1107

REGULATIONS CONCERNING LEASES OF GOLD, SILVER, AND QUICKSILVER ON PRIVATE LAND GRANTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 3, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: The act of Congress approved June 8, 1926 (44 Stat. 710), entitled "An act relating to patents issued pursuant to decrees of the court of private land claims," authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to lease to the grantee, or those claiming through or under him gold, silver, and quicksilver deposits, or mines or minerals of the same, on lands in private land claims patented pursuant to decrees of the court of private land claims with reservation of such minerals or mines.

The following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such leases:

1. Applications for leases shall be filed in the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, by the owner of the land under the patent title; that is, the original grantee or his record transferee or successor in title, and may include all or any part of the grant for which the applicant holds title at the date of the application.

2. Applications shall be under oath, give name and address of the applicant, describe the land in which the deposits occur, by legal subdivisions of the public surveys, if so surveyed, otherwise by metes and bounds, or if for the entire area in the grant, the name of the grant, area, and date of patent will suffice. The mineral deposits must also be fully described, giving character, mode of occurrence, nature of the formation, kind, and character of associated minerals, if any, proposed mining methods, estimate of amount of investment necessary to successful operation of the mine or mines contemplated, estimated amount of production of gold, silver, and quicksilver, or any of them, and such other pertinent information the applicant may desire to set forth, including what he considers a reasonable royalty rate under the lease. The applicant must also file with his application a duly authenticated abstract of title showing present ownership of the land, or a certificate of the county recorder of deeds that the record title stands in the applicant's name.

3. Any such application filed will be given a current serial number by the register, noted on his records and promptly transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

4. When an application is received in the General Land Office it will be considered, and if found sufficient to authorize issuance of lease thereunder, a rate of royalty, not less than 5 per cent nor more than 12½ per cent of the value of the output of gold, silver, or quicksilver at the mine, will be fixed and the amount of investment under the lease will be determined and prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.

5. When a lease has been authorized, forms of lease in accordance with the terms prescribed will be furnished to the applicant, through the district land office, who will be allowed 30 days from notice within which to execute and return the lease to the district land office and to furnish the required bond.

6. A bond with approved corporate surety in the sum of $2,000 will be required as a guarantee to the making of the investment fixed in the lease and compliance with the other terms and conditions thereof, but a larger bond may be fixed if that amount is determined to be inadequate for the purpose for which given.

7. Form of lease:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

U. S. land office at ____________.
Serial No. ____.

This indenture of lease entered into, in triplicate, this ____ day of ______, 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in that behalf by the Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ______ ______, of ______ ______, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress approved June 8, 1926 (44 Stat. 710), entitled "An act relating to patents issued pursuant to decrees of the court of private land claims," which act is made a part thereof.

Witnesseth:

SECTION 1. Subject.—That the lessor, in consideration of the royalty to be paid and the covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to mine, remove, and dispose of all gold, silver, and quicksilver in, upon, or under the following-described tract or parcel of land, being all or part of the ______ grant, situated in ______ county, State of ______, and more particularly described as follows: ______ ______ ______ ______, containing ____ acres, more or less, for a term of 20 years with the preference right in the lessee to renew the same for successive periods of 10 years each upon such reasonable terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, unless otherwise provided by law at the time of the expiration of any such period.

SEC. 2. In a consideration of the foregoing the lessee hereby covenants and agrees:

(a) Investment and bond.—To invest ______ dollars in actual mining development, mining improvements, and mining operations upon the described premises within four years from the date hereof, not less than one-fourth of which shall be expended during each of said years, unless sooner expended and to furnish and maintain a bond in the sum of $2,000 conditioned upon the making of such investment and the full compliance with all the terms and provisions of this lease;

(b) Royalty.—To pay a royalty of ____ per cent of the net value at the mine of the output of gold, silver, and quicksilver mined from said premises, payable monthly to the register of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, at the end of each month succeeding the extraction of the minerals from the mine or mines;

(c) State taxes.—To pay when due all taxes assessed and levied under the laws of the State upon the improvements, output of mines, or other rights, property, or assets of the lessee;

(d) Reports.—To furnish monthly certified statements in detail and in such form as may be prescribed by the lessor, of the amount and value of the output of the gold, silver, and quicksilver from the leased lands; the books, records, and property leased to be subject to inspection at any time by an accredited agent of the lessor;

(e) Assignment.—Not to assign this lease or any interest therein, nor sublet any of the rights and privileges herein granted without the written consent of the lessor first had and obtained;

(f) Diligence.—To proceed diligently and within 90 days after the delivery hereof to commence operations to develop a mine of gold, silver, or quicksilver, or any of said minerals, within the area covered by this lease, and to mine and produce same by such approved methods and the use of such appliances as to secure all or as large an amount as practicable of such minerals as may be found in the land, leaving no available minerals abandoned where the mining is being conducted, and to conform to such reasonable requirements as may be made by the lessor as to methods and practices in the mining of such minerals;

(g) Minimum royalty.—Beginning with the fifth year of the lease, except when such operations shall be interrupted by strikes, the elements, or casualties not attributable to the lessee, the lessee shall each year mine and pay a royalty on not less than ______ dollars in value of the leased minerals, unless the lessee shall pay the royalty on such minimum amount for one year in advance, in which case operations may be suspended for that year.

SEC. 3. Relinquishment.—The lessee, upon consent in writing of the lessor, may make written relinquishment of this lease and thereupon be relieved of all future obligations hereunder, upon payment of all royalties due the lessor and of all wages and moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, but in no case shall such permission be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines that may have been opened hereunder.

SEC. 4. Forfeiture.—If the lessee shall make default in any of the terms of this lease and such default shall continue for a period of 60 days after written notice thereof by the Secretary of the Interior, the lessor may by appropriate proceedings have this lease forfeited and canceled in a court of competent jurisdiction, but this provision shall not deprive the lessor of any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor would otherwise have, nor shall a waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture affect the right to proceed against the lessee for any other cause of forfeiture or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 5. Heirs and successors.—It is further agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon and every benefit hereof shall inure to the heirs, executors, administrators, sucessors, or assigns of the respective parties hereof.

SEC. 6. Unlawful interests.—It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and that the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statues of the United States and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States approved March 4, 1909, (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this lease, so far as the same may be applicable.

CIRCULAR NO. 1111[28]

BONDS UNDER OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS—SECTION 4 (h), CIRCULAR NO. 672, MODIFIED—DRILLING BONDS, AND CIRCULAR NO. 754 REVOKED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 21, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Hereafter applicants for oil and gas prospecting permits under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), will not be required to furnish the bond at the time of filing of the application for the permit, conditioned against failure of the permittee to repair damage to the oil strata or deposits resulting from improper methods of operation, as provided by section 4 (h) of Circular No. 672 (47 L. D. 437), and Circular No. 754. Such applicants, however, will be required, prior to the issuance of permit, to furnish bond in the sum of $1,000, or such other amount as may be fixed, in special cases where a permit application embraces reserved deposits in lands theretofore entered or patented with reservation of the oil and gas to the United States, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), or where the lands constitute a portion of a reclamation project, or are included in a reclamation homestead entry.

Before a permittee, or any one claiming through or under him, shall begin drilling a test well or wells upon the land embraced in an oil and gas permit, he shall give notice to the supervisor of oil and gas operations, Geological Survey, of the district in which the land is situated of his intention to drill, submitting his drilling plan for approval, together with a bond, with qualified corporate surety, in the sum of $5,000 conditioned against failure, (a) to carry on all operations in accordance with approved methods and practice and in conformity with the operating regulations to the satisfaction of said supervisor; (b) to carry out, at the expense of the permittee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior, or his authorized representatives; (c) to take all reasonable precautions to prevent waste of oil or gas, damage to formation or deposits, injury to life or property, or economic waste; and (d) to repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to mineral deposits or mineral-bearing formations resulting from his operations.

The notice of intention to drill and drilling plan must be furnished in triplicate. Blank forms of such notice and bond can be obtained from the supervisor on request. If the plan is approved and the bond is acceptable, the supervisor will return to the permittee one copy of the notice with his approval indorsed thereon, upon receipt of which drilling may be commenced and carried on in accordance with the approved plan.

The bond will be transmitted by the supervisor to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for consideration and filing.

FEES—ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920 (41 STAT. 437)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 17, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The regulations approved March 11, 1920, Circular No. 672, and May 2, 1925, Circular No. 1004, relating to fees paid with applications for permits, leases, or other rights under the mineral leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), are amended as follows:

There shall be paid in connection with each application for prospecting permit filed pursuant to the provisions of the regulations approved April 23, 1924, Circular No. 929, and amendments thereof, a drawing service fee of $10 in addition to the fees required under existing regulations. The drawing service fee shall be immediately earned, applied, and credited on the compensation of the register within the limitations provided by law. Such fee shall constitute a flat service charge, and shall neither be returned by the register nor repaid.

Upon receiving the required payment the register will stamp on each application for permit filed as aforesaid the following:

Drawing service fee $10; neither returnable nor repayable.

The fees required by Circular No. 672 will be collected and applied in the manner required by the regulations approved May 2, 1925, Circular No. 1004.

Very respectfully,

Approved March 17, 1927.

BONDS UNDER OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS

Department of the Interior,
Office of the Secretary,
Washington, March 18, 1927.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Dear Mr. Commissioner: Circular No. 1111, relating to bonds in connection with oil and gas permits paragraph 1, sec[illegible]y 21, 1927 not entirely clear, in that at least some parties in interest [illegible] impression that $1,000 bonds are still required to be furnished, not at the time of filing of application, but prior to the issuance of the permit, and that in special cases where the application embraces reserved deposits, bonds are to be in such other amount as may be fixed.

As you are aware, that is not the purpose or intention. The purpose is to do absolutely away with the requirement for a $1,000 bond heretofore required in connection with oil permit applications. No such bond will be required, either at the time of filing the application or afterwards. Bonds will be required only in two classes of cases:

(1) Where the permit is upon lands the surface of which has been disposed of by the United States under applicable laws with the oil and gas deposit reserved to the United States. In such cases, a bond will be exacted for the protection of the surface owner.

(2) All permittees before beginning to drill upon the land, or, in other words, at the time when they are ready to begin drilling, will be required to furnish a $5,000 bond for the purposes stated in section 2, Circular No. 1111.

I suggest that registers of local land offices and others interested in the administration of this act be furnished a copy of this letter.

Very truly yours,

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

ROYALTY INTERESTS IN OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS NOT TO RECEIVE RECOGNITION

Instructions

Department of the Interior.
Washington, March 22. 1927.

Finney, First Assistant Secretary:

I have carefully considered your (Director of the Geological Survey and Commissioner of the General Land Office) letters of February 10 and March 1, 1927, relative to approval of assignments of royalty interests in prospecting permits.

It is clear that royalty interests in the minerals which may be discovered in and taken from lands included in prospecting permits under the leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), are of such conditional, uncertain, and speculative nature that there is in reality no actual interest in the land involved. The recognition of such interests imposes upon the department and its bureaus a large amount of work, which is not considered warranted or necessary.

Hereafter the policy of the department will be to refuse to approve or recognize or consider in any way mere contingent or royalty interests in prospecting permits.

CIRCULAR NO. 1120

POTASH REGULATIONS UNDER ACT OF FEBRUARY 7, 1927

POTASH PERMITS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 20, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The act of Congress approved February 7, 1927, entitled "An act to promote the mining of potash on the public domain" (44 Stat. 1057), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to issue prospecting permits, for a period not to exceed two years, for the exploration of the land described therein for potassium in any of the forms named in said act, and under authority thereof the following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such permits:

1. Qualifications of applicants.—Permits may be issued to (a) citizens of the United States, (b) an association of such citizens, (c) or a corporation organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof.

2. Area and description.—A permit may be issued for not more than 2,560 acres of public lands of the United States in reasonably compact form, by legal subdivisions if surveyed; if unsurveyed, by metes and bounds description.

3. Rights under permit.—The permit will confer upon the recipient the exclusive right to prospect for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, or nitrates of potassium on the lands embraced therein. In the exercise of this right the permittee shall be authorized to remove from the premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work and the demonstration of the existence of such deposits or any of them in commercial quantities.

4. Reward for discovery.—A permittee who shows that he has made a discovery of valuable deposits of potassium within the area of the permit and within the 2-year period for which issued, is entitled, under section 2 of the act, to a lease of any or all of the land embraced in the permit containing such deposits and chiefly valuable therefor, the area to be taken in compact form. The lease will be issued at such royalty and acreage rental as may be fixed pursuant to section 3 of the act. A discovery of a valuable deposit of potassium shall be construed as the discovery of a deposit which yields commercial potassium in commercial quantities.

5. Under authority of section 3 of the act, unless otherwise specified in the permit when issued, a permittee who makes the first discovery in any district and becomes entitled to a lease, will be granted a lease at the minimum royalty of 2 per cent of the quantity or gross value of the output of potassium compounds and other related products, except sodium, at the point of shipment to market, and at the minimum rental of 25 cents per acre, for 20 years succeeding the issue of the lease.

6. Form and contents of application.—Applications for permits should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and after due notation promptly forwarded for his consideration. No specific form of application is required, but it should cover, in substance, the following points, namely:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant; by affidavit of such fact, if native born; or, if naturalized, by the certificate thereof or affidavit as to time and place when issued; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles thereof, and showing as to residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(c) A statement of all holdings by the applicant of permits and leases under this act and pending applications therefor, and interests directly or indirectly held in such permits and leases.

(d) Description of land for which the permit is desired, by legal subdivisions, if surveyed, and by metes and bounds, if unsurveyed, in which latter case, if deemed necessary, a survey sufficient more fully to identify and segregate the land may be required before the permit is granted; also a statement whether the land is vacant and unclaimed.

(e) Reasons why the land is believed to offer a favorable field for prospecting.

(f) Proposed method of conducting exploratory operations, amount of capital available for such operations, and the diligence with which such explorations will be prosecuted.

(g) Statement of the applicant's experience in operations of this nature, together with references as to his character, reputation, and business standing.

7. Bonds.—Where an application includes reserved deposits in lands theretofore entered or patented with reservation of potassium to the United States pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), or where the lands constitute a portion of a reclamation project, the applicant will be required prior to issuance of the permit to furnish a bond with qualified corporate surety in the sum of $1,000, or such other amount as may be fixed, conditioned against damage to the crops and improvements of the surface owner, or damage to the reclamation project or water supply thereof.

A bond with qualified corporate surety in the sum of $1,000, or such other amount as may be fixed, conditioned against failure of the permittee to comply with the provisions of paragraph 5 of the permit, may be required either before or after the permit is issued, where the conditions are such as to warrant requiring such bond.

8. Form of permit.—The form of permit issued under this act will be in substance as follows:

Serial No. ______
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
LAND OFFICE AT _________,
___________________, 19__.

POTASH PROSPECTING PERMIT

Know all men by these presents, that the Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of the act of Congress entitled "An act to promote the mining of potash on the public domain," approved February 7, 1927, has granted and does hereby grant a permit to __________ of __________, of the exclusive right for a period of two years from date hereof to prospect the following-described lands ____________________________ for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, or nitrates of potassium, but for no other purpose, upon the express conditions following:

1. To mark each corner of the outer boundaries and post a notice hereof in a conspicuous place on the land within 90 days, and to begin prospecting for said minerals within six months from date hereof, and diligently prosecute the exploratory and experimental work during the period of the permit, in manner and extent as follows, to wit: ____________________________________

2. To remove from said premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work and the demonstration of the existence of such deposits in commercial quantities.

3. To afford all facility for inspection of such exploratory work on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior, and to report fully when required all matters pertaining to the character, progress, and results of such exploratory work, and to that end to keep and maintain such accounts, logs, or other records, as the Secretary of the Interior may require.

4. Not to assign or transfer the permit granted hereby without the express consent in writing of the Secretary of the Interior.

5. To carry out, at the expense of the permittee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior, or his authorized representatives (mining supervisors, U. S. Geological Survey), issued in pursuance of the operating regulations; to carry on all operations hereunder in accordance with approved methods and practice and in conformity with the operating regulations to the satisfaction of said representatives; to take all reasonable precautions to prevent waste of or damage to mineral deposits, injury to life, health, or property, or economic waste; and to repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to mineral deposits or mineral-bearing formations resulting from his operations.

6. To furnish such bond or bonds with qualified corporate surety, as the Secretary of the Interior may at any time require, conditioned against the failure of the permittee to comply with the provisions of paragraph 5 hereof, and against damage to the crops and improvements of any surface owner entitled to such bond, or damages to any reclamation project embracing any of the lands herein described.

Expressly reserving to the Secretary of the Interior the right to permit for joint or several use such easements or right of way upon, through, or in the lands covered hereby as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same or of other lands containing the deposits described in said act; and further reserving the right and authority to cancel this instrument for failure of the permittee to exercise due diligence in the execution of the prospecting work in accordance with the terms hereof.

Valid existing rights acquired prior hereto on the lands described herein will not be affected hereby.

Dated __________________.

____________________________,
First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

POTASH LEASES

Section 3 of the act authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such general regulations as he may adopt, to lease, for the production of the potassium and other mineral deposits contained therein, public lands known to contain potassium in commercial quantity and character and found in some or any of the forms described in said act, leases to be issued for periods of 20 years, with preferential right in the lessee to renew the lease for successive periods of 10 years, upon such reasonable terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, unless otherwise provided by law at the expiration of any such period.

9. Qualifications of applicants.—Applications for leases in the form as herein provided may be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, by citizens of the United States, an association of such citizens, or corporations organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof, the qualifications of the applicant in this respect to be fully covered by the application.

10. Area and description.—Leases are authorized by the terms of the act for an area not exceeding 2,560 acres, but will be granted only for such area as may be shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior to contain deposits of potassium in such form and quantities as to constitute a commercial value, and will be limited to lands reasonably compact in form and described by legal subdivisions of the public land surveys, if surveyed, or if unsurveyed, by the approximate description they will bear when surveyed; the survey in the latter case to be made at the expense of the applicant if the application for lease is otherwise found satisfactory, the descriptions of the land in the lease when granted to conform to the official survey.

11. Royalty and rentals.—Except leases issued to permittees under claims of discovery, as stated in paragraph 5 hereof, the rate of royalty will be fixed prior to the issuance of the lease, but in no case can the royalty rate be less than 2 per cent of the quantity or gross value of the output of the potassium compounds and other related products, except sodium, at the point of shipment to market.

The rentals fixed by the act are to be paid annually in advance—25 cents per acre or fraction of an acre for the first calendar year or fraction thereof, 50 cents per acre for the second, third, fourth, and fifth years, respectively, and $1 per acre for each year thereafter, such rental for any year being credited against royalties accruing for that year.

12. Leases for potassium and sodium.—Under section 4 of the act, potash leases may also provide for the development of sodium, magnesium, aluminum, or calcium deposits, associated with the potassium deposits, on terms not inconsistent with the terms of the act of February 25, 1920. In cases of application for leases under this provision of the act, the terms of the lease, including rate of royalty, rentals, and production requirements, will be in accord with the provisions of both acts.

13. Form and contents of application.—Applications for leases must be under oath and should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. No specific form of application is required, and no blanks will be furnished, but it should cover in substance the following points:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant, by affidavit of such fact, if native born; if naturalized, by a certified copy of a certificate thereof in the form provided for use in public-land matters, unless such copy is on file. If the applicant is an association, each member thereof must show his qualifications as above stated; if a corporation, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation must be filed, together with a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(c) A statement of all holdings by the applicant of permits and leases under this act, pending applications therefor, and interests directly or indirectly held in such permits and leases.

(d) Description of land for which the lease is desired, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, and by metes and bounds if unsurveyed, in which latter case the description should be connected to some corner of the public land surveys, where practicable, or to some permanent landmark. If the land is unsurveyed, the applicant, after he has been awarded the right to a lease, but before the issuance thereof, will be required to deposit with the district cadastral engineer of the public survey office of the State or district in which the land is located the estimated cost of making a survey of the lands, any balance remaining after the work is completed to be returned. This survey will be an extension of the public land surveys over the tract applied for, the leased land to be conformed to legal subdivisions of such survey when made.

(e) Evidence that the land is valuable for its potassium content, except so much thereof as is necessary for the extraction and reduction of the leased minerals, with a statement as accurate as may be of the character and extent and mode of occurrence of the potassium deposits in the lands applied for.

(f) Proposed method, so far as determined, as to the process of mining and reduction to be adopted, the diligence with which such operations will be carried on, and the contemplated investment in reduction works and development, and the capital available therefor.

(g) The application shall be accompanied by a notice for publication, in duplicate, prepared for the signature of the register, in substantially the following form:

Seral No. ______.
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE AT ______,
____________________, *19*__.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR POTASH LEASE

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the act of Congress approved February 7, 1927, ____________________, whose post-office address is __________ ______________, has made application for potash lease covering the following described lands: ____.

Said application will be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office within 30 days from ____________________, 19__, and any and all persons claiming adversely any of the described lands are required to file their claims in this office on or before said date, otherwise their claims will be disregarded in the granting of said lease.

Other applications for lease of the described lands may be filed at any time prior to said date, in which case all applications so filed will be considered as prescribed by section 15 of the potash regulations.

______ ______, Register.

The register will fix the time within which adverse or conflicting claims and other potash lease applications may be filed at not less than 30 nor more than 40 days from first publication.

14. Disposition of applications.—(a) The application will be given current serial number by the register, noted on his records, and the notice for publication will be signed by the register.

After the receipt of such application, no applications, filings, or selections for the lands embraced therein will be permitted until so directed, except applications for leases under this act.

(b) The notice shall be published at the expense of the applicant, and proof of publication furnished promptly at the expiration thereof.

One copy of the signed notice will be delivered to the applicant, who will cause the same to be published in a newspaper to be designated by the register, of general circulation and best adapted to give the widest publicity in the county where the land is situated. If the land is in two or more counties, notice may be published in either. Notice must also be posted in the district land office during the period of publication.

(c) At the expiration of the period fixed in the notice the evidence of publication and posting in said office should be promptly transmitted by the register to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with a statement of the status of the land involved as to conflicts, withdrawals, protests, and any other matters that may be necessary to determine the availability of the land or deposits therein for lease.

15. Action in General Land Office.—On the receipt of the application or applications in the General Land Office the same will be considered, investigation made, if deemed necessary, and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with appropriate recommendation and report as to the proper action to be taken thereon, giving due consideration to the proposed effectual development of the alleged potash deposits and the amount of capital to be invested therein; the award of priority in case of conflicting applications to be determined by the respective proposed investments, date of productive development proposed by the several applicants, and any equities that may exist in one or more of the applicants resulting from improvement or development under claims made under other laws.

In the award of lease of any lands or deposits hereunder the right is reserved to order a sale of the lease at public auction to the bidder offering the highest cash bonus for lease thereof on such terms as may be prescribed for lease of the lands, in which case any application for lease theretofore filed will give the applicant no priority or preference in securing a lease of the lands.

16. Lease by permittee.—The permittee has a preference right within the two years of his permit to lease any or all of the land included in his permit, upon showing to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that he has discovered a valuable deposit of potash thereon and that such land is chiefly valuable therefor. Any lands not leased by the permittee will be subject to be leased by others under the terms set forth in these regulations.

17. Form of lease.—

Serial No. ______

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE AT ______,
____________________, *19*__.

POTASH LEASE

Date—Parties.—This indenture of lease entered into in triplicate this __________ day of __________, 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by the Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ____________________, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress approved February 7, 1927 (44 Stat. 1057), entitled "An act to promote the mining of potash on the public domain," hereinafter referred to as the act, which is made a part hereof, witnesseth:

SECTION 1. Purposes.—That the lessor, in consideration of the rents and royalties to be paid, and the covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to mine, remove, and dispose of all the potassium and associated minerals in, upon, or under the following-described tracts ____________________, containing __________ acres, more or less, together with the right to construct and maintain thereupon all works, buildings, plants, waterways, or reservoirs necessary to the full enjoyment hereof, together also with the right to use any timber, stone, or other materials on said land in connection with the operations to be conducted hereunder, for a period of 20 years, with preferential right in the lessee to renew the same for successive periods of 10 years under such reasonable terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, unless otherwise provided by law at the expiration of any such period: Provided, That this lease shall extend only to or include any right or interest in the lands, or the minerals therein, reserved to the United States under any entry that may be allowed, or patent that may issue, or may have issued, with a reservation of minerals to the United States.

SEC. 2. In consideration of the foregoing the lessee hereby agrees:

(a) Investment.—To invest in actual development or improvements upon the land leased, or for the benefit thereof, the sum of ________ dollars, of which sum not less than one-third shall be so expended during the first year succeeding the execution of this instrument and a like sum each of the two succeeding years, unless sooner expended; and submit annually, at the expiration of each year for the said period, an itemized statement of the amount and character of said expenditure during each year.

To furnish and maintain a bond in the sum of $5,000, conditioned upon the expenditure of the amount specified in (a) hereof and compliance with the terms and provisions of this lease.

(b) Royalty.—To pay for the output of potassium and all other related products a royalty of ______ per cent, and for the output of sodium compounds a royalty of 12½ per cent, of the gross value thereof at the point of shipment to market. Such royalties shall be paid monthly, the royalties for each month to be paid during the next succeeding month to the register of the United States land district in which the land is situated, or if not in a land district, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

(c) Rents.—To pay the register of the district land office on all leases annually, in advance, beginning with the date of the execution of the lease, the following rentals: Twenty-five cents per acre for the first calendar year or fraction thereof; 50 cents per acre for the second, third, fourth, and fifth years, respectively, and $1 per acre for each and every calendar year thereafter during the continuance of the lease, such rental for any year to be credited against the royalties as they accrue for that calendar year.

(d) Taxes.—To pay when due all taxes assessed and levied under the laws of the State upon the improvements output of mines, or other rights, property, or assets of the lessee.

(e) Monthly statements.—To furnish monthly certified statements in detail in such form as may be prescribed by the lessor of the amount and value of output from the leasehold as a basis for determining amount of royalties. All books and accounts of the lessee shall be open at all times for the inspection by any duly authorized officer of the department. Falsification of such statements shall be a basis for action for the cancellation of the lease.

(f) Plats and reports.—To furnish annually a plat in the manner and form prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior showing all prospecting and development work on the leased lands, and other related information, with a report as to all buildings, structures, or other works placed in or upon said leased lands, as well as any buildings, reduction works, or equipment, situated elsewhere and owned or operated in conjunction with, or as a part of the operations conducted hereunder, accompanied by a report, in detail, as to the stockholders, business transacted, assets and liabilities of the lessee, together with a statement of the amount of potash, and other minerals produced and secured by operations hereunder, and the cost of production thereof.

(g) Potassium in solution.—Where the minerals are taken from the earth in solution, such extraction shall not be within 500 feet of the boundary line of leased lands without permission from the Secretary of the Interior.

(h) Diligence—Prevention of waste—Health and safety of workmen.—To develop and produce in commercial quantities, with reasonable diligence, the potassium and other mineral deposits susceptible of such production in the lands covered hereby; to carry out, at the expense of the lessee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior, or his authorized representatives (mining supervisors, U. S. Geological Survey), issued in pursuance of the operating regulations; to carry on all mining, reducing, refining, and other operations in accordance with approved methods and practice and in conformity with the operating regulations to the satisfaction of said representatives; to take all reasonable precaution to prevent damage to mineral deposits, injury to life, health, or property, or economic waste; to observe all State laws relative to the health and safety of workmen and employees; and to provide access at all times to mining and related productive operations for examination and inspection by authorized representatives of the lessor.

(i) Forfeiture of lease.—To deliver up to the lessor in good order and condition and subject to the provisions of section 5 hereof on the termination of this lease as a result of forfeiture thereof pursuant to section 31 of the act of February 25, 1920, the lands covered thereby, including all fixtures, machinery, improvements, and appurtenances, together with such personal property situate on any of said lands as may be necessary or convenient for the continued operation to the full extent and capacity of the leased premises.

(k) Reserved deposits.—To comply with all statutory requirements where the surface of the lands embraced herein has been disposed of under laws reserving to the United States the mineral deposits therein.

(l) Assignment.—Not to assign or sublet, without the consent of the Secretary of the Interior, the premises covered hereby.

(m) Excess holdings.—To observe faithfully the provisions of section 27 of the act of February 25, 1920, as amended by act of April 30, 1926, in so far as applicable hereto.

(n) Minimum production.—Beginning with the fourth full calendar year of the lease, except when operations are interrupted by strikes, the elements or casualties not attributable to the lessee, to produce each year potassium or associated minerals from the premises covered hereby, to the gross value or not less than ______ dollars at the point of shipment, or to pay royalty on said gross value if the value of actual production be less.

SEC. 3. The lessor expressly reserves:

(a) Easements and rights of way.—The right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way upon, through, or in the lands hereby leased, occupied, or used as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in this act; and the treatment and shipment of the products thereof, by or under authority of the Government, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes.

(b) Disposition of surface.—The right to dispose of the surface of the land embraced herein under existing law, or laws hereafter enacted, in so far as said surface is not necessary for use of the lessee in extracting and removing the deposits therein.

(c) Monopoly and fair prices.—Full power and authority to carry out and enforce all the provisions of section 30 of said act of February 25, 1920, to insure the sale of the production of said leased lands to the United States and to the public at reasonable prices, to prevent monopoly, and to safeguard the public welfare.

SEC. 4. Surrender and termination of lease.—The lessee may, on consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained, surrender and terminate this lease at any time after the first four years of the term herein provided for, by giving six months' notice in writing to the lessor, and upon payment of all rents, royalties, and other debts due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages or moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary of the Interior that the public interest will not be impaired; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines or productive works or permanent improvements on the lands covered by such relinquishment.

SEC. 5. Purchase of materials, etc., on termination of lease.—That on the termination of this lease, by surrender or forfeiture, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee, shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, any or all buildings, machinery, equipment and tools, whether fixtures or personalty, placed by the lessee in or on the land leased hereunder, save and except equipment such as underground timbering, supports, shaft linings, and well casings, necessary for the preservation of the mine or other development works, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation; that the purchase price to be paid for said buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased as aforesaid shall be fixed by appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons (one to be designated by each party thereto and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive; that pending such election to purchase within said period of six months none of said buildings, or other property, shall be removed from their normal position; that at any time within a period of 90 days after election by the lessor not to purchase or after expiration of said period of six months without election by the lessor, the lessee shall have the privilege of removing from the premises said buildings and other property except said underground equipment and structures as aforesaid.

SEC. 6. Judicial proceedings in case of default.—If the lessee shall fail to comply with the provisions of the act, or make default in the performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations hereof, or of the general regulations promulgated and in force at date hereof, and such default shall continue for 90 days after service of written notice thereof by the lessor, then the lessor may institute appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for the forfeiture and cancellation of this lease as provided in section 31 of the act of February 25, 1920. A waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture shall not prevent the cancellation and forfeiture of this lease for any other cause of forfeiture, or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 7. Heirs and successors in interest.—It is further agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 8. Unlawful interest.—It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States, approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1109), relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

18. Operations.—Prospecting and mining operations under permits and leases will be governed by operating regulations, approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Administration of the operating regulations and supervision of operations on permits and leases will be under the direction of the Geological Survey. Before beginning operations permittees and lessées should consult with the mining supervisor of the Geological Survey for the area in which operations are to be conducted and obtain from him a copy of the operating regulations.

19. Limitation on holdings.—The act provides that the general provisions of the act of February 25, 1920, shall be applicable. The Secretary of the Interior is given authority to prescribe necessary and proper rules and regulations, and in view of the limitations fixed by section 27 of the latter act on holdings of permits and leases of the minerals enumerated therein no person, association, or corporation will be granted, either directly or indirectly or by approval of assignments, permits or/and leases for more than 2,560 acres or which will when added to the area already held exceed in the aggregate 2,560 acres in the same potassium prospecting or leasing field, except in cases where, because of the character of the deposits, the capital necessary for their proper development, or other conditions, a larger area is found necessary for economic mining operations and to secure the best development thereof, but in such cases the total shall not exceed 7,680 acres.

20. Repealing and saving clause.—By section 6 of the act, the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), is repealed, with provision that the repeal shall not affect pending applications for permits or leases filed prior to January 1, 1926, or valid claims existing at the passage of the act and thereafter maintained in compliance with the law under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under such law, including discovery.

Under these provisions applications for permits or leases filed prior to January 1, 1926, will be considered under the act of October 2, 1917, and if allowable permits or leases will be issued under said act unless an applicant request permit or lease under the later act.

Pending applications filed under the act of October 2, 1917, subsequent to January 1, 1926, will be allowed to proceed to permits or leases provided the applicants file supplemental applications agreeing to accept permits or leases under the law now in force and pay the filing fees prescribed for applications filed under these regulations

As to potash mining claims, only those claims may be patented which were initiated prior to and were valid existing claims on October 2, 1917, and have since been duly maintained as such.

21. Fees and commissions.—(a) For receiving and acting upon each application for prospecting permit or lease filed in the district land office in accordance with these regulations there shall be paid by the applicant a fee of $2 for every 160 acres or fraction thereof in the application, such fee in no case to be less than $10, the same to be considered as earned when paid and to be credited to the compensation of the register within the limitations provided by law.

(b) Registers shall be entitled to a commission of 1 per cent of all moneys received in each register's office. Such commission will not be collected from the applicant or lessee in addition to the moneys otherwise provided to be paid.

It should be understood that the commissions herein provided for will not affect the disposition of the proceeds arising from operations under the act, as provided in section 35 of the act of February 25, 1920; also that such commissions will be credited on compensation of registers only to the extent of the limitation provided by law for maximum compensation of such officer.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 1127

REGULATIONS REGARDING APPLICATIONS FOR REDUCTION OF GOVERNMENT ROYALTY IN OIL AND GAS LEASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 28, 1927.

Registers of United States Land Offices; Supervisors of Oil and Gas Operations, Geological Survey:

In accordance with authority conferred upon the Secretary of the Interior by section 17 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), which provides that:

> Whenever the average daily production of any oil well shall not exceed 10 barrels per day, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to reduce the royalty on future productions when in his judgment the wells can not be successfully operated upon the royalty fixed in the lease. The provisions of this paragraph shall apply to all oil and gas leases made under this act.

Applications for reduction of royalty in oil and gas leases where the daily production per well per day is 10 barrels or less averaged over the leasehold as a whole for a continuous period of at least three months next preceding the date of application for reduction will be handled in the following manner:

1. Applications for reduction of royalty shall be filed in duplicate in the United States land office of the district in which the land is situated. The register will immediately transmit the original thereof to the Commissioner of the General Land Office by special letter and the duplicate to the supervisor of oil and gas operations of the Geological Survey having jurisdiction in the district.

2. Applications for reduction of royalty will be received for an entire leasehold or on any part of the area thereof segregated for computation of royalties by the terms of the lease, by advertisement, bidding, and award though included in the same lease with other lands, or by approved assignment. All holders of record of the tract must join in the application for reduction of royalty, and the supporting showing must be complete for the entire tract involved.

3. Upon receipt of the duplicate copy of the supervisor of oil and gas operations, Geological Survey, will make investigation of the matters set forth by the applicant and will make prompt report of his findings to the Director of the Geological Survey. The report of the supervisor shall cover particularly the productivity of the wells on the area involved and the extent of the efforts being made by the lessee toward economical and efficient operation; the ability of the lessee to operate the wells at a profit after paying reasonable lifting costs, a reasonable interest on capital honestly and wisely invested, and the Government royalty; and shall include recommendations as to action to be taken in the public interest.

4. The application for reduction of royalty must contain the following information:

(a) Serial number of lease and land district.

(b) Name and address of each holder of the record or legal title.

(c) Name and address of operators or sublessees, if any.

(d) Description by legal subdivision of land for which application is filed.

(e) Plat showing location, field number, and status of each well that has been drilled.

(f) A tabulated statement showing for each month of a period of not less than 6 months next prior to the date of filing of application:

(1) The aggregate amount of oil subject to royalty in conformity with the provisions of section 3 of the operating regulations;

(2) The number of wells counted as producing in accordance with said section of the operating regulations; and

(3) The average production per well per day as determined from oil subject to royalty and count of producing wells.

(g) A detailed statement of expenses and costs of operating the wells, and all facts tending to show whether the wells can be successfully operated upon the royalty fixed in the lease and whether the operator is in good faith doing everything that may be reasonably expected in economic operation. This statement should include full information as to whether, and if so what, royalties are paid to others than the United States, efforts made to reduce them, and agreement of the holders of the lease and of royalty holders to a permanent reduction of all other royalties from the leasehold to an aggregate not in excess of one-half the Government royalty.

AMENDING CIRCULAR NO. 1073, INSTRUCTIONS UNDER SECTION 27 OF THE LEASING ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920 (41 STAT. 437), AS AMENDED BY THE ACT OF APRIL 30, 1926 (44 STAT. 373)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 1, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Circular No. 1073 (51 L. D. 475), approved June 18, 1926, concerning limitations of holdings under section 27 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), as amended by the act of April 30, 1926 (44 Stat. 373), is hereby amended by adding thereto the following paragraph:

While under section 27 as so amended, the limitations as to holdings under the act are governed by the number of acres and not by the number of permits which may be held by the same person, association, or corporation, provided the combined area does not exceed the limitations fixed, there appears to have been no purpose to change the area which may be acquired under lease at a royalty of 5 per cent in case of discovery. Accordingly, oil and gas permits will not be issued nor assignments of such permits approved to the same applicant where the result would be to enable such applicant to acquire under section 14 of the act a right to lease at 5 per cent royalty a larger area than he would be entitled to lease at such royalty had the areas of all the permits been embraced in a single permit and discovery made thereon.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

ABANDONMENT OF WELLS ON OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, April 23, 1928.

The DIRECTOR GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.
The COMMISSIONER GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

GENTLEMEN: The following procedure for abandonment of wells on oil and gas prospecting permits is approved and you will govern yourselves accordingly.

1. Whenever, in the opinion of the supervisor of oil and gas operations, any well on a prospecting permit should be plugged and abandoned, he shall call upon the permittee to perform the necessary work. (See Operating Regulations, sec. 1 (a) and (e).) If steps to perform the required work are not taken with reasonable promptness, the supervisor shall report to the Geological Survey stating the conditions that exist, the efforts made by him to have them corrected, and the results thereof, and the approximate cost of abandoning properly each well involved, and shall make specific recommendation as to the action to be required of the permittee.

2. The Geological Survey will promptly notify the General Land Office, specifying the abandonment work necessary by the permittee.

3. The General Land Office will immediately serve notice by registered mail on the permittee at his record address, through the register of the local land office, allowing 15 days from receipt of notice within which to initiate proceedings looking to the abandonment in accordance with the operating regulations.

4. The General Land Office will transmit by registered mail to the home office of the surety company, bonding the permittee, a copy of such notice, advising the surety company that unless its principal takes steps to comply with the order within the time allowed the Government will protect its interests through appropriate proceedings and will thereafter look to the surety company for reimbursement under the bond.

5. The General Land Office will send two copies of such notices to the Geological Survey, one copy of each notice to be forwarded to the appropriate supervisor of oil and gas operations, Geological Survey.

6. At the expiration of the time allowed the register will report to the General Land Office with evidence of service, at the same time sending a copy of his report to the supervisor of oil and gas operations.

7. Upon receipt of such information from the local land office the supervisor will, if the facts then before his office warrant, confirm the register's report by a report to the Geological Survey.

8. Upon receipt of such report from the supervisor the Geological Survey will immediately notify the General Land Office, reporting all facts in detail including the estimated cost of abandoning each well involved.

9. Upon receipt of such reports from the register and from the Geological Survey the General Land Office will call on the home office of the surety company, furnishing an estimate of the cost of the necessary work and allowing the company 15 days to elect to make the abandonment of its own motion under the supervision of the oil and gas supervisor, Geological Survey, or to indicate what action, if any, it desires to take if and when the work is undertaken by the Government.

10. The General Land Office will notify the Geological Survey of the action taken by the surety company.

11. The Geological Survey will notify the supervisor, and if the surety company does not elect to perform the work on its own motion will, pursuant to the fiscal regulations of that office, authorize the supervisor to proceed with the necessary work of abandonment.

12. On receipt of such authorization from the Geological Survey as may be necessary in a particular case, the supervisor will proceed with the work, keeping a detailed account by well and job of all expenditures. Vouchers submitted by the supervisor for payment should be separated from other expenditures and should be marked to indicate the job to which they relate by serial number of the case record, the name of the permittee, and name of the surety company.

13. The supervisor will upon completion of the work submit to the Geological Survey an itemized detailed account with appropriate references to vouchers, contracts, etc.; this account will be made the basis for procedure to obtain reimbursement.

14. The Geological Survey will submit to the General Land Office a complete report, in duplicate, of the cost incurred in the work of abandonment.

15. The General Land Office will call on the home office of the surety company to make settlement for the amount due, submitting to the company an itemized statement and all related facts, and giving notice that unless the surety company makes settlement within 30 days from notice the entire matter will then be referred to the Department of Justice with recommendation that suit be instituted to recover the amount of expenditure made plus costs.

16. When the expenditure made in the matter of the abandonment is in excess of the bond obligation the supervisor of oil and gas operations will report specifically to the Geological Survey as to the advisability of bringing suit against the permittee to obtain judgment and execution for the full amount expended.

17. The procedure above outlined shall apply where applicable to other defaults by permittees or lessees.

Yours very truly,

E. C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 1147

EXTENSIONS OF TIME FOR DRILLING UNDER OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS—ACTS OF JANUARY 11, 1922, APRIL 5, 1926, AND MARCH 9, 1928—CIRCULARS NOS. 801, 946, 1041, AND 1063, SUPERSEDED [1]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 2, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: The act of Congress approved January 11, 1922 (42 Stat. 356), provides that the Secretary of the Interior may—> if he shall find that any oil or gas permittee has been unable, with the exercise of diligence, to begin drilling operations or to drill wells of the depth and within the time prescribed by section 13 of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920 (Forty-first Statutes, page 437), extend the time for beginning such drilling or completing it, to the amount specified in the act for such time, not exceeding three years, and upon such conditions as he shall prescribe.

The act of April 5, 1926 (44 Stat. 236), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to grant extensions for an additional period of two years—

> if he shall find that the permittee has been unable, with the exercise of reasonable diligence, to begin drilling operations or to drill wells of the depth and within the time required by existing law, or has drilled wells of the depth and within the time required by existing law, and has failed to discover oil or gas, and desires to prosecute further exploration.

By act approved March 9, 1928 (45 Stat. 252), the Secretary is given authority to extend for an additional period of two years any oil or gas prospecting permit issued under the act of February 25, 1920, or extended under the act of January 11, 1922, or as further extended under the act of April 5, 1926—

> if he shall find that the permittee has been unable, with the exercise of reasonable diligence, to begin drilling operations or to drill wells of the depth and within the time required by existing law, or has drilled wells of the depth and within the time required by existing law, and has failed to discover oil or gas, and desires to prosecute further exploration.
> SEC. 2. Upon application to the Secretary of the Interior, and subject to valid intervening rights and to the provisions of section 1 of this Act, any permit which has already expired because of lack of authority under existing law to make further extensions, may be extended for a period of two years from the date of the passage of this Act.

---

Accordingly, the owner of an oil and gas prospecting permit may secure an extension of time thereon for beginning or completing drilling operations by filing an application therefor showing that he is entitled to such extension under the provisions of one of said acts. The application may be filed in the district land office having jurisdiction over the land involved or in General Land Office, and must be under oath or accompanied by the affidavit of the permittee, or his attorney in fact, where such attorney has been given full control of operations under the permit, and corroborated by the affidavit of at least one disinterested person having knowledge of the facts. The applicant must show:

(1) That the corners of the claim have been marked with substantial monuments and that a notice has been posted as required by paragraph 1 of the permit, as there is no provision of law under which the time may be extended for compliance with that requirement.

(2) What efforts, if any, have been made to comply with the terms of the permit, the reasons for delay in the full compliance therewith, and when he expects to commence or resume operations and any arrangements made to drill the permit lands; if the permittee has entered into a contract to drill the land, the application must be supported by the affidavit of the drilling contractor as to the terms of the contract, the means at his command for carrying out the same, and the time when he expects to begin drilling operations thereunder.

(3) The drilling activities on the geologic structure on which the permit land is located, or within 10 miles thereof, and the location of any oil or gas well being drilled by section, township, and range, with full information as to when the well was begun, its approximate depth, and the prospects for discovery of oil or gas.

Contribution development programs proposing a joint test by a group of permittees should be submitted to the department at their inception in order that it may be determined whether, upon the facts disclosed in a given case, any and all permittees proposing to contribute may do so with the assurance that so long as the test is diligently prosecuted through their efforts, but limited to the period provided for in the leasing act and the acts granting extensions, drilling on their own permits will be excused.

If the application for extension of time is based on contribution made by the permittee toward sinking of a test well upon the structure, the location of the well, full disclosure of the amount and nature of such contributions and the conditions under which the same were made must be shown, which showing must be corroborated by the affidavit of one or more or the parties under whose authority the well is being drilled. Every application of this nature will be submitted to the Geological Survey for report, and if the report is unfavorable the application will be rejected subject to appeal. If the Survey shall report that it is without sufficient data as to structures in the region upon which to base any recommendation, only contributions by permittees, any portion of whose permit areas which could be lawfully drilled lies within a 6-mile square formed by going 3 miles in each cardinal direction from the northeast corner of the legal subdivision on which the test well is found, or from the corner nearest which the test well is shown to be found, will be recognized.

The purchase of capital stock of a corporation which is drilling for oil or gas in unproven territory and which is dependent upon the sale of its stock for the continuation of its drilling operations by the holder of a prospecting permit for lands upon the same structure as that where the drilling is carried on may be considered a contribution toward the cost of proving the structure which will warrant allowance of extension of time in which to comply with the terms of his permit, if contribution may be considered acceptable in other respects, and if the stock does not have a market value or is not salable. Clearly, if the stock has a market value the stock is in itself a consideration for the purchase price and there is no contribution as contemplated here. Purchase money for stock which does not go to the corporation or which is not needed or used to meet the cost of testing the structure is not a contribution which can be accepted as sufficient in this connection.

In order to make the purchase of stock acceptable as a contribution applicable in the matter under consideration, the department must be satisfied that the purchase induced the corporation to begin or to continue drilling, when in the absence of such purchase it would not have begun or continued to drill. That does not mean, of course, that the purchaser of stock by one permit holder must be sufficient, in and of itself, as an inducement, but that several permit holders may join in making contributions by means of purchasing stock.

While no rule can be laid down which will govern every case of this nature, the department will insist that contributions shall be substantial, taking into consideration the contributing permit holder's area, the amount that has been expended in the test or the estimated cost thereof, and the sources of means therefor.

Any extension of time to perform one of the acts required by the permit necessarily extends for the same period the time for the performance of all subsequent requirements. Where a permit bond has been filed which does not by its terms cover extension of the permit, the consent of the surety company to an extension of its bond concurrent with the life of the permit as extended will be required (a) where the surface rights are embraced in a prior valid homestead entry, (b) where a reclamation project is involved, and (c) where drilling has been done on the permit land. In the latter case the bond must be kept in force until a $5,000 drilling bond is furnished by the permittee or his contractor at the time the notice of intention to drill is filed with the supervisor of oil and gas operations, Geological Survey, for the district in which the land is located, which bond and drilling plan must be approved by the supervisor before drilling is commenced, as provided by Circular No. 1111.

This circular will supersede Circulars Nos. 801, 946, 1041, and 1063.

You will give the widest publicity to the above regulations that may be possible without expense to the United States.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 1158

RELATIVE TO FEES REQUIRED WITH OIL AND GAS PERMIT APPLICATIONS AND OTHER APPLICATIONS AND SELECTIONS; SECTION 31, CIRCULAR NO. 672, CONSTRUED; CIRCULAR NO. 1115 AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 1, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: There appears to be a lack of uniformity in the action of the different land offices in the matter of fees for oil and gas permit applications. Some offices collect $32 and no more as the maximum amount for lands included in one oil and gas application, while others are collecting $2 additional for any excess acreage above 2,560 acres.

As a matter of equitable administration permits are issued for areas exceeding 2,560 acres by invoking the rule of approximation, and while section 31 of Circular No. 672 provides that the filing fee on an application for permit shall be "$2 for each 160 acres or fraction thereof," that provision is held to apply only to cases involving less than 2,560 acres, and as the law fixes the limit of 2,560 acres in any one case for which a permit may be issued, the maximum fee of $32 only should be charged, in cases where the maximum acreage is exceeded but the rule of approximation is not violated.

Hereafter an application for oil and gas prospecting permit will not effect a segregation of the land applied for if not accompanied by at least the minimum fee of $10. If less than such amount is tendered you will give the application current serial number and allow the applicant 30 days from notice within which to pay the required amount. Should any application for the same land be received in the meantime accompanied by at least the minimum fee the latter application will be given priority over the other.

The above rule as to segregation will also hereafter be applied to agricultural and other kinds of applications or selections where a minimum fee or minimum payment is specified. The minimum fees or payments necessary to gain segregative effect for such other kinds of applications or selections shall be those which are prescribed by existing regulations in connection with the particular application or selection that may be involved.

Provided, however, That where the laws or regulations so plainly express the full amount of fees or other payments required to be made at the time of filing, that no mistaken interpretation thereof could reasonably be made, the amounts tendered by the conflicting applicants when filing their applications may be an element for consideration in the adjudication of their respective priorities, notwithstanding a tender of the minimum fee has been made by all of them.

The minimum fee, as in the case of all other fees, must be in the form prescribed by paragraph 72, Circular No. 616 (46 L. D. 513), approved August 9, 1918, and as amended by the regulations contained in Circular No. 1008 of May 20, 1925 (51 L. D. 148).

In the matter of oil and gas prospecting permit applications filed upon the effective date of cancellation of an oil and gas prospecting permit, the drawing service fee of $10 prescribed by Circular No. 1115, approved March 17, 1927, must accompany the application, together with the proper fee required by paragraph 31 (a) Circular No. 672. However, instead of immediately earning the service fee you will carry it in the unearned account until 10 o'clock a. m., and should no other application be filed, thereby obviating the necessity of a drawing, you will return such fee to the applicant by your official check. If more than one application is filed, thus requiring a drawing, the service fee will be earned as instructed by Circular No. 1115. Where only one application is filed the words "neither returnable nor repayable," will be lined out of the notation required by Circular No. 1115 to be made upon such applications.

All existing regulations not in harmony herewith are modified accordingly.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved August 1, 1928.

REQUIRING PROPER DESCRIPTION OF LAND IN OIL AND GAS APPLICATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 29, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In connection with applications for oil and gas permits filed in your offices it has been found that many of the applications describe lands not in conformity with the latest plat of survey, while in others the description is very uncertain. In a few instances the applicant has described certain tracts by lots or otherwise and added "and all other vacant land within" certain sections or parts of sections.

In order to avoid the uncertainty as to the lands desired and to obviate considerable extra correspondence in relation thereto, you are directed to examine each application in connection with the plats of survey and if discrepancies or uncertainties exist you will immediately advise the applicant thereof and allow him 15 days within which to give a proper description of the land and that upon his failure to do so the application will be considered only as to the tracts of land described in conformity with the latest plats of survey, the balance of the application being rejected.

This matter can be attended to during the period of 30 days you hold the application in your office under the regulations and upon submission of such application to this office you will forward a copy of all the correspondence had with evidence of service and advise as to the action taken by the applicant.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

EXPIRATION OF PROSPECTING PERMITS—ACTS OF OCTOBER 2, 1917, FEBRUARY 25, 1920, AND FEBRUARY 7, 1927

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, December 1, 1928.

Registers, United States land offices.

SIRS: The instructions of April 5, 1924 (Circular No. 926, 50 L. D. 364), are revised to read as follows:

> Action taken by certain district land offices on applications for lands which have been included in prospecting permits outstanding for more than two years indicate that not all district land officials fully understand the status of such permits, and in order that the matter may be made clear, you are instructed as follows:
> Permits to prospect for potash under the acts of October 2, 1917, and February 7, 1927 (Circulars No. 594, 46 L. D. 323, and No. 1120, 52 L. D. 84), and for sodium under the act of February 25, 1920 (Circular No. 699, 47 L. D. 529), are issued for terms of two years without provision for extensions of time. If application for patent or lease, based on claim of discovery within the 2-year period, is not filed, the permit expires by limitation fixed by both the law and the terms of the permit, and is no longer a bar to the allowance of other filings for the land which it embraced. No formal action to terminate the permit is necessary or will ordinarily be taken.
> Coal permits may be extended for a period of two years pursuant to the act of March 9, 1928 (45 Stat. 251). Therefore, a coal permit can not be considered as expired until the full period for which granted and for which it may be extended has elapsed, except permits which expired on or before March 9, 1928, and no extension thereof has been applied for, or permits regularly canceled and the cancellation noted on your records. Where application for lease has not been filed, a coal permit will, at the end of four years from date of issue, be considered no longer in force and no bar to other applications for the lands described therein.

As to oil and gas permits, the law authorizes extensions of time beyond the 2-year period, and such permits are to be considered in force until canceled and the cancellation noted on your tract books in accordance with the governing regulations.

FEDERAL OIL CONSERVATION POLICY

Order No. 337.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 16, 1929.

The Federal oil conservation policy announced by President Hoover will be energetically executed by the Interior Department.

There are more than 5,000 applications for oil and gas permits on public lands pending in the General Land Office in Washington and an unknown number in the field offices. Steps were taken several days ago toward the rejection of all such applications, and registers of local land offices have been instructed not to receive new applications.

Probably in none of the cases on hand has the applicant expended money for developmental purposes, although he may have gone to some expense in opposing conflicting claims or furnishing additional evidence in support of his application.

Where land covered by pending applications is likely to be drained by adjoining wells on privately owned lands, the question of granting permits on Government land will be considered in the light of facts developed by departmental investigation.

With regard to the 20,000 outstanding permits on public lands, the department will deal fairly with holders who have been diligent in maintaining their equities. Where actual drilling operations have been started and are being continued, opportunity will be given to carry on developmental work to finally determine the character of the land. Immediate steps will be taken, however, to cancel all such permits where no drilling has been done or money spent in development.

To determine the facts in connection with existing oil and gas permits, I have named a committee consisting of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the Director of the Geological Survey, and the solicitor for the department. They will consider the extent of operations which have been prosecuted under outstanding permits to determine whether permittees have acquired equities which should be recognized and to make appropriate recommendations.

Where permits are now in good standing, either because of recent issue or previous extension of time, no action will be taken during the remaining period covered by the permit. When that time has expired, however, and the permittee has failed to comply with the terms of his permit, he will be called upon immediately to show cause why the permit should not be canceled. This includes so-called group developments heretofore approved and in which extensions have been allowed, where permittees are engaged in a joint drilling program, test wells being drilled by a responsible drilling company on some of the public lands in the area covered by the permits. So long as this program is being diligently prosecuted, no adverse action will be taken.

No leases will be issued for oil and gas production unless required by mandate of law, such as discovery under existing permits, as provided by the mineral leasing act, or through the advertisement of a minimum of 25,000 acres of Osage Indian lands annually, as directed by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1929.

Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary.

PROCEDURE FOR EXECUTING PUBLIC LAND OIL CONSERVATION POLICY

Order No. 338.

Department of the Interior,
Washington, March 20, 1929.

The following outlines the general procedure in the Department of the Interior for executing the President's public land oil conservation policy:

1. All oil and gas applications and permits pending in the office of the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, under the general leasing act, will be returned to the General Land Office.

2. All oil and gas cases pending in the office of the solicitor will be reviewed to determine their present status. Those coming within the new policy should be returned to the General Land Office.

3. The preparation of letters in the General Land Office calling upon delinquent permittees to show cause why their permits should not be canceled will be expedited.

4. Oil and gas permits now in good standing will not be proceeded against so long as the terms of the permits are being timely complied with.

5. Where a permittee is entitled to a lease because of discovery, it is mandatory to lease only one-fourth of the area, under strict interpretation of the President's oil policy, except that when the permit covers 160 acres or less, the permittee would be entitled to lease the full acreage. The remainder will not be leased unless such action is required in the public interest.

6. The departmental committee, consisting of the Solicitor, the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the Director of the Geological Survey, will consider the extent of operations which have been prosecuted under existing oil and gas permits, to determine whether permittees have acquired equities which should be recognized and make appropriate recommendations to the Secretary. In reviewing permits, representative cases may be recommended for public hearing before the Secretary of the Interior to determine lines of policy.

7. Registers of local land offices will not receive applications for oil and gas permits after March 12, 1929, and will reject all pending applications for permits. They will forward to the General Land Office all applications for extensions of time, etc., relative to outstanding permits.

8. Applications for extension of permits on hand should be disposed of promptly. Those not involving expenditure of money in development work will be denied by the General Land Office. All other cases will be referred to the special committee by memoranda of the General Land Office showing the facts disclosed by the record, and of the Geological Survey as the status of development work.

9. The General Land Office will hold for cancellation, allowing 15 days in which to show cause, all permits on which there is no prima facie evidence that expenditure of money in development work has been made. All other cases should be referred to the special committee by memoranda of the General Land Office showing the facts disclosed by the record and of the Geological Survey as to status of development work.

10. All oil and gas permits in the Geological Survey pending report to the General Land Office will be promptly considered under the new policy. Where these cases involve conflict of agricultural and mineral rights, or questions of similar character, they should be completed by the Geological Survey. All others should be returned to the General Land Office with appropriate report when such is required under the new policy; otherwise without report.

11. Supervisors of oil and gas operations in the Geological Survey must deny approval to notices of intention to drill on permits that are not shown to be in good standing by the terms of the permit itself or an approved extension of time.

12. The Geological Survey will report to the Secretary on the liklihood of oil and gas drainage of Government lands in various producing and wildcatting fields where a claim of drainage is made. The special committee will consider the question of drainage only when incidentally involved in individual permits before it for consideration.

13. Permits issued and outstanding in Executive order Indian reservations under the act of March 3, 1927, will be considered and disposed of in the same manner as provided in the foregoing paragraphs.[30]

Ray Lyman Wilbur,
Secretary of the Interior.

AMPLIFICATION OF INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO FEDERAL OIL CONSERVATION POLICY

Department of the Interior,
Washington, April 4, 1929.

On April 1, 1929, a committee of attorneys representing certain oil companies interested in the development of oil and gas in public land States presented five points on which an amplification of the Secretary of the Interior's orders of March 16 and 20 was requested. The questions were placed before the special committee of the department appointed to handle oil and gas cases arising under the new policy. This committee on April 3, 1929, made the following report and recommendations, in which Secretary Wilbur concurred.

(1) Applications for permits filed prior to March 12, 1929, should not be rejected by a blanket order without right of appeal. The circumstances surrounding each application should be examined into and the individual applicant, in each instance, should be permitted to show cause why his application should be granted. If the applicant has acted in good faith in making or causing to be made geological examinations and/or improvements and/or expenditures tending toward the development of the property, the permit should issue. Pending applications for permits, otherwise allowable, should be granted where there has been a prolonged delay on the part of the Government in acting thereon without fault of the applicant.

Answer. The President's policy clearly contemplates the disallowance of unapproved permits. This relates to unapproved applications for oil and gas prospecting permits. The law vests in the Secretary discretion to refuse permits. The regulations adopted by the then Secretary of the Interior just after passage of the law so provide. Presumptively no applicant has spent money for development—if he did, it was without departmental permission or knowledge. Other expenses such as general geological surveys, searching for vacant lands, filing fees, etc., do not in our opinion furnish basis for equitable allowance. No applicant was guaranteed the right to file. In fact priority depended on being first to file his application, not upon money expended in preparing to do so.

(2) Permits and leases, and applications for either of them, covering lands which apparently are valuable only or principally for the production of natural gas, should be excepted from the restrictive orders, rules and regulations of the Government relating to the conservation of oil, provided there is an economic demand for such gas.

Answer. Where production of natural gas is shown on lands included in existing permits in good standing, if there be an economic demand for such gas, the particular circumstances in each case or locality should govern. Because of the public interest involved, the effort should be to meet the needs of all existing contracts with municipalities or public utilities, but the approval of each program of development for such gas supplies should be conditioned upon meeting present demand without waste so as to provide the longest possible life of each field for this beneficial use of the gas. Equities and expenditures in development of permit areas, in development of groups of permits heretofore approved, for pipe lines under existing arrangements, or contracts to supply municipalities, should be considered.

(3) Permits embraced within so-called group development or contribution projects, where permittees are engaged in a joint-drilling program, should be entitled to such further extensions of time as may be allowable under existing laws, so long as said program or any other approved program, is being diligently prosecuted.

Answer. Group or contributory development should not be authorized in any cases in future. Where group or contributory development programs have been authorized in the past, the department has granted specific extensions of time on permits on the promise of an operator to do specified development work substantially equivalent to the combined requirements of the individual permits concerned, and the Government has in every case lived up to its end of the bargain. The operators, to show good faith to the permittees as well as to the Government, should complete the promised development work at least 60 days prior to the expiration of the period of extension in order that permittees may, if appropriate, make application for leases earned by discovery, make timely plans for drilling on individual permits substantially proved by discovery, make plans for further exploratory drilling, etc. At no time has the department agreed to grant successive extensions of time until a large area should be proved up and permit the operator to delay selection of leasing areas until that end had been accomplished. On the contrary each program has been for a limited time with future extensions, if any, to be considered on their merits in the light of conditions existing at or near the expiration of extensions granted. Under present conditions, if the operator has completed his development program on the basis of which extensions were granted, further action should follow the rules applicable to individual-permit cases, no legal or equitable right to other action having been earned by completing work promised in payment for special consideration previously granted. If, with good reason, the operator has failed to make timely completion of the work he promised to do, limited extensions on permits on which promised work is in progress may be made.

(4) In the event of discovery on a permit, both A and B leases covering all the land in said permit should issue upon application therefor. The rights of the permittee, lessee and operator would thus be defined.

Answer. The law mandatorily requires the lease of one-fourth upon discovery. Leasing of the remainder is discretionary and should not issue upon the application of the permittee, unless and until such action is required in the public interest.

(5) It is recognized that true conservation should neither encourage nor demand the drilling of wells on individual permits or leases, except in response to market requirements. (See Federal Oil Committee of Nine conservation report of January 28, 1928, to the Federal Oil Conservation Board.) Practical effect to this should be given by extension or suspension of drilling requirements under both permits and leases, this preserving existing rights and equities thereunder.

Answer. As to leases when issued after discovery of oil or gas, the Secretary can and should relieve from drilling additional wells or from the production of oil from existing wells upon request of the lessee, and this should be the procedure, the relief in each case being made subject to such conditions as are justified. As to approved existing permits in good standing, the law contemplates development and drilling on permits with diligence to a discovery. Cases may arise, however, where, because of existing or threatened excess production or for other reasons in the public interest, the Secretary of the Interior, may, on his own initiative, request cessation of development operations in specific areas, such cessation to be accompanied by equivalent extension of time or suspension of permits.

EQUITIES RECOGNIZED UNDER OIL CONSERVATION POLICY

Department of the Interior,
May 3, 1929.

In carrying out the President's oil conservation policy, the committee of the Department of the Interior, for consideration of pending claims, has made a recommendation concerning possible equities in oil and gas cases where adequate geological surveys have been carried on. The recommendation which was approved by the Secretary of the Interior, is as follows:

> We recommend that in all cases where clear and definite evidence is filed showing substantial expenditures for reliable geological surveys upon the lands embraced in oil and gas applications and permits, or groups of applications upon the same structure or where the structure is not clearly defined upon the surface, within an area not exceeding six miles square as provided in existing regulations, that the same be regarded as a sufficient equitable basis for the allowance of the applications pending on March 12, 1929, and issuance of permits thereon, or where permits have already issued and requests for extension are timely filed, that it be regarded as sufficient equitable ground for extension of such permits. Geological work may be distinguished from ordinary preliminary expenditures as the latter do not operate for the benefit or enlightenment of the Government, whereas geological work supplies information which is to the advantage of and may be used by the Government in the classification and disposition of the public lands and their resources. This is to be contingent upon a showing of good faith and of responsible diligence on the part of the applicants, permittees or those claiming through or under them.

Circular No. 1194

SODIUM REGULATIONS—PERMITS AUTHORIZING EXPLORATION OF PUBLIC LANDS FOR SODIUM

[Superseding Circular No. 699]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 14, 1929,

Registers, United States land offices.

Sirs: The act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain" (41 Stat. 437), as amended by the act approved December 11, 1928 (45 Stat. 1019), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to issue prospecting permits, for a period not to exceed two years, for the exploration of the land described therein for sodium in any of the forms named in said act, and under authority thereof the following rules and regulations will govern the issuance of such permits:

1. Qualifications of applicants.—Permits may be issued to (a) citizens of the United States, (b) an association of such citizens, (c) or a corporation organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof.

2. Lands to which applicable.—The permit thus issued may include not more than 2,560 acres of public lands of the United States in reasonably compact form, by legal subdivisions if surveyed; if unsurveyed, by metes-and-bounds description.

3. Rights under permit.—The permit will confer upon the recipient the exclusive right to prospect for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, or nitrates of sodium on the lands embraced therein. In the exercise of this right the permittee shall be authorized to remove from the premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work and the demonstration of the existence of such deposits or any of them in commercial quantities.

4. Reward for discovery.—If the permittee within the two years specified shall discover valuable deposits of one or more of the forms of sodium as described in said act within the area covered by his permit, such discovery shall entitle him to a lease of any or all of the land embraced in the permit containing such deposits and chiefly valuable therefor, the area to be taken in compact form. The discovery of a valuable deposit of sodium under this permit shall be construed as the discovery of a deposit which yields commercial sodium in commercial quantities.

5. Camp sites.—In addition to land embraced in the permit the Secretary may, in his discretion, issue to the permittee, during the life of the permit, the exclusive right to use a tract of unoccupied, nonmineral public land, not exceeding 40 acres in area, for purposes connected with and necessary to the development of the deposits covered by the permit, subject to the payment of an annual rental of not less than 25 cents per acre.

6. Form and contents of application.—Applications for permits should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and after due notation promptly forwarded for his consideration. No specific form of application is required, but it should cover, in substance, the following points, namely:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant; by affidavit of such fact, if native born; or, if naturalized, by the certificate thereof or affidavit as to time and place when issued; if a corporation, by certified copy of the articles of incorporation thereof, and showing as to residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(c) A statement of all holdings by the applicant of permits and leases under the sodium provisions of this act and pending applications therefor and interests, directly or indirectly, held in such permits and leases.

(d) Description of the land for which the permit is desired, by legal subdivisions, if surveyed, and by metes and bounds, if unsurveyed, in which latter case, if deemed necessary, a survey sufficient more fully to identify and segregate the land may be required before the permit is granted; also a statement whether the land is vacant and unclaimed.

(e) Reasons why the land is believed to offer a favorable field for prospecting.

(f) Proposed method of conducting exploratory operations, amount of capital available for such operations, and the diligence with which such explorations will be prosecuted.

(g) Statement of the applicant's experience in operations of this nature, together with references as to his character, reputation, and business standing.

7. On the receipt of the application, if found in compliance with the terms of the act, a permit will issue and the district land office be promptly notified thereof.

8. Bonds.—Where an application includes reserved deposits in lands theretofore entered or patented with reservation of sodium to the United States, pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), or where the lands constitute a portion of a reclamation project, the applicant will be required prior to issuance of the permit to furnish a bond with qualified corporate surety in the sum of $1,000, or such other amount as may be fixed, conditioned against damage to the crops and improvements of the surface owner, or damage to the reclamation project or water supply thereof.

A bond with qualified corporate surety in the sum of $1,000, or such other amount as may be fixed, conditioned against failure of the permittee to comply with the provisions of paragraph 5 of the permit, may be required either before or after the permit is issued, where the conditions are such as to warrant requiring such bond.

9. Form of permit.—The form of permit issued under this act will be in substance as follows:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

SODIUM PROSPECTING PERMIT

Know all men by these presents, that the Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of the act of Congress entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," approved February 25, 1920, as amended by the act approved December 11, 1928, has granted and does hereby grant a permit to ______________________________ of the exclusive right for a period of two years from date hereof to prospect the following-described lands __________________________ for chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, or nitrates of sodium, but for no other purpose, upon the express conditions as follows, to wit:

1. To begin the prospecting for said minerals within 90 days from date hereof and to diligently prosecute the exploration and experimental work during the period of such permit in the manner and extent as follows, to wit:

2. To remove from said premises only such material as may be necessary to experimental work and the demonstration of the existence of such deposits in commercial quantities, to keep a record of all material removed, and to pay a royalty of 12½ per cent of the sale value at point of shipment of all material sold.

3. To afford all facility for inspection of such exploratory work on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior and to report fully when required all matters pertaining to the character, progress, and results of such exploratory work, and to that end to keep and maintain such accounts, logs, or other records as the Secretary of the Interior may require.

4. Not to assign or transfer the permit granted hereby without the express consent in writing of the Secretary of the Interior.

5. To carry out, at the expense of the permittee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior or his authorized representatives (mining supervisors, United States Geological Survey) issued in pursuance of the operating regulations; to carry on all operations hereunder in accordance with approved methods and practice and in conformity with the operating regulations, to the satisfaction of said representatives; to take all reasonable precautions to prevent waste of or damage to mineral deposits, injury to life, health, or property, or economic waste; and to repair promptly, so far as possible, any damage to mineral deposits or mineral-bearing formations resulting from his operations.

6. To furnish such bond or bonds with qualified corporate surety as the Secretary of the Interior may at any time require, conditioned against the failure of the permittee to comply with the provisions of paragraph 5 hereof, and against damage to the crops and improvements of any surface owner entitled to such bond or damages to any reclamation project embracing any of the lands herein described.

Expressly reserving to the Secretary of the Interior the right to permit for joint or several use such easements or right of way upon, through, or in the lands covered hereby as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in said act; and further reserving the right and authority to cancel this instrument for failure of the permittee to exercise due diligence in the execution of the prospecting work in accordance with the terms hereof.

Valid existing rights, acquired prior hereto, on the lands described herein, will not be affected hereby.

Dated ____________________.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO LEASES FOR LANDS CONTAINING SODIUM

Section 24, as amended by the act of December 11, 1928 (45 Stat. 1019), authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to lease public lands containing valuable deposits of chlorides, sulphates, carbonates, borates, silicates, or nitrates of sodium. In order to carry out the provisions of the law relating to sodium leases, the following regulations are hereby prescribed.

1. Qualifications of applicants.—Applications for leases in the form as herein provided may be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office by citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens, or corporations organized under the laws of any State or Territory thereof; the qualifications of the applicant in this respect to be fully covered by the application.

2. Area and description.—Leases are authorized by the terms of the act for an area not exceeding 2,560 acres, but will be granted for such area as may be shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior to contain valuable deposits of sodium, and will be limited to lands reasonably compact in form and described by legal subdivisions of the public land surveys, if surveyed, or if unsurveyed, by survey made at the expense of the applicant if the application for lease is otherwise found satisfactory.

3. Action by register.—Applications when filed with the district land office will be given the current serial number, promptly noted of record and transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, accompanied with a statement as to the status of the lands embraced therein. After the receipt of such applications, no applications, filings, or selections for the lands embraced therein will be permitted until so directed, except applications for leases under this act.

4. Notice of application.—When an application for a lease is filed in the district land office, notice thereof shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a general newspaper to be designated by the register, published in the county where the lands are situated, describing the lands embraced therein, stating the purpose of the application and that it will be submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for action within 30 days from the date fixed therein, advising all adverse claimants or protestants that if they desire to object or protect any interest as against the application, prompt action to that end should be taken; and further advising the public that any other applications for lease of the same lands may be filed at any time during said period of publication without publication of notice of said second or further application, in which case application so filed will be considered as prescribed in section 5 hereof. Proof of publication will be required prior to action by the commissioner on the application for lease.

5. Action in General Land Office.—On the receipt of the application or applications in the General Land Office the same will be considered, investigation made if deemed necessary, and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with appropriate recommendation and report as to the proper action to be taken thereon, giving due consideration to the proposed effectual development of the alleged sodium deposits, and the amount of capital to be invested therein; the award of priority in case of conflicting applications to be determined by the respective proposed investments, date of productive development proposed by the several applicants, and any equities that may exist in one or more of the applicants resulting from improvement or development under claims made under other laws.

In the award of lease of any lands or deposits hereunder the right is reserved to order a sale of the lease at public auction to the bidder offering the highest cash bonus for lease thereof on such terms as may be prescribed for lease of the lands, in which case any application for lease theretofore filed will give the applicant no priority or preference in securing a lease of the lands.

6. Lease by permittee.—The permittee has a preference right within the two years of his permit to file application to lease any or all of the land included in his permit, upon showing to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that he has discovered a valuable deposit of sodium thereon.

7. Verity of statements.—The verity of all representations contained in applications for leases shall be deemed an essential thereto, and a moving consideration to the award of a lease, if such action is taken; misrepresentations in this respect will be treated as a proper ground for proceedings in forfeiture, as provided in section 31 of the act.

8. Lease a waiver of other claims.—The acceptance of a lease under the provisions of this act will be construed as a waiver and relinquishment of all claims on the part of the applicant for any lands embraced within said lease and claimed under the provisions of any other law.

9. Operations.—Prospecting and mining operations under permits and leases will be governed by operating regulations, approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Administration of the operating regulations and supervision of operations on permits and leases will be under the direction of the Geological Survey. Before beginning operations permittees and lessees should consult with the mining supervisor of the Geological Survey for the area in which operations are to be conducted and obtain from him a copy of the operating regulations.

10. Royalty and rentals.—The rate of royalty will be fixed prior to the issuance of the lease, but in no case can the royalty rate be less than 2 per cent of the quantity or gross value of the output of the sodium compounds and other related products, at the point of shipment to market.

The rentals fixed by the act are to be paid annually in advance—25 cents per acre or fraction of an acre for the first calendar year or fraction thereof, 50 cents per acre for the second, third, fourth, and fifth years, respectively, and $1 per acre for each year thereafter, such rental for any year being credited against royalties accruing for that year.

11. Form and contents of application.—Applications for leases must be under oath and should be filed in the proper district land office, addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. No specific form of application is required, and no blanks will be furnished, but it should cover in substance the following points:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) Proof of citizenship of applicant, by affidavit of such fact, if native born; if naturalized, by a certified copy of a certificate thereof in the form provided for use in public-land matters, unless such copy is on file. If the applicant is an association, each member thereof must show his qualifications as above stated; if a corporation, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation must be filed, together with a showing as to the residence and citizenship of its stockholders.

(c) A statement of all holdings by the applicant of permits and leases under the sodium provisions of this act, pending applications therefor, and interests directly or indirectly held in such permits and leases.

(d) Description of land for which the lease is desired, by legal subdivisions if surveyed, and by metes and bounds if unsurveyed, in which latter case the description should be connected to some corner of the public-land surveys where practicable, or to some permanent landmark. If the land is unsurveyed, the applicant, after he has public survey office of the district in which the land is located the estimated cost of making a survey of the lands, any balance remaining after the work is completed to be returned. This survey will be an extension of the public-land surveys over the tract applied for, the leased land to be conformed to legal subdivisions of such survey when made.

(e) Evidence that the land is valuable for its sodium content, except so much thereof as is necessary for the extraction and reduction of the leased minerals, with a statement as accurate as may be of the character and extent and mode of occurrence of the sodium deposits in the lands applied for.

(f) Proposed method, so far as determined, as to the process of mining and reduction to be adopted, the diligence with which such operations will be carried on, and the contemplated investment in reduction works and development, and the capital available therefor.

(g) The application shall be accompanied by a notice for publication, in duplicate, prepared for the signature of the register, in substantially the following form:

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR SODIUM LEASE

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920, as amended by the act approved December 11, 1928, ____________________, whose post-office address is __________________, has made application for sodium lease covering the following described lands: __________________________

Any and all persons claiming adversely any of the above-described lands are required to file their claims in this office on or before ___________________; otherwise their claims will be disregarded in the granting of such lease.

Other applications for lease of the described lands may be filed at any time prior to said date, in which case all applications so filed will be considered, as prescribed by section 5 of the Sodium Regulations.

_______________________, Register.

The register will fix the time within which adverse or conflicting claims may be filed at not less than 30 nor more than 40 days from first publication.

12. Disposition of application.—(a) The application will be given the current serial number by the register, will be noted on his records, and the notice for publication will be signed by him.

(b) One copy of the signed notice will be delivered to the applicant, who will cause the same to be published in a newspaper to be designated by the register, of general circulation, and best adapted to give the widest publicity in the county where the land is situated. If the land is in two or more counties, notice may be published in either. Notice must also be posted in the local land office during the period of publication.

(c) At the expiration of the period of publication the evidence of publication and posting in said office should be promptly transmitted by the register to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with a statement of the status of the land involved as to conflicts, withdrawals, protests, and any other matters that may be necessary to determine the availability of the land or deposits therein for lease.

13. Form of lease.—

SODIUM LEASE

Date—Parties.—This indenture of lease entered into in quintuplicate this ___________day of ______________________, 19__, by and between the United States of America, acting in this behalf by the Secretary of the Interior, party of the first part, hereinafter called the lessor, and ___________________________, party of the second part, hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium on the public domain," as amended by the act of December 11, 1928 (45 Stat. 1019), hereinafter referred to as the act, which is made a part hereof, witnesseth:

SECTION 1. Purposes.—That the lessor, in consideration of the rents and royalties to be paid, and the covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to mine, remove, and dispose of all the sodium and associated minerals in, upon, or under the following described tracts of land situated in the County of _________________, State of ______________________, and more particularly described as follows, to wit: ______________________________________containing ______ acres, more or less, together with the right to construct and maintain thereupon all works, buildings, plants, waterways, or reservoirs necessary to the full enjoyment hereof, together also with the right to use any timber, stone, or other materials on said land in connection with the operations to be conducted hereunder, for the period of 20 years, with preference right in the lessee to renew for successive periods of 10 years each upon such reasonable terms and conditions as the party of the first part may determine: Provided, That this lease shall extend only to or include any right or interest in the lands, or the minerals therein, reserved to the United States under any entry that may be allowed, or patent that may issue, or may have issued, with a reservation of minerals to the United States.

SEC. 2. In consideration of the foregoing the lessee hereby agrees:

(a) To invest in actual development, or improvements, upon the land leased, or for the benefit thereof, the sum of __________ dollars, of which sum not less than one-third shall be so expended during the first year succeeding the execution of this instrument and a like sum each of the two succeeding years, unless sooner expended; and submit annually, at the expiration of each year for the said period, an itemized statement of the amount and character of said expenditure during such year.

To furnish and maintain a bond with approved corporate surety in the sum of $5,000, conditioned upon the expenditure of the amount specified in (a) hereof, and upon compliance with the terms and provisions of this lease.

(b) Royalty.—To pay a royalty of ______ per cent of the quantity or gross value of the output of sodium compounds and other related products at the point of shipment to market. Such royalty shall be paid monthly, the royalty for each month to be paid during the next succeeding month to the register of the United States land district in which the land is situated, or if not in a land district, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

(c) Rents.—To pay the register of the district land office on all leases annually, in advance, beginning with the date of the execution of the lease, the following rentals: 25 cents per acre for the first calendar year or fraction thereof; 50 cents per acre for the second, third, fourth, and fifth calendar years, respectively; and $1 per acre for each and every calendar year thereafter during the continuance of the lease, such rental for any year to be credited against the royalties as they accrue for that year.

(d) Taxes.—To pay when due all taxes assessed and levied under the laws of the State upon the improvements, output of mines, or other rights, property, or assets of the lessee.

(e) Monthly statements.—To furnish monthly certified statements in detail in such form as may be prescribed by the lessor of the amount and value of output from the leasehold as a basis for determining amount of royalties. All books and accounts of the lessee shall be open at all times for the inspection by any duly authorized officer of the department. Falsification of such statements shall be a basis for action for the cancellation of the lease.

(f) Plats and reports.—To furnish annually a plat in the manner and form prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior showing all prospect and development work on the leased lands, and other related information, with a report as to all buildings, structures, or other works placed in or upon said leased lands, or on lands covered by permit issued under section 25 of the act, as well as any buildings, reduction works, or equipment, situated elsewhere and owned or operated in conjunction with, or as a part of, the operations conducted hereunder, accompanied by a report, in detail, as to the stockholders, business transacted, assets and liabilities of the lessee, together with a statement of the amount of sodium, and other minerals produced and secured by operations hereunder, and the cost of production thereof.

(g) Sodium in solution.—Where the minerals are taken from the earth in solution, such extraction shall not be within 500 feet of the outer boundaries of the land covered hereby without permission from the Secretary of the Interior, unless the adjoining lands have been patented or the title thereto otherwise vested in private owners.

(h) Diligence—Prevention of waste—Health and safety of workmen.—To develop and produce in commercial quantities, with reasonable diligence, the sodium and other mineral deposits susceptible of such production in the lands covered hereby; to carry out, at the expense of the lessee, all reasonable orders of the Secretary of the Interior, or, his authorized representatives (mining supervisors, United States Geological Survey), issued in pursuance of the operating regulations; to carry on all mining, reducing, refining, and other operations in accordance with approved methods and practice and in conformity with the operating regulations to the satisfaction of said representatives; to take all reasonable precaution to prevent damage to mineral deposits, injury to life, health, or property, or economic waste; to observe all State laws relative to the health and safety of workmen and employees; and to provide access at all times to mining and related productive operations for examination and inspection by authorized representatives of the lessor.

(i) Forfeiture of lease.—To deliver up to the lessor in good order and condition and subject to the provisions of section 5 hereof on the termination of this lease as a result of forfeiture thereof pursuant to section 31 of the act of February 25, 1920, the lands covered thereby, together with any land permission for the use of which has been granted under and pursuant to the provisions of section 25 of said act, including all fixtures, machinery, improvements, and appurtenances, together with such personal property situate on any of said lands as may be necessary or convenient for the continued operation to the full extent and capacity of the leased premises.

(k) Reserved deposits.—To comply with all statutory requirements where the surface of the lands embraced herein has been disposed of under laws reserving to the United States the mineral deposits therein.

(l) Assignment.—Not to assign or sublet, without the consent of the Secretary of the Interior, the premises covered hereby.

(m) Excess holdings.—To observe faithfully the provisions of section 27 of the act of February 25, 1920, as amended by the act of April 30, 1926, in so far as applicable hereto.

(n) Minimum production.—Beginning with the fourth full calendar year of the lease, except when operations are interrupted by strikes, the elements, or casualties not attributable to the lessee, to produce each year sodium or associated minerals from the premises covered hereby, to the gross value of not less than __________ dollars at the point of shipment, or to pay royalty on said gross value if the value of production be less.

SEC. 3. The lessor expressly reserves:

(a) Easements and rights of way.—The right to permit for joint or several use such easements or rights of way upon, through, or in the lands hereby leased, occupied, or used as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of the same, or of other lands containing the deposits described in this act; and the treatment and shipment of the products thereof, by or under authority of the Government, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes.

(b) Disposition of surface.—The right to dispose of the surface of the land embraced herein under existing law, or laws hereafter enacted, in so far as said surface is not necessary for use of the lessees in extracting and removing the deposits therein.

(c) Monopoly and fair prices.—Full power and authority to carry out and enforce all the provisions of section 30 of said act to insure the sale of the production of said leased lands to the United States and to the public at reasonable prices, to prevent monopoly, and to safeguard the public welfare.

SEC. 4. Surrender and termination of lease.—The lessee may, on consent of the Secretary of the Interior first had and obtained, surrender and terminate this lease at any time after the first four years of the term herein provided for, by giving six months' notice in writing to the lessor, and upon payment of all rents, royalties, and other debts due and payable to the lessor, and upon payment of all wages or moneys due and payable to the workmen employed by the lessee, and upon a satisfactory showing to the Secretary of the Interior that the public interest will not be impaired; but in no case shall such termination be effective until the lessee shall have made provision for the preservation of any mines or productive works or permanent improvements on the lands covered by such relinquishment.

SEC. 5. Purchase of materials, etc., on termination of lease.—That on the termination of this lease, by surrender or forfeiture, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee, shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, any or all buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools, whether fixtures or personalty, placed by the lessee in or on the land leased hereunder, or on lands covered by permit under section 25 of the act, save and except equipment such as underground timbering, supports, shaft linings, and well casings, necessary for the preservation of the mine or other development works, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation; that the purchase price to be paid for said buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased as aforesaid shall be fixed by appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons (one to be designated by each party thereto and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive; that pending such election to purchase within said period of six months none of said buildings or other property shall be removed from their normal position; that at any time within a period of 90 days after election by the lessor not to purchase or after expiration of said period of six months without election by the lessor, the lessee shall have the privilege of removing from the premises said buildings and other property except said underground equipment and structures as aforesaid.

SEC. 6. Judicial proceedings in case of default.—If the lessee shall fail to comply with the provisions of the act, or make default in the performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, and stipulations hereof, or of the general regulations promulgated and in force at date hereof, and such default shall continue for 90 days after service of written notice thereof by the lessor, then the lessor may institute appropriate proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction for the forfeiture and cancellation of this lease as provided in section 31 of the act. A waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture shall not prevent the cancellation and forfeiture of this lease for any other cause of forfeiture, or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 7. Heirs and successors in interest.—It is further agreed that each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 8. Unlawful interest.—It is also further agreed that no Member of or Delegate to Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (sec. 22, Title 41 U. S. C.), and sections 114, 115, and 116 of the Codification of the Penal Laws of the United States, approved March 4, 1909 (35 Stat. 1109, secs. 204, 205, and 206 of Title 18, U. S. C.), relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

USE PERMITS FOR CAMP SITE AND REFINING WORKS

Section 25 of the act of February 25, 1920, provides that in addition to areas which may be included in prospecting permits or leases, the Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, may grant to a permittee or lessee of lands containing sodium deposits, and subject to the payment of an annual rental of not less than 25 cents per acre, the exclusive right to use, during the life of the permit or lease, a tract of unoccupied nonmineral public land, not exceeding 40 acres in area for camp sites, refining works, and other purposes connected with and necessary to the proper development and use of the deposits covered by the permit or lease.

In accordance with the provisions of this section the following regulations are prescribed, by which a permittee or lessee under the act may acquire the right therein granted.

1. Application may be made by the permittee or lessee identifying by serial number his permit or lease, setting forth in detail the specific reasons why it is necessary for the applicant to have the use of an additional tract of land for a camp site, refining works, or other purposes, connected with and necessary to the proper development and use of the deposits covered by the permit or lease.

2. The application should contain a description of the lands by legal subdivisions, if surveyed, or, if not surveyed, by the approximate description thereof as it will appear when surveyed, for which the right of use is desired, together with a statement of the particular reasons why it is especially adapted thereto, either in point of location, topography, or otherwise, and that it is unoccupied, nonmineral land.

3. Use permits granted hereunder will be for indeterminate periods, dependent in that respect upon the existence of the permit or lease made the basis of the right authorized by section 25; upon the termination of such permit or lease all rights secured hereby will also cease and terminate, and such condition shall be expressly recognized and stated in the application.

4. No blank forms of application will be furnished to applicants hereunder, but they will be guided by the foregoing as to the essential requirements of the application, which will be verified by the affidavit of the applicant.

5. The rental of not less than 25 cents per acre must be paid the register of the proper local land office as soon as applicant is notified of the allowance of the permit, and a like sum each year thereafter in advance.

IV

FORM OF USE PERMIT FOR CAMP SITE OR REFINING WORKS

The form of use permit issued under section 25 of the act of February 25, 1920, will be in substance as follows:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

USE PERMIT

Know all men by these presents, that the Secretary of the Interior, under and by virtue of section 25 of the act of Congress entitled "An act to promote the mining of coal, phosphate, oil, oil shale, gas, and sodium, on the public domain," approved February 25, 1920, has granted to and does hereby grant to ______________________________ the holder of __________, bearing serial number ________, the exclusive right, so long as needed, used, and occupied, to use, during the life of the aforesaid ______________________________, the following described tract of land, to wit: __________________________, for a camp site, refining works, and other purposes connected with and necessary to the proper development and the use of the deposits covered by the aforesaid ________________________, all rights hereunder to cease and terminate upon the termination of the aforesaid ____________________, and conditioned upon the payment in advance of 25 cents per acre for the area covered hereby.

Dated, ____________________.

__________________________,
Secretary of the Interior.

V

REPEALING CLAUSE, ETC.

Repealing and saving clause.—Section 37 of the act provides that hereafter the deposits of coal, phosphate, sodium, oil, oil shale, and gas referred to and described in the act may be disposed of only in the manner provided by the act, " except as to valid claims existent at date of passage of this act, and thereafter maintained in compliance with the laws under which initiated, which claims may be perfected under said laws, including discovery." As to sodium claims, those claims initiated under the preexisting law may go to patent which, at the date of the act, were valid mining locations, duly made and maintained as such on lands subject to such location at the date initiated.

Fees and commissions.—(a) For receiving and acting upon each application for prospecting permit or lease filed in the district land office in accordance with these regulations, there shall be paid by the applicant a fee of $2 for every 160 acres or fraction thereof in the application, such fee in no case to be less than $10, the same to be considered as earned when paid and to be credited to the compensation of the register within the limitations provided by law.

(b) Registers shall be entitled to a commission of 1 per cent of all moneys received in each register's office. Such commission will not be collected from the applicant or lessee in addition to the moneys otherwise provided to be paid.

It should be understood that the commissions herein provided for will not affect the disposition of the proceeds arising from operations under the act, as provided in section 35 thereof; also that such commissions will be credited on compensation of registers only to the extent of the limitation provided by law for maximum compensation of such officers.

Very respectfully,

C. C. MOORE, Commissioner.

Approved June 14, 1929.

JOS. M. DIXON,
Acting Secretary.

MINNESOTA LANDS

[Reported, 45 L. D. 40]

Circular No. 470[1]

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE MINNESOTA DRAINAGE LAWS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., April 15, 1916.

Registers and Receivers, Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

Sirs: The instructions contained in Circular No. 234, approved April 24, 1913 (42 L. D. 104), issued under the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), known as the Volstead Act, are hereby revised and amended to read as follows:

1. All public lands in the State of Minnesota which are subject to entry, and entered lands for which no final certificates have issued, are by said act made subject to the State drainage laws to the same extent and in the same manner in which lands of like character held in private ownership are or may be subject to said laws.

2. The provisions of the act do not extend the Minnesota drainage laws to entered lands for which final certificates have issued. Lands allotted or reserved for Indians, or reserved for any other purpose, are not subject to the provisions of the act; nor are Chippewa lands classified as "pine lands," until the same have been opened to entry.

3. The lands are assessed under the State drainage laws by the designated officials of the counties in which the lands are located. The county auditor is required to file in the office of register of deeds a statement showing the drainage charges, and such charges are a lien upon the land from the date of the filing of such statement, and bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid. Certified lists showing the amount of the charges assessed against each smallest legal subdivision are required by the act to be furnished the register and receiver of the district in which the lands are located as soon as the charges are assessed. It is the duty of the district land officers to compare said lists with the records of their office, and if any charges are assessed against land which is not subject to the State drainage laws, such as those mentioned in regulation 2, they will promptly notify the county auditor thereof, and advise him that the lands are not subject to sale thereunder.

4. The charges against the Government lands subject thereto may, under section 3 of the act, be enforced by a sale of the lands by the State in the same manner and under the same proceedings as such charges would be enforced against lands held in private ownership.

[1] Amended by circulars of Jan. 26, 1917, p. 996; June 28, 1918 (No. 605½), p. 998; and Apr. 1, 1925 (No. 989), p. 1001.

These sales are held by the auditors of the counties in which the lands are located, in accordance with the public notice given by him, beginning on the second Monday in May of each year.

5. Purchasers of unentered lands at such sales by the State have 90 days from the date of sale within which to pay to the receiver of the proper district land office the minimum price of $1.25 per acre, or such other price as may have been fixed by law for such lands, together with the usual fees and commissions, both original and final, charged in entry of like lands under the homestead laws, and make entry in accordance with section 5 of the act and these regulations.

6.[2] Unless the purchasers of unentered lands make such entry within 90 days, any other qualified person may pay to the proper receiver of the land office the unpaid fees, commissions, and purchase price, and the sum at which the land was sold for drainage charges, including any excess, and if bid in by the State interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from the date of sale, and make entry for the land.

7. Purchasers of unpatented lands shall have the right to make entry for the lands within 90 days after the period of redemption fixed in the State laws has expired, there having been no redemption by the entryman, upon paying to the receiver the fees and commissions and the price of the land, less any amount paid by the entryman.

8. Unless the purchaser of entered but unpatented lands makes entry in accordance with the preceding paragraph any other qualified person may make the required payments, as specified in said paragraph, and make entry for the land.

9.[3] If a homestead entry, after the land covered thereby has been sold for delinquent taxes, should be subsequently relinquished or canceled prior to the expiration of the period of redemption, the purchaser at the tax sale, if the taxes have not been redeemed, will have the preference right for 30 days after due notice of the cancellation or relinquishment of the entry, to file an application to purchase the land without having to wait until the expiration of the period of redemption. Such right is given to the actual purchaser only if the land has not been redeemed. This right to purchase is not given to the homestead entryman who allowed the land to be sold for taxes and then relinquished the same.

10. In addition to the payments mentioned in the foregoing paragraphs, entrymen for lands in the former Red Lake Reservation are also required to pay the sum of 3 cents per acre, as required by section 8 of the act of May 20, 1908. The price of the land under said act of 1908 is not affected by the provisions of the free-homestead act of May 17, 1900 (31 Stat. 179).

11.[2] In the sale of unentered lands by the State, should there be paid any excess over and above the drainage charges due, the excess amount shall be paid to the receiver before patent is issued. In the case of unpatented lands the excess shall be paid to the proper county official for the benefit of and payment to the entryman for the land.

[2] See amendment, p. 996.

[3] See Circular No. 617, p. 998.

12.[4] When the drainage charges are paid at the district land office the receiver to whom the money was paid shall transmit to the treasurer of the county where the land is situated the amount for which the land was sold at the sale for drainage charges, together with the interest paid thereon, if any, less any sum in excess of what may be due for such drainage charges if the land when sold was unentered.

If the lands are Indian lands you will deposit the price paid for the land to the credit of the appropriate Indian fund, either Red Lake, where the lands were opened under the act of February 20, 1904, (33 Stat. 46), or Chippewa, as to all other Indian lands. The 3 cents per acre drainage charge should all be deposited to the credit of the Chippewa permanent fund, as the same is intended to reimburse the Chippewa fund for appropriations made therefrom to pay the expense of preliminary drainage surveys of former Red Lake lands.

13. Purchasers of land under the act in question are required to have the qualifications of a homestead entryman, and not more than 160 acres can be sold to any one purchaser. The tracts must be entered by legal subdivisions, but they need not be contiguous or in one body.

14. A person who has made a homestead entry for 160 acres has exhausted his homestead right, unless his right is restored by act of Congress. He will not be permitted to relinquish an existing homestead entry and make entry under the Minnesota drainage laws, unless it can be satisfactorily established that he made his homestead entry in good faith for the purpose of securing a home; that he has honestly endeavored to comply with the homestead laws, and, if assessed for drainage, that he has paid the drainage charges due on the relinquished entry, and is entitled by law to make a second homestead entry. A person who makes a homestead entry for land advertised for sale for drainage charges will not be permitted, unless the circumstances be exceptional, to file a relinquishment of his entry and to make an entry under the Volstead Act. The showing required to be made must be in the form of the entryman's affidavit, corroborated by two witnesses, which you will forward to this office for instructions.

15. An additional entry may be made for an amount which does not exceed 160 acres, including that previously entered, provided that his previous entry did not exhaust his homestead right; in other words, he may purchase such amount as he might then have entered under the homestead laws, and without regard to the location of the land previously entered. He need not necessarily have submitted proof on his original entry in order to be entitled to exercise his additional homestead right under the act of May 20, 1908.

16. The amount of land which may be purchased by any person will be affected by the provision in the act of August 30, 1890 (26 Stat. 391), limiting the amount of land to which title may be acquired by any one person under the agricultural public land laws to 320 acres.

17. Persons who are the owners of more than 160 acres are not qualified to make a homestead entry in the State of Minnesota and therefore would not be qualified to purchase land at a sale of lands under said act of May 20, 1908. It is held by the department that a person purchasing land under a contract giving him right to acquire title, acquisition of which depends only on his own performance or default, is owner of such land and proprietor of it within the meaning and intent of section 2289, United States Revised Statutes. (See cases of Smith v. Longpre, 32 L. D. 226, and Boyce v. Burnett, 16 L. D. 562.)

18. Purchasers at any sale by the State under the act may make their purchases by agent or attorney to the extent permitted by the State drainage laws of sales of lands held in private ownership.

19.[5] Affidavits as to qualifications or as to the status of lands which may be required of purchasers under these regulations may be executed before an officer authorized to administer oaths in homestead cases. The affidavit as to the nonsaline character of the land can not be made on information and belief. This affidavit, however, may be made by a reliable party who has actual knowledge of the facts. (See case of Mendenhall v. Howell et al., 14 L. D. 461.)

20. It is the duty of the State officials under section 4 of the act to furnish to the proper register and receiver, immediately after the close of the sale, a statement showing the price at which each legal subdivision was sold. This statement should give the names of the purchasers and their addresses, if possible, and should also include lands bid in by the State.

When such statement has been filed in your office in accordance with the provisions of section 4 of the act, you will at once make proper notes thereof on the records of your office and also furnish this office a copy of such statement.

21. The law makes no provision for the redemption of lands by a mere settler, and therefore only entrymen have the right to pay to the county officials the drainage charges prior to the sale of land for nonpayment of such charges.

22.[6] To avoid confusion, misunderstanding, and conflict of rights it is hereby provided that no right of redemption, referred to in section 6 of the act, can be acquired by settlement on or application for lands subject to entry after the hour and date fixed for their sale. You will suspend all applications for lands advertised for sale under said act received on or subsequent to the date of sale until after the statement of sale provided in section 4 of the act is received, unless the applicant shall show by affidavit, duly corroborated, that he settled on the land in good faith prior to the beginning of the sale, for the purpose of securing a home and not for the purpose of defeating the rights of a purchaser at the sale. If the statement referred to shows that the land was actually sold at the sale in question, the application in question will remain suspended until after the expiration of 90 days from the date of sale to give the purchaser an opportunity to make entry for the land. Should the purchaser not make entry the homestead application may then be allowed. If the statement does not show a sale of the land, or it was bid in by the State, the homestead application may be allowed. In either case payment of the drainage charges will be required, and the homestead entryman will be required to comply with the homestead laws in the matter of residence, improvements, and cultivation, in addition to paying the State drainage charges.

[5] See amendment, p. 998.

[6] See amendment, p. 1001.

23.[7] After the expiration of 90 days from the date of sale the lands will be subject to ordinary homestead entry, in which case residence, improvements, and cultivation are required, the entryman paying the drainage charges, or to entry under the act of May 20, 1908, which does not require such compliance with the homestead law.

24. There is no provision in the law which requires residence on the land purchased under the act, or cultivation or improvement thereof.

25. In case a purchaser at a tax sale of entered but unpatented land should find that the entryman had not complied with the land laws as to settlement, improvements, and cultivation, and such purchaser should secure the cancellation of the entry as a result of his contest, he would then have the right to acquire title to the land upon making payment and showing his qualifications as provided in the foregoing rules.

26. In case payment is made as above specified you will issue the usual cash certificates and receipts and forward the papers to this office, together with evidence showing the qualifications of the purchaser on the form provided therefor. Should no objection appear patent will issue in due course of business.

27. Section 5 of the act provides for the issuance of patent for unentered land to qualified purchasers at any time after the sale when the proper payments have been made. Therefore no notice of the expiration of the statutory period of redemption is required to be given the United States; but in view of the fact that settlement on the land is permitted and a settler has three months from date of settlement within which to place his entry of record no patent will issue upon such purchase until at least three months after the date of purchase unless the purchaser will furnish his affidavit showing positively that no one is claiming the land by reason of settlement or occupancy initiated prior to the date of purchase. Purchasers of entered but unpatented lands will be required to give the notices of redemption required by the State drainage laws, but the usual final-proof notice required of homesteaders need not be given.

28. The act makes no mention of, nor reference to, assignments of drainage-tax certificates or rights acquired at any sale of land for nonpayment of a State drainage assessment. It is held, however, that a purchaser at a sale may waive his right to enter the land.

29. The United States and all persons legally holding unpatented lands under entries made under the public land laws of the United States are entitled to all the rights, privileges, and benefits given by said laws to persons holding lands of a like character in private ownership. A copy of all notices required by the State drainage laws to be given to the owners or occupants of lands held in private ownership is required by section 7 of the act to be given the register and receiver of the proper land district in cases where unentered lands are affected, and to entrymen whose unpatented lands are affected thereby. The United States and such entrymen have the same rights to be heard by petition, answer, remonstrance, appeal, or otherwise as are given to persons holding lands in private ownership; and all entrymen shall be given the same rights of redemption as are given to the owners of land held in private ownership.

30. Section 8 of the act provides that entries and proofs may be made and patents issued for all ceded Chippewa lands (except in the Red Lake Reservation) which were withdrawn under the act of June 21, 1906 (34 Stat. 325), in the same manner in which entries, proofs, and patents for other lands are made and issued under the homestead laws, subject to the payment of the purchase price fixed by law for such lands. Persons making final proofs on entries in the Red Lake Reservation will be required to pay 3 cents per acre in addition to the purchase price originally fixed by law, except in cases where entry was made prior to November 10, 1906, the date of the withdrawal under said act of June 21, 1906.

31. You will note on the application and receipt in all entries hereafter made the following: " Subject to act of May 20, 1908."

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

MINNESOTA DRAINAGE LAWS—AMENDMENT—ACT OF SEPTEMBER 5, 1916

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., January 26, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

SIRS: Your attention is invited to the provisions of the act of September 5, 1916 (39 Stat. 722), copy hereto attached, which amends sections 5 and 6 of the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), known as the Minnesota drainage laws. The act amends section 5 of said drainage law by omitting the following sentence:

> Any part of the purchase money arising from the sale of any lands in the manner and for the purposes provided in this act which shall be in excess of the payment herein required and of the total drainage charges assessed against such lands shall also be paid to the receiver before patent is issued.

In lieu thereof, there is now inserted the following sentence:

> Any part of the purchase money arising from the sale of any lands in the manner and for the purposes provided in this act which shall be in excess of the drainage charges then delinquent shall be paid to and used by the county in which such land is located for the purpose of maintenance, improving and extending such drainage works within the area benefited by the drainage project in which such land shall have been assessed for such drainage charge.

Section 6 of the act is amended by substituting the word " entered " for the word " unpatented " as the third word of said section. It further amends the next to the last sentence of the section with reference to the amounts to be paid by persons who desire to become subrogated to the rights of purchasers at a sale of the lands, by substituting in place of the following provision found in the original act—

> First, the unpaid fees, commissions, and purchase price to which the United States may then be entitled; and second, the sum at which the land was sold at the sale for drainage charges, and in addtion thereto, if bid in by the State, interest on the amount bid by the State at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from the date of such sale, and thereupon the person making such payment shall become subrogated to the rights of such purchaser to receive a patent for said land. When any payment is made to effect such subrogation the receiver shall transmit to the treasurer of the county where the land is situated the amount at which the land was sold at the sale for drainage charges, together with the interest paid thereon, if any, less any sum in excess of what may be due for such drainage charge, if the land when sold was unentered.

the following:

> First, the unpaid fees, commissions, and purchase price to which the United States may then be entitled; and, second, the sum due at the sale for drainage charges; and, in addition thereto, if bid in by the State, interest on the amount bid by the State at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from the date of such sale, and thereupon the person making such payment shall become subrogated to the rights of such purchasers to receive a patent for said land. When any payment is made to effect such subrogation the receiver shall transmit to the treasurer of the county where the land is situated the amount paid for drainage charges, together with the interest paid thereon.

The amendments relate to the disposition of the excess bid by purchasers at a sale of the lands by the county auditors. Under the law as originally enacted, the excess in the case of entered lands went to the entryman, but in the case of unentered lands, the excess or bonus, in accordance with the construction placed upon the law by the department, went into the Treasury, to the credit of the United States, or the Chippewa Indians, as the case may be. Under the law as amended, the excess in the case of unentered lands is to be used by the county in which the land is located for the purpose of maintenance, improving, and extending the drainage works as set forth in the amended law.

Both the original law and the amended law make a distinction between the drainage charges and the excess. The excess is in the nature of a bonus and under the amended law is not to be collected by you. It should be collected by the county auditor at the time of sale.

The instructions under the Minnesota drainage law found in 45 L. D., page 40, are accordingly amended with reference to paragraphs numbered 6, 11, and 12, to agree herewith. You will be governed accordingly in future entries under this law.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

MINNESOTA DRAINAGE—PROCEEDINGS AFTER EXPIRATION OF PERIOD OF REDEMPTION

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 13, 1918.

REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS,
Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

SIRS: This office is in receipt of letters inquiring (a) as to the proper procedure to obtain patent, under the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), to entered lands where the period of redemption has expired, and the entryman has failed to redeem his land from the tax judgment; (b) whether the patents in the case of entered lands will issue in the name of the entryman who has failed to redeem his land, or in the name of the purchaser under section 6 of said act; and (c) whether such purchaser is required to have the qualifications of a homestead entryman.

Under authority of section 7 of said act of May 20, 1908, and the drainage and tax laws found in the general statutes of Minnesota, compiled edition of 1913, and amendments thereof, the following regulations will govern in cases where purchasers of entered lands, sold for nonpayment of the drainage charges at a tax sale and not redeemed, desire to make entry of and secure patent to the lands under section 6 of the act of May 20, 1908, viz:

[8] See Circular No. 969, p. 1000.

After the expiration of three years and not exceeding six years from the date of the tax judgment sale the person holding a tax certificate of sale must present such certificate to the county auditor, who will prepare a notice, directed to the person in whose name the lands are assessed, specifying the lands, the amount for which they were sold, the amount required to redeem them, exclusive of costs, and the time when the redemption period will expire. The auditor will deliver the notice to the party applying therefor, who in turn will deliver the notice to the sheriff of the proper county for service. Within 20 days after its receipt by him the sheriff is required to serve notice upon the party to whom it is directed, if to be found in the county, and if not so found, then upon the person in possession of the land; if the person to whom the notice is directed can not be found in the county, and there is no one in possession of the land, the service shall be made by three weeks' publication. The sheriff is required to make his return to the county auditor, to whom evidence of publication, when made, should be furnished. The county officers are entitled to the customary fees for their services. The full period of redemption does not expire until 60 days shall have elapsed after the service of such notice and proof thereof has been filed.

The certificate of the county auditor under his official seal, after the expiration of the 60-day period mentioned above, that the entryman has been duly notified in accordance with the laws of the State of Minnesota of the amount for which the lands which should be described were sold, the amount required to redeem the same, and the time when the redemption period expires shall be deemed satisfactory evidence that proper service of notice was made, and upon receipt of such certificate in your office you will cancel the entry upon the records of your office as to the date of such receipt. Note the fact of such cancellation upon the certificate of the auditor over the register's signature, referring in each case to this letter as authority therefor, note the serial number of the entry on each certificate, and forward said certificate with your monthly returns.

Within 90 days after the expiration of the 60-day period, or after the full period of redemption has expired, the purchaser may make entry of the lands, upon furnishing the certificate of the county auditor mentioned above and affidavit as to the character of the land, and making the required payments. Should the purchaser fail to make entry of the lands within 90 days from the expiration of the full period of redemption mentioned, any other person, upon furnishing said certificate of the auditor of the county, may secure the cancellation of the entry and be allowed to make entry in his own name upon making the payments specified in section 6 of the act of May 20, 1908, showing his qualifications and furnishing an affidavit as to the character of the land. The price of the land to be paid by a purchaser of entered lands is $1.25 per acre, or such other price as may have been fixed by law for such lands, less so much thereof as has already been paid by the entryman, in addition to the usual fees and commissions. In the case of subrogation the applicant is also required to pay the sum at which the land was sold at the sale for drainage charges, with interest where chargeable.

If an entryman fails to redeem his land, and an entry thereof is made under the act of May 20, 1908, patent in such case will issue in the name of the purchaser under the act last mentioned.

Section 6 of the act of May 20, 1908, contains no requirement that a purchaser at a tax sale of entered lands shall have the qualifications of a homestead entryman, and no limitation as to the acreage which such purchaser may enter, and no such qualifications or limitation will be required where such purchaser makes entry at your office of the lands purchased. If such purchaser does not make entry, after giving notice to the entryman, a person who desires to become subrogated to the rights of said purchaser of entered lands must, under said section 6, have the qualifications of a homestead entryman, and the right of entry is limited to 160 acres.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 969

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE MINNESOTA DRAINAGE LAWS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, December 9, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

GENTLEMEN: The following instructions are issued under the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), known as the Volstead Act, being supplemental to Circular of Instructions No. 470, approved April 15. 1916 (45 L. D. 40), and the instructions dated August 13, 1918 (46 L. D. 438), relating to proceedings after expiration of the period of redemption.

September 4, 1924, the State auditor of Minnesota was asked for an opinion upheld by decisions rendered by the courts of said State bearing upon the question of whether an entryman under certain circumstances specified in the letter has the right of redemption under the State laws relative to taxation. October 7, 1924, the Assistant Attorney General of Minnesota, to whom this matter was referred by the auditor, rendered an opinion covering the points in question. From the acts of the State of Minnesota bearing on this matter and the decisions of the State courts referred to, it is found that evidence of redemption must be furnished in cases where land has been sold for drainage charges under the act of May 20, 1908:

(1) When the State is a purchaser and there has been no assignment.

(2) When the State purchased the land, but later assigned it and six years have not expired since date of assignment.

(3) Where there is an actual purchaser, and six years have not expired since date of sale.

In the future you will reject any and all applications for homestead entry subject to the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), where evidence of redemption is required if the same is not filed in connection therewith.[9]

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 989

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE MINNESOTA DRAINAGE LAWS—AMENDING CIRCULAR NO. 470 (45 L. D. 40), AND CIRCULAR NO. 969 OF DECEMEBER 9, 1924

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 1, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, Cass Lake, Crookston, and Duluth, Minn.

Gentlemen: Paragraphs Nos. 22 and 23 of Circular No. 470 (45 L. D. 40), are amended to read as follows:

22. To avoid confusion, misunderstanding, and conflict of rights, it is hereby provided that no right of redemption referred to in section 6 of the act can be acquired by settlement on or application for lands subject to entry after the hour and date fixed for their sales. You will suspend all applications for lands advertised for sale under said act received on or subsequent to the date of sale until after the statement of sale provided in section 4 of the act is received, unless the applicant shall show by affidavit duly corroborated that he settled on the land in good faith prior to the beginning of the sale for the purpose of securing a home and not for the purpose of defeating the rights of a purchaser at the sale. If the statement referred to shows that the land was actually sold at the sale in question, the application in question will remain suspended until after the expiration of 90 days from the date of sale to give the purchaser an opportunity to make entry for the land. Should the purchaser not make entry, the homestead application may then be allowed. If the statement does not show a sale of the land or it was bid in by the State, the homestead application may be allowed. Payment of drainage charges will not be required and you will formally notify each applicant making a 3-year homestead entry where the land has been sold for delinquent drainage charges and evidence of redemption has not been furnished, the amount of taxes assessed against said land and of any tax certificates outstanding thereon, and you will file with the application a carbon copy of said letter. The homestead entryman will be required to comply with the homestead law in the matter of residence, improvements, and cultivation.

23. After the expiration of 90 days from the date of sale, the lands will be subject to ordinary homestead entry, in which case residence, improvements, and cultivation are required, or to entry under the act of May 20, 1908, which does not require such compliance with the homestead law.

[9] Amended by Circular No. 989, p. 1001.

The last paragraph of Circular No. 969, dated December 9, 1924, is amended to read:

> You will reject all cash entries under the act of May 20, 1908 (35 Stat. 169), where evidence of redemption is required if the same is not filed in connection therewith.

The effect of the changes now made in Circulars Nos. 470 and 969 is to provide for the payment of delinquent drainage charges as a condition precedent to the allowance of an application in the case of cash purchases only; and in the case of ordinary homestead entries the register and receiver are required to formally advise the applicant of the drainage taxes due on his entry and the tax certificates outstanding thereon, a carbon copy of said notice to be filed with the application.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 1039

RESTORING TO ENTRY LANDS RESERVED FOR RESERVOIR PURPOSES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, November 9, 1925.

Register, Cass Lake, Minn.

Sir: Your attention is called to the act of August 6, 1914 (38 Stat. 683), which provides for the restoration to the public domain, subject to homestead entry, of certain lands heretofore withdrawn by Executive order in connection with the construction, maintenance, and operation of reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi River and its tributaries, the restoration of which the Secretary of War has recommended or may hereafter recommend to the Secretary of the Interior. A copy of said act is hereto attached.

2. The following-described lands affected by the act in question and which have been recommended for restoration to the Secretary of the Interior by the Secretary of War are hereby restored to settlement and entry at your office under the terms and conditions of said act, and these regulations.

(List of lands omitted.)

3. Subject to the rights of settlers herein provided for qualified ex-service men of the World War with Germany by virtue of Public Resolution No. 29, approved February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 434), as amended by Public Resolutions Nos. 36 and 79, approved January 21 and December 28, 1922 (42 Stat. 358 and 1067), respectively, will be allowed a preferred right to enter and file on said lands under the homestead laws for a period of 91 days, beginning with the 28th day from the date hereof. Qualified ex-service men should file certified copies of their certificates of discharge or sworn statements as to their military service, and regardless of the specific service relied upon to support a preference right, such applicants must show, by their affidavits, whether they were ever drafted for service under the provisions of the selective service act and refused to render such service or to wear the uniform of such service of the United States. Affidavit must also be made that the land is not claimed or occupied by anyone who became a settler thereon prior to January 1, 1914.

4. Persons who have made actual settlement on any of said lands prior to January 1, 1914, and made improvements thereon have, under section 3 of the act, a preferred right to enter and file on said lands under the homestead laws for a period of 90 days, such period to run simultaneously with the first 90 days of the 91-day soldier's preference right period herein provided for. Persons claiming such preference right must file with their homestead applications, affidavits showing the date settlement was made, and improvements placed upon the land claimed, and setting out the value and character of such improvements. Such settlers may avoid confusion by filing their applications within the 20-day simultaneous filing period hereinafter provided for, although they are not required to do so.

5. Under section 4 of the act no rights of any kind except as specified in the foregoing paragraph shall attach by reason of settlement or squatting upon any of the land restored to entry prior to 9 a. m., on the date the land becomes subject to homestead entry by the general public and until said time no person shall enter upon and occupy the same except in cases mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, and any person violating this provision shall never be permitted to enter any of said lands or acquire title thereto.

6. After the 91-day period fixed in paragraph 3 hereof, during which ex-service men are entitled to make entry any lands remaining unentered will be subject to homestead entry by the general public.

7. For the period of 20 days prior to the restoration or opening of such lands to soldiers' and settlers' entries and for a like period prior to the date such lands become subject to entry by the general public, soldiers and sailors in the first instance and any qualified applicants in the second may execute and file their application and all such applications presented within such 20-day periods, together with those offered at 9 a. m., standard time, on the dates such lands become subject to appropriation under such applications, shall be treated as filed simultaneously and will be disposed of in the manner prescribed by Circular No. 324 of May 22, 1914 (43 L. D. 254), so far as applicable. All other applications presented as herein prescribed will be received, noted, and acted upon in the order of their filing.

8. In the event an entry is allowed on the application of an ex-service man, and thereafter within the 90-day settlers' preference right period an application is filed by a person claiming preference right under paragraph 4 hereof, and such application is in conflict with such allowed entry, you will require the entryman within 30 days from notice to show cause why his entry should not be canceled to the extent of such conflict, and to serve a copy of such showing upon the settlement preference right applicant, proof of which service must be furnished. Thereafter the settler preference right applicant will be allowed 30 days within which to file an answer to such showing and serve a copy of such answer upon the entryman, proof of which service must be furnished. On such showing and answer you will submit the matter to this office with your recommendation.

9. Section 2 reserves to the United States the right to overflow the lands restored, or any part thereof, by existing reservoirs, or any which may hereafter be constructed, and provides that all patents for the lands restored shall expressly reserve to the United States such rights of overflow. You will therefore indorse on all homestead entries allowed by you for these lands the following:

Subject to the right of the United States to overflow. See section 2, act of August 6, 1914 (38 Stat. 683).

10. You will post a copy of these regulations in your office in a conspicuous place and allow it to remain until after the date above specified, and you will furnish copies hereof to the various postmasters in your district, and to newspapers for insertion by them as a matter of news without expense to the Government. You will also transmit copies hereof to any persons known by you to be settlers upon any of the lands in question.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 10, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The Forest Service has called the attention of this office to the fact that the schedule required by Circular No. 105 [a] (par. 53), to be furnished each month to the district foresters fails to contain sufficient information to enable the forest supervisors to keep an accurate record of the changes which take place of the status of lands within their forests, and that some local offices fail to promptly transmit said schedule at the end of each month.

[1] Modified by Circular No. 417, p. 1006.

[a] Circular No. 105 has been superseded by Circular No. 616. See par. 52, of latter circular, p. 60.

Hereafter the schedule must show in each instance serial number, kind of entry, and whether original or final, name of entryman, description of land, and date of action. Observe care to show whether the action is the allowance or cancellation of an entry. List numbers under the act of June 11, 1906, and numbers of receiver's receipts need not be shown. The report should appear as follows:

May 3, 016009, Hd. (orig.), James E. Houston, NE. ¼ SW. ¼, sec. 6, T. 8 S., R. 23 E.—Allowed.

May 9, 014800, Hd. (orig.), William H. Murray, S.½ SE.¼, sec. 8, T. 19 N., R. 30 W.—Relinquished.

May 11, 013906, mineral (final), Robert Thompson, NW.¼ SE.¼, SW.¼ NE.¼, sec. 9, T. 14 S., R. 25 E.—Final certificate issued.

May 25, 015326, DLE (orig.), Henry Dawson, S.½, sec. 5, T. 9 N., R. 40 W.—Canceled by G. L. O.

The schedule in question must be transmitted to the district foresters promptly at the end of each month.

Please acknowledge receipt hereof on inclosed postal card.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

MISCELLANEOUS—CLASSIFIED SCHEDULE REPORTING CHANGE OF STATUS OF ENTRIES WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS—AMENDING CIRCULAR NO. 410

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 21, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Circular No. 410, May 10, 1915, instructed you that list numbers under the act of June 11, 1906, need not be shown upon the schedule required by Circular No. 105[a] (par. 53), to be furnished each month to the district foresters.

Where an entry under act of June 11, 1906, embraces unsurveyed lands, described by metes and bounds, it is often difficult for the district foresters to identify the land involved in the absence of list numbers. Hereafter, in such cases, please show list numbers as well as serial numbers on said schedule which, together with the number of township and range, will be sufficient description for complete identification.

CIRCULAR NO. 435

LANDS WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS—PRACTICE—JOINT REGULATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 4, 1915.

To Registers and Receivers and Chiefs of Field Divisions:

The appended regulations will be effective on and after October 1, 1915.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 5, 1915.

To the Commissioner, Chief of Field Service, Chiefs of Field Divisions, Registers and Receivers, General Land Office, Department of the Interior; the Forester, District Foresters, Forest Service, the Solicitor, and District Assistants to the Solicitor, Department of Agriculture.

GENTLEMEN: Better to effectuate cooperation in protecting the interests of the Government and settlers and other claimants to lands within national forests, the following order is made, effective on and after October 1, 1915, superseding order of November 25, 1910 (39 L. D. 374):

1. Hereafter when a person files application to make entry, or to amend an existing entry, embracing lands within a national forest, basing the right of entry, or amendment, on settlement prior to the establishment of the forest, the register and receiver will require such person to file with his application a statement under oath, in duplicate, containing his name and address, description and character of the land involved, the date he established residence on the land, his absence from the land, kind and character of improvements placed thereon, and the amount of land cleared and cultivated, accompanied by the affidavit, in duplicate, of at least one disinterested person, corroborating the statement. The register and receiver will immediately forward the duplicate of such statement and affidavit to the supervisor of the national forest in which the lands are embraced, within information as to the date of filing the application, the date of filing the township plat of survey covering the land, and any other facts of record affecting the application, and will suspend action on the application for 60 days, or upon the request of the forest supervisor, where climatic or other conditions require, for such time, not to exceed six months, as will enable him to make an examination of the claim, unless in the meantime they shall receive notice of no protest, as hereinafter provided.

2. The register and receiver in issuing notice of intention to make final proof upon claims, either mineral or nonmineral, within a national forest shall immediately furnish a copy thereof to the supervisor in charge of such forest, and other than to publish such notice and receive final proof will, except in mineral cases as hereinafter prescribed, suspend action on the final proof for 60 days from date thereof, or upon the request of the forest supervisor, where climatic or other conditions require, for such time, not to exceed six months, as will enable him to make an examination of the claim, unless in the meantime they shall receive notice of no protest as hereinafter provided. In each case, however, where the register and receiver, upon examination of the final proof at any time after its submission, find it to be incurably defective, the same will be rejected and the Forest Service so advised, notwithstanding the time within which a protest may be filed hereunder has not expired.

3. The forest supervisor upon receipt of the statement mentioned in paragraph 1, or the notice mentioned in paragraph 2, will at once make investigation of the claim, and will submit to the district forester a report thereon, unless immediate investigation is impossible because of climatic or other conditions, when an extension of time will be requested as provided in paragraphs 1 and 2 hereof, and the investigation will be made and the report submitted as soon as possible within the period of extension. The district forester will promptly consider the report, and if of opinion that no protest should be filed will so advise the register and receiver. If the district forester is of opinion that a protest should be made, he will transmit the papers to the district assistant to the solicitor, who will prepare for his signature a protest, not under oath or corroborated, in which shall be plainly and briefly stated the grounds upon which the protest is based. The protest shall be filed in triplicate with the register and receiver of the proper local land office.

4.[2] Upon receipt of the protest, the register and receiver shall immediately forward a copy thereof to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in accordance with rule 4 of the Rules of Practice, and in every case immediately issue the notice required by rule 5 thereof, accompanied by a copy of the protest, stating that unless the adverse party appears and answers the allegations of said notice within 30 days after service thereof, the allegations of the protest shall be taken as confessed. Upon the filing of the answer, the register and receiver shall set a date for a hearing, after consultation with the district assistant to the solicitor, and notify parties as provided in the Rules of Practice. Upon failure of the claimant to appear at the hearing the allegations of the protest will be taken as confessed. Hearings shall be conducted in accordance with the Rules of Practice. In other than mineral cases, action upon the application and upon the final proof, which may be offered in the usual manner, shall be suspended pending the final determination of the protest, except as provided in paragraph 2 hereof for the disposition of incurably defective proof. In mineral applications for patent the proof shall be considered on its merits, and, if found regular, certificate issued, but the claimant should be advised in such case that patent will be withheld by the General Land Office pending determination of the protest.

[2] Construed by Circular No. 464, p. 1012.

5. If no protest be filed within the time limit as provided in paragraphs 1 and 2 hereof, the register and receiver shall take appropriate action upon the application or the final proof. But in no case, in the absence of the filing of a protest or a no protest notice as hereinabove provided, shall patent issue until the Commissioner of the General Land Office is notified by, or ascertains from, the forester that the claim will not be protested, as provided in paragraph 6 hereof.

6. A protest may be initiated against any claim, mineral or nonmineral, embracing lands within national forests at any time prior to patent, by the solicitor or the district assistant to the solicitor of the Department of Agriculture filing in the local land office, in triplicate, a complaint signed by the forester or the district forester, not under oath or corroborated, setting forth clearly and briefly the grounds of the protest. Upon receipt of such complaint the register and receiver shall forward a copy thereof to the Commissioner of the General Land Office; issue the notice required by rule 5 of the Rules of Practice, accompanied by a copy of the complaint; and arrange for a hearing, if applied for, as provided in paragraph 4 hereof.

7. In all hearings affecting lands or claims within a national forest the district assistant to the solicitor will be entered of record as appearing in behalf of the Government, and will conduct the Government's side of the case.

8. Forest lieu and school selection cases will be handled by the chiefs of field division of the General Land Office in like manner as heretofore. The forest officers will, upon request of the chiefs of field division, render any assistance possible in the making of investigations, and the district assistants to the solicitor of the Department of Agriculture will cooperate with the chiefs of field division in the conduct of hearings in such cases, and thereafter will take action in like manner as heretofore, including the taking of appeals to the Secretary of the Interior.

9. In all Government cases before registers and receivers involving lands or claims within a national forest, the district assistant to the solicitor shall be served with copies of all answers, appeals, motions, orders, and decisions required to be noted under the rules in cases of private contests. The proper law officers of the Department of Agriculture shall also have a right of appeal from any decision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office and to file motion for rehearing in the Department of the Interior, or take other like action in the same manner as a private contestant, and shall receive like notices of proceedings and decisions: Provided, however, That the Department of Agriculture shall not be required to take formal appeals from decisions of registers and receivers.

10. Chiefs of field divisions and special agents will not hereafter take action in regard to any claims within a national forest, except as provided in paragraph 8 hereof, unless specifically directed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office or the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, That chiefs of field divisions may, on request of a district forester, assign mineral examiners to assist in the investigation of cases involving mining claims.

11. Costs of hearings will be paid from the appropriation for expenses of hearings in land entries as now provided for other Government contests. Prior to June 1 of each year the district assistant to the solicitor will mail to the chief of field division in whose division the lands involved lie an estimate of the funds necessary to cover the hearings during the first quarter of the ensuing fiscal year. Like action will be taken on the first day of each month which immediately precedes the other quarters of the fiscal year. Such estimates should be accompanied by a list of the cases to be heard, which should include the names of claimants, local land office, and serial number of entry or application, and character of entries or filings. The chief of field division will transmit the lists and estimates received from the district assistant to the solicitor to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at the same time he submits his estimates for hearings involving lands in his district outside of national forests. When these lists and estimates are received in the General Land Office the appropriation will be allotted for the quarter, and each chief of field division will be advised of the amount which will be allowed for forest cases, and he will advise the district assistant to the solicitor thereof. Payment for the expenses of hearings from the appropriation so allotted will be made by special disbursing agents upon proper vouchers, as is now provided for Government contests in cases outside of national forests, but such vouchers must be approved by the district assistant to the solicitor and by the chief of field division before payment is made.

Respectfully,

FRANKLIN K. LANE,
Secretary of the Interior.
D. F. HOUSTON,
Secretary of Agriculture.

FOREST TELEPHONE LINES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 9, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices:

SIRS: The department, August 31, 1915, issued the following instructions:

> In cases where telephone lines or like structures have been actually constructed upon the public lands of the United States, including national forest lands, and are being maintained and operated by the United States, and your office is furnished with appropriate maps or field notes by the Department of Agriculture so prepared to enable you to definitely locate the constructed line, proper notation thereof should be made upon the tract books of your office, and if the land be thereafter listed or disposed of under any applicable public-land law, you should insert in the register's final certificate and in the patent, when issued, the following exception:
> "Excepting, however, from this conveyance that certain telephone line and all appurtenances thereto constructed by the United States through, over, or upon the lands therein described, and the right of the United States, its officers, agents, or employees to maintain, operate, repair, or improve the same so long as needed or used for or by the United States."

In compliance with such instructions, you will, upon issuing final or cash certificate for lands shown by the records of your office to be crossed or affected by constructed telephone lines, operated or controlled by the Forest Service, inscribe or stamp upon such final or cash certificate the legend hereinbefore quoted, specifically calling the attention of the entryman or applicant to such notation.

Very respectfully,

D. K. PARROTT,
Acting Assistant Commissioner.

ROADS, TRAILS, BRIDGES, ETC., IN NATIONAL FORESTS—EXCEPTION IN PATENTS

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 13, 1916.

JONES, First Assistant Secretary:

I am in receipt of your (Secretary of Agriculture) letter of November 4, 1915, referring to the instructions of this department, dated August 31, 1915 (44 L. D. 359), to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, concerning constructed Forest Service telephone lines crossing lands within national forests and listed and entered under the homestead law of June 11, 1906. The Commissioner of the General Land Office was there instructed as follows:

> In cases where telephone lines or like structures have been actually constructed upon the public lands of the United States, including national forest lands, and are being maintained and operated by the United States, and your office is furnished with appropriate maps or field notes by the Department of Agriculture so prepared as to enable you to definitely locate the constructed line, proper notation thereof should be made upon the tract books of your office and if the land be thereafter listed or disposed of under any applicable public-land law, you should insert in the register's final certificate and in the patent when issued the following exception:
> "Excepting, however, from the conveyance that certain telephone line and all appurtenances thereto, constructed by the United States through, over, or upon the land herein described, and the right of the United States, its officers, agents, or employees to maintain, operate, repair, or improve the same so long as needed or used for or by the United States"

In your present communication you refer to the appropriation act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1100), containing the following provision:

> For the construction and maintenance of roads, trails, bridges, fire lanes, telephone lines, cabins, fences, and other improvements necessary for the proper and economical administration, protection and development of the national forests, $400,000—and state as follows:

> This act provides for the construction of such improvements of the foregoing class as may be necessary for the purpose already enumerated, and provides as well for the maintenance of those which are already constructed. The expenditure of money from this subappropriation, in accordance with its provisions, would appear to me directly to result in devoting to public purposes the land upon which such money is expended. This expenditure may be > either for construction or maintenance. One of the first and most desirable things, either for construction or maintenance, is definite location by means of survey. I see no reason why the expense of such survey should not be charged against the subappropriation quoted, and it would appear to me that such expenditure would in itself be sufficient to devote the land to public purposes as being "necessary for the purpose of proper and economical administration, protection, and development of the national forests."

> I shall appreciate it if you will advise me whether in the case of such expenditure and the subsequent listing of the land, your department has authority to include such an exception in the final certificate and patent, provided at the time of listing you are furnished with evidence of the fact that a certain part of the land has been so devoted to public purposes, accompanied by the necessary tracings showing the location and extent of such appropriation.

I am of the opinion that the same reasoning as was adopted in the department's instructions of August 31, 1915, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, relative to telephone lines constructed under authority of similar appropriation acts applies to the other kinds of improvements mentioned in the above act of March 4, 1915; and that similar exceptions as to lands needed for such improvements may be inserted in the register's final certificate, and in the patent when issued. Your communication, however, would appear to take the view that a mere preliminary survey is sufficient as a devotion of the land to the public use indicated. Without expressing a definite opinion at this time, I would incline to the view that a mere preliminary survey, which might or might not be later followed by construction, is not an appropriation of the land to the public use. It would seem that some action indicating upon the ground itself that the tract has been devoted to the public use, is necessary—such as staking the area to be retained by the United States, accompanied by a setting aside of a sufficient part of the appropriation for construction. In other words, the case should be one of either actual construction, or in which the evidence shows that the construction has been provided for, and will be immediately undertaken.

A copy of this communication has been furnished the Commissioner of the General Land Office for his information.

SERVICE OF NOTICE—CLAIMS IN NATIONAL FORESTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 21, 1916.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: It is not intended by paragraph 4 of Circular No. 435 of September 4, 1915—Lands Within National Forests—Practice—Joint Regulations—to require the Forest Service to prepare and serve the notice referred to therein, as required by rule 5 of the Rules of Practice. In such cases you will prepare and serve the notices in the same manner as is now done by you in ordinary Government proceedings.

CIRCULAR No. 613

PRACTICE TO BE FOLLOWED IN CONNECTION WITH PROOFS IN FOREST HOMESTEAD CASES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 12, 1918.

To Registers and Receivers:

The Acting Forester, Department of Agriculture, under date of June 14, 1918, makes the following statement in a letter addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

> It is noted that in a good many instances the local land offices failed to forward to your office copy of the letters received from the Forest Service stating that no objection will be made to certain entries going to patent. May I suggest that a circular letter to local land offices calling attention to the desirability of these letters being forwarded to you might result in saving unnecessary correspondence?

Your attention is called to the instructions contained in Circular No. 435 of September 4, 1915, Lands Within National Forests—Practice—Joint Regulations. Paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of said circular contain instructions regarding the sending of notices of intention to make final proof in forest homestead cases to the forest supervisor, and the procedure to be followed by that officer in such cases.

Examination of final proofs in forest homestead claims, upon reaching this office, discloses the fact that in many instances no report from the forest supervisor accompanies the final proof papers. In some instances it has developed that no notice of intention was sent to the forest supervisor by the local land office; in other cases, as stated by the Acting Forester, the local officers failed to inclose the forest supervisor's report when sending in the final proof papers.

The omission by the local land officers of compliance with the above requirements of Circular No. 435 has resulted in considerable unnecessary correspondence between this office and the local offices and with the Forest Service, and has caused vexatious and costly delays to entrymen.

You are requested, in the interest of good administration, to give your especial attention to the matter contained herein, in order that delays may hereafter be avoided because of failure to obtain the requisite report from the forest supervisors in cases of final proofs on forest homestead entries.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

NATIONAL MONUMENTS AND NATIONAL PARKS

[Reported, 39 L. D. 447]

MINERAL OR AGRICULTURAL CLAIMS WITHIN NATIONAL PARKS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., January 10, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Chiefs of Field Divisions, and Superintendents of National Parks:

Under date of November 12, 1910, the Secretary of the Interior advised this office, among other things, as follows:

> It is desirable that in so far as it is possible the title to lands within the limits of national parks should remain in the Government, so that the parks may be protected, developed, and controlled by the United States. In a number of parks, however, there are claims, mineral or agricultural, upon which possession is being maintained on the ground that the claims were initiated prior to the creation of the parks or the inhibition of further disposition or acquisition of lands therein.

Accordingly, in all cases of applications to make final proof, final entry, or to purchase public lands, under any public-land law, the register and receiver will, where any of said lands are within the limits of national parks, at once forward a copy thereof to the Chief of Field Division of Special Agents. Such copy, as well as the original application, will be indorsed with the name of the national park within which the said land, or any portion thereof, is situate. A second copy will also be forwarded to the superintendent in charge of the national park.

Valid entries may proceed up to and including the submission of final proof, but no purchase money will be received or final certificate of entry issued until further orders. The record of the entry should be forwarded with your regular monthly returns, and will be held in this office until receipt of the report of the special agent and the superintendent of the park.

The Chief of Field Division, on receipt of such copy of notice, will make a case thereof on his docket, and will also make a field examination of the lands so sought to be entered, and submit a report thereof direct to this office.

Chiefs of field divisions and superintendents will exert every effort to make the field examination prior to date for final proof.

Where the claim sought to be entered is upon unsurveyed land the registers and receivers will carefully examine the plat and field notes of survey of such claim, and such other data as may be available, to ascertain the true locus thereof with respect to national parks; and, if in any doubt as to whether or not the land sought to be purchased is within a national park, they should call upon the Surveyor General for a report in the premises.

The attention of local officers, chiefs of field divisions, and superintendents of national parks, is called especially to the last sentence of the Secretary's order, which reads as follows:

> You will also, upon receipt of report or allegation from special agents or from others, that any locations or claims within national parks, for which application for patent or entry have not been made, are invalid or are not being maintained as required by law, report such cases to this department in order that appropriate instructions may be issued and action taken.

As will be observed, this relates to locations or claims, mineral or agricultural, within national parks, for which no applications for patent or entry have been presented to the local officers. Under these instructions you need not await the presentation of an application for patent for these locations or claims prior to making any investigation or report to this office; but you will promptly, in all such cases as are by you, for any reason, deemed to be invalid, (or reported to you as being invalid), submit your report and recommendations with respect thereto, in order that this office may at the earliest possible moment take such steps, through the department, as may be appropriate and necessary to protect the interests of the Government in the premises.

NEVADA LANDS

[Reported, 52 L. D. 67]

Circular No. 666

IRRIGATION OF ARID LANDS IN NEVADA

[Act of October 22, 1919 (41 Stat. 293), and Amendatory Act of September 22, 1922 (42 Stat. 1012)]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 1, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices, Nevada.

Sirs: The following instructions are issued under the provisions of the act of Congress approved October 22, 1919 (41 Stat. 293), entitled "An act to encourage the reclamation of certain arid lands in the State of Nevada, and for other purposes," as amended by the act of September 22, 1922 (42 Stat. 1012).

BENEFICIARIES UNDER THE ACT

1. The act, as the title indicates, is limited in its operation to lands in the State of Nevada and is designed to encourage the development and utilization of subterranean waters for irrigation purposes. It confers upon the Secretary of the Interior authority to grant permits to citizens of the United States, or associations of such citizens, giving the exclusive right to explore not to exceed 2,560 acres of land selected by them.

The only qualifications provided in the act for persons receiving the benefits thereof are that the applicant, or each member of an association of applicants, shall be a citizen of the United States; that he shall not be a beneficiary under any other application or permit under this act for land situated within an area of 40 miles square, and that he has not been a permittee under any other permit under this act, which has been canceled for failure to comply with its terms.

Married women, if their interest is actual and bona fide, have the same privileges as unmarried persons. A corporation is not considered as an association of persons within the meaning and purpose of the act.

A permit under the act is not assignable, but the interest of a deceased permittee will pass to his legal representative.

The 40-mile square limitation is construed to mean an area of that extent in which the lands covered by a permit theretofore granted are in the approximate center; to avoid possible violation of this provision of the act, applicants for more than one permit are advised not to include in their applications for additional permits any lands within less than 20 miles of any boundary of the lands included in any other application or permit in which the applicant is interested.

2. Lands to be designated and made subject to disposition under this act are those public lands which are unreserved, unappropriated, nonmineral, nontimbered, and not known to be susceptible of successful irrigation from any known source of water supply at a reasonable cost. Lists will be furnished the registers of the different local land offices from time to time and they will be advised of the dates when the designations become effective.

APPLICATION

3. Any qualified applicant desiring to explore for water under the terms of this act should file with the register of the land office of the district in which the land is situated, an application for permit, together with a corroborated affidavit as to the character of the land, and pay the filing fee of 1 cent an acre for each acre of land involved.

No blank forms will be furnished, but the application and affidavit may be combined substantially as in Form A, printed at the end of these regulations. Same should be filed in duplicate and cover the following points:

(a) Name and post-office address of the applicant or each member of an association of applicants.

(b) Citizenship.—If the applicant or each member of the association of applicants is a native-born citizen of the United States, the application and affidavit must so state. If a naturalized citizen, the application should state the fact, and be accompanied by a certified copy (special form for land cases) of certificate of naturalization. It should be noted that, unlike most public land laws, no rights may be initiated under this act by an alien who has only filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen.

(c) Special requirements.—In accordance with the specific requirements found in sections 1, 2, and 3 of the act, the application should include an averment that neither the applicant nor any member of an association of applicants has filed an application under this act for lands within an area of 40 miles square embracing the lands in the present application; that no permit heretofore granted to him, or to any association of which he was a member, has ever been canceled for noncompliance with the terms and conditions of such permit; that the application is honestly and in good faith made for the purpose of reclamation and cultivation, and not for the benefit of any other person or corporation, and that he is not acting as agent for any person, corporation, or syndicate, to give them the benefit of the land applied for, or any part thereof, and that he will faithfully and honestly endeavor to comply with all the requirements of the act.

The application should also include an averment that no spring or water hole exists, if it be a fact, upon any legal subdivision of the land involved, if surveyed, and if unsurveyed, within one-quarter of a mile from the exterior limits thereof. If there be any spring or water hole, the exact location and size should be stated, and an estimate furnished of the quantity of water in gallons which it is capable of producing daily, together with any other information necessary to determine whether or not it is valuable or essential as a public water reserve.

(d) Description of land applied for.—If the land is surveyed, it should be described by legal subdivisions. If the land is unsurveyed, it should be described with reference to locality, natural objects, and permanent monuments as fully and carefully as possible, with such detail and precision that the boundaries and location of the land may be readily traced and ascertained; if the land is situated within a reasonable distance from a known corner of the public-land survey, the course and distance should be given from such Government corner to a described point on the boundary of the land applied for; also, where practicable, the land should be described, as nearly as can be ascertained, in accordance with the legal subdivisions of the regular extension of the Government survey over the land. In this connection, all applicants for unsurveyed lands are urged to make a complete metes and bounds survey of the land applied for, with an accurate tie-line by course and distance to a Government corner, otherwise, with the large areas that may be embraced in applications under this act, it will be impossible to prevent conflicts and consequent controversy and litigation. If impracticable to make such a survey prior to filing the application, it may be made later, and the descriptions in the application and permit, if granted, may be amended accordingly. All corners of unsurveyed land selected should be marked with substantial post or rock monuments.

All land applied for must be contiguous and situated in reasonably compact form; in the absence of special or unusual conditions, an application for land extending more than 4 miles in any one direction will not be considered acceptable.

A map should accompany each application, showing by legal subdivisions the land selected, if surveyed; if the land is unsurveyed, then it should be shown by legal subdivisions as nearly as possible in accordance with the regular extension of the Government survey.

(e) Character of the land.—This showing should not only allege that the land applied for is "unreserved, unappropriated, nonmineral, nontimbered public land of the United States in the State of Nevada, not known to be susceptible of successful irrigation at a reasonable cost from any known source of water supply," but should also include such a complete statement of pertinent specific facts as will afford an adequate basis for classification and designation, such as (1) the lay of the land, slope; (2) whether timber, sagebrush, or grassland; (3) kind of soil; (4) altitude; (5) length of growing season; (6) rainfall and distribution thereof through the year; (7) location with respect to any surface-water supply for irrigation; (8) what is known as to underground water supply on the land or in the vicinity; (9) whether land will mature crops by dry-farming methods; together with any additional facts having a direct or indirect bearing on the question of whether the land may properly be designated, the chances of successful development, and the good faith of the applicant.

(f) Corroboration.—If, at the time of filing application, the land has not been designated as subject to the act, all that portion of the combined application and affidavit (Form A) relative to the character of the land must be corroborated by two disinterested witnesses, having personal knowledge of the facts, substantially in the manner shown in Form B; or by a separate and independent affidavit containing an affirmative statement of the facts; but, if the land is already designated at time of filing application, no corroborating witnesses are required.

(g) Verification.—The application and corroborating affidavits, if required, may be subscribed and sworn to before any officer authorized to administer oaths and having an official seal.

ACTION ON APPLICATION

4. Upon receipt of the papers, the register will carefully examine the same and if found regular transmit them to the General Land Office for appropriate action. In case the land has not been designated, the application will be suspended by the General Land Office until such time as it shall have been designated, or until it shall have been determined that it is not of the character contemplated by the act. If the land shall subsequently be designated under the act, the application will then be approved and a permit issued, if no good and sufficient reason for disapproval be then apparent; otherwise it will be rejected, subject to the right of appeal. During the term of suspension the land will not be subject to disposal in any way.

CONDITIONS OF PERMITS

5. Permits will be granted only upon condition that active operations be begun for the development of underground water within six months from date of approval and continued diligently in good faith until water has been developed in quantity sufficient for the practicable irrigation of not less than 20 acres, or until the date of expiration of the permit; and if the permittee shall not continue such operations in good faith and with reasonable diligence, or if he shall violate any of the terms of the permit, upon presentation of satisfactory proof thereof, the permit will be forthwith canceled and he will not again be granted a permit under the act. (See, however, par. 9.)

PROGRESS REPORTS

6. At or near the end of the six months' period, beginning with the date of the permit, and again at the end of the first year of the life of the permit, if final proof of water development and reclamation has not been submitted, the permittee, or at least one member of an association of permittees, must file in the proper local land office a properly executed affidavit, corroborated by at least two disinterested witnesses, having knowledge of the facts, showing when the work of exploration was begun, in what manner and to what extent it has been prosecuted, and what results have been obtained. This affidavit may be made before any officer authorized to administer an oath. (See, however, par. 9.)

7. (a) Unless granted an extension of time the permittee is allowed two years from the date of his permit in which to complete the work of exploration, and whenever he shall within that time satisfactorily establish that sufficient water has been discovered, developed, and made permanently available to produce a profitable agricultural crop other than native grasses, upon not less than 20 acres of the land described in the permit, he will be entitled to patent for one-fourth of the land embraced in the permit. No mere perfunctory or questionable compliance with the law will be accepted. It must appear that an agricultural crop has been actually raised—not necessarily a paying or profitable crop, but such a crop as will satisfy the Secretary of the Interior that in time and under ordinary circumstances profitable crops of some sort can be produced from the land. No patent will be granted until the full 20 acres have been cleared, leveled, ditched, plowed, fenced, and an agricultural crop actually planted and raised by irrigation, all in accordance with good farming practice. The wells, pumps, or other works and equipment for the development and supplying of water must be of a permanent and dependable character, suitable for use year after year. A detailed statement of costs of irrigation and production of crops from such water supply will be required; to this end, accurate account should be kept of such costs. No patent can be granted under the act if the cost of irrigation from the developed water supply is practically prohibitive. The act requires a successful development and demonstration of the use of subterranean water, as the principal condition precedent for patent.

(b) The land selected for patent shall be in compact form according to legal subdivisions of the public-land surveys, if the land be surveyed. If the land be unsurveyed, the permittee may, at any time during the life of his permit, apply to the United States surveyor general for the State of Nevada for a survey of the land for which he intends to make application for patent. The surveyor general will thereupon make an estimate of the cost and call on the permittee for a deposit of the amount of the estimate. If the deposit made should prove insufficient, an additional deposit will be called for. If the applicant has not taken steps to procure a survey before submitting final proof, after final proof has been submitted and examined, if same is found satisfactory and acceptable, and in the meantime the public-land system of surveys has not been extended over the lands in question, call will be made on the permittee to make the necessary deposit with the United States surveyor general for Nevada to cover the cost of survey, in which case the issuance of patent will be suspended until the survey is made and accepted. Wherever practicable such official survey will be an extension of the regular system of township surveys, in which case the selection for patent must be conformed to the legal subdivisions of such survey.

(c) The act provides that all entries made and patents issued under its provisions shall be subject to and contain a reservation to the United States of all the coal and other valuable minerals in the lands entered and patented, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same.

(d) On the issuance of patent the remaining area within the limits of the land embraced in the permit will thereafter be subject to entry and disposal only under the act of May 20, 1862 (sec. 2289, U. S. Rev. Stat.), entitled "An act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain," and amendments thereto, in areas not exceeding 160 acres.

FINAL PROOF

8. (a) Final proof of the discovery, development, and availability of sufficient water to justify patent may be made by the permittee, or, in case of his death, by his heirs, executors, or administrators, or in case the permittee is an association of individuals, by any member of such association, at any time such discovery and development as hereinbefore defined, but must be made within two years after the date of the permit; but an additional period, not to exceed one year, may, upon proper showing, be allowed within which to make the required proof of actual irrigation and cultivation.

(b) When a permittee has reclaimed the land and is ready to make final proof he should apply to the register for a notice of intention to make such proof. This notice must contain a complete description of the land selected by him for patent and give the serial number of the permit and name of the claimant. It must also show when, where, and before whom the proof is to be made. Four witnesses may be named in the notice, two of whom must be used in making proof. Care should be exercised to select as witnesses persons who are familiar, from personal observation, with the land in question and with what has been done by the claimant toward reclaiming and improving it. Care should also be taken to ascertain definitely the names and addresses of the proposed witnesses, so that they may correctly appear in the notice.

(c) This notice must be published once a week for five successive weeks in a newspaper of established character and general circulation published nearest the land, and it must also be posted in a conspicuous place in the local land office for the same period of time. The permittee must pay the cost of the publication, but it is the duty of registers to procure the publication of proper final-proof notice, and registers should accordingly exercise the utmost care in that behalf. The date fixed for the taking of the proof must be at least 30 days after the date of first publication. Proof of publication must be made by the affidavit of the publisher of the newspaper or by some one authorized to act for him. The register will certify to the posting of the notice in the local office.

(d) On the day set in the notice (or in the case of accident or unavoidable delay, within 10 days thereafter) and at the place and before the officer designated, the claimant will appear with two of the witnesses named in the notice and make proof of the reclamation of the land. The testimony of each claimant should be taken separately and apart from and not within the hearing of either of his witnesses, and the testimony of each witness should be taken separately and apart from and not within the hearing of either the applicant or of any other witness, and both the applicant and each of the witnesses should be required to state, in and as part of the final-proof testimony given by them, that they have given such testimony without any actual knowledge of any statement made in the testimony of either of the others.

(e) Final proof may be made before the register of the land district in which the land is located, or before a United States commissioner, or a judge or clerk of a court of record in the county or land district in which the land is situated. The only condition permitting the taking of such evidence outside the proper land district is where the county in which the land is situated lies partly in two or more land districts, in which case such evidence may be taken anywhere in the county. In case the proof be taken outside the county wherein the land lies, then, unless it was taken before the proper register, the applicant or entryman must show by his affidavit that the qualified officer employed was the one whose place of business, in the land district, is nearest to or most accessible from the land in question. Forms of final proofs will be furnished in due time.

EXTENSIONS OF TIME

9. The act of September 22, 1922 (42 Stat. 1012), authorizes the allowance under certain conditions of an extension of time for a period not exceeding two years for the beginning, recommencement, or completion of the work of water development and the submission of final proof of reclamation. This does not mean that the extension will be granted as a matter of course, and applications for extension will not be granted unless it be clearly shown that the failure to complete the work of exploration and water development or of reclamation, as the case may be, within the required period was due to no fault on the part of the permittee but to some unavoidable delay for which he was not responsible and could not have readily foreseen.

A permittee who desires to make application for extension of time should file with the register an affidavit setting forth fully the facts, showing how and why he has been prevented from beginning or completing the work of water development and making final proof within the regular period. This affidavit may be subscribed and sworn to before any officer authorized to administer oaths and having an official seal, and must be corroborated by at least two witnesses who have personal knowledge of the facts. The register, after carefully considering all the facts, will forward the application to the General Land Office with appropriate recommendation.

The register is required to suspend any application for extension of time if he considers the affidavits defective in form or substance and to allow the applicant 30 days to make such amendments therein as may be deemed necessary to remove the defects or to file exceptions to the requirements made, advising him that upon his failure to take any action within the time specified appropriate recommendation will be made. After the expiration of the time thus granted the original application and the amended affidavits or exceptions, as the case may be, together with the proper report and recommendations, will be transmitted to the General Land Office for consideration.

CONTESTS AND PROTESTS

10. Contests and protests may be made against applications, permits, and final proofs under this act, the same as other entries or selections under the public land laws, and same will be disposed of in accordance with the Rules of Practice so far as applicable. No preference right, however, can be gained by such contest or protest, but if successful the entire area embraced in the permit will revert to the public domain and the land will be subject to the applicable public land laws.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF GENERAL LAND OFFICE NOT TO PURCHASE PUBLIC LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 15, 1890.[1]

To the Officers and Employees of the Land Department.

GENTLEMEN: Section 452 of the Revised Statutes provides that—

> The officers, clerks, and employees in the General Land Office are prohibited from directly or indirectly purchasing or becoming interested in the purchase of any of the public land, and any person who violates this section shall forthwith be removed from his office.

The honorable Secretary of the Interior, in the case of Herbert McMicken et al. (10 L. D. 97; 11 L. D. 96), has decided that the disqualification to enter public lands, contained in said section, extends to officers, clerks, and employees in any of the branches of the public service under the control and supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the discharge of his duties relating to the survey and sale of the public lands.

In accordance with said decision, all officers, clerks, and employees in the offices of the surveyors general, the local land offices, and the General Land Office, or any persons, wherever located, employed under the supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, are, during such employment, prohibited from entering, or becoming interested, directly or indirectly, in any of the public lands of the United States.

Very respectfully,

LEWIS A. GROFF, Commissioner.

RIGHT OF WIFE OF EMPLOYEE OF GENERAL LAND OFFICE TO PURCHASE PUBLIC LAND[2]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., May 12, 1906.

To all Officers, Clerks, and Employees of the United States Who Are in Any Way Connected with Enforcement of the Public Land Laws:

1. Your attention is called to section 452, United States Revised Statutes, which reads as follows:

> The officers, clerks, and employees in the General Land Office are prohibited from directly or indirectly purchasing or becoming interested in the purchase of any of the public land; and any person who violates this section shall forthwith be removed from his office. (See 11 L. D. 348.)

In construing this statute the department has held (10 L. D. 97), that its provisions—> extend to officers, clerks, and employees in any of the branches of the public service under the control and supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the discharge of his duties relating to the survey and sale of the public lands.

2. Acting under the spirit of this law and the decisions referred to, this office will recommend the removal or dismissal of any of the above-named officers, clerks, or employees who shall, either for themselves or others, in any manner negotiate for, buy, sell, or locate, any warrant, scrip, lieu land selection, soldiers' additional right, or any other negotiable right or claim under which an interest in public lands may be asserted, as well as such officers, clerks, or employees who shall, except in the discharge of an official duty, help or in any manner whatever aid or assist in any such negotiations, purchases, sales, or locations as may be made by others for speculative purposes, or who shall in any manner whatever, except in the discharge of an official duty, furnish any information whatever to, or in any manner be in communication with, any person, firm, or corporation dealing in any such rights, in relation to such rights.

3. While section 452 of the Revised Statutes does not prohibit the acquisition of title to the public lands of the United States under appropriate laws by the wives of officers, clerks, and employees of the land department it is not deemed advisable or proper in the interest of good administration that they should do so.. Accordingly, such officers, clerks, and employees are advised that the application, entry, purchase, or acquisition of title, directly or indirectly, to any of the public lands by their wives, prior to the separation from the service of such officers, clerks, or employees, will be deemed a sufficient cause upon which to base a recommendation for removal or dismissal from the service of the officer, clerk, or employee whose wife acquires or seeks to acquire title to any of the public lands.

Circular No. 51

COMPLETION OF JURATS AND CERTIFICATES ON APPLICATIONS, AFFIDAVITS, AND DEPOSITIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., September 6, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The attention of this office has been recently directed to a loose and careless practice obtaining in some district land offices, as well as in the procedure of many officers authorized to administer oaths in connection with entries of public lands, whereby the jurat or certificate, showing due administration of the requisite oath, is not completed immediately following oath or immediately following completion of testimony by a witness giving his deposition, but is postponed to a more convenient time. It has also been seen that many of these certificates are not completed in such form as to render certain the manner in which the applicant or witness was identified, whether by personal knowledge of the officer by whom the oath was administered, or by the assurance of some other person to said officer well known, or at all. This ambiguity or uncertainty results from the failure of the officer to strike out of the printed form of certificate such portion of the matter therein contained as does not disclose the means of identification actually employed, thus allowing two forms of statement, one of which is the alternative of the other, to remain and appear in said certificate.

While the forms provided for use in the preparation of these certificates sufficiently indicate to an intelligent officer what matter shall remain and what should be eliminated, and while the instructions heretofore promulgated (circular of Mar. 24, 1905,[a] 33 L. D. 480) are clear and specific in terms and positive in their direction, official neglect of and inattention to those important duties continues to be displayed.

The object of this communication is to insist upon a vigilant and intelligent adherence to and enforcement of the regulations in this behalf made. In the future you will strictly observe the injunction now laid upon you to fully complete each and every application, affidavit, or deposition executed or submitted in your office, by preparing and signing the requisite jurat or certificate immediately following the administration of an oath to an applicant or affiant, or immediately on complete submission of his testimony by a witness giving in his deposition in final proof or other proceeding. The form of certificate should be carefully examined and one of the alternative forms of statement eliminated, so that the certificate, when completed, will distinctly disclose the means by which the identify of the applicant or witness was effected.

On receipt of any application, affidavit, or deposition in which the appended jurat or certificate does not conform to the regulations herein referred to, you will suspend action thereon, notifying the applicant or entryman of the defect, and, on his request and at his expense, you will return the defective paper to the officer by whom the jurat or certificate was signed, with leave to him to amend the same, upon its face, in such manner as to cure the defect, and in accordance with the facts as they existed at the time the oath was administered. If amendment is refused or can not be effected, the paper will be rejected as insufficient, with due notice of such rejection to the interested parties.

No officer will be permitted to exact any fee or compensation for correction of a defect for which he is responsible, and neglect or refusal on the part of any such officer to remedy his error or to return with reasonable promptness any paper transmitted to him for amendment, as aforesaid, will be cause for an order denying to him the privilege of receiving testimony in final proof and other proceedings. You will report to this office the name, official character, and address of any officer of whose violation of these instructions you may receive information.

A sufficient number of copies of this circular letter will be supplied to you, from which you will furnish one copy to each and every officer in your district who is empowered by law to administer oaths in connection with public-land entries, and you will, in transmitting the same, urge them to be attentive to the warning hereby conveyed.

Very respectfully,

S. V. PROUDFIT,
Acting Commissioner.

SUGGESTIONS TO UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS AND JUDGES AND CLERKS OF COURTS OF RECORD, UNDER SECTION 2294, UNITED STATES REVISED STATUTES, AS AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 23, 1915.[3]

The following is a revision of the circular of March 24, 1905 (33 L. D. 480), the paragraphs amended being those numbered 2, 8, 9, and 10. A new paragraph 13 is inserted, and former paragraph 13 is now numbered 14.

1. No oath in support of any application, entry, proof, or claim to public lands should be administered to any stranger until he has first been reliably made known and identified to the officer administering it as the identical person he represents himself to be.

---

2. No jurat or certificate should be attached to any oath, affidavit, application, proof, or other written statement affecting public lands until such oath, affidavit, application, proof, or statement has been fully written out and completed, and until all blank spaces in any blank form prescribed or used therefor shall have been fully filled out or erased, and not then until after the same has been sworn to and signed by the affiant before and in the presence of the attesting officer and fully read by or made known to the affiiant. No certification of papers will be recognized by the Land Department in the absence of a seal duly impressed by the officer.

3. Final proofs should in every case be made at the time and place advertised, and before the officer named in the notice, at his regularly established office or place of business, and not elsewhere. Between the hours of 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on the day advertised the officer named in the notice should call the case for hearing, and should the claimant fail to appear with his witnesses between those hours, or the taking of the proof fail to be completed on that day, the officer should continue the case until the next day, and on that day or any succeeding day should the claimant or his witnesses fail to so appear he should proceed in like manner to continue the case from day to day until the expiration of 10 days from the date advertised, but proof can not be taken after the expiration of the tenth day. Upon continuing any case in the manner indicated the officer continuing the same should in the most effective way available give notice of such continuance to all interested parties.

4. Protestants, adverse claimants, or other persons desiring to be present at the taking of any proof for the purpose of cross-examining the claimant and his witnesses, or to submit testimony in rebuttal, should be allowed to appear for that purpose on the day advertised, or upon any succeeding day to which the case may be continued. If any person appears for the purpose of filing a formal protest against the acceptance or approval of the proofs or contest against the entry and does nothing more than file same, such protest or contest should be received and forwarded to the register and receiver for their consideration and action.

5. All final proofs should be reduced to writing by or in the presence of and under the supervision of the officer taking them, and in all cases where no special agent or other representative of the Government appears for the purpose of making cross-examinations the officer taking the proof should use his utmost endeavor and diligence so to examine the entryman and his witnesses as to obtain full, specific, and unevasive answers to all questions propounded on the blank forms prescribed for the taking of such proofs, and in addition to so doing he should make and reduce to writing and forward to the register and receiver with the proof such other and further rigid cross-examination as may be necessary clearly to develop all pertinent and material facts affecting or showing the validity of the entry, the entryman's compliance with the law, and the credibility of the claimant and his witnesses. And, in addition to this, he should inform the register and receiver of any facts not set out in the testimony which in his judgment, cast suspicion upon the good faith of the applicant or the validity of the entry.

6. The testimony of each claimant should be taken separate and apart from and not within the hearing of either of his witnesses, and the testimony of each witness should be taken separate and apart from and not within the hearing of either the applicant or of any other witness, and both the applicant and each of the witnesses should be required to state in and as a part of the final proof testimony given by them that they have given such testimony without any actual knowledge of any statement made in the testimony of either of the others.

7. Officers taking affidavits and testimony should call the attention of parties and witnesses to the laws respecting false swearing and the penalties therefor and inform them of the purpose of the Government to hold all persons to a strict accountability for any statements made by them.

8. The officer who has taken a proof should, after duly certifying the papers, promptly transmit them to the register and receiver. In no case should the transmittal thereof be left to the claimant.

9. No fee in excess of 25 cents can be lawfully charged or received for administering the oath to any affidavit, application, proof, or any other written statement affecting public lands; but there is no restriction on the fee the officer may charge for preparation of any paper, except that the total amount to be received for taking and writing out the final proof testimony of a claimant or of a witness, and administering the oath thereto, shall not exceed the sum of $1. Any officer demanding or receiving greater sums than are here specified for such services will be subject to indictment and punishment under amended section 2294 of the United States Revised Statutes.

10. No officer who takes an application, affidavit, or final proof in a case will be permitted to act as attorney therein. No United States commissioner will, while holding that office, be recognized or permitted to appear as an agent or attorney for others in any matter pending before the Land Department affecting the title to public lands, nor will he be permitted to enroll himself as agent or attorney to practice before it.

11. No officer authorized to take final proofs shall, directly or indirectly, either as agent, attorney, or otherwise, in any manner or by any means cause, aid, encourage, induce, or assist any person wrongfully or illegally to acquire, or attempt to acquire, any title to, interest in, use of, or control over any public lands belonging to the United States.

12. No officer authorized to take final proofs should, either for himself or as agent, attorney, or representative of another, induce or attempt to induce any owner, entryman, or other person to purchase, sell, mortgage, exchange, lease, or relinquish any lands which are involved, may be involved, or have been involved in any affidavit, application, or proof, executed before him, and he should not, either for himself or as agent for any other person, in any manner solicit or make to any entryman, owner, or claimant any loan or attempted loan the payment of which is to be secured by a lien or mortgage upon such lands; and he should not be or remain a member or stockholder of any copartnership or company which shall, either directly or indirectly, be interested in or benefited by any such sale, mortgage, exchange, lease, relinquishment, or loan, nor accept nor receive in any manner any fee, commission, compensation, emolument, or benefit arising therefrom, except for the lawful discharge of his official duties.

13. An application for public land is not allowable if executed more than 10 days before its filing at the local United States land office.

14. Any officer violating any of these rules may be deprived of the right of further taking final proofs, and when any commissioner has so offended his action may be called to the attention of the court by which he was appointed, with appropriate recommendations. All registers and receivers and special agents have been charged to use their utmost diligence in seeing that these rules are fully and in good faith complied with, and directed to investigate and fully report any apparent violations thereof which may come to their notice.

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES AND THEIR WIVES NOT TO BE INTERESTED IN DISPOSITION OF THE PUBLIC LANDS—REGULATIONS AMENDED SO AS TO INCLUDE LEASES, PERMITS, OR ANY FORM OF APPLICATION

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 21, 1922.

To all Officers, Clerks, and Employees of the General Land Office at Washington or Elsewhere:

1. Your attention is called to section 452, Revised Statutes, which reads as follows:

> The officers, clerks, and employees in the General Land Office are prohibited from directly or indirectly purchasing or becoming interested in the purchase of any of the public land; and any person who violates this section shall forthwith be removed from his office.

2. Departmental circular of September 15, 1890 (11 L. D. 348), stated that said section applied to all officers, clerks, and employees in the offices of the surveyors general, the local land offices, and the General Land Office, or any person wherever located or employed, under the supervision of the General Land Office.

3. Departmental circular of May 12, 1906 (34 L. D. 605), extended the regulations of February 15, 1890, so as to include the wives of officers and employees.

4. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Waskey v. Hammer (223 U. S. 83), referred with approval to the departmental instructions and held that—

> The term "purchase" is inclusive of the various modes of securing title to or rights in public lands under the general laws regulating their disposal.

5. Said circulars of September 15, 1890, and May 12, 1906, are hereby amended so as to apply to the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), and all other acts whereby and whereunder any claim or interest whatsoever in and to the public lands is sought by sale, entry, selection, location, lease, permit, license, or any other form of application.

SECTION 2294, REVISED STATUTES, AS AMENDED BY ACT OF FEBRUARY 23, 1923 (42 STAT. 1281)—SUPPLEMENTAL INSTRUCTIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 8, 1923.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: By office letter of May 7, 1923 (1089363), to the register and receiver at Phoenix, Ariz., approved by the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, it was held that the proofs, affidavits, and oaths mentioned in section 2294, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of February 23, 1923 (42 Stat. 1281), may be executed before a qualified officer within the boundaries of either the county or land district in which the land is located, without any showing as to the nearness or accessibility of such officer, or outside both the county and land district upon a showing by affidavit, satisfactory to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, that the officer so acting was, because of topographic or geographic conditions, nearer or more accessible to the land. Reference is had to Circular No. 884, dated March 23, 1923.

You will be governed accordingly.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 1074

ACTING REGISTERS AUTHORIZED TO ADMINISTER OATHS AT ANY TIME IN PUBLIC LAND MATTERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 24, 1926.

To Registers and Acting Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: By act of May 17, 1926 (44 Stat. 558), provision has been made for acting registers of district land offices to administer oaths at any time in public-land matters. The act reads as follows:

> That a qualified employee of the Department of the Interior who has been designated to act as register of any United States land office pursuant to the provisions of the act of October 28, 1921, "An Act for the consolidation of the offices of register and receiver in certain cases and for other purposes" (Forty-second Statutes at Large, page 208), may at all times administer any oath required by law or the instructions of the General Land Office in connection with the entry or purchase of any tract of public land, but he shall not charge or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation for administering such oath.

The intent and purpose of the act is to avoid delay and inconvenience to public-land claimants by having someone in the land office at all times who is authorized to administer oaths in public-land cases. Under the provisions of the act the acting register may administer oaths at any time, whether the register is present or absent, and no report is required to be made to this office when he performs such service, but nothing contained therein shall be construed to permit the acting register to perform any other duties required to be performed solely by the register when the latter official is on duty, nor to relieve the acting register from the duty of reporting to this office the same as heretofore the exact date and hour of the beginning and termination of his service as acting register at such times as the register may be absent from the office for a day or longer.

The act does not in any way relieve the register of his responsibility for the proper performance of the duties imposed upon him by law, and it is not expected that he will permit private interests to interfere with his active attention to official business, and he is expected to remain on duty at all times except when absent on leave previously granted by this office.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 884 (Revised)[4]

OFFICERS AUTHORIZED TO ADMINISTER OATHS IN PUBLIC LAND CASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 3, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Section 2294, Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of March 11, 1902 (32 Stat. 63); the act of March 4, 1904 (33 Stat. 59); and the act of February 23, 1923 (42 Stat. 1281), provides:

> That hereafter all proofs, affidavits, and oaths of any kind whatsoever required to be made by applicants and entrymen under the homestead, preemption, timber-culture, desert-land, and timber and stone acts, may in addition to those now authorized to take such affidavits, proofs, and oaths be made before any United States commissioner or commissioner of the court exercising Federal jurisdiction in the Territory or before the judge or clerk of any court of record in the county, parish, or land district in which the lands are situated: Provided, That in cases where because of geographic or topographic conditions there is a qualified officer nearer or more accessible to the land involved, but outside the county and land district, affidavits, proofs, and oaths may be taken before such officer: Provided further, That in case the affidavits, proofs, and oaths hereinbefore mentioned be taken outside of the county or land district in which the land is located, the applicant must show by affidavit, satisfactory to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, that it was taken before the nearest or most accessible officer qualified to take such affidavits, proofs, and oaths; but such showing by affidavit need not be made in making final proof if the proof be taken in the town or city where the newspaper is published in which the final proof notice is printed. The proof, affidavit, and oath, when so made and duly subscribed, or which may have heretofore been so made and duly subscribed, shall have the same force and effect as if made before the register and receiver when transmitted to them with the fees and commissions allowed and required by law. That if any witness making such proof, or any applicant making such affidavit or oath, shall knowingly, willfully, or corruptly swear falsely to any material matter contained in said proofs, affidavits, or oaths, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall be liable to the same pains and penalties as if he had sworn falsely before the register. That the fees for entries and for final proofs, when made before any other officer than the register and receiver, shall be as follows:

For each affidavit, 25 cents.

For each deposition of claimant or witness when not prepared by the officer, 25 cents.

For each deposition of claimant or witness prepared by the officer, $1.

Any officer demanding or receiving a greater sum for such services shall be guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished for each offense by a fine not exceeding $100.

The act of May 17, 1926 (44 Stat. 558), provides:

That a qualified employee of the Department of the Interior who has been designated to act as register of any United States land office pursuant to the provisions of the act of October 28, 1921, "An act for the consolidation of the offices of register and receiver in certain cases, and for other purposes" (Forty-second Statutes at Large, page 208), may at all times administer any oath required by law or the instructions of the General Land Office in connection with the entry or purchase of any tract of public land, but he shall not charge or receive, directly or indirectly, any compensation for administering such oath.

The act of July 3, 1926 (44 Stat. 830), provides:

That in all cases in which, under the laws of the United States, oaths are authorized or required to be administered, they may be administered by notaries public duly appointed in any State, District, or Territory of the United States, by clerks and prothonotaries of courts of record of any such State, District, or Territory, by the deputies of such clerks and prothonotaries, and by all magistrates authorized by the laws of or pertaining to any such State, District, or Territory to administer oaths.

As a result of the enactment of the said acts of May 17 and July 3, 1926, oaths in public land cases may now be executed before the register or the acting register of the United States land office and, in Alaska, before the receiver (where there is a receiver), or before a United States commissioner, or a notary public, or before a judge or clerk or prothonotary of a court of record, or the deputy of such clerk or prothonotary, or before a magistrate authorized by the laws of the State, District, or Territory of the United States to administer oaths, in the county, parish, or land district in which the land lies, or before any officer of the classes mentioned who resides nearer or more accessible to the land, although he may reside outside of the county and land district in which the land is situated.

Where an oath is administered before an officer outside of the county, parish, or land district in which the land applied for is situated, an affidavit must be furnished satisfactory to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, that because of topographic or geographic conditions the officer was nearer or more accessible to the land; but in those States in which there is no United States land office an affidavit may be executed before any qualified officer in the State without any showing as to his nearness or accessibility with reference to any particular county.

Except as to the register or the acting register, the official character of any officer not using a seal of office must be certified to under seal by the clerk of court having the record of his appointment and qualifications.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

OKLAHOMA LANDS

CIRCULAR NO. 852[1]

REGULATIONS FOR THE OPENING TO ENTRY OF LANDS IN THE EASTERN SALINE RESERVE, OKLA.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 22, 1922.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER, Guthrie, Okla.

GENTLEMEN: Executive Order No. 2685 of August 16, 1917, temporarily withdrew under the authority of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), as amended by the act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497), certain lands in Oklahoma, pending determination as to the advisability of reserving said lands for military purposes.

Executive Order No. 3705, approved July 1, 1922, revoked said order of August 16, 1917, and the lands withdrawn thereunder were returned to the Department of the Interior for disposition as may be provided by law. Under date of July 24, 1922, copies of said Executive Order No. 3705 were sent your office and you were informed that you would be later advised of the disposition to be made of said lands.

The records of this office show that the Eastern Saline Reserve, located in Alfalfa County, Okla., was made pursuant to the act of August 7, 1882 (22 Stat. 349), by presidential proclamation dated August 19, 1893 (28 Stat. 1222). This reservation was restored to the public domain by presidential proclamation of July 27, 1898 (30 Stat. 1779), to be disposed of under the laws relating to the public lands in the Cherokee Outlet, subject to the policy of the Government in disposing of saline lands. The lands in the Cherokee Outlet were subject to disposition under section 10 of the act of March 3, 1893 (27 Stat. 612, 640). Said act provided for the disposition of said lands under section 13 of the act of March 2, 1889 (25 Stat. 1005), said act providing for the disposition thereof to actual settlers under the homestead and townsite laws only.

The act of January 31, 1901 (31 Stat. 745), provides that all unoccupied lands of the United States containing salt springs or deposits of salt in any form, and chiefly valuable therefor, are declared to be subject to location and purchase under the provisions of the law relating to placer mining claims. By instructions of November 14, 1901 (31 L. D. 131), local offices were instructed to require an affidavit showing that the lands applied for contained no salt springs or deposits of salt in any form sufficient to render said land chiefly valuable therefor. The lands in said Eastern Saline Reserve, in so far as they are chiefly valuable for salt springs or deposits of salt, are subject to disposition only under said act of January 31, 1901.

All withdrawals affecting these lands having now been revoked, these lands will now be opened to entry in accordance with departmental regulations of May 17, 1917 (46 L. D. 121), and departmental decision of May 6, 1919 (47 L. D. 141).

(List of lands omitted.)

In the absence of other withdrawals or valid adverse claims, all of the vacant, unappropriated public land therein not chiefly valuable for salt will become subject to entry under the homestead laws only with a preference right to qualified ex-service men of the World War, who have been honorably discharged or separated from the service, under the provisions of the act of February 14, 1920 (41 Stat. 434), as amended.

Preference to ex-service men.—1. From November 13, 1922, to February 10, 1923, both dates inclusive, lands may be entered under the homestead laws only, by ex-service men of the World War who have been honorably discharged or separated from the service or placed in the Regular Army or Navy Reserve, provided that from October 23, 1922, to November 11, 1922, both dates inclusive, applications may be presented by such persons under said laws, such applications to be treated as simultaneously filed and disposed of before action is taken on other preference applications.

General disposition.—2. The lands, if any, not disposed of during said preference period will become subject to appropriation under any applicable land laws, including settlement under the homestead law in advance of entry, by any qualified persons, on March 5, 1923, and not before then, provided that from February 12, 1923, to March 3, 1923, both dates inclusive, any qualified persons may present applications for said land under the homestead laws only, such applications to be treated as simultaneously filed and disposed of before action is taken on other nonpreference applications.

The preference rights above provided for are subject to valid settlement rights or equitable claims recognized by existing laws, and such claims should be asserted during the 20-day period provided in paragraph 1.

In the event conflicts appear between applications treated as simultaneously filed, as herein provided, drawings will be held to determine the order in which the conflicting applications will be acted upon.

Homestead entrymen will be required to comply with the usual requirements, pay the usual fees and commissions required by law and also to make payment for the land embraced in this Eastern Saline Reserve, at the rate of $1.50 per acre. This money may be paid in full at the date of the allowance of the entry or acceptance of final proof, with interest upon the amount so to be paid for said land from date of entry to date of final payment therefor at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. After acceptance of final proof and payment in full for the land, a final certificate may be issued.[2]

You will make proper notations relating to this opening upon your records, post a copy in your office, and give as much publicity as possible, as a matter of news, without expense to the Government, by forwarding copies hereof to the post office nearest the land for posting therein for the information of the public, and by transmitting copies or items concerning same to the newspapers published nearest the land, being careful not to send such copies or items without calling the particular attention of the publishers to the fact that it is sent as a matter of news and that the Government will not be responsible for the cost of any publication thereof.

[2] See amendment, p. 1041.

Acknowledge receipt hereof and promptly report your compliance with the instructions herein contained.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

ISOLATED TRACT LAW EXTENDED TO OKLAHOMA

[Public—No. 313—70th Congress—(45 Stat. 457)]

[S. 2725]

AN ACT To extend the provisions of section 2455, United States Revised Statutes, to certain public lands in the State of Oklahoma

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all the provisions of section 2455, United States Revised Statutes (section 1171, Title 43, United States Code), as amended, be, and they are hereby, extended to surveyed, unreserved, unappropriated nonmineral public lands in that part of the State of Oklahoma formerly comprised in Oklahoma Territory: Provided, That this Act shall not apply to any such area where under existing law such lands are now subject to public or private sale: Provided further, That the proceeds of all sales hereunder shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of such fund or funds as may be provided by existing law for the disposition of such lands.

Approved April 24, 1928.

Applications under this act will be governed by the regulations contained in Circular No. 684, copies of which and forms of application may be obtained of the General Land Office, Washington, D. C.

PAYMENT FOR EASTERN SALINE RESERVE LANDS, OKLAHOMA

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 13, 1929.

The Sectetary of the Interior.

Sir: The third paragraph from the end of Circular 852, dated September 22, 1922, being Regulations for the Opening to Entry of Lands in the Eastern Saline Reserve, Okla., is hereby amended to read as follows:

> Homestead entrymen will be required to comply with the usual requirements and pay the usual fee and commissions. If regular 3-year proof is submitted no price per acre is required to be paid, but if commutation proof is offered the lands in this Eastern Saline reservation must be paid for at the rate of $1.50 per acre in accordance with institutions issued March 21, 1901 (30 L. D. 540).

OPENINGS AND RESTORATIONS

[Reported, 43 L. D. 254]

CIRCULAR NO. 324[1]

DISPOSITION OF APPLICATIONS, FILINGS, AND SELECTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 22, 1914.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Hereafter when lands unsurveyed or withdrawn or reserved are to become subject to disposition under the laws applicable thereto by the filing of a township plat of survey or by restoration to entry from such withdrawals or reservations all applications, filings, or selections therefor may be executed in the manner required by law and, with the required fee and commissions, be presented to the proper local land office in person, by mail or otherwise, within the period of 20 days prior to the date of filing the township plat or of restoration to entry, unless the law or the regulations governing the disposition of a particular application or the land affected otherwise provide. No priority will be secured nor right forfeited by the presentation of such application, filing, or selection in the manner and within the time prescribed prior to the filing of the township plat or the restoration of the land to entry, and all such applications, filings, and selections shall, with those presented by persons present at the local office at the hour the lands become subject to entry, be held and treated as simultaneously filed.

Applications presented after the lands become subject to entry will be received and noted in the order of their filing.

Any application, filing, or selection not based on a prior settlement right will be subject to valid settlement claims asserted in the manner required by law.

The register and receiver will carefully compare all applications simultaneously filed as aforesaid and will dispose of them as follows:

1. Where there is no conflict the application shall be allowed, irrespective of whether settlement is alleged.

2. In case of conflicting applications and only one of the applicants alleged prior settlement, his application shall be allowed and the others rejected.

3. If two or more conflicting applications are received, each containing allegations of prior settlement, a hearing shall be ordered to determine the priority of right, and it shall be restricted to those alleging such right.

4. Where there are applications conflicting in whole or in part in which no one of the several applicants claims prior settlement the register and receiver will write on cards the names of the several applicants, and each of these cards shall be placed in an envelope upon which there is no distinctive or identifying mark, and at 2 o'clock p. m. on the date of opening to entry, if practicable (if not, at the same hour one week later), after all the envelopes containing the names of the several applicants shall have been thoroughly mixed in the presence of such persons as may desire to be present, they shall be drawn and numbered in order. The cards as numbered and drawn will be securely fastened to the applications of the respective persons, and the applications shall be allowed in such order. Where any applicant fails to obtain all the land applied for by him he will be permitted to elect whether he will retain the land secured and amend his application to embrace other lands not affected by pending applications and otherwise subject thereto when such amended application is presented, or withdraw his original application without prejudice, and in the event of such withdrawal the fee and commissions will be returned by the receiver. Applications conflicting in whole with those previously allowed will be rejected in the usual manner.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT LANDS, ETC.

[Reported, 46 L. D. 424]

Circular No. 611

REGULATIONS GOVERNING EXCHANGE OF OREGON AND CALIFORNIA LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 17, 1918.

The Secretary of the Interior.

Sir: I have the honor to submit herewith, for your approval, the following general regulations for carrying into effect the act of Congress approved May 31, 1918, " To authorize the Secretary of the Interior to exchange for lands in private ownership lands formerly embraced in the grant to the Oregon and California Railroad Company."

Section 1. Proposals for exchange should be addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and filed in the United States Land Office of the district in which the land is situated, setting forth by section, township, and range the lands tendered for exchange, and by similar description the lands desired in return therefor. Such proposal should include an agreement to pay the expense of a field examination, in case the Secretary determines to effect an exchange, if a cruise shall show the same feasible and to the interest of the Government.

Sec. 2. With the proposal for exchange should be furnished a duly authenticated abstract of title to the lands submitted as a basis of exchange, brought down to the date of the proposal, showing at such time the legal and equitable title to be vested in the proponent and the lands free from all liability for taxes, pending suits, judgment liens, or other encumbrances, except such as may be set forth in the proposal and due provision made for the extinguishment thereof.

The proposal should also be accompanied by as full data as is available as to the character of the land and the amount and kind of timber on the land proposed to be exchanged.

Sec. 3. The district officers, on the receipt of a proposal for exchange, shall file the same, giving it a serial number and after due notation on the records of the lands desired in exchange, transmit the same to the General Land Office with a statement as to any existing conflicts, if such be shown on their records.

Applications to enter tendered for any of the lands involved in a proposed exchange will be received, duly noted of record, and suspended until further advised.

Sec. 4. On the receipt of a proposal for exchange in the General Land Office it shall be given a preliminary examination, and if found substantially in the required form and prima facie justifying favorable action it shall be submitted to the Secretary with such recommendation as may be deemed appropriate for his consideration and such instructions as to subsequent action thereon as he may deem advisable in the premises.

Sec. 5. In the event of favorable action by the Secretary on the proposed exchange as submitted to him, the General Land Office will refer the same to the field for a cruise of the tracts involved, if such cruise has not already been made, and call upon the proponent to deposit such sums with the receiver of the proper land office as may be estimated as necessary to pay the expense thereof.

Sec. 6. Before final action is taken upon a proposal; such a cruise shall be had and furnished as shall disclose the kind, character, and value of the timber standing and being upon each 40-acre subdivision of the lands involved in the proposed transaction, and owned by each of the parties thereto, so that it can be determined from such cruise whether the lands offered in exchange are of approximately equal aggregate value of those sought in exchange.

A comprehensive report by the field officer in charge of the cruise shall also be made, setting forth such facts with respect to the topography of the land tendered in exchange, and the extent and direction of the water courses thereon which should be known in order to determine the value of the timber on such lands as a logging proposition.

Sec. 7. If after a cruise of the lands involved and such other investigation as may be deemed expedient, the proposed exchange seems advisable, either in whole or in part, and the proponent agrees to and accepts such conclusion, the commissioner shall direct a publication of the notice of the proposal in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the city of Portland, for a period of 30 days, describing said lands and advising all persons having any claim thereto that the same should be filed in the district land office within said period of publication.

Sec. 8. In the absence of any adverse claims filed in response to the notice of publication, or otherwise, or after the disposition of such claims, the proposal for exchange will be taken up for such final action as may be warranted on the facts presented as to the relative value of the lands involved considered in the aggregate, and the resulting advantage to the United States by the acceptance of the proposal; due consideration being given to any intervening proposals for the right of exchange.

Sec. 9. So far as can now be anticipated, the only adverse claims that can arise, or be entitled to consideration under a proposal for exchange, so far as the revested lands are concerned, are such as may be asserted under the preference right accorded settlers by section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), or under the mining laws, either one of which, if well founded, will serve to except the land covered thereby from the exchange; and inasmuch as said act extends the mining laws generally to the revested lands (power sites excepted only), none of the revested lands if known to be mineral in character, or withdrawn as power sites, can be held subject to exchange, matters that should not be overlooked by the field officer in submitting his general report.

SEC. 10. After due consideration of the proposal, the reports obtained thereon and such other evidence as may be submitted, the commissioner will submit to the Secretary of the Interior his report with respect to the proposal and his recommendation as to the action that should be taken thereon.

SEC. 11. On the approval of the proposal by the Secretary of the Interior, the proponent will be advised thereof and called upon to file in the General Land Office a deed, duly recorded, of the lands accepted in exchange with the abstract brought down to the date of recordation, and upon the receipt of such deed and abstract the commissioner will direct the issuance of a patent to the proponent for the lands given in exchange.

A copy of the act is inclosed herewith.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

COOS BAY WAGON ROAD LANDS—ACT OF FEBRUARY 26, 1919

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 21, 1919.

CHIEF OF FIELD DIVISION,
Portland, Oreg.:

The act of Congress (40 Stat. 1179), approved February 26, 1919, in section 1, authorizes a compromise of pending litigation between the United States and the Southern Oregon Co., upon the execution and delivery to the United States by said company of a deed satisfactory to the Attorney General of the United States, conveying all the right, title, and interest held by said company in and to the lands situated in the counties of Coos and Douglas, in the State of Oregon, and embraced within the limits of the former grant made by the United States to the State of Oregon to aid in the construction of a military wagon road from the navigable waters of Coos Bay to Roseburg, in said State, and provides that said lands shall thereupon again become part of the public domain; and further, that the execution and delivery of the said deed of reconveyance within 30 days after the approval of said act shall constitute the acceptance of said act by the Southern Oregon Co.

By letter of March 11, 1919, from the Attorney General, the department received a deed of reconveyance executed February 27, 1919, and delivered by the Southern Oregon Co. on March 10, 1919, reconveying said lands to the United States, and declared satisfactory by the Attorney General, which was inclosed to you by letter of March 18, 1919, directing you to have the same duly made of record in the counties of Coos and Douglas. From this it will be seen that by the terms of this act and the action taken thereunder by said company, the lands so reconveyed are now a part of the public domain.

TAXES

By section 2 of this act it is provided:

> That the taxes accrued, unpaid, and delinquent on the said lands on the date of the delivery of the deed provided for in section 1 shall be paid by the Treasurer of the United States upon order of the Secretary of the Interior, as soon as may be after this act becomes effective.

It is incumbent upon the department to proceed as promptly as may be in the ascertainment and payment of the taxes accrued, unpaid, and delinquent on said lands March 10, 1919, the date of the delivery of the deed provided for in section 1 of said act. By this it is meant that in the computation of the taxes to be paid, the interest, penalties, and costs lawfully incident to delinquencies are to be included therein, up to and including the date aforesaid.

The department is advised that the tax claims of the two counties have been prepared in detail, covering, it is understood, the taxes in said counties since 1908, and that copies thereof will be submitted to this office and your field division at an early date. On the receipt of these claims you will at once proceed to their adjustment, by examination of the original tax rolls and records of said counties, after a careful check of the lands reconveyed to the United States. The statutory provisions of the State in the matter of interest, penalties, and costs due in the case of delinquent taxes, should be given especial attention.

On the conclusion of your examination make a report in detail to this office, as to the claims of each county, with appropriate recommendations, submitting therewith a statement of the claims of said counties, with certificate of the proper official as to the verity of said claims.

CLASSIFICATION

By section 3 of this act it is provided:

> That the lands shall be classified and disposed of in the manner provided by the act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), for the classification and disposition of the Oregon and California railroad grant lands.

Turning to the act last above cited for directions that will control in the matter of the classification of these lands, it is found that section 2 of that act authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, after due examination in the field, to classify said lands by the smallest legal subdivisions into three classes, as follows:

Class 1. Power-site lands, which shall include only such lands as are chiefly valuable for water power sites, which lands shall be subject to withdrawal and such use and disposition as has been or may be provided by law for other public land of like character.

Class 2. Timber lands, which shall include lands bearing a growth of timber not less than 300,000 feet, board measure, on each 40-acre subdivision.

Class 3. Agricultural lands, which shall include all lands not falling within either of the two other classes.

The classification of lands valuable for power site will be under the supervision of the Geological Survey, but the classification of the lands falling into classes 2 and 3 will be under your direction. No specific directions are requisite as to the manner of cruising and classifying the lands now in question, or the submission of reports thereon, for the reason that your practical knowledge of this matter, in connection with the classification of the Oregon and California lands makes it unnecessary.

PREFERENCE RIGHTS

It will be observed that section 3 of this act directs the disposition of these lands in the manner provided by the act of June 9, 1916, and that section 5 of the latter act provides for the disposal of agricultural lands, directing that nonmineral lands of class 3 shall be subject to entry under the general provisions of the homestead laws, excluding the rights of commutation, but awarding a preference right of entry to "any person duly qualified to enter such lands who has resided thereon, to the same extent and in the same manner as is required under the homestead laws, since the 1st day of December, 1913, and who has improved the land and devoted some portion thereof to agricultural use, and who shall have maintained his residence to the date of such application." In addition to these methods of disposition found in the act of 1916, it is further provided in section 3 of the present act that:

> Such persons who, being citizens of the United States, have continuously leased from the Southern Oregon Company for a period of not less than 10 years, or who, under lease from said company, have cultivated and placed valuable improvements upon any of said lands classified as agricultural, not exceeding 160 acres to each person, shall be allowed a preference right of six months in which to purchase such lands from the United States by paying therefor the sum of $2.50 per acre, and reimbursing the United States for the taxes paid on such land: Provided further, That where any of such leased lands have been resided upon to the same extent and in the same manner as is required under the homestead laws since the first day of December, 1913, by any person duly qualified to enter such lands, claiming adversely to such lessee, and who has improved the land and devoted some portion thereof to agricultural use, and who shall have maintained his residence to the date of his application, the claim of such settler and resident shall be superior to that of the lessee, and he shall be allowed the preference right of entry afforded actual settlers by section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916, aforesaid.

In the classification of these lands we will therefore have to provide for the protection of three classes of preferred rights: (1) Lessees who have continuously leased from the Southern Oregon Co. lands for a period of not less than 10 years; (2) lessees from said company who have cultivated and placed valuable improvements upon any of said lands; and (3) those whose claims depend upon residence and cultivation in accordance with the homestead law since December 1, 1913. You will, accordingly, in the examination in the field of these lands, pay especial attention to the claims of people who may be found thereon, indicating the location of all of their improvements on the proper subdivisions, with a full description thereof, together with a brief statement as to the alleged duration and character of the claim asserted to the land; and to the same end you will call upon the Southern Oregon Co. for a statement of all outstanding leases.

The period of six months accorded to lessees by this section, within which to perfect their claims, will begin to run from the date fixed for the opening of these lands after the classification thereof as herein directed.

The interest of the public in the early restoration of these lands requires all diligence in the matter of their classification, consistent with accurate results.

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 705

DISPOSITION OF LANDS FORMERLY WITHIN THE OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD GRANT AND COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 22, 1920.

SECTION 1. The act of Congress approved June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), regulating the disposition of lands formerly embraced in the grants to the Oregon & California Railroad Co. and the Coos Bay Wagon Road Co., amends prior statutory provisions with respect to said lands as follows:

(a) Authorizes the sale of timber on lands withdrawn as power sites.

(b) Protects the preference rights of settlers on lands withdrawn as power sites.

(c) Authorizes the exchange of Coos Bay Wagon Road lands for lands in private ownership.

(d) Requires applicants for the right of exchange to pay a filing fee.

SALE OF TIMBER ON POWER SITES

SEC. 2. Section 1 of the act authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, in the administration of the acts of June 9, 1916, and February 26, 1919, in his discretion, to sell the timber on lands classified and withdrawn as power sites, in the manner and at such times as provided for the sale of timber from lands classified as timberlands, with due regard to the preference rights of settlers and claimants accorded by said acts. The instructions, therefore, of September 15, 1917[a] (46 L. D. 447), governing the sale of timber on isolated tracts of Oregon and California lands, classified as timberlands (extended by instructions approved September 26, 1919, to Coos Bay Wagon Road lands), will now be equally applicable to lands classified and withdrawn as power sites under either of said acts.

---

[a] Present instructions governing the sale of timber on revested Oregon and California railroad grant and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands are contained in Circular No. 1200, p. 1064.

PROTECTION OF PREFERENCE RIGHTS

SEC. 3. Under the proviso to section 1 of the act, if a valid claim for a preferred right of entry under section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916, or a preference right of purchase or entry under section 3 of the act of February 26, 1919, is shown to exist, for lands classified and withdrawn as power-site lands, it may be exercised therefor under the conditions specified under section 2 of the act, which provides for the disposition of lands thus entered or sold for water-power purposes upon the compensation of the owner of the land for actual damages sustained by the loss of his improvements thereon, such condition to be expressly stated in the patent.

Applications for the exercise of the preferred right of entry on lands withdrawn for power-site purposes that have been suspended on account of such withdrawal will be taken up for adjudication without delay.

EXCHANGE OF WAGON-ROAD LANDS

SEC. 4. The provisions of the act of May 31, 1918, (40 Stat. 593), authorizing the exchange of lands formerly embraced in the grant to the Oregon & California Railroad Co. for lands in private ownership, as amended by section 4 of this act, are extended by section 3 thereof to the lands embraced in the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant and reconveyed under the act of February 26, 1919; the regulations, therefore, of July 17, 1918 (46 L. D. 424), will govern the procedure in proposals for exchange of the wagon-road lands.

FILING FEES

SEC. 5. The act of May 31, 1918, is so amended by section 4 of the present act as to require applicants for the right of exchange to pay a filing fee of $1 each to the register and receiver for each 160 acres or fraction thereof embraced in proposed selections, whether now pending or hereafter tendered.

In pursuance of this authority, receivers will state an account to all proponents for the right of exchange whose applications are now pending, advising such parties that the payment of such fees is a prerequisite to the further consideration of the proposed exchange, and hereafter such fees shall be paid at the time the application for exchange is filed in the district land office.

A copy of the act of June 4, 1920, will be found herewith.

CIRCULAR No. 709

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA LANDS—SALE OF ISOLATED TRACTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 7, 1920.

To the District Land Officers at Vancouver, Wash.; Portland, Roseburg, and Lakeview, Oreg.

GENTLEMEN: Your attention is called to the act of Congress approved May 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 622), to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to dispose, at public sale, of certain isolated and fractional tracts of land formerly embraced in the grant to the Oregon & California Railroad Co., which reads as follows:

> That the provisions of section 2455, Revised Statutes, be, and the same are hereby, extended to class three of the lands formerly embraced by what are known as the Oregon and California Railroad grants, title to which was revested in the United States under the provisions of the act approved June 9, 1916 (Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, p. 218): Provided, That no sales hereunder shall be made for less than $2.50 per acre, and the appraised value of the timber on the land, nor until such lands shall have been subject to homestead entry for a period of two years: Provided further, That the proceeds of such sales shall be applied in the manner prescribed in said act of June 9, 1916 (Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, p. 218).

The provisions of section 2455, Revised Statutes, thus extended to these lands, are those found in said section at the date of this act, which include the amendment of March 28, 1912 (37 Stat. 77), authorizing the sale of "rough and mountainous" tracts under certain conditions. Circular No. 684, dated April 16, 1920,[b] which contains the latest regulations issued under said section as thus amended, will, therefore, be your guide in the administration of this act, in so far as applicable thereto.

The special provisions of the present act, which you must carefully observe and which are not found in said Circular No. 684, are as follows:

(1) The act applies only to lands formerly embraced in the Oregon & California Railroad grant that were revested in the United States by the act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), that have been classified as agricultural, and restored to entry.

(2) No sale shall be made for less than $2.50 per acre, and the appraised value of the timber on the land, nor until such land shall have been subject to homestead entry for a period of two years immediately preceding the application for sale.

(3) The proceeds of the sale shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Oregon and California Land Grant Fund.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved July 7, 1920.

S. G. HOPKINS, Acting Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 1103 [2]

REGULATIONS GOVERNING RESTORATION OF A PORTION OF THE LANDS TITLE TO WHICH WAS REVESTED IN THE UNITED STATES BY THE ACTS APPROVED JUNE 9, 1916 (39 STAT. 218), AND FEBRUARY 26, 1919 (40 STAT. 1179)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, December 10, 1926.

The Superintendent of Opening and Sale Oregon & California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands:

SIR: The act approved June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), revested in the United States the title to what are known as the Oregon & California Railroad grant lands; required that such lands, after examination in the field, be classified as class 1, power-site lands; class 2, timber lands; class 3, agricultural lands; provided for the reservation, subject to additional legislation, of lands of class 1; extended preference rights of entry to qualified persons who since December 1, 1913, resided on lands of classes 2 and 3, under the conditions therein prescribed; and authorized the restoration under the general provisions of the homestead laws as modified by said act of lands of class 3 and also lands of class 2, after the Secretary of the Interior has determined and announced that the merchantable timber thereon has been removed. The lands commonly known as the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant, situated in the counties of Coos and Douglas, in the State of Oregon, have been reconveyed to the United States under the provisions of the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), and are subject to disposition under the provisions of said act, section 3 of which requires that said lands shall be classified and disposed of in the manner provided by the aforesaid act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), and authorizes the purchase by lessees from the Southern Oregon Co. of lands classified as agricultural, not exceeding 160 acres to each person, under terms and conditions therein recited. The act regulating the disposition of lands formerly embraced within the grants to the Oregon & California Railroad Co. and Coos Bay Wagon Road Co., approved June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), extends the preferred right of homestead entry under section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916, and the preference right of purchase or entry under section 3 of the act of February 26, 1919, to lands of class 1, withdrawn as power sites. House Joint Resolution 30, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), gives a preference right of homestead entry to officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines of the World War, upon the restoration to entry of public lands.

Section 4 of the act of June 9, 1916, supra, makes provision for the disposal of lands of class 2 in the manner provided for the disposal of lands of class 3, when the Secretary of the Interior has determined and announced that the merchantable timber thereon has been removed. Relinquishments having been filed by the purchasers of the timber on all such lands of class 2, as are described in the attached list, of all rights under patents for such timber, it is hereby determined and announced, for the purposes mentioned in said section 4, that the merchantable timber thereon has been removed and all said lands accordingly now fall in class 3 and become subject to disposal in the manner herein provided for the disposal of lands of that class, with the exception that the payment of $2.50 per acre shall not be required from entryman upon lands from which the timber has been removed, hereinafter designated cut-over lands.

[2] This circular is the last one issued containing regulations governing the restoration to homestead entry of Oregon & California Railroad Grant and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.

Pursuant to the authority of said acts, and the announcement made with reference to cut-over lands, it is directed that all such lands of class 3 described in the attached list, including cut-over lands, and all surveyed lands of any class, to which a preference right of homestead entry attached and is still existent, under the provisions of the said acts of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), or June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), whether included in such list or otherwise, situated in the Portland and Roseburg, Oreg., land districts, be restored to entry and settlement under the general provisions of the homestead laws as modified by said acts, and subject to the preference rights conferred upon officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines by H. J. Res. 30, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), in the manner hereinafter indicated and not otherwise. If the settlers on lands of class 2 shall not avail themselves of the preferences to which they are entitled, the lands affected thereby shall not be otherwise subject to disposition hereunder. It is further directed, in conformity with the acts approved February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), and June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), that lands classified as agricultural or as valuable for power sites, within the limits of the Coos Bay wagon road grant, be subject to purchase by persons who, being citizens of the United States, continuously leased such lands from the Southern Oregon Co. for a period of not less than 10 years prior to February 26, 1919, or who under lease from said company cultivated and placed valuable improvements upon any of said lands.

SECTION 1. EXPLANATION OF WORDS AND TERMS USED HEREIN.— To avoid repetition, and for a full understanding thereof, the following words and terms, as hereinafter employed, unless otherwise indicated by the context, shall be construed to mean:

"General law": Section 2289, Revised Statutes, as amended and as modified by the act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218).

"The proviso": The proviso to section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), as amended and extended by the acts of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), and June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), conferring preference rights to make homestead entries, under the conditions and limitations therein provided, upon qualified persons who since December 1, 1913, resided on revested Oregon & California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road lands.

"H. J. R. 30": House Joint Resolution No. 30, approved January 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 358), giving to discharge soldiers, sailors, and marines a preferred right of entry.

"Application": A homestead application under section 2289, Revised Statutes, as amended, modified, and extended by the acts approved June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), February 26, 1919 (40 Stat.

1179), and June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), on the usual form, and accompanied by all payments required; whether under the general law, the proviso, or H. J. R. 30, there must be included therein or be attached thereto a sworn statement executed before an officer authorized to administer oaths in such cases, setting forth all the facts essential to the allowance of such application.

"Declaratory statement": A declaration under oath, accompanied by the proper payments, by a person entitled to exercise the right, that he intends to enter the described tract of land under the provisions of the homestead laws. Under sections 2304, 2307, and 2309, Revised Statutes, as amended, an officer, soldier, sailor, seaman, or marine, who served for not less than 90 days in the United States Army or Navy during the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, or the Philippine insurrection, and who was honorably discharged, and if he be dead, his widow if unmarried, and in case of her death or remarriage, his minor orphan children, by guardian duly appointed, may file such a declaratory statement, either in person or by agent, and under the provisions of the act of February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), the officers, soldiers, and nurses of the Army, and sailors, seamen, marines, nurses, and officers of the Navy and Marine Corps of the United States, who served for more than 90 days in the Army or Navy in connection with the Mexican border operations, or during the war with Germany and its allies, may file such declaratory statements in persons, but not by agent. Particular attention is directed to the fact that the preference rights conferred by the proviso and by H. J. R. 30 can not be supported by declaratory statements, but must be protected or exercised through homestead applications. Such declaratory statements should, therefore, not be filed until the land becomes subject to disposition under the general law.

The words "officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines," as employed in H. J. R. 30, are generic terms, and embrace privates, seamen, nurses, and all other persons, male or female, who by enlistment or otherwise were regularly enrolled in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States, and who could not voluntarily terminate such service, but does not include civilian employees, or officers, nurses, or members of other organizations not so enrolled in the Army or Navy.

"Cut-over lands": Lands in connection with which it has been determined and announced that the merchantable timber has been removed, formerly class 2 lands, now subject to entry as agricultural lands in class 3. No charge as purchase price is made for lands designated cut-over lands.

SEC. 2. PAYMENTS REQUIRED WITH ALL CLASSES OF APPLICATIONS AND DECLARATORY STATEMENTS.—(a) Applications.—A fee of $5, if the area be less than 81 acres, and $10, if 81 acres or more; commissions at the rate of 3 per cent on lands at $2.50 per acre or a flat rate of 7½ cents per acre, together with a payment of 50 cents per acre for the area embraced in the application as first installment of the purchase price of the land; commissions at the rate of 3 per cent on a basis of $1.25 per acre on cut-over lands or a flat rate of 3¾ cents per acre, no payment as purchase price being necessary.

(b) Declaratory statements.—There must accompany a declaratory statement, which may be filed after the land becomes subject to disposition under the general law, a filing fee of $3, together with a payment of 50 cents per acre for the area included in such statement as first installment of the purchase price as to lands sold at $2.50 per acre and a similar fee of $3 as to cut-over lands, no payment as purchase price being necessary. If an entry, embracing either lands sold at $2.50 per acre or cut-over lands, is made pursuant to such statement, the fees and commissions required with other applications must be paid as mentioned in (a) section 2, and the moneys deposited as first installment of the purchase price with the declaratory statement embracing lands sold at $2.50 per acre will be applied.

SEC. 3. EXECUTION AND PRESENTATION OF APPLICATIONS AND DECLARATORY STATEMENTS.—(a) Applications must be sworn to by the applicant before the register or acting register of the United States land office for the district in which the land is situated, or before a United States commissioner, a notary public, a judge or clerk or prothonotary of a court of record, or the deputy of such clerk or prothonotary, or before any magistrate, authorized by the laws of or pertaining to the State of Oregon, to administer oaths in the county or land district in which the land lies, or if, because of geographic or topographic conditions, there is a qualified officer nearer or more accessible to the land involved, but outside the county and land district, the affidavit may be taken before such officer. After an application has been so executed it may be presented to the register or acting register of the proper land office in person, by mail, or otherwise. No person shall have pending more than one application.

(b) Declaratory statements filed in person must be executed before one of the officers and may be filed in the manner indicated for the execution and filing of applications. Where filed by an agent a soldier may execute the power of attorney before any officer of the United States having a seal and authority to administer oaths, but the agent's affidavit must be executed before one of the foregoing officers.

SEC. 4. PREFERENCE RIGHTS UNDER THE PROVISO.—(a) Filing application.—An application for a preference right of homestead entry under the proviso for either revested Oregon & California railroad lands or Coos Bay wagon road grant lands must be filed at the land office in which the land is situated, on or after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, February 23, and prior to 4.30 p. m., standard time, March 14, 1927, and unless so filed all rights under the proviso will be forfeited.

(b) Showing required.—The prior exercise of the homestead right by any such applicant will be no bar to entry, but with this exception such person must make the same showing required of other applicants under the general law. A person entitled to a preference right under the proviso may enter lands of any class, but entries for lands of class 1 shall be subject to the provisions of section 2 of the act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758). The exercise of the right in any case is limited to the quarter section upon which such person has resided. He can not, therefore, embrace in his application lands of more than one quarter section. If the quarter section upon which he has resided contains no more than 1,200,000 feet, board measure, of timber he must enter the entire quarter section. He can not select therefrom the desirable subdivisions and leave unentered any portion thereof. If such quarter section contains more than 1,200,000 feet, board measure, of timber, the right is limited to the tract or lot or lots containing approximately 40 acres upon which the principal improvements of the settler are situated, and he may enter no more. He must file with his application to enter, and make a part thereof, his sworn statement showing that since December 1, 1913, he has resided on the tract applied for at least seven months in each year, and that he has improved the land, and has devoted some portion thereof to agricultural use; and he must describe such improvements and indicate such agricultural use and the area so affected; and where the entry is sought for land containing more than 1,200,000 feet, board measure, of timber on the quarter section he must show that his principal improvements are situated on the tract or lot or lots containing approximately 40 acres applied for. While a preference-right settler under the proviso must protect his rights by an application to enter, and not by filing a declaratory statement, he may, if otherwise entitled thereto, and he has entered the military or naval service of the United States, avail himself of the applicable privileges conferred by chapter 420, joint resolution approved August 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 671), and the acts approved July 28, 1917 (40 Stat. 248), October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. 391), December 20, 1917 (40 Stat. 430), and March 8, 1918 (40 Stat. 440).

(c) Disposition of applications.—Applications under the proviso will be examined and acted upon by the register or acting register as soon after their receipt as may be. They will be allowed, rejected, or suspended, as the facts may warrant. An application meeting all the requirements herein will be allowed. An application materially defective in substance, or not accompanied by proper payments, or for unsurveyed lands, or for lands the title to which is covered by an outstanding contract, will be rejected. An application accompanied by the proper payments and the showing entitling the person filing it to a preference right, will be suspended if the land embraced therein has not been classified, or the title thereto is in dispute, or is in process of adjudication.

(d) Final proof.—After entry a preference-right claimant under the proviso must comply with the law in the manner required of other entrymen, but he may submit proof at any time when he is able to show that he is entitled to final entry.

SEC. 5. PREFERENCE RIGHTS UNDER H. J. R. 30.—(a) Units.—To avoid confusion in the disposition of the applications, and to provide equal opportunity, as far as may be, the lands of class 3, including cut-over lands, affected hereby have been arranged into units of approximately 160, 120, 80, and 40 acres, respectively, and all persons, excepting those asserting preference rights under the proviso, shall, prior to March 15, 1927, observe such units in filing their applications to enter. No person will be allowed to embrace in his application the lands in more than one unit, nor leave unentered any portion of the unit invaded. A person who, under the law, must restrict his application to less than 160 acres, or who desires to enter a less quantity, must select a unit conforming in area to his qualifications or desires. On and after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, March 15, 1927, any lands of class 3, including cut-over lands, restored hereunder may be entered in the form authorized by the homestead laws, without reference to the units designated herein.

(b) Presentation of applications.—Any person qualified under the general law, and who is entitled to exercise the preference right conferred by H. J. R. 30, may, on and after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, February 23, 1927, execute and present his application to the local office for the district in which the land applied for is situated. Such application will be subject to the rights of the preferred claimants under the proviso and section 11 hereof.

(c) Showing required.—Any person seeking to avail himself of the special privileges conferred by H. J. R. 30 must show, either as a part of his application, or by an accompanying statement sworn to before an officer qualified to execute homestead applications hereunder, that he served in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps on and after April 6, 1917, and prior to March 3, 1921. He must give the approximate period of service, and name the unit or units in which such service was performed, and that on (stating date), he was honorably separated or discharged from such service, or placed in the Regular Army or Navy Reserve, and that he did not refuse to perform such service or to wear the uniform thereof. He should attach to his application a copy of his honorable discharge or separation, or the order placing him in the Regular Army or Navy Reserve, as the case may be, certified as correct by an officer with a seal, but he will not be required to file the original order of discharge or transfer. If he has lost his discharge or is otherwise unable to secure a copy thereof, he must, in a verified statement, explain fully why such copy was not furnished.

(d) Disposition of applications.—All applications presented hereunder received by the register or acting register on and after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, February 23, 1927, and prior to 4.30 p. m., standard time, March 14, 1927, shall be treated as filed simultaneously, and where there is no conflict such application, if in proper form and accompanied by the required payments, will be allowed, on March 15, 1927. If such applications conflict in whole or in part, the rights of the respective applicants will be determined by a public drawing, to be conducted under the supervision of the superintendent of sale, at the United States land offices in which the land is situated, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on March 16, 1927, at the Portland land office, and on March 18, 1927, at the Roseburg land office. The names of the persons who presented the conflicting applications will be written on cards, and these cards shall be placed in envelopes upon which there are no distinctive or identifying marks. The envelopes shall be thoroughly and impartially mixed, and after being mixed shall be drawn one at a time by some disinterested person. As the envelopes are drawn, the cards shall be removed and numbered, beginning with No. 1 and fastened to the applications of the proper persons, which shall be the order in which the applications shall be acted upon and disposed of. If an application can not be allowed for any part of the land applied for, it shall be rejected. If it may be allowed for a part, but not for all the land applied for, the applicant shall be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice within which to notify the register or acting register what disposition to make thereof; during such time he may request that his application be allowed for the land not in conflict, and rejected as to the land in conflict, or that it be rejected as to all the land applied for; or he may apply to have the application amended to include other lands which are subject to entry, and to inclusion in his application, provided he is the prior applicant. If an applicant fails to notify the register or acting register what disposition to make of the application, it will be rejected as to all the land applied for. Applications presented on and after 9 o'clock a. m., March 15, 1927, will be received and noted in the order of their filing, and will be acted upon and disposed of in the usual manner, after all such applications presented before that date have been acted upon and disposed of. Applications to enter (except under the proviso) filed within six months from this date, in conflict with unperfected purchase claims under section 11 hereof, will be suspended to await action on such claims.

(e) Disposition of moneys.—Moneys tendered with applications on or before March 14, 1927, will be deposited by the register or acting register of the local land office to his official credit and promptly accounted for. When a homestead application is allowed in whole or in part, the sums required as fees, commissions, and purchase money will be properly applied, and any moneys in excess of the required amount will be returned to the applicant. Moneys tendered with applications which are rejected in whole will be returned. If an applicant fails to secure all the land applied for, and amends his application to embrace other lands, the moneys theretofore tendered will be applied on account of the required payment under the amended application. If it is not sufficient the applicant will be required to pay the deficiency, and if it is more than sufficient the excess will be returned. Moneys returned to applicants will be by official check of the register or acting register. Moneys tendered with applications presented after March 14, 1927, will be deposited by the register or acting register in the usual manner.

(f) Termination of preference right period under H. J. R. 30.—The 91-day preference right period authorized by H. J. R. 30 begins on March 15, the first day on which applications thereunder may be allowed, and terminates on June 13, 1927.

SEC. 6. APPLICATIONS UNDER THE GENERAL LAW.—Beginning 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, June 14, 1927, lands of class 3, including cut-over lands, restored hereunder will become subject to disposition under the general law. To the end that the applications and declaratory statements under the general law may be disposed of in an orderly manner, such applications and declaratory statements may be filed in the office of the district in which the land is situated on and after 9 o'clock a. m., June 3, 1927, and such applications and declaratory statements, together with those filed or presented at 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, June 14, 1927, shall be treated as filed simultaneously and disposed of in the manner required by section 5 (d) hereof, the drawings, if necessary hereunder, to be conducted at the several land offices beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., standard time, June 16, 1927. Applications and declaratory statements under the general law will be rejected if found to conflict with entries or applications under H. J. R. 30 filed prior to June 14, 1927. When the lands become subject to entry under the general law, those entitled to preference rights under the proviso or H. J. R. 30, and who failed to avail themselves of such preference rights, may proceed on terms of equality with other qualified persons. Moneys deposited with declaratory statements as part of the purchase price, will, if such declaratory statements are allowed, be retained until such time as entry may be made thereunder, and if no entry be made within the time prescribed by law, such moneys will then be returned.

Sec. 7. Settlement before entry.—On and after 9 o'clock a. m., standard time, June 20, 1927, rights to lands of class 3, including cut-over lands, restored hereunder may be initiated by settlement before entry in the manner recognized by the general provisions of the homestead laws.

Sec. 8. Compliance with law after entry.—Final proof.—Section 2301, Revised Statutes, does not apply, and no entry made under the provisions hereof may be commuted. No patent will be issued until the entryman can show that he has resided on the land for three years in the manner required by the homestead laws and has cultivated a sufficient area thereof to demonstrate his good faith. Such an entryman may apply military or naval service in lieu of such residence to the extent authorized by the homestead laws, and he may otherwise enjoy the privileges accorded to other entrymen under such laws. The act approved February 25, 1919 (40 Stat. 1161), extends the provisions of section 2305, Revised Statutes, touching credit for military service in lieu of residence under the homestead law, to all such service rendered in connection with the Mexican border operations, or during the war with Germany and its allies.

Sec. 9. Contests.—Entries hereunder, whether allowed under the proviso, H. J. R. 30, or the general law, will be subject to contest for any reasons affecting their legality in the same manner that has been or may be provided hereafter for other entries under the homestead laws.

Sec. 10. Final payments.—When final proof is submitted, the entryman must pay final commissions at the rate of 3 per cent on lands sold at $2.50 per acre, together with the last installment of the purchase price, to wit, $2 per acre for the area included in the entry and final commissions at the rate of 3 per cent on a basis of $1.25 per acre as to cut-over lands, no payment as purchase price being necessary.

Sec. 11. Sales of agricultural and power-site lands, Coos Bay Wagon Road Grant.—(a) Lessee defined.—A lessee within the meaning of section 3 of the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), and the proviso to section 1 of the act approved June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), is one who, being a citizen of the United States, was at the date of the approval of the act holding under lease from the Southern Oregon Co. agricultural or power-site lands. Such lessees are of two classes: (1) Those who have for 10 years prior to February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179). whether claiming under the 10-year who had cultivated lands while under lease and placed valuable improvements thereon.

(b) Lands subject to purchase.—The lessee under the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), whether claiming under the 10-year clause or under the provision relating to cultivation and improvements, can not purchase lands of classes 1 and 2. He can secure under such act only lands of class 3. The proviso to section 1 of the act approved June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), authorizes a lessee under the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), to purchase lands of class 1 (power-site) where such lands do not contain 300,000 feet of timber on the 40-acre tract; but lands so purchased are subject to section 2 of the aforesaid act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), and the patent issued to the purchaser shall so recite. The lessee can not, whether under the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), or the act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), purchase lands containing 300,000 feet of timber on a 40-acre tract. While a lessee may not under any circumstances purchase lands of class 2, he may, if he can make the showing required of a settler by paragraph b, section 4 hereof, exercise his rights as such settler to lands of any class. Where a lessee exercises the right of a settler in strict conformity with paragraph b, section 4 hereof, he will not forfeit his right to purchase other lands of classes 1 and 3 in the manner otherwise provided herein.

(c) Area subject to purchase.—The area that may be purchased by a lessee, whether under the act of February 26, 1919, or June 4, 1920, or both acts, is limited to 160 acres. Where the lease is held by two or more persons, or by a corporation, the purchase must be by the joint owners or by the corporation. The individual members of the firm or association and the stockholders of the corporation can not make separate purchases. A single right only exists under the lease and is limited to 160 acres.

(d) Contiguity of lands.—Where the lease covers more than 160 acres of contiguous lands subject to purchase the lessee must select contiguous tracts, but he may take incontiguous tracts where necessary to make up the full quantity of 160 acres.

(e) Tracts partially covered by lease.—The right to purchase is confined to leased lands, but where the lease covers a part only of a legal subdivision the lessee will be permitted to purchase if more than one-half of such subdivision is included in the lease; otherwise the right of purchase will be denied.

(f) Termination of lease prior to February 26, 1919.—Where a lease was terminated prior to February 26, 1919, no right to purchase exists, even though such lease may have continued for a period greater than 10 years. Where, after the termination of an old lease, a new lease was given, the lessee holding at the date of the approval of the act will be recognized, provided he is otherwise within the provisions thereof.

(g) Showing required by lessee.—Any lessee must show that he is a citizen of the United States and was such on February 26, 1919, and that the land was free from adverse settlement claim within the meaning of the second proviso of section 3 of the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179). If he claims under the 10-year clause, he must show that he held the lease for the period mentioned; if under the provision relating to cultivation and improvements he must by affidavit, corroborated by two witnesses, show all the facts with reference to cultivation and improvements necessary to establish his claim.

(h) Preference period for lessee.—The lessee will be allowed six months from the date hereof within which to complete his proofs and make the required payments, but he must on or prior to March 14 file his application to purchase, with a specific description of the land, not exceeding 160 acres. Such application must be sworn and subscribed to before an officer authorized to administer oaths and using a seal. In order to avoid confusion, the lessee is urged to file his application at the earliest day practicable.

(i) Payment.—The payments required are $2.50 per acre, and the amount of taxes on the land paid by the Government under the provisions of the act of February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179). Upon request, the register or acting register, United States land office, Roseburg, will advise the lessee the amount necessary to reimburse the Government for taxes paid on the lands included in his application to purchase.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

RECREATIONAL LAW EXTENDED TO REVESTED OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD AND COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT LANDS—SUPPLEMENTAL REGULATIONS UNDER CIRCULAR NO. 1085 [4]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 18, 1928.

Registers, Roseburg and Lakeview Land Offices, Oreg.

Gentlemen: The act of April 13, 1928 (45 Stat. 429), extending the provisions of the recreational act of June 14, 1926 (44 Stat. 741), to revested Oregon and California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands, reads as follows:

> That the provisions of the act of Congress approved June 14, 1926 (Forty-fourth Statutes at Large, p. 741), entitled "An act to authorize acquisition or use of public lands by States, counties, or municipalities for recreational purposes," are hereby extended to former Oregon and California Railroad grant lands revested in the United States under the act of June 9, 1916 (Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, p. 218), and to former Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands reconveyed to the United States under the act of February 26, 1919 (Fortieth Statutes at Large, p. 1179): Provided, That any lands leased hereunder shall thereafter be exempt from any further claim by the county wherein such leased lands are located for payment of moneys, the equivalent of taxes, as authorized under the relief act of July 13, 1926 (Forty-fourth Statutes at Large, p. 915): Provided further, That only such lands as are within or contiguous to the former limits of said grants may be accepted in an exchange hereunder for such former grant lands and that all lands and timber secured by virtue of any such exchange shall be disposed of in accordance with the terms and provisions of said revestment act of June 9, 1916: And provided further, That no sales of lands classified under said act of June 9, 1916, as of class 3, or agricultural lands, shall be made for less than $2.50 per acre, and of lands of class 2, or timberlands, for less than the appraised value of the timber thereon.

SEC. 2. That all moneys received from or on account of any lands leased or sold hereunder shall be applied in the manner prescribed by the aforesaid acts of June 9, 1916, and February 26, 1919.

The existing regulations approved July 23, 1926, Circular No. 1085 (51 L. D. 505), as issued pursuant to the recreational act of June 14, 1926, with the following supplemental instructions added thereto, are hereby adopted for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of said act of April 13, 1928:

Revested Oregon and California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—The said act of April 13, 1928, is applicable only to such former grant lands revested in the United States under the acts of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), and February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), which have been reported or classified under said act of 1916 as either timber or agricultural in character, lands classified thereunder as chiefly valuable for water-power sites and reserved for that purpose being excepted from the operation thereof.

Any of such revested lands leased for recreational purposes shall thereafter be exempt from any further claim by the county wherein such leased lands are located for payment of moneys, the equivalent of taxes, as authorized under the act of July 13, 1926 (44 Stat. 915).

Only such lands as are within or contiguous to the former limits of said grants may be accepted in exchange for such grant lands and all lands and timber secured by virtue of any such exchange shall be disposed of in accordance with the terms and provisions of said revestment act of June 9, 1916.

No sale of lands classified under said act of June 9, 1916, as of class 3, agricultural lands, shall be made for less than $2.50 per acre and of lands of class 2, timberlands, for less than the appraised value of the timber thereon.

All moneys received from or on account of any lands leased or sold or acquired through exchange under said act of April 13, 1928, shall be applied in the manner prescribed by the said acts of June 9, 1916, and February 26, 1919.

When application is filed for any revested lands classified or reported as timber in character the district cadastral engineer at Portland, Oreg., may also, if necessary, be instructed to submit report and recommendation thereon, in addition to the examination of such land and report which the division inspector may be instructed to make in accordance with Circular No. 1085.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

Approved June 18, 1928.

First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 1200

INSTRUCTIONS GOVERNING THE SALE OF TIMBER ON REVESTED OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD AND COOS BAY WAGON ROAD GRANT LANDS IN THE STATE OF OREGON

[Superseding Circular No. 928]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 29, 1929.

REGISTERS, Lakeview and Roseburg, Oreg.

GENTLEMEN: Under the provisions of the acts of June 9, 1916 (39 Stat. 218), and February 26, 1919 (40 Stat. 1179), certain lands, formerly within the Oregon & California Railroad and Coos Bay Wagon Road grants, revested in the United States. Section 2 of the act of June 9, 1916, provides for the classification of all lands revested thereunder into three classes, to wit: First, power-site lands; second, timber lands; and third, agricultural lands. Section 4 of said act of 1916, as amended by the act of May 17, 1928 (45 Stat. 597), reads as follows:

> The timber on lands of class two shall be sold for cash by the Secretary of the Interior, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture, or otherwise, to citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens, and corporations organized under the laws of the United States, or any State, Territory, or District thereof, at such times, in such quantities, and under such plan of public competitive bidding as in the judgment of the Secretary of the Interior may produce the best results: Provided, That said Secretary shall have the right to reject any bid where he has reason to believe that the price offered is inadequate, and may reoffer the timber until a satisfactory bid is received: Provided further, That upon application of a qualified purchaser that any legal subdivision shall be separately offered for sale such subdivision shall be separately offered before being included in any offer of a larger unit, if such application be filed within ninety days prior to such offer: And provided further, That said timber shall be sold as rapidly as reasonable prices can be secured therefor in a normal market.
> The Secretary of the Interior shall as soon as the purchase price is fully paid by any person purchasing under the provisions of this section issue to such purchaser a patent conveying the timber and expressly reserving the land to the United States. The timber thus purchased may be cut and removed by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, within such period and under such rules, regulations, and conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, which period and conditions shall be designated in the patent; all rights under said patent shall cease and terminate at the expiration of said period: Provided, That in the event the timber is removed prior to the expiration of said period the Secretary of the Interior shall make due announcement thereof, whereupon all rights under the patent shall cease.
> No timber shall be removed until the issuance of patent therefor. All timber sold under this act shall be subject to the taxing power of the States, apart from the land as soon as patents are issued as provided for herein.

Section 3 of the act of February 26, 1919, provides that all lands revested thereunder shall be classified and disposed of in the manner provided by the act of June 9, 1916, for the classification and disposition of the Oregon & California Railroad grant lands. The act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), authorizes the sale of timber on lands of class 1, or lands classified and withdrawn as chiefly valuable for water-power sites. The act of May 17, 1928 (45 Stat. 597), amending section 5 of the act of June 9, 1916, authorizes the sale of timber on lands of class 3, or lands classified as agricultural, which at the time application to purchase the timber is filed have been subject to entry for a period of two years and are not embraced in an application or entry, which is held to include lands withdrawn as chiefly valuable for power sites but restored to entry subject to section 24 of the Federal water power act. Pursuant to the provisions contained in said acts, the following instructions are issued to govern timber sales made hereafter on Oregon & California Railroad grant lands the title to which revested in the United States under the act of June 9, 1916, and to the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands reacquired under the act of February 26, 1919:

1. Prospective purchasers of timber on Oregon & California Railroad or Coos Bay Wagon Road grant land of classes 1 and/or 2 only should file application to purchase with the district cadastral engineer, 619 Post Office Building, Portland, Oreg. However, any person desiring to purchase the timber on lands, the whole or any subdivision of which has been classified as of class 3, or agricultural land, and restored to entry should file application to purchase, in duplicate, in the local land office of the district in which the land is located, either at Roseburg or Lakeview, Oreg. Proper blank forms to be used in applying to purchase timber and information with respect to the quality, quantity, and appraised price of timber on any given tract may be obtained from the district cadastral engineer upon request.

2. Upon receipt of an application to purchase timber involving agricultural lands, the register will note the date and hour of receipt thereof upon both the original and duplicate, the duplicate to be promptly forwarded to the district cadastral engineer with report as to the status of the land. Where application to make entry of such land is filed subsequent to the filing of the timber application, but prior to the date on which the timber is to be offered, you will allow the homestead application, if otherwise regular, noting thereon and advising the entryman that the same is subject to the right of the United States to sell the timber on the land pursuant to the timber application theretofore filed and subject also to the right of the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, to cut and remove such timber at any time within 10 years from date of issuance of the timber patent. Where application to make entry of such land is filed after the timber thereon has been offered for sale and a bid or bids received therefor you will allow the same, if otherwise regular, noting thereon and advising the entryman that the entry is subject to the right of the successful bidder for the timber on the land, his heirs or assigns, to cut and remove the same at any time within 10 years from date of issuance of the timber patent. Where any homestead application has been allowed under either of the two conditions above mentioned such homestead entry, in the event of refusal for some reason to offer the timber for sale, or if offered and no bid is received or the bid received is rejected by the Secretary of the Interior, shall thereupon be free from the conditions and reservations theretofore imposed as to such timber the same as though no timber application had been filed.

3. Timber sales will be authorized in the General Land Office by one letter addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, in which all the facts appertaining to the proposed sale will be stated, accompanied by another letter, for the approval of the department, addressed to the register of the local land office where the sale is to be held, giving the names of the applicants and such other facts as may be deemed appropriate, together with authorizations to the newspapers for the publication of the notice prepared and submitted therewith for that purpose. Publication of said notice will then be made covering a period of not less than 30 days in at least three newspapers of general circulation in the State of Oregon, one of which shall be in the county wherein the land is situated. If daily papers are designated the notice should be published in the Wednesday issue for five consecutive weeks; if weekly, in five consecutive issues; and if semi-weekly, in either issue for five consecutive weeks. The notice as published shall announce the intention to offer at public sale, on a day and at an hour specified, at the district land office where the land is located, the timber described in such notice and shall also state the cruiser's estimate of the timber on each 40-acre tract, appraised price thereof, and the terms of sale.

4. The sale will be at public auction or outcry at the district land office of the district within which the land is situated and conducted by the register of such office.

5. The right of purchase at such sale will be limited, in accordance with the acts, to citizens of the United States, association of such citizens and corporations organized under the laws of the United States, or any State, Territory, or district thereof. Native-born citizens should file an affidavit to that effect with the register when making the first purchase and naturalized citizens will be required to furnish either the original certificate of naturalization, or duly certified or attested copy thereof, which copy, if of a certificate of naturalization issued after September 26, 1906, must be on the form prescribed by the Bureau of Naturalization.[5] Corporations must furnish either the original certificate of incorporation, a duly certified or attested copy thereof, or a certificate of the proper officer of the State, Territory, or district in which the company is incorporated, certifying as to the company's incorporation.

6. The register, before offering any portion of the timber advertised, shall advise all intending purchasers that the patent for the timber will contain a clause fixing the period within which said timber must be cut and removed by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, at 10 years and will also recite the conditions of a contract which the purchaser must enter into with the Government regarding the cutting of the timber and removal of the slash and other forest débris resulting therefrom. It should also be announced that no timber is to be removed until the issuance of a patent therefor. Before the sale inquiry should be made as to whether any person present desires the timber on any legal subdivision advertised to be separately offered before its inclusion in any offer of a larger unit, and if such request is made, the timber on the land thus designated may be so offered.

7. No timber shall be sold for less than the appraised price; and any bid may be rejected by the Secretary of the Interior, if it is by him deemed inadequate.

8. The timber shall be sold to the highest bidder, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. The entire purchase price bid must be paid on the date of sale to the register in cash, currency, or certified checks, when drawn in the manner authorized, who will issue his receipt thereof and hold the same as other "unearned moneys" until notified of the approval of the sale. Upon receipt of such notice the money shall be applied to the credit of the "Oregon and California land-grant fund," if for timber sold on Oregon & California Railroad land, or "the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant fund," if for timber sold on the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant. If for any reason a bid is rejected, the register, upon receipt of notice of such rejection, will return the money.

---

9. Upon acceptance by the register of the local land office of a bid and before cash certificate can issue the successful bidder must within 30 days from the date of such acceptance enter into a contract with the Government through the Commission as the General Land Office, acting as its agent, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. Said contract requires that the purchaser of the timber, his heirs or assigns, shall cut and remove the timber and dispose of all brush, tops, lops, and other forest débris in accordance with the terms thereof, and must be accompanied by a bond with proper sureties thereupon, the penalty of said bond to be of an amount to be determined in accordance with section 10 of these regulations. Blank forms to be used in executing the contract and bond as required herein have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior and copies of the same will be furnished either by the district cadastral engineer or the register of the local land office, at either Lakeview or Roseburg, Oreg. The bond shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of the above referred to contract and upon the observance of the rules and regulations herein set forth. Bonds should be prepared and executed in accordance with the regulations of the department governing the same. Such regulations will be found with the bond.

Failure of the bidder whose bid has been accepted by the register to execute and file the required contract and bonds within the specified time will be deemed sufficient ground for rejection of his bid, and in the event of such failure the register will submit to the General Land Office a full report of all facts in the case, with such record evidence as may be pertinent thereto.

10. The amount of the bond required under the foregoing paragraph will be determined as follows:

(a) Two hundred and fifty dollars where the timber on a single subdivision of 40 acres, more or less, is sold.

(b) One hundred and fifty dollars for each legal subdivision where the timber on more than one but less than five legal subdivisions is sold to one party or company: Provided, however, That where the total area of such subdivisions is 40 acres or less a bond in the sum of $250 will be required.

(c) One hundred and twenty-five dollars for each legal subdivision where the timber on more than four legal subdivisions is sold to one party or company: Provided, however, That where the total area of such subdivisions is not in excess of 160 acres but more than 40 acres, a bond in the sum of $600 will be required.

11. The register, upon the filing in his office of the required contract and bond, duly executed, will immediately issue cash certificate, if no objection be found, which certificate should give the name and address of the purchaser, proper description of the land, including area thereof, the serial and receipt numbers, amount of purchase money and commissions paid, the act under which the land revested and also the act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 758), in the case of power-site land and the act of May 17, 1928 (45 Stat. 597), in the case of restored agricultural land.

12. Persons who purchase timber at such sale shall be required to pay, in addition to the purchase price, a commission of one-fifth of 1 per centum thereof to be placed to the credit of the fund to which the purchase money is credited.

13. The register will forthwith transmit to the General Land Office, by special letter, the cash certificate issued, accompanied by the contract and bond, together with a report in duplicate of the proceedings under the sale, showing: (1) the land on which the timber was sold; (2) the names of the purchasers; and (3) the amounts received therefor, together with such other details as may seem properly appropriate thereto. As soon as the sale, contract, and bond have been approved by the department, the General Land Office will advise you of that fact, and patent will then be issued and transmitted in the usual way.

14. The register of public moneys will, in addition to his regular abstracts, render monthly, for each county, in case of timber sales therein, a separate abstract, in duplicate, Form 4–103, reporting thereon the date of the application of the money, the receipt and serial numbers, the name of the purchaser, together with a description of the land involved and the amount of purchase money, using more than one line, when necessary, for each item. Commissions should be shown on this abstract on a separate line. Notations showing the county in which the land is situated should also be made upon the receipt and papers pertaining to the sale.

15. Circulars of September 15, 1917 (46 L. D. 447), September 26, 1919 (47 L. D. 381), and April 14, 1924 (50 L. D. 376), are superseded hereby.

CANCELED PATENTS—PROCEEDINGS TO DELIVER PATENTS HERETOFORE CANCELED AND AT PRESENT ON FILE IN THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

Department of the Interior,
Washington, February 28, 1881.[1]

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sir: I am in receipt of your request of January 12, for instructions under the rule established by the decision of the Supreme Court in case of U. S. ex rel McBride v. Secretary of the Interior, to the effect that the patentee of lands takes the title of the Government by matter of record, and that after the record is complete, "there remain" but "the duty simply ministerial, to deliver the patent to the owner."

I have carefully considered the suggestions presented by you, touching the scope and purpose of the judgment of the court, with respect to the inquiry whether or not the true character or nature of a patent, as void, or voidable only, shall first be determined in this department, and the delivery made to depend upon the decision reached.

From the opinion in the case, it clearly appears to me that the court intended to insist upon the doctrine that, unless manifestly and notoriously void upon its face, the patent of the Government must be from the date of its record treated as the property of the grantee, and beyond the jurisdiction of this department to withhold.

This being so, the question is narrowed to the one inquiry respecting your duty touching the delivery of those patents heretofore withheld and canceled, either under the present or a former administration, and the manner in which, precedent to delivery, the effect of the unauthorized cancellation shall be removed from the patent and the record thereof in your office.

Respecting the delivery, I apprehend that there can be no question upon the proposition that these patents fall into the same place in the administration of the business of your office that they would have held had no proceedings looking to their cancellation been initiated. Those proceedings being entirely extraneous to the jurisdiction, and consequently void, have no effect upon the instrument, and do not vary the rule properly governing its tradition or transmission to the grantee. The same formalities should be observed as in ordinary cases. The right of the party to its possession must be shown, and the surrender of the usual receipts, or due accounting for their loss, must be required.

[1] Modified by departmental instructions of Feb. 2, 1927, p. 1074.

To prepare the patents for such delivery, it will be proper to indorse upon them, as they shall be demanded, a memorandum citing the case of McBride, and its authority as affecting the validity of the act of cancellation, in order to remove any improper or unauthorized cloud upon the title purporting to be conveyed.

This should be in substantially the following form: " Delivered under secretary's instructions of February 28, 1881—in accordance with the decision of the United States Supreme Court in McBride v. Schurz, October term, 1880.

——— ———, Commissioner.

(Date.)

This indorsement should not be made upon any patent surrendered up to be canceled by consent of the grantee, or the acceptance of which has been refused, nor upon a cancellation by order of a court of competent jurisdiction, nor upon a patent vacated for the mere purpose of correcting a clerical error, or for other like cause—such cases being excepted out by the reasoning of the court from the general doctrine of the decision.

The same indorsement should be made upon the patent record, and appear in its proper connection when officially certified by you for purposes of evidence.

C. SCHURZ, Secretary.

INFORMATION RELATING TO LAND PATENTS [2]

All patents issuing from the General Land Office are issued in the name of the United States, are signed by the President, and countersigned by the recorder of the General Land Office, and are recorded in the office in books kept for the purpose. (Sec. 458, Rev. Stat.)

Patents for lands entered or located under general laws can be issued only in the name of the party making the entry or location, or, in case of his death before making proof, to the statutory successor making the proof, as provided by law.

The recitals and description of land in patents will in all cases follow the register's certificate of entry or location, as prescribed by law.

When patents are ready for delivery, they will in all cases be transmitted to the local office at which the location or entry was made, where they can be obtained by the party entitled thereto, upon surrender of the duplicate receipt, or certificate, as the case may be, unless the duplicate shall have been previously filed in this office with a request that the patent be delivered as requested by the person sending the same; and in no case will the patent be delivered, either from this or the local office, except upon receipt of such duplicate, or, in case of its loss from any cause, upon the filing in lieu of the same of an affidavit made by the present bona fide owner of the land, accounting for the loss of the same, and also showing ownership of the tracts or a portion thereof embraced in the patent.

[2] Extract from circular of Jan. 25, 1904, not carried in this publication.

It is provided in section 8 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. L. 1093), that suits by the United States to vacate and annul any patent previously issued shall only be brought within five years from the passage of said act, and suits to vacate and annul patents thereafter issued shall only be brought within six years after the date of the issue of such patents.

By act of March 2, 1896 (29 Stat. 42), the time within which such suits might be brought, so far as regards patents issued under a railroad or wagon-road grant, was extended so as to admit of bringing suit in such cases within five years from the passage of the act in cases of patents issued prior thereto, and in cases of patents issued thereafter within six years after the date of the issuance of the patents, with a provision protecting the titles of bona fide purchasers of such lands.

CIRCULAR No. 327

COAL RESERVATION—SUPPLEMENTAL PATENTS—ACT OF APRIL 14, 1914 (38 Stat. 335)[3]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 3, 1914.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: The act of Congress approved April 14, 1914 (38 Stat. 335), reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed, in cases where patents for public lands have been issued to entrymen under the provisions of the acts of Congress approved March third, nineteen hundred and nine, and June twenty-second, nineteen hundred and ten, reserving to the United States all coal deposits therein, and lands so patented are subsequently classified as noncoal in character, to issue new or supplemental patents without such reservation.

The act is construed to affect all filings, locations, selections, or entries upon which patent or its equivalent has issued, or may hereafter issue, containing a reservation of the coal in the land to the United States under the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), or the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), such land having subsequently been finally classified as noncoal in character.

This office will list the cases and issue the patents with such expedition as may be possible with the clerical force available for the purpose. Therefore application for such supplemental patent will not be necessary, and will receive no special action if filed.

The patents will be transmitted to you, and follow the course applicable to original patents, including notice of receipt to the patentee and notation on the serial register and against the record of coal reservation on the tract books and plats. The patents may be delivered to the patentees or the present owners of the land upon their filing with you an affidavit of ownership.

FULL NAMES SHOULD APPEAR IN ENTRIES AND FINAL CERTIFICATES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE.
Washington, January 29, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: That patents may issue in the full and proper names of claimants, you will exercise care to obtain the full names of all claimants who submit final proofs. Patents issued to claimants by abbreviations of their names (such as "Ed," "Al," "Joe," etc.) and by mere initials often cause trouble at a future time for the patentees and those claiming under them.

While you would not be warranted in rejecting an application to enter public land on the ground that the applicant did not sign his name in full, you should, without jeopardizing the rights of the applicant, use every effort to obtain the name, attaching to the imperfectly signed application any statement as to the name which may be later filed.

A copy hereof should be sent to each proof-taking officer in your respective districts.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 457

INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS FOR PERFECT PATENTS IN THOSE CASES IN WHICH THE RECORDS DO NOT SHOW THE SIGNING OF THE ORIGINALS BY THE PROPER OFFICERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 2, 1926.

The act of May 10, 1800 (2 Stat. 73), which authorized the President of the United States to issue patents for public lands, provided that said patents should be countersigned by the Secretary of State and recorded in books kept in his office. This record consists of a copy of the entire patent, including the signatures of the officials who signed the original.

The act of April 25, 1812 (2 Stat. 716), provided (sec. 8) that land patents should be signed by the President of the United States and countersigned by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The acts of July 4, 1836 (5 Stat. 107), and March 3, 1841 (id. 416), authorized the President to appoint a secretary to sign his name to land patents, and designated the recorder of the General Land Office to countersign them and affix the seal.

In recording many of the patents issued in the early years it was the practice, for some reason not now evident, either to omit altogether from such record the names of the officers whose duty it was to sign and countersign the patents, or to insert merely their initials. In some cases the name or initials of but one of the officers appears in the patent record.

March 3, 1843 (5 Stat. 627), Congress passed an act providing that literal exemplifications of patent records which did not contain the full names of the proper officers should be held to be of the same validity as though the names of said officials had been fully inserted in the record. It was the understanding of this office that the passage of this act cured these defective records, so far as their value as evidence was concerned, until the United States Supreme Court rendered its decision in the case of McGarrahan v. Mining Company (96 U. S. 316), at the October term, 1877. The court, in commenting upon the act of March 3, 1843, said:

> The record to prove a valid patent must still show that these provisions of the law were complied with. The names need not be fully inserted in the record, but it must appear in some form that the names were actually signed to the patent when it issued. If they are partially inserted in the record it will be presumed that they fully appeared in the patent, but no such presumption will be raised if no signature is shown by the record. Here no signature does appear, and consequently none will be presumed.

The principle thus announced was followed by the court in numerous cases, which it is unnecessary to cite.

Under this decision, therefore, patent records which do not contain at least the initials of the officers whose duty it was to sign and countersign the original patent are not considered legal evidence of the issuance of a patent. If, however, the original patent itself was properly signed and countersigned as required by law, it operated to vest in the patentee title to the land described, notwithstanding the imperfect and incomplete record.

It is now the practice of the office not to furnish certified copies from such records unless specifically requested to do so. Instead, the owner of at least a portion of the land involved can secure the issuance of a perfect patent, in the name of the original patentee, by filing in this office his sworn application therefor, accompanied by evidence of such ownership in the form of a certificate of the recorder of deeds of the county in which the land is located. In his application it must be clearly shown (1) that no patent conveying any portion of the land has ever been recorded in the county in which it is embraced at the date of the application, or in any county in which it has been embraced since the date of the imperfect patent record; (2) that no such patent has ever come into the possession of the applicant, and that he has never been advised of nor had any information concerning the issuance of one; (3) that he has made due and diligent inquiry in all places in which it might be supposed said patent would be found, if it ever existed, and like inquiry of all persons who might be supposed to have knowledge concerning such patent, naming and describing such persons together with their relation to the property, if any, in detail, without obtaining any information concerning it.

Upon receipt of such an application and evidence, if deemed satisfactory and all else be found regular, this office will cause a perfect patent to be issued. There is no charge for this, and the perfect patent will be delivered as requested by the applicant.

DELIVERY OF ERRONEOUSLY CANCELED PATENTS

[Instructions of February 28, 1881 (8 C. L. O. 10), Modified]

Department of the Interior,
Washington, February 2, 1927.

Finney, First Assistant Secretary:

This is an appeal by J. F. Rose from a decision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office dated December 4, 1926, denying his request for the issuance of a patent for that portion of the NW. 1/4 SW. 1/4 sec. 7, T. 49 N., R. 17 W., fifth principal meridian, Missouri, not in conflict with the patented claim of Antoine Gautier.

It appears that on November 12, 1833, the board of commissioners appointed pursuant to the act of July 9, 1832 (4 Stat. 565), for the purpose of passing on private land claims in the State of Missouri, decided that the claim of Antoine Gautier should be confirmed for 4,000 arpents, in accordance with his application dated November 29, 1796. The claim was surveyed in March, 1848, and the plat thereof approved December 12, 1848. It was designated as survey No. 3327, embraced land in Ts. 49 and 50 N., Rs. 17 and 18 W., fifth principal meridian, and was confirmed by the act of July 4, 1836, (5 Stat. 126). Patent issued September 3, 1860. According to the plat of survey, the claim of Gautier covers most of the NW. 1/4 and a part of the NW. 1/4 SW. 1/4 sec. 7, T. 49 N., R. 17 W., fifth principal meridian.

On September 1, 1837, William B. Gibson made cash entry No. 15891 at the Fayette office for NW. 1/4 and NW. 1/4 SW. 1/4 sec. 7, T. 49 N., R. 17 W., fifth principal meridian (215.10 acres), describing the tract in accordance with a plat of survey made in November, 1816. Patent issued to Gibson on November 10, 1841, but was not delivered. It was returned to the General Land Office on March 26, 1852, and pursuant to a letter addressed to the Boonville land office under date of November 8, 1879, the final certificate issued to Gibson was noted as canceled because of conflict with survey No. 3327, and across the face of the patent was indorsed the following:

> Canceled. Conflicts with survey No. 3327, private claim of Antoine Gautier. See letter "B," November 8, 1879. S. W. Clark, recorder, G. L. O.

A like notation was made on the record of the patent. In addition to the notation on the patent, it was mutilated by cutting the parchment across the signatures thereto and across the official seal.

In the decision appealed from the commissioner conceded that the attempt to cancel the entry and patent of Gibson was ineffective, citing Bicknell v. Comstock (113 U. S. 149), and that the present owner of any portion of the land covered by the Gibson entry and patent is entitled to delivery of the patent under the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in United States ex rel. McBride v. Schurz (102 U. S. 378). Although refusing to issue a new patent for that portion of the land now owned by Rose, the commissioner offered to surrender the patent for recordation after he had indorsed thereon a notation in accordance with the instructions of February 28, 1881 (8 C. L. O. 10).

The instructions referred to directed that in cases such as the court considered in United States ex rel. McBride v. Schurz, supra, the patent should be delivered after a notation thereon of the following, to be dated and signed by the commissioner:

> Delivered under Secretary's instructions of February 28, 1881, in accordance with the decision of the United States Supreme Court in McBride v. Schurz, October term, 1880.

The commissioner correctly denied the application for a new patent. Having no jurisdiction over the land, the Land Department could not assume to issue a patent therefor.

However, it is the opinion of this department that the notation provided for in the instructions of February 28, 1881, supra, is too brief and that a notation in substantially the following form should be attached to the patent, over the signature and seal of the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

> The notation of cancellation of the attached patent issued to William B. Gibson on November 10, 1841, and its mutilation, were without the consent of the grantee and erroneous, and under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Bicknell v. Comstock (113 U. S. 149), do not affect the validity of the patent, which is delivered for recording on the county records pursuant to the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in United States v. Schurz (102 U. S. 378).

A like notation should be attached to the record of the patent.

The case is remanded for action in accordance with the foregoing.

MANNER OF PROCURING DELIVERY OF PATENTS FROM THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE OR FROM LOCAL UNITED STATES LAND OFFICES

Original patents on file in local United States land offices, or which have been returned to the General Land Office from various local offices upon their discontinuance may be procured, by the parties entitled to receive them, by any one of the following methods:

1. By surrendering the duplicate final receipt or duplicate certificate of entry.

2. By filing an affidavit showing inability to surrender such duplicate, and an abstract of title showing the present ownership of the land, or of a portion thereof, embraced in the patent. (In such cases, the abstract of title will be returned with the patent.)

3. By filing, on the form printed below, a certificate of the proper recording officer of the county in which the land is located, that there has been deposited with him the necessary fee to pay for the recordation of the desired patent; whereupon it will be transmitted directly to such officer, to be placed of record and thereafter delivered to the proper party.

REGISTERED LETTERS[1]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 1, 1900.

Commissioner Hermann to surveyors general, registers and receivers, and special agents:

You will hereafter be governed, in the matter of registration of official letters, by the following rules:

1. The general correspondence of your office with this office or the public is not required to be registered, and such registration will not be paid for by the United States.

2. Official returns will not be registered.

3. Certificates of deposit on account of surveys will not be registered.

4. Notices of hearings in contest cases required by rule 14 of Practice to be mailed by registered letter, are to be sent by contestants, who must furnish proof thereof, and are not to be registered at the public expense.

5. Notices of hearings and decisions in cases where hearings are ordered on behalf of the Government, will be registered as a matter of evidence.

6. In addition to the registration of notices of hearings and decisions, as heretofore provided, it is directed that all notices required to be given by you of your decisions, or of decisions of this office, involving the right of appeal, or the exercise of other rights within a certain time, be served by you personally or by registered letter.

7. When personal service is had, you will transmit to this office the acknowledgment of such service or evidence thereof. When service is made by registered letter, the registry return receipt, or returned letter, as the case may be, must, in every instance, be sent up with the papers in the case, or otherwise accounted for.

8. Such costs of registration as are payable by the Government will be paid out of the advances from the proper appropriations, and estimates therefor will be embraced in the usual requisitions.

9. In accounts for contingent expenses, under the head of registration of letters, separate registration receipts from the postmaster will not be required, and in lieu thereof disbursing agents will prepare quarterly statements, in detail, showing the letters registered during

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ACT OF JANUARY 31, 1903, RELATIVE TO THE COMPULSORY ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES BEFORE REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., March 20, 1903.[2]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Your attention is directed to the provisions of the act of Congress approved January 31, 1903 (32 Stat. 790), entitled "An act providing for the compulsory attendance of witnesses before registers and receivers of the land office."

The act reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That registers and receivers of the land office, or either of them, in all matters requiring a hearing before them, are authorized and empowered to issue subpœnas directing the attendance of witnesses, which subpœnas may be served by any person by delivering a true copy thereof to such witness, and when served, witnesses shall be required to attend in obedience thereto: Provided, That if any subpœna be served under the provisions of this act by any person other than an officer authorized by the laws of the United States, or of the State or Territory in which the depositions are taken, the service thereof shall be proved by the affidavit of the person serving the same: Provided further, That said subpœnas shall be served within the county in which attendance is required, and at least five days before attendance is required.
> Sec. 2. That witnesses shall have the right to receive their fee for one day's attendance and mileage in advance. The fees and mileage of witnesses shall be the same as that provided by law in the district courts of the United States in the district in which such land offices are situated; and the witness shall be entitled to receive his fee for attendance in advance from day to day during the hearing.
> Sec. 3. That any person willfully neglecting or refusing obedience to such subpœna, or neglecting or refusing to appear and testify when subpœnaed, his fees having been paid if demanded, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, for which he shall be punished by indictment in the district court of the United States or in the district courts of the Territories exercising the jurisdiction of circuit or district courts of the United States. The punishment for such offense, upon conviction, shall be a fine of not more than two hundred dollars, or imprisonment not to exceed ninety days, or both, at the discretion of the court: Provided, That if such witness has been prevented from obeying such subpœna without fault upon his part he shall not be punished under the provisions of this act.
> Sec. 4. That whenever the witness resides outside the county in which the hearing occurs any party to the proceeding may take the testimony of such witness in the county of such witness's residence in the form of depositions by giving ten days' written notice of the time and place of taking such depositions to the opposite party or parties. The depositions may be taken before any United States commissioner, notary public, judge or clerk of a court of record. Subpœnas for witnesses before the officer taking depositions may issue from the office of the register or receiver, or may be issued by the officer taking the depositions, and disobedience thereof, as defined in this act, shall also be punished; and the witness shall receive the same fees and mileage and be subject to the same penalties in all respects as in case of violation of a subpœna to appear before the register or receiver, and subject to the same limitations. The fees of the officer taking the depositions shall be the same as those allowed in the State or Territorial courts, and shall be paid by the party taking the deposition, and an itemized account of the fees shall be made by the officer taking the depositions and attached to the depositions.

SEC. 5. That whenever the taking of any depositions taken in pursuance of the foregoing provisions of this act is concluded the opposite party may proceed at once at his own expense to take depositions in his own behalf, at the same time and place and before the same officer: Provided, That he shall, before taking of the depositions in the first instance is entered upon, give notice to the opposing party, or any agent or attorney representing him in the taking of said depositions, of his intention to do so.

The first section of the act authorizes and empowers the register and receiver, or either of them, to issue subpœnas directing the attendance of witnesses at hearings to be held before them; and requires such witnesses, when duly served as herein provided, in the county wherein the land office is situated, to attend in obedience to the summons.

Registers and receivers, or either of them, when requested in writing, by either party to a cause pending before them, will issue a subpœna for such witnesses as the applicant may desire to testify in his behalf at such hearing.

The subpœna may be in the following form:

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
To________________________________
You are hereby commanded to be and appear before____________________ at______________ office, in____________________, in the county of __________ State (or Territory) of __________________________, at the hour of __________
m. on the _______ day of ___________, 190__, to testify in behalf of _________ at a hearing, to be then and there held, wherein _____________________________ is ___________ and ___________ is ___________, and herein fail not at your peril.
Issued this _______ day of ______________, 190__.

The service of the subpœna and proof of the same as provided in said section will devolve upon the party in whose behalf the subpœna is issued, and the officer issuing the same shall deliver to such party the original and a copy of the same for each witness named therein. No fee is provided for the register and receiver for issuing such process.

Section 2 of the act fixes the fees and mileage of witnesses attending before registers and receivers at the same as that provided by law in the district courts of the United States for the district in which the land office is situated and gives to the witness the right to receive the fee for one day's attendance and mileage in advance, and also entitles him to receive his fee for attendance in advance from day to day during the hearing. Such payments must be made by the respective parties to the hearing in whose behalf the witness is subpœnaed, except in cases in which the United States is a party. In such cases the receiver will pay the fees and mileage of the witnesses on behalf of the Government, and it will be his duty to make requisition based upon an estimate furnished by the special agent for funds to pay all expenses chargeable to the United States in such hearings.

Section 3 fixes the punishment to which persons are liable who willfully neglect or refuse obedience to such subpœna, and provides the method of enforcing the same, which shall be by indictment in the district court of the United States or in the district courts of the Territories exercising the jurisdiction of circuit courts of the United States.

Section 4 authorizes any party to the proceedings to take the testimony of any witness, who resides outside of the county in which the hearing occurs, by deposition, which, upon ten days' previous notice, may be taken before any United States commissioner, notary public, judge or clerk of a court of record in the county where the witness resides. In such case the party desiring to take the deposition will be required to file with the register or receiver an affidavit setting forth the name and the address of the witness; that he resides outside the county in which the land office is situated, and that for such reason he desires to take the testimony of the witness named, in the form of a deposition. Whereupon it shall be the duty of the register or receiver, or either of them, to enter an order designating the time and place at which such deposition will be taken, and to issue a commission to some officer designated by this act to take the same. In such case either the register or receiver or the officer before whom the depostion is to be taken is authorized to issue subpœna for the witness, using substantially the form hereinbefore prescribed, and disobedience thereof as defined in the act is punishable as in case of violation of a subpœna to appear before the register or receiver. Witnesses attending before such officers are entitled to the same fees and mileage and payable in the same manner as if they appeared before the register and receiver at the district land office, and the fees of the officer taking such deposition will be the same as those allowed to such officers respectively for taking depositions to be used in the State or Territorial courts. Such fees are to be paid by the party taking the deposition, and the officer taking the same is required to attach thereto an itemized account of the fees charged and collected.

It will be the duty of the register and receiver to see that this requirement is observed.

Section 5 extends to the opposite party the right to take depositions before the same officer, at once upon the conclusion of the first depositions; and he is entitled to have his witnesses summoned in like manner and subject to the same conditions as his antagonist: Provided, That notice of the intention to take such testimony is given to the opposite party, his agent or attorney, "before taking of the depositions in the first instance is entered upon."

To aid in enforcing the punitive provisions of this act, in issuing a commission to take testimony you will instruct the commissioner to make special return to you of the name of any witness who, after service, has failed, under the provisions of section 3, to respond to the subpœna, and you will make prompt report to the United States district attorney of the proper district, of the names of such party or parties as well as of those who have been duly summoned have failed to appear before you, to the end that he may take such action in the premises as the law requires.

The object and purpose of this act is to afford to litigants the means of enforcing the attendance of witnesses when hearings are ordered. It is not exclusive in its operation to the extent of abolishing the existing methods, under the rules, by which the attendance of witnesses may be secured or their testimony taken by deposition; and parties may elect to use either method of procedure. But should they think proper to proceed under the existing rules of practice and fail to secure the attendance of their witnesses, they will not be entitled to a continuance as heretofore.

Very respectfully,

W. A. Richards, Commissioner.

Approved.

CASES CONSIDERED BY CHIEFS OF FIELD DIVISIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., April 24, 1907.[3]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: The following instructions are issued for your guidance:

* * * * * * *

5. In all cases of application to make final proof, final entry, or to purchase public lands under any public land law, the register and receiver will at once forward a copy thereof to the chiefs of field divisions or special agents. Such copy will be indorsed "coal lands" or "not coal lands," as the case may be. Where the land is in a national forest or other reservation, a second copy will be forwarded to the officer in charge thereof.

6. Registers and receivers will not issue final certificate or its equivalent in any case until the copy of notice mentioned in paragraph 5 is returned with the chief of field division's indorsement thereon. The chief of field division will in every case return the copy of notice prior to date for final proof or purchase.

7. When the copy of notice is returned with an indorsement not protesting the validity of the entry, the register and receiver will act upon the merits of the proof as submitted. Where the returned indorsement of chief of field division or other officer protests the validity of the entry, the register and receiver will forward all papers to this office without action.

8. The chief of field division, on receipt of such copy of notice, will make a case thereof on his docket, and also make a field examination in the following cases:

(a) Cases wherein he has reason to believe a particular entry is fraudulent.

[3] Amended by Circulars Nos. 90, p. 1088, and 276, p. 1095.

(b) Cases wherein the register and receiver have reason to believe a particular entry is fraudulent and have indorsed that fact upon the copy of the notice.

(c) Cases other than coal entries in lands classed as coal lands.

Chiefs of field division will exert every effort to make the field examination prior to date for final proof.

9. In cases not within paragraph 8 the chief of field division will return such copy of notice indorsed over his signature "no protest against validity of this entry." In cases under paragraph 8 he will return to the register and receiver the copy of notice indorsed "protest against the validity of this entry is filed in this office." If investigation is completed before date for final proof, he will so notify the register and receiver, by letter; and if investigation is unfavorable to entry, he will submit his report to this office.

The circulars of January 21, 1907, March 15, 1907, and all parts of the circular of December 7, 1905, in conflict herewith, and all other regulations and circulars in conflict herewith are hereby revoked.

Very respectfully,

R. A. Ballinger, Commissioner.

Approved April 24, 1907.

NOTING PROTESTS ON RECORDS IN DISTRICT LAND OFFICES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., August 4, 1910.

Registers and Receivers, United States District Land Offices, and Chiefs of Field Divisions, General Land Office.

Gentlemen: 1. It has been determined, to the end that the records of each and every district land office shall hereafter present a full and complete history of and concerning a claim to, or entry of, public lands, therein asserted, or made, including herein the origin, prosecution, and ultimate disposition of any and every kind of adverse proceedings against such claim, or entry, that the records of said offices shall disclose the initiation and conclusion of any and all contests and protests therein filed and presented. Pursuant to this conclusion, chiefs of field divisions are hereby directed, in any and all cases wherein they shall receive a complaint, or any information, impeaching the validity of any claim to a tract of public land, or any direction to proceed to an investigation relative to the validity, or invalidity, of any such claim, to communicate to the register and receiver, within whose territorial jurisdiction the involved land may be situate, a formal written protest against said claim, or entry, which protest may be substantially of the form following, to wit:

Register and Receiver, United States District Land Office.

Gentlemen: It has been represented to me that there is good and sufficient reason why the homestead entry of John Doe, serial No. (07542), embracing the NE. ¼ of sec. 12, T. 14 N., R. 7 W., B. H. M., should not be permitted to proceed to patent until the validity, or invalidity, thereof has been carefully investigated and determined, it being alleged that said entry has not been initiated, or maintained, in accordance with the law authorizing such entries. You are, therefore, hereby advised, that it is my purpose promptly to proceed to such an investigation; and I do now and hereby protest against the acceptance of any proof which may be submitted in support of said entry, or the issuance and delivery to said entryman of any evidence of right or title to the lands covered thereby, requesting that my said protest may be by you duly noted upon the records of your office, to the end that the same may become and be known to all persons who may in any wise be interested in said entry, and that, thereafter, it may by you be duly forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, at Washington, D. C., for his information in the premises.

Respectfully,

———— ————

Chief of Field Division.

2. Upon receipt of any such protest, the register will cause same to be duly noted in the serial number register, in like manner as other papers and documents pertaining to any public land entry, or claim, are required to be noted by paragraph 18 of the circular of June 10, 1908,[a] regulating the method of keeping records and accounts relative to the public lands, and, as well, at the proper place in the tract book in which such entry or claim is recorded.

3. In like manner, and for the same reason, when an affidavit or other written instrument is filed in a district land office by any person offering contest against any claim to a specified and described tract of public lands, or protesting against the allowance or perfection of the claim made under and by virtue of said entry, the register will make due and proper notation concerning the receipt and filing of said affidavit, or other writing, in accordance with the instructions contained in the foregoing paragraphs hereof.

Very respectfully,

S. V. Proudfit,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved August 4, 1910.

Acting Secretary.

COMPULSORY ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES—AMENDMENT OF CIRCULAR OF JUNE 27, 1904

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 22, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, Chiefs of Field Divisions, Special Agents, and Special Disbursing Agents.

Gentlemen: The circular of June 27, 1904 (33 L. D. 58), which amended the circular of instructions of March 30, 1903 (32 L. D. 132), regarding the provisions of the act of January 31, 1903 (32 Stat. 790), entitled "An act providing for the compulsory attendance of witnesses before registers and receivers of the land office," is hereby modified to read as follows:

---

[a] The circular of June 10, 1908, has been superseded by Circular No. 616. See par. 35, p. 56.

The second section of the said act of January 31, 1903, provides in part that "the fees and mileage of witnesses shall be the same as that provided by law in the district courts of the United States in the district in which such land offices are situated."

The general law fixing the fees of witnesses for attendance upon United States courts to which reference must be had in determining the fees and mileage allowed under the act of January 31, 1903, is found in section 848, Revised Statutes, which is as follows:

> SEC. 848. For each day's attendance in court, or before any officer pursuant to law, one dollar and fifty cents, and five cents a mile for going from his place of residence to the place of trial or hearing, and five cents a mile for returning. When a witness is subpœnaed in more than one cause between the same parties, at the same court, only one travel fee and one per diem compensation shall be allowed for attendance. Both shall be taxed in the case first disposed of, after which the per diem attendance fee alone shall be taxed in the other cases in the order in which they are disposed of.
> When a witness is detained in prison for want of security for his appearance, he shall be entitled, in addition to his subsistence, to a compensation of one dollar a day.

The act of May 27, 1908 (35 Stat. 377), provides a special rate of mileage and a special compensation for attendance in certain States and Territories. The provision of the act is as follows:

> Jurors and witnesses in the United States courts in the States of Wyoming, Montana, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho, Colorado, and Utah and in the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona shall be entitled to receive for actual attendance at any court or courts and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and returning from the same, three dollars a day, and fifteen cents for each mile necessarily traveled over any stage line, or by private conveyance, and five cents for each mile by any railway or steamship in going to and returning from said courts: Provided, That no constructive or double mileage fees shall be allowed by reason of any person being summoned as both a witness and juror, or as a witness in two or more cases pending in the same court and triable at the same term thereof.

The fourth section of the act of January 31, 1903, provides:

> That whenever the witness resides outside the county in which the hearing occurs any party to the proceeding may take the testimony of such witness in the county of such witness's residence in the form of depositions by giving ten days' written notice of the time and place of taking such depositions to the opposite party or parties.

1. No witness can be compelled to appear before the land office or any other officer outside the county in which the subpœna may be served, and no mileage fees should be demanded or paid except for distance necessarily traveled by the shortest usually traveled route between the land office and points in the same county, or, when depositions are taken, between points in the county of the witness's residence; nor should any attendance fee be allowed or paid a witness for time consumed in going to or returning from the place where the hearing is held or deposition taken, except in those States or Territories to which the act of May 27, 1908, supra, applies.

2. Where the same person appears as a witness in more than one case at the same time, between the same parties, you should tax the mileage fees to be received by him as costs in the first case in which action is taken, after which the per diem attendance fee alone shall be taxed in the other cases in the order in which they are disposed of. In the event that a witness testifies in more than one case between the same parties on the same day, he is entitled to but one per diem fee

3. Under the provisions of section 848 of the Revised Statutes and the act of May 27, 1908, a witness is entitled to receive the amount allowed by these statutes for each day's attendance before the officer taking the testimony, in each case in which he may have been in attendance pursuant to law, regardless of the fact that he may have been in attendance as a witness in more than one case before the same officer at the same time. This is a general rule applicable to all cases and to all parties. Each witness who attends a hearing before a United States land office is entitled to receive the mileage provided by law for the distance actually and necessarily traveled within the county in which such land office is located. Each witness whose deposition is taken under section 4 of the act of January 31, 1903, supra, is entitled to mileage for the distance actually and necessarily traveled within the county of his residence. In cases where a witness is required to be in attendance in more than one case before the same officer at the same time or on successive days, one subpœna only should be issued, and the cases in which his presence is desired should be particularly designated therein.

4. Any witness who attends any hearing or the taking of any deposition at the request of any party to the controversy, or at the request of the attorney or duly authorized agent of such party, without having been subpœnaed to so attend, should receive the same mileage and attendance fees to which he would have been entitled if he had been first duly subpœnaed as a witness on behalf of such party.

Care should be taken that payments to clerks and other officers of the United States for necessary expenses in going, returning, and attendance at the hearing are made under the provisions of section 850 of the United States Revised Statutes.

The register and receiver alone are authorized by this office to employ a stenographer where one becomes necessary to reduce the testimony to writing. Where a commission is issued to an officer to take depositions it is his duty to provide for the necessary clerical services to comply with such commission, at his own expense, and he is entitled to the fees allowed by law for taking depositions.

The voucher of the officer taking a deposition must cite the statute under which he claims fees for his services.

Very respectfully,

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

Approved.

Frank Pierce, Acting Secretary.

NOTICE TO BE ATTACHED TO SUBPŒNAS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., April 21, 1911.

Chiefs of Field Divisions and Special Agents.

Sirs: From and after receipt hereof, you will please see that there is furnished to each witness with the copy of the subpœna delivered to him a copy of the following statement:

NOTICE TO BE ATTACHED TO COPY OF EACH SUBPŒNA SERVED

A witness can not be compelled under the subpœna, copy of which is attached, to appear outside of his own county, and if he does so appear, can claim mileage in but one county; the county where the local land office is located if he appears before that office, and the county of his residence if he appears before another officer. Any witness who is served with a subpœna directing him to appear at a place outside of his own county will please notify ------------------, Chief of Field Division, ------------------.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

PREPARATION OF TRANSCRIPTS OF TESTIMONY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 19, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: To avoid the transmission here of incomplete records in contest cases, you will prepare, or cause to be prepared, the transcripts of testimony in litigated matters to show—

1. The names of the parties, dates and place of hearing, and name of the officer taking the testimony.
2. The appearance made by either party, whether general or special, and, if represented by an attorney or agent, the post-office address of such representative.
3. The names of the various witnesses called and sworn, by whom called, and the name of the attorney or person conducting the examination both in chief and otherwise.
4. If any motions or objections are made they should be fully transcribed, giving the name of the party making the same; and the ruling thereon, if any, should be carefully noted.
5. When either party rests his case, such fact should be noted. Any adjournments in the taking of testimony should also be noted.
6. A complete index should accompany each record.

The contest clerk should be carefully instructed in order that records may show just what proceedings were had at the hearing.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 64

NOTICE OF DEPARTMENTAL DECISIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE
Washington, November 25, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: I am sending herewith copies of amended rules 82 and 83 of the Rules of Practice, and of departmental order of November 16, 1911, with directions that one of each of these copies be posted in a conspicuous place in your offices for the period of 60 days.

Notices of all departmental decisions rendered after December 15, 1911, on appeals from this office, will be given direct to the interested parties and attorneys by mail through the Office of the Assistant Attorney General for the Interior Department, and not through this office and your offices as heretofore. This will make it necessary that the post-office addresses to which these notices are to be sent should be shown by the records of the cases before the department, and in many cases they are not now so shown. You are therefore urgently instructed to at once, upon the receipt of this letter, report direct to the Secretary and not through this office the names and present post-office addresses of all persons who are interested either as parties or attorneys in any case now pending before the department on appeal, and also to make a similar report to this office in all cases pending here on appeals from your decisions where appeals have not been taken to the department. A separate report giving the style of the cause and the number of the entry involved should be made in each individual case, and where you do not know the present addresses, either officially or personally, and can not ascertain them from your records or otherwise, you will report such addresses as "unknown."

Hereafter you will be particularly careful to state the name and address of each person who is interested either as a party or an attorney in any appealed case in all letters transmitting appeals from your decisions, and appeals to the department which are transmitted to this office by you; and as soon thereafter as any change in such addresses comes to your knowledge you will at once report such change to the department in cases pending there or to this office in cases pending here.

All motions for rehearing of departmental decisions must be sent to or filed in the department by the persons making such motions, and they will not be received and forwarded to the department by either this office or your offices.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

REVOKING "INSTRUCTIONS IN MATTER OF INVESTIGATIONS OF STATE AND RAILROAD SELECTIONS AS TO MINERAL CHARACTER"

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 5, 1912.

Registers and receivers, United States Land Offices, and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: The circular of instructions addressed to you dated July 28, 1911, entitled "Instructions in Matter of Investigations of State and Railroad Selections as to Mineral Character," is hereby revoked, effective April 1, 1912, and it will not be necessary after that date for registers and receivers to advise the proper chief of field division of the acceptance of any such selections or to furnish him with any of the data relating thereto as is required under said circular.

---

[b] Circular No. 86 was revoked by Circular No. 287, dated Dec. 27, 1913, and Circular No. 287 was revoked by Circular No. 339, dated July 30, 1914. Circulars Nos. 287 and 339 are not carried in this publication.

Instructions as to the investigation of these selections will be issued from this office to proper chief of field division in each case listed for investigation.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 90[4]

INDORSEMENTS BY CHIEFS OF FIELD DIVISIONS UPON NOTICES OF INTENTION TO SUBMIT PROOF

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 21, 1912.

Registers and Receivers and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: Effective April 15, 1912, chiefs of field divisions will discontinue the use of the stamps now employed by them to indicate upon the duplicate notice of intention to submit proof on an entry that there is a protest against the entry or that there is no protest against it, as the case may be. In lieu of the "protest" stamp, the following indorsement will be stamped upon the notice:

> Please withhold FINAL CERTIFICATE until field investigation has been made and report submitted.
> ----------------------------
> Chief of Field Division.
> ---------------
> (Date)

and in place of the "no protest" stamp this indorsement will be made:

> No information now in this office warranting field investigation.
> ----------------------------
> Chief of Field Division.
> ---------------
> (Date)

Accordingly, wherever, in circulars heretofore issued, registers and receivers are instructed to take certain action or to withhold action upon the receipt of a "protest" or of a "no protest" from the chiefs of field divisions, they will take like action or withhold action, as the case may be, when indorsements are made in the form herein indicated.

Whenever the indorsement "Please withhold final certificate, etc.," is for the sole purpose of making an investigation as to the coal character of the lands involved, the chiefs of field divisions will, in addition to that indorsement, stamp upon the top line of said indorsement "COAL ONLY," so that in such cases, the indorsement will be:

---

[4] See Circular No. 213, p. 1090.

COAL ONLY

Please withhold FINAL CERTIFICATE until field investigation has been made and report submitted.

(Date)

_____________________________,
Chief of Field Division.

When indorsements in this last form are received, registers and receivers will, in case an election to receive patent is filed under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), issue final certificate, if the entry is in all other respects regular and there is no other reason for withholding certificate. When certificate is issued as herein authorized, the register and receiver will promptly advise the chief of field division of the filing of the election and the issuance of certificate, unless the election was transmitted by the chief of field division, in which case notice will be unnecessary.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

WITHDRAWALS DURING PENDENCY OF CONTESTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 26, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices:

GENTLEMEN: By order of the department, immediately upon receipt of notice of an executive withdrawal that embraces lands included in contests, you are instructed to give all contestants notice of such withdrawal, in order that each contestant may determine whether it is to his advantage to further prosecute the contest.

Very respectfully,

CIRCULAR No. 210

APPLICATIONS BY SETTLERS TO MAKE NONMINERAL ENTRIES OF WITHDRAWN LANDS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 2 OF THE ACT OF JUNE 25, 1910

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 28, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Your attention is called to the instructions of the Secretary, dated March 6, 1911, under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), published in 39 L. D. 544. Said instructions state, referring to section 2 of the act:

> This section contains further provision to the effect that there shall be excepted from the force and effect of any withdrawal all lands which are on the date of withdrawal embraced in any lawful homestead, or desert-land entry theretofore made or upon which any valid settlement has been made, and is at that time being maintained and perfected pursuant to law. Applications to make nonmineral entries by settlers claiming the benefits of the above-mentioned provisions of section 2, will be referred to the chief of the appropriate field division for investigation and report before final action is taken thereon.

It has been noted that in a number of instances applications to make nonmineral entries of withdrawn lands by settlers claiming the benefits of the provisions of said section 2 of the act have been allowed by local land officers without reference to the chief of field division and in the absence of the investigation and report required by the above-quoted instructions, and that, in other instances, such applications have been rejected by the local land officers.

When such an application is filed in your office, same should be suspended and transmitted by you to this office and the case called to the attention of the chief of field division in order that appropriate investigation may be made and report submitted to this office, where the question of the allowance or rejection of the application will be determined.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 213

IN RE NOTICE TO CLAIMANTS THAT ACTION IS WITHHELD PENDING INVESTIGATION

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 11, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: It is noted that in cases where certificates are withheld on request of chiefs of field divisions pending investigation, many of the local officers notify claimants on Form 4–362 that proof has been "suspended" because "protested" by the Chief of Field Division.

Such notice is misleading and in many cases interpreted by claimants to mean that the chief has filed charges against their entries and that action is being taken of which they have not received notice to which they are entitled. Entrymen who have made sufficient compliance with the law are often unnecessarily alarmed and write this office requesting information as to the nature of the charges preferred by the chief.

The use of the "protest" and "nonprotest" stamps by chiefs of field divisions was discontinued (Circular No. 90) April 15, 1912, and in lieu of the "protest" stamp, the following indorsement is used:

> Please withhold final certificate until field investigation has been made and report submitted.

In order that claimants may be advised as to the real status of such cases a new blank has been prepared, Form No. 4–190, a supply of which will be furnished you at once. You will hereafter use this blank and no other in notifying claimants that certificate has been withheld pending field investigation.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 225

CONTEST—CONTESTANT—RELINQUISHMENT—PREFERENCE RIGHT

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 1, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with the decision of the department in the case of Smith v. Woodford (41 L. D. 606), the instructions approved September 15, 1910 (39 L. D. 217), have been amended to read as set forth below. You will apply the revised regulations in all pending unadjudicated and future contests.

1. In order to entitle a contestant to the preference right of entry conferred by section 2 of the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140), it must appear not only that he has contested the entry and paid the land-office fees in that behalf but that he has actually procured the cancellation of the entry.

2. Where it appears of record that the defendant has been served with notice of contest personally or by publication, it will be conclusively presumed as a matter of law and fact that the relinquishment was the result of the contest, and the contestant will be awarded the preference right of entry without necessity for a hearing.

3. Where a good and sufficient affidavit of contest has been filed against an entry and no notice of contest has issued on such affidavit, or, if issued, there is no evidence of service of such notice upon the contestee, if the entry should be relinquished you will, as heretofore, immediately note the cancellation of the entry upon the records of your office. In such cases for purposes of administration a presumption will obtain that the contest induced the relinquishment and you will at once so notify the contestant and that he will be allowed to make entry accordingly. If the relinquishments is accompanied by the application of another than the contestant, you will at once advise the applicant of the pending contest and of the presumptive preference right thereunder, and that should the contestant in the exercise of such right make timely application for the land, showing himself duly qualified, said right can only be avoided on a showing that the contest charge was not true, or that the contestant is not a qualified applicant, or that the land is not subject to his application. Should the contestant apply for the lands, showing himself duly qualified, within the preference-right period, and the intervening applicant file request for a hearing, with his corroborated affidavit as to the facts above stated in avoidance of a preference right in the contestant, within 20 days after the filing of the contestant's application, hearing will be had, after at least 30 days' notice to all interested parties, upon the issues thus presented, the intervening applicant having the burden of proof. The contestant must pay all costs of the testimony as to the truth or falsity of the contest charge, and upon any other issue each party must pay the cost of taking the direct examination of his own witnesses and the cross-examination on his behalf of other witnesses.

Should the local officers inadvertently allow an application filed with a relinquishment of a contested entry, they will, upon discovery of the error, immediately notify the contestant of his presumptive preference right and proceed in all other respects as above provided. Should a hearing be had, the intervening entryman may submit testimony with reference to his compliance with law prior to discovery of the erroneous allowance of the entry, as well as in support of the showing above provided for.

Nothing contained in the foregoing rule will preclude the exercise by the department of its authority to adjudicate cases as they may arise in accordance with the particular facts thereof and in the light of the settled principles of equity.

4. Where, prior to hearing in a contest, a junior contest is filed, alleging a valid ground for the cancellation of the entry, and in addition thereto the collusive nature of the prior contest, the junior contestant may, if the entryman has been served with notice of the prior contest, intervene at the hearing and submit testimony in support of his charges.

Should the junior contestant elect to offer testimony in support of his charge of collusion only, he will not gain a preference right of entry if such charge be established. If, at the time of the filing of the junior contest, notice is not issued on the prior contest, you will issue such notice and at the same time notice on the junior contest; the latter notice must recite all the charges contained in the affidavit and state, in addition, that the junior contestant will be allowed to appear at the time set for taking testimony in the prior contest and offer evidence in support of his charges. The junior contestant will be required to serve notice on both the prior contestant and the entryman.

5. If, before the case proceeds to a hearing, the entryman's relinquishment be filed, both contestants must be notified of the cancellation of the entry and of their right to apply to enter the land within 30 days after the receipt of such notice. Should both apply within such period, you will set a day for hearing, of which each shall have at least 30 days' notice, at which the junior contestant will be allowed to prove his charge of collusion and so defeat the claimed preference right of the prior contestant.

6. Where a junior contest charging collusion is not filed until after the prior contest has proceeded to a hearing, it will be suspended pending the closing of the latter case, and must wholly fail if the entry be canceled as the result of the prior contest. This, however, will not prevent the junior contestant from attacking the application of the successful contestant to make entry, upon the ground of collusion or for any other valid cause, should the latter attempt to exercise the preferred right of entry, nor, should the prior contest result in favor of the entryman, will the junior contestant be precluded from prosecuting his case if his affidavit, in addition to the charge of collusion, states a sufficient ground for the cancellation of the entry other than the charge involved in the trial of the prior contest.

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

PRACTICE—EVIDENCE—DEPOSITIONS[6]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 9, 1913.

Chiefs of Field Divisions.

Sirs: It is noticed that it is the general practice upon the part of chiefs of field divisions whenever the testimony of any witness is desired in hearing cases whose evidence must be secured by means of deposition, to have commissions issued for the taking of this testimony on oral deposition rather than by interrogatories.

It is well appreciated that in many cases the testimony of a witness can properly be presented only by the taking of oral depositions, as, for instance, where the case is involved or the testimony of the witness is of a technical character.

However, it is the opinion of this office that in cases where the testimony of a witness may be readily adduced by formal interrogatories, this method should be adopted. There are several reasons which may be urged in support thereof. First, the agent in charge of the case is most familiar with the facts which should be developed by the testimony given under deposition and he, therefore, can best formulate the questions to be propounded. Secondly, the use of interrogatories obviates the necessity for the attendance before the officer taking the same of a representative of the Government who may have little familiarity with the details of the case, and also saves the expense incident to his attendance. Thirdly, the taking of depositions on interrogatories affords an opportunity to the defendant to submit cross-interrogatories to be propounded to the witness and does not necessitate the employing of counsel to appear before the officer taking the deposition. In many cases the defendants are precluded because of the expense involved from being represented when the deposition is taken orally. It is the desire of this office to make it easy for defendants in Government contest cases to present their side of the case, and the taking of testimony on interrogatories will assist to that end.

[6] See Circular No. 311, p. 1095.

You are accordingly directed to make out the interrogatories whenever the testimony can just as well be taken in that way as otherwise. It must not be understood that this direction applies to the taking of a large number of depositions in one case at the same time and place, but it is more particularly directed to those cases where the deposition is of an isolated witness. The prime purpose is to prevent any undue or unnecessary hardship upon the public land claimant.

The determination as to whether or not the deposition shall be taken orally or upon interrogatories is left to your discretion, but in arriving at your decision you should be controlled by the suggestions and directions which are set forth herein.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 274

POSTING OF CONTEST NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 25, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Some misunderstanding exists as to whether copies of contest notices for posting shall include the dates of publication where service of the notice by publication is authorized.

Under rule of practice 9 it is provided that a statement of the dates of publication must be published with the notice, while the last paragraph of rule 10 requires that a copy of the notice as published, which necessarily includes the dates of publication, as well as the other matters required, shall be posted in the office of the register and also in a conspicuous place upon the land involved, such posting to be made within 10 days after the first publication of the notice.

It is the practice in some districts to post, both on the land and in the office of the register, carbon copies of the notice as issued for publication, which of course do not contain the dates of publication.

Contestants should be warned of the necessity of posting copies of the notice as published, and that it is necessary that the register be furnished with a copy of the notice as soon as published. Upon receipt of such copy, the register will immediately post the same, noting the date, and afterwards make the required certificate of posting.

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

RULE 7, CIRCULAR OF APRIL 24, 1907 (35 L. D. 681-2), AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, October 30, 1913.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Rule 7 of the circular of April 24, 1907 (35 L. D. 681-2), is hereby amended so as to read:

> When copy of notice is returned with indorsement not protesting the validity of the entry, the register and receiver will act upon the merits of the proof as submitted.
> Where returned notice by chief of field division or other officer protests the validity of the entry, the register and receiver will forward all papers to this office without action, except in cases of mineral applications for patent. In mineral applications for patent the proof should be considered upon its merits and, if found regular, certificate issued, although a protest may have been filed, but the claimant should be advised in such a case that patent will be withheld by the General Land Office pending a report by the chief of field division upon the bona fides of the claim.

REQUIRING NOTICES, MOTIONS, AND COMMISSIONS FOR TAKING ORAL DEPOSITIONS TO CONTAIN NAMES AND POST-OFFICE ADDRESSES OF ALL WITNESSES WHOSE TESTIMONY IS DESIRED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 6, 1914.

Registers and Receivers and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: On March 12, 1914, in remanding for further hearing the case of ex parte Albert Clark et al., Waterville, Washington, 04706, the department made the following rulings in reference to the taking of oral depositions under the act of January 31, 1903 (32 Stat. 790);

> Said act under which these depositions were taken does not limit such depositions to written interrogatories, but it is in the discretion of the Land Department and of the Chief of Field Division acting therefor to take depositions orally, although no instructions to that effect appear to have been issued prior to May 9, 1913 (42 L. D. 160).
> The address of the witness, Buckley, for the taking of whose deposition commission issued and notice was served, was not properly given. Stating his address as Lincoln County merely did not afford the opposite party sufficiently specific information. His address or residence within the county should have been given.
> The other witness, Rundle, whose deposition was also taken, was not named at all, as stated, either in the commission or in the notice. His name and particular address should have been given in said notice and in the commission, and the taking of his deposition without these jurisdictional preliminaries was unauthorized.

The future supplies of blank forms will be changed to conform to the above rulings of the department. In the meantime you will see that all notices, motions, and commissions for taking oral depositions under said act contain the names and post-office addresses within the county of all the witnesses whose testimony is desired, and in all cases where the taking of such depositions is now pending and in which the notices, motions, or commissions are defective under the above rulings you will promptly take proper steps to correct such defects.

Acting Assistant Commissioner.

APPLICATIONS TO ENTER—EXECUTION—FILING

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 8, 1914.[6]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: On and after October 1, 1914, as directed in a recent departmental decision (Race v. Larson, 43 L. D. 313), you will reject all applications to make entry which are executed more than 10 days prior to filing.

Such rejections should be subject to the usual right of appeal; also subject to the right to file a new and properly executed application, or to reexecute the rejected application, prior to the intervention of any valid adverse claim.

DESCRIPTIONS ACCORDING TO PLAT OF SURVEY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 2, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Because of the fact that descriptions of land in patents must follow the register's certificate of entry or location, care should be exercised by registers to describe the land according to the plat of survey. If a section is fractional or irregular, the tract should be described only according to the plat, and no mention made of what the description would be if the section were not fractional or irregular.

Before issuing a final certificate, a certificate of allowance of entry, or a notice for publication the description should be verified from the plat.

SIRS: The Postal Laws and Regulations provide that mail indefinitely addressed shall be denied admission to the registered mail. Accordingly, when notice is to be served by you on the unknown heirs of a public-land claimant, the same should be addressed to the claimant at his address of record and also at the post office nearest the land. Notice thus addressed will be held to constitute notice to the unknown heirs, provided the letter, if undelivered, is held at the office of delivery for at least 30 days.

REGISTRATION OF NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, December 11, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: It appears that recently in numerous instances letters from local offices have been unnecessarily registered. Your attention is directed to the provisions of Circular No. 20 [d] which directed that no registration fee will be paid by the United States unless the letter contains one of the following:

1. Notice of hearing.
2. Notice of decision, whether of your or this office, or of the department, to the party adversely affected only, where the decision is an adjudication of the case and the party has the right of appeal therefrom.
3. Notice of preference right or of other right to be exercised within a certain time, and of requirements of this office and the department.

Said Circular No. 20 also provided:

> Notice of the closing of cases, interlocutory decisions upon motions, orders of suspension, and all requirements made by your office of claimants that do not constitute a final disposition of the case, coupled with the right of appeal, must not be registered, and all instructions or circulars heretofore issued to the contrary are hereby revoked.

CIRCULAR No. 460

MANNER OF PROCEEDING IN CONTESTS INITIATED UPON A REPORT BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 26, 1916.

To Special Agents and Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices:

The following rules are prescribed for proceedings in contests initiated upon a report by a representative of the General Land Office. All existing instructions in conflict herewith are superseded:

---

[d] The instructions contained in Circular No. 20 are substantially restated in Circular No. 449. Circular No. 20 is not carried in this publication.

1. The purpose hereof is to secure speedy action upon claims to the public lands, and to allow claimant, entryman, or other claimant of record, opportunity to file a denial of the charges against the entry or claim, and to be heard thereon if he so desires.

2. Upon receipt of a report this office will consider the same and determine therefrom whether the facts stated, if true, would warrant the rejection or cancellation of the entry or claim.

3. Should the charges, if not disputed, justify the rejection or cancellation of the entry or claim the local officers will be duly notified thereof and directed to issue notice of such charges in the manner and form hereinafter provided for, which notice must be served upon the entryman and other parties in interest shown to be entitled to notice.

4. The notice must be written or printed and must refer to the letter from this office by initial and date, as authority for issuing the notice, and must state fully the charges as contained in said letter; also the number of the entry or claim, subdivision of land involved, name of entryman or claimant or other known parties in interest.

5. The notice must also state that the charges will be accepted as true (a) unless the entryman or claimant files in the local office within 30 days from receipt of notice a written denial under oath, of said charges, with an application for a hearing, (b) or submits a statement of facts rendering the charges immaterial, (c) or if he fails to appear at any hearing that may be ordered in the case.

6. Notice of the charges may in all cases be served personally upon the proper party by any officer or person or by registered letter mailed to the last address of the party to be notified, as shown by the record, and to the post office nearest to the land. When it is necessary to serve notice on the unknown heirs of a person in interest, the same must be addressed to that person at his address of record and also at the post office nearest the land. Proof of personal service shall be the written acknowledgment of the person served or the affidavit of the person who served the notice, attached thereto, stating the time, place, and manner of service. Proof of service of notice by registered letter shall consist of the report of the register and receiver who mailed the notices, accompanied by the post-office registry return receipts, or the returned unclaimed registered letters.

7. If a hearing is asked for, the local officers will consider same and confer with the chief of field division relative thereto and fix a date for the hearing, due notice of which must be given entryman or claimant. The above notice may be served by registered mail. By ordinary mail, a like notice will be sent to the chief of field division.

8. The chief of field division will duly submit, upon the form provided therefor, to this office, an estimate of the probable expense required on behalf of the Government. He will also cause to be served subpœnas upon the Government witnesses and take such other steps as are necessary to prepare the case for prosecution.

9. The Government must appear with its witnesses on the date and at the place fixed for said hearing, unless there is reason to believe that no appearance on behalf of the Government, will be required. The officer in charge of hearings must, therefore, keep advised, as far as possible, as to whether the defendant intends to appear at the hearing. The chief of field division may, when present, conduct the hearing on behalf of the Government.

10. If the entryman or claimant fails to deny the charges under oath and apply for a hearing, or to submit a statement of facts rendering the charges immaterial, or fails to appear at the hearing ordered without showing good cause therefor, such failure will be taken as an admission of the truth of the charges and will obviate the necessity for the Government submitting evidence in support thereof, and the register and receiver will forthwith forward the case with recommendation thereon to the General Land Office and notify the parties by registered mail of the action taken. In cases finally closed upon default of claimant, if application to reopen any case is filed with the register and receiver, they will forthwith forward same with recommendations to the General Land Office.

11. Upon the day set for the hearing and the day to which it may be continued the testimony of the witnesses for either party may be submitted, and both parties, if present, may examine and cross-examine the witnesses, under the rules, the Government to assume the burden of proving the charges, unless otherwise ordered.

12. If a hearing is had, as provided in paragraph 11, the local officers will render their decision upon the record, giving due notice thereof in the usual manner. When decision is adverse to the Government, notice thereof must be sent to the chief of field division.

13. Appeals or briefs, if filed, must be in accordance with the rules but need not be served upon the chief of field division or Government representative in charge of the hearing.

14. The above proceedings will be governed by the rules of practice. All notices served on claimants or entrymen must likewise be served upon transferees or mortgagees.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

Approved.

First Assistant Secretary.

MAKING AND PERFECTING OF ENTRIES FOR LAND IN MORE THAN ONE DISTRICT

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., September 22, 1916.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Persons desiring to make and perfect entries of land lying partly within one land district and partly within another will be governed by the following rules:

1. Complete applications must be filed in each office, together with the usual fee and commissions payable for the land in each land district, besides any other payment required by law. Each application should contain a proper reference to the other application.

2. In submitting proof, the two entries should be treated as one, and the published notice of intention should describe all the land and specify in which land district each part of the claim is located. The notice must be posted in each office, a copy thereof being forwarded to the other office by the office issuing the notice. If the notice is published and posted correctly and the proof is satisfactory, the register who issued the notice for publication will issue final certificate for the portion within his land district on payment of the testimony fees and payment of the commissions and (if required) the purchase money due for the land in his district. He will then advise the officers of the district wherein the remainder of the claim is located, who will, on receipt of the final commissions and purchase money (if any) due for the part in their district, issue final certificate for that portion without further proof.

3. Should a proof be rejected by the office from which the notice of intention is issued, the other office should be so advised, but the appeal or further showing must be filed in the office which rejected the proof.

4. When a desert-land entry embraces land in more than one district, the required annual proofs may be filed in either district, provided proper reference is made to the portion of the entry in the adjoining district, and the entryman must notify such officers by letter of the date when the annual proof is filed.

5. In applying for patent to a mining claim embracing land lying partly within one land district and partly within another, the proceedings in each office shall be conducted in all respects in conformity with law. A full set of papers must be filed in each office, except that one abstract of title and one proof of patent expenditures will be sufficient. Notice of application for patent should be posted in each office and remain posted for the period required by law. However, only one newspaper publication and one posting on the claim will be required, but proof thereof must be filed in both offices, the affidavits as to posting plat and notice on the claim to be sworn to within the respective land districts, as well, also, as all of the other affidavits required in mineral patent proceedings, except such as, under the law, may be sworn to outside of the land district wherein the land applied for is situated. Publication, payment of fees, and the purchase price of the land and posting in office will be further governed by the provisions of rule 2 hereof.

6. Rules 1 and 2 hereof are applicable to timber and stone entries, except that on such entries no commissions are collected.

7. Applications for public offerings under section 2455, Revised Statutes, can not be considered unless all the land lies in one land district.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS REGARDING CASES WHERE FIELD EMPLOYEES ARE SUBPŒNAED IN PRIVATE CONTEST CASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 31, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: My attention has been called to the fact that recently in a number of instances subpœnas have been issued for the attendance as a witness of a special agent of this office before the register and receiver in a private contest case. For your guidance in cases which may arise in the future you are advised that while a special agent may be subpœnaed on behalf of a private contestant the same as any other person, yet in such cases where the matter at issue involves public lands and the testimony sought to be procured has been secured by the special agent in the course of his official duties, the agent is instructed that when placed upon the witness stand he is to claim his privilege on the ground that the testimony sought refers to matters which are confidential and against the interest of the Government to disclose, and to request to be excused from testifying. Where it sufficiently appears that the testimony sought is of the character above described the claim of privilege should be allowed. As there are very few cases in which the agent will have information obtained otherwise, it is clear that as a general proposition the procuring of his attendance will be a useless expense to the party who requests that he be subpœnaed.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

APPLICATIONS FILED MORE THAN 10 DAYS AFTER THEIR EXECUTION—CIRCULAR 352 AMENDED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., January 15, 1918.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is invited to an order of the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 9, 1918, modifying the regulations which require applications for entry to be filed within 10 days after their execution:

> The department is advised that various local officers have been obliged to reject applications to enter which were promptly mailed but were not received within the time fixed by the regulations of September 8, 1914 (43 L. D. 378), resulting in annoyance and expense to the applicants.

In view thereof you will direct local officers to accept as filed within the time named in said circular all applications to enter which were deposited in the mails within 10 days from the date of execution, the regulations being amended to agree herewith.

Very respectfully,

C. M. Bruce,
Acting Commissioner.

Circular No. 695

RELATIVE TO FEES FOR EXPERT TESTIMONY BY FORMER MINERAL EXAMINERS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 19, 1920.

Chiefs of Field Divisions and Hearings Officers.

My Dear Sirs: In several instances lately former mineral examiners of this office, who have been requested to give evidence of facts ascertained by them in the course of official investigations made while in the employ of this service, have charged so-called " expert " fees for the time spent in giving the testimony. In the cases that have occurred heretofore we have approved the voucher largely because no particular contrary arrangement was made in advance.

We have given this matter careful consideration, and have come quite definitely to the conclusion that these charges are unjust and bad practice. As a rule these mineral examiners have secured excellent positions in private employment very largely as the result of the reputation and experience they acquired in our service in the pay of the Government. The matters they are called upon to testify about were invariably the subject of investigation by them at the expense of the Government. The Government does not receive the full consideration for that work of investigation unless it can use the information the mineral examiner acquired. For the Government to pay the expense of making an investigation, and then be required to pay " expert " fees in order to make use of the information it has already paid for getting appears to us to be manifestly unfair. We expect to pay a fair compensation for the time spent by the mineral examiner in giving his testimony; ordinarily he ought not to expect more than the equivalent of the salary he was getting when he left the service, together with his reasonable and necessary expenses. Therefore, hereafter when a former member of the Field Service is called upon to give testimony of the results of his investigations while a member of the service, you will advise him very clearly and explicitly that claims for so-called " expert " fees will not be approved, but that we will pay reasonable and fair compensation and expenses for the giving of his testimony. We are impressed with the fact that if they are disposed to be fair and reasonable, they will not ask or expect more.

Yours very truly,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

CONTESTS TO BE ASSIGNED DISTRICT LAND OFFICE NUMBERS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 6, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: In paragraph 32 of Circular No. 616, approved August 9, 1918 (46 L. D. 513), it is directed, among other things, that:

> A series of numbers for contests arising in district land offices will be maintained, entirely distinct from the series used for applications, entries, etc., and said contest numbers will not be preceded by "O." The records of contests will be kept in the "Contest docket" (Form 4-051a).

While it is assumed that in each local land office a contest docket and a series of numbers for contests are regularly maintained as prescribed, it is found that many duplicate applications to contest and some contest records come to this office without showing any contest numbers. Although such a series of numbers is primarily for the convenience of the local land office, yet in the work of filing, checking, and adjudicating in this office contest numbers are of great convenience.

You are, accordingly, instructed that all contests must be numbered and that each application to contest, original and duplicate and additional copies, if any, must show the contest number assigned.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 793

ACTION ON APPLICATIONS TO CONTEST

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 5, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

Sirs: Your attention is invited to rules 1 and 4 of the Rules of Practice (44 L. D. 395), which are as follows:

> Rule 1. Contests may be initiated by any person seeking to acquire title to, or claiming an interest in, the land involved, against a party to any entry, filing, or other claim under laws of Congress relating to the public lands, because of priority of claim, or for any sufficient cause affecting the legality or validity of the claim, not shown by the records of the land department.
> Any protest or application to contest filed by any other person shall be forthwith referred to the chief of field division, who will promptly investigate the same and recommend appropriate action.
> Rule 4. The register and receiver may allow any application to contest without reference thereof to the commissioner, but they must immediately forward copy thereof to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who will promptly cause proper notations to be made upon the records, and no patent or other evidence of title shall issue until and unless the case is closed in favor of the contestee.

1. As soon as you have allowed any contest under which the contestant is seeking to acquire title or claiming an interest in the land involved, you should at once forward to this office without letter of transmittal one of the copies of the application to contest or protest filed by the applicant with the words "For G. L. O. files" plainly written on the margin thereof. Where applications to contest are rejected by you they will be held in your office pending the closing of the case, whereupon you will transmit the record to this office as heretofore. Where an application to contest involves a final entry a copy thereof must be immediately forwarded to the General Land Office to prevent the inadvertent patenting of the land whether the application is by one who does or does not seek to acquire title to the land.

2. As soon as you have received applications to contest or protest from persons not seeking to acquire title to, or not claiming an interest in the land involved, you will at once forward such protest or application to contest to the proper chief of field division and report to him the facts within your knowledge or shown by your records which will in any way aid in making a field investigation relative thereto. You will thereafter suspend all further action affecting the entries involved until you have received recommendations from the chief of field division who will at as early a date as possible report to you relative to the advisability of ordering hearings under such protests or contests. Field reports will not be made direct to this office in such cases.

3. You should not forward copies of contest affidavits or protest to this office in cases where the contestant or protestant is not seeking to acquire title to, or not claiming an interest in the land involved, until after you have ordered hearings thereunder except in such cases where the protests or contests involve final entries.

4. You should not forward to the chief of field division copy of applications to contest or protest which are presented by persons seeking to acquire title except in cases which abate for want of prosecution or are voluntarily dismissed by protestants. In cases which abate for want of prosecution or are voluntarily dismissed by protestants, you should forward a copy of the application to the chief of field division with a notation thereon of the date on which same was abated or dismissed and a statement as to whether or not final proof has been submitted. The chief of field division will take appropriate action and make due report to this office on all cases of abated contests.

5. In cases where an application to contest is filed in your office against an entry as to which a chief of field division has filed an indorsement of "Withhold certificate, etc.," and no adverse proceedings have been directed by this office, you will notify the chief of field division of the filing of said application but you may proceed with the contest without awaiting report of the chief of field division.

6. In cases where an application to contest is filed involving an entry against which adverse proceedings have been directed by this office under circular of February 26, 1916 (44 L. D. 572), no decision should be made by you as to the allowance or disallowance of the application but the same should be held as junior to the Government contest.

Circular No. 164 of September 12, 1912, and Circular No. 204 of January 3, 1913, are hereby revoked.

Very respectfully.

William Spry, Commissioner.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to Rule of Practice 98 (44 L. D. 411), which provides:

> Transferees and encumbrancers of land, the title to which is claimed, or is in process of acquisition, under any public-land law shall, upon filing notice of the transfer or encumbrance in the district land office, become entitled to receive and be given the same notice of any contest or other proceeding thereafter had, affecting such land which is required to be given the original entryman or claimant. Every such notice of a transfer or encumbrance must be forthwith noted upon the records of the district land office and be promptly reported to the General Land Office, where a like notation thereof will be made. Thereafter, such transferee or encumbrancer, as well as the entryman, must be made a party defendant to any proceeding against the entry.

For the purpose of rendering this rule more effective in the protection of existing equities, you will see that in all cases where notice of a mortgage interest in land embraced within a subsisting entry, is filed, as provided in the above Rule of Practice, such mortgagee is given notice of any relinquishment of the entry that may be filed; and you will accept no relinquishment in such case unless the mortgagee joins therein, or is given opportunity to make such showing in the matter as he may desire, and 30 days from notice of the relinquishment may be allowed the mortgagee in which to express his assent to the relinquishment, or submit such statement or showing as he may desire. If the mortgagee fails to respond to the notice, or objects to the relinquishment of the entry, you will suspend action thereon and report the matter in full to this office, with your recommendation.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

Approved March 31, 1922.

First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 839

RELATIVE TO PENDING CASES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 19, 1922.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Among the thousands of cases handled each year by the General Land Office, it occasionally happens, even with the greatest of care, that final action is delayed in connection with cases because of the files becoming misplaced. In such an occurrence, in the absence of specific inquiry, it often happens that the case will lay dormant without action until at some time the party in interest calls attention to the delay in adjudication of the case.

The present administration is endeavoring to make final disposition of the older cases, to the end that the General Land Office may reach the point where we may be said to be current with our work. It is my pleasure to request your cooperation in this work, and to suggest to you, when you find a case, or any number of cases arising in your office, which have been pending in this office an unreasonable length of time, that you write us, calling attention to the delay, with such comment as you may think proper. May I ask also that prompt action be had on all cases requiring your consideration.

I assure you that upon receipt of such communications, this office will endeavor to expedite action at the earliest opportunity.

Very respectfully,

Geo. R. Wickham,
Acting Commissioner.

Circular No. 889

REINSTATEMENT OF CANCELED ENTRIES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 16, 1923.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Your attention is invited to 15 L. D., 659, in which it was held:

> An application for the reinstatement of a canceled entry, while pending, operates to reserve the land covered thereby from other disposition.

Applications for reinstatement of canceled entries must be filed in the proper district land office and must be executed by the entryman, his heirs, legal representatives, assigns, or transferees, as the case may require. If made by other than the entryman, such petition for reinstatement must fully set forth the nature and extent of petitioner's interest in the land, how acquired, and the names and addresses of any other person or persons who have or claim an interest therein. All petitions for reinstatement should set forth all facts and state clearly and concisely upon what grounds reinstatement is urged. Such petition must be sworn to before some officer qualified to administer oaths and having an official seal, or, if sworn to before an officer who does not have an official seal, his official acts must be attested by some proper officer.

Applications for reinstatement of canceled entries executed by agents and attorneys will not be recognized. Your attention is called to the regulations governing the recognition of agents and attorneys before district land offices, approved April 20, 1907 (35 L. D. 534). Paragraph 8 thereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

> Every attorney must, either at the time of entering his appearance for a claimant or contestant or within 10 days thereafter, file written authority for such appearance, signed by said claimant or contestant, and setting forth his or her present post-office address. Upon a failure to file such written authority, it is the duty of the register and receiver to no longer recognize him as attorney in the case.

Whenever application for reinstatement of a canceled entry is filed you will transmit same with the next returns to this office, together with report as to the present status of the land involved. Thereafter you will not permit disposition of the land until the application for reinstatement is finally adjudicated. All subsequent applications should be held suspended unless on account of some special reason you should deem it proper to forward same to this office to be considered in connection with the pending application for reinstatement. If a junior application be forwarded, report should accompany it setting forth the reasons for which you deemed it advisable to transmit same.

Should an application for reinstatement be filed not conforming to the foregoing, you will promptly advise the party thereof, calling his attention to the defects and allow 15 days in which to file a proper application. At the proper time you will make report setting forth what action the applicant has taken.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved April 16, 1923.

First Assistant Secretary.

DESCRIPTIONS OF LAND IN FINAL CERTIFICATES AND PATENTS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 19, 1923.

Chiefs of Divisions, General Land Office:

All patents issued for public lands by this office are supposed to be in conformity with the plat of survey. In the descriptions of land in final certificates, in the different kinds of lists made up, or presented to this office, this rule has not been followed uniformly. It is therefore directed that you advise each one of the employees in your division that in making up lists, examining final certificates or writing letters as a basis for patents, a comparison will be made with the plats of survey covering such lands and the lands in such lists, etc., shall be described according to the descriptions shown on such plats of survey, except that where all of a section is involved it will be sufficient to say "all sec. 1 or sec. 3," etc., without giving lots 1, 2, 3, and 4, S. ½ NE. ¼, S. ½ NW. ¼ and S. ½ of the section. In every instance, however, where a part of the section only is involved and lots appear in that part, the lots must be given rather than what would ordinarily be a quarter section or a quarter quarter section. For instance, lots 3 and 4 constitute what would ordinarily be the W. ½ SW. ¼ sec. 31, so that in such cases the lots must be used.

This is in line with the instructions to registers and receivers in Circular No. 397.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 911

INSTRUCTIONS REGARDING CLOSING OF CONTESTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 2, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: It appears to be the practice in many of the local land offices, when contests are abated, closed for want of prosecution, or dismissed because of defective contest affidavits and no appeal filed, to transmit the papers to this office with an undated and unsigned memorandum attached thereto purporting to show what action has been taken in connection therewith, and reporting that the case is closed.

Such memorandum statements should in the future be dated and signed, and officially made a part of the record in order that this office may be governed thereby in making the proper notations upon its records.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 921

EXAMINATION OF RECORDS BEFORE ALLOWING ENTRIES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 17, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: My attention has been recently called to several cases where homestead entries have been erroneously allowed by the local land officers for the reason that the lands were within the limits of a national forest and had not been listed under the act of June 11, 1906, or for other reasons which prohibit entries being allowed.

Such action has caused the entryman loss of time and a great amount of money in establishing and maintaining residence and otherwise complying with the law on the supposition that his entry was properly allowed and after he has done all that is required of him, it is discovered that the entry must be canceled.

In order to avoid repetition of such conditions, you are directed to make a thorough and careful examination of all the records of your office, prior to the actual allowance of any entry to be sure that there are no withdrawals or other impediments to favorable action. Furthermore, after allowance if you discover any reason to doubt the validity of the entry, the same should be reported immediately to this office.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

SIGNATURE AS EX OFFICIO REGISTER AND RECEIVER

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 1, 1925.

Chiefs of Divisions:

The office regulations of March 27, 1877 (4 Copp's Land Owner, p. 25), in so far as the commissioner is required to sign as ex officio register and receiver of entries, certificates, etc., touching business before the General Land Office from discontinued land districts, are hereby revoked, and hereafter all letters, orders, entries, certificates, etc., arising in connection with the disposal of the public lands in States in which there are no longer land offices will be signed by the commissioner, assistant commissioner, or the acting assistant commissioner as in the case of other business before the office.

It has been the practice since 1877 to charge the same fees and commissions on entries made in the States within which there are no land offices as in the States in which there are such offices. This practice will be continued.

DISPOSITION OF EVIDENCE OF SERVICE OF NOTICE OF PREFERENCE RIGHT

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 12, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: In cases where a preference right of entry is accorded by section 2 of the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140), you will, after service of notice of such right upon contestant and the expiration of the 30 days allowed for exercise thereof, transmit to this office by special letter the evidence of service for filing with the canceled entry record.

The service to be effective must be made in accordance with the departmental decision in the case of McGraw v. Lott (44 L. D. 367).

All necessary notations should be made upon your records.

Very respectfully,

Thos. C. Havell,
Assistant Commissioner.

REPORTS BY GEOLOGICAL SURVEY ON RAILROAD AND STATE SELECTIONS, SCRIP APPLICATIONS, AND NONMINERAL ENTRIES

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., March 13, 1926.[8]

The Commissioner of the General Land Office:

I have your letter ("A"–CAO) of February 23, 1926, requesting instructions relative to the class of cases in which reports by the Geological Survey should be secured.

---

[8] See instructions of May 14, 1929, p. 1421.

All prior instructions on the subject are hereby revoked, and in the future you will be governed by the following:

You will call upon the Geological Survey for a report on all railroad and State selections, and on all soldiers' additional and scrip applications, as to whether the lands applied for are valuable for coal or other mineral deposits, or whether they are valuable for power and reservoir purposes, or needed in connection with any contemplated power or reservoir-site withdrawal, except in cases where a special agent or an inspector has made a field investigation and submitted a report covering the subject.

A report by the Geological Survey on lands embraced in a homestead or desert-land entry should be requested only if the land has been reported or is believed to be valuable for coal or other minerals and the report of a field investigation is not available.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

PROTESTS AND COMPLAINTS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 22, 1926.

To Registers and Division Inspectors:

With the view of establishing a closer cooperation as between the district land offices and the inspection divisions, to the end that greater efficiency and a more prompt action may be obtained, the following direction is made:

Where any person may make complaint in any office, alleging the failure of any individual to comply with, or who may be violating, directly or indirectly, any law relating to the public lands or entries made thereunder, you will cause to be made a written note of the name and address of complainant with brief memorandum of the character of complaint, the name and address of person complained of, and the description of land involved. This memorandum should be promptly transmitted to the division inspector having charge of field investigations in your district. All complaints made by letter should be immediately on receipt thereof forwarded in the same manner.

On receipt of such complaints the division inspector will immediately communicate with complainant and take such action as may be warranted.

Compliance with the foregoing will result in mutual benefit.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

RELATIVE TO FILE NUMBERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 28, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices:

SIRS: In numerous instances recently we have received letters from district land offices in reply to ones written by this office, in which no reference was given to the serial, letter, or file number appearing on the letter to which your letter is in reply. The omission of such reference in your letters requires a great deal of research upon their receipt here to identify the case to which it belongs. You will, therefore, follow strictly the regulations heretofore promulgated on this subject and in each instance state the identifying file number of this office.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

ACCOUNTS—FEES OF WITNESSES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, June 29, 1926.

Division Inspectors, Inspectors, and Registers.

SIRS: Section 2 of the act of January 31, 1903 (32 Stat. 790), provides as to witnesses in land hearings that—

> The fees and mileage of witnesses shall be the same as that provided by law in the district courts of the United States in the district in which such land offices are situated.

Heretofore certain distinction has been made between allowances to witnesses in Western States and Eastern States, but such difference is eliminated by the act of April 26, 1926 (44 Stat. 323), section 3 of which provides:

> Witnesses attending in such courts, or before such Commissioners, shall receive for each day's attendance and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and returning from the same $2, and 5 cents per mile for going from his or her place of residence to the place of trial or hearing and 5 cents per mile for returning: And provided further, That witnesses (other than salaried employees of the Government and detained witnesses) * * * who attend * * * at points so far removed from their respective residences as to prohibit return thereto from day to day, shall, when this fact is certified to in the order of the court or the Commissioner for payment, be entitled, in addition to the compensation provided by existing law, as modified by this act, to a per diem of $3 for expenses of subsistence for each day of actual attendance and for each day necessarily occupied in traveling to attend court and return home.

The Comptroller General in a decision dated June 21, holds—> that witnesses in land hearing cases may be paid the per diem for expenses of subsistence under the same circumstances and conditions as are prescribed in the statute with respect to witnesses attending United States courts or Commissioners, the certifications as to the existence of such circumstances and conditions to be by the officer in charge of the hearing.

RULES OF PRACTICE IN CASES BEFORE THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT LAND OFFICES, THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE, AND THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR [e]

(Effective February 1, 1911; reprint September 1, 1926, with amendments)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 1, 1926.

I. Proceedings Before Registers

INITIATION OF CONTESTS

Rule 1. Contests may be initiated by any person seeking to acquire title to, or claiming an interest in, the land involved, against a party to any entry, filing, or other claim under laws of Congress relating to the public lands, because of priority of claim, or for any sufficient cause affecting the legality or validity of the claim, not shown by the records of the Land Department.

Any protest or application to contest filed by any other person shall be forthwith referred to the division inspector, who will promptly investigate the same and recommend appropriate action.

APPLICATION TO CONTEST

Rule 2. Any person desiring to institute a contest must file, in duplicate, with the register, application in that behalf, together with statement under oath containing:

(a) Name and residence of each party adversely interested, including the age of each heir of any deceased entryman.

(b) Description and character of the land involved.

(c) Reference, so far as known to the applicant, to any proceedings pending for the acquisition of title to or the use of such lands.

(d) Statement, in ordinary and concise language, of the facts constituting the grounds of contest.

(e) Statement of the law under which applicant intends to acquire title and facts showing that he is qualified to do so.

(f) That the proceeding is not collusive or speculative, but is instituted and will be diligently pursued in good faith.

---

[e] Rule 28 was amended by Circular No. 1172 dated November 3, 1928, p. 1129.

(g) Application that affiant be allowed to prove said allegations and that the entry, filing, or other claim be canceled.

(h) Address to which papers shall be sent for service on such applicant.

Rule 3.[11] The statements in the application must be corroborated by the affidavit of at least one witness having such personal knowledge of the facts in relation to the contested entry as, if proven, would render it subject to cancellation, and these facts must be set forth in his affidavit.

Rule 4. The register may allow any application to contest without reference thereof to the commissioner; but he must immediately forward copy thereof to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who will promptly cause proper notations to be made upon the records, and no patent or other evidence of title shall issue until and unless the case is closed in favor of the contestee.

CONTEST NOTICE

Rule 5. The register shall act promptly upon all applications to contest, and upon the allowance of any such application shall issue notice, directed to the persons adversely interested, containing:

(a) The names of the parties, description of the land involved, and identification, by appropriate reference, of the proceeding against which the contest is directed.

(b) Notice that unless the adverse party appears and answers the allegation of said contest within 30 days after service of notice the allegations of the contest will be taken as confessed.

(For contents of notice when publication is ordered, see Rule 9.)

SERVICE OF NOTICE

Rule 6. Notice of contest may be served on the adverse party personally or by publication.

Rule 7. Personal service of notice of contest may be made by any person over the age of 18 years, or by registered mail; when served by registered mail, proof thereof must be accompanied by post-office registry return receipt, showing personal delivery to the party to whom the same is directed; when service is made personally, proof thereof shall be by written acknowledgment of the person served, or by affidavit of the person serving the same, showing personal delivery to the party served; except when service is made by publication, copy of the affidavit of contest must be served with such notice.

When the contest is against the heirs of a deceased entryman, the notice shall be served on each heir.[12] If the heirs of the entryman are nonresident or unknown, notice may be served upon them by publication as hereinafter provided. If the person to be personally served is an infant under 14 years of age or a person who has been legally adjudged of unsound mind, service of notice shall be made by deliverying a copy of the notice to the statutory guardian or committee of such infant or person of unsound mind, if there be one; if there be none, then by delivering a copy of the notice to the person having the infant or person of unsound mind in charge.

[11] Amended Sept. 23, 1915.

[12] Amended July 13, 1921.

Rule 8.[13] Unless notice of contest is personally served within 30 days after issuance of such notice and proof thereof made not later than 30 days after such service, or if service by publication is ordered, unless publication is commenced within 20 days after such order and proof of service of notice by publication is made not later than 20 days after the fourth publication, as specified in Rule 10, the contest shall abate: Provided, That if the defendant makes answer without questioning the service or the proof of service of said notice, the contest will proceed without further requirement in those particulars.

SERVING NOTICE BY PUBLICATION

Rule 9. Notice of contest may be given by publication only when it appears, by affidavit by or on behalf of the contestant, filed within 30 days after the allowance of application to contest and within 10 days after its execution, that the adverse party can not be found, after due diligence and inquiry, made for the purpose of obtaining service of notice of contest within 15 days prior to the presentation of such affidavit, of the postmaster at the place of address of such adverse party appearing on the records of the land office and of the postmaster nearest the land in controversy and also of named persons residing in the vicinity of the land.

Such affidavit must state the last address of the adverse party as ascertained by the person executing the same.

The published notice of contest must give the names of the parties thereto, description of the land involved, identification by appropriate reference of the proceeding against which the contest is directed, the substance of the charges contained in the affidavit of contest, and a statement that upon failure to answer within 20 days after the completion of publication of such notice the allegations of said affidavit of contest will be taken as confessed.

The affidavit of contest need not be published.

There shall be published with the notice a statement of the dates of publication.

Rule 10.[14] Service of notice by publication shall be made by publishing notice at least once a week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county wherein the land in contest lies; and if no newspaper be printed in such county, then in a newspaper printed in the county nearest to such land.

Copy of the notice as published, together with copy of the affidavit of contest, shall be sent by the contestant within 10 days after the first publication of such notice by registered mail directed to the party for service upon whom such publication is being made at the last address of such party as shown by the records of the land office and also at the address named in the affidavit for publication, and also at the post office nearest the land.

Copy of the notice as published shall be posted in the office of the register and also in a conspicuous place upon the land involved, such posting to be made within 10 days after the first publication of notice as hereinabove provided.

[13] Amended Nov. 15, 1912, and Jan. 6, 1925.

[14] Amended Mar. 7, 1911. See Circular No. 274, p. 1094.

Rule 11.[15] Proof of publication of notice shall be by copy of the notice as published, attached to and made a part of the affidavit of the publisher or foreman of the newspaper publishing the same, showing the publication thereof in accordance with these rules.

Proof of posting shall be by affidavit of the person who posted notice on the land, and the certificate of the register as to posting in the district land office.

Proof of the mailing of notice shall be by affidavit of the person who mailed the notice, attached to the postmaster's receipt for the letter or (if delivered) the registry return receipt.

DEFECTIVE SERVICE OF NOTICE

Rule 12. No contest proceeding shall abate because of any defect in the manner of service of notice in any case where copy of the notice or affidavit of contest is shown to have been received by the person to be served; but in such case the time to answer may be extended in the discretion of the register.

ANSWER BY CONTESTEE

Rule 13. Within 30 days after personal service of notice and affidavit of contest as above provided, or, if service is made by publication, within 20 days after the fourth publication, as prescribed by these rules, the party served must file with the register answer, under oath, specifically meeting and responding to the allegations of the contest, together with proof of service of a copy thereof upon the contestant by delivery of such copy at the address designated in the application to contest, or personally in the manner provided for the personal service of notice of contest.

Such answer shall contain or be accompanied by the address at which all notices or other papers shall be sent for service upon the party answering.

FAILURE TO ANSWER

Rule 14.[16] Upon failure to serve and file answer as herein provided, the allegations of the contest will be taken as confessed, and the register will forthwith forward the case, with recommendation thereon, to the General Land Office, and notify the parties by ordinary mail of the action taken.

DATE AND NOTICE OF TRIAL

Rule 15. Upon the filing of answer and proof of service thereof the register will forthwith fix a time and place for taking testimony, and notify all parties thereof by registered-letter mail not less than 20 days in advance of the date fixed.

PLACE OF SERVICE OF PAPERS

Rule 16. Proof of delivery of papers required to be served upon the contestant at the place designated under clause "h" of Rule 2 in the application to contest, and upon any adverse party at the place designated in the answer, or at such other place as may be designated in writing by the person to be served, shall be sufficient for all purposes; and where notice of contest has been given by registered mail, and the registry-return receipt shows the same to have been received by the adverse party, proof of delivery at the address at which such notice was so received shall, in the absence of other direction by such adverse party, be sufficient.

[15] Amended Jan. 6, 1925.

[16] Amended Apr. 17, 1926.

Where a party has appeared and is represented by counsel, service of papers upon such counsel shall be sufficient.

CONTINUANCE

Rule 17. Hearing may be postponed because of absence of a material witness when the party applying for continuance makes affidavit, and it appears to the satisfaction of the officer presiding at such hearing, that—

(a) The matter to which such witness would testify, if present, is material.

(b) That proper diligence has been exercised to procure his attendance, and that his absence is without procurement or consent of the party on whose behalf continuance is sought.

(c) That affiant believes the attendance of said witness can be had at the time to which continuance is sought.

(d) That the continuance is not sought for mere purposes of delay

Rule 18. One continuance only shall be allowed to either party on account of absence of witnesses, unless the party applying for further continuance shall, at the same time, apply for order to take the testimony of the alleged absent witnesses by deposition.

Rule 19. No continuance shall be granted if the opposite party shall admit that the witness on account of whose absence continuance is desired would, if present, testify as stated in the application for continuance.

Continuances will be granted on behalf of the United States when the public interest requires the same, without affidavit on the part of the Government.

DEPOSITIONS AND INTERROGATORIES [f]

Rule 20. Testimony may be taken by deposition when it appears by affidavit that—

(a) The witness resides more than 50 miles, by the usual traveled route, from the place of trial.

(b) The witness resides without, or is about to leave, the State or Territory, or is absent therefrom.

(c) From any cause it is apprehended that the witness may be unable to, or will refuse to, attend the hearing, in which case the deposition will be used only in the event personal attendance of the witness can not be obtained.

Rule 21. The party desiring to take deposition must serve upon the adverse party and file with the register affidavit setting forth the name and address of the witness and one or more of the above-named grounds for taking such deposition, and that the testimony sought is material; which affidavit must be accompanied by proposed interrogatories to be propounded to the witness.

[f] See Circulars of May 9, 1913, p. 1093, and Apr. 6, 1914 (No. 311), p. 1095.

Rule 22. The adverse party will, within 10 days after service of affidavit and interrogatories, as provided in the preceding rule, serve and file cross-interrogatories.

Rule 23. After the expiration of 10 days from the service of affidavit for the taking of deposition and direct interrogatories, commission to take the deposition shall be issued by the register directed to any officer authorized to administer oaths within the county where such deposition is to be taken, which commission shall be accompanied by a copy of all interrogatories filed.

Ten days' notice of the time and place of taking such deposition shall be given by the party in whose behalf such deposition is to be taken to the adverse party.

Rule 24. The officer before whom such deposition is taken shall cause each interrogatory to be written out and the answer thereto inserted immediately thereafter, and said deposition, when completed, shall be read over to the witness and by him subscribed and sworn to in the usual manner before the witness is discharged, and said officer will thereupon attach his certificate to said deposition, stating that the same was subscribed and sworn to at the time and place therein mentioned.

Rule 25. The deposition, when completed and certified as aforesaid, together with the commission and interrogatories, must be inclosed in a sealed package, indorsed with the title of the proceeding in which the same is taken, and returned by mail or express to the register, who will indorse thereon the date of reception thereof, and the time of opening said deposition.

Rule 26. If the officer designated to take the deposition has no official seal, certificate of his official character under seal must accompany the return of the deposition.

Rule 27. Deposition may, by stipulation filed with the register be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths, and either by oral examination or upon written interrogatories.

Rule 28.[g] Testimony may, by order of the register and after such notice as he may direct, be taken by deposition before a United States commissioner, or other officer authorized to administer oaths near the land in controversy, at a time and place to be designated in a notice of such taking of testimony. The officer before whom such testimony is taken will, at the completion of the taking thereof, cause the same to be certified to, sealed, and transmitted to the register in the like manner as is provided with reference to depositions.

Rule 29. No charge will be made by the register for examining testimony taken by deposition.

Rule 30.[h] Officers designated to take testimony will be allowed to charge such fees as are chargeable for similar services in the local courts, the same to be taxed in the same manner as costs are taxed by registers.

Rule 31. When the officer designated to take deposition can not act at the time fixed for taking the same, such deposition may be taken at the same time and place before any other qualified officer designated for that purpose by the officer named in the commission or by agreement of the parties.

[g] See Amendment, p. 1129.

[h] See Circular No. 1142, p. 152.

Rule 32. No order for the taking of testimony shall be issued until after the expiration of time allowed for the filing of answer.

TRIALS

Rule 33. The register and other officers taking testimony may exclude from the trial all witnesses except the one testifying and the parties to the proceeding.

Rule 34. The register will be careful to reach, if possible, the exact condition and status of the land involved in any contest, and will ascertain all the facts having any bearing upon the rights of parties in interest; to this end said officer should, whenever necessary, personally interrogate and direct the examination of a witness.

Rule 35. In preemption cases the register will particularly ascertain the nature, extent, and value of alleged improvements; by whom made, and when; the true date of the settlement of persons claiming; the steps taken to mark and secure the claim; and the exact status of the land at that date as shown upon the records of his office.

Rule 36. In like manner, under the homestead and other laws, the conditions affecting the inception of the alleged right, as well as the subsequent acts of the respective claimants, must be fully and specifically examined.

Rule 37. Due opportunity will be allowed opposing claimants to cross-examine witnesses.

Rule 38. Objections to evidence will be duly noted, but not ruled upon, by the register, and such objections will be considered by the commissioner. Officers before whom testimony is taken will summarily stop examination which is obviously irrelevant.

Rule 39. At the time set for hearing, or at any time to which the trial may be continued, the testimony of all the witnesses present shall be taken and reduced to writing.

When testimony is taken in shorthand the stenographic notes must be transcribed, and the transcription subscribed by the witness and attested by the officer before whom the testimony was taken: Provided, however, That when the parties shall, by stipulation, filed with the record, so agree, or when the defendant has failed to appear, or fails to participate in the trial, and the contestant shall in writing so request, such subscription may be dispensed with.

The transcript of testimony shall, in all cases, be accompanied by certificate of the officer or officers before whom the same was taken, showing that each witness was duly sworn before testifying, and, by affidavit of the stenographer who took the testimony, that the transcription thereof is correct.

Rule 40. If a defendant demurs to the sufficiency of the evidence, the register will forthwith rule thereon. If such demurrer is overruled, and the defendant elects to introduce no evidence, no further opportunity will be afforded him to submit proofs.

When testimony is taken, before an officer other than the register, demurrer to the evidence will be received and noted, but no ruling made thereon, and the taking of evidence on behalf of the defendant will be proceeded with; the register will rule upon such demurrer when the record is submitted for his consideration.

If said demurrer is sustained, the register will not be required to examine the defendant's testimony. If, however, the demurrer be overruled, all the evidence will be considered and decision rendered thereon.

Upon the completion of the evidence in a contest proceeding, the register will render a report and opinion thereon making full and specific reference to the posting and annotations upon the records.

Rule 41. The register will, in writing, notify the parties to any proceeding of the conclusion therein, and that 15 days will be allowed from the receipt of such notice to move for new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, and that if no motion for new trial is made, 30 days will be allowed from the receipt of such notice within which to appeal to the commissioner.

NEW TRIAL

Rule 42. The decision of the register will be vacated and new trial granted only upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, in accordance with the practice applicable to new trials in courts of justice: Provided, however, That no such application shall be granted except upon showing that the substantial rights of the applicant have been injuriously affected.

No appeal will be allowed from an order granting new trial, but the register will proceed at the earliest practicable time to retry the case, and will, so far as possible, use the testimony theretofore taken without reexamination of same witnesses, confining the taking of testimony to the newly discovered evidence.

Rule 43. Notice of motion for new trial, setting forth the grounds thereof, and accompanied by copies of all papers not already on file to be used in support of such motion, shall be served upon the adverse party, and, together with proof of service, filed with the register not more than 15 days after notice of decision; the adverse party shall, within 10 days after such notice, serve and file affidavits or other papers to be used by him in opposition to such motion.

Rule 44. Motions for new trial will not be considered or decided in the first instance by the commissioner or the Secretary of the Interior, or otherwise than on review of the decision thereof by the register.

Rule 45. If motion for new trial is not made, or if made and not allowed, the register will, at the expiration of the time for appeal, promptly forward the same, with the testimony and all papers in the case, to the commissioner, with letter of transmittal, describing the case by its title, nature of the contest, and the land involved.

The register will not, after forwarding of decision, as above provided, take further action in the case unless so instructed by the commissioner.

FINAL PROOF PENDING CONTEST

Rule 46.[17] The pendency of a contest will excuse the submission of final proof on the entry involved until a reasonable time after the disposition of the proceedings, but final or commutation proof may be submitted at any stage thereof. The payment of the final commissions or purchase money, as the case may be, should be deferred until the case is closed, when, if the contest is dismissed and the proof is found satisfactory, claimant will be allowed 30 days from notice within which to pay all sums due and furnish a nonalienation affidavit, upon receipt of which the proper form of final certificate will issue.

---

[17] Amended May 16, 1916.

In such cases the fee for reducing the proof testimony to writing must be paid at the time the proof is submitted.

The final proof should be retained in the district land office until the record in the contest case is forwarded to the General Land Office, but will not be considered in determining the merits of the contest, though it may be used for the purpose of cross-examination during the trial.

In such cases the party making the proof will at the time of submitting same be required to pay the fees for reducing the testimony to writing.

APPEALS TO COMMISSIONER

Rule 47. No appeal from the action or decision of the register will be considered unless notice thereof is served and filed in the district land office in the manner and within the time specified in these rules.

Rule 48. Notice of appeal from the decision of the register shall be served and filed with such register within 30 days after receipt of notice of decision: Provided, however, That when motion for new trial is presented and denied, notice of such appeal shall be served within 15 days after receipt of notice of the denial of said motion.

Rule 49. No person who has failed to answer the contest affidavit, or, having answered, has failed to appear at the hearing, shall be allowed an appeal from the final action or decision of the register.

Rule 50. Such notice of appeal must be in writing, and set forth in clear, concise language the grounds of the appeal, in the form of specifications of error, which shall be separately stated and numbered; where error is based upon insufficiency of the evidence to justify the decision, in the assignment thereof the particulars wherein it is deemed insufficient must be specifically set forth in the notice. All grounds of error not assigned or noticed and argued in the brief will be considered as waived.

Upon failure to serve and file notice of appeal as herein provided the case will be closed.

Rule 51. When any party fails to move for a new trial or to appeal from the decision of the register within the time specified, such decision shall, as to such party, be final and will not be disturbed except in case of fraud or gross irregularity.

No case will be remanded for any defect which does not materially affect the aggrieved party.

Rule 52. All documents received by the register must be kept on file and the date of filing noted thereon; no papers will, under any circumstances, be removed from the files or from the custody of the register, but access to the same, under proper regulations, and so as not to interfere with transaction of public business, will be permitted to the parties or their attorneys.

COSTS AND APPORTIONMENT THEREOF

Rule 53. A contestant claiming preference right of entry under the second section of the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140), must pay the costs of contest. In other cases each party must pay the cost of taking the direct examination of his own witnesses and the cross-examination on his behalf of other witnesses; the cost of noting motions, objections, and exceptions must be paid by the party on whose behalf the same are made.

Rule 54. Accumulation of excessive costs will not be permitted. When the officer before whom testimony is being taken shall rule that a course of examination is irrelevant, the same will not proceed except at the sole cost of the party insisting thereon and upon his depositing the amount reasonably sufficient to pay therefor.

Rule 55. Where a party contesting a claim shall by virtue of actual settlement and improvement establish his right of entry of the land in contest under the preemption, homestead, or desert-land laws by virtue of settlement and improvement without reference to the act of May 14, 1880, the costs of contest will be imposed as prescribed in the second clause of Rule 53.

Rule 56. The only cost of contest chargeable by registers are the legal fees for reducing testimony to writing. No other contest fees or costs will be allowed to or charged by those officers, directly or indirectly.

Rule 57. Registers may at any time require either party to give security for costs, including expense of taking and transcribing testimony.

Rule 58. Upon the filing of the transcript of the testimony in the local office, any excess in the sum deposited as security for costs of transcribing testimony will be returned to the parties depositing the same.

Rule 59. When hearings are ordered on behalf of the Government, all costs incurred on its behalf will be paid from the proper appropriation, and when, upon the discovery of reason for suspension in the usual course of examination of entries and contest, hearings are ordered between contending parties, the costs will be paid as required by Rule 53.

Rule 60. The costs provided for by the preceding rules will be collected by the register when the parties are brought before him in obedience to the order for hearing.

Rule 61 was abolished by Circular No. 962, approved October 10, 1924 (50 L. D. 656).

PREPARATION OF NOTICES

Rule 62. All notices and other papers not required to be served by the register must be prepared and served by the respective parties.

Rule 63. The register will require proper provision to be made for such notices not specifically provided for in these rules as may become necessary in the usual progress of the case to final decision.

APPEAL FROM DECISION REJECTING APPLICATION TO ENTER PUBLIC LANDS

Rule 64. To facilitate appeals from his action relative to applications to file, enter, or locate upon the public lands, the register will—

(a) Indorse upon every rejected application the date of presentation and reasons for rejection.

(b) Promptly advise the party in interest of the action and of his right of appeal.

(c) Note upon his records a memorandum of the transaction.

Rule 65. The party aggrieved will be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice in which to file notice of appeal in the district land office. The notice of appeal, when filed, will be forwarded to the General Land Office with full report upon the case, which should recite all the facts and proceedings had and must embrace the following particulars:

(a) The original application, with reasons for the rejection thereof.

(b) Description of the tract involved and statement of its status, as shown by the records of the district office.

(c) Reference to all entries, filings, annotations, memorandum, and correspondence shown by the record relating to said tract and to the proceedings had.

II. Proceedings Before the District Cadastral Engineer

Rule 66. The proceedings in hearings and contests before the district cadastral engineer shall, as to notices, depositions, and other matters, be governed as nearly as may be by the rules prescribed for proceedings before registers, unless otherwise provided by law.

III. Proceedings Before the Commissioner of the General Land Office and Secretary of the Interior

EXAMINATION AND ARGUMENT

Rule 67. The commissioner will cause notice to be given to each party in interest whose address is known of any order or decision affecting the merits of the case or the regular order of proceedings therein.

Rule 68. No additional evidence will be admitted or considered by the commissioner unless offered under stipulation of the parties or in support of a mineral application or protest: Provided, however, That the commissioner may order further investigation made or evidence submitted upon particular matters to be by him specifically designated.

Affidavits or other ex parte statements filed in the office of the commissioner will not be considered in finally determining any controversy upon the merits.

Rule 69. After receipt of the record by the commissioner 30 days will be allowed to expire before any action is taken thereon, unless, in the judgment of the commissioner, public policy or private necessity shall require summary action, in which event he will proceed at his discretion, first notifying the attorneys of record of his intention so to do: Provided, That where no appeal has been filed the case may be immediately considered and disposed of.

Rule 70. If brief is not filed before a case is reached in its order for examination, the argument will be considered closed, and no further argument or motion of any kind will be entertained, except upon application and upon good cause appearing to the commissioner therefor.

Rule 71. In the discretion of the commissioner, oral argument may be presented, at a time to be fixed by him and upon notice to opposing counsel, which notice shall specify the time for such argument and the specific matter to be discussed. Except as herein provided, oral hearings or suggestions will not be allowed.

REHEARINGS

Rule 72. No motion for rehearing of any decision rendered by the Commissioner of the General Land Office will be allowed.

MOTIONS

Rule 73. No motion shall be entertained or considered in any case after the record has been transmitted to a reviewing officer.

In ex parte cases, where the entryman has been allowed by the commissioner to furnish additional evidence or to show cause, or, in the alternative, to appeal, both the evidence or showing and the appeal are filed, the commissioner shall pass upon the evidence or showing submitted, and, if found sufficient, note the appeal as closed. If such evidence or showing be found insufficient, the appeal will be forwarded to the Secretary as in other cases.

APPEAL FROM THE COMMISSIONER TO THE SECRETARY

Rule 74. Except as herein otherwise provided, an appeal may be taken to the Secretary of the Interior from the final decision of the commissioner in any proceeding relating to the disposal of the public lands and private claims.

Rule 75. No appeal shall be had from the action of the commissioner affirming the decision of the register in any case where the party adversely affected shall have failed to appeal from the decision of said register.

Rule 76. Notice of appeal from the commissioner's decision must be served upon the adverse party and filed in the office of the register or in the General Land Office within 30 days from the date of service of notice of such decision.

Rule 77. When the commissioner considers an appeal defective he will notify the party thereof; and if the defect be not cured within 15 days from the date of receipt of such notice, the appeal may be dismissed and the case closed.

Rule 78. In proceedings before the commissioner in which he shall decide that a party has no right to appeal to the Secretary, such party may apply to the Secretary for an order directing the commissioner to certify said proceedings to the Secretary and suspend action until the Secretary shall pass upon the same; such application shall be in writing, under oath, and fully and specifically set forth the grounds upon which the same is made.

Rule 79. When the commissioner shall decide against the right of appeal he will suspend action on the case for 20 days from service of notice of such decision to enable the party against whom the decision is rendered to apply to the Secretary for an order certifying the record as hereinabove provided.

Rule 80. The appellant will be allowed 20 days after service of notice of appeal within which to serve and file brief and specification of error, as provided by rule 50, the adverse party 20 days after service of such within which to serve and file reply thereto; appellant will be allowed 10 days after service of such reply within which to serve and file response: Provided, however, That if either party is not represented by counsel having offices in the city of Washington, 10 days in addition to each period above specified will be allowed within which to serve and file the respective briefs.

No arguments otherwise than above provided shall be made or filed without permission of the Secretary or commissioner granted upon notice to the adverse party.

Rule 81. (Abolished.)

ORAL ARGUMENT BEFORE THE SECRETARY

Rule 82.[18] Oral argument in any case pending before the Secretary of the Interior will be allowed, on motion, in the discretion of the Secretary, at a time to be fixed by him, after notice to the parties. The counsel for each party will be allowed only one-half an hour, unless an extension of time is ordered before the argument begins.

REHEARING OF SECRETARY'S DECISION

Rule 83.[19] Motions for rehearing before the Secretary must be filed within 30 days after receipt of notice of the decision complained of and will act as a supersedeas of the decision until otherwise directed by the Secretary. Such motions, briefs, and arguments must not be served on the opposite party and must be filed directly with the Secretary of Interior, Washington, D. C.

Any such motion must state concisely and specifically the grounds upon which the motion for rehearing is based and be accompanied by brief and argument in support thereof.

If proper grounds are not shown the rehearing will be denied and sent to the files of the General Land Office, whereupon the commissioner will proceed to execute the decision before rendered. If, upon examination, grounds sufficient for rehearing are shown, a rehearing will be granted and the moving party will be notified that he will be allowed 15 days from receipt of notice within which to serve a copy of his motion, together with all argument in support thereof, on the opposite party, who will be allowed 30 days thereafter in which to file and serve answer, brief, and argument. Thereafter the cause or matter will be again considered and appropriate action taken, which may consist either in adhering to the former decision or modifying or vacating the same, or the making of any further or other order deemed warranted.

As applied to the Territory of Alaska, the periods of time granted by this rule shall be doubled.

[18] Amended Nov. 6, 1911.

[19] Amended Oct. 25, 1915.

MOTIONS FOR REVIEW AND REREVIEW

Rule 84. Motions for review and rereview are hereby abolished.

SUPERVISORY POWER OF SECRETARY

Rule 85. Motion for the exercise of supervisory power will be considered only when accompanied by positive showing of extraordinary emergency or exigency demanding the exercise of such authority.

In proceedings before the Secretary of the Interior the same rules shall govern, in so far as applicable, as are provided for proceedings before the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Rule 86. No rule here prescribed shall be construed to deprive the Secretary of the Interior of any direct or supervisory power conferred upon him by law.

ATTORNEYS

Rule 87.[20] Every attorney, before practicing before the Department of the Interior and its bureaus, must comply with the requirements of the regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior pursuant to section 5 of the act of July 4, 1884 (23 Stat. 101).

Rule 88.[i] In all cases where any party is represented by attorney, such attorney will be recognized as fully controlling the same on behalf of his client, and service of any notice or other paper relating to such proceedings upon such attorney will be deemed notice to the party in interest.

Where a party is represented by more than one attorney service of notice or other papers upon one of said attorneys shall be sufficient.

Rule 89. No person hereafter appearing as a party or attorney in any case shall be entitled to notice of any proceeding therein who does not, at the time of appearance, file in the office in which the case is pending a statement showing his name and post-office address and the name and post-office address of the party whom he represents.

Rule 90. Any attorney in good standing employed, and whose appearance is regularly entered in any case pending before the department, will be allowed full opportunity to consult the records therein, together with abstracts, field notes, tract books, and correspondence which is not deemed privileged and confidential.

Rule 91. Verbal or other inquiries by parties or counsel directed to any employee of the department, except the commissioner, assistant commissioner, or chief of division of the General Land Office, or the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries, the Solicitor, members of the Board of Appeals, or the Supervising Attorney, or with the consent of one or more of said officers, is expressly forbidden.

Rule 92. Abuse of the privilege of examining records of the department or violation of the foregoing rule by any attorney will be treated as sufficient cause for institution of disbarment proceedings.

SERVICE OF NOTICES

Rule 94.[21] Fifteen days, exclusive of the day of mailing, will be allowed for the transmission of notice or other papers by mail from the General Land Office, except in case of notice to resident attorneys, in which case one day will be allowed.

---

[20] Amended Apr. 9, 1915.

[21] Amended Apr. 30, 1917.

[i] See instructions of August 13, 1928, p. 176.

In computing time for service of papers under these rules of practice the first day shall be excluded and the last day included: Provided, That where the last day is a Sunday, a legal holiday, or half holiday such time shall include the next full business day.

Rule 95.[22] Notice of all motions and proceedings before the commissioner or Secretary, except as specified below, shall be served upon parties or counsel personally or by registered mail, and no motion will be entertained except on proof of service of notice thereof. As to motions for rehearing, petitions for certiorari and petitions for the exercise of supervisory authority before the Secretary, service of notice shall be made only after such proceeding has been entertained and service directed, as provided by Rule 83.

Rule 96. Ex parte proceedings and proceedings in which the adverse party does not appear will, as to notice of decision, time for appeal, and filing of exceptions and arguments, be governed by the rules prescribed in other cases, so far as the same are applicable. In such cases the commissioner or Secretary may, pursuant to application and upon good cause being shown therefor, permit additional evidence to be presented for the purpose of curing defects in the proofs of record.

INTERVENTION

Rule 97. No person shall be allowed to intervene in any case except upon application therefor, under oath, showing his interest therein.

HOW TRANSFEREES AND ENCUMBRANCERS MAY ENTITLE THEMSELVES TO NOTICE OF CONTEST OR OTHER PROCEEDINGS

Rule 98.[23] Transferees and encumbrancers of land the title to which is claimed or is in process of acquisition under any public land law shall, upon filing notice of the transfer or encumbrance in the district land office, become entitled to receive and be given the same notice of any contest or other proceeding thereafter had affecting such land which is required to be given the original entryman or claimant. Every such notice of a transfer or encumbrance must be forthwith noted upon the records of the district land office and be promptly reported to the General Land Office, where like notation thereof will be made. Thereafter such transferee or encumbrancer, as well as the entryman, must be made a party defendant to any proceeding against the entry.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF THE FILING OF APPLICATIONS AND OTHER PAPERS

Rule 99.[24] The Secretary and the Commissioner of the General Land Office will not acknowledge the receipt of papers forwarded by mail, but if a prepared receipt is forwarded to a district land office with any paper the register will sign and return the receipt to the party who forwarded the same, after inserting the date and the serial number.

---

[22] Amended Sept. 28, 1917. [23] Adopted Sept. 23, 1915. [24] Adopted Nov. 10, 1915.

NOTICE OF PREFERENCE RIGHT

Rule 100. Where preference right of entry is awarded under section 2 of the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140), the register will, after service of notice of such right upon contestant and the expiration of the 30 days allowed for exercise thereof, transmit to the Commissioner of the General Land Office by special letter the evidence of service for filing with the canceled entry record. A fee of $1 for giving such notice must be tendered to the register of the district land office before any application for the land will be approved.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

ACCOUNTS: PER DIEMS OF WITNESSES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 28, 1927.

Division Inspectors and Special Disbursing Agents.

Sirs: The Comptroller General, construing section 3 of the act of April 26, 1926 (44 Stat. 323), having held in a decision, dated June 25, 1926 (5 Comp. Gen. 1028), that—

> In determining the number of days for which the per diems of $2 and $3 are to be allowed under said act the day is to be regarded as beginning on the hour at which it is necessary for the witness to leave his home in order to arrive at the place of trial at the appointed time, and the per diem will accrue for each period of 24 hours thereafter until the hour on which the witness could arrive at his home by the first available transportation after his dismissal as a witness, any fractional part of a day under such computation to be regarded as a day for per diem purposes—it will be necessary for vouchers for witnesses' services to show date and hour of beginning and of termination of the period for which either per diem is allowed.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved March 28, 1927.

CIRCULAR No. 1123

ACCOUNTS: PER DIEM OF WITNESSES[26]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 16, 1927.

Division Inspectors and Special Disbursing Agents.

GENTLEMEN: The Comptroller General, having held in a decision of January 21, 1927 (6 Comp. Gen. 480), quoting the syllabus, that—

> The per diem allowance for subsistence, authorized by section 3 of the act of April 26, 1926 (44 Stat. 323), to be paid to jurors and witnesses while in attendance before United States courts and United States commissioners upon the certification by the court or commissioner that the place of holding court is so far removed from residence as to prohibit return thereto "from day to day" is to be computed upon the calendar day—

Circular No. 1117 is modified accordingly, it being understood that the Comptroller General modifies his decision of June 25, 1926, quoted in such circular by inserting " for each calendar day " in place of " for each period of 24 hours."

RULE OF PRACTICE 28 AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, November 3, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Your attention is called to departmental order dated October 26, 1928, which amended rule 28 of the Rules of Practice to read as follows:

> Rule 28. Testimony may, by order of the register and after such notice as he may direct, be taken before a United States commissioner or other officer authorized to administer oaths, at a time and place to be designated in a notice of such taking of testimony. The officer before whom such testimony is taken will, at the completion of the taking thereof, cause the same to be certified to, sealed, and transmitted to the register in the like manner as is provided with reference to depositions.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

PREEMPTIONS

PREEMPTIONS[1]

The laws which provided for preemptions on the public lands of the United States were repealed by the fourth section of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), which reads as follows, viz:

> SEC. 4. That chapter four of title thirty-two, excepting sections twenty-two hundred and seventy-five, twenty-two hundred and seventy-six, twenty-two hundred and eighty-six, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and all other laws allowing preemption of the public lands of the United States, are hereby repealed; but all bona fide claims lawfully initiated before the passage of this act, under any of said provisions of law so repealed, may be perfected upon due compliance with law, in the same manner, upon the same terms and conditions, and subject to the same limitations, forfeitures, and contests as if this act had not been passed.[2]

For information regarding the conditions on which bona fide claims lawfully initiated before the passage of the repealing act may be perfected, the following instructions are presented, viz:

Preemption is the exercise of a right by a person possessing the qualifications required by statute who has made settlement in person on public land subject to preemption, not exceeding 160 acres, inhabited and improved it, and erected a dwelling thereon, to obtain title in preference to any other, by entry and purchase at the price at which the land is held.

CLASS OF LANDS SUBJECT TO PREEMPTION

Public lands of the United States to which the Indian title has been extinguished and which are not included in any reservation by any treaty, law, or proclamation of the President, for any purpose, which are not included within the limits of any incorporated town or selected as the site of a city or town; which are not actually settled upon nor occupied for purposes of trade and business and not for agriculture, and on which there are not situated any known mines or salines are subject to preemption. (Sec. 2258, Rev. Stat.)

QUALIFICATIONS OF PREEMPTORS

A preemptor must be the head of a family, a widow, or single person over the age of 21 years and a citizen of the United States, or one who has declared his intention to become a citizen, as provided by the naturalization laws.

---

[1] Reprint of Appendix 84 of circular of Jan. 25, 1904.

[2] This section was qualified by sec. 10 of the act so as to continue application of preemption laws to certain Indian lands.

No person can acquire any right of preemption who is the proprietor of 320 acres of land in any State or Territory, nor who quits or abandons his residence on his own land to reside on the public land in the same State or Territory.

PROCEEDINGS TO ACQUIRE TITLE TO LAND BY PREEMPTION

A party desiring to preempt a tract of land should carefully and in person examine the land, be certain of its true description according to the public surveys, and satisfy himself as to its character and desirability for purposes of residence and cultivation, and that there is no other valid claim to it. He is bound to personally know the land he claims, and any mistakes that might have been avoided with proper diligence are at his own risk.

Having selected the land he proposes to claim, he should move upon it and make an actual settlement thereon in person. He must go in person upon the land and perform substantial acts as a bona fide actual settler thereon before he can acquire any right as a preemptor.

When he has done this he may file his declaratory statement in the district land office. This may be done in person or through the mails, but he can not file a declaratory statement before he has actually settled upon the land. Illegal filings resulting from the willful fault or gross negligence of the preemptor exhaust the preemption right.

A filing without actual settlement is illegal, and no rights are acquired thereby, although a subsequent bona fide settlement may be recognized if made before the intervention of a valid adverse claim and duly followed up by the proper inhabitancy and improvement.

If the land is "offered," his declaratory statement must be filed within 30 days after he becomes a settler on the land. (Form No. 4–534.)

If the land is surveyed and "unoffered," he has three months after becoming a settler on the land within which to make his filing. (Form No. 4–535.)

Settlers on unsurveyed land have three months after the plat of township survey is filed in the district land office within which to put their claims on record.

Failure to file a declaratory statement within the time prescribed makes the land liable to the claim of an adverse settler who does file notice of his intention at the proper time and otherwise complies with the conditions of the law. (Sec. 2265, Rev. Stat.)

The declaratory statement must describe the land settled upon, state the date of settlement, and declare the intention of the party to claim the same under the preemption laws. The declaratory statement must be in writing or printed according to the prescribed form and be witnessed by not less than two persons who live in the neighborhood of the land. The place of residence of claimant's witnesses and the postoffice address of claimant must be stated in the declaration.

The existence of a preemption filing on a tract of land does not prevent another filing for the same land, subject to any valid rights acquired by virtue of any former settlement and filing.

The land-office fee for filing a declaratory statement is $2, except in the Pacific States and Territories, where the fee is $3.

SECOND PREEMPTION FILING.

The second filing of a declaratory statement by any preemptor who was qualified at the date of his first filing is illegal. (Sec. 2261, Rev. Stat.; Baldwin v. Stark, 107 U. S. 463; also Secretary's decision of February 27, 1884, case of Raymond, 10 Copp, 395.) Where the first filing, however, was illegal from any cause not the willful act of the party, he has the right to make a second and legal filing. (Goist v. Bottum, 5 L. D. 643.) And the right to make a second filing will be recognized when, through no fault or negligence of the preemptor, consummation of title was not practicable under the first. (Paris Meadows et al., 9 L. D. 41.)

RELINQUISHMENT OF PREEMPTION FILINGS

Preemption filings may be relinquished by the claimants in writing, filed with the register and receiver of the proper district land office, or the relinquishment may be executed by the claimant on the back of the declaratory statement receipt. Notice of such relinquishment should be promptly forwarded by the register to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for his information.

PROOF AND PAYMENT

On offered lands proof and payment must be made within 12 months from date of settlement.

If the land is unoffered, proof and payment may be made within 33 months from date of settlement, or in case of unsurveyed lands from date of filing plat of survey in the district office.

The preemption laws are intended for the benefit of persons making settlement upon the public lands, followed by residence and improvement and the erection of a dwelling thereon. Residence must be both continuous and personal. (Bohall v. Dilla, 114 U. S. Sup. C. Rep., 47, 51.)

"It was necessary for the preemptor to prove that he occupied the premises continuously after filing his declaratory statement." (Ibid.)

The department requires, in evidence of the genuineness of settlement, that six months of actual residence shall be passed before proof and payment, and then proof of compliance with law in all respects must be sufficient and satisfactory. A party offering proof in the shortest time can not be excused on that account for any noncompliance with the requirements of residence and agricultural improvement, since he is not obliged to make proof and payment at the earliest period the law allows, but has sufficient time within which to fully comply with the law.

A failure to make proof and payment as prescribed by law renders the land subject to appropriation by the first legal applicant, but in the absence of an adverse claim proof and payment can be made after the expiration of the 12 or 33 months allowed.

Failure to inhabit and improve the land in good faith, as required by law, renders the claim subject to contest and the entry to investigation and cancellation.

Final proof in preemption cases must be made to the satisfaction of the register and receiver, whose decision, as in other cases, is subject to examination and review by this office and department.

When two or more settlers on unsurveyed land are found upon survey to be residing upon or to have valuable improvements upon the same smallest legal subdivision, they may make joint entry of such tract and separate entries of the residue of their claims. This joint entry may be made in pursuance of contract between the parties or without it. (Rev. Stat., sec. 2274.)

Publication of notice to make proof is required in the same manner as in homestead and other cases.[a]

In making final proof the preemptor must appear in person with his witnesses at the district office, or before the clerk of the county court or of a court of record of the county or parish and State, or district and Territory, in which the land is situated, or before any United States commissioner appointed under act of May 28, 1896 (29 Stat. 184), within the land district, in accordance with the act of March 11, 1902 (32 Stat. 63), and make the affidavit and proof prescribed, or in Territories the proof may be made before a United States court commissioner as provided by act of March 2, 1895 (28 Stat. 744).

It is held, however, that "the law does not authorize the making of such proofs and affidavits before such commissioner outside of the county and State, or district and Territory, in which the lands are situated, unless the lands are situated in any unorganized county, which case is otherwise fully provided for by law." (Secretary's decision of October 2, 1890, case of Edward Bowker, 11 L. D. 361.)

The preemptor is required to make oath that he has not previously exercised his preemption right; that he is not the owner of 320 acres of land; that he has not settled upon and improved the land to sell the same on speculation, but in good faith to appropriate it to his own exclusive use; that he has not made any contract or agreement, directly or indirectly, in any way or manner, with any person whomsoever, by which the title he may acquire from the United States shall inure in whole or in part to the benefit of any person except himself. (See Form 4–061.)

Any person swearing falsely forfeits all right to the land and to the purchase money paid, besides being liable to prosecution under the criminal laws of the United States.

Final proof, in addition to the affidavit of claimant, must consist of the testimony of the claimant, corroborated by that of at least two witnesses, taken separately, to the facts constituting his qualifications, and his compliance with law as to settlement, inhabitancy, improvement, nonalienation, etc. (Rev. Stat., sec. 2263; Form 4–374.)

The exact date of beginning and of ending of each and of every absence from the land should be particularly stated, and the reasons therefor fully given, so as to enable the department to determine as to the sufficiency of the explanation.

[a] See instructions of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

The affidavit of claimant, his testimony, and the testimony of his witnesses, and the nonmineral affidavit (where required) must be made at the same time and place and before the same officer.

No other officer than the register or receiver, or the judge or clerk of a court of record of the county or parish in which the land is situated, or a United States commissioner appointed under act of May 28, 1896 (29 Stat. 184), within the land district, in accordance with the act of March 11, 1902 (32 Stat. 63), can take proofs in preemption cases, except that when the land is in an unorganized county the proofs may be made before the same officers in an adjacent county in the same State or Territory. (Sec. 2263, Rev. Stat.; act of June 9, 1880, 21 Stat., 169; circular, March 30, 1886, 4 L. D. 473; act of May 26, 1890, 26 Stat. 121.)

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR PAYMENT

In reference to the joint resolution of September 30, 1890, and act of July 26, 1894, providing therefor, see pages 10 and 209.[b]

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

In reference to statutes allowing leaves of absence in certain cases, see pages 16–18.[b]

ASSIGNEE OF A PREEMPTOR BEFORE PATENT

An assignee of a preemptor before patent has no claim upon the United States for the land nor for the money paid, in event of the failure of the claim and cancellation of the entry for fraud or false swearing by entryman. (Sec. 2262, Rev. Stat.)

HEIRS OF A DECEASED PREEMPTOR

Should a preemptor die without establishing his claim within the period limited by law, the title may be perfected by the executor, administrator, or one of the heirs, by making the requisite proof of settlement and paying for the land, the entry to be made in the name of "the heirs" of the deceased settler, and the patent will be issued accordingly. The legal representatives of the deceased preemptor are entitled to make the entry at any time within the period during which the preemptor would have been entitled to do so had he lived. (Rev. Stat., sec. 2269.)

PREEMPTION CLAIMANTS WHO BECOME INSANE

The rights of a preemption claimant who has become insane may, under act of June 8, 1880, be proved up and his claim perfected by any person duly authorized to act for him during his disability. (21 Stat. 166.)

---

[b] The references are to pages of circular of Jan. 25, 1904, not carried in this publication. On pages 10 and 209 of said circular, the instructions relate to extensions of time for payments, authorized by the acts of Sept. 30, 1890 (26 Stat. 684), and July 26, 1894 (28 Stat. 123). On pages 16 to 18, inclusive, the instructions refer to leaves of absence authorized by section 3 of the act of March 2, 1889 (25 Stat. 854), and by the acts of July 1, 1879 (21 Stat. 48), and Jan. 19, 1895 (28 Stat. 634).

Such claim must have been initiated in full compliance with law, by a person who was a citizen or had declared his intention of becoming a citizen, and was in other respects duly qualified.

The party for whose benefit the act shall be invoked must have become insane subsequently to the initiation of his claim.

Claimant must have complied with the law up to the time of becoming insane; and proof of compliance will be required to cover only the period prior to such insanity; but the act will not be construed to cure a failure to comply with the law when the failure occurred prior to such insanity.

The final proof must be made by a party whose authority to act for the insane person during his disability shall be duly certified under seal of the proper probate court.

PRICE OF LAND TO PREEMPTORS

The price of land to a preemptor upon " minimum " lands—i. e., lands not within the limits of a grant to a railroad or some other work of internal improvement—is $1.25 per acre. Within the limits of such grant the price is $2.50 per acre; but settlers, prior to withdrawal, are allowed to enter at $1.25 per acre, provided they shall file notice of their claims and make proof and payment as in other cases. (Rev. Stat., secs. 2257, 2259, 2279, 2281, 2357.)

PRIVATE ENTRIES

PURCHASE AT PRIVATE ENTRY[1]

The sale of lands at public auction was, prior to March 3, 1891, provided for by law (Rev. Stat., secs. 2353, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, and 2455), but such sales were prohibited by sections 9 and 10 of the act of that date (26 Stat. L. 1095), save under the exceptions noted in said sections, which read as follows:

> SEC. 9. That hereafter no public lands of the United States, except abandoned military or other reservations, isolated and disconnected fractional tracts authorized to be sold by section twenty-four hundred and fifty-five of the Revised Statutes, and mineral and other lands, the sale of which at public auction has been authorized by acts of Congress of a special nature having local application, shall be sold at public sale.
> SEC. 10. That nothing in this act shall change, repeal, or modify any agreements or treaties made with any Indian tribes for the disposal of their lands, or of land ceded to the United States to be disposed of for the benefit of such tribes, and the proceeds thereof to be placed in the Treasury of the United States; and the disposition of such lands shall continue in accordance with the provisions of such treaties or agreements, except as provided in section five of this act.

The first section of the act of Congress of March 2, 1889 (25 Stat. L. 854), provides that from and after its passage "no public lands of the United States, except those in the State of Missouri, shall be subject to private entry." This relates to the private sale or entry of "offered" lands under sections 2354 and 2357, United States Revised Statutes. No sale at private entry will be admissible under said first section, except in Missouri, in which State all public lands are subject to private sale by section 2 of the act of Congress approved May 18, 1898 (30 Stat. L. 418), but in making purchase under that act the purchaser is required to show the absence of any prior adverse settlement right.

These provisions of said acts of 1889 and 1891, while forbidding the disposal at public auction or private sale of the mass of public lands under the general statutes that formerly provided therefor, do not necessarily prevent the disposal of lands under any act of Congress of a special nature having local application, in such manner as therein provided for, in reference to any specific lands or class of lands, although this may include the disposal thereof at public auction or private sale, as, for example, coal lands at private entry under section 2347, Revised Statutes, circular July 31, 1882, 1 L. D. 687; Osage trust and diminished reserve lands at private entry, last sentence, section 3, act of May 28, 1880, 21 Stat. L. 143; salt spring reserve lands, act of January 12, 1877, 19 Stat. L. 221.

[1] Extract from circular of Jan. 25, 1904, not carried in this publication.

MINIMUM AND DOUBLE MINIMUM LANDS

No land shall be sold, either at public or private sale, for less than $1.25 per acre, which is therefore called the "minimum price," and lands held for sale at that price are called "minimum lands." (Rev. Stat. 2357.)

The double minimum price established by law is $2.50 per acre, and lands held for sale at that price are called "double minimum lands."

Alternate reserved sections within the limits of railroad grants are double minimum in price (sec. 2357, Rev. Stat.), except such as were put in market at the enchanced price prior to January 1, 1861, and were subject to entry June 15, 1880, all of which were reduced in price to $1.25 per acre by the third section of the act of Congress of June 15, 1880 (21 Stat. L. 237), and except those opposite those portions of railroads not completed on March 2, 1889, which were reduced in price by section 4 of the act of that date (25 Stat. L. 854), or where a different price is provided for in statutes for the disposal of lands under special conditions.

PUBLIC LANDS

CIRCULAR No. 1197 [1]

VACANT PUBLIC LANDS ON JULY 1, 1929

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 1, 1929.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The lands in the thirteen original States, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts, North Carolina, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Virginia, also in Texas, never formed a part of the public domain; their disposition is governed by the State laws, and information concerning same should be sought from the State authorities.

There are no public lands in the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, and none is known to this office remaining undisposed of in the States of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Ohio. Small areas remain in the States of Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin, in widely scattered tracts, and no descriptive lists thereof are available. Entry of these lands must be made at, and all other related business transacted with, the General Land Office, at Washington, D. C., as there are no district offices in the States named.

Because of the small proportion of surveyed land, no attempt is made to give statistical information concerning the unappropriated Government land in the Territory of Alaska. The total area of the Territory is 378,165,760 acres, of which about 30,000,000 acres are reserved. Of the reserved area, 21,397,521 acres are within the boundaries of national forests. Approximately 1,910,951 acres have been surveyed under the rectangular system and special surveys by metes and bounds.

* * * * * * *

As a rule, the Government is unable to furnish specific information as to soil, topography, and value of the land for different purposes. It may be stated generally, however, that the remaining vacant public lands, not mineral in character, are chiefly valuable for grazing purposes, though some tillable land may be found.

The General Land Office can not advise inquiriers as to the location of the unappropriated tracts in counties where only a few acres are reported as vacant. Information on that subject may be obtained by a careful examination of the records of the district land offices or of this office, which are open for inspection when not in official use.

---

[1] This circular as issued in pamphlet form contains tables showing by States, land districts, and counties the area of the unappropriated and unreserved public lands, surveyed and unsurveyed, with a brief statement of their character, on July 1, 1929. The tables have been omitted in this publication. However, a recapitulation thereof is shown on p. 1140.

Township diagrams and plats giving information specified below may be prepared and sold by the registers of the various district land offices at the following prices:

For a township diagram showing entered land only	$1.00
For a township plat showing form of entries, names of claimants, and character of entries	2.00
For a township plat showing form of entries, names of claimants, character of entry, and number	3.00
For a township plat showing form of entries, names of claimants, character of entry, number, and date of filing or entry, together with topography, etc	4.00

The General Land Office records are subject to reasonable inspection for the purpose of obtaining data as to vacant public land, and it will be glad to furnish information as to the status of any particular tract if the legal subdivision, section, township, and range thereof, according to the public-land survey, is given, or, if unsurveyed, by its relative position to adjacent surveyed lands.

The district officers furnish prospective settlers general advice as to lands in their respective districts and literature regarding the methods of making entry. However, personal inspection must be made of the tract to be entered before application is filed, and the settler should exercise great care to satisfy himself as to its character before taking any other step.

Very respectfully,

C. C. MOORE, Commissioner.

Approved July 20, 1929.

JOHN H. EDWARDS,
Assistant Secretary.

PUBLICATION OF PROOF NOTICES

[Reported, 2 L. D. 205]

RATES OF ADVERTISING

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., January 30, 1884.

Commissioner McFarland to Registers United States Land Offices:

It having come to the knowledge of this office that excessive charges are made by the proprietors of newspapers in certain States and Territories for the publication of notices of intention to make final proof under act of March 3, 1879, you are directed hereafter, in designating papers in which such notices shall be published, to designate only such reputable papers of general circulation nearest the land applied for, the rates of which do not exceed the rates established by State or Territorial laws for the publication of legal notices.

Approved by Secretary Teller, January 30, 1884.

[Reported, 38 L. D. 131]

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO PUBLICATION OF FINAL-PROOF NOTICES AND CONCERNING THE DISCRETIONARY AUTHORITY OF REGISTERS IN THE SELECTION OF NEWSPAPERS FOR THAT PURPOSE

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., August 11, 1909.[1]

Registers and Receivers of United States District Land Offices.

Sirs: This office is in daily receipt of complaints from editors and publishers of newspapers to the effect that their publications are not accorded the patronage which should be bestowed upon them, in accordance with the law and regulations governing the publication of notices of intended final proofs on entries of public lands.

The object of the law requiring publication of such notices is to bring to the knowledge and attention of all persons who are or who might be interested in the lands described therein, or who have information concerning the illegality or invalidity of the asserted claims thereto, the fact that it is proposed to establish and perfect such claims, to the end that they may interpose any objection they may have, or communicate information possessed by them to the officers of the land department. It is unnecessary to state that this object can not be secured by a notice published in a paper which has no meritorious circulation among the people resident in the locality in which the affected land is situated, and that inattention to or disregard of their duty in this behalf on the part of registers will result in the total subversion of the law and the defeat of its purpose and intent. To the end, therefore, that you may be fully instructed concerning your official obligation in the premises, and that you may be urged to an alert and diligent performance of the duty which the law imposes upon you, your attention is directed to the several rules now to be stated and which should govern and control you in the discharge of your official obligation:

[1] Amended by circular of Apr. 4, 1914 (No. 310), p. 1148. See instructions of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

First. A notice of intended final proof must be published in a newspaper of established character and of general circulation in the vicinity of the land affected thereby, such paper having a fixed and well-known place of publication. No newspaper shall be deemed a qualified medium of notice unless it shall have been continuously published during an unbroken period of six months immediately preceding the publication of the notice, nor unless it shall have applied for and been granted the privilege of transportation in and by the United States mails at the rate provided by law for second-class matter (secs 427 to 437, inclusive, Postal Laws and Regulations), a privilege available to all newspapers having a legitimate list of subscribers and a known place of publication.

Second. The notice must in all cases be published in the newspaper which may be printed and issued at a place nearest to the lands which the notice affects. By the word "nearest" as here used it is not intended that geographical proximity shall be measured on an air line drawn between the land and the place of publication, but by the length of the shortest and principally traveled thoroughfare between such places, being the highway ordinarily used and employed for travel by vehicles of any kind. But this qualification shall not be intended as authorizing any manifest perversion of the spirit of the rule, but simply to dispense with any strict rule based on geographical distance.

Third. It is not necessary that the newspaper nominated as the medium of such notice shall be published in the same county as that in which the land lies, or even in the same land district. On the contrary, a newspaper published in an adjoining county, if its place of publication is nearer to the land than that of any other newspaper, must be designated as the agency of publication, if it is also qualified by reason of its general circulation in the vicinity of the affected lands.

Fourth. The law invests registers with discretion in the selection of newspapers to be the media of notice in such cases as are here referred to, but that discretion is official in character, and not a purely personal and arbitrary power to be exercised without regard for the object of the law by which it is conferred. It follows that a register's action in the exercise of such discretion is subject to review by this office in any case where it is sufficiently alleged that the discretion has been abused, meaning thereby that it has been exercised in a manner perversive of the object of the law in requiring such notices to be published. This power of review will ordinarily be exercised and made effective in a proper case by holding the final proof to have been preceded by insufficient notice; but it may be resorted to and exercised, in any case in which it may be shown that a register is persistently designating a manifestly inefficient medium of notice, by forbidding the further publication of notices in such a newspaper until it shall have acquired and sufficiently established its possession of the requisite qualifications. In other words, where it has once been determined that a newspaper is not a competent medium of notice, it is within the power of this office to forbid the continued selection of that newspaper as the means of publication without awaiting repeated abuses of discretion on the part of a register and a determination in each separate instance that the notice was ineffectually published. This course of action will, therefore, be pursued whenever it is shown that a register is bestowing his patronage upon an alleged newspaper which is not entitled to that character, being merely a private advertising agency or published for some special purpose and not as a general disseminator of news, or where such paper has no actual bona fide or reasonably meritorious circulation, or is not in fact published at its pretended place of publication, but at some other place.

Fifth. Where a register acts in the reasonable and not manifestly unfair and improper exercise of his discretion his decision will not be interfered with or disturbed by this office. The department can not and will not undertake to weigh and nicely calculate the relative efficiency of two or more newspapers published in the same place and alike possessing and enjoying an established character and general circulation; nor will it, as between two papers published at different places, permit any slight and unimportant advantage in the matter of geographical proximity, period of publication, or extent of circulation, possessed by one of such papers over the other, to serve as a sufficient reason for disapproval of the register's conclusion as to which one of such newspapers should be designated as the means of publication.

Sixth. It is earnestly desired that you shall severally be at all times careful in your observance of and adherence to the rules which have been here stated and prescribed for your governance, to the end that the new numerous and urgent complaints of alleged discrimination, and charges to the effect that the object of the law is not observed in the choice of newspapers for the publication of final-proof notices, may be at least greatly diminished in number, as well as to the further end that such as may be received shall be without fundation of fact or in law.

Seventh. Persons seeking to establish their right to a legal title to any public lands are not authorized to interfere with the discretion of the register in the choice of a newspaper in which to publish notice of their claims; nor will any designation of a newspaper made by a register, in the reasonable exercise of that discretion, be disturbed on the ground that the claimant recommended another newspaper. All other conditions being equal, it will be entirely proper to accord favorable consideration to a claimant's nomination of a newspaper. though acceptance of such a nomination will not be enjoined upon you.

Eighth. None of the rules herein stated respecting the designation of the newspaper are intended to apply to, or govern, publication of notice concerning proof proposed to be offered in support of an application for the purchase of lands chiefly valuable for their timber or stone, under the act of Congress of June 3, 1878 (20 Stats. 89), as extended by the act of Congress of August 4, 1892 (27 Stats. 348), nor to the purchase of Alaskan coal lands under the act of Congress of April 28, 1904 (33 Stats. 525). Publication of such notices must be procured by the applicants, in newspapers selected by them, but this privilege does not exempt them from the obligation to select a newspaper published nearest to the lands to which the application relates, and such paper must be in all other respects a competent medium of notice, in accordance with the principles which have been stated. You will give to all applicants under this act due counsel and instruction concerning the duty imposed upon them in respect of publication of notice, to the end that they may not ignorantly err in the choice of newspapers through which to communicate such notice.

PROCEDURE IN CASES OF COMPLAINTS

Ninth. No appeal will lie from the action of the register in refusing to name any particular newspaper as an agency for the publication of notices concerning claims to public lands. But any editor or proprietor of a newspaper who believes and desires to charge that a notice of proof in support of any claim to public land has been published in a paper disqualified by the rules and principles herein stated, to serve as the medium of such notice, may file in the district land office from which such notice emanated a written and verified protest against the acceptance of the proof submitted in accordance with such notice. Such protest should set forth all material and essential facts within the knowledge of the protestant, or of which he has reliable information and which he believes to be true, and which, if duly established by proof, would require a determination that the newspaper in which the notice was published was and is not a reputable and established publication, printed, in good faith, for the diffusion of local and general news; or that it is and was not the paper published nearest to the land affected by said notice, and that there is another newspaper published at a place nearer to said lands, equally well qualified in all respects to convey notice of the claim thereto asserted; or any other cause of disqualification expressed and defined in and by the foregoing several rules.

Tenth. Any such protest must be accompanied by copies of at least three successive editions of the paper against whose efficiency as a means of notice the protest is directed, and by as many like copies of the paper published by protestant, and alleged to have been a more efficient agency of notice than was the paper actually chosen. It should, in addition to other facts hereby made essential, disclose the relative number of actual paying subscribers supporting the said two newspapers; the number of papers actually distributed in the county in which said papers are published and in the county in which the land is situated; and the number of papers mailed to bona fide subscribers at the post office nearest to the land to which such notice relates. It should state the length of time during which each of said newspapers has been actually and continuously published, immediately preceding the date of the protest; and, if either of said papers has been denied, or has never applied for, entry as second-class matter in the post office at the place of publication, that fact should be stated.

Eleventh. Where any protest has been filed in the manner herein prescribed it shall be the duty of the register and receiver to immediately consider same and to proceed thereon as in other cases of protests against final proofs. If they should conclude that the facts stated in the protest are insufficient to warrant an order for a hearing, they will render decision to that effect and duly notify the protestant thereof, at the same time advising him of his right to prosecute an appeal to this office, in the manner and within the time prescribed by the rules of practice. After the expiration of the period during which an appeal may be prosecuted, they will, if no such appeal be filed, forward the protest and accompanying exhibits to this office, with their decision thereon, as in cases of unappealed contests, together with a separate report by the register concerning the facts within his knowledge, and bearing, in a material manner, on the merits of the question presented by the protest.

Twelfth. In all cases where no appeal is prosecuted from a decision by the register and receiver dismissing a protest, that decision will be considered final as to the facts; and acquiescence therein by this office will be refused only when it is manifest that it was error to determine that no proper ground of protest was sufficiently alleged.

Thirteenth. The law imposes upon registers the duty of procuring the publication of proper final-proof notices, and charges the claimant with no obligation in that behalf, except that he shall bear and pay the cost of such publication. Registers should accordingly exercise the utmost care in the examination of such notices and in the comparison thereof with the records of their offices, to the end that they may not go to the printer containing any erroneous description of the entered land, or designating an officer not authorized to receive the proof, or that they shall not be for any other reason insufficient. It is equally important that a notice correct in all of these particulars shall not be published in a newspaper manifestly disqualified as a means of publication and clearly incapable of bringing the notice to the attention of the people dwelling in the vicinity of the lands to which it relates.[2]

Neglect of the duty above defined, resulting in a requirement of republication, should not visit its penalty upon the claimant. In all such cases, therefore, the register by whom the publication was procured will be required to effect the necessary republication at his own proper expense. If an error is committed by the printer of the paper in which the notice appears, the register may require such printer to correct his error by publishing the notice anew for the necessary length of time, and for his refusal to do so may decline to designate his said paper as an agency of notice in cases thereafter arising.[2]

CIRCULAR No. 310

AMENDMENT TO CIRCULAR OF AUGUST 11, 1909, RELATING TO PUBLICATION OF FINAL-PROOF NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 4, 1914.

To Registers and Receivers and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: The Instructions of August 11, 1909 (38 L. D. 131), relative to publication of final-proof notices and concerning the discretionary authority of registers in the selection of newspapers for that purpose, are hereby amended by the insertion of the following after paragraph twelfth thereof:

Thirteenth. Any person having knowledge of the failure of a register to designate the proper newspaper for the publication of notice of final proof may file with the chief of the field division in which the land district is situated a corroborated affidavit fully setting forth all the facts and circumstances.

Fourteenth. On receipt of such affidavit, the chief of field division shall cause a prompt investigation to be made and submit full report to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who shall then take such action as the facts may warrant.

Fifteenth. The law imposes upon registers the duty of procuring the publication of proper final-proof notices, and charges the claimant with no obligation in that behalf, except that he shall bear and pay the cost of such publication. Registers should accordingly exercise the utmost care in the examination of such notices and in the comparison thereof with the records of their offices, to the end that they may not go to the printer containing any erroneous description of the entered land, or designating an officer not authorized to receive the proof, or that they shall not be for any other reason insufficient.

It is equally important that a notice correct in all of these particulars shall not be published in a newspaper manifestly disqualified as a means of publication and clearly incapable of bringing the notice to the attention of the people dwelling in the vicinity of the lands to which it relates.

Neglect of the duty above defined, resulting in a requirement of republication, should not visit its penalty upon the claimant. In all such cases, therefore, the register by whom the publication was procured will be required to effect the necessary republication at his own proper expense. If an error is committed by the printer of the paper in which the notice appears, the register may require such printer to correct his error by publishing the notice anew for the necessary length of time, and for his refusal to do so may decline to designate his said paper as an agency of notice in cases thereafter arising.

Yours respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Circular No. 1177

ABBREVIATIONS OF DESCRIPTIONS REQUIRED IN PUBLICATION OF FINAL-PROOF NOTICES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 4, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: In examining newspaper clippings attached to publishers' affidavits in connection with public land cases it is found that oftentimes the descriptions of legal subdivisions are written out in full instead of being abbreviated, thereby increasing the space occupied and also the cost for the publication.

Hereafter in your notice for publication you will use the abbreviations for the descriptions of legal subdivisions such as NE. ¼ instead of northeast quarter, etc., and instruct all the publishers within your jurisdiction to closely follow the copy.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

NOTICES TO BE PUBLISHED WEEKLY ONLY

Department of the Interior,
Washington, October 19, 1929.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Dear Mr. Commissioner: Attention has been directed to the fact that in many cases it is necessary for registers of local offices to designate a daily paper in which to publish the notices of intention to submit final proof required to be given by homestead and desert-land entrymen as well as the notices of location of scrips, warrants, certificates, and lieu selections, and other cases.

The present regulations require that if the register designate a daily paper the publication must be inserted in 30 consecutive issues; if daily except Sunday, in 26; if weekly, in 5, and if semiweekly, in 9 consecutive issues.

The expense of publishing such notices in either 26 or 30 issues of a daily paper is often prohibitive, and the department is of opinion that the object of publication of such notices can be accomplished by a less number of insertions. Therefore, the regulations in all cases where the law does not specifically otherwise direct are amended to provide that if the register designate a daily paper the notice should be published in the Wednesday issue for five consecutive weeks; if weekly, in five consecutive issues, and if semiweekly, in either issue for five consecutive weeks.

These instructions supersede those of August 8, 1929.

Very truly yours,

John H. Edwards,
Assistant Secretary.

ADJUSTMENT OF RAILROAD GRANTS—ACT OF MARCH 3, 1887[1]

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, November 22, 1887.

Secretary Lamar to Acting Commissioner Stockslager:

The act of March 3, 1887, authorizes and directs the Secretary of the Interior to immediately adjust in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court each of the railroad land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads, and heretofore unadjusted.

The second section of said act provides—

> That if it shall appear, upon the completion of such adjustments respectfully (respectively), or sooner, that lands have been, from any cause, heretofore erroneously certified or patented, by the United States, to or for the use or benefit of any company claiming by, through, or under grant from the United States, to aid in the construction of a railroad, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to thereupon demand from such company a relinquishment or reconveyance to the United States of all such lands, whether within granted or indemnity limits; and if such company shall neglect or fail to so reconvey such lands to the United States within ninety days after the aforesaid demand shall be made, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Attorney-General to commence and prosecute in the proper courts the necessary proceedings to cancel all patents, certification, or other evidence of title heretofore issued for such lands, and to restore the title thereof to the United States.

The provision contained in this section confers no greater power upon the Secretary of the Interior than he possessed before the passage of that act, and which from time to time has been exercised by that official in recommending to the Attorney General that suits be brought to cancel patents appearing to have been erroneously certified or patented for the benefit of any railroad company.

The purpose of the act was to make that mandatory which before rested in the discretion of the Secretary in the exercise of his authority over the public lands. Heretofore the Secretary of the Interior might recommend and request the Attorney General to institute suits for the cancellation of patents, which in his judgment were erroneously issued for the benefit of any railroad company under its grants, and the Attorney General in the exercise of his authority might grant or refuse such request as in his judgment might seem proper, but, under the act above referred to, whenever it shall appear upon the completion of the adjustment of any railroad land grant, or sooner, that any lands have been erroneously certified or patented for the benefit of said company, it is made the imperative duty of the Secretary of the Interior to demand of said company a relinquishment or reconveyance to the United States of all such lands, and if the company neglects or fails to reconvey the same, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Attorney General to commence and prosecute in the proper courts necessary proceedings to cancel the patents for said lands, and to restore the title thereof to the United States.

[1] Modified by instructions of Feb. 21, 1888, p. 1155, and instructions of Feb. 13, 1889, p. 1156.

Therefore, if in the adjustment of the grant of any road it should appear from the records in your office that any lands within either the granted or indemnity limits of such road have been erroneously certified or patented for the benefit of such company, either from an improper adjustment of the limits of said grant, or from the erroneous cancellation of any filing or entry, or from any cause whatever, you will report such facts to the department for action thereon, stating fully and specifically the grounds upon which it is supposed such tracts were erroneously certified or patented, and whether said tracts are within the granted or indemnity limits of said road.

The third section of said act provides—

> That if, in the adjustment of said grants, it shall appear that the homestead or pre-emption entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled on account of any railroad grant or the withdrawal of public lands from market, such settler upon application shall be reinstated in all his rights and allowed to perfect his entry by complying with the public land laws: Provided, That he has not located another claim or made an entry in lieu of the one so erroneously canceled: And provided also, That he did not voluntarily abandon said original entry: And provided further, That if any of said settlers do not renew their application to be reinstated within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, then all such unclaimed lands shall be disposed of under the public lands laws, with priority of right given to bona fide purchasers of said unclaimed lands, if any, and if there be no such purchasers, then to bona fide settlers residing thereon.

This section does not embrace any lands that have been certified or patented to the company, but has reference solely to lands, the right and claim to which has heretofore been adjudicated in favor of the company as against the right of a settler upon said lands, and which are still under the control and jurisdiction of the department. The object and purpose of this section is to correct all decisions made by the department or the General Land Office where it shall appear in the examination of any land grant heretofore unadjusted that the homestead or preemption entry of a bona fide settler was erroneously canceled. In such case a final decision of a former or the present Secretary is not only no longer a bar to the further consideration of the question decided, but it is made the duty of the Secretary to readjudicate the case, notwithstanding the former decision, whenever it appears that the preemption or homestead entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled on account of any railroad grant or of withdrawal of public lands from market.

In the adjustment of every grant to aid in the construction of railroads, you will make report upon all preemption and homestead entries of bona fide settlers that may in your judgment appear from the records of your office to have been erroneously canceled, either because the land is within the limits of the railroad grant, or because it had been withdrawn for indemnity purposes for said road, provided the right to the tract has been decided in favor of the company, and forward said report to the department for consideration and action thereon, stating fully and specifically as to each particular tract, the grounds upon which you may determine that said preemption and homestead entries were erroneously canceled, and the right to the land erroneously decided in favor of the company; and upon filing said report you shall cause notice thereof to be given to both parties, advising them that said case will be held by this department for 30 days before action, during which time they can make such showing as they may desire.

If in such report you should determine that the preemption or homestead entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled, and the right to the land adjudged in favor of the railroad, and your decision thereon shall be sustained by the department, after due notice the land will then be subject to disposal as provided for in said section; that is, the settler whose entry was erroneously canceled will be notified of his right to make application to be reinstated in all his rights, and if such settler shall make such application within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior in such notice, he shall be reinstated in all his rights; provided, that he shows affirmatively that he has not located another claim or made an entry in lieu of the one so erroneously canceled, and that he did not voluntarily abandon said original entry. If said settler should fail to make application within the time required, and to show that he has not located another claim or made an entry in lieu of the one so erroneously canceled, and that he did not voluntarily abandon said original entry, then all such unclaimed lands shall be disposed of under the public land laws, with priority of right given to bona fide purchasers of said unclaimed lands, if any, and if there be no such purchasers, then to bona fide settlers residing thereon.

The bona fide purchasers here referred to are those who, without knowledge of wrong or error, have purchased from the railroad company lands which had been previously entered by the preemption or homestead settler, whose entry has been erroneously canceled as described in the first clause of the third section, and which land the preemption or homestead settler did not elect to claim after recovery by the proceedings prescribed by the second section of the act.

As to the lands which have been erroneously certified or patented to the company (being the lands referred to in the second section), the fourth section of the act provides for the disposal of such of those lands as may have been sold by the company to citizens of the United States or persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens upon the following conditions.

After said lands shall have been reconveyed to the Government, or the title to the same recovered, the class of persons above referred to, so purchasing in good faith, their heirs or assigns, shall be entitled to the land so purchased, upon making proof of such purchase at the proper land office, within such time and under such rules as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, after the grants respectively shall have been adjusted; and patent shall issue to such persons, which shall relate back to the original certification or patenting. The section then provides that the Secretary of the Interior shall demand of the company payment for said lands, of an amount equal to the Government price of similar lands; and in case of the neglect or refusal of the company to make payment thereof within 90 days after demand, the Attorney General shall cause suits to be brought against the company for said amount. Under the act the purchaser of such lands from the company may recover from the company the purchase money paid by him, less the amount paid by the company to the United States.

A mortgage or pledge of said lands by the company is not a sale, within the meaning of the act.

The object of this section is to confirm to the purchaser the title to the land therein referred to, upon making proof of such purchase, and that the purchaser has the qualifications required by the act, without requiring of the purchaser any further payment to the Government of the purchase price of said land.

The fifth section of said act reads as follows:

> There where any said company shall have sold to citizens of the United States, or to persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens, as a part of its grant, lands not conveyed to or for the use of such company, said lands being the numbered sections prescribed in the grant, and being coterminous with the constructed parts of said road, and where the lands so sold are for any reason excepted from the operation of the grant to said company, it shall be lawful for the bona fide purchaser thereof from said company to make payment to the United States for said lands at the ordinary government price for like lands, and thereupon patents shall issue therefor to the said bona fide purchaser, his heirs or assigns: Provided, that all lands shall be excepted from the provisions of this section which at the date of such sales were in the bona fide occupation of adverse claimants under the preemption or homestead laws of the United States, and whose claims and occupation have not since been voluntarily abandoned, as to which excepted lands the said preemption and homestead claimants shall be permitted to perfect their proofs and entries and to receive patents therefor: Provided further, that this section shall not apply to lands settled upon subsequent to the first day of December, 1882, by persons claiming to enter the same under the settlement laws of the United States, as to which lands the parties claiming the same as aforesaid shall be entitled to prove up and enter as in other like cases.

Under this section, when the company has sold to citizens of the United States or persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens, the numbered sections prescribed in the grant, and coterminous with the constructed portions of the road, within either the granted or indemnity limits, and which upon the adjustment of the grant are shown to be excepted from the operation of the grant, it shall be lawful for such purchasers—if their purchase is bona fide—to purchase said land from the Government by payment of the Government price for like lands, unless said lands were at the date of purchase in the bona fide occupation of adverse claimants under the preemption or homestead laws, in which case the preemptor or homestead claimant may be permitted to perfect his proof, unless he has since voluntarily abandoned the land.

Under the last proviso of said section, however, if a settlement was made on said lands subsequent to December 1, 1882, by persons claiming the same under the settlement laws of the United States, it will defeat the right of the purchaser whether said purchase was made prior to or subsequent to December 1, 1882, and the settler will be allowed to prove up for said lands as in other like cases.

The sixth section provides that when any such lands have been sold and conveyed as the property of the company, for State and county taxes, and the grant to the company has been thereafter forfeited, the purchasers at such sale shall have the preference right for one year from the date of the act in which to purchase said lands from the United States, by paying the Government price for said lands, provided said lands were not, previous to or at the time of the taking effect of such grant, in the possession of or subject to the right of an actual settler.

The seventh section provides—

> That no more lands shall be certified or conveyed to any State or to any corporation or individual, for the benefit of either of the companies herein mentioned, where it shall appear to the Secretary of the Interior that such transfers may create an excess over the quantity of lands to which such State, corporation, or individual would be rightfully entitled.

You will proceed at once, and with as much dispatch as possible, to adjust all land grants to aid in the construction of railroads, under the provisions of the act above referred to, and in accordance with the directions herein given. You will inform the department at once when you commence the adjustment of any grant, in order that cases pending in the department involving the rights of the road under such grant may be taken up and considered.

RAILROAD GRANT—DEMAND UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 3, 1887

Department of the Interior,
Washington, February 21, 1888.

Secretary Vilas to Acting Commissioner Stockslager:

By letter of January 10, 1888, you transmitted two lists of lands stated to have been erroneously certified to the State of Minnesota for the benefit of the Winona & St. Peter and St. Paul & Sioux City Railroad Cos. under the grant of lands to that State, for railroad purposes, made March 3, 1857 (11 Stats. 195).

List A embraces lands contained in the odd-numbered sections, and which were selected and certified as indemnity lands for said roads, or one of them.

List B is of lands contained in the even sections along the line of said roads, and were certified in lieu of lands claimed to have been relinquished by said roads, or one of them, under the provisions of the act of June 22, 1874 (18 Stats. 194).

These lists are transmitted for my action under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stats. 556).

That act requires the Secretary to adjust "in accordance with the decisions of the Supreme Court" each of the railroad land grants made by Congress, and provides further that if on the completion of the adjustment, or sooner, it should appear that any lands had been erroneously certified to a company demand should be made for a reconveyance of the same to the United States; and upon failure of said company to make such reconveyance within 90 days, then it becomes the duty of the Attorney General to institute and prosecute proper legal proceedings to restore the title of said lands to the United States.

Under the language of this act it may be a serious question whether, when the Secretary has once made such a demand, his jurisdiction in the premises is not ended, and whether he can do anything further than transmit the papers to the Attorney General should the company fail to comply with the demand.

Ordinarily when papers are transmitted to the Attorney General by this department for the purpose of asserting through the courts the supposed rights of the Government, such transmission is accompanied by a recommendation that suit be brought, if upon investigation the Attorney General should be of the opinion that it can be successfully maintained.

But under the language of this act all discretion seems to be taken away from that officer, and it apparently becomes his imperative duty to bring such suit forthwith.

Cases will arise, doubtless, in the adjustment of these railroad grants when it will appear from your records that lands have been erroneously certified to some company, yet if the true facts were known or some explanation made the error would disappear and the Secretary would not feel himself justified to either demand the restoration of said land or recommend suit to restore the same. Yet, if such knowledge came only after demand, it may be well doubted whether either of the officers named would have any authority to reconsider his action or in any way stop the proceedings directed by the law.

Under these circumstances, it seems to me, great circumspection should be exercised in the premises and such means used as are within control to ascertain all the facts bearing upon the certification or patenting in question. And I can think of no better means of aiding in said ascertainment than to allow the company in question to be heard before, what appears to be, the final action of this department is taken and demand made for the return of the land.

You will therefore, on receipt hereof, notify the Winona & St. Peter and St. Paul & Sioux City Railroad Cos. that, it appearing from your records said lands have been erroneously certified for their use, specifying the lands referred to, said companies will be allowed 30 days after service of notice within which to show cause, in writing, before you why proceedings should not be taken in accordance with the provisions of said act of March 3, 1887, to secure the restoration of said lands to the Government. After the expiration of the time fixed in such notice, you will then certify up such lists, and with them any showing made by the companies interested, with your opinion thereon.

Hereafter similar action will be taken by your office in all like cases, prior to transmission of the same to this department. To this extent the circular of November 22, 1887 (6 L. D. 276), is modified.

ADJUSTMENT OF RAILROAD GRANTS—ACT OF MARCH 3, 1887

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., February 13, 1889.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The following instructions under the act of Congress approved March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. 556), are forwarded for your guidance.

THE FIRST SECTION directs that all railroad land grants not adjusted heretofore shall be adjusted immediately—that is, without unnecessary delay. The duties thereunder pertain to the General Land Office and Department of the Interior.

THE SECOND SECTION provides for the recovery by the United States of title to lands which from any cause have been erroneously certified or patented "to or for the use or benefit of any company" on account of a railroad grant, whenever the fact may be ascertained that a certificate or patent has been erroneously issued, and prescribes the duties of the Secretary of the Interior and Attorney General in connection therewith.

THE THIRD SECTION provides—

> That, if in the adjustment of said grants, it shall appear that the homestead or preëmption entry of any bona fide settler has been erroneously canceled on account of any railroad grant, or the withdrawal of public lands from market, such settler, upon application, shall be reinstated in all his rights and allowed to perfect his entry by complying with the public land laws: Provided, That he has not located another claim or made an entry in lieu of the one so erroneously canceled: And provided also, That he did not voluntarily abandon said original entry: And provided further, That if any of said settlers do not renew their application to be reinstated within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, then all such unclaimed lands shall be disposed of under the public land laws, with priority of right given to bona fide purchasers of said unclaimed land, if any, and if there be no such purchasers then to bona fide settlers residing thereon.

Three classes of persons are provided for under this section.

> First. Bona fide settlers whose homestead or preëmption entries have been erroneously canceled on account of a railroad grant or withdrawal.
> Second. Bona fide purchasers of such unclaimed lands.
> Third. Bona fide settlers residing thereon.
> The rights of the several classes to the lands referred to in the section are successive in the order stated in the section. The first in right is the homestead or preëmption settler whose entry has been wrongfully canceled. If he elects to assert his right, and has not been disqualified by locating another claim or making another entry in lieu of the entry erroneously canceled, his right is absolute, and the successive rights of the remaining two classes can not attach if he lawfully asserts his claim. If he fail to claim the land, or is disqualified under the act, the second class of persons, who are the bona fide purchasers of the land unclaimed by him, attach, and have precedence over the third class The bona fide purchasers here referred to are those who, without knowledge of wrong or error, have purchased from the railroad company lands which have been previously entered by a preëmption or homestead settler, whose entry has been erroneously canceled, as described in the first clause of the third section, and which land the preëmption or homestead settler did not elect to claim after the recovery by the proceedings prescribed by the second section of the act.—Attorney General's Opinion, November 17, 1887 (6 L. D. 272).

Parties of the first class desiring to avail themselves of the benefits of this section should present their applications without unnecessary delay, after notice of intention as required by the act of March 3, 1879, in preëmption and homestead cases. The application must in every instance be accompanied by proof showing:

1. The facts respecting the date of the applicant's settlement, duration of residence, and value of improvements upon the public land.

2. Whether he has located any other claim under any of the laws of the United States authorizing settlements upon public lands.

3. Whether he has abandoned the land embraced in his canceled entry or filing; if so, the causes which led to the abandonment.

4. Whether any other person or persons are residing upon the land.

5. That such persons as may be so residing upon the land have been notified of the intention of the claimant to apply for the reinstatement of his filing or entry, and the manner of giving such notice must be shown.

Should an adverse claimant appear to dispute or contest the right of reinstatement proceedings will be had in accordance with rules of practice as in ordinary contests.

While the act contains no provision relative to persons whose entries or filings have not been canceled, but whose lands have been certified or patented on account of railroad grants, it follows as a matter of course, that their rights should be protected, and the mode of procedure in such cases will be the same as in the cases where cancellation has been made, except that the parties should apply to make final proof and payment instead of for reinstatement of entry; but in such case proceedings will be deferred until the title has been restored to the United States as provided by section two of the act. The instructions of November 22, 1887 (6 L. D. 276), under this section are hereby modified in accordance with the foregoing.

Proceedings on applications by parties of the second class will be governed by instructions under the fourth section.

Applicants of the third class will be required to submit evidence, in addition to that relating to their own settlement or claims, showing whether there are persons of the first or second class residing upon, in possession of, or claiming lands.

The fourth section relates to all lands which have been erroneously certified or patented on account of railroad grants, except those mentioned in the third section, and by the grantee company sold to citizens or to persons who have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States; and provides that after the title to such lands has been restored to the United States as contemplated by the second section of the act, persons who have purchased such land in good faith, their heirs or assigns, shall be entitled to the lands upon making proof at the proper land office, whereupon patents shall issue relating back to the date of the original certification or patenting, and the grantee company will be required to pay the United States for such lands at the price at which other similar lands are legally held by the Government.

The purchaser from the company is not debarred by the act from recovering from the company the amount of purchase money paid by him less the amount paid by the company to the United States for the land.

A mortgage or pledge of such lands is not a sale within the intention of the act.

No forfeiture is declared by this act against any land grant for conditions broken (and no entry is authorized for lands legally within such grant), but no rights of the United States on account of breach of conditions are waived by the act.

An applicant for land under this section will be required to publish notice of intention to make proof as in preemption and homestead cases, and the proof must show—

1. That he is, or has declared his intention to become, a citizen of the United States.

2. That he is a bona fide purchaser from the company or some person claiming title under it, and the character of the instrument conveying the land to him.

3. The amount of purchase money paid to the company.

4. What part, if any, of the purchase money paid to the company has been refunded to him or any person acting as his agent.

5. Whether he has instituted proceedings against the company for the recovery of any portion of the purchase money; if so, for what portion.

6. The value and character of the improvements, if any, made or acquired by him upon the land.

7. Whether there is any person of the first class under the third section entitled to the right of entry under the preemption or homestead laws.

Upon the submission of satisfactory proof as prescribed above, the register will issue certificate, in duplicate—numbered in the regular cash series—with annotations thereon showing that the entry is allowed without payment under the fourth section of the act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. 556).

The fifth section relates to lands within the limits of railroad grants, coterminous with constructed portions of the lines of road, not conveyed on account of, but excepted from, the grants.

Under this section, when the company has sold to citizens of the United States or persons who have declared their intention to become such citizens, the numbered sections prescribed in the grant and coterminous with the constructed portions of the road, within either the granted or indemnity limits, and which upon the adjustment of the grant are shown to be excepted from the operation of the grant, it shall be lawful for such purchasers (if their purchases are bona fide) to purchase said land from the Government by payment of the Government price for like lands, unless said lands were at the date of purchase in the bona fide occupancy of adverse claimants under the preemption or homestead laws, in which case the preemptor or homestead claimant may be permitted to perfect his proof unless he has since voluntarily abandoned the land.

Under the last proviso of said section, however, if a settlement was made on said lands subsequent to December 1, 1882, by persons claiming the same under the settlement laws of the United States, it will defeat the right of the purchaser, whether said purchase was made prior or subsequent to December 1, 1882, and the settler will be allowed to prove up for said lands as in other like cases.

Applicants to purchase under this section will be required to publish notice of intention as directed by instructions under the third and fourth sections, and the proof must show—

1. That the tract was of the numbered sections prescribed by the grant.

2. That it was coterminous with constructed parts of said road.

3. That it was sold by the company to the applicant, or one under whom he claims, as a part of its grant.

4. That it was excepted from the operation of the grant.

5. That at the date of said sale it was not in the bona fide occupancy of adverse claimants under the preemption or homestead laws, whose claims and occupancy have not since been voluntarily abandoned.

6. That it has not been settled upon subsequent to the 1st day of December, 1882, by any person or persons claiming the right to enter the same under the settlement laws.

7. That the applicant is, or has declared his intention to become, a citizen of the United States.

8. And that he, or one under whom he claims, was a bona fide purchaser of the land from the company.

The proof upon these points being found satisfactory, the entry will be allowed and the usual cash certificate and receipts will be issued thereon reciting the fact that the entry is in accordance with the fifth section of the act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. 556).

No entry will be allowed under this section until it shall have been finally determined by this department that the land was excepted from the grant.

The sixth section provides that when any such lands have been sold and conveyed as the property of the company for State and county taxes, and the grant to the company has been thereafter forfeited, the purchaser at such sale shall have the preference right for one year from the date of this act, and no longer, in which to purchase said lands from the United States by paying the Government price for said lands, provided said lands were not previous to or at the time of the taking effect of such grant in the possession of or subject to the right of an actual settler.

The period prescribed by the statute for presenting applications under this section having expired, instructions as to methods of procedure are deemed unnecessary.

The seventh section authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to refuse to certify or convey lands on account of any railroad grant where it shall appear to him that to do otherwise would give to the grantee more lands than the granting act contemplated giving.

Very respectfully,

S. M. Stockslager,
Commissioner.

Approved.

Wm. F. Vilas, Secretary.

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF JULY 1, 1898 (30 STAT. 597, 620), TO FACILITATE THE ADJUSTMENT BY THE LAND DEPARTMENT OF CONFLICTING CLAIMS TO LANDS WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THE GRANT TO THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., February 14, 1899.[a]

The provision in the act of July 1, 1898, is as follows:

> That where, prior to January first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, the whole or any part of an odd-numbered section, in either the granted or the indemnity limits of the land grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, to which the right of the grantee or its lawful successor is claimed to have attached by definite location or selection, has been purchased directly from the United States or settled upon or claimed in good faith by any qualified settler under color of title or claim of right under any law of the United States or any ruling of the Interior Department, and where purchaser, settler, or claimant refuses to transfer his entry as hereinafter provided, the railroad grantee or its successor in interest, upon a proper relinquishment thereof, shall be entitled to select in lieu of the land relinquished an equal quantity of public lands, surveyed or unsurveyed, not mineral or reserved, and not valuable for stone, iron, or coal, and free from valid adverse claim or not occupied by settlers at the time of such selection, situated within any State or Territory into which such railroad grant extends, and patents shall issue for the land so selected as though it had been originally granted; but all selections of unsurveyed lands shall be of odd-numbered sections, to be identified by the survey when made, and patent therefor shall issue to and in the name of the corporation surrending the lands before mentioned, and such patents shall not issue until after the survey: Provided, however, That the Secretary of the Interior shall from time to time ascertain and, as soon as conveniently may be done, cause to be prepared and delivered to the said railroad grantee or its successor in interest a list or lists of the several tracts which have been purchased or settled upon or occupied as aforesaid, and are now claimed by said purchasers or occupants, their heirs or assigns, according to the smallest Government subdivisions; and all right, title, and interest of the said railroad grantee or its successor in interest in and to any of such tracts, which the said railroad grantee or its successor in interest may relinquish hereunder shall revert to the United States, and such tracts shall be treated, under the laws thereof, in the same manner as if no rights thereto had ever vested in the said railroad grantee, and all qualified persons who have occupied and may be on said lands as herein provided, or who have purchased said lands in good faith as aforesaid, their heirs and assigns, shall be permitted to prove their titles to said lands according to law, as if said grant had never been made; and upon such relinquishment said Northern Pacific Railroad Company or its lawful successor in interest may proceed to select, in the manner hereinbefore provided, lands in lieu of those relinquished, and patents shall issue therefor: Provided further, That the railroad grantee or its successor in interest shall accept the said list or lists so to be made by the Secretary of the Interior as conclusive with respect to the particular lands to be relinquished by it, but it shall not be bound to relinquish lands sold or contracted by it or lands which it uses or needs for railroad purposes, or lands valuable for stone, iron, or coal: And provided further, That whenever any qualified settler shall in good faith make settlement in pursuance of existing law upon any odd-numbered sections of unsurveyed public lands within the said railroad grant to which the right of such railroad grantee or its successor in interest has attached, then upon proof thereof satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior, and a due relinquishment of the prior railroad right, other lands may be selected in lieu thereof by said railroad grantee or its successor in interest, as hereinbefore provided, and patents shall issue therefor: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as intended or having the effect to recognize the Northern Pacific Railway Company as the lawful successor of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company in the ownership of the lands granted by the United States to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, under and by virtue of foreclosure proceedings against said Northern Pacific Railroad Company in the courts of the United States, but the legal question whether the said Northern Pacific Railway Company is such lawful successor of the said Northern Pacific Railroad Company, should the question be raised, shall be determined wholly without reference to the provisions of this act, and nothing in this act shall be construed as enlarging the quantity of land which the said Northern Pacific Railroad Company is entitled to under laws heretofore enacted: And provided further, That all qualified settlers, their heirs or assigns, who, prior to January first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, purchased or settled upon or claimed in good faith, under color of title or claim of right under any law of the United States or any ruling of the Interior Department, any part of an odd-numbered section in either the granted or indemnity limits of the land grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to which the right of such grantee or its lawful successor is claimed to have attached by definite location or selection, may in lieu thereof transfer their claims to an equal quantity of public lands surveyed or unsurveyed, not mineral or reserved, and not valuable for stone, iron, or coal, and free from valid adverse claim, or not occupied by a settler at the time of such entry, situated in any State or Territory into which such railroad grant extends, and make proof therefor as in other cases provided; and in making such proof, credit shall be given for the period of their bona fide residence and amount of their improvements upon their respective claims in the said granted or indemnity limits of the land grant to the said Northern Pacific Railroad Company the same as if made upon the tract to which the transfer is made; and before the Secretary of the Interior shall cause to be prepared and delivered to said railroad grantee or its successor in interest any list or lists of the several tracts which have been purchased or settled upon or occupied as hereinbefore provided, he shall notify the purchaser, settler, or claimant, his heirs or assigns, claiming against said railroad company, of his right to transfer his entry or claim, as herein provided, and shall give him or them option to take lieu lands for those claimed by him or them or hold his claim and allow the said railroad company to do so under the terms of this act.

A. WHO ARE THE BENEFICIARIES UNDER THIS ACT? FROM WHOM MAY RELINQUISHMENTS BE RECEIVED, AND BY WHOM MAY THE LIEU SELECTIONS BE MADE?

1. The act designates a class of beneficiaries whose status is that of claimants adverse to the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., or its successor in interest, and in doing so different words and terms of description are used in different portions of the act; but, considering the act in its entirety, and giving due recognition to each provision therein, this class embraces any qualified person who, prior to January 1, 1898, by settlement, entry, or purchase, initiated in good faith a claim to lands of the description given, "under color of title or claim of right under any law of the United States or any ruling of the Interior Department," and who is still maintaining such claim conformably to such law or ruling.

This class also embraces the heirs of the claimant in all instances where he has died, and his claim or entry or right to perfect title thereunder is one which under the public land laws descends or passes to his heirs. It further embraces the assigns of the claimant in all instances where, in the absence of an inhibition against so doing, he has sold or transferred his claim or entry, or the right to perfect title thereunder, to one who is not by law disqualified from succeeding to such claim or entry, or the right to perfect title in himself thereunder.

2. The act designates as one beneficiary the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., or its lawful successor in interest, subject, however, to the following proviso:

> * * * And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as intended or having the effect to recognize the Northern Pacific Railway Company as the lawful successor of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company in the ownership of the lands granted by the United States to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company under and by virtue of foreclosure proceedings against said Northern Pacific Railroad Company in the courts of the United States; but the legal question whether the said Northern Pacific Railway Company is such lawful successor of the said Northern Pacific Railroad Company, should the question be raised, shall be determined wholly without reference to the provisions of this act. * * *

An examination of a certified copy of the record in the foreclosure proceedings referred to, and a consideration of the opinion of the Attorney General dated February 6, 1897 (21 Opinions of Attorneys General, 486), show that the Northern Pacific Railway Co. is such lawful successor in interest as to all lands within the limits of the grant, excepting those situated in the State of Minnesota and in the State of North Dakota east of the Missouri River. As to all lands within the limits of the grant situated in the State of Minnesota and in the State of North Dakota east of the Missouri River, the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. has no successor in interest, but its property and affairs are now in the hands of receivers, appointed and acting under the authority and direction of certain circuit courts of the United States.

Within the limits of that portion of the grant to which the Northern Pacific Railway Co. is thus the lawful successor in interest, relinquishments should be executed, and selections in lieu thereof should be made by said railway company. Within the limits of that portion of the grant situated in the State of Minnesota and in the State of North Dakota east of the Missouri River, relinquishments should be executed by the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., and also by the receivers thereof, and selections in lieu thereof should be made by such receivers on behalf of the railroad company; the receivers, in executing relinquishments and in making lieu selections, to act under proper authorization first obtained from the proper court.

3. In these regulations the claimant adverse to the railroad company or its successor in interest will, for convenience, be spoken of as the individual claimant, and his claim to the land in contest or controversy will be spoken of as an individual claim; the railroad company or its successor in interest, as the case may be, will be spoken of as the railroad claimant, and its claim to the land in contest or controversy will be spoken of as the railroad claim.

B. WHAT LANDS ARE SUBJECT TO RELINQUISHMENT SO AS TO BECOME THE BASES FOR LIEU SELECTIONS?

4. To authorize a lieu selection the relinquishment must be of the whole or some legal subdivision of an odd-numbered section in either the primary or indemnity limits of the land grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., which is the subject of conflicting claims asserted by an individual claimant upon the one part and by the railroad claimant upon the other part.

5. A relinquishment can in no event be made until after the land claimed has become identified by the public surveys.

6. The act makes special provision for instances where, after January 1, 1898, a qualified person in good faith makes settlement, with a view to homestead entry, upon unsurveyed lands within the primary limits of said grant, which upon survey are found to be within an odd-numbered section to which the right of the railroad company has attached by the definite location of its line of road. The purpose of this provision is to afford relief to those who make such settlement before the identification by survey of the lands to which the railroad claimant is entitled.

Such settlement claim must be continued and the right of the settler asserted after survey by an application at the local land office to make homestead entry of the lands settled upon, accompanied by proof of such settlement, and the continued maintenance of the claim. These claimants are not accorded the privilege of taking other lands in lieu of those settled upon; but if the proof submitted is deemed satisfactory the railroad claimant will be requested to relinquish the lands embraced in said claims and to take other lands. All the provisions of these regulations are applicable to these lands excepting those pertaining to relinquishments by individual claimants.

7. Since the issuance of patent terminates the jurisdiction of the Land Department over the lands patented, and exhausts its power to examine and decide upon claims to such lands, and since this act manifestly refers to conflicting claims to lands which have not passed beyond the jurisdiction of the Land Department, it follows that its provisions are confined to unpatented lands, and that lands which have been patented are not the subject of relinquishment and can not be made the basis of a lieu selection under this act; but the point to which the opposing claims have been prosecuted, or the extent to which they have been considered by the Land Department, is not material if they be otherwise within the terms of the act, and the lands remain unpatented.

C. WHAT ARE THE CLAIMS WHICH COME WITHIN THE PROVISIONS OF THIS ACT?

8. An individual claim adverse to the railroad claim is one which, prior to January 1, 1898, was initiated in good faith by some qualified person, by settlement, entry, or purchase, "under color of title or claim of right under any law of the United States or any ruling of the Interior Department," and which is still maintained conformably to such law or ruling, and is one which, in the absence of the railroad claim, could be perfected into full title. (See also par. 6.)

9. The railroad claim is one which arises from the definite location of the line of railroad if the land is within the primary limits of the grant, or which arises from a lieu selection if the land is within the indemnity limits, and is one which, in the absence of all individual claims, would enable the railroad claimant to obtain full title to the land.

10. The purpose of the act is to avoid further strife and contention before the Land Department between the railroad claimant upon the one hand and individual claimants upon the other hand, and to that end the act extends alternately to the individual claimant and the railroad claimant an opportunity to acquire other lands of equal area in lieu of those in contest. The privilege of making a lieu selection is not dependent upon success or failure in the contest, but rather upon the existence of a contest or controversy which is intended to be disposed of without subjecting the parties to the delay, expense, and inconvenience incident to its further prosecution. The act contains a provision that nothing therein "shall be construed as enlarging the quantity of land which the said Northern Pacific Railroad Co. is entitled to under laws heretofore enacted;" but in the light of other provisions in the act in harmony with which this one must be construed, it is obvious that this provision is not intended to restrict the operation of the act to those instances in which the railroad claim is ultimately found to be the superior one.

To ascertain that fact would require the prosecution of every contest to a final decision, and would render the act practically inoperative, because, if compelled to litigate its claim to a final decision through the local office, the General Land Office, and before the Secretary of the Interior, it is doubtful whether the railroad claimant would surrender for the benefit of the defeated individual claimant the railroad claim thus established at a cost of much time, expense, and inconvenience. The claim which will support a relinquishment and lieu selection is not described as a lawful one, but as a "right * * * claimed to have attached by definite location or selection," and as a claim initiated in good faith "under color of title or claim of right," etc. Under the act of July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. 365), the railroad company became entitled to all the odd-numbered sections within the primary limits of the grant, or to indemnity for such as were "granted, sold, reserved, occupied by homestead settlers, or preempted, or otherwise disposed of," at the date of the definite location of its line of road.

Thus, the maximum quantity of lands to which the company was entitled is established by ascertaining the area included in odd-numbered sections within the primary limits of the grant as adjusted to the line of definite location. The clause in the act of July 1, 1898, providing against an enlargement of the quantity of lands to which the railroad company was then entitled has reference to the maximum quantity ascertained as aforesaid, and does not restrict the privilege of making selections under that act to those instances where the railroad claimant has an absolute legal right to the particular lands relinquished, a matter which would not be involved in an ascertainment of the quantity of the grant.

D. WHAT LANDS ARE SUBJECT TO SELECTION IN LIEU OF THOSE RELINQUISHED?

11. Selections will be limited to a quantity of land not exceeding that relinquished, but, since all selections must be according to legal subdivisions which generally approximate but do not always embrace the same area, a slight difference in the acreage of the tract relinquished and selected will not be deemed an inequality in quantity.

12. Subject to the limitations named in paragraphs 13 and 14, selections may be made from any public lands within a State into which the Northern Pacific Railroad land grant extends, surveyed or unsurveyed, not mineral or reserved, not valuable for stone, iron, or coal, not subject to valid adverse claim, and not occupied by a settler at the time of such selection; but odd-numbered sections within the Bozeman, Helena, and Missoula land districts in the State of Montana, and the Cœur d'Alene land district in the State of Idaho, which are also within the primary or indemnity limits of said land grant, can not be selected by or patented to the railroad claimant unless they have been finally classified as nonmineral under the act of February 26, 1895 (28 Stat. 683).

13. Selections of unsurveyed lands by the railroad claimant are confined to odd-numbered sections or legal subdivisions therein "to be identified by the survey when made," that is, the selection must be of the whole or some legal subdivision of a designated odd-numbered section, so that the public survey when made will give identity to the land selected.

Selections of unsurveyed lands by an individual claimant must be designated according to the description by which they will be known when surveyed, if that be practicable, or if not practicable, by giving with as much precision as possible the locality of the tract with reference to known landmarks, so as to admit of its being readily identified when the lines of survey come to be extended, and the selection must be made to conform to such survey within 30 days from the date of the receipt at the local land office of the approved plat of the township embracing such lands.

14. Lands selected by an individual claimant in lieu of other lands, the claim to which has not been carried to final entry and certificate or to the submission of final proof entitling him to final entry and certificate, must be in a compact body and be of the character subject to entry under the particular law controlling the claim relinquished, and this applies whether the lands selected are surveyed or unsurveyed. (See paragraph 36.)

E. PROCEDURE IN OBTAINING RELINQUISHMENTS

15. As soon as may be practicable after the adoption of these regulations, an examination will be made of the contests pending before the Secretary of the Interior, and those appearing to come within the provisions of the act of July 1, 1898, will be returned to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for disposition hereunder, together with all like contests then pending in the General Land Office. From time to time thereafter other contests or controversies appearing to come within the provisions of said act will be disposed of in like manner. Any claimant believing that his or its claim comes within the provisions of said act may request that such claim be disposed of thereunder, and such request will receive due consideration.

16. In speaking of the surrender by the individual claimant of the lands in contest and the taking by him of other lands in lieu thereof, the act describes it as a transfer of his claim or entry; but since the transaction, whether by the individual claimant or by the railroad claimant, is essentially the same, it is for convenience described and spoken of throughout these regulations as a relinquishment of the lands in contest and a selection of other lands in lieu thereof.

17. The option of relinquishing the lands in contest and selecting other lands in lieu thereof is by law first extended to the individual claimant, and if he elects to hold the lands which are in contest the railroad claimant will be called upon to relinquish the same and to select other lands in lieu thereof. (See pars. 29 to 31, inclusive.)

18. Whenever any contest or controversy appears to come within the provisions of said act, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will notify the individual claimant of the option accorded by law to individual claimants and will request him, if still maintaining his claim as herein required, to make proof of such continued maintenance and to exercise his option within 60 days after the time of receiving such notice. (See par. 30.) If the claimant elects to relinquish the lands in contest and take other lands in lieu thereof, he must execute a proper relinquishment as hereinafter required (see pars. 24 to 26, inclusive), and transmit the same to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, together with notice of his election so to do.

19. In all cases where the individual claim has not passed to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling the claimant to final entry and certificate, a failure to furnish satisfactory proof of the continued maintenance of the claim and to exercise such option within the time named will be deemed an abandonment of the claim, and the land embraced therein will be disposed of accordingly.

20. In all cases where the individual claim has passed to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling the claimant to final entry and certificate, proof of the continued maintenance of the claim is not essential, but a failure to exercise such option within the time named will be deemed an election on the part of the individual claimant to hold the land in contest.

21. The Commissioner of the General Land Office may, in his discretion, extend the time for exercising such option in special cases upon proper cause being shown.

22. An individual claimant may, without formal notice or request, make proof of the continued maintenance of his claim and exercise his option and notify the Commissioner of the General Land Office thereof, in which event the notice and request otherwise required will not be necessary. (See pars. 18 and 24 to 26, inclusive.)

23. From time to time, and as soon as conveniently may be done, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall prepare and submit to the Secretary of the Interior duplicate lists describing, according to the smallest legal subdivision, the lands to which there are conflicting claims as described in these regulations, and which the individual claimants have elected to hold; and, upon the approval of any such list by the Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will retain one copy thereof in his office and will transmit the other copy thereof to the said railroad claimant, with the request that it relinquish its claims to the lands therein described. Every list will be deemed conclusive against the railroad claimant to the extent that it will be required, within 60 days after receipt thereof, to execute and deliver to the Secretary of the Interior a proper relinquishment to the United States of all the lands in said list, or to make satisfactory showing that those not relinquished have been sold or contracted to be sold, or are used or needed for railroad purposes, or are valuable for stone, iron, or coal. (See pars. 24 to 26, inclusive, and 29 to 31, inclusive.)

F. WHAT IS A PROPER RELINQUISHMENT?

24. The relinquishment must be an instrument in writing describing the lands in contest and making appropriate reference to the claim intended to be surrendered, and in terms releasing, quitclaiming, and relinquishing unto the United States of America all the right, title, interest, and claim of the individual or railroad claimant, as the case may be, to such lands. It must be executed, witnessed, and acknowledged conformably to the laws respecting the conveyance of real property in the State where the land is situate.

25. Relinquishments by individuals of claims which have passed to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling the claimant to final entry and certificate, must also be executed by the wife of the claimant, if he have one, in such manner as will effectually bar any dower, homestead, or other interest on her part in or to the lands relinquished.

26. A relinquishment of an individual claim which has passed to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling the claimant to final entry and certificate, or which under existing laws is assignable before that time, and also all relinquishments by the railroad claimant, must be accompanied by proof satisfactorily showing whether the land relinquished has been sold, contracted to be sold, or encumbered. (See pars. 1 and 32.)

G. EFFECT OF RELINQUISHMENT—WHEN RIGHT TO SELECT OTHER LANDS IS COMPLETE

27. Upon the filing with and acceptance by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a relinquishment by the individual claimant the lands in contest may be patented to the railroad claimant in the same manner as other lands falling within the terms of the grant; and the individual claimant, upon receiving notice of the acceptance of his relinquishment, will be entitled, upon proper application (see par. 32), to select other lands, according to the condition and limitations of said act (see par. 36).

28. Upon the filing with and acceptance by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a relinquishment by the railroad claimant the lands so relinquished "shall revert to the United States, and such tracts shall be treated under the laws thereof in the same manner as if no rights thereto had ever vested in the said railroad grantee," and the individual claimants thereto shall be permitted to perfect their claims or entries and to obtain title thereunder upon compliance with the laws pertaining thereto. In the event that any individual claim on account of which a relinquishment is made by the railroad claimant is not perfected into full title the lands embraced therein will not revert to the railroad claimant, but will be subject to other disposition, according to law. The railroad claimant, upon receiving notice of the acceptance of its relinquishment, will be entitled, upon proper application (see pars. 32 to 41, inclusive), to select other lands, according to the conditions and limitations of said act.

H. DISPOSITION OF CONTESTS INVOLVING LANDS SOLD OR CONTRACTED TO BE SOLD BY THE RAILROAD CLAIMANT, USED OR NEEDED FOR RAILROAD PURPOSES, OR VALUABLE FOR STONE, IRON, OR COAL

29. By the terms of the act the railroad claimant is exempted and excused from relinquishing lands which have been sold or contracted to be sold by it, or which are used or needed for railroad purposes, or which are valuable for stone, iron, or coal.

30. Where it satisfactorily appears from the record in any contest that the lands in controversy come within the terms of this exemption, the Commissioner of the General Land Office in calling upon the individual claimant to exercise the privilege accorded to him (see pars. 17 and 18), will notify him that the railroad claimant can not be required to relinquish such lands, and that unless he elects to relinquish the same and take other lands in lieu thereof the contest will proceed to final determination without further regard to said act; and where such exemption is satisfactorily shown after the individual claimant has elected to hold the lands in contest (see par. 23), the Commissioner of the General Land Office will notify him thereof and accord him another opportunity, to be exercised within a stated time, to relinquish the lands in contest and take other lands. In the event that this privilege is declined, the contest will proceed to final decision in the usual way.

31. The affidavit of two persons having personal knowledge of the facts will be deemed sufficient to prima facie establish that any lands come within this exempted class; but such affidavit should state fully when and to whom the lands were sold or contracted to be sold, and if contracted to be sold the extent to which such contract has been performed, and whether it is still subsisting, the necessity for the present or future use of such lands for railroad purposes, and the extent thereof, or how it has been ascertained that they are valuable for stone, iron, or coal, as the case may be.

I. PROCEDURE IN SELECTING LIEU LANDS AND PERFECTING TITLES THERETO

32. Applications to select lieu lands hereunder, whether by an individual claimant or by the railroad claimant, must be presented to the local land office of the district within which the lands selected are situate. The application must particularly state the description and acreage of the lands relinquished, the acceptance by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of the relinquishment, and the description of the lands selected (see par. 13), and must be accompanied by proof that the land selected is of the character subject to selection (see pars. 11 to 14, inclusive). If the records of the local office do not show to the contrary, the character of the land will be deemed to be prima facie established where the application is supported by the oath of the individual claimant, or of an agent of the railroad claimant, based upon a personal examination of the land.

33. If the application is in proper form and, upon examination of the records in the local office, the lands selected appear to be subject to such selection, the local officers will accept the application, give it an appropriate number, make due notation of the selection upon the records of their office, and transmit the papers to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for his consideration.

34. When the lands selected have been returned as mineral by the surveyor general, the first subdivision of paragraph 103 of the mining regulations, approved December 15, 1897,[b] shall be applicable thereto; but in view of the proof exacted by paragraph 32 hereof the requirements of paragraph 104 of such mining regulations will be dispensed with as to all selections hereunder of lands not returned as mineral.

35. When any lands, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, have been selected hereunder by an individual claimant or by the railroad claimant, no right thereto can be initiated by settlement or entry while such selection remains of record.

36. Where lands are selected by an individual claimant in lieu of lands the claim to which has not been carried to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling him to final entry and certificate, the claimant will be required to perfect his right to the lands selected by compliance with the law relating to that class of claims, and to submit proof thereof in the usual way, but credit will be given for his bona fide residence, improvements, cultivation, or reclamation, as the case may be, and for any payment of fees or purchase money upon the land relinquished, it being the purpose of the act to give individual claimants the same status with respect to the lieu lands selected by them which they occupied with respect to the lands relinquished.

J. TIME OF ISSUING PATENTS TO SELECTED LANDS

37. Unsurveyed lands, whether selected by an individual claimant or by the railroad claimant, will in no event be patented until after survey.

38. Unsurveyed lands selected by the railroad claimant will not be patented until after the expiration of four months from the date of the receipt at the local land office of the approved plat of the township embracing the lands so selected, and surveyed lands selected by the railroad claimant will not be patented until after the expiration of four months from the date of selection.

39. Unsurveyed lands selected by an individual claimant in lieu of lands the claim to which has been regularly carried to final entry and certificate or to the submission of final proof entitling him to final entry and certificate, will not be patented until after the expiration of four months from the date of the receipt at the local land office of the approved plat of the township embracing the lands so selected; and surveyed lands selected by an individual claimant in lieu of lands the claim to which has reached a like status will not be patented until after the expiration of four months from the date of selection.

40. The purpose of the last two paragraphs is, in all instances where publication and notice will not be had, to give to settlers, if any, upon such lands at the time of the selection thereof, the full period prescribed by law within which to apply at the local land office to make homestead entry of the land, and to afford ample time for the local officers to advise the Commissioner of the General Land Office of any such application before the time arrives for issuing patent under the selection.

41. Selections made by the railroad claimant which are found satisfactory by the Commissioner of the General Land Office will, upon the expiration of the time required to elapse before the issuing of patent (see pars. 37 to 40, inclusive), be certified to the Secretary of the Interior, and if approved by him will be patented to the railroad claimant as though originally granted.

K. FORMS TO BE USED IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF SAID ACT

42. The election of the individual claimant to hold or relinquish the lands in controversy and the proof of the maintenance of his claim may be made according to the following form:

THE STATE OF ______,
County of______, ss:

______ ______, being first duty sworn, upon his oath deposes and testifies as follows:

1. Q. What is your name, age, and post-office address?—A. ______.

2. Q. Are you a native-born citizen of the United States; and if so, in what State or Territory were you born?—A. ______.

3. Q. If you are not a native-born citizen of the United States, have you declared your intention to become a citizen or have you been naturalized? If so, when and where?—A. ______.

4. Q. Are you the identical person who has heretofore been claiming (here describe land) under the ______ law? If so, how and when was your claim initiated?—A. ______.

5. Q. Do you understand that there are conflicting claims to this land, one of which is your claim and the other of which is the claim of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company or its successor in interest?—A. ______.

6. Q. Do you desire and elect, under the act of Congress approved July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597, 620), to hold the land in controversy and retain your present claim thereto, or do you desire and elect under said act to relinquish the land in controversy and to transfer your said claim to other lands?—A. ______.

7. Q. State fully and accurately where you resided from time to time since the initiation of your said claim to said land.—A. ______.

8. Q. Of whom does your family, if any, consist, and where have they resided from time to time since the initiation of said claim?—A. ______.

9. Q. State accurately what you have done in the way of improving, cultivating, or reclaiming this land, giving dates, value of improvements, and amount of expenditure.—A. ______.

NOTE.—This affidavit may be made before the register or receiver of the local land office, or before any other officer authorized to administer an oath.

If the claimant elects to relinquish the lands in controversy, he must execute the accompanying relinquishment.

43. A relinquishment by an individual claimant may be made substantially according to the following form, and one by the railroad claimant may be modeled therefrom:

Know all men by these presents:

That, I ______ ______, of ______ County, in the State of ______, the identical person who heretofore initiated and is now asserting a claim to the following-described lands, to wit [described fully and accurately] under the ______ law, desiring to take advantage of the provision in the act of Congress approved July 1, 1898 (30 Stat 597, 620), authorizing an adjustment by the Land Department of conflicting claims to lands within the limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, do hereby release, quitclaim, and relinquish unto the United States of America all my right, title, interest, and claim in and to the lands aforesaid, and I request that this relinquishment be accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office in order that, under the provisions of the act of Congress aforesaid, I may select other lands in lieu of those hereby relinquished, and may perfect and obtain title to the lands so selected instead of to the lands hereby relinquished.

I, ______ ______, wife of the said ______ ______, for the purposes aforesaid, do hereby join my said husband in releasing, quitclaiming, and relinquishing unto the United States of America the lands aforesaid, and I do specially waive and relinquish any and all dower, homestead, or other interest in the lands relinquished to which I am now or might hereafter be entitled according to law.

Witness our hands and seals this ____ day of ______, A. D. ____.

NOTE.—This affidavit may be made before the register or receiver of the local land office or before any other officer authorized to administer an oath.

If the claim relinquished be a desert-land claim, timber-culture claim, or a timber-purchase claim, which has not been carried to final entry and certificate, or to the submission of final proof entitling the claimant to final entry and certificate, the applicant must also make proof of the character of the land selected, as required by the regulations controlling that class of claims.

45. The following form may be used in listing lands to be relinquished by the railroad claimant:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., ------ 18--.

Whereas, an act of Congress, approved July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597, 620), makes provision for the relinquishment by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, or its successors in interest, upon the conditions therein named, of the whole or any part of an odd-numbered section, in either the primary or indemnity limits of the land grant to that company, to which the right of said company, or its lawful successor, is claimed to have attached by definite location, or selection, and which prior to January 1, 1898, has been "purchased directly from the United States or settled upon or claimed in good faith by any qualified settler, under color of title or claim of right under any law of the United States, or any ruling of the Interior Department," or which, if an odd-numbered section in the primary limits, is settled upon after January 1, 1898, and before survey, by a qualified person, in good faith, with a view to homestead entry, and makes provision for the selection by said company, or its successor in interest, of other lands in lieu of those relinquished; and

Whereas, it is further provided in said act that the Secretary of the Interior shall ascertain and from time to time cause to be prepared and delivered to said railroad company, or its successor in interest, a list or lists of the tracts coming within the provisions thereof; and

Whereas, it is further provided by said act that said railroad company, or its successors in interest, shall accept the list or lists so made by the Secretary of the Interior as conclusive with respect to the particular lands to be relinquished by it, but "shall not be bound to relinquish lands sold or contracted by it or lands which it uses or needs for railroad purposes, or lands valuable for stone, iron, or coal"; and

Whereas, it is further provided as to all claims, excepting homestead settlements made on unsurveyed lands after January 1, 1898, that "before the Secretary of the Interior shall cause to be prepared and delivered to said railroad grantee, or its successor in interest, any list or lists of the several tracts which have been purchased or settled upon or occupied as hereinbefore provided, he shall notify the purchaser, settler, or claimant, his heirs or assigns, claiming against said railroad company, of his right to transfer his entry or claim, as herein provided, and shall give him or them option to take lieu lands for those claimed by him or them, or hold his claim and allow the said railroad company to do so under the terms of this act"; and

Whereas, upon examination by this office the following tracts of land have been found to be of the character authorized to be relinquished under said act, and the claimants therefor against the railroad company (where entitled to such option) have, upon due notice of their rights under said act, refused to transfer their respective claims to other lands, to wit:

List No. —

State of ______, ______ Land District.

Now, therefore, the said list is hereby submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for his consideration, with the recommendation that directions be given to this office to call upon the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. or its successor in interest, as the case may be, to relinquish all of said lands or to satisfactorily show that those not relinquished have been sold or contracted to be sold, or are used or needed for railroad purposes, or are valuable for stone, iron, or coal; and to advise said railroad company or its successor in interest that upon filing the relinquishment requested it will be entitled to select other lands in lieu thereof, as provided in said act.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD GRANT—ACT OF JULY 1, 1898

Department of the Interior,
Washington, June 3, 1899.

Acting Secretary Ryan to the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

The department is in receipt of your office letter of May 1, 1899, presenting certain matters relating to the act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597, 620), in which you state:

By letter of April 8, 1899, Messrs. Britton and Gray, resident attorneys for the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., call the attention of this office to the fact that a number of patents have issued adversely to said company since the passage of the act of July 1, 1898, covering lands which, if unpatented, would come within the provisions of said act, and suggest that so much of the circular of February 14, 1899, as restricts the application of the act to unpatented lands, should be construed as applying only to lands patented prior to July 1, 1898; and hence, in cases where patents have been issued to individual claimants after that date, such claimants should be held to have elected to retain the lands embraced in their respective entries and the company should be allowed the right to select other lands in lieu thereof under said act.

[c] See supplemental instructions of June 3, 1899, p. 1174.

* * * * * * *

The question presented by said attorneys, as to whether the circular in question is to be interpreted, so as to exclude from disposition under the act of July 1, 1898, all patented lands whether patented prior to or after the date of the act, is therefore respectfully submitted for the consideration and instructions of the department.

Paragraph 7 of the regulations approved February 14, 1899 (28 L. D. 103), issued under the act of July 1, 1898, states that:

> Since the issuance of patent terminates the jurisdiction of the Land Department over the lands patented and exhausts its power to examine and decide upon claims to such lands, and since this act manifestly refers to conflicting claims to lands which have not passed beyond the jurisdiction of the Land Department, it follows that its provisions are confined to unpatented lands, and that lands which have been patented are not the subject of relinquishment and can not be made the basis of a lieu selection under this act.

This portion of the paragraph can only relate to such lands as had been patented prior to the passage of the act of July 1, 1898, and as to all such lands said act is without application. But all conflicting claims coming within the provisions of said act to land which remained unpatented July 1, 1898, should be disposed of in accordance with the terms of that act.

The patenting of lands which were on July 1, 1898, the subject of such conflicting claims without following the provisions of said act was in violation of its terms and therefore erroneous.

To the end that the benefits intended to be extended by said act may be still secured to those entitled thereto, and to avoid possible and unnecessary litigation in the courts as a result of the inadvertent or erroneous issuance of patents since July 1, 1898, in such cases, the following regulation is added to those adopted February 14 last, under said act, namely:

> 47. Where any portion of an odd-numbered section within the limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. coming within the provisions of the act of July 1, 1898, as herein construed, has been patented without following the provisions of that act, the individual claimant will, notwithstanding the issuance of such patent, be advised, in the manner prescribed by paragraph 18, of the option accorded him by said act. If the patent was issued to him and he elects to relinquish his claim he will be required to make reconveyance of the land to the United States in the manner prescribed by paragraphs 24, 25, and 26; but if he elects to retain the land patented it will be listed according to paragraph 23, with a view to its relinquishment by the railroad company. If the patent was issued to the railroad company and the individual claimant elects to retain the land so patented the company will be required to make reconveyance thereof to the United States according to paragraphs 24 and 26, whereupon the individual claimant may perfect title thereto and the railroad company may select other lands in lieu thereof as in other cases.

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 2, 1901 (31 STAT. 950), EXTENDING THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF JULY 1, 1898 (30 STAT. 597, 620), TO CERTAIN CLAIMS TO LANDS WITHIN THE INDEMNITY LIMITS OF THE NORTHERN PACIFIC LAND GRANT

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., June 15, 1901.

The act of March 2, 1901, reads as follows:

> That the provisions of the act of July first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, appearing in thirtieth Statutes at Large, at pages six hundred and twenty, six hundred and twenty-one, and six hundred and twenty-two, providing a plan for the adjustment by the land department of conflicting claims to lands within the limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, are hereby extended and made applicable to all instances where lands in odd-numbered sections within the indemnity limits of the grant to said company were patented to settlers under the public-land laws in pursuance of applications presented to or proceedings initiated in, the local land office at a time when the land was embraced in a pending indemnity selection made by said company in conformity with the regulations of the land department, which indemnity selection has not since been waived or abandoned.

1. As far as applicable, and as hereby supplemented, the regulations of February 14, 1899 (28 L. D. 103), under the act of July 1, 1898, will be followed in the adjustment of claims under the new act.

2. The fact that conflicting claims to any tract come within the terms of the new act may be brought to the attention of the Commissioner of the General Land Office by either the individual claimant or the railroad company, but there must be such a showing of the present ownership under the patent, whether by the patentee or his transferee, as will enable the Commissioner of the General Land Office to notify the present individual claimant of his option, as provided by paragraph 18 of said regulations, except where he waives notice under paragraph 22 thereof, and a failure of the individual claimant to exercise such option within 60 days after the time of receiving such notice will be deemed an election on his part to retain the land patented, which fact shall be stated in the notice.

3. It being " the provisions of the act of " July 1, 1898, which are extended to the instances named in the new act, it follows that to bring conflicting claims to any tract within this extension of the act of July 1, 1898, all the following conditions must concur:

a. The land involved must be a portion of an odd-numbered section within the indemnity limits of the Northern Pacific land grant;

b. It must have been settled upon under the public land laws prior to January 1, 1898;

c. It must have been selected by the company as indemnity in accordance with then existing regulations prior to January 1, 1898;

d. It must have been patented to the settler prior to July 1, 1898, in pursuance of an application presented to, or of proceedings initiated in, the local land office at a time when the land was embraced in such a pending indemnity selection; and

e. Such indemnity selection must not have been waived or abandoned.

4. An indemnity selection will be held to have been waived or abandoned, (a) where the basis assigned therefor has been used or designated in the selection of other lands; (b) where the selection has been formally withdrawn or relinquished or where its rejection has been acquiesced in, but the mere failure of the company to appeal from an adverse decision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office rendered in conformity to an existing departmental decision adverse to the company upon a like state of facts, will not be considered such an acquiescence.

5. Care must be exercised to prevent enlarging the quantity of land to which the railroad company is entitled under laws enacted prior to July 1, 1898, and in this connection attention is invited to subdivision " C " of the regulations of February 14, 1899.

Very respectfully,

Binger Hermann, Commissioner.

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACTS OF CONGRESS OF JUNE 22, 1874 (18 STAT 194), OF AUGUST 29, 1890 (26 STAT. 369), AND JULY 1, 1902 (32 STAT. 733), FOR THE RELIEF OF SETTLERS ON LANDS GRANTED IN AID OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROADS AND WAGON ROADS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., September 22, 1902.

The act of June 22, 1874, reads as follows:

> That in the adjustment of all railroad land grants, whether made directly to any railroad company or to any State for railroad purposes, if any of the lands granted be found in the possession of an actual settler whose entry or filing has been allowed under the preemption or homestead laws of the United States subsequent to the time at which, by the decision of the Land Office, the right of said road was declared to have attached to such lands, the grantees, upon a proper relinquishment of the lands so entered or filed for, shall be entitled to select an equal quantity of other lands in lieu thereof from any of the public lands not mineral, and within the limits of the grant, not otherwise appropriated at the date of selection, to which they shall receive title the same as though originally granted. And any such entries or filings thus relieved from conflict may be perfected into complete title as if such lands had not been granted: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall in any manner be so construed as to enlarge or extend any grant to any such railroad, or to extend to lands reserved in any land grant made for railroad purposes: And provided further, That this act shall not be construed so as in any manner to confirm or legalize any decision or ruling of the Interior Department under which lands have been certified to any railroad company when such lands have been entered by a preemption or homestead settler after the location of the line of the road and prior to the notice to the local land office of the withdrawal of such lands from market.

By act of August 29, 1890, the act of June 22, 1874, was amended as follows:

> That the privileges granted by the aforesaid act approved June twenty-second, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, are hereby extended (subject to the provisos, limitations, and restrictions thereof) to all persons entitled to the right of homestead or preemption under the laws of the United States, who have resided upon and improved for five years lands granted to any railroad company but whose entries or filings have not for any cause been admitted to record.

The following is the act of July 1, 1902:

> That the provision of the act of June twenty-second, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, entitled "An act for the relief of settlers on railroad lands," and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, including the act approved March third, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, entitled "An act to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes," as modified or supplemented by the act approved March second, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, entitled "An act to provide for the extension of the time within which suits may be brought to vacate and annul land patents, and for other purposes," shall apply to grants of land in aid of the construction of wagon roads.

The act of June 22, 1874, authorizes the relinquishment by railroad companies, in favor of settlers, of lands within the limits of their grants which have been entered or filed upon under the provisions of the preemption or homestead laws of the United States subsequent to the time at which, by decision of the Land Office, the rights of said roads have been declared to have attached, and to select in lieu of the land thus relinquished an equal quantity of other lands from any of the public lands within the limits of their grants, nonmineral in character, and not reserved or otherwise appropriated at the date of selection, and to receive title to the same as though originally granted.

As the act of June 22, 1874, limited the relief to persons who had been allowed to make entries, the act of August 29, 1890, extended the privileges granted thereby to persons who have resided upon and improved lands granted to any railroad company for five years, but whose entries for any reason were not admitted of record, and the act of July 1, 1902, extended the provisions of said acts and the acts of March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. 556), which provided for the adjustment of railroad land grants and forfeited the lands then unearned by the construction of the roads, as modified and supplemented by the act of March 2, 1896 (29 Stat. 42), entitled "An act to provide for the extension of the time within which suits may be brought to vacate and annul land patents, and for other purposes," to grants of land to aid in the construction of wagon roads.

Therefore, upon the filing of any relinquishment as prescribed in said acts this office is authorized to treat the filing, entry, or claim of the settler as though the land had not been granted to the railroad or wagon-road company.

Where conflicting claims are brought to the attention of this office and the superior right of the company has been ascertained, and it is found that the claim of the settler in the absence of the railroad claim would be allowed, this office will direct the attention of the officers of the company to the facts and request the relinquishment of the land.

At the same time the party interested should himself seek the relief indicated by direct application to the railroad or wagon-road authorities, as the case may be, and thereby aid in securing an early adjustment.

Where patent or its equivalent has not been issued for the benefit of the company, relinquishment may be made by simple waiver of claim; but where title has passed, formal reconveyance will be required, as in other cases of surrender of patents.

The company may file its lieu selection and relinquishment at the same time, or it may file its relinquishment and make its selection at any subsequent time, in which latter case the relinquishment may be sent direct to this office, and upon its receipt proper annotations thereof will be made on the records and the settler's claim immediately released from suspension. But selections of lieu lands must be filed with the register and receiver of the proper local land office and be noted upon their records before transmission to this office.

Selections must be of lands, not mineral, within the limits of the grant, free from other claims and not reserved or otherwise appropriated at date of selection, but the word reserved, as here used, shall not be held to include the sections alternate to those granted, the title to which remains in the United States.

Where selection fees have been paid upon the land relinquished they will be applied to the lieu selection, but where such fees have not been paid the usual selection fees will be charged.

The selections will be reported by the register and receiver in the same manner as other selections, with a reference to the proper act or acts by their date and title; and opposite each tract selected annotation will be made on the records of the tract surrendered. See Forms A and B attached.

It is to be noted that the acts authorizing relinquishments by railroad and wagon-road companies are not mandatory upon the companies, but simply provide a mode of adjustment of conflicting claims depending upon their voluntary action, and the settlers should therefore assist this office to the extent of their ability in securing the relinquishments sought.

For instructions under act of March 3, 1887, see circular of February 13, 1889 (8 L. D. 348).

Very respectfully,

BINGER HERMANN, Commissioner.

NORTHERN PACIFIC GRANT—ADJUSTMENT—ACT OF MAY 17, 1906, EXTENDING ACTS OF JULY 1, 1898, AND MARCH 2, 1901

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., July 6, 1906.

The act of May 17, 1906 (34 Stat. 197), reads as follows:

> That the provisions of the act of July first, eighteen hundred and ninety eight (Thirtieth Statutes, pages five hundred and ninety-seven and six hundred and twenty), which provided for the adjustment by the Land Department of conflicting claims to lands within the limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, and also the provisions of the act of March second, nineteen hundred and one, entitled "An act for the relief of settlers under the public land laws to lands within the indemnity limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company," be, and they hereby are, extended to include > any bona fide settlement or entry made subsequent to January first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and prior to May thirty-first, nineteen hundred and five, in accordance with the erroneous decision of the Land Department respecting the withdrawal on general route of the Northern Pacific Railroad between Wallula, Washington, and Portland, Oregon, where the same has not since been abandoned: Provided, That all lieu selections made under this act shall be confined to lands within the State where the private holdings are situated.

> Sec. 2. That this act shall become effective upon an acceptance thereof by the Northern Pacific Railway Company being filed with the Secretary of the Interior.

With the exception that the lieu selections made under its provisions are confined to lands within the State where the relinquished lands are situated, the act extends in terms the provisions of the acts of July 1, 1898, and March 2, 1901, to include any bona fide settlement or entry made subsequent to January 1, 1898, and prior to May 31, 1905, in accordance with the decisions of this department respecting lands within the withdrawal on general route under the map of August 13, 1870, for the Northern Pacific Railroad (now Railway), Co., and the limits on definite location of the company's branch-line grant near Wallula, Wash., and those of the main-line grant near Portland, Oreg.

The regulations issued under the acts of July 1, 1898, and March 2, 1901, supra, the former on February 14, and June 3, 1899, (28 L. D., 103, 470), and the latter on June 15, 1901 (30 L. D. 620), with the exception above noted will be followed in the adjustment of claims under the new act.

Very respectfully,

G. F. Pollock,
Acting Commissioner.

INDIAN ALLOTMENT APPLICATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 4, 1913

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 24, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Arizona, California, and New Mexico.

Sirs: You will at once transmit by special letter all Indian allotment applications now on file in your offices where the applicants claim the benefits of the act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 1007), and the applications are complete with the exception that there has not been filed the certificate of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs heretofore required under the regulations to the effect that the applicants are Indians and entitled to allotments. Hereafter when applications for allotments are filed in your office by Indians entitled, or claiming to be entitled, to the benefits of said act of March [d] See Circulars Nos. 533, p. 1184, and 1144, p. 1196.

4, 1913, you will not suspend them for the above certificate of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, but will transmit them at once to this office by special letter. In all cases where applications are transmitted by special letters, suitable notations to show that fact should be made on your schedule of monthly returns. In any cases where you have declined to receive or have returned to the parties applications for allotments by Indians entitled to the benefits of said act because the said certificate of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs had not been furnished, you will now notify the proper parties that they may file applications, and upon their receipt at your office you will transmit them promptly to this office as directed above. These instructions are not intended to apply to Indian allotment applications generally, but only to those coming under the said act of March 4, 1913.

By its own terms the said act of March 4, 1913, expires on March 4, 1916, and it is desired that all cases coming under its provisions be expedited as much as possible. You will, therefore, use all reasonable efforts to procure the early filing and prompt transmission to this office of all applications coming under the said act.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 522

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF APRIL 28, 1904 (33 STAT. 556)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., January 24, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices in New Mexico.

SIRS: The act of April 28, 1904 (33 Stat. 556), entitled "An act for the relief of small-holding settlers within the limits of the grant to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Co. in the Territory of New Mexico," provides:

> That the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, its successors in interest and its or their assigns, may, when requested by the Secretary of the Interior so to do, relinquish or deed, as may be proper, to the United States any section or sections of its or their lands in the Territory of New Mexico the title to which was derived by said railroad company through the act of Congress of July twenty-seventh, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, in aid of the construction of said railroad, any portion of which section is and has been occupied by any settler or settlers as a home or homestead by themselves or their predecessors in interest for a period of not less than twenty-five years next before the passage of this act, and shall then be entitled to select in lieu thereof and to have patented other sections of vacant public land of equal quality in said Territory, as may be agreed upon with the Secretary of the Interior.
> SEC. 2. That the Secretary of the Interior shall, as soon as may be after the passage of this act, cause inquiry to be made of all lands so held by settlers, and shall cause the holdings of such settlers to be surveyed, and on receiving such relinquishments or deeds shall at once, without cost to the settlers, cause patents to issue to each such settler for his or her holdings: Provided, That not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres shall be patented to any one person, and such recipient must possess the qualifications necessary to entitle him or her to enter such land under the homestead laws.

SEC. 3. That any fractions of any such sections of land remaining after the issuance of patents to the settlers as aforesaid shall be subject to entry by citizens the same as other public lands of the United States.

The purpose of this act is to enable certain claimants to lands, known as "small-holding claimants," who were authorized to receive patents for such lands, not to exceed 160 acres, upon specified conditions, by sections 16 and 17 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 854), as amended by the act of February 21, 1893 (27 Stat. 470), to complete title to their entire claims, the odd-numbered sections in a number of cases having passed under the grant by Congress to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Co.; but it will be observed that the benefits intended to be conferred are restricted to the odd-numbered sections within the limits of said railroad grant in what is now the State of New Mexico, and that the act is not mandatory, but simply provides a means for the relief of said claimants depending upon the voluntary relinquishment by the railroad company, or its successors in interest and its or their assigns, upon request of the Secretary of the Interior, of the lands claimed.

Under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1891, as amended by the act of February 21, 1893, supra, and the act of February 26, 1909 (35 Stat. 655), a claim not filed with the surveyor general of New Mexico before March 4, 1910, is invalid, and it does not appear to be the intention of the present law to revive any such claim, excepting so much thereof as may be found to be within an odd-numbered section or sections granted to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Co.

Settlers on railroad lands in the State of New Mexico having claims subject to adjustment under the provisions of the act of April 28, 1904, should file in the proper local land offices proofs of their claims. The proof required of claimants under this act is that the land claimed has been occupied as a home or homestead by themselves or by their predecessors in interest, as settlers, for a period of at least 25 years immediately preceding the passage of this act, and that the claimants possess the qualifications necessary to entitle them to enter lands under the homestead law. This proof may be made before your office or before any officer authorized to take homestead proofs, and may consist of the affidavit of the claimant, corroborated by at least two witnesses having knowledge of the facts; and in cases where the claimant was not himself a settler during the whole period of 25 years next before the passage of the act, but bases his claim partly upon the occupancy of prior settlers, the affidavits must give the names of such settlers, the periods covered by their respective settlements, and the material facts evidencing such settlements.

As the law provides that the lands to which the claimants may be found entitled shall be patented without cost to them, you will not require the payment of any fees or commissions, but publication of notice of intention to make proof will be made in accordance with the requirements of the circular of March 30, 1909 (37 L. D. 536). When the proof is filed in your office you will examine it and if found defective in any respect or insufficient to entitle the claimant to the tract applied for, you will reject it in the usual way or take other appropriate action; but if the proof is complete and in your judgment sufficient to entitle the claimant to the land, you will transmit it to this office without the issuance of a final certificate, together with your recommendation and a statement of the facts disclosed by your records relative to the land involved. When the proof reaches this office it will be examined, and if upon its face it is found sufficient, the railroad company will be called upon for a statement as to whether it owns the land, and if so, whether it would be willing to reconvey in case the settlement claim be found sufficient under the law. If the company or its assigns decline to entertain the suggestion of reconveyance, in such event the settlement claim will be rejected. But if reply is made in the affirmative, then field examination will be directed, not only with reference to the facts alleged in the proof but also as to the quality of the land applied for and all of the land in any section thus affected. Should the field examination show the settlement claim to be invalid, charges will be lodged against the claim, and the matter will proceed to final determination under the usual procedure. Should decision be favorable to the settlement claim upon report of the field examiner, or upon the hearing, as the case may be, the railroad company will then be requested to convey the land to the Government by proper deed or relinquishment with evidence of title, which instrument of conveyance should not be recorded until accepted by the department. Should the deed or relinquishment be accepted, it will be returned to the company to be properly recorded on the records of the county in which the land involved is situated, after which it will be retransmitted for the files of this office. You will then be directed to issue final certificate upon the settlement claim as a basis for patent. The company may then file application for land of equal area and quality with that conveyed.

The authority given the railroad company to relinquish lands covered by the claims of the settlers and select other lands in lieu thereof does not restrict it to the acreage embraced in such 'claims, but the company may relinquish any part, or the whole, of any section containing such claim or claims, and any fraction of any such section remaining after the issuance of patients to the settlers will be subject to entry the same as other public lands.

For any lands reconveyed by the company after April 28, 1916, (the date of the departmental order so directing), it will be required to select in lieu thereof an area in compact form approximating that relinquished. For example, if 160 acres be relinquished for the benefit of any one settlement claim, a selection in lieu thereof must be in compact form approximating that area; and if an entire section be relinquished because of a settlement claim or claims for a portion thereof, then in that case the lieu selection must be of a like area in compact form.

If it be found upon examination when it reaches this office that the company's application to make lieu selection is regular on its face, the field service will be directed to make an investigation in the field with reference to the quality of the land selected, and also as to the quality of any of the base land not already examined as to its quality. When the report of the field examination has been received, further appropriate action will be taken on such selection.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

INDIAN OCCUPANTS OF RAILROAD LANDS—INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 4, 1913 (37 STAT. 1007), AND THE ACT OF APRIL 11, 1916 (39 STAT. 48)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 12, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices in Arizona, California, and New Mexico.

SIRS: Indian occupants of railroad lands who are entitled to the benefits of the act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 1007), as extended by the act of April 11, 1916 (39 Stat., 48), should file in the proper local land offices their applications for allotment in the usual manner. Each application must be accompanied by a showing to the effect that the Indian claiming the benefits of the act has occupied the land involved for the required period of five years or more. Said showing may consist of the affidavit of the applicant, setting forth when the occupancy began, how long it continued, just what it consisted of, and such other pertinent facts as will enable the department to determine the nature and extent of the alleged occupancy. This affidavit must be corroborated by at least two witnesses familiar with the facts. When such applications and showings are filed in the proper local offices, the registers and receivers will transmit them to this office, observing the instructions contained in Circular No. 403 of April 24, 1915.

2. When an application and the accompanying showing reaches this office they will be examined, and if on their face they show that the Indian is qualified to make an allotment under existing law and has occupied the land applied for in accordance with the requirements of the said act, the railroad company will be called upon for a statement as to whether it owns the land, and if so, whether it would be willing to reconvey it under said act in case it be found that the Indian's occupancy is sufficient and he would be otherwise qualified to take an allotment of the land. If the company or its assigns decline to entertain the suggestion of reconveyance then the Indian's application will be rejected; but if a reply is made in the affirmative, field examination will be directed not only with reference to the Indian's qualifications and his occupancy of the land, but also as to the value of the land. Should the field examination show that the Indian has not occupied the land as required by the statute or that he would otherwise be disqualified to take an allotment of it, charges will be lodged against his claim and the matter will proceed to a final determination under the usual procedure. Should decision be favorable to the Indian's claim upon the report of the field examiner or upon the hearing, as the case may be, the railroad company will then be requested to convey the land to the United States by proper deed or relinquishment with evidence of title and the nonalienation and nonencumbrance of such title. The instrument of conveyance should not be recorded until it has been accepted by the department. Should the deed or relinquishment be accepted, it will be returned to the company to be properly recorded on the records of the county in which the land involved is situated, after which it will be retransmitted for the files of this office. When the deed or relinquishment has been properly recorded and returned to this office suitable notations of the conveyance will be made upon the records of this and the local office, after which appropriate action will be taken on the Indian's application for allotment with a view of its allowance.

After a deed or relinquishment has been accepted, recorded, and returned to this office, the railroad company may make selection of other vacant nonmineral, nontimbered, surveyed public lands of equal area and value situated in the same State, in accordance with the provisions of the statute, provided it is made within the time fixed thereby. Said lieu selection will be filed in the proper local office where it will receive appropriate action by the register and receiver in the same manner as indemnity or other kinds of railroad lieu selection. If it be found upon examination when it reaches this office that the company's lieu selection is regular on its face, the field service will be directed to make an examination in the field with reference to the character of the land selected by the company and also as to whether it and the land relinquished by the company are of equal value. When the report of the field examination has been received by this office, further appropriate action will be taken on the selection.

These instructions will supersede those contained in Circular No. 510 of October 11, 1916, said Circular No. 510 being hereby revoked and recalled.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

Circular No. 548

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 27, 1917 (39 STAT. 946), PROVIDING FOR THE ADJUSTMENT OF CONFLICTING CLAIMS TO NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY LANDS IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 28, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, at North Yakima, Seattle, Spokane, Vancouver, Walla Walla, and Waterville, Wash.

Sirs: Appended hereto is a copy of the recent act of Congress approved on February 27, 1917 (39 Stat. 946), providing relief for certain settlers on unsurveyed lands of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. in the State of Washington. In order that the purposes of said act might be carried out without interference with the vested rights of the railway company and that the proper demands of the department upon the company under the act might be mandatory as under the general provisions of the act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597, 620), the company was on March 15, 1917, requested to accept the act and consent to its provisions. Under date of April 2, 1917, the company declined to accept the provisions of the act. The company having thus refused to give its consent to the provisions of the act, the department can not compel it to relinquish or reconvey its lands in favor of settlers as is done under the general provisions of the said act of July 1, 1898, where the company waived its rights by its written acceptance of the said act.

However, a settler claiming the benefits of the said act of February 27, 1917, may file in the proper local office proof of the existence and maintenance of his claim and an election to hold or relinquish the land embraced therein. Such proof and election may be made on Form 4–381, modified where necessary to conform to the requirements of the act. If the settler elects to retain the lands claimed by him and his proof shows that his claim comes within the provisions of the act, this office will request the railway company to relinquish or reconvey the lands to the United States. Should the company relinquish or reconvey, the settler will be permitted to make entry of the lands and the company will be authorized to select other lands in lieu thereof in accordance with the provisions of the act. Should the company decline to relinquish or reconvey the lands involved the settler's only remedy will be to surrender the lands and transfer his claim to other lands. Upon receipt of the company's refusal to relinquish or reconvey, the settler will be notified thereof and accorded the privilege of relinquishing the lands and transferring his claim to other lands in accordance with the provisions of the act of July 1, 1898.

If, on the other hand, the settler in the first instance accompanies his proof of the existence and maintenance of his claim with his relinquishment of the lands settled upon by him and a request for the transfer of his claim to other lands, or in case he does so after notice of the refusal of the company to relinquish or reconvey as outlined in the preceding paragraph, this office will, if the proof is satisfactory, authorize the transfer of the settler's claim to other lands, after which he may make a lieu selection and perfect same in accordance with existing regulations under the act of July 1, 1898.

In those cases where the railway company has already been requested to relinquish the lands claimed by the settler under the special provisions of the act of July 1, 1898, and it has refused to do so, it would be useless to request it to relinquish or reconvey them under the said act of February 27, 1917. Manifestly it would be a waste of time and trouble for settlers in this class of cases to elect to retain the lands settled upon by them. In this class of cases, therefore, the settler should file with his proof a relinquishment of the lands settled upon by him, together with a request for the transfer of his claim to other lands.

The regulations under the act of July 1, 1898 (28 L. D. 103), will govern so far as applicable in cases arising under the said act of February 27, 1917, except in such matters as are specifically covered by the instructions contained herein.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved April 28, 1917.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 643

REGULATIONS FOR THE RELIEF OF SETTLERS UPON CERTAIN LANDS IN THE STATE OF MONTANA—ACT OF FEBRUARY 28, 1919

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., May 2, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Billings, Bozeman, Glasgow, Great Falls, Havre, Helena, Kalispell, Lewistown, Miles City, and Missoula, Mont.:

Appended hereto is a copy of the act of Congress, approved February 28, 1919 (40 Stat. 1204), providing for the relief of certain settlers upon indemnity lands of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. in the Indian reservation therein described in the State of Montana.

In response to request that it indicate its formal acceptance of the provisions of the act the railway company by its land commissioner on March 25, 1919, advised this office that it was willing to proceed with the adjustment under the act in meritorious cases, in accordance with the previous correspondence leading up to the passage of the act. Such correspondence indicated that the number of cases to be adjusted would not exceed 60, embracing not more than 17,000 acres.

LANDS SUBJECT TO ACT

The lands affected by the act are lands within the indemnity limits of the grant to the Northern Pacific Railroad (now Railway), Co., through that portion of the former reservation for the Gros Ventre, Piegan, Blood, Blackfoot, and River Crow Indians, lying south of the Missouri River in the State of Montana, found to be in the possession of actual bona fide qualified settlers under the homestead laws of the United States, who have made substantial improvements thereon and which lands have been adjudged by the Secretary of the Interior to inure to the Northern Pacific Railway Co. under the grants made to its predecessor in interest, the Northern Pacific Railroad Co.

SETTLER CLAIMS

The list of 60 cases hereinbefore referred to does not appear to have been filed, but the company will be requested to file the same for consideration. Upon receipt of said list, the cases of the various settlers will be examined. Where they are found to come within the terms of the act, the company will be requested to file relinquishments of the lands involved in favor of the settlers and to select other lands in lieu thereof, as provided by the act.

It is not intended by this statement to assume that the 60 cases referred to are all the cases which come within the provisions of the act, but where other conflicting claims are brought to the attention of the department and it is found that they are of the character contemplated by the act, and the lands adjudged to inure to the Northern Pacific Railway Co. under the grants made to its predecessor in interest, the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., under the acts of July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. 365), and May 31, 1870 (16 Stat. 378), the attention of the officers of the railway company will be called thereto and relinquishments will be requested for the benefit of the settler claimants.

RELINQUISHMENTS—HOW MADE

Relinquishments by the railway company may be the same in manner and form as those provided for by the circular of February 14, 1899 (28 L. D. 103), under the act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597–620). Where title has passed to the company by patent, a formal deed of reconveyance will be required, accompanied by evidence satisfactorily showing that the company has not sold or contracted to sell the tract therein described or in any manner encumbered the same.

DISPOSITION OF LAND RELINQUISHED

Upon the filing with and acceptance by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of relinquishments by the railway company, the lands relinquished will be treated as having reverted to the United States and the settler claimants will be permitted to perfect their claims in the manner provided by the homestead laws. The railway company, upon proper application, will be permitted to select an equal quantity of other lands in lieu of those relinquished, in the manner directed by the act, to which it shall receive title as though originally granted.

LAND SUBJECT TO LIEU SELECTION

The lands subject to selection in lieu of those relinquished are surveyed public lands within the State of Montana, not mineral, and not otherwise appropriated at the date of selection. Lands withdrawn or classified as coal lands are subject to selection by the company, but as to these, the act provides that the company shall receive the restricted patent provided for by the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

ACT NOT MANDATORY

It is to be observed that the act is not mandatory upon the railway company, but authorizes it to file relinquishments in favor of such settlers, within the territory designated as have made substantial improvements upon lands adjudged by the Secretary of the Interior to have inured to the railway company under the grants mentioned. It depends for its effect upon the concurrent action of the railway company, the Land Department, and the settlers affected thereby.

EXCHANGE OF SANTA FE RAILROAD CO. LANDS IN MOHAVE COUNTY, ARIZ.—ACT OF AUGUST 24, 1922

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., February 20, 1923.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The act of Congress approved August 24, 1922 (42 Stat. 829), provides:

> That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized and empowered, in his discretion, to accept a relinquishment from the owners of the odd-numbered sections of land falling within townships sixteen, sixteen and one-half, and seventeen north of range thirteen west, Arizona, and permit said owners to select and receive in exchange therefor patents of an equal area of vacant surveyed, nonmineral, nontimbered public land of the United States in the County of Mohave, State of Arizona.

According to the report (No. 722, 67th Cong. 2d sess.), of the Committee on Public Lands, House of Representatives, which report was adopted by the Senate Committee on Public Lands and Surveys (Rept. No. 801), the object of the bill was to afford relief to those persons who had settled on land in the odd-numbered sections of land in the townships described, which land, unless mineral in character, inured to the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad Co. (successor to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Co.), under its grant by the act of July 27, 1866 (14 Stat. 292), upon the filing of the map of definite location of the line of road on March 12, 1872.

Under the discretion vested in the Secretary of the Interior by said act, the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad Co. will be allowed six months from the date hereof within which to relinquish to the United States the lands inuring to it in the townships described. Such relinquishment should be made in accordance with the regulations governing relinquishments under the exchange provisions of the act of June 4, 1897 (30 Stat. 11, 36). Upon the acceptance of the relinquishment, which should be accompanied by a satisfactory abstract of title of the relinquished land, the said railroad company will become entitled to select, within 10 years from the date hereof, an equal area of vacant surveyed, nonmineral, nontimbered public land in Mohave County, Ariz.

Selections filed under the provisions of the act will be governed, as to posting and publication of notice, by the regulations governing selections under the act of June 4, 1897, supra. The fees to be paid will be at the rate of $2 for each 160 acres or fraction thereof included in the selection.

As selections are perfected you will, if all be found regular, submit them to the department for approval.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD (NOW RAILWAY) GRANT LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 28, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming.

Gentlemen: By joint resolutions, Senate No. 82 and House Nos. 183 and 237, it is provided, among other things, that no patent shall issue to the Northern Pacific Railroad (now Railway) Co. under the acts of July 2, 1864 (13 Stat. 365), and May 31, 1870 (16 Stat. 378), granting land to the said company, or under acts supplemental thereto or connected therewith (H. J. Res. 237)— > until after Congress shall have made a full and complete inquiry into the said land grants and acts supplemental thereto for the purpose of considering legislation to meet the respective rights of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and its successors and the United States in the premises.

Under departmental instruction of April 19, 1924, in connection with the above resolutions, it is directed that you receive all applications by the company to list or select land, when such applications are regular in all respects, assign serial numbers thereto, note them on your records as applications, and forward them to this office without action. Fees tendered with such applications should be carried as unearned until further advised. However, when necessary to reject an application wholly or in part, for any reason, you will proceed as heretofore, but will not, in any case, allow and approve any application by the company, original or supplemental, until further advised.

[3] See also Public Resolution No. 85, 70th Cong., approved Feb. 16, 1929 (45 Stat. 1221).

All applications by parties not claiming or asserting a right under or through the company, apparently conflicting with a claim, or claims, by or through the company, will be received and acted on as heretofore.

Acknowledge receipt hereof by letter.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner

RAILROAD SELECTIONS—INSTRUCTIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 23, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Each application to list or select lands in satisfaction of grants made by Congress for railroad, wagon road, or canal purposes must be filed in triplicate and the original must be accompanied, at the time of filing, by an affidavit made by an authorized examiner, agent, or employee of the applicant, showing that the lands sought to be listed or selected are nonmineral in character. Each such affidavit must be based on personal knowledge of the affiant and must give the date or dates that examination of the land was made. The attached form of affidavit, approved by the Commissioner of the General Land Office on June 30, 1911, must be used. The usual fees must accompany the said list or selection.

Upon receipt of such a list or selection you will cause it to be examined and certify the same as to such tracts against which there is no objection.

You will then return the triplicate to the applicant with your notice of rejection or allowance, retain the duplicate for your files, and at the proper time transmit the original to this office in the regular order of business.

If any part of the list or selection is not subject to appropriation by the applicant or if any part of said list or selection is not covered by the proper nonmineral affidavit, you will, as to such tracts, reject the same subject to the usual right of appeal.

If no appeal is taken within the time allowed, your action becomes final and eliminates such rejected tracts from the list or selection.

You will specifically describe on the lists or selections the tracts so eliminated. You will apply the proper amount of fees covering the land that is clear and return the balance, if any, without further notice from this office.

If, within the time allowed, an appeal is taken, you will transmit it with the original list or selection to this office in the regular order of business, and certify only the land against which there is no cause for rejection. You will apply the proper amount of fees covering the said land that is clear and hold the balance as unearned until further notified by this office.

Under these instructions the attached form of nonmineral affidavit must be used and must be filed at the same time the selection or list is filed. Also, these instructions revoke the present practice of requiring the applicant to file supplemental lists or selections A and B, respectively, for lands that are clear and those that are not clear.

Circular of July 9, 1894 (19 L. D. 21), is hereby revoked. However, this does not rescind or in any way affect the necessity of publication where the same is now otherwise required.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

GRANTS OF LAND TO AID IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF RAILROADS AND OTHER PURPOSES—PUBLICATION

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 28, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: On and after this date notice of all listings by States, railroad or wagon-road companies, other corporations or individuals, their successors or assigns, of any lands within the primary or granted limits of a grant made to aid in the construction of railroads, wagon roads, canals, river improvements, etc., and which inure or pass to the grantee or its successor or assigns under the terms of the acts making the grants or any amendment thereof, and of all selections of lands within the limits of such grant, either primary or indemnity, and indemnity for lands lost or excepted from the grant under the terms of the acts making the same must be given by publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein the lands are located, the paper to be designated by the register or official performing the duties of register.

Notices for publication will be prepared at the time of acceptance of the selections, and will be transmitted by registered mail to the proper individual or official of the State, Territory, or corporation, for publication in the paper or papers designated, and a copy of such notice shall also be posted by the register, or official performing the duties of the register, in a conspicuous place in his office and remain so posted until the expiration of time allowed for the submission of proof of publication.

To save expense, two or more lists or selections may be embraced in one publication when it may be done consistently with the requirement of publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the land is situated.

The published notice will be by the largest legal subdivisions where consolidation is possible, care being taken to avoid repetition of numbers of sections, townships, and range. The base lands are not to be included in the notice published.

Proof of publication will be the affidavit of the publisher or foreman of the designated newspaper that the notice (a copy of which must be annexed to the affidavit) was published in said newspaper once a week (if a weekly paper) for 5 consecutive issues; if in a semiweekly paper for 9 and if in a daily paper for 30 consecutive issues.[e]

The proof of publication of notice must be filed with the register within 90 days after receipt of notice for publication and will be forwarded by the register to the General Land Office with a report as to whether protest or contest has been filed against any list or selection, and if protest or contest is filed the same shall accompany the report. Failure by the individual or official of the corporation, State, or Territory to furnish proof of publication within the time limited will be cause for the rejection of the selection, upon report by the register of such failure accompanied with evidence of the receipt by the parties of the notice for publication.

During the period of publication, or any time thereafter, and before final approval and certification, the local officers may receive protest or contest as to any of the tracts applied for and transmit the same to the General Land Office.

Where lands sought to be selected are alleged, by way of protest, to be mineral, or were applications for patents therefor are presented under the mining laws, or are otherwise adversely claimed, proceedings in such cases will be in the nature of a contest and will be governed by the rules of practice in force in contest cases.

Notice of all other applications for lands in exchange for or in lieu of lands which inured to the grantee, its successors, or assigns, under the acts making the grant, or amendments thereof, and the exchange or right to select in lieu of which was authorized by a remedial or special act must be published in accordance with the provisions of circulars of February 21, 1908 (36 L. D. 278), or November 3, 1909 (38 L. D. 287), unless specific provision is made for publication of notice of exchange or lieu selections under a specific act or by a specific or special circular or regulation relating to such act, in which case such circular or regulation will control.[e]

[e] See instructions of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

In all cases publication of notice must be made under one or the other of the above provisions, whether or not it was required heretofore and any ruling to the contrary is hereby revoked.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 1077 [4]

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO LISTING BY LAND-GRANT RAILROAD COMPANIES OF LESS THAN A LEGAL SUBDIVISION

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 9, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: By a decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in the case of Work v. Central Pacific Railway Co. (No. 4392), transmitted by the department May 27, 1926 (A–3740), and involving primary list Elko 02291, it was held that under the acts making a grant of lands to the company, title to all the nonmineral lands in the odd numbered sections within the primary limits of the grant vested in the company, no other objection appearing, irrespective of the fact that such nonmineral land constitutes only a part of a quarter quarter of a section or of a lot. This reverses the previous rulings of the department, in so far as they relate to primary lands, that, as a legal subdivision could not be divided, if any part thereof was mineral all the subdivision was impressed with a mineral character and excepted from the grant.

You will, therefore, hereafter accept a listing of primary lands by a land grant railroad company for less than a legal subdivision provided it is for all the nonmineral land in such subdivision, the company makes an affirmative showing as to the mineral character of the remaining land in the subdivision and no other objection appears.

If the listing can be by aliquot parts of a subdivision, such as the NE. ¼ of NE. ¼ of NE. ¼ (10 acres), or S. ½ of NE. ¼ of NE. ¼ (20 acres), a survey, to segregate the nonmineral from the mineral land, would be avoided. If a survey is necessary the company will be required to pay for the execution thereof.

The court further held that as to indemnity lands, the rulings of the department that such lands must be selected in accordance with the legal subdivisions shown by the plats of survey officially filed, was reasonable and proper and must be complied with.

A legal subdivision of indemnity lands therefore can not be subdivided but must be selected and its character and status determined as a whole, except as provided for in 49 L. D. 250 and 303, and 50 L. D. 577, which still remain applicable to indemnity lands.

CIRCULAR NO. 1139[5]

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO LISTING BY LAND-GRANT RAILROAD COMPANIES OF LESS THAN A LEGAL SUBDIVISION—EXAMINATIONS IN THE FIELD AND HEARINGS ORDERED IN CONNECTION THEREWITH

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 9, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices, Division Inspectors, Interior Department.

GENTLEMEN: As supplemental to Circular No. 1077 of July 9, 1926 (51 L. D. 487), the following instructions will be followed in making examination in the field and in connection with hearings as to railroad lands, within primary limits.

In examining in the field the smallest subdivision or unit that should be recognized is that aliquot part of a quarter-quarter (40-acre subdivision), having an area of 10 acres, or multiple thereof. A quarter-quarter, say NE. ¼ NE. ¼, should be divided as follows: NE. ¼ NE. ¼ NE. ¼, NW. ¼ NE. ¼ NE. ¼, SE. ¼ NE. ¼ NE. ¼, SW. ¼ NE. ¼ NE. ¼, or any combination of such minor subdivisions, for instance, N. ½ NE. ¼ NE. ¼, but not of parts thereof, this because of the amount of survey work that will be required of the inspector to secure the identification of the lands involved as a prerequisite to their classification. This same method should govern the register or other official when ordering a hearing to determine the character of land listed by the railroad. In serving notice of mineral charges the company should be advised in the manner heretofore followed and, in addition, should be informed that it may deny or admit the character of the entire unit (quarter-quarter-quarter), or multiples, or that in the event it should desire to deny or admit the charge as to a part only of such a unit, such fact should be set out in its answer, accompanied by a request for a survey of the area in dispute, one-half of the cost of such survey to be borne by the company (departmental decision December 13, 1927, Central Pacific Railway Co., A–10079, Carson City 014233). In case of a denial in part, this office should be advised and action should then be suspended awaiting such survey and further instructions as to proceeding with the case. If the denial goes to the whole unit, the case may be proceeded with in the manner heretofore followed.

[5] Supplemental to Circular No. 1077, p. 1194.

The same rule will apply when a division of a lot or fractional subdivision is involved, i. e., the rectangular system of public land surveys may be extended a step further into such lot or fractional subdivision, so as to break it up into its component parts, under such system of survey; but if the area, the character of which is denied by the company, is of a form other than that consequent upon the usual subdivision by platting into quarter-quarter-quarter sections, or corresponding fractional units, then a survey by metes and bounds will be necessary, the same to be paid for in accordance with departmental decision of December 13, 1927, heretofore referred to.

In making investigations the inspector should bear in mind the possibility of a segregation survey being requested, and in reporting give detailed information as to the location or place where the mineral is, etc., as far as practicable without extra trouble or expense.

As to indemnity lands, there is no occasion to modify Circular No. 1077 of July 9, 1926 (51 L. D. 487).

These instructions are issued with a view to determining the mineral character of the lands with a minimum of trouble and expense to all parties.

Very respectfully,

Thos. C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 1144

EXTENSION OF RELIEF TO INDIANS ON RAILROAD GRANT LANDS IN ARIZONA, CALIFORNIA, AND NEW MEXICO—ACT OF MARCH 10, 1928

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 12, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices in Arizona, California, and New Mexico.

Gentlemen: The act of Congress approved on March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 1007), provides—

> That the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, authorized in his discretion to request of the present claimant under any railroad land grant a relinquishment or reconveyance of any lands situated within the States of Arizona, New Mexico, or California, passing under the grant, which are shown to have been occupied for five years or more by an Indian entitled to receive the tract in allotment under existing law but for the grant to the railroad company; and upon the execution and filing of such relinquishment or reconveyance the lands shall thereupon become available for allotment, and the company relinquishing or reconveying shall be entitled to select, within a period of three years after the approval of this act, and have patented to it, other vacant, nonmineral, nontimbered, surveyed public lands, of equal area and value, situated in the same State, as may be agreed upon by the Secretary of the Interior, provided that the total area of land that may be exchanged under the provisions of this act shall not exceed 3,000 acres in Arizona, 16,000 acres in New Mexico, and 5,000 acres in California.

The act of April 11, 1916 (39 Stat. 48), extended the provisions of the act of March 4, 1913, for a period of two years from and after March 4, 1916, and provided that the total area which might be exchanged thereunder should not exceed 10,000 acres in Arizona, and 25,000 acres in New Mexico.

The act of June 30, 1919 (41 Stat. 9), further extended the provisions of the basic act for a period of one year from and after March 4, 1919.

September 21, 1922 (42 Stat. 994), Congress again extended the period to March 4, 1923.

January 29, 1925 (43 Stat. 795), Congress again extended the period to March 4, 1927.

March 10, 1928, an act of Congress was approved (45 Stat. 299) which reads as follows:

> That all of the provisions of an act entitled "An act for the relief of Indians occupying railroad lands in Arizona, New Mexico, or California," approved March 4, 1913, and amended by the act of April 11, 1916, and the act of June 30, 1919, be, and the same are hereby, extended to March 4, 1931: Provided, That the provisions of this act shall apply only in cases where it is shown that the lands were actually occupied in good faith by Indians prior to March 4, 1913, and the applicants are otherwise entitled to receive such tracts, in allotment under existing law but for the grant to the railroad company.

You will give to this matter, without expense to the Government, the widest possible range of publicity.

Promptly transmit to this office all Indian allotment applications filed under the act of March 4, 1913, as now extended. When they are received here the procedure outlined by Circular No. 533, dated March 12, 1917 (46 L. D. 44), will be followed. These instructions will supersede those contained in Circular No. 987 of March 26, 1925 (51 L. D. 79), said Circular No. 987 being hereby revoked and recalled.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved April 12, 1928.

First Assistant Secretary.

RECLAMATION LANDS

[Reported, 45 L. D. 385]

GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR CONTAINING REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE RECLAMATION OF ARID LANDS BY THE UNITED STATES[1]

Department of the Interior,
May 18, 1916

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. Section 3 of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), provides for the withdrawal of lands from all disposition other than that provided for by said act. Lands withdrawn as susceptible of irrigation (usually referred to as withdrawn under the second form) are subject to entry under the provisions of the homestead law only, and since the passage of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 835), are open to settlement or entry only when approved farm-unit plats have been filed and water is ready to be delivered to the land in said farm units or some part thereof and such fact has been announced by the Secretary of the Interior, except as provided by the act of February 18, 1911 (36 Stat. 917), as amended by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686). Where settlements had been effected in good faith prior to June 25, 1910, on lands embraced within second-form withdrawals, persons showing such settlement are entitled to complete entry in the manner and within the time provided by law. The reclamation act of June 17, 1902, and acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto are hereinafter referred to generally as the reclamation law.

2. Under the provisions of the act of February 18, 1911 (36 Stat. 917), as amended by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686), the prohibition contained in section 5 of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910, forbidding settlement on or entry of lands reserved for irrigation purposes prior to the approval of farm-unit plats and the announcement of the fact that water is ready to be delivered to the land, is set aside as to lands included in entries made prior to June 25, 1910, where such entries have been or may be relinquished in whole or in part.

3. Settlement and entry of such lands will be allowed subject to the provisions of the homestead law and the reclamation law in the same manner as for other lands subject to entry within reclamation projects except that the certificate of the project manager that water-right application has been made and charges deposited, which must be filed in the ordinary case, is not required. (See par. 5.) The lands must have been covered by a valid entry prior to June 25, 1910, and shall only be subject to entry under the provisions of the present act in cases where a relinquishment of the former entry has been or shall be filed. Registers and receivers in their action on applications to make homestead entry under the provisions of this act will be governed by the records of their office and will note on all entries allowed hereunder the homestead number and date of the relinquished entry and the fact that the new entry is allowed subject to the provisions of section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686).

4. Entries are permitted under the act of February 18, 1911, as amended by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914, upon the relinquishment of an entry made prior to June 25, 1910, and the right to enter such land is not limited to one or more entries or entrymen. (Lena Hektner, 42 L. D. 462.) This act has no application where the cancellation of the entry made prior to June 25, 1910, was the result of a contest or of a relinquishment resulting from the same. (Fred V. Hook, 41 L. D. 67.) The act is also inapplicable in the case of lands withdrawn under the first form and has reference only to lands covered by second-form withdrawals. (Annie G. Parker, 40 L. D. 406.)

5. Homestead entries of lands platted to farm units and covered by public notice are made practically in the same manner as the ordinary homestead entry, and registers and receivers will allow homestead applications for such lands, if found regular, and accompanied by a certificate of the project manager showing that water-right application has been filed and the proper water-right charges deposited. No application to make homestead entry of lands within a reclamation project and covered by public notice will be received unless accompanied by such certificate of the project manager. Where under the reclamation law lands within the reclamation project are subject to entry notwithstanding public notice covering said lands has not yet issued, such certificate of the project manager is not required, and in such cases the application, if otherwise regular, will be received and entry allowed. The register and receiver will immediately notify the project manager of each entry allowed, stating whether the entry was allowed with or without the certificate of the project manager above referred to.

6. Registers and receivers will indorse across the face of each homestead application, when allowed under the reclamation act, the following: "This entry allowed subject to the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388)," and will advise each entryman of the provisions of the act, by furnishing him with a copy of this circular.

7. These entries are not subject to the commutation provisions of the homestead law, and on the determination by the Secretary of the Interior that the proposed irrigation project is practicable, the entries hitherto made and not conforming to an established farm unit may be reduced in area to the limit representing the acreage which, in the opinion of the Secretary, may be reasonably required for the support of a family upon the lands in question, and the lands within a project are platted to farm units representing such areas.

SUBDIVISION OF FARM UNITS

8. An entry may be made of part of an established farm unit, (a) when the remaining portion of said unit is also desired for entry simultaneously by another person and is, in the judgment of the project manager, sufficient, if carefully managed, to return to the reclamation fund the charges apportioned to the irrigable area thereof, or (b) can be advantageously included as part of an established farm unit, or (c) can in combination with existing farm units be advantageously replatted into new farm units, each sufficient, if carefully managed, to support a family and return to the reclamation fund the charges apportioned to the irrigable area of the several new farm units.

9. Where it is desired to make entry of part only of a farm unit, an application for the amendment and subdivision of such unit should be filed with the project manager. If such subdivision is rectangular and survey is not required to determine the division of the irrigable area of the farm unit as proposed to be divided, no charge will be made. If a survey shall be found necessary to determine the boundaries of the subdivision of any such farm unit or the division of the irrigable area, the project manager will proceed as directed in paragraph 38 of this circular. Upon such application being filed, the project manager will either approve or disapprove the same, and, if approved, proceed as directed in paragraph 39 of this circular.

10. The farm units may be as small as 10 acres where the lands are suitable for fruit raising, etc., but on most projects so far they have been fixed at from 40 to 80 acres each. These areas are announced on farm-unit plats, and public notice stating the amount of the charges and other details concerning payment is issued by the Secretary of the Interior. Until this public notice is issued it will be impossible in most respects to give definite information as to any particular tract or as to the details intended to be covered by such notice; but registers and receivers will, upon inquiry, give all general information relative to the public lands included in reclamation projects and will keep the project managers of the Reclamation Service fully informed by correspondence as to conditions affecting the same.

WITHDRAWALS AND RESTORATIONS

11. The withdrawal of these lands at first is principally for the purpose of making surveys and irrigation investigations in order to determine the feasibility of the plans for irrigation and reclamation proposed. Only a portion of the lands will be irrigated, even if the project is feasible, but it will be impossible to decide in advance of careful examination what lands may be watered, if any, and the mere fact that surveys are in progress is no indication whatever that the works will be built. It can not be determined how much water there may be available or what lands can be covered or whether the cost will be too great to justify the undertaking until the surveys and the irrigation investigations have been completed.

12. There are two classes of withdrawals authorized by the act, one commonly known as "withdrawals under the first form," which embraces lands that may possibly be needed in the construction and maintenance of irrigation works, and the other commonly known as "withdrawals under the second form," which embraces lands not supposed to be needed in the actual construction and maintenance of irrigation works, but which may possibly be irrigated from such works.

13.[2] After lands have been withdrawn under the first form they can not be entered, selected, or located in any manner so long as they remain so withdrawn, and all applications for such entries, selections, or locations should be rejected and denied, regardless of whether they were presented before or after the date of such withdrawal. (See John J. Maney, 35 L. D. 250.) Any withdrawal otherwise valid shall not be affected by failure to note same on tract book or otherwise follow usual procedure. (42 L. D. 318.) Lands can not be examined at the instance of individuals prior to the completion of construction to determine whether particular lands will be irrigable. (42 L. D. 8.)

14.[3] In the event any lands embraced in any unapproved or uncertified selection are needed in the construction and maintenance of any irrigation works (other than for right of way for ditches or canals reserved under act of August 30, 1890, 26 Stat. 391), under the reclamation law, the Government may cancel such selection and appropriate the lands embraced therein to such use.

15.[4] Where there are any improvements erected on such lands in good faith, payment therefor will be made upon agreement of the owner with the representative of the Government as to the value of the improvements. Where the owner of the improvements and the representative of the Government fail to agree as to the amount to be paid therefor, the same shall be acquired by condemnation proceedings under judicial process, as provided by section 7 of the reclamation act.

16.[5] Lands withdrawn under the second form and becoming subject to entry in the manner provided by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914, can be entered only under the homestead laws and subject to the provisions, limitations, charges, terms, and conditions of the reclamation law, and all applications to make selections, locations, or entries of any other kind on such lands should be rejected, regardless of whether they are presented before or after the lands are withdrawn, except that where settlement rights were acquired prior to the withdrawal and have been diligently prosecuted and the homestead law complied with, the settler will be entitled to make and complete his entry, subject to all the charges, terms, conditions, limitations, and provisions of the reclamation law. (See Sarah E. Allen, 44 L. D. 331.) No person will be permitted to gain or exercise any right whatever under any settlement or occupation begun after withdrawal of the land from settlement and entry until the land becomes subject to settlement and entry under the provisions of the acts of June 25, 1910, February 18, 1911, and section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914, or is restored to the public domain.

[3] See amendment, p. 1246

[4] See revocation, p. 1246.

[5] See amendment, p. 1246.

17. Withdrawals made under either of these forms do not defeat or adversely affect any valid entry, location, or selection which segregated and withheld the lands embraced therein from other forms of appropriation at the date of such withdrawal; and all entries, selections, or locations of that character should be permitted to proceed to patent or certification upon due proof of compliance with the law in the same manner and to the same extent to which they would have proceeded had such withdrawal not been made. All lands, however, taken up under any of the land laws of the United States subsequent to October 2, 1888, are subject to right of way for ditches or canals constructed by authority of the United States (act of Aug. 30, 1890, 26 Stat. 391; circular approved by department July 25, 1903[a]). All entries made upon the lands referred to are subject to the following proviso of the act cited:

> That in all patents for lands hereafter taken up under any of the land laws of the United States, or on entries or claims validated by this act, west of the one hundredth meridian, it shall be expressed that there is reserved from lands in said patent described a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States.

18. Should a homestead entry embrace land that is needed in whole or in part for purposes contemplated by said proviso in the act of August 30, 1890, the land would be taken for such purpose, and the entryman would have no claim against the United States for the same.

19. All withdrawals become effective on the date upon which they are ordered by the Secretary of the Interior, and all orders for restorations on the date they are received in the local land office unless otherwise specified in the order. (George B. Pratt et al., 38 L. D. 146.)

20. Upon the cancellation of an entry covering lands embraced within a withdrawal under the reclamation act such withdrawal becomes effective as to such lands without further order. (See Cornelius J. MacNamara, 33 L. D. 520.) Such lands under first-form withdrawal can not, therefore, so long as they remain so withdrawn, be entered or otherwise appropriated, either by a successful contestant or any other person.

21. Where the Secretary of the Interior by the approval of farm-unit plats has determined, or may determine, that the lands designated thereon are irrigable, the filing of such plats in the General Land Office and in the local land offices is to be regarded as equivalent to an order withdrawing such lands under the second form, and as an order changing to the second form any withdrawals of the first form then effective as to any such tracts. This applies to all areas shown on the farm-unit plats as subject to entry under the provisions of the reclamation law or as subject to the filing of water-right applications, and to all farm units to which the Secretary has announced that water is ready to be delivered. Upon receipt of such plats appropriate notations of the change of form of withdrawal are to be made in accordance therewith upon the records of the General Land Office and of the local land offices.

[a] The circular approved July 25, 1903 contains recommendations addressed to the Secretary of the Interior by the Acting Director of the Geological Survey. It is not carried in this publication.

22. Inasmuch as every entry made under the reclamation law is subject to conformation to an established farm unit, improvements placed upon the different subdivisions by the entryman prior to such conformation are at his risk. (Jerome M. Higman, 37 L. D. 718.) They should be confined to one legal subdivision until the entry is conformed. In readjusting such an entry the Secretary is not required to confine the farm unit to the limits of the entry, but may combine any legal subdivision thereof with a contiguous tract lying outside of the entry, so as to equalize in value the several farm units. (Idem.) The act of June 27, 1906, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to fix a lesser area than 40 acres as a farm unit when, " by reason of market conditions and special fitness of the soil and climate for the growth of fruit and garden produce, a lesser area than 40 acres may be sufficient for the support of a family " or when necessary " in order to provide for practical and economical irrigation."

ADDITIONAL ENTRIES

23.[6] A person who has made homestead entry for any area within a reclamation project can not make an additional homestead entry for lands outside of a project, nor for lands within a project except as provided in the following paragraph. One who has made homestead entry for less than 160 acres outside of a reclamation project is disqualified from making an additional entry within a reclamation project, as every entry within a project is either made for or is subject to conformation to a farm unit, which is the equivalent of a homestead entry of 160 acres of land outside of a reclamation project. (38 L. D. 58.)

24.[7] Where, however, the first or original homestead entry was made subject to the restrictions and conditions of the reclamation act, any entry additional thereto would be likewise subject to the same restrictions and conditions, and in such cases additional entries may be allowed within reclamation projects under acts authorizing additional entries, except where farm units have been established prior to the filing of the applications. Both entries so allowed are subject to the same adjustment to one farm unit as if the entire tract had been included in the first entry. (Henry W. Williamson, 38 L. D. 233.)

ENTRIES UNDER ACT OF MARCH 4, 1915

25. Applications to make new entry under the provisions of this act must be on the form provided for homestead applications, must refer to the serial number and give the description of the former entry, and must be accompanied by a relinquishment of the former entry and an affidavit by the applicant showing the facts upon which he claims to be entitled to the provisions of this act. The showing filed by the applicant must be immediately transmitted to the project manager of the Reclamation Service for his report and recommendation thereon, and upon the receipt thereof the register and receiver will transmit all the papers to the General Land Office with their recommendation thereon. The project manager will forward two copies of his report to the chief of construction. The register and receiver will indorse on the face of each such application the fact that it is under the provisions of the act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1215).

[7] See revocation, p. 1246.

26. Such applications will be given current numbers of the land-office series, and the proper fee and commissions will be collected in each case.

27. This act permits a new entry only where the former entry was made subject to the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), for land which was believed to be susceptible of irrigation, where it has since been determined that the land embraced in such entry or all thereof in excess of 20 acres is not or will not be irrigable under the project. This act permits the new entry to be made only within the same project as the former entry, nor may any land be entered under this act until such land has been designated as a farm unit. Any such farm unit entered under this act will be subject to conformation to a new farm unit, in the discretion of the department, and will be subject to all the charges, terms, conditions, and limitations of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and acts supplemental thereto and amendatory thereof.

28. In order that there may be uniformity in the administration of the act of March 4, 1915, no applications thereunder will be allowed by local officers on their own initiative, but all will be forwarded to the General Land Office for consideration.

CONTESTS

29. An entry embracing lands included within a first or second form reclamation withdrawal, whether such entry was made before or after the date of such withdrawal, may be contested and canceled because of entryman's failure to comply with the law or for any other sufficient reason, except that for failure to pay the construction charges or charges for operation and maintenance no contest will lie, and any contestant who secures the cancellation of such entry and pays the land-office fees occasioned by his contest will be awarded a preferred right of making entry. Should the land embraced in the contested entry be within a first-form withdrawal at time of successful termination of the contest the preferred right may prove futile, for it can not be exercised as long as the land remains so withdrawn, but should the lands involved be restored to the public domain or a farm-unit plat be approved for the lands and announcement made that water is ready to be delivered, the preference right may be exercised at any time within 30 days from notice of the restoration or the establishment of farm units. Should the land be within a second-form withdrawal, the successful contestant can not be allowed to exercise his preference right of entry prior to the time when the Secretary shall have established the unit of acreage and announced the fact that water is ready to be delivered to the land in said farm unit or some part thereof, but when the farm unit is established and water available as stated, he may make entry under the terms of the reclamation law. If, however, the land at any time be released from all forms of withdrawal, he may enter as in other cases made and provided. It should be the duty, however, of such contestant to keep the local officers advised respecting his residence to which notice may be sent him of his preference right of entry in event of successful contest, when the land is subject to entry, and a notice mailed to his address, shown by the records of the local land office at the time of the mailing of the notice of preference right, will be held to meet the requirements of the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140). No contest can be allowed, however, against any qualified entryman who prior to June 25, 1910, made bona fide entry upon lands proposed to be irrigated and who established residence in good faith upon the lands entered by him for failure to maintain residence or to make improvements upon his land prior to the time when water is available for its irrigation.

30. Under these regulations the filing of contests will be allowed against homestead entries made subject to the reclamation law in the following cases:

(a) Where the entry was made on or after June 25, 1910.

(b) Where the entry was made prior to June 25, 1910, and it is alleged that the entryman failed to establish residence in good faith upon the lands entered by him.

(c) Where the entry was made prior to June 25, 1910, and a period of 90 days has elapsed since the issuance of public notice under section 4 of the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), fixing the date when water will be available for irrigation of the land.

(d) Where the entry was made prior to June 25, 1910, for any causes other than "failure to maintain residence or make improvements upon the land prior to the time when water is available."

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

31. When homestead entrymen within irrigation projects file in the local land office applications for leave of absence under the provisions of the act of June 25, 1910, the register and receiver will make proper notation of the same on their records and at once, by special letter, forward the application, together with their recommendation thereon, to the General Land Office for action.

32. These applications for leave of absence should be in the form of an affidavit duly corroborated by two witnesses, contain a specific description of the land, show the good faith of the applicant, and set forth in detail the character, the extent, and the approximate value of the improvements placed on the lands, which must be such as to satisfy the requirement of the law that the entryman has made substantial improvements, and the applicant must show, as a matter of fact, that water is not available for the irrigation thereof. The statement regarding the availability of water for irrigation must be corroborated by certificate of the project manager, to be filed with the application for leave.

33. When sufficient showing is made in cases coming within the provisions of the law, leave of absence will be granted until such time as water for irrigation is turned into the main irrigation canals from which the land is to be irrigated or, in the event that the project is abandoned by the Government, until the date of notice of such abandonment and the restoration to the public domain of the lands embraced in the entry.

34. Attention is directed to the provision that "the period of actual absence shall not be deducted from the full time of residence required by law." The effect of the granting of leave of absence under this act is to protect the entry from contest for abandonment, and by the necessary implication of the act the period within which the entryman is required to submit final proof will be extended and the entry will not be subject to cancellation for failure to submit proof until the expiration of the period allowed in which to submit final proof, exclusive of the period for which leave of absence may be granted. Under the provisions of the act of April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), no qualified entryman for lands within a reclamation project whose entry was made prior to June 25, 1910, and who established residence in good faith upon the lands so entered shall be subject to contest for failure to maintain residence or make improvements upon his land prior to the time public notice is issued fixing the water-right charges and announcing that water is available for the irrigation of the land embraced in his entry. Within 90 days after the issuance of public notice under section 4 of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), fixing the water-right charges and announcing the date when water will be available for irrigation, the entryman must file water-right application for the irrigable land in his entry in conformity with the public notice and farm-unit plat, and must file in the local land office an affidavit showing that he has reestablished his residence on the land with the intention of maintaining the same for a period sufficient to enable him to make final proof.

ASSIGNMENTS

35. Under the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), persons who have made or may make homestead entries subject to the reclamation law may assign their entries in their entirety at any time after filing in the local land office satisfactory proof of the residence, improvements, and cultivation required by the ordinary provisions of the homestead law. The act also provides for the assignment of homestead entries in part, but such assignments, if made after farm units are established, must conform thereto, except as hereinafter provided. (See pars. 36 to 39.)

36. In cases where the entry involves two or more farm units, the entryman may file an election as to which farm unit he will retain, and he may assign and transfer to a qualified assignee any farm unit or farm units entirely embraced within the original entry. He may also assign parts of farm units included in his entry, provided the assignee has an entry covering or obtains an assignment of the remainder of such unit. If an election by the entryman to conform to a farm unit be filed and no assignment made of the remainder of the entry, the entry will be conformed to the farm unit selected for retention and canceled as to the remainder.

37. Where it is desired to assign a part of an established farm unit, an application for the amendment and subdivision of such unit should be filed with the project manager. The assignment, with accompanying affidavits of the assignee and assignor, must also be filed with the project manager for his consideration.

38. If a survey shall be found necessary to determine the boundaries of the subdivision of any such farm unit, or the division of the irrigable area, a deposit equal to the estimated cost of such survey must be made with the special fiscal agent, Reclamation Service, on the project by or on behalf of the parties concerned. Any excess over the actual cost will be returned to the depositor or depositors after completion of the survey, and they will also be required to make good any deficiency in their deposit.

39. When the plats describing the amended farm units are approved by the project manager, he will forward copy of the amendatory plat, in duplicate, together with the assignment and accompanying affidavits, to the local land office, where one copy of the amendatory plat will be retained, and one copy will be forwarded by the local land officers to the General Land Office, together with the assignment and accompanying affidavits. A copy of the amendatory plat should also be at once forwarded by the project manager to the director's office at Washington, D. C., to be formally approved in the usual manner by authority of the Secretary.

40. No assignment of a homestead entry or any part thereof shall be accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or recognized as valid for any purpose, until after the filing in the local land office of the instruments required by paragraph 41.

41.[8] Assignments under this act are expressly made "subject to the limitations, charges, terms, and conditions of the reclamation act," and inasmuch as the law limits the right of entry to one farm unit and forbids the holding of more than one farm unit prior to payment of all construction or building and betterment charges each assignor must present a showing in the form of an affidavit to the effect that the assignment is an absolute sale, divesting him of all interest in the premises assigned, and each assignee must present a showing in the form of an affidavit that he does not own or hold and is not claiming any other farm unit or entry under the reclamation law upon which all installments of construction or building and betterment charges have not been paid in full and has no existing water-right applications covering an area of land which, added to that taken by assignment, will exceed 160 acres, or the maximum limit of area fixed by the Secretary of the Interior. If the assignee is a woman, it must be shown whether she is married or single, and if a married woman, it must be shown that the assignment is purchased with her own separate money, in which her husband has no interest or claim (39 L. D. 504, and Sadie A. Hawley, 43 L. D. 364). These affidavits must be accompanied by evidence of the conveyance of the land, as indicated in paragraph 42, and a further showing in the form of a certificate of the project manager that water-right application therefor is not yet receivable, or that the assignee has filed in the project office for acceptance a water-right application in due form for the land embraced in the assignment. The affidavits and certificates above described should be in the following form, inserting the proper names, descriptions, etc., in the places indicated:

which the land is located, but a quitclaim or warranty deed is preferred. The original instrument of assignment, or where the instrument is recorded, a copy thereof certified by the officer who has custody of the record will be accepted. Where the original instrument of assignment is presented to an officer having an official impression seal, a copy of the instrument certified by such officer under his seal will be accepted if accompanied by satisfactory evidence of compliance with the documentary stamp tax provisions of the internal revenue law.

43.[11] Assignments made and filed in accordance with these regulations must be noted on the local land office records and at once forwarded to the General Land Office for immediate consideration. Where an assignment which does not fully comply with the above regulations is presented to the local land office the register and receiver will reject same, subject to the right of appeal to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in accordance with the rules of practice. Upon the approval of an assignment, the assignee will at the proper time make payment of the water-right charges and submit proof of reclamation as would the original entryman, and, after proof of full compliance with the law, may receive a patent for the land.

MORTGAGES

44. Mortgagees of lands embraced in homestead or desert-land entries within reclamation projects may file in the local land office for the district in which the land is located a notice of such mortgage interest, and shall thereupon become entitled to receive and be given the same notice of any contest or other proceedings thereafter had affecting the entry as is required to be given the entryman in connection with such proceedings, and a like notice of mortgage interest may be filed with the project manager in case of any lands, whether or not water-right application has been filed under the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), including homestead entries, desert-land entries, and lands in private ownership; and thereupon the mortgagee shall receive copies of all notices of default in payment of the water-right charges levied by the Secretary of the Interior against such lands, and shall be permitted to make payment of the amount so in default within 60 days from the date of such notice. Any payment so made shall be credited on the charges levied by the Secretary of the Interior against such lands.

45. Every such notice of mortgage interest filed as provided in the preceding paragraph must be forthwith noted upon the records of the project manager and of the local land office, and be promptly reported to the Director of the Reclamation Service and to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, where like notations will be made. Relinquishment of a homestead or desert-land entry or part thereof, within a reclamation project, upon which final proof has been submitted, where the records show the land to have been mortgaged, will not be accepted or noted unless the mortgagee joins therein; nor will an assignment of such a homestead entry or part thereof under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), nor an assignment of a mortgaged desert-land entry where the records show the land to have been mortgaged, be recognized or permitted unless the assignment specifically refers to such mortgage and is made and accepted subject thereto.

46. If such mortgagee buys in the lands at foreclosure sale, such mortgagee-purchaser, whether a nonresident or corporation, may, at any time within one year after the end of the statutory period of redemption, if there be such statutory period, and if not, at any time within one year after such foreclosure sale, make proof of cultivation and reclamation of the land under section 1 of the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), and receive final water-right certificate, provided such mortgage-purchaser is otherwise qualified so to do. Water will be furnished said land, and no steps will be taken to cancel the water-right application on account of the holdings by the same mortgagee-purchaser of lands in excess of 160 acres, or the limit per single ownership of private land as fixed by the Secretary of the Interior for which a water right may be purchased, until two years after such foreclosure purchase, provided that all charges in connection with the water-right application that may be due at the time of the foreclosure sale and all such charges that may become due during the period when the land is held under the terms hereof shall be promptly paid by or on behalf of such mortgagee-purchaser. To secure the benefits hereof the mortgagee purchasing the land at foreclosure sale must give notice thereof to the register of the local land office and to the officer in charge of the project within 60 days after such purchase.

CANCELLATION

47. All homestead and desert-land entrymen holding land under the reclamation law must, in addition to paying the water-right charges, reclaim the land as required by the reclamation law. Homestead entrymen must reside upon, cultivate, and improve the lands embraced in their entries for not less than the period required by the homestead laws. Desert-land entrymen must comply with the provisions of the desert-land laws as amended by the reclamation law. Failure to make any two payments when due, or to reclaim the land as required by law, will render the entry subject to cancellation and the money paid subject to forfeiture, whether water-right application has been made or not. Upon receipt of a statement from the Director of the Reclamation Service that two of such payments remain due and unpaid, after proper service upon the entryman and upon the mortgagee, if any such there be of record, of the notice required by paragraph 111 of this circular, the date and manner of service being stated, the entry will, without further notice, be canceled by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

WIDOWS AND HEIRS OF ENTRYMEN

48. The widows or heirs of persons who make entries under the reclamation law will not be required both to reside upon and cultivate the lands covered by the entry of the persons from whom they inherit, but they must reclaim the land as required by the reclamation law, and make payment of all unpaid charges when due.

49. Upon the death of a homesteader having an entry within an irrigation project, leaving no widow and only minor heirs, his right may, under section 2292, Revised Statutes, be sold for the benefit of such heirs. (See heirs of Frederick C. DeLong, 36 L. D. 332.) If in such case the land has been divided into farm units, the purchaser takes title to the particular unit to which the entry has been limited, but if subdivision has not been made he will be required to conform the entry to one farm unit in the same manner as an original entryman by amending the former entry, relinquishing to the United States or assigning to a duly qualified assignee the lands embraced in the entry in excess of the farm unit he elects to retain. The purchaser and his assignees take, subject to the payment of the water-right charges authorized by the reclamation law and regulations thereunder, and must reclaim the land as required by said law, but are not required otherwise to comply with the homestead law. Should the land not be sold for the benefit of the minor heirs, but retained by them, they will be required to show compliance with the requirements of law as to reclamation and payment of the charges.

FINAL PROOFS, CERTIFICATES, AND PATENTS

50. Where the tract covered by a homestead or desert-land entry has been withdrawn under either the first or the second form after the date of said entry, the register and receiver are directed to immediately furnish the project manager a copy of any notice of intention to submit proof thereon, this being in addition to the copy furnished in all cases to the chief of field division. The Reclamation Service may file such papers as are thought proper bearing on the question whether there has been such compliance with the law on claimant's part as entitles him to final certificate and patent on the entry. Final certificate will, in the absence of other objection, issue pursuant to the proof, as in other cases, if the testimony appears to warrant such action, and no papers have been filed by the Reclamation Service conducing to disprove the testimony; in the event of the filing of such papers, however, the record will be forwarded to the General Land Office for consideration.

51. Where an entry has been made after withdrawal of the tract under the second form, a copy of the notice of intention to submit proof will be sent to the project manager; in such cases the register and receiver will forward the proof, if found to be regular, to the General Land Office without issuance of final certificate, unless there has been submitted a final affidavit, duly corroborated by two witnesses and approved by the project manager, showing compliance with the reclamation act as to payment of all charges due to date and reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area in the entry, as provided for in paragraph 59. If such affidavit showing reclamation and payment of charges is filed and the final proof of compliance with the ordinary provisions of the homestead law as to residence, improvements, and cultivation is found on examination by the local land officers to be sufficient, they will issue final certificate on the case as hereinafter provided.

52. If any final proof offered under this law be irregular or insufficient, the register and receiver will reject it and allow the entryman the usual right of appeal, and if the General Land Office finds any proof forwarded to be insufficient or defective in any respect, whether or not final certificate has issued on the same, the final proof or certificate may be held for rejection or cancellation and the entryman will be notified of that fact, or he may be given an opportunity to cure the defect or to present acceptable proof.

53. The registers and receives are directed to notify in writing every person who makes final proof on a homestead entry which is subject to the limitations and conditions of the reclamation law embracing land included in an approved farm-unit plat where the entry does not conform to an established farm unit and where two years have elapsed since the approval of such farm-unit plat that 30 days from notice is allowed the entryman to elect the farm unit he desires to retain and to file an assignment of the remainder of his entry under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), in default of which the entry will be conformed by the General Land Office and canceled as to the portion not assigned.

54. All persons who make entry of lands within the irrigable area of any project commenced or contemplated under the reclamation law will be required to comply fully with the homestead law as to residence, cultivation, and improvement of the lands, except that where entries were made prior to the issuance of public notice announcing the availability of water for the irrigation of the land and prior to June 25, 1910, in which case, under the departmental decision in the case of ex parte J. H. Haynes (40 L. D. 291), and under the provisions of the act of April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), the submission of final proof is not required within the period during which proof must be submitted under the ordinary provisions of the homestead law.

55. Soldiers and sailors of the War of the Rebellion, the Spanish-American War, or the Philippine insurrection, and their widows and minor orphan children who are entitled to claim credit for the period of the soldier's or sailor's service under the homestead laws, will be allowed to claim credit in connection with entries made under the reclamation law, but will not be entitled to receive final certificate or patent until the water-right charges due have been paid and the requirements as to reclamation have been met.

56. Homesteaders who have resided on, cultivated, and improved their lands for the time required by the homestead law and have submitted proof which has been found satisfactory thereunder by the General Land Office, but who are unable to furnish proof of reclamation because water has not been furnished to the lands or farm units have not been established, will be excused from further residence on their lands and will be given a notice reciting that further residence is not required, but that final certificate and patent will not issue until proof of reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area of the entry, as finally adjusted to an approved farm unit, and payment of all charges due under the public notices and orders issued in pursuance of the reclamation law.

57. The act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), expressly requires reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area of the entry as finally adjusted before final certificate and patents may issue thereunder, and, therefore, the act does not authorize the issuance of final certificate on homestead entries made subject to the reclamation law, prior to the establishment by the Secretary of the Interior of farm units, and the conformation of the entry to an approved unit, for the reason that prior to that time the entry is still subject to adjustment in area, and it can not be determined what area must be ultimately reclaimed under the provisions of the act.

58. Upon the tendering to registers and receivers of homestead proof on entries subject to the reclamation law, they will accept only the testimony fees for " reducing testimony to writing and examining and approving testimony," and will no accept final commissions payable under such entries until proof is received of compliance with the requirements of the reclamation law as to reclamation and payment of the charges which have become due.

59. Homestead and desert-land entrymen, in making proof of compliance with the reclamation law as to reclamation and payment of reclamation charges due, must submit an affidavit, duly corroborated by two witnesses, in duplicate, to the project manager showing these facts. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the project manager to verify the statement as to payment and also make such examination of the land as will enable him to determine whether reclamation as required by law and the regulations has been made. If he finds that the statement as to payment be correct he will so certify, which certificate will also show the date on which the next payment is due; but if he finds that all payments have not been made as required he will advise the entryman thereof, requiring him to pay the amounts found to be unpaid and due, with a right of appeal in the entryman from such requirement to the Director of the Reclamation Service and ultimately to the Secretary of the Interior. Should he find that reclamation has been accomplished he will so certify, but if he finds that reclamation has not been accomplished as required he will forward the proofs to the register and receiver of the land district in which the land is situate, with his report or findings thereon, and such officers will thereupon in turn transmit the showing to the General Land Office for its action. If the proof be rejected by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, appeal will lie to the Secretary of the Interior, as in other cases provided, it being the purpose to issue final certificate upon any such entry only after a final determination that all water charges due on account thereof have been paid and that reclamation has been accomplished as required by the reclamation law. Where prior to issuance of public notice water has been furnished on a water-rental basis to reclamation entrymen or others, and by means whereof reclamation sufficient to obtain patent or water-right certificate under the act of August 9, 1912, has been accomplished and satisfactory proof made, water-right applications may be received from such entrymen or others desiring to obtain patent or water-right certificate under that act upon the form of application approved by the department, modified so as to refer to the irrigable acreage and the charge per acre as thereafter announced by the Secretary. In such cases reclamation homestead entries must be conformed to farm units as established by the Secretary of the Interior. If not theretofore created, farm units may be established upon application.

60. To comply with the provisions of the reclamation law as to reclamation and cultivation, the land must be cleared of brush, trees, and other encumbrances, provided with sufficient laterals for its effective irrigation, graded and otherwise put in proper condition for irrigation and crop growth, planted, watered, and cultivated, and during at least two years next preceding the date of approval by the project manager of proof of reclamation, except as prevented by hailstorm or flooding, satisfactory crops must be grown on at least one-half of the irrigable area thereof. A satisfactory crop during any year shall be any one of the following: (a) A crop of annuals producing a yield of at least one-half of the average yield on similar land under similar conditions on the project for the year in which it is grown; (b) a substantial stand of alfalfa, clover, or of other perennial grass substantially equal in value to alfalfa or clover; or (c) a season's growth of orchard trees or vines of which 75 per cent shall be in a thrifty condition.

61. As to all lands subject to the reclamation extension act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686), at least one-quarter of the irrigable area thereof shall be so reclaimed within three full irrigation seasons after entry or making water-right application, and at least one-half of the irrigable area thereof so reclaimed within five full irrigation seasons after entry or making water-right application, except that the first full irrigation season affecting such land for which water-right application shall have been made prior to May 3, 1915, shall be the irrigation season of 1915. All land thus reclaimed and cultivated shall continue to be so reclaimed and cultivated until after final proof is made and accepted or patent or final water-right certificate issued. Failure to so reclaim lands subject to the said reclamation extension act renders the entry, or, in case of private land, the water-right application therefor, subject to cancellation.

62. Upon receipt of proof of reclamation and payment of water-right charges as provided in the acts of August 9, 1912, and August 26, 1912, in case of homestead entries under the reclamation law, on ceded Indian lands entered under the reclamation act, and in case of desert-land entries within the exterior limits of any land withdrawal or irrigation project under the reclamation act, if final proof of compliance with the homestead or desert-land law, as the case may be, has been previously submitted and has been accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or if such final proof is submitted at the time of the receipt of proof of reclamation and payment of charges, and is found to be sufficient as to residence, improvement, and cultivation upon examination by the local land officers, the register and receiver will issue final certificate on the entry, proceeding in the usual manner, and forward the same with the proof of reclamation and payments to the General Land Office. The final certificate so issued must be stamped by the local land officers across the face of each certificate when issued as follows: "Subject to lien, under section 2, act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265)." Upon receipt of such case in the General Land Office, if found to be regular, it will be approved for patent under said act of August 9, 1912, or August 26, 1912, and patent issued reserving the lien as in said acts provided.

63. Upon receipt of proof of reclamation and payment of water-right charges, as provided in the act of August 9, 1912, in the case of homestead entries, other than those under the reclamation act, where a water-right application has been filed by the entryman, and the register and receiver have been notified by the project manager of the acceptance of such application, if final proof has been accepted on the entry by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or final proof is submitted at the time of the receipt of such reclamation proof and is found to be sufficient on examination by the local land officers, the register and receiver will issue final certificate of compliance with the homestead law, proceeding in the usual manner, and forward such final certificate, with proof of reclamation, to the General Land Office. When the case is received in the General Land Office and is found to be regular, it will be approved for patent and final water-right certificate will be issued by the project manager, reserving a lien to the Government and its successor for the charges due or to become due.

64. The execution of final water-right certificate has the effect of vesting in the water-right applicant absolute title to the water right involved, subject in case of partial payment to a lien for the payment of all sums still due, and in all cases to payment of the annual charges for operation and maintenance; hence the necessity for extreme care in the preparation and issuance of these instruments.

65. The certificate should not be executed until the following notation (record completed ——) has been initialed by a responsible employee who shall have ascertained from a careful examination of the project records that full compliance has been made with the requirements of the law such as to entitle the applicant to the issuance of such certificate.

66. Upon the execution of the certificate, and before delivery to the water-right applicant, it should be recorded in the bound volume which has been provided for that purpose, care being exercised to make the record an exact copy of the original certificate. The person preparing the certificate and recording the same should initial the certificate and record, and will be held responsible for absolute accuracy in this respect; and to insure this the original should be checked with the record thereof in the bound volume. The original must not be delivered until the signature has been copied on the record.

67. It will be necessary to keep a complete index of final water-right certificates issued. A double card index should be made for this purpose, one under the names of the parties and the other by land descriptions.

68. These record books are the official record of the United States in respect of water rights under reclamation projects and serve a purpose similar to that of the records of county recorders or of the records of the Recorder of Patents in the General Land Office. Certified copies of the record will be frequently called for, and it must be absolutely accurate, every precaution being taken to this end.

69. When final water-right certificate has been issued and recorded the fact should be noted on the back of the water-right application forming the basis thereof, citing the volume and page where recorded.

70. Final water-right certificates are not required for and will not be issued for (a) lands entered under the reclamation act; (b) desert-land entries for which water-right application has been made; (c) entries of ceded Indian lands, whether patents for such lands are issued under acts of August 9, 1912, or otherwise, but patent in each of such cases carries with it the water right to which the lands patented are entitled. In all other cases, that is, in cases of lands in private ownership, and in cases of homesteads where entry was made prior to the reclamation withdrawal, final water-right certificate will issue as herein provided.

71. In case of lands in private ownership and homestead entries made prior to reclamation withdrawal, reclamation is required to be shown before any final water-right certificate is issued upon a water-right application made for such lands under the reclamation law. Further, before issuance of such a certificate under the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), on account of any lands so held, evidence must be filed satisfactorily showing that the applicant for water right has an unencumbered title to the land, or, where encumbered, the consent of the encumbrancers must be furnished in such form that the lien to be given the Government to secure the deferred payments on account of the water right shall, as contemplated by the law, constitute a prior lien upon the land. Upon the filing of such proofs with the project manager and the payment of all reclamation charges then due, he will issue a water-right certificate to the applicant which shall expressly reserve to the United States a prior lien on the land upon which a water right is certified, together with all water rights appurtenant or belonging thereto, superior to all other liens, claims, or demands whatsoever, to secure the payment of all sums due or to become due, to the United States or its successors. The project manager will forward all papers, including a copy of the certificate, to the Director of the Reclamation Service.

72. The Director of the Reclamation Service will, upon the full payment of all construction or building and betterment charges by any water user, issue certificate of the full payment of such charges releasing the lien therefor reserved in the final water-right certificate or patent under the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265).

WATER RIGHTS

73. In pursuance of the authority contained in the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), a special fiscal agent of the Reclamation Service has been designated to receive payment of the construction or building and betterment charges and the charges for operation and maintenance payable on account of the lands within each project. All administrative matters regarding the filing of original water-right applications and all actions regarding water-right applications heretofore filed shall be carried on by the officer of the Reclamation Service in charge of the project, herein designated as project manager. Appeals from his action may be taken in accordance with paragraphs 148 to 153, inclusive.

74.[12] Notice of all action in the local land office or in the General Land Office regarding any entry for which water-right application has been made, or may be made, whether subject to the reclamation law or not, shall be given immediately by the register and receiver to the project manager by the forwarding of copy of decision in the case. The project manager shall advise the register and receiver of all action regarding any water-right application or contract by the Reclamation Service affecting the status or validity of the homestead or desert-land entry covering the lands. Among the several actions of which the register and receiver are especially directed to notify the project manager are:

[12] See amendment, p. 1243.

1. Allowance of entries.
2. Conformation of entries to farm units.
3. Acceptance of final proof.
4. Issuance of final certificate.
5. Issuance of patent.
6. Acceptance or rejection of assignments under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592).
7. Contests against entries, granting of leave of absence, death or disability of entryman, or any other actions materially affecting the entry.

75. The control of operation of all sublaterals constructed or acquired in connection with projects under the reclamation law is retained by the Secretary of the Interior to such extent as may be necessary or reasonable to assure to the water users served therefrom the full use of the water to which they are entitled. (See 37 L. D. 468.)

WATER RIGHTS FOR LANDS IN PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

76.[13] Lands which have been patented or which were entered before the reclamation withdrawal may obtain the benefit of the reclamation law, but water-right contracts may not be held for more than 160 acres by any one landowner, and such landowner must be an actual bona fide resident on such land or occupant thereof residing in the neighborhood at the time of making such water-right contract. The Secretary of the Interior has fixed a limit of residence in the neighborhood at a maximum of 50 miles. This limit of distance may be varied, depending on local conditions. After water-right application has been made and accepted (which constitutes a water-right contract), the applicant is not required to continue his residence on the land or in the neighborhood. A landowner may, however, be the purchaser of the use of water for more than one tract in the prescribed neighborhood at one time, provided that the aggregate area of all the tracts involved does not exceed the maximum limit established by the Secretary of the Interior, nor the limit of 160 acres fixed by the reclamation law; and a landowner who has made contract for the use of water in connection with 160 acres of irrigable land and sold the same, together with the water right, can make other and successive contracts for other irrigable lands owned or acquired by him. Holders of more than 160 acres of irrigable land, or more than the limit of area per single ownership of private land as fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, for which water may be purchased within the reclamation project, if such a limit has been fixed, must sell or dispose of all in excess of that area before water-right application will be accepted from such holders. (See pars. 91 and 99.) If the holder of a greater area desires, he can subscribe for stock in the local water users' association (if there be one) for his entire holding, executing a trust deed, giving the association power to ultimately sell the excess area to actual settlers who are qualified to comply with the reclamation law, unless the land has been sold by the owner when the Government is ready to furnish water thereon, or provide for the disposal of such excess holdings in some manner approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Holders of land in private ownership who have made and had accepted water-right application for their holdings may receive water for lands in excess of the area hereinabove stated, in case such excess lands have had water-right application made and accepted therefor, and have been acquired by descent, will, or by foreclosure of any lien; in which case said excess lands may be held for two years and no longer after their acquisition, without in any manner militating against the right of the holder to be furnished water under the reclamation law.

[13] See amendment, p. 1243.

77. Where private lands are held under contract of purchase, title remaining in the vendor, and the purchaser makes water-right application therefor, making one or more payments on account of the construction or building charge, and subsequently the vendor cancels the contract of purchase because of default in payments or for other default of the purchaser, the land resumes its status as if no contract of purchase had been entered into and no water-right application had been made. All payments made by the contract purchaser on account of the water-right application are forfeited to the United States. If the tract is resold to new purchasers, whether by deed or by contract of purchase, such new purchaser must make a new water-right application under such regulations as are in force at the time.

78. A different result occurs where the contract purchaser sells his interest under the contract to another and transfers in writing credit for payments made by him and this other and the vendor enter into a new arrangement whereby this other takes a new contract of purchase from the vendor. In this case the new contract purchaser is the successor in interest of the original contract purchaser and succeeds to the benefits of any payments made by the original contractor on his water-right application. If, therefore, in such a case a new water-right application is required because of any regulations applicable to the case, credits should be allowed on the new application to the extent of the payments made by the original contract purchaser.

79. The purpose of the reclamation law is to secure the reclamation of arid or semiarid lands and to render them productive, and section 8 declares that the right to the use of water acquired under this act shall be appurtenant to the land irrigated and that "beneficial use shall be the basis, the measure, and the limit of the right." There can be no beneficial use of water for irrigation until it is actually applied to reclamation of the land. The final and only conclusive test of reclamation is production. This does not necessarily mean the maturing of a crop, but does mean the securing of actual growth of a crop. The requirement as to reclamation imposed upon lands under homestead entries applies likewise to lands in private ownership and land entered prior to the withdrawal—namely, that the landowner shall reclaim his land as required by law, and no right to the use of water will permnaently attach until such reclamation has been shown. (See 37 L. D. 468, and par. 60.)

80. The provisions of section 5 of the act of June 17, 1902, relative to cancellation of entries with forfeiture of rights for failure to make any two payments when due state the rule to govern all who receive water under any project, and accordingly a failure on the part of any water-right applicant to make any two payments when due shall render his water-right application subject to cancellation with the forfeiture of all rights under the reclamation law as well as of any moneys already paid to or for the use of the United States upon any water right sought to be acquired under said law. (37 L. D. 468.)

VESTED WATER RIGHTS

81. The provision of section 5 of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), limiting the area for which the use of water may be sold, does not prevent the recognition of a vested right for a larger area and protection of the same by allowing the continued flowing of the water covered by the right through the works constructed by the Government under appropriate regulations and charges.

WATER-RIGHT APPLICATION

82. The department has adopted two forms of applications for water rights, viz, Form A, for homestead entries under the reclamation law; Form B, for lands other than homestead entries under the reclamation law embraced within a project. Copies of these forms have been furnished project managers, and they will be used in all applications for water rights on all reclamation projects.

83. Under the act of April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), a reclamation homestead entry made prior to June 25, 1910, where a residence was established in good faith, is not subject to contest for failure of the entryman to maintain residence or make improvements upon the land prior to the time when water is available for the irrigation of the lands embraced within the entry under public notice. The entryman is required within 90 days after public notice has issued to file a water-right application. (See par. 29.)

84. Upon notice issued by the Secretary of the Interior that the Government is ready to receive applications for water right for described lands under a particular project, all persons who have made entries of such lands under the provisions of the reclamation law will be required to file application for water rights on Form A for the number of acres of irrigable land in the farm unit entered, as shown by the plats of farm units approved by the Secretary of the Interior. And any person settled on such lands or intending to make entry of any such lands may file application for water rights on Form A for the number of acres of irrigable land in the farm unit settled on or intended to be entered, as shown by such farm-unit plats.

85. Where such settler or other person makes a water-right application before initiating entry for the lands for which such water-right application is made, the water-right application will be received by the project manager, and the amount due thereon as shown by the public notices and orders collected by the special fiscal agent of the Reclamation Service. The water-right application will be retained by the project manager until entry is made, or if entry is not perfected by the applicant within 30 days the application shall be indorsed "rejected," with the date thereof, and the amount collected returned to the applicant, except in case water shall have been furnished such applicant under the application, in which case only the amount collected on account of the construction or building and betterment charges will be returned. The amount collected for operation and maintenance will be retained by the special fiscal agent as payment to the United States for the service rendered in furnishing water. If entry is made the entryman will be required to exhibit to the project manager his land-office receipt. The project manager will indorse on the water-right application the number, date, and land-office serial number of the entry and take the action indicated in the following paragraph.

86. All applications on Form A must be filed in the project office of the United States Reclamation Service in person or by mail, accompanied by two complete copies and the amount due thereon as shown by the public notices and orders. The project manager will carefully examine the original application, and if regularly and properly made out accept the same and indorse thereon his acceptance. He will see that the copies correspond with the original and that the entry number, date, etc., are properly given, and will immediately transmit one copy to the director and give the second copy to the applicant, with the special fiscal agent's receipt for the amount collected. The original application will be retained in the project office of the Reclamation Service.

87. Upon the issuance of the public notice private landowners and entrymen whose entries were made prior to withdrawal may, in like manner, apply to the project office of the United States Reclamation Service, on Form B for water rights for tracts not containing more than 160 acres of irrigable land, according to the approved plats, unless a smaller limit has been fixed as to lands in private ownership by the Secretary of the Interior.

88. Each application on Form B must contain a statement as to the distance of the applicant's residence from the land for which a water right is desired.

89. If a greater distance than that fixed for the project is shown in any application, the case should be reported to the director through the chief of construction for special consideration upon the facts shown. If the applicant is an actual bona fide resident on the land for which water-right application is made, the clause in parentheses of Form B, regarding residence elsewhere, must be stricken out.

90. The applicant on Form B must state accurately the nature of his interest in the land. If this interest is such that it can not be perfected into a fee simple title at or before the time when the last annual installment for water right is due, the application must be rejected.

91. Form B, used by owners of private land and entrymen whose entries were made prior to the withdrawal of the land within reclamation projects for entering into contracts with the United States for the purchase of a water right, must be signed, sealed, and acknowledged before a duly authorized officer in the manner provided by local law. A space is provided on the blank for evidence of the acknowledgment, which should be in exact conformity to that prescribed for mortgages by the law of the State in which the lands covered by the contract lie. When so executed the original must be filed in the project office of the United States Reclamation Service either in person or by mail, together with four complete copies, and must be accompanied by the amount of the charges for recording the same in the county records. The application must cover all the irrigable land of the applicant in the project. (See pars. 76 and 99.) If the applicant owns more than the limit of irrigable area fixed for land in private ownership, he must make disposition of all the irrigable lands not covered by his application, as indicated in paragraph 76, before the application is accepted. If the application is (a) regular and sufficient in all respects; (b) bears the certificate of the secretary of the local water users' association in cases where such certificate is required; (c) is accompanied by the proper payments required by the provisions of the public notices and orders issued in connection with the project and the recording fees; the project manager will accept the same by filling out the blank provided and attaching his signature and seal and placing a scroll around the word "Seal," whereupon the water-right application becomes a water-right contract.

92. Attention is especially called to sections 3743 to 3747, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes, relative to the deposit and execution of public contracts. The project manager will immediately after execution of the contract execute the oath of disinterestedness required by section 3745, Revised Statutes, before a duly authorized officer on the blank form provided on the last page of the water-right contract on one of the copies. No funds are available for the payment by the Government of any fees in connection with this oath, and the project manager should therefore take such oath before some officer or clerk of the Reclamation Service, who is a notary public, during his office hours, for which service such officer or clerk is precluded from charging or receiving a fee. If it becomes necessary to take this oath before any other authorized officer, the fee due such officer must be paid to him by the water-right applicant, and the project manager is authorized to refuse to accept the water-right application on failure of the applicant to make such payment.

93. Section 3744, Revised Statutes, makes it the duty of a public officer executing a contract on behalf of the United States to file a copy of the same in the returns office of this department as soon as possible and within 30 days after the making of the contract, and the project manager will therefore forward direct to that office the copy of the contract on which he has executed the oath of disinterestedness, as above directed, as soon as possible after the execution of the same. The provision of said section requiring that all papers in relation to each contract shall be attached together by a ribbon and seal and marked by numbers in regular order, according to the number of papers composing the whole return, does not apply to the contracts for the purchase of water rights, because of the fact that only one paper is used.

94. As stated in the instructions for the execution of the blank, the contract must be duly recorded in the records of the county in which the lands are situated, and, therefore, immediately upon execution of the contract the original will be transmitted by the project manager to the proper county officer to be recorded.

95. Upon return of the original copy of the contract to the project manager, bearing certificate at the bottom of the last page executed by the recording officer, showing the recordation of the instrument, the project manager will fill out the same blank on the three copies held in his office, signing the name of the recording officer with the word "signed" in parentheses preceding such name. The original and one copy, when thus completed, will be sent to the director, who will transmit the original to the Auditor of the Treasury Department for the Interior Department, and one of the other copies will be forwarded to the applicant, and the last copy must be retained by the project manager.

96. When application is filed by an assignee of an entryman under the reclamation act, and the assignee proposes to claim credit for any payment made by the assignor, the prior applicant should execute the following form at the bottom of the last page, either written in ink or typewritten:

I, ______ ______, for value received, hereby sell and assign to ______ ______ all my right, title, and interest in and to any credits heretofore paid on water-right application No. ____ for the above-described land, together with all interests possessed by me under said application.

______ ______, Assignor.

______ ______, Witness.

97. Action on cases bearing such assignment will be the same as on other cases, except that the assignment must be permissible under the provisions of existing public notices and departmental regulations and orders. After final proof of reclamation and application for patent under act of August 9, 1912, no water-right application is required of the assignee.

98. In order to avoid discrepancies in areas and resulting payments and the acceptance of applications for tracts not designated as lands for which water can be furnished, the project manager, before accepting water-right applications on any of the forms, must assure himself of the correctness of all allegations in the application so far as can be determined by the records in his office.

99. With reference to water-right applications for land in private ownership, including entries not subject to the reclamation law, the project manager must assure himself, so far as practicable from the information available in his office, that the application includes all the land owned by the applicant within the project and open to application for a water-right, not exceeding the limit of area fixed by the reclamation act and the public notice in pursuance of which the application is presented, and in case of excess holdings that proper action has been taken with reference thereto. (See pars. 76 and 91.)

WATER-RIGHT CHARGES

100. The Secretary of the Interior will at the proper time, as provided in section 4 of the act of June 17, 1902, fix and announce the area of lands which may be embraced in any entry thereafter made or which may be retained in any entry theretofore made under the reclamation law and the charges which shall be made per acre for the irrigable lands embraced in such entries and lands in private ownership, for the building of the works, and for operation and maintenance and prescribe the number and amount and the dates of payment of the annual installments thereof.

101. Under the act of February 13, 1911 (36 Stat. 902), the Secretary is authorized in his discretion to withdraw any public notice issued prior to the passage of that act.

102. If an entry subject to the reclamation law is canceled or relinquished, the payment for water-right charges already made and not assigned in writing to a prospective or succeeding entryman under the provisions of paragraph 109 hereof are forfeited. All water-right charges which remain unpaid are canceled by the relinquishment or cancellation of the entry, except as provided by the specific provisions of public notices applicable to particular projects.

103. In cases where water-right application has been made and the irrigable area is subsequently ascertained to be greater than that stated therein, action should be taken as follows:

(1) For land covered by water-right application reserving a lien to the United States, the water users should execute a supplemental contract of the form given below and the same shall be recorded in the county records at the expense of the United States.

(2) For land covered by water-right application not reserving a lien to the United States, the water user should execute application on the form of water-right application in current use, and the same shall be recorded in the county records at the expense of the United States.

The form of supplemental contract approved is as follows:

Project Manager, United States Reclamation Service.

104. Any person who applies to enter the same land at the time of relinquishment and at the same time files an assignment in writing of the charges theretofore paid will be allowed credit therefor. If the application to enter is made at a later date or is not accompanied by a written assignment of credits, the applicant must pay the water-right charges as if the land had never been previously entered.

105. In case of the sale of all or any part of the irrigable area of a tract of land in private ownership covered by a water-right application which is not recorded in the county records, the vendor will be required to have his transferee make new water-right application for the land transferred. Upon acceptance of such new water-right application the transfer will be duly noted, and in case of transfer of part the water-right charges under the original application of the vendor will be adjusted to the respective tracts. If the vendor's water-right application has been recorded on the county records, the vendee will not be required to make new water-right application.

106. Where payment is tendered for a part only of either an annual installment of water-right construction or building charges or an annual operation and maintenance charge, the same may be accepted if the insufficient tender is, in the opinion of the project manager, caused by misunderstanding as to the amount due and approximates the same.

107. In all cases of insufficient payment accepted in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing paragraph, receipts must issue for the amount paid and the water user shall be immediately notified by registered letter that the payment is insufficient and allowed a period of 30 days to make payment of the balance due to complete the charge on which a part payment has been made. If the balance of either such installments is paid within this period, additional receipt must issue therefor, but if either or both installments remain unpaid for 30 days, report shall be made to the director. In all other cases where insufficient tenders are made they shall be rejected with notice to the water user of the reason for the rejection.

108. When full payment is tendered and, upon examination, is found to be correct, the special fiscal agent will issue receipt therefor.

109. A person who has entered lands under the reclamation law, and against whose entry there is no pending charge of noncompliance with the law or regulations, or whose entry is not subject to cancellation under this act, may relinquish his entry to the United States and in writing assign to a prospective or succeeding entryman any credit he may have for payments already made under this act on account of said entry, and the party taking such assignment may, upon making proper entry of the land at the time of the filing of the relinquishment, if subject to entry, receive full credit for all payments thus assigned to him, but must otherwise comply in every respect with the homestead law and the reclamation law. Under this paragraph credit may be allowed in cases of assignment where the water-right application has been made under the reclamation extension act; and also, in case of new entry under the act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1215). (See departmental instructions, Dec. 20, 1915, 44 L. D. 544.)

110. The transfer of lands in private ownership covered by water-right contract before cancellation of the contract carries with it the burden of water-right charges and credit for the payments made by the prior owner. (See departmental decision, Mar. 20, 1911, in the case of Fleming McLean and Thomas Dolf, 39 L. D. 580.) After any such transfer water will continue to be delivered for the entire irrigable area of the tract transferred and tract retained, at the same place or places as delivery was theretofore made, and no change will be made in the place of delivery except upon compliance with the provisions of paragraphs 113 and 114 regarding the additional expense for laterals, division boxes, surveys, or for other purposes, and for providing rights of way for irrigation or drainage ditches across the portions transferred or retained.

NOTICE OF INSTALLMENTS DUE

111. At least 30 days prior to the date on which any installment of the construction or building charge becomes payable, under the terms of any public notice or order, by any water-right applicant under a project, a notice will be mailed to each such water user at his last known post-office address as shown on the Reclamation Service project records, which notice will state the amount of construction or building charge due at the date of the notice and the amount to become due when the next succeeding installment of the construction or building charge is due. In all cases of water-right application upon which two payments of reclamation charges have become due, under any public notice or order under which such application has been made, and remain unpaid on the day after the second of such payments becomes due, a notice will be sent as soon as practicable and in no case later than the first of the following month. Such notice shall be sent by registered mail to the applicant at his last known address, as above indicated, which notice will state the amount of reclamation charges then due, and that unless, on or before the thirtieth day following that on which the notice is sent, payment be made of the amount due in excess of one full installment the following action will be taken: (a) In case of reclamation homestead entryman, that the entry and the accompanying water-right application will be canceled without further notice, or (b) in cases other than those of reclamation homestead entrymen the case will be reported to the Secretary of the Interior with recommendation for appropriate action by suit to recover the amount due, and also, if such action is deemed advisable, for the cancellation of the water-right application. The rules of practice so far as they are not in conformity herewith are hereby modified. The registry return receipts of each such notice will be preserved and promptly after the expiration of the time allowed in the notice to make payment will be forwarded to the Director of the Reclamation Service with copy of notice sent in each case of delinquency and with report and recommendation relative to cancellation or other action to be taken against the delinquent. In case such a notice is returned unclaimed by the addressee such unclaimed notice should accompany the other papers. In case the registry return receipt is not received, or, being received, has been lost, a new notice must be sent. The director will take appropriate action in each case. If the entry is subject to cancellation he will forward appropriate statement to the Commissioner of the General

Land Office with evidence of service. The bills for operation and maintenance will be similarly rendered with reference to the due date of March 1 of each year and will be handled in the same manner.

CREDITS FOR PAYMENTS ON RELINQUISHMENT

112. A homestead entryman subject to the reclamation law may relinquish part of his farm unit if in the judgment of the Secretary of the Interior it would not jeopardize the interests of the United States in the collection of the charges against the part proposed for relinquishment or otherwise. The portions of the payments theretofore made by him on account of the construction or building charge applicable to the relinquished area will be credited as follows: First, upon the portion of the charges for operation and maintenance then due against the relinquished area, and second, any remainder will be credited upon the construction or building charge against the area retained. In no case will payments theretofore made on account of operation and maintenance charges be so credited. The entryman desiring to make such relinquishment shall submit to the project manager his application therefor. The project manager will transmit such application with his recommendation through proper channels to the Director of the Reclamation Service for approval and submission to the department for authority to amend the farm-unit plat.

113. Where an entryman, whose entry is not subject to the reclamation law, relinquishes part of the land included in his entry, appropriate notation will be made on his water-right application showing such relinquishment, and his charges thereafter due will be reduced accordingly upon presenting to the project manager certificate of the local land office showing the lands relinquished and the lands remaining in his entry. If entry is made for the relinquished portion at the time of filing the relinquishment the new entryman will receive credit for payments made thereon if assignment in writing is filed, as provided in paragraphs 96 and 107 of these regulations. No credit will be allowed if the new entry is not filed at the time of relinquishment.

114. No authorization for allowance of credits as hereinabove provided will be made which will, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Interior, impose any additional expense whatever upon the United States for the construction of laterals and division boxes, or for the making of surveys or for other purposes. Where such relinquishment would involve additional expenses on the part of the United States in order to irrigate either the retained or the relinquished portion of the farm unit the applicant may deposit from time to time, in advance, as required by the project manager, payment of the estimated amount necessary to provide for the proper irrigation of either portion of the farm unit, and, in such case, if the application is not otherwise objectionable, the same will be allowed.

115. Every such relinquishment shall be subject to the following conditions: (a) That the relinquishing entryman and his successsors in title shall permit the entryman then or thereafter entering the relinquished part to use the irrigating and drainage ditches and other irrigation works existing on the retained part at the time of relinquishment, whenever in the opinion of the project manager such use is reasonably necessary for the irrigation and drainage of the relinquished part; and the entryman then or thereafter making entry of the relinquished part shall have right of way over the retained portion for the necessary operation and maintenance of such ditches, drains, and irrigation works; (b) that the entryman then or thereafter entering the relinquished part shall have a right of way over the retained part for the construction, operation, and maintenance of such additional ditches, drains, and other irrigation works as the project manager may from time to time consider reasonably necessary or proper to be constructed upon or through the retained part for the irrigation and drainage of the relinquished part.

DESERT-LAND ENTRIES WITHIN A RECLAMATION PROJECT

116. By section 5 of the act of June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 519), it is provided that any desert-land entryman who has been or may be directly or indirectly hindered or prevented from making improvements on or from reclaiming the lands embraced in his entry, by reason of the fact that such lands have been embraced within the exterior limits of any withdrawal under the reclamation act of June 17, 1902, will be excused during the continuance of such hindrance from complying with the provisions of the desert-land laws.

117. This act applies only to persons who have been, directly or indirectly, delayed or prevented, by the creation of any reclamation project, or by any withdrawal of public lands under the reclamation law, from improving or reclaiming the lands covered by their entries.

118. No entryman will be excused under this act from a compliance with all of the requirements of the desert-land law until he has filed in the local land office for the district in which his lands are situated an affidavit showing in detail all of the facts upon which he claims the right to be excused. This affidavit must show when the hindrance began, the nature, character, and extent of the same, and it must be corroborated by two disinterested persons, who can testify from their own personal knowledge.

119. The register and receiver will at once forward the application to the project manager of the project under which the lands involved are located and request a report and recommendation thereon. Upon the receipt of this report the register and receiver will forward it, together with the applicant's affidavit and their recommendation, to the General Land Office, where it will receive appropriate consideration and be allowed or denied as the circumstances may justify.

120. Inasmuch as entrymen are allowed one year after entry in which to submit the first annual proof of expenditures for the purpose of improving and reclaiming the land entered by them, the privileges of this act are not necessary in connection with annual proofs until the expiration of the years in which such proofs are due. Therefore, if at the time that annual proof is due it can not be made, on account of hindrance or delay occasioned by a withdrawal of the land for the purpose indicated in the act, the applicant will file his affidavit explaining the delay. As a rule, however, annual proofs may be made, notwithstanding the withdrawal of the land, because expenditures for various kinds of improvements are allowed as satisfactory annual proofs. Therefore an extension of time for making annual proof will not be granted unless it is made clearly to appear that the entryman has been delayed or prevented by the withdrawal from making the required improvements; and, unless he has been so hindered or prevented from making the required improvements, no application for extension of time for making final proof will be granted until after all the yearly proofs have been made.

121. An entryman will not need to invoke the privileges of this act in connection with final proof until such final proof is due, and if at that time he is unable to make the final proof of reclamation and cultivation, as required by law, and such inability is due, directly or indirectly, to the withdrawal of the land on account of a reclamation project, the affidavit explaining the hindrance and delay should be filed in order that the entryman may be excused for such failure.

122. When the time for submitting final proof has arrived and the entryman is unable, by reason of the withdrawal of the land, to make such proof, upon proper showing, as indicated herein, he will be excused, and the time during which it is shown that he has been hindered or delayed on account of the withdrawal of the land will not be computed in determining the time within which final proof must be made.

123. If after investigation the irrigation project has been or may be abandoned by the Government, the time for compliance with the law by the entryman will begin to run from the date of notice of such abandonment of the project and of the restoration to the public domain of the lands which had been withdrawn in connection with the project. If, however, the reclamation project is carried to completion by the Government and a water supply has been made available for the land embraced in such desert-land entry, the entryman may comply with all provisions of the reclamation law, and must relinquish or assign all the land embraced in his entry in excess of 160 acres; and upon making final proof and complying with the terms of payment prescribed in said law, he shall be entitled to patent, and final water-right certificate containing lien as provided for by the act of August 9, 1912, and act of August 26, 1912.

124. Under the act of July 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 200), desert-land entries covering lands within the exterior limits of a Government reclamation project may be assigned in whole or in part, even though water-right application has been filed for the land in connection with the Government reclamation project, or application for an extension of time in which to submit proof on the entry has been submitted under the act of June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 519), requiring reduction of the area of the entry to 160 acres.

125. Where it is desired to assign part of a desert-land entry which has been designated as a farm unit, application for the amendment of the farm-unit plat should be filed with the project manager, as in the case of assignments of homestead entries. (See pars. 37 to 39.) The same disposition of amendatory diagrams will be made and the same procedure followed as provided for assignments of homestead entries.

126. Assignments of desert-land entries made and filed in accordance with these regulations must be noted on the local land-office records and at once forwarded to the General Land Office for immediate consideration under paragraphs 14 to 16, inclusive, of the circular approved September 30, 1910,[b] and reprinted with additions to March 23, 1914, entitled "Statutes and Regulations Governing Entries and Proof Under the Desert-Land Laws." Assignments filed in local land offices prior to July 24, 1912, will be recognized and accepted, if found to be regular, without compliance with these regulations. All assignments filed on or after the date of the passage of the act must comply herewith.

127. Special attention is called to the fact that nothing contained in the act of June 27, 1906, shall be construed to mean that a desert-land entryman who owns a water right and reclaims the land embraced in his entry must accept the conditions of the reclamation law, but he may proceed independently of the Government's plan of irrigation and acquire title to the land embraced in his desert-land entry by means of his own system of irrigation.

128. Desert-land entrymen within exterior boundaries of a reclamation project who expect to secure water from the Government must relinquish or assign all of the lands embraced in their entries in excess of 160 acres whenever they are required to do so through the local land office, and must reclaim one-half of the irrigable area covered by their water right in the same manner as private owners of land irrigated under a reclamation project.

TOWN-SITE SUBDIVISIONS

129. Where water-right application has been made and accepted for land in private ownership, no new water-right application by any purchaser of part of the irrigable area of such private land will be accepted for land so purchased, if the same is subdivided into lots of such form and area as to indicate a use thereof for town-site rather than for agricultural or horticultural purposes. In such case no notation shall be made of such transfer on the original water-right application, but water will be furnished such land on the original application, and the water-right charges collected thereunder as if no such sale or sales had been made.

130. Water for land subdivided into such form and areas as to indicate a use thereof for town-site rather than for agricultural or horticultural purposes may be procured for the entire areas so subdivided by contract with the Reclamation Service through the proper representatives of the landowners, as authorized by the Secretary of the Interior under the acts of April 16 and June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 116 and 519).

131. Where separate water-right applications, otherwise valid, have been accepted for lands subdivided into such form and areas as indicate a use thereof for town-site rather than for agricultural and horticultural purposes, such water-right applications and the corresponding subscriptions to the stock of the water users' association may be surrendered and canceled, and water supplied to such lands under the provisions of the said acts of April 16 and June 27, 1906, upon such terms and conditions as will return to the "reclamation fund" an amount not less than the charges due under such water-right applications. Similar adjustment by cancellation and new contract may be made where water-right application has been accepted and the land has been subsequently subdivided into tracts of form and area as above.

TOWN SITES IN RECLAMATION PROJECTS

(Paragraphs 132 to 147 under this title omitted. For governing regulations, see Circular No. 1122, p. 1532.)

APPEALS

148. Appeal may be taken from the action of the project manager to the director, and ultimately to the Secretary of the Interior, as follows:

149. All cases of error or applications for relief should be promptly called to the attention of the project manager by the party affected. If the project manager decides to deny the request or application, he will serve upon the party aggrieved, personally or by registered mail, notice of his decision. The notice will state the facts, the reason for denying the relief asked, and also that the party aggrieved may appeal to the director within 30 days after receipt of the notice by filing with the project manager, addressed to the director, such appeal.

150. The appeal may consist of a written statement addressed to the director, setting out clearly and definitely the ground of complaint. The project manager will note thereon the date of its receipt in his office and promptly forward the same, with full report, to the director through the chief of construction, who will attach his recommendation.

151. Upon receipt of the papers in the director's office the matter will be reviewed and decision rendered, stating the reasons therefor and that appeal therefrom may be taken as in the next paragraph provided. Notice and copy of this decision will be served by the project manager upon the party aggrieved personally or by registered mail sent to the last-known address of such party.

152. The party aggrieved desiring to appeal from the director's decision will file with the project manager, within 60 days from receipt of notice of director's decision, written statement of appeal, setting out the grounds thereof, addressed to the Secretary of the Interior. In case of appeal from the director's ruling, the matter will be submitted to the Secretary for consideration and appropriate action.

153. In case of service of notice of decision by registered mail, such notice will be mailed to the last known post-office address as shown in the record, and evidence of service will consist of the registry return card on which such letter was delivered, or, in case of inability of postal authorities to make delivery, of the returned unclaimed letter. When service is personal, the party making the service will make affidavit to that fact, stating time and place of service, or secure written acknowledgment of the person served, and file the same with the project manager.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 379

RECLAMATION HOMESTEAD ENTRIES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 28, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is called to the fact that the act of June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 519), modifying the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), while permitting the further subdivision of surveyed lands, vests in the officials of the United States Reclamation Service no authority for the execution of original public-land surveys, and entries under the homestead laws of the United States, upon lands embraced within reclamation projects, are strictly referable to the public-land surveys executed by the duly authorized agents of the General Land Office, and to such surveys only, excepting such minor subdivisional surveys, authorized by the act of June 27, 1906, supra, as shall have been examined and accepted by the General Land Office as conformable to the surveying regulations and practice applicable in such cases.

Entries based upon such minor subdivisional surveys as those just mentioned will of course be described with reference to the plat thereof as approved by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, but entries in sections where no such subdivision has been made, must bear the description of the legal subdivision of the current official township plat, supplemented, for purposes of identification only, by the corresponding description of the tract as it appears upon the farm-unit diagram prepared by the Reclamation Service. The practice of admitting entries based merely upon a farm-unit diagram, unrelated to the existing plat of the official township survey, can not be permitted. Such action has in the past resulted in the passage to final certificates of entries, the description of which can not be identified upon the official plat governing the disposal of the public lands, and accordingly, the tract being officially unsurveyed is not subject to entry under the homestead laws.

In the future where applications to make entry are filed in your office which do not contain the description of the legal subdivision desired as shown by the current official township plat, or by a plat of subdivisional survey approved by this office under the provisions of the act of June 27, 1906, supra, you will reject all such applications subject to the right of appeal to this office as provided for in the Rules of Practice.

A strict compliance with the above will be required of you, and you will acknowledge receipt hereof.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

[Reported, 44 L. D. 12]

REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE FLATHEAD IRRIGATION PROJECT

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 10, 1915.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1. The Flathead irrigation project is being constructed within the Flathead Indian Reservation under the provisions of the act of April 23, 1904 (33 Stat. 302), as amended by section 15 of the act of May 29, 1908 (35 Stat. 448). Only those lands designated as farm units on farm-unit plats approved by the Secretary of the Interior or under his specific authority and those lands irrigable from the project embraced in Indian allotments are within the Flathead irrigation project. The designation of any tract or tracts of land as a farm unit or farm units includes those lands in the Flathead project, and the cancellation of any farm unit or farm units eliminates the lands formerly designated as such farm unit or farm units from the project.

2. An entryman for land within the Flathead project, in addition to complying with the ordinary provisions of the homestead laws applicable to his entry, must pay the appraised Indian price of the land. One-third of the appraised value of the land must be paid when entry is made and two-fifteenths of the appraised value annually thereafter for five years, beginning one year after the date of filing, without interest.

3. No person can enter more than one farm unit, regardless of its acreage, nor can he enter a part of a farm unit, nor parts of two or more farm units, nor a farm unit and adjacent lands not designated as a farm unit, and no person can enter a farm unit who is not entitled to enter 160 acres under the homestead laws.

4. Persons who enter farm units must pay that part of the cost of building, operating, and maintaining the irrigation works which is assessed against their tracts, in addition to the Indian price or appraised value of the lands. The building, operation, and maintenance charges against any particular unit or allotment will be based on the number of acres in it which can be irrigated and not on the entire area of the unit, as there will be no building, operation, or maintenance charges against any land in any unit which can not be irrigated. The entire Indian price must be paid for each acre in the units, regardless of the area of them which can be irrigated.

5. These entries are subject to the commutation provisions of the homestead law. The irrigable areas are announced on farm-unit plats, and public notice, stating the amount of the charges and other details concerning payment, is issued by the Secretary of the Interior. This public notice can not be issued until the completion of the work, so that at least one unit of the project may be ready for regular distribution of water under the terms of the law. The time when this can be accomplished will depend upon the appropriations made from year to year by Congress. Until this public notice is issued it will be impossible, in most respects, to give any definite information as to any particular tract or as to the details intended to be covered by such notice; but registers and receivers will, upon inquiry, give all information available relative to the public lands included in the project and will keep the project manager of the Reclamation Service fully informed, by correspondence, as to conditions affecting the same.

ASSIGNMENTS

6. Under the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), persons who have made or may make homestead entries subject to the provisions of the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), may assign their entries in their entirety, or in part, at any time from and after filing with the Commissioner of the General Land Office of satisfactory proof of the residence, improvements, and cultivation required by the ordinary provisions of the homestead law. The act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510), extends the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910, supra, to the Flathead project. Assignment of part of an entry within the Flathead project may be made only after the subdivision of the farm units, as hereinafter provided. (See pars. 7 to 11.)

7. Where it is desired to assign a part of a farm unit, an application for the amendment, and subdivision, of such unit should be filed with the project manager. The assignment, with accompanying affidavits of the assignor and assignee, must also be filed with the project manager for his consideration.

8. If a survey shall be found necessary to determine the boundaries of the subdivision of any such farm unit, or the division of the irrigable area, a deposit equal to the estimated cost of such survey must be made with the special fiscal agent, Reclamation Service, on the project by or on behalf of the parties concerned. Any excess over the actual cost will be returned to the depositor or depositors after completion of the survey, and they will also be required to make good any deficiency in their deposit.

9. When the plats describing the amended farm units are approved by the project manager, he will forward copy of the amendatory plat, in duplicate, together with the assignment and accompanying affidavits, to the local land office, where the amendatory plat will be treated as an official amendment of the farm-unit plat, and one copy will be forwarded by the local land officers to the General Land Office, together with the assignment and accompanying affidavits. A copy of the amendatory plat should also be at once forwarded by the project manager to the director's office at Washington, D. C., to be formally approved in the usual manner by authority of the Secretary.

10. No assignment of a farm unit or any part thereof shall be accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or recognized as valid for any purpose, until after the filing in the local land office of the affidavits and certificates required by paragraph 11.

11. Assignments under this act are expressly made subject to the limitations, charges, terms, and conditions of the act of April 23, 1904 (33 Stat. 302), as amended by section 15 of the act of May 29, 1908 (35 Stat. 448), and acts supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, and inasmuch as the law limits the right of entry to one farm unit, and forbids the holding of more than one farm unit prior to payment of all building and betterment charges, each assignor must present a showing, in the form of an affidavit, to the effect that the assignment is an absolute sale, divesting him of all interest in the premises assigned, and each assignee must present a showing, in the form of an affidavit, that he does not own or hold, and is not claiming, any other farm unit or entry under the act of April 23, 1904 (33 Stat. 302), and the acts supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, upon which all installments of building and betterment charges have not been paid in full, and has no existing water-right applications covering an area of land which, added to that taken by assignment, will exceed 160 acres, or the maximum limit of area fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, and a further showing, in the form of a certificate of the project manager, that water-right application therefor is not yet receivable; or that the assignee has filed in the project office for acceptance a water-right application in due form for the land embraced in the assignment. A married woman whose husband is claiming any farm unit or entry upon which all installments of building and betterment charges have not been paid will not be allowed to take an assignment under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), unless such assignment is purchased with her own money and for her own use and benefit. These affidavits may be sworn to before any officer authorized to administer oaths and having a seal, and should be in the following form, inserting the proper names and descriptions in the places indicated:

AFFIDAVIT OF ASSIGNOR

That ______, of ______, being duly sworn, deposes and says that his or her assignment under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510), extending to the Flathead project the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), of farm unit ____, or the ______ of section ____, township ____, range ____, ____ meridian, is a bona fide and absolute sale of all his or her interest in and to the land and rights therein described, and that the assignee takes and holds same, as far as affiant is concerned, absolutely and free from any claim, interest, or demand on the part of the affiant other than (if mortgaged, so state) ______.

AFFIDAVIT OF ASSIGNEE

That ______, of ______, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he or she is the assignee of ______, under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510), extending to the Flathead project the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), for farm unit ____, or the ____, section ____, township ____, range ____, ____ meridian, and that he or she is a duly qualified assignee for the reason that he or she does not own or hold and is not claiming any other farm unit or entry under the act of April 23, 1904 (33 Stat. 302), as amended by the act of May 29, 1908 (35 Stat. 448), or acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, upon which payment in full of all installments of building and betterment charges has not been made, and that the water right for the lands hereinabove described, together with all water rights or lands held by him or her, do not exceed 160 acres of irrigable land, and that this assignment is accepted subject to any unsatisfied mortgage against the lands or any part thereof duly filed and recorded in the local land office; (a) that he or she is not now holding or claiming any other farm unit or entry upon which all installments of building and betterment charges have not been paid; or (in the event the assignee is a married woman, in which case it should be so stated) that this assignment was purchased with her own money and for her own use and benefit; and that he or she has no agreement or understanding by which any interest therein will inure to the benefit of another. Affiant further says that he or she has acquired the entire interest of the assignor in the tract assigned and does not hold same as trustee or in any other manner for or on behalf of the assignor. (a) Strike out here the part not applicable.

12. Assignments made and filed in accordance with these regulations must be noted on the local land office record and at once forwarded to the General Land Office for immediate consideration, and, if approved, the assignees in each case will, at the proper time, make payment of the water-right charges and submit proof of reclamation as would the original entryman, and, after proof of full compliance with the law, may receive a patent for the land.

MORTGAGES

13. Mortgagees of lands embraced in homestead entries within the Flathead project may file in the local land office for the district in which the land is located a notice of such mortgage interest, and shall thereupon become entitled to receive and be given the same notice of any contest or other proceedings thereafter had affecting the entry as is required to be given the entryman in connection with such proceedings, and a like notice of mortgage interest may be filed with the project manager in case of any lands, whether or not water-right application has been filed, including homestead entries, and lands in private ownership; and thereupon the mortgagee shall receive copies of all notices of default in payment of the water-right charges levied by the Secretary of the Interior against such lands, and shall be permitted to make payment of the amount so in default within 60 days from the date of such notice. Any payment so made shall be credited on the charges levied by the Secretary of the Interior against such lands.

14. Every such notice of mortgage interest, filed as provided in preceding paragraph, must be forthwith noted upon the records of the project manager, and of the local land office, and be promptly reported to the Director of the Reclamation Service, and to the General Land Office, where like notation will be made. Relinquishment of a homestead entry, or part thereof, within the project, upon which final proof has been submitted, where the records show the land to have been mortgaged, will not be accepted or noted, unless the mortgagee joins therein; nor will an assignment of such an entry, or part thereof, under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510), extending to the Flathead project the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), be recognized or permitted unless the assignment specifically refers to such mortgage and is made and accepted subject thereto.

15. If such mortgagee buys in the land at foreclosure sale, no steps will be taken to cancel the water-right application, on account of failure of the applicant to maintain residence upon or in the neighborhood of the land, until one year after the end of the statutory period of redemption, if there be such statutory period; if not, until one year after the foreclosure sale; nor on account of the holdings by the same mortgagee of lands in excess of 160 acres or of the limit per single ownership of private lands as fixed by the Secretary of the Interior for which a water right may be purchased until two years after such foreclosure purchase, provided that all charges in connection with the water-right application that may be due at the time of foreclosure sale and all such charges that may become due during the period when the land is held under the terms hereof shall be promptly paid by or on behalf of the mortgagee; and also that within such period of one year an acceptable water-right application for such land be filed by a qualified person, who, upon submitting satisfactory evidence of transfer of title, shall receive a credit equal to all payments theretofore made on account of the water-right charges for said land. To secure the benefits of this order the mortgagee purchasing land at foreclosure sale hereunder must give notice thereof to the register of the local land office and to the engineer in charge of the project within 60 days thereafter.

CANCELLATION

16. All homestead entrymen within the Flathead project must, in addition to paying the appraised value of the land and water-right charges, reclaim at least one-half of the total irrigable area in their entries for agricultural purposes. Failure to make any two payments of the appraised price when due, or to reclaim the land as above indicated, or any failure to comply with the requirements of the homestead law and the acts authorizing the construction of the Flathead project, as to residence, cultivation, improvement, and payments, will render the entry subject to cancellation, and the money paid subject to forfeiture, whether water-right application has been made or not. Failure to make any two payments of the installments of water-right charges when due render such entries subject to cancellation; and upon receipt of a statement from the Director of the Reclamation Service that two of such payments remain due and unpaid, after proper service of notice upon the entryman and upon the mortgagee, if any such there be of record, the date and manner of service being stated, the entry will, without further notice, be canceled by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

WIDOWS AND HEIRS OF ENTRYMEN

17. The widows, heirs, or devisees of persons who make entries within the Flathead project will not be required both to reside upon and cultivate the lands covered by the entry of the persons from whom they inherit, but they must reclaim at least one-half of the total irrigable area of the entry for agricultural purposes, as required by the law, and make payment of all unpaid charges when due.

18. Upon the death of a homesteader having an entry within the project, leaving no widow and only minor heirs, his right may, under section 2292, Revised Statutes, be sold for the benefit of such heirs. (See heirs of Frederick C. De Long, 36 L. D. 332.) The purchaser and his assignees take subject to the payment of the water-right charges authorized by law and the regulations thereunder and must reclaim one-half the irrigable area, as required by said law, but are not required otherwise to comply with the homestead law.

FINAL AND COMMUTATION PROOFS, CERTIFICATES, AND PATENTS

19. Registers and receivers are directed to furnish the chief of field division with copies of application to make proof on all entries, noting on each application the fact that the land is within the project. As soon as such notice is received by the chief of field division, he will refer the same to the project manager, who will make report by indorsement on the notice, as to whether the lands are needed for construction purposes, and as to any other matters that he may be instructed to report on by special instructions. This notice should be returned by the project manager to the chief of field division in sufficient time to enable that officer to return the same to the local land office prior to the date fixed for proof.

20. In all cases where the project manager reports that the lands are needed for construction purposes the register and receiver will forward the proof, if found to be regular, to the General Land Office without issuance of final certificate. In all cases, whether or not the lands are needed for construction purposes, the register and receiver will forward the proof, if found to be regular, to the General Land Office, without issuance of final certificate, unless there has been submitted a final affidavit, duly corroborated by two witnesses and approved by the project manager, showing the payment of all the charges, including the water-right charges, due in connection therewith to date, and the reclamation for agricultural purposes of at least one-half of the irrigable area of the entry, as provided in paragraph 26 hereof. If such affidavit showing reclamation and payment of charges is filed, and the proof of compliance with the ordinary provisions of the homestead law as to residence, improvements, and cultivation is found, on examination by the local land officers, to be sufficient, they will issue final certificate on the entry as hereinafter provided.

21. If any proof offered under this law be irregular or insufficient the register and receiver will reject it and allow the entryman the usual right of appeal, and if the General Land Office finds any proof forwarded to be insufficient or defective in any respect, whether or not final certificate has issued on the same, the proof or certificate may be held for rejection or cancellation and the entryman will be notified of that fact, or he may be given an opportunity to cure the defect or to present acceptable proof.

22. Soldiers and sailors of the War of the Rebellion, the Spanish-American War, or the Philippine insurrection, and their widows and minor orphan children who are entitled to claim credit for the period of the soldiers' or sailors' service under the homestead laws will be allowed to claim credit in connection with entries within the Flathead project, but will not be entitled to receive final certificate or patent until the requirements as to reclamation and payment of the water-right charges have been met.

23. Entrymen who have resided on, cultivated, and improved their lands for the time required by the homestead law, and have submitted proof which has been found satisfactory thereunder by the General Land Office, but who are unable to furnish proof of reclamation because water has not been furnished, will be excused from further residence on their lands and will be given a notice reciting that further residence is not required, but that final certificate and patent will not issue until proof of reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area of the entry and payment of all charges due under public notices and orders issued in pursuance of the law.

24. Upon the submission of proof on entries within the Flathead project, registers and receivers will accept only the payments of Indian charges and the testimony fees for "reducing testimony to writing and examining and approving testimony," and will not accept final commissions payable on such entries until proof is received of compliance with the requirements of the law as to reclamation and payment of the charges which have become due.

25. Entrymen, in making proof of compliance with the law as to reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area and payment of charges due, must submit an affidavit, duly corroborated by two witnesses, and sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths and having a seal, in duplicate, to the project manager showing those facts. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the project manager to verify the statement as to payment and also make such examination of the land as will enable him to determine whether reclamation as required by law and the regulations has been made. If he finds that the statement as to payment be correct, he will so certify, which certificate will also show the date on which the next payment is due; but if he finds that all payments have not been made as required he will advise the entryman thereof, requiring him to pay the amounts found to be unpaid and due, with a right of appeal in the entryman from such requirement to the Director of the Reclamation Service, and ultimately to the Secretary of the Interior. Should he find that reclamation has been accomplished he will so certify, but if he finds that reclamation has not been accomplished as required he will forward the proofs to the register and receiver of the land district in which the land is situated, with his report or findings thereon, and such officers will thereupon in turn transmit the showing to the General Land Office for its action. If the proof be rejected by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, appeal will lie to the Secretary of the Interior as in other cases provided, it being the purpose to issue final certificate upon any such entry only after a final determination that all water-right charges due on account thereof have been paid and that reclamation has been accomplished as required by law. Where prior to issuance of public notice water has been furnished to entrymen on a water-rental basis, and by means thereof reclamation sufficient to obtain patent under the act of August 9, 1912, has been accomplished and satisfactory proof made, water-right applications may be received from such entrymen desiring to obtain patent under that act upon the form of application approved by the department, modified so as to refer to the irrigable acreage and the charge per acre as thereafter announced by the Secretary.

26. To comply with the provisions of the law requiring the reclamation of one-half the irrigable area of an entry within the Flathead project, the land must have been cleared of brush, trees, and other incumbrances, provided with sufficient laterals for its effective irrigation, graded and otherwise put in proper condition for irrigation and crop growth, planted, watered, and cultivated, and during at least two years next preceding the date of approval by the project manager of proof of reclamation, except as prevented by hailstorm or flooding, a satisfactory crop must be grown thereon. A satisfactory crop during any year shall be any one of the following: (a) A crop of annuals producing a yield of at least one-half of the average yield on similar land under similar conditions on the project for the year in which it is grown; (b) a substantial stand of alfalfa, clover, or of other perennial grass substantially equal in value to alfalfa or clover, or, (c) a season's growth of orchard trees, or vines, of which 75 per cent shall be in a thrifty condition.

27. Upon receipt of proof of reclamation and payment of water-right charges as provided in the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), extended to the Flathead project by the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510), if proof of compliance with the homestead law has been previously submitted, and has been accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, or if such proof is submitted at the time of the receipt of proof of reclamation and payment of charges, and is found to be sufficient as to residence, improvement, and cultivation upon examination by the local land officers, the register and receiver will issue final certificate on the entry, proceeding in the usual manner, and forward the same with the proof of reclamation and payments to the General Land Office. The final certificate so issued must be indorsed by the local land officers across the face of each certificate when issued as follows: " Subject to lien, under act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), as extended to the Flathead project by the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 510)." Upon receipt of such case in the General Land Office, if found to be regular, it will be approved for patent under said acts, and patent issued reserving the lien as provided in the act of August 9, 1912.

28. The Director of the Reclamation Service will, upon the full payment of all building and betterment charges by any water user, issue certificate of the full payment of such charges releasing the lien therefor reserved in the patent under the act of August 9, 1912.

PATENTS ON RECLAMATION ENTRIES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

Washington, March 17, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress of February 15, 1917 (39 Stat. 920), which amends the proviso to section 1 of the act of August 9, 1912 (37 Stat. 265), and reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the proviso to section one of the Act of August ninth, nineteen hundred and twelve (Thirty-seventh Statutes, page two hundred and sixty-five), entitled "An Act providing for patents on reclamation entries, and for other purposes," be amended to read as follows: "Provided, That no such patent or final water-right certificate shall issue until after the payment of all sums due the United States on account of such land or water right at the time of the submission of proof entitling the homestead or desert-land entryman to such patent or the purchaser to such final water-right certificate."

Under the provisions of this act patents may issue on reclamation entries where all water-right charges due at the time the entryman submits proof of reclamation of one-half of the irrigable area of the land embraced in his entry have been paid, regardless of the fact that other water-right charges may accrue and be unpaid prior to the issuance of patent.

Washington, April 8, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In order to avoid any misunderstanding on the part of entrymen as to the meaning of final certificates issued on reclamation entries, you will hereafter indorse across the face of each such final certificate a statement to the effect that it does not cover payment of water-right charges and that the patent to be issued on it will reserve to the United States a lien for the payment of such charges. The indorsement shall be made both on the original and duplicate.

Rubber stamps have been ordered for the purpose, and as soon as they are received each register who will have use for it will be furnished with one. No requisition will be necessary.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Circular No. 645

CASTLE PEAK IRRIGATION PROJECT, UTAH—INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ACT OF FEBRUARY 28, 1919 (40 STAT. 1210)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 6, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, Salt Lake City and Vernal, Utah.

Sirs: Your attention is directed to the act of February 28, 1919 (40 Stat. 1210), which reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any qualified entryman who has heretofore made bona fide entry upon land subsequently withdrawn under the provisions of the reclamation act of June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two (Thirty-second Statutes, page three hundred and eighty-eight), for the Castle Peak irrigation project, in Utah, upon filing an application to have his entry made subject to all the charges, terms, conditions, provisions and limitations of the reclamation act, together with a satisfactory showing of full compliance with the homestead laws under which such entry was made to the date of such application, may be granted leave of absence from the land until the Secretary of the Interior announces the availability of a water supply for the irrigation of the land, or until the lands embraced in his entry shall be restored to the public domain: Provided, That the period of actual absence under this act shall not be deducted from the full time of residence required by law.

This act applies to any qualified entryman who, prior to the passage thereof, made a bona fide homestead entry upon public land which subsequent to date of such entry has been withdrawn under the provisions of the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), in connection with the Castle Peak irrigation project, Utah.

Any such entryman desiring to avail himself of the benefits of said act should file in the proper local land office an application asking to have his entry made subject to all the charges, terms, conditions, provisions, and limitations of the reclamation act and requesting leave of absence in accordance with the act, if he desires such leave.

Such application must be sworn to by the applicant and corroborated by two witnesses in the land district or county within which the entered lands are located before an officer authorized to administer oaths and having an impression seal. The application should contain the serial number and description of the entry and show the date of establishment of residence on the land, date and duration of all absences therefrom, area of land cultivated each year since date of entry, and the character, extent, and value of all improvements placed on the land, to the end that it may be ascertained whether the entryman has fully complied with the homestead laws under which his entry was made to the date of such application.

Registers and receivers will examine all such applications and are authorized to suspend them with notice to cure defects within 30 days, or to reject them, subject to the usual right of appeal to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. If the showing made is found satisfactory, the register and receiver will grant the entryman leave of absence from the land until the Secretary of the Interior announces the availability of a water supply for the irrigation thereof or until the lands embraced in the entry shall be restored to the public domain.

These applications are to be forwarded with the regular monthly returns.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 700

AMENDING PARAGRAPH 74 OF THE GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR APPROVED MAY 18, 1916

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 7, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: You are hereby advised that on May 20, 1920, the Secretary of the Interior amended paragraph 74 of the General Reclamation Circular to read as follows:

> Notice of all action in the local land office or in the General Land Office regarding any entry for which water right application has been made, or may be made, whether subject to the reclamation law or not, shall be given immediately by the register and receiver to the project manager by the forwarding of copy of decision in the case. The project manager shall advise the register and receiver of all action regarding any water right application or contract by the Reclamation Service affecting the status or validity of the homestead or desert land entry covering the land, Among the several actions of which the register and receiver are especially directed to notify the project manager, are:
> (a) Allowance of entries.
> (b) Conformation of entries to farm units.
> (c) Cancellation of entries.
> (d) Applications for reinstatement of entries.
> (e) Acceptance of final proof.
> (f) Issuance of final certificate.
> (g) Issuance of patent.
> (h) Acceptance or rejection of assignments under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592).
> (i) Contest against entries, granting leave of absence, death or disability of entryman, or any other actions materially affecting the entry, or affecting land under reclamation withdrawal.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 716

PARAGRAPHS 41 AND 76, GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR, AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 11, 1920.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: You are hereby advised that, on July 1, 1920, the Secretary of the Interior amended paragraph 41 of the General Reclamation

Circular, approved May 18, 1916 (45 L. D. 385–445), to read as follows:

41. Assignments under this act are expressly made "subject to the limitations, charges, terms, and conditions of the reclamation act," and inasmuch as the law limits the right of entry to one farm unit, and forbids the holding of more than one farm unit prior to payment of all construction or building and betterment charges, each assignor must present a showing in the form of an affidavit to the effect that the assignment is an absolute sale, divesting him of all interest in the premises assigned, and each assignee must present a showing in the form of an affidavit that he does not own or hold and is not claiming any other farm unit or entry under the reclamation law or a tract of private land receiving water from a federal reclamation project upon which all installments of construction or building and betterment charges have not been paid in full. If the assignee is a woman, it must be shown whether she is married or single, and if a married woman it must be shown that the assignment is purchased with her own separate money, in which her husband has no interest or claim. (39 L. D. 504, and Sadie A. Hawley, 43 L. D. 364.) These affidavits must be accompanied by evidence of the conveyance of the land, as indicated in paragraph 42, and a further showing in the form of a certificate of the project manager that water-right application therefor is not yet receivable, or that the assignee has filed in the project office for acceptance a water-right application in due form for the land embraced in the assignment. The affidavits and certificates above described, should be in the following form, inserting the proper names, descriptions, etc., in the places indicated:

You are further instructed that on July 1 and July 24, 1920, the Secretary of the Interior amended paragraph 76 of said circular to read as follows:

76. Lands which have been patented or which were entered before the reclamation withdrawal may obtain the benefit of the reclamation law. However, the landowner must be an actual bona fide resident on the land or occupant thereof residing in the neighborhood at the time of making water-right application. The Secretary of the Interior has fixed a limit of residence in the neighborhood at a maximum of 50 miles. This limit of distance may be varied, depending on local conditions. After water-right application has been made and accepted (which constitutes a water-right contract), the applicant is not required to continue his residence on the land or in the neighborhood. A landowner may, however, hold rights to the use of water for more than one tract of patented land in the prescribed neighborhood at one time, provided that the aggregate area of such tracts upon which the construction charge has not been fully paid does not exceed the maximum limit established by the Secretary of the Interior nor the limit of 160 acres fixed by the reclamation law, on which water will be furnished. The Secretary has decided that the area which may be held by any one landowner after the construction charges have been fully paid may exceed 160 acres. (43 L. D. 339–341.) Water will not be furnished on a tract of patented land and a tract of unpatented land in the same ownership unless the water charges have been paid in full on one of the tracts. In other words, water will not be furnished on a tract of private land, regardless of the area, and a tract of unpatented land in the same ownership at the same time unless all water charges on one of the tracts have been paid in full. A landowner who has made contract for the use of water in connection with 160 acres of irrigable land and sold the same, together with the water right, can make other and successive contracts for other irrigable lands owned or acquired by him. Holders of more than 160 acres of irrigable land, or more than the limit of area per single ownership of private land as fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, for which water may be purchased within the reclamation project, if such a limit has been fixed, must sell or dispose of all in excess of that area before water-right application will be accepted from such holders. (See pars 91 and 99.) If the holder of a greater area desires, he can subscribe for stock in the local water users' association, (if there be one), for his entire holding, executing a trust deed, giving the association power to ultimately sell the excess area to actual settlers who are qualified to comply with the reclamation law, unless the land has been sold by the owner when the Government is ready to furnish water thereon, or provide for the disposal of such excess holdings in some manner approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Holders of land in private ownership who have made and had accepted water-right application for their holdings may receive water for lands in excess of the area hereinabove stated, in case such excess lands have had water-right application made and accepted therefor, and have been acquired by descent, will, or by foreclosure of any lien; in which case said excess lands may be held for two years and no longer after their acquisition, without in any manner militating against the right of the holder to be furnished water under the reclamation law.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

AMENDING SECTION 23 AND REVOKING SECTION 24 OF THE GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR APPROVED MAY 18, 1916

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 16, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: You are hereby advised that the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, on April 21, 1921, approved an order as follows:

In view of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 835), as amended by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686), section 24 of regulations approved May 18, 1916 (45 L. D. 385–390), is inoperative, and is hereby revoked. This action necessitates a slight change in the preceding section. Accordingly, section 23 of said regulations is hereby amended to read as follows:

> A person who has made homestead entry for any area within a reclamation project can not make an additional homestead entry. One who has made homestead entry for less than 160 acres outside of a reclamation project is disqualified from making an additional entry within a reclamation project, as every entry within a project is either made for or is subject to conformation to a farm unit, which is the equivalent of a homestead entry of 160 acres of land outside of a reclamation project. Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 759

AMENDING GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR OF MAY 18, 1916, AND MODIFYING DEPARTMENTAL DECISION IN THE CASE OF JOHN J. MANEY (35 L. D. 250)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washingon, June 18, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: You are hereby advised that, in view of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the cases of Payne v. Central Pacific Railway Company, decided February 28, 1921, and Payne v. New Mexico, decided March 7, 1921, the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, by order approved May 27, 1921, revoked paragraph 15 of the General Reclamation Circular dated May 18, 1916, and amended paragraphs 13, 14, and 16 of said circular, as hereinafter set forth. Said order also modified the decision in the case of John J. Maney (35 L. D. 250), in so far as said decision is in conflict with the action taken in this order.

13. After lands have been withdrawn under the first form they can not be entered, selected, or located in any manner so long as they remain so withdrawn, and all applications for such entries, selections, or locations presented after the date of such withdrawal should be rejected and denied. Any withdrawal otherwise valid shall not be affected by failure to note same on tract book or otherwise follow usual procedure. (42 L. D. 318.) Lands can not be examined at the instance of individuals prior to the completion of construction to determine whether particular lands will be irrigable. (42 L. D. 8.)

14. If any lands embraced in any unapproved or uncertified selection are needed in the construction and maintenance of any irrigation works (other than for right of way for ditches or canals reserved under act of August 30, 1890, 26 Stat. 391) under the reclamation law, payment therefor will be made upon agreement of the owner with the representative of the Government as to the value of the land and the improvements thereon. Where the owner of the land and the representative of the Government fail to agree as to the amount to be paid therefor, the same shall be acquired by condemnation proceedings under judicial process, as provided by section 7 of the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388).

15. (Revoked.)

16. Lands withdrawn under the second form and becoming subject to entry in the manner provided by section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914, can be entered only under the homestead laws and subject to the provisions, limitations, charges, terms, and conditions of the reclamation law, and all applications to make selections, locations, or entries of any other kind on such lands should be rejected, except that where settlement rights were acquired prior to the withdrawal and have been diligently prosecuted and the homestead law complied with, the settler will be entitled to make and complete his entry subject to all the charges, terms, conditions, limitations, and provisions of the reclamation law. (See Sarah E. Allen, 44 L. D. 331.) No person will be permitted to gain or exercise any right whatever under any settlement or occupation begun after withdrawal of the land from settlement and entry until the land becomes subject to settlement and entry under the provisions of the acts of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 835), February 18, 1911 (36 Stat. 917), and section 10 of the act of August 13, 1914 (38 Stat. 686), or is restored to the public domain.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

RULE GOVERNING THE APPLICATION OF THE PROVISO TO SECTION 7, ACT OF MARCH 3, 1891, WITH RESPECT TO RECLAMATION HOMESTEAD ENTRIES

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
Washington, May 26, 1924.

Finney, First Assistant Secretary:

The department has considered your [Commissioner of the General Land Office] letter of April 29 last, requesting instructions as to whether the proviso to section 7 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), is applicable to cases in which final commissions were paid at the date of proof of compliance with the ordinary requirements of the homestead law on entries made subject to the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388).

The purpose of the said proviso was to relieve a congestion of suspended entries in the General Land Office, and to avoid such congestion in the future. It was intended to operate upon all the cases of the classes named therein wherein the entryman had done all the formal acts to and including the submission of final proof and final payments, regardless of the sufficiency of such proof, provided no action adverse to the proof—protest or contest—was initiated within two years from the date of the receiver's final receipt. It put the entryman in the position of one who had earned patent, and in addition made the issuance of patent mandatory. The confirmatory period begins to run from the date "of the issuance of the receiver's receipt upon the final entry of any tract of land under the homestead * * * laws."

In its decision in the case of Thomas J. Stockley et al. v. United States, (260 U. S. 532), the Supreme Court of the United States quoted with approval the instructions of June 4, 1914 (43 L. D. 322), wherein it was said (p. 323):

> There is no doubt that Congress chose the date of the receiver's receipt rather than of the certificate of the register as controlling, for the reason that payment by the claimant marks the end of compliance by him with the requirements of law.

In the case of a homestead entry which is made subject to the provisions of the reclamation act, the confirmatory period, if the act of 1891 applies at all, can not begin to run upon submission of proof of compliance with the general requirements of the homestead law, for the following reasons:

First. Such a proof does not, under the law, entitle the entryman to a patent, even if the proof is in all respects satisfactory.

Second. In practice no receiver's final receipt issues at the time of the submission of such proof, and in law no final receipt could issue at that time, for, in the language of the Supreme Court and the department, as heretofore indicated, the perfection of such proof by payment of the final commissions would not mark "the end of compliance by him with the requirements of law."

Of course the Land Department can not avoid the effect of the act of 1891 by a mere change of practice in the matter of issuing receipts or requiring payments; but the reclamation law has created a condition whereby a point in the perfection of the entry such as was contemplated by the act of 1891 can not readily arise. As the Supreme Court said, the proviso to-day means nothing more nor less than it did when it was enacted, but the reclamation law has eliminated, as a fixed point, that conjunction of events which marked the beginning of the period of confirmation contemplated by the proviso.

In other words, the proof of compliance with the ordinary provisions of the homestead law does not complete the entry nor confer a right to a patent. There must be reclamation of the land and payments made on a water right. If the claimant conforms his entry to a farm unit, shows reclamation of one-half the irrigable area in such unit, assumes the payment for a water right, pays all the water-right charges which have accrued, makes proof of these facts, and pays the required final commissions, for which receipt issues, he becomes entitled to a patent which reserves a lien on the land for all sums due the Government; and the act of 1891 then begins to operate.

You are therefore instructed that the receipt for the payment of the final commissions at the date of the submission of proof of compliance with the ordinary provisions of the homestead law in connection with a reclamation entry does not start the running of the confirmatory period provided for by the act of 1891.

With your letter you forwarded two cases—Miles City 01556 and Waterville 03999.

In the Miles City case, the entry was made May 31, 1905, and was conformed to a farm unit on January 22, 1914. Proof of compliance with the ordinary requirements of the homestead law was submitted July 11, 1910, and was accepted as satisfactory by your office on April 21, 1911. On June 7, 1920, the required proof of reclamation was furnished, but in the meantime a portion of the land had been included in Lower Yellowstone Irrigation District No. 1, and final certificate did not issue until May 29, 1923. The land was withdrawn as valuable for coal on April 20, 1910, and is now classified at $20 per acre. Entryman has not elected to accept a patent containing the provisions and reservations of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), nor has he been required to file such an election. Upon the completion of satisfactory proof of reclamation, the receipt for the final commissions issued on July 15, 1910, became on June 7, 1920, a "receiver's receipt upon the final entry," and under the proviso to the act of 1891 it is now too late to issue any requirements under the coal land classification.

In the case of Waterville 03999, the entry was made for a farm unit on October 27, 1906, and satisfactory proof of compliance with the ordinary provisions of the homestead law was submitted October 28, 1911. On May 15, 1913, the project manager filed in the local office a final reclamation affidavit by entryman, and a report to the effect that 34 acres of the unit are irrigable; that practically all the land has been cleared and cultivated, but there is no evidence of the growing of a crop; that 10.8 acres were planted to orchard but only 6.7 acres of the trees are alive, and ditches had been constructed for the irrigation of only 6.7 acres. There were no water right charges delinquent against the land, but the project manager recommended that patent be withheld until further showing has been made as to reclamation and cultivation. The final commissions ($1.50) were forwarded through the project manager, and on May 15, 1913, the receiver issued his receipt therefor. You have taken no action in the matter, and the entryman has made no further showing. The confirmatory period began to run on May 15, 1913, and it is now too late to require any further showing.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE ADMINISTRATION OF SUBSECTION C OF THE ACT OF DECEMBER 5, 1924—RECLAMATION ENTRIES

Department of the Interior,
Bureau of Reclamation,
Washington, D. C., September 12, 1925.

To All Field Offices:

1, Subsection C of the act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 672, 702), reads as follows:

> That the Secretary is hereby authorized, under regulations to be promulgated by him, to require of each applicant including preference right ex-service men for entry to public lands on a project, such qualifications as to industry, experience, character, and capital as in his opinion are necessary to give reasonable assurance of success by the prospective settler. The Secretary is authorized to appoint boards in part composed of private citizens, to assist in determining such qualifications.

2. Hereafter no entry for public lands within a Federal irrigation project shall be accepted by the local land office until the applicant therefor has satisfied an examining board, to be appointed on each project to consider such matters, that he is possessed of such qualifications (in addition to the qualifications required under the homestead laws), as to industry, experience, character, and capital, as in the opinion of the board are necessary to give reasonable assurance of success by the prospective settler.

3. Each applicant for entry of such public lands, including preference right ex-service men, and successful contestants under the act of May 14, 1880 (21 Stat. 140), shall file an application with the Bureau of Reclamation which, among other things, must state with respect to the applicant, his or her age, status as to citizenship, whether married or single, number of children, and their sex and ages, other dependents, ownership of farm lands elsewhere and the value thereof, farming experience, assets and liabilities, and give references as to character and industry. The application may state the particular farm unit desired and may also include a second and third choice and, when practicable, the choice of a fully qualified applicant will be approved. However, the intent of the law is to select the best qualified applicants for all farms available and the Government must therefore reserve the right to distribute the farms to those best qualified, regardless of individual preferences.

4. Applicant must possess good health and vigor and have had at least two years' actual experience in farm work and farm practice. The applicant must have at least $2,000 in money, free of liability, or the equivalent thereof in livestock, farming equipment, or other assets deemed by the examining board to be as useful to the said applicant as money.

5. The above minimum requirement as to capital and experience shall not apply when the farm (fractional farm unit) applied for is 10 acres or less in area and the applicant can show to the satisfaction of the examining board that the development of the farm is feasible from the capital the applicant may reasonably be expected to obtain as a wage earner.

6. An examining board of three members or more shall be appointed on each project by the Secretary of the Interior, or such officer as he shall authorize to make such appointments, to consider the fitness of applicants to undertake the development and operation of a farm. The members of such board shall serve for a period of one year, or until their successors are appointed, unless otherwise ordered by the Secretary or such officer as he shall authorize to make such appointment. Each superintendent is requested to submit recommendations for membership on the board of examiners for his project at the earliest practical date.

7. A member representing the Bureau of Reclamation shall keep the records of the board and notify applicants when and where the board shall meet to deal with applications, in order that applicants may personally submit additional information as to their fitness for the undertaking.

8. The examining board shall note the date of receipt by it of each application filed and interview the applicants who appear before it, to determine the qualifications of prospective settlers. Careful investigation shall be made to verify statements and presentations made by applicants, to the end that no misunderstanding may prevail either as to the applicant's fitness or his appreciation of the problems before him.

9. After decision by the board its conclusion, if adverse to the applicant, shall be reduced to writing and a copy thereof forwarded to the applicant by registered mail. Evidence of service of such notice shall consist of registry return receipt signed by the applicant or his agent or registered letter addressed to applicant at his record address and returned unclaimed. The board's decision as to the relative qualification of each applicant, based upon a percentage rating of the elements of industry, experience, character, and capital, shall be final unless appeal from such decision be made to the Secretary of the Interior within 30 days from receipt of notice, and such appeal should be filed in the project office where the lands are situated.

The relative standing of applicants will be based upon a percentage rating, determined as follows:

Each of the elements of industry, experience, character, and capital will be considered as having a possible weight of 25 per cent, and applicants will be rated according to the following scale:

INDUSTRY	Per cent
Fair	5
Good	15
Excellent	25

FARM EXPERIENCE
2 years or more in East	15
2 years or more in irrigation	25

CHARACTER	Per cent
Fair	5
Good	15
Excellent	25

CAPITAL
$2,000	15
$3,000	20
$5,000	25

10. Approval by the board of an application followed by the filing of water right or water rental application when either is provided for on the particular project involved, which feature the board shall cover by appropriate notation on the application, will entitle the applicant to file homestead application at the designated local land office for the farm unit assigned to him. Such homestead application shall be made within 15 days from the date of approval of the application, except in those cases where a preference right is being exercised, in which event the period provided by law for the exercise of the preference right shall control. Failure to so make such homestead application will entitle the board to approve another application for the same unit, allowing the applicant to make homestead entry; this procedure continuing, if necessary, until an approved applicant makes a homestead entry.

11. The above regulations relates in the main to the entry of vacant farm units upon existing projects and existing divisions thereof, and while suggestive of the procedure to be followed in the opening of new projects or new divisions, each public notice or order opening new projects or new divisions will contain detailed instructions on the subject of the qualifications necessary for prospective entrymen and the procedure under which such qualifications will be determined.

ELWOOD MEAD, Commissioner.

I concur:

WILLIAM SPRY,
Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Approved:

REGULATIONS GOVERNING RECLAMATION ENTRIES ON FEDERAL IRRIGATION PROJECTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 19, 1925.

Registers, United States Land Offices:

There is inclosed a copy of the regulations approved September 12, 1925,[c] by the Secretary of the Interior governing the administration of subsection C of the act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 672, 702). Your attention is particularly called to paragraph 2 of the regulations which provides that hereafter—that is, September 12, 1925, the date of the approval of the regulations—no entry for public lands within a Federal irrigation project shall be accepted until the applicant therefor has satisfied an examining board that he is possessed of such qualifications as are necessary to give reasonable assurance of success by the prospective settler.

Accordingly, you will allow no further reclamation entries until the examining boards have been organized on the several projects by the Bureau of Reclamation and are prepared to pass on the qualifications of the applicants. The application for lands must have the approval of the board; and paragraph 10 of the regulations states that such homestead application shall be made within 15 days from the date of approval of the application except in those cases where a preference right is being exercised in which event the period provided by law for the exercise of the preference right shall control.

Paragraph 11 states that the regulations relate in the main to entry of vacant farm units, and that each public order opening new projects or divisions will contain specific instructions on the subject.

You will at once incorporate this order on the records of your office, be governed accordingly, and acknowledge receipt hereof.

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

AMENDMENT OF FARM-UNIT PLATS—PARAGRAPH 43 OF GENERAL RECLAMATION CIRCULAR (45 L. D. 385), AMENDED[14]

Department of the Interior,
Bureau of Reclamation,
Washington, D. C., September 30, 1925.

Under existing regulations in paragraph 43 of the General Reclamation Circular, approved May 18, 1916 (45 L. D. 385), concerning assignment of reclamation homestead entries under the act of June 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 592), there is a hiatus in the procedure for amending plats on file in this bureau and in the General Land Office, in cases where entrymen assign a portion of an established farm unit. To cover this point it is recommended that paragraph 43 of the circular (45 L. D. 385, 396), be amended by adding after the second sentence the following:

> In case of an assignment of a portion of an existing farm unit (paragraphs 37 to 39), if the evidence is found to meet the requirements of the law and regulations, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will so advise the Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, who will then cause the issuance of an order amending the farm-unit plats so as to show new farm units in accordance with the assignment.

The paragraph as amended will then read as follows:

> 43. Assignments made and filed in accordance with these regulations must be noted on the local land office records and at once forwarded to the General Land Office for immediate consideration. Where an assignment which does not fully comply with the above regulations is presented to the local land office the register will reject same, subject to the right of appeal to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in accordance with the Rules of Practice. In case of an assignment of a portion of an existing farm unit (paragraphs 37 to 39), if the evidence is found to meet the requirements of the law and regulations, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will so advise the Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, who will then cause the issuance of an order amending the farm-unit plats so as to show new farm units in accordance with the assignment. Upon the approval of an assignment, the assignee will at the proper time make payment of the water-right charges and submit proof of reclamation as would the original entryman, and after proof of full compliance with the law, may receive a patent for the land.

Elwood Mead, Commissioner.

I concur.

William Spry,
Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Approved October 14, 1925.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

INTERPRETATIONS AND REGULATIONS AFFECTING SECTIONS 41 TO 45, INCLUSIVE, AND FORM OF APPLICATION FOR INDIVIDUAL ADJUSTMENT, ACT OF MAY 25, 1926 (44 STAT. 636)

Department of the Interior,
Bureau of Reclamation,
Washington, August 20, 1926.

From Commissioner to all field offices:

1. Herewith copy of interpretations and regulations governing the administration of the above-named sections, as approved by the First Assistant Secretary, August 20, 1926,[d] and copy of the form of application, approved on the same date, to be used for individual adjustments.

2. A copy of each of the papers named should be furnished all project water users whose land has in whole or in part been classified and carried in the adjustment act as class 5 or 6 lands. The water users should be urged to make return of the application blank, properly filled out, at the earliest possible date, and not later than 30 days from receipt of notice. The matter of adjustment has been placed very largely by the regulations in the hands of the superintendents, subject to the concurrence of the Director of Reclamation Economics, but for reasons which will appear below, final action should not be taken in any case until all the applications that may be reasonably expected have been returned and studied and a complete canvass made of the entire situation on each project.

3. It is anticipated that on several of the projects the number of exchange applications will exceed the number of available farm units, and should this situation arise, it will be necessary, under instructions received, to formulate and submit to the department for approval, a plan of procedure. Except for the preference right to ex-service men, all eligible for exchange should be given the same consideration, and this probably may be best accomplished by a drawing, should the complication mentioned actually materialize. Even on those projects where the available lands are sufficient to absorb all exchange applications, conflicting applications may be filed so that it is apparent that no exchanges should be allowed prior to a canvass of the complete returns.

4. Under the direction of the Director of Reclamation Economics, each project should prepare and have on hand a supply of mimeographed statements showing the description, irrigable area, and any other pertinent information with respect to the land immediately available for entry. A supply of the statements should also be furnished the Denver and Washington offices.

5. The superintendent of the project from which the applications originate should verify all statements and figures on the Farm Adjustment application and record his findings in the space provided therefor, and add such additional data as may appear necessary to bring out all pertinent facts regarding the proposed adjustment. Failure of a water user to furnish any information or records required under the law and the regulations will render his application subject to rejection, and the water user should be so advised. When a water user applies for exchange to another project, the superintendent of the project where the original holding is located should record his findings and forward the application to the superintendent of the project where the lieu land is situated and the latter will add his findings and forward to the Director of Reclamation Economics for consideration.

6. There are no available figures to indicate the number of copies of the regulations and of the application blanks that will be required. Three thousand copies of each have been mimeographed and will be forwarded to the Denver office to be distributed to the projects upon requisition. The Denver office should keep this office advised as to the condition of the supply.

Elwood Mead, Commissioner.

INTERPRETATIONS AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE ADMINISTRATION OF SECTIONS 41, 42, 43, 44, AND 45 OF THE ACT OF MAY 25, 1926 (44 STAT. 636)

Washington, August 20, 1926.

Sec. 41. All lands found by the classification to be permanently unproductive shall be excluded from the project and no water shall be delivered to them after the date of such exclusion unless and until they are restored to the project. Except as herein otherwise provided, the water right formerly appurtenant to such permanently unproductive lands shall be disposed of by the United States under the reclamation law: Provided, That the water users on the projects shall have a preference right to the use of the water: And provided further, That any surplus water temporarily available may be furnished upon a rental basis for use on lands excluded from the project under this section, on terms and conditions to be approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

It was not the intention of Congress to exclude permanently unproductive land from the project in any case where the United States is under contract to furnish a water right to the land now determined to be permanently unproductive and the contractor is unwilling so to amend the contract as to consent to the elimination of such land. If the landowner in such case elects to continue payment of charges on land now found to be permanently unproductive, he may do so, and would be entitled to continuation of water service.

Under section 45 of the act, before any contract referred to in the preceding paragraph may be amended so as to release any water user under contract with the United States to pay construction and operation and maintenance charges on land now found to be permanently unproductive from such obligation, it is required that the Secretary secure the execution of a contract by a water users' association or irrigation district whereby such association or district shall assume what is commonly referred to as "joint liability," that is, shall be obligated to pay to the United States, without regard to default in the payment of charges against any individual farm unit or tract of irrigable land, the entire charges against all productive lands remaining in the project after the permanently unproductive lands shall have been eliminated and the charges against temporarily unproductive lands shall have been suspended in the manner and to the extent authorized by the act. Where the United States is under contract to furnish water for land now found, in accordance with the act, to be permanently unproductive, not only the owner of the land but also any interested mortgagees, or other lienors are entitled to a notice and an opportunity to consent or object to the severance of the water right. This is especially of importance where the mortgagee or other lienor acquired his lien with a view to the enhanced value of the land due to the presence of the water right. Notice must be given accordingly.

The provision regarding disposition of water formerly appurtenant to permanently unproductive land applies to all projects except the Uncompahgre and Umatilla, where special provision is made otherwise. The water thus severed from unproductive land should be disposed of only where there is a sufficient supply to irrigate all of the remaining productive land. Where a shortage exists the water so severed should be utilized to supplement the insufficient supply available for the productive lands of the project.

The first proviso is interpreted to mean that the water right severed from the unproductive land shall be disposed of by the United States giving preference to landowners within the project proper rather than to Warren Act contractors or other landowners outside of the boundaries of the project or on some other project than that from which severed.

Surplus water temporarily available under the second proviso should not be furnished for use on permanently unproductive land excluded from the project until after express authority has been secured and terms and conditions covering such service approved by the Secretary of the Interior. The superintendent should submit report in each case where the use of water is so desired. The report should be accompanied by recommendation of the irrigation district or water users' association.

SEC. 42. The construction charges heretofore paid on permanently unproductive lands excluded from the project shall be applied as a credit on charges due or to become due on any remaining irrigable land covered by the same water-right contract or land taken in exchange as provided in section 44 of this act. If the charges so paid exceed the amount of all water-right charges due and unpaid, plus the construction charges not yet due, the balance shall be paid in cash to the holder of the water-right contract covering the land so excluded or to the irrigation district affected; which in turn shall be charged with the responsibility of making suitable adjustment with the landowners involved. Should all the irrigable lands of a water-right applicant be excluded from the project as permanently unproductive, and no exchange be made as provided in section 44 hereof, the total construction charges heretofore paid, less any accrued charges on account of operation and maintenance, shall be refunded in cash, the water-right contract shall be canceled, and all liens on account of water-right charges shall be released.

Before credits may be properly applied under the foregoing section and the accounts handled as outlined, it will be necessary to ascertain from each water-right applicant affected whether an exchange is to be made under section 44. Suitable blanks will be provided for submitting request for application of credits and for refund of charges. Vouchers providing for refund of charges in cash should be prepared and forwarded to the commissioner's office for appropriate action. There must accompany the voucher a showing regarding whether or not there are any outstanding mortgages or liens, the amount covered by such mortgages or liens, and the names and addresses of the mortgagees or other lien holders. This is necessary because of the proviso in section 44 which requires the Secretary to take into consideration the rights and interests of lien holders.

Where contracts are in force with irrigation districts which collect water charges, adjustments should be made through the medium of or in cooperation with such districts as the foregoing section provides.

Where all the irrigable lands of a water-right applicant are excluded, no exchange is made and the construction charges paid are refunded in cash, the water-right contract will be canceled by order of the Secretary, by whom also liens on account of charges will be released where individual water-right applications are in force. Where liens have attached by means of tax levies and assessments made through irrigation districts, the necessary procedure will be worked out in such way as may be required by the State laws applicable. In all cases where action is to be taken under the last sentence of section 42, report should be made by the superintendent through the office of the district counsel, who will submit recommendation regarding the procedure necessary to secure release of liens. All other adjustments under this section, except as otherwise specified, may be made by the project superintendent, subject to appeal to be taken within 30 days to the commissioner and Secretary by any applicant aggrieved by the action taken or decision made.

SEC. 43. The payment of all construction charges against said areas temporarily unproductive shall remain suspended until the Secretary of the Interior shall declare them to be possessed of sufficient productive power properly to be placed in a paying class, whereupon payment of construction charges against such areas shall be resumed or shall begin as the case may be. While said lands are so classified as temporarily unproductive and the construction charges against them are suspended, water for irrigation purposes may be furnished upon payment of the usual operation and maintenance charges, or such other charges as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, the advance payment of which may be required, in the discretion of the said Secretary. Should said lands temporarily classed as unproductive, or any of them, in the future be found by the Secretary of the Interior to be permanently unproductive, the charges against them shall be charged off as a permanent loss to the reclamation fund and they shall thereupon be treated in the same manner as other permanently unproductive lands as provided in this act.

No affirmative action by the landowner is necessary to secure the suspension provided for in this section. The methods of handling suspended charges heretofore in vogue no doubt will be found sufficient in general to meet the requirements under this section. Where any doubt is entertained regarding the proper procedure special instructions should be requested of the commissioner's office.

Recommendations should be submitted by the project superintendent through the Chief Engineer's office regarding the charges to be made for water service to lands upon which payment of construction charge is temporarily suspended, specifying whether advance payment should be required. In the absence of special reasons to the contrary, advance payment should be required. The report should be accompanied by the views and recommendations of the irrigation district or water users' association.

SEC. 44. Settlers who have unpatented entries under any of the public land laws embracing lands which have been eliminated from the project, or whose entries under water rights have been so reduced that the remaining area is insufficient to support a family, shall be entitled to exchange their entries for other public lands within the same project or any other existing Federal reclamation project, with credit under the homestead laws for residence, improvement, and cultivation made or performed by them upon their original entries and with credit upon the new entry for any construction charges paid upon or in connection with the original entry: Provided, That when satisfactory final proof has been made on the original entry it shall not be necessary to submit final proof upon the lieu entry. Any entryman whose entry or farm unit is reduced by the elimination of permanently unproductive land shall be entitled to enter an equal amount of available public land on the same project contiguous to or in the vicinity of the farm unit reduced by elimination, with all credits in this section hereinbefore specified in lieu of the lands eliminated. Owners of private lands so eliminated from the project may, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and free from all encumbrances, relinquish and convey to the United States lands so owned and held by them, not exceeding an area of one hundred and sixty acres, and select an equal area of vacant public land within the irrigable area of the same or any other Federal reclamation project, with credit upon the construction costs of the lands selected to the extent and in the amount paid upon or in connection with their relinquished lands, and the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to revise and consolidate farm units, so far as this may be made necessary or advisable, with a view to carrying out the provisions of this section: Provided further, That the rights extended under this section shall not be assignable: And provided further, That in administering the provisions of this section and section 42, the Secretary of the Interior shall take into consideration the rights and interests of lien holders, as to him may seem just and equitable: Provided further, That where two entrymen apply for the same farm unit under the exchange provisions of this section, only one [of] whom is an ex-service man, as defined by the joint resolution of January 21, 1922 (Forty-second Statutes, page 358), the ex-service man shall have a preference in making such exchange.

Before an exchange of an unpatented entry may be made under the first sentence of this section, except where the total area is eliminated, a finding must be made that the entry has been reduced to such an extent that the remaining area is insufficient to support a family. The decision of the superintendent on this feature, concurred in by the Director of Reclamation Economics, will be final, subject to the usual right of appeal within 30 days to the Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, and the Secretary. When appeals are forwarded a report should be made in each case showing—

(a) Area eliminated.

(b) Area remaining.

(c) Classification of the land remaining.

(d) The character and value of the improvements upon the remaining area.

(e) Any and all other facts not enumerated which would have a bearing upon the matter to be determined.

If the Superintendent and Director of Reclamation Economics makes an affirmative finding that the area of the entry has been so reduced that the remaining land is insufficient to support a family or if the total area is eliminated, the entryman will be eligible for application to enter any available land for which application is made. The lands embraced in the original entry or farm unit must be relinquished to the United States free of all encumbrances, and the relinquishment with satisfactory showing that the land so relinquished is free of all incumbrance, together with the application to make new entry must be presented to the proper local land office with the approval of the Superintendent and Director of Reclamation Economics.

The section further provides that an entryman whose entry or farm unit is reduced by the elimination of permanently unproductive land shall be entitled to enter an equal amount of available public land, on the same project contiguous to or in the vicinity of the farm unit reduced by such elimination. This right is not dependent upon a finding that the area remaining is insufficient to support a family, but no entry for additional lands under this section will be permitted unless at least 5 acres have been eliminated from the original entry. Another condition is, of course, that there be available public land which may be entered. Preferably land to be entered should be contiguous to the farm unit reduced. However, the prospective entryman under the law has the election to enter either contiguous land if available or land on the same project in the vicinity. The term "in the vicinity" within the purview of this section is interpreted to mean land so located that it may be consolidated with the remaining area of the farm unit reduced so that the two areas may be handled as one farm. This will vary depending upon the accessibility of the tracts involved. It will also be influenced to a considerable extent by the presence or absence of canals, drainage ditches, and other physical barriers which obstruct communication, by the character and location of roads between the areas involved, and other physical features which go to render it feasible for the entryman to handle the two areas as a whole. Applications to enter noncontiguous land under section 44 must be accompanied by the certificate of the project superintendent of the Bureau of Reclamation that if the proposed entry is allowed, the old and new land held by the entryman may in his opinion feasibly be worked as one farm unit.

As a prerequisite to the owners of private lands which have been eliminated from the project selecting or entering land of an area equal to that eliminated, there must be presented to the Superintendent and forwarded by him with appropriate indorsement to the proper local land office the following papers:

(a) An application describing the land desired by way of exchange.

(b) Warranty deed from the landowner conveying to the United States the lands eliminated.

(c) Satisfactory showing of ownership by the person executing the warranty deed.

(d) A satisfactory showing that the land so conveyed is free of all incumbrance.

(e) Certificate of project superintendent, required by last sentence of preceding paragraph, if applicable.

All papers when so filed will be forwarded by the local land office through the Commissioner of the General Land Office to the Secretary of the Interior for his approval.

To summarize: Section 44 covers three situations under which an exchange of entries may be permitted: (1) Settlers on unpatented entries entirely eliminated from the project, or whose entries have been so reduced that the remaining area is insufficient to support a family; (2) where there is some elimination in an unpatented entry but not enough to destroy the ability of the unit to support a family; and (3) owners of private lands "so eliminated from a project."

From the above it will be noted that as to settlers on unpatented land, the right to make lieu entry is specifically conferred both where the original is insufficient to support a family and where the elimination as made does not result in this condition, but the latter is subject to the limitation that the new area selected must consist of land contiguous to or in the vicinity of the original unit.

The owner of a tract of private land having a project water right, and permitted by the act to be eliminated in whole or in part from the project may, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, select an equal area of vacant public land. If the whole of such privately owned tract is so eliminated, the owner thereof may select an equal irrigable area of vacant public land within the limits of any other Federal reclamation project. If only a portion of such privately owned tract is so eliminated, the owner thereof may select an equal irrigable area of vacant public land within the limits of the same project, but such equal irrigable area so selected must be in the vicinity of the retained land of such owner, so that in the opinion of the Secretary the new and retained areas may be worked advantageously as one farm. This regulation is intended to equalize the conditions applicable to private land owners and to entrymen, when claiming the benefits of section 44. For the same reason no exchange of private for public land will be permitted when the acreage eliminated is less than five acres. Private landowners making such exchange are entitled to credit upon the construction costs of the selected lands to the extent and in the amount of the construction charges paid upon or in connection with the relinquished land. The construction charge upon any land taken in exchange will be that fixed for such land by the applicable public notice, district contract, or association contract, as the case may be.

Section 45 being of some length will be quoted and commented upon by paragraphs, of which there are four.

Section 45 (par. 1):

> The Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized in his discretion, to amend any existing water-right contract to the extent necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, upon request of the holder of such contract. The Secretary of the Interior, as a condition precedent to the amendment of any existing water-right contract, shall require the execution of a contract by a water users' association or irrigation district whereby such association or irrigation district shall be required to pay to the United States, without regard to default in the payment of charges against any individual farm unit or tract of irrigable land, the entire charges against all productive lands remaining in the project after the permanently unproductive lands shall have been eliminated and the charges against temporarily unproductive areas shall have been suspended in the manner and to the extent authorized and directed by this act.

The foregoing provision is referred to under section 41 of the act, but is of sufficient importance to warrant further comment and emphasis. In the first 40 sections of this act, the details of the charge offs and suspensions on each individual project are recited, and in the administrative provisions of the act in sections 41 to 50, inclusive, are set forth the terms and conditions under which the adjustments made in the earlier sections of the act may be carried out.

Paragraph 1 of section 45 gives the Secretary authority in his discretion and upon the request of the holder of such contract to amend any existing water-right contract to the extent necessary to carry out the adjustments. No adjustment involving the amendment of an existing contract may be made except with the consent of the contractor and in addition to the consent of the contractor the Secretary must require as a condition precedent to the amendment the execution of a contract by a water users' association or district whereby such association or district assumes joint liability for payment of the construction charges. The individuals on a given project must organize (if the required organization does not already exist), either as a water users' association or an irrigation district before it will be possible for the individuals to secure any relief under this act, except the suspension of construction charges on temporarily unproductive land. In other words, Congress has provided that certain charges and costs may be eliminated, but has also provided that to secure this write off the owners of the productive lands must agree to be jointly liable for the remaining cost. Where a district or an association is already in existence and has entered into a repayment contract providing for complete joint liability, the requirement named in the first paragraph of this section is satisfied and no further contract will be required as a condition precedent to granting relief to individuals.

Section 45 (par. 2):

> The Secretary is authorized in his discretion, upon request of individual water users or districts, and upon performance of the condition precedent above set forth, to amend any existing water-right contract to provide for increase in the time for payment of construction charges, which have not then accrued, to the extent that may be necessary under the conditions in each case, subject to the limitation that there shall be allowed for repayment not more than forty years from the date the first payment matured under the original contract, and also to extend the time for payment of operation and maintenance or water-rental charges due and unpaid for such period as in his judgment may be necessary not exceeding five years, the charges so extended to bear interest payable annually at the rate of 6 per centum per annum until paid, and to contract for the payment of the construction charges then due and unpaid within such term of years as the Secretary may find to be necessary, with interest payable annually at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid.

Under the second paragraph, and provided the condition precedent named in the first paragraph is satisfied, the Secretary is authorized to increase the time for payment of construction charges to not more than 40 years from the date the first payment matured under the original water-right contract. The period of 40 years could not begin to run from the date of a proposed contract with a district or an association.

The time of payment for due and unpaid operation and maintenance charges may be extended for not exceeding five years, the charges so extended to bear interest payable annually at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid. The time of payment for due and unpaid construction charges may be extended for such terms of years as the Secretary may find necessary, with interest payable at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid. This provision does not permit the deferment or a period of suspension in the due dates of construction charge installments that are not due at the date the contract becomes effective. The act does not require that the 40 annual payments be equal and when the conditions warrant the installments may be graduated in such manner as the Secretary may specify. The matter of extending the dates of payment is entirely within the discretion of the Secretary and a district or association desiring relief should file application therefor with the superintendent setting forth the time of the extension desired and all of the conditions under which the extension is believed warranted.

Section 45 (par. 3):

> The Secretary is further authorized, in his discretion, to grant the relief provided for in section 4, act of December 5, 1924 (Forty-third Statutes at Large, page 701), to any of the projects mentioned in this act, without requiring such project to take over the care, operation, and maintenance of the project works.

Subsection G of section 4, act of December 5, 1924, required the taking over of operation of the irrigation works by the water-users' organization when the project or division was two-thirds under water-right contract as a prerequisite to the granting of the benefits provided for in said act. Paragraph 3 of section 45 of the present act merely amends the 1924 act by substituting the judgment and discretion of the Secretary for the mandatory requirement named in subsection G.

Section 45 (par. 4):

> The decision of the Secretary as to the necessity for amending any such contract shall be conclusive: Provided, That nothing in this act shall prevent the execution of any contract heretofore negotiated or in connection with which negotiations have been heretofore opened in good faith or which may be hereafter opened in good faith under the act approved December 5, 1924 (Forty-third Statutes at Large, page 701), and which shall be executed on or before January 1, 1927, unless the water users affected elect to have the contract governed by this section: Provided further, That in the execution of any contract provided for in the last proviso, the Secretary of the Interior shall have authority to arrange for payment of construction charges by any project or division for the calendar years 1926, 1927, and 1928 in proportion to the state of development of the project in those years: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to complete and execute the supplemental contract, now being negotiated and which has been approved as to form by the Secretary, between the United States and the Belle Fourche Irrigation District and at the expiration of said supplemental contract to enter into a permanent contract on behalf of the United States with said District in accordance with the terms of said supplemental contract.

The first sentence needs no interpretation, it being clear from the language used that Congress intended that the Secretary should decide all questions as to the necessity for amending existing contracts.

The first proviso permits for the limit of time named, the continuation, or inauguration, of negotiations with those districts or associations desiring the crop-production plan of repayment. The negotiations must result in an executed contract before January 1, 1927; otherwise the repealing provisions of section 47 of the act under consideration will become effective and prevent the execution of a contract upon the crop-production basis. The important element here is one of time and a clear understanding by the water users that negotiation alone will not withhold the bar of the statute. Many contracts providing for payment on a crop-production basis have been approved as to form by the department but such contracts can not under the present status of the law be made effective unless actually executed by all parties before January 1, 1927.

The last proviso save one to paragraph 4 authorizes the arrangement, at the discretion of the secretary, of a graduation in construction installments during the years 1926, 1927, and 1928 in contracts executed under the act of December 5, 1924. This is a matter which would be handled by negotiation and no definite instructions appear necessary since the decision in each case would depend upon the development of the particular project in the years named.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

From the publicity which has been given on all projects to the work of the board of survey and adjustments, the classification of lands and subsequent reviews, as well as the action subsequently taken by Congress, it may be assumed the water users are fairly familiar with the general significance of the act. However, in order to forestall any possible neglect, the substance of the law and these regulations should be discussed by the project superintendent and the district counsel with the governing board of the water users, at the first convenient regular meeting.

At such meeting many doubtful points may be clarified and interpreted by the district counsel and the project superintendents, and, if necessary, any doubtful questions as to the interpretation of the law may be submitted to the commissioner for decision.

Full publicity should be given to the availability of the benefits of this act in the local press in such manner as may be decided on by the district or water-users' board. This is more distinctly a local problem because most projects present dissimilar conditions with respect to the applications of the act, which must be appropriately treated both from the standpoint of conveying the information to the water users who are interested as well as in the application of the most effective remedy.

Lists and plats should be made available in the district or water users' association office as well as in the project office (in case these are located in different places) so that each water user may become acquainted with the results of the classification as it affects his individual holding, particularly in reference to the number of acres and the general location of the land in his tract upon which the payment of charges is authorized to be suspended or as to which elimination from the irrigable area is permitted. Each settler seeking relief under the act should state his intention as to the future operation of his holding at the earliest possible date because in most cases the opportunities for suitable exchanges are necessarily limited. Appropriate blanks will be prepared and distributed for this purpose at an early date. If all or practically all of a farm unit, not patented, is land upon which a temporary suspension of charges is authorized by the act, the owner may apply for an exchange, which is grantable under subsection M of section 4 of the act of December 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 672), if the Secretary finds that the unit is insufficient to support a family. Or such unit holder may continue the water service with payment of only operation and maintenance charges upon the land as to which the payment of the construction charges is authorized to be suspended. If all or practically all is land permanently unproductive, he may exchange or accept the refund or he may maintain his existing status by continuing his payments. He may also accept the refund, permit the cancellation of his water right, and rent surplus water if any is available. Should a small percentage only of the holding be permanently unproductive lands, credit for charges paid on the excluded area may be applied to the remaining irrigable land. Even in cases where the remaining area is insufficient to support a family, the owner may in consideration of his improvements, etc., prefer to remain, taking advantage of the credits. In making an exchange of units, it would not be equitable, nor in fact workable, for the Government to accept lands with outstanding liens and the fact that the entry or tract in private ownership must be relinquished or deeded to the United States free of all encumbrances should be stressed in the notice to those affected in view of the large number of mortgages known to exist on some projects.

Cases involving the elimination of a small percentage only, where the remaining area is sufficient to support a family and where a lieu entry for the eliminated portion is desired rather than the application of credit to the remaining area, must of necessity be considered and decided upon the individual merits of each and not by the application of a hard and fast rule. The important element here is the availability of an equivalent or suitable amount of land contiguous to or in the vicinity of the remaining land. The primary duty imposed by the adjustment act is believed to be directed toward those cases where classification has established that the unit as a whole is unsuitable and insufficient to support a family, and these cases should be given the earliest consideration.

Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation.

Commissioner, General Land Office.

REGULATIONS RE: SECTIONS 41 TO 45, ACT OF MAY 25, 1926 (44 STAT. 636)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 4, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: There is inclosed a copy of the regulations approved by the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior on August 20, 1926,[d] governing the administration of sections 41 to 45, inclusive, of the act of May 25, 1926 (44 Stat. 636). Your particular attention is called to section 44 of the act providing for exchange of entries for settlers who have unpatented entries embracing lands which have been eliminated from the irrigation project, or whose entries under the water rights have been so reduced that the remaining area is unsufficient to support a family. Section 44 also provides that any entryman whose entry or farm unit is reduced by the elimination of permanently unproductive land shall be entitled to enter an equal amount of available public land on the same project, contiguous to or in the vicinity of the farm unit reduced by elimination. However, the regulations on page 5, set forth that no entry for additional lands under section 44 will be permitted unless at least 5 acres have been eliminated from the original entry. When such an exchange or additional entry is applied for, you will give same the current serial number, and the proper fee and commissions will be collected in each case. (See 45 L. D. 390). The new application must give the land-office number and the description of the former or original entry. Accordingly, if such an application is filed in your office showing approval by the project superintendent, you will forward the papers to this office in the usual manner for consideration.

[d] The regulations of Aug. 20, 1926, are printed on p. 1255 et seq.

You will make proper reference to this order in the file of your office, be governed accordingly, and acknowledge receipt hereof.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 1176

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF APRIL 21, 1928 (45 STAT. 439), RELATIVE TO TAXATION OF ENTRIES WITHIN RECLAMATION PROJECTS, BEFORE ISSUANCE OF FINAL CERTIFICATE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, November 27, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: An act approved April 21, 1928 (45 Stat. 439), reads as follows:

> That the lands of any homestead entryman under the act of June 17, 1902, known as the Reclamation Act, or any act amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, may, after satisfactory proof of residence, improvements, and cultivation, and acceptance of such proof by the General Land Office, be taxed by the State or political subdivision thereof in which such lands are located, in the same manner and to the same extent as lands of a like character held under private ownership may be taxed.
> SEC. 2. That the lands of any desert-land entryman located within an irrigation project constructed under the Reclamation Act and obtaining a water supply from such project and for whose land water has been actually available for a period of four years, may likewise be taxed by the State or political subdivision thereof in which such lands are located.
> SEC. 3. That all such taxes legally assessed shall be a lien upon the lands and may be enforced upon said lands by the sale thereof in the same manner and under the same proceeding whereby said taxes are enforced against lands held under private ownership; Provided, That the title or interest which the State or political subdivision thereof may convey by tax sale, tax deed, or as a result of any tax proceeding shall be subject to a prior lien reserved to the United States for all the unpaid charges authorized by the said act of June 17, 1902, whether accrued or otherwise, but the holder of such tax deed or tax title resulting from such tax shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges in the land of an assignee under the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910 (Thirty-sixth Statutes, page 592).

The purpose of the law is to permit taxation by States, or political subdivisions thereof, prior to the issuance of final certificate, of lands embraced in reclamation homestead entries and in desert-land entries within irrigation projects constructed under the reclamation act, and obtaining a water supply from a reclamation project.

Reclamation homestead entries are made subject to such taxation after the submission of satisfactory final proof under the ordinary provisions of the homestead law, and upon the acceptance thereof by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and desert-land entries located within irrigation projects, constructed under the reclamation act, at any time after water from said project has been available for the irrigation of the lands in the entry for four years.

Taxes legally so assessed constitute a lien upon the land subject to the prior lien of the United States for all unpaid charges authorized by the reclamation act, whether accrued or otherwise, and such lien may be enforced by the State or political subdivision thereof by the sale of the lands under proceedings had as in case of lands held in private ownership.

No tax assessed or levied prior to April 21, 1928, the date of the act, is validated thereby.

In case of the sale for taxes of lands included in a reclamation homestead entry, or a desert-land entry within an irrigation project constructed under the reclamation act and obtaining its water supply from a reclamation project, the holder of the tax deed or tax title resulting from such tax sale shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of an assignee under the provisions of the act of June 23, 1910, (36 Stat. 592), as to reclamation homestead entries, and section 2 of the act of March 28, 1908, (35 Stat. 52), as to desert-land entries, only when application for recognition as assignee has been filed in accordance with the governing regulations[e] (see 47 L. D. 417 as to homestead entries and 50 L. D. 453 as to desert-land entries), and also satisfactory proof of such tax title, and showing that the equity of redemption has expired. After acceptance by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of such evidence as satisfactory, the name of such assignee shall be indorsed upon the records of the general and local land offices as entitled to the rights of one holding a complete and valid assignment under said act of June 23, 1910, or the act of March 28, 1908, supra, and such person may at any time thereafter receive patent upon submitting satisfactory final proof, and the proof of reclamation required by the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), and acts amendatory thereof, and in case of desert-land entries, the act of March 3, 1877 (19 Stat. 377), as amended by the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), making the payments required by said acts. In all such cases the purchaser at tax sale must file in the local land office either the original or a duly certified copy of the tax deed, which evidence must be transmitted to this office for consideration the same as in ordinary assignment cases before the record may be placed in the name of the purchaser as assignee.

In cases of application for exchange of reclamation homestead entries in whole or in part (of lands not sold at tax sale) where the proof as to residence, improvements, and cultivation in support of the base land has been accepted as satisfactory (see sec. 44 of the act of May 25, 1926, 44 Stat. 636, and the regulations thereunder in 51 L. D. 525)[f], in cases where application is made to enter lands formerly included in a reclamation homestead entry which was canceled after acceptance of proof of residence, improvements, and cultivation; in cases where application is made to enter lands formerly embraced in a desert-land entry, which obtained its water from a Federal reclamation project, and was canceled after four years from the date of availability of water or where final proof is submitted on a pending desert-land entry after four years from the date water was available therefor; there must be furnished, in addition to the usual evidence, a certificate by the proper tax officer showing that there are no unpaid taxes or tax sales charged against the land or tax deeds outstanding and that the accrued taxes for the current year have been provided for.

[e] See Circulars Nos. 716, p. 1243 and 474, p. 415.

[f] See Instructions of August 20, 1926, p. 1255.

When relinquishments of entries or parts of entries involving taxable lands are filed with the register of a local land office, he will transmit the same to the General Land Office without noting the same on his records, unless there is furnished, as set forth in the preceding paragraph satisfactory evidence that there are no unpaid taxes charged against, or unredeemed sales of, the lands relinquished, in which case the relinquishment may be accepted or noted as in ordinary cases.

In case of exchange or the cancellation of entries involving lands which have been taxed or are subject to taxation, the register of the local land office will at once, upon the consummation of the exchange or the notation of the cancellation, notify the proper taxing authorities thereof, to the end that such lands may be relieved from future taxation.

The register of the local land office will, upon application therefor, furnish the proper taxing authorities lists of reclamation homestead entries upon which final proof has been submitted and accepted under the ordinary provisions of the homestead law, and of desert-land entries where water from a Federal irrigation project has been available for four years, as provided in instructions of October 8, 1907 (36 L. D. 194), and of April 16, 1910 (38 L. D. 575). Circular of July 8, 1922 (49 L. D. 168), is hereby revoked.[g]

RECORD—PRODUCTION IN COURT—ACT OF APRIL 19, 1904

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 18, 1904.

To the Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is called to the act of April 19, 1904 (33 Stat. 186), which reads as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That whenever the register of any United States land office shall be served with a subpœna duces tecum or other valid legal process requiring him to produce, in any United States court or in any court of record of any State, the original application for entry of public lands or the final proof of residence and cultivation or any other original papers on file in the General Land Office of the United States on which a patent to land has been issued or which furnish the basis for such patent, it shall be the duty of such register to at once notify the Commissioner of the General Land Office of the service of such process, specifying the particular papers he is required to produce, and upon receipt of such notice from any register of a United States land office the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall at once transmit to such register the original papers specified in such notice, and which such register is required to produce, and to attach to such papers a certificate, under seal of his office, properly authenticating them as the original papers upon which patent was issued; and such papers so authenticated shall be received in evidence in all courts of the United States and in the several State courts of the States of the Union: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior shall make rules and regulations to secure the return of such documents to the General Land Office, after use in evidence, without cost to the United States.

As soon as any subpœna or process mentioned in this act shall have been served upon you, you should at once forward a copy thereof to this office where appropriate action thereunder will be taken.

All papers and records, forwarded to you under the provisions of this act, should be constantly retained in your possession and always kept under your personal control, and in no event should they be permitted to be attached as exhibits or filed of record in any cause pending in any court, but they should, after they have been used in evidence, be inclosed by you in secure envelopes and returned to this office by registered mail.

Very respectfully,

W. A. Richards, Commissioner.

FEES OF SURVEYORS GENERAL—CERTIFIED COPIES OF PLATS AND RECORDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., April 15, 1907.[a]

The United States Surveyor General.

Sir: Under the terms of office circular dated October 13, 1886 (5 L. D. 190), you were permitted to furnish certified copies of plats and records in your office, and to receive a fee therefor under certain conditions.

As it is considered that the continuance of this practice is detrimental to the best interests of the public service, you are hereby advised that it must be discontinued by you on and after your receipt of this communication, which you will acknowledge at once.

Hereafter, when application is made for exemplified copies of plats, or any other records in your office, you will first furnish the applicant a memorandum of the exact cost thereof at the rates established by law for registers and receivers for like services, and require him to deposit the amount in a designated United States Depository, to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, and upon presenting to you the duplicate certificate you can then cause them to be prepared during office hours and furnish them to the applicant.

The duplicate certificates thus received you will forward to this office in the usual manner.

Very respectfully,

R. A. Ballinger, Commissioner.

LISTS OF LANDS FOR TAXATION PURPOSES—ACT OF MARCH 3, 1883

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., October 8, 1907.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The act of March 3, 1883 (22 Stat. 484), provides that upon application by the proper State or Territorial authorities, registers and receivers shall—> furnish for the purpose of taxation a list of all lands sold in their respective districts, together with the names of the purchasers, and shall be allowed to receive compensation for same not to exceed ten cents per entry.

The act of August 4, 1886 (24 Stat. 239), and instructions approved April 22, 1898 (26 L. D. 657), as modified by circular approved May 20, 1905 (33 L. D. 627, 631), govern the disposition of such fees.

[a] Amended by circular of Oct. 19, 1907, p. 1271. See circulars of Feb. 21, 1908, p. 1272, and May 26, 1911 (No. 19), p. 1274.

It is believed that it is within the spirit and intent of the act first cited for you to furnish, upon like application, and for the compensation therein stated, lists of canceled final entries, so that the lands may be relieved from improper taxation. Therefore, when application is made by the proper authorities, you will furnish such lists.

Very respectfully,

R. A. Ballinger, Commissioner.

FEES OF SURVEYORS GENERAL—CERTIFIED COPIES OF PLATS AND RECORDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., October 19, 1907.[b]

United States Surveyors General.

Sirs: The circular of this office dated April 15, 1907 (35 L. D. 514), revoking office circular dated October 13, 1886 (5 L. D. 190), relative to the furnishing to applicants exemplified copies of your plats or any other records in your office, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Hereafter when application is made for exemplified copies of your plats or any other records in your office, you will first furnish the applicant with a memorandum of the exact cost thereof at the rates established by law for registers and receivers for like services, and require him to pay or remit the amount to you in your official capacity as surveyor general, and upon receipt of the amount you will then cause the copies to be prepared during office hours and furnish them to the applicant. All such moneys must be promptly receipted for.

At the end of each week you are directed to deposit the aggregate amount received by you to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, on account of "Receipts for Furnishing Copies of Records," and forward the duplicate certificates of deposit to this office.

In rendering to this office your consolidated account current for each quarter of the fiscal year, Form No. 4–661a, you are directed to credit the United States therein with the aggregate amount received by you during the period for which the account is rendered, and debit the United States with the deposits made by you to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States during the said period. The said credits and debits should appear in one of the blank columns provided in the account current.

You are also directed to furnish with the said account current an abstract showing in detail all the moneys received by you during the period covered thereby, giving date of the payment, name of the payee, and the amount received in each case.

[b] See circulars of Feb. 21, 1908, p. 1272, and May 26, 1911 (No. 19), p. 1274.

The provisions of this circular are to take effect immediately upon your receipt thereof, which you will acknowledge at once.

Very respectfully,

FEES OF SURVEYORS GENERAL—CERTIFIED COPIES OF PLATS AND RECORDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 21, 1908.

United States Surveyors General.

SIRS: It appears that the rates established by law for the services of registers and receivers in furnishing exemplified copies of plats and other records of their offices, are entirely inadequate to meet the expense of like services when rendered by surveyors general, and it is therefore ordered that hereafter you will collect for such services the exact cost thereof, as nearly as may be, taking into account the value of the material, the time consumed, and the compensation of the employees doing the work.

Inasmuch as the charges to be made for like services by the surveyor general of Louisiana are fixed by law (4 Stat. 494), the foregoing instructions do not apply to this office.

FEES—CERTIFIED COPIES OF RECORDS—REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 22, 1909.[c]

Registers and Receivers and United States Surveyors General.

SIRS: The regulations contained in the circulars to surveyors-general of April 15, 1907 (35 L. D. 514), October 19, 1907 (36 L. D. 125), and February 21, 1908 (36 L. D. 282), as far as they prohibit the acceptance of personal fees for copies of records and require the preparation of such copies during office hours, are hereby extended to the offices of registers and receivers and you are advised that hereafter the performance of any service by you or by the employees of your offices for which personal remuneration or compensation is received is hereby prohibited, except as to cases where an officer or employee receives fees or compensation expressly allowed by law. Nor shall such service be performed save in the course of official duties and during office hours, and persons not officially connected with any office, even though Government employees, shall not be admitted to that office outside of office hours, unless the public interests are involved in the purpose for which such admission is desired or requested, in which event you are authorized to extend the working hours for such purpose.

[c] See circulars of Feb. 21, 1908, p. 1272, and May 26, 1911 (No. 19), p. 1274.

When certified copies of records are requested and the pressure of public business will not permit of the work being done by the office force, the parties desiring same, if desk room is available, may be permitted to make such copies, but before certification by you copies thus made must be carefully compared by your office force and you will charge therefore the fees allowed by law.

All moneys received for copies of records must be deposited by surveyors general to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, as directed in the circulars above cited, and all moneys so received by receivers of public moneys must be deposited to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States on account of "Fees and Commissions." Such moneys can not be made available for expenditures of any character.

RELATIVE TO FURNISHING RAILROAD LISTS FOR TAXATION PURPOSES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 22, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Complaint has been made to this office that it is the practice of registers and receivers of local land offices to furnish, under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1883 (22 Stat. 484), and the instructions of October 8, 1907 (36 L. D. 194), the proper State or Territorial authorities, for purposes of taxation, lists of lands selected as indemnity by railroad companies, as soon as the selections are filed in their offices, and that the grantee companies are greatly inconvenienced by having lands within their indemnity limits placed upon the tax rolls before they are subject to taxation.

Indemnity railroad lands are not subject to taxation until properly selected by the company and the selection has been approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Wisconsin Central Railroad v. Price County (13 U. S. 496). You will, therefore, decline to furnish lists of railroad-indemnity selections, for purposes of taxation, until you shall have received from this office a copy of the clear list which has been approved by the Secretary.

DESTRUCTION OF USELESS PAPERS

Department of the Interior,
Washington, May 14, 1913.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sir: By the act of Congress approved February 16, 1889 (25 Stat. 672), it is made the duty of the head of each executive department of the Government to submit to Congress, from time to time, a schedule of and report concerning such papers as have accumulated in the files of said department, not needed or useful in the dispatch of the current business thereof, possessing no permanent value, and of no historical interest, the purposes of such statute being to provide for and authorize the destruction of all such papers, upon approval of such schedule and report by the joint committee of the House and Senate on the disposition of useless papers in the executive departments.

It appears that no instruction or regulation has been adopted whereby to direct or control the choice and selection of papers intended to be destroyed pursuant to this statute, and it is deemed fitting now to direct that no schedule of useless papers prepared in conformity to the requirements of such statute shall embrace any paper belonging to any of the several classes of papers below enumerated, to wit:

1. Papers pertaining to the files of a case in which the jurisdiction of the department has not been exhausted and terminated by the issuance of a patent or other evidence of title.

2. Papers required by law or departmental regulation or practice to be filed as a part of, or in support of, an application for title under any one of the public land laws.

3. Papers possessing a permanent evidentiary value and materially bearing on and affecting the right of any applicant for patent or other evidence of title to receive the same, or on the relative rights of two or more rival claimants for the same tract of land, including herein the essential portions of the records of all litigated contest proceedings.

Original documents and papers, of special importance to the individual by whom they have been filed as exhibits in the record of a contest, may, in all cases where a certified copy of such document would have been equally competent as evidence, be returned to the person by whom they were so filed, upon his request made for such return and upon his substituting therefor a duly certified copy thereof, prepared either by the local register or recorder in whose office the same may have been once recorded, or by the Commissioner of the General Land Office. No such original exhibit shall be returned, however, until the contest in the record of which it was filed shall have been finally terminated and closed.

4. Ancient and modern documents of historical importance or interest, such as might or ought to be selected for preservation in and as a portion of the permanent national archives.

5. All official reports and other documents pertaining to investigations of and concerning alleged fraudulent or illegal claims to public lands, or of and concerning alleged misconduct of public officials, including all records pertaining to proceedings for the disbarment of attorneys practicing before the department.

6. All schedules and returns transmitted by registers and receivers, showing entries made and moneys received in their offices.

The foregoing list is not to be construed as indicating that papers not specifically included therein are authorized to be destroyed under the act of February 16, 1889, supra, but as indicating generally the character of papers and documents that should not be reported for destruction under said act.

Respectfully,

Lewis C. Laylin,
Assistant Secretary.

NOTATIONS ON TRACT BOOKS AND PLATS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 22, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: It having come to the attention of this office that it has not been the practice of some registers to note all applications and entries of public lands on township plats, your attention is called to section 2295 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which provides in part that:

> The register of the land office shall note all applications under the provisions of this chapter (5—Homesteads) on the tract books and plats of his office, and keep a register of such entries * * *.

While this section applies to homestead applications only, it is nevertheless necessary that notations shall be made on the tract books and plats of all applications and entries of public lands, regardless of their character, in order that the status of a tract may be readily ascertained by the officer or person examining either tract book or plat, and you are instructed to hereafter cause the proper notations to be made on the plats as well as the tract books.

Applications should be noted on the plats with pencil, and changed to an ink notation if the application is subsequently allowed as an entry or its equivalent. Should the application later be finally rejected and closed, the pencil notation on the plat may be erased. Great care should be exercised in making notations and erasures not to injure the texture or topographic features of the plat.

Plat notations should be made by outlining the tract involved and inserting the serial number of the application within the lines. This will furnish a sufficient reference to the serial register containing a complete record of the case. Appropriate cross references should be made where an application embraces tracts extending into another township. All withdrawals, reservations, classifications, designations under the enlarged homestead act, and similar orders affecting the disposition of the land should be noted on the margin of the plats as well as on the tract books.

[d] Circular No. 105 has been superseded by Circular No. 616. See par. 121, p. 75 and par. 139, p. 79.

Local officers whose plats have not heretofore been completely noted as indicated herein are directed, as time is available, to systematically check their plats with the tract books, and cause all necessary plat notations to be made.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

CERTIFIED COPIES OF HOMESTEAD ENTRY PAPERS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 14, 1915.

1. Hereafter no photographic certified copy of homestead entry papers, where the entry was made prior to June 22, 1874, and was for less than 160 acres, will be made, except for Government use. All certified copies of such entry papers, for other than Government use, must be typewritten. Where a blank form is used the blank spaces must be typewritten.

2. From and after this date no tracing of any signature, or imitation thereof, to papers in such homestead entries shall be made by any attorney, agent or other person, for private use. Chiefs of divisions having the custody of this class of homestead entry papers will see that this order is complied with.

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO FURNISHING COPIES AND PERMITTING INSPECTION OF THE RECORDS OF THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT[1]

Department of the Interior,
Washington, August 4, 1915.

To All Bureaus and Officers of the Interior Department:

The following instructions will govern the matter of furnishing copies of official books, records, etc., of this department, its bureaus, offices, and institutions, and the matter of inspecting such books, records, etc., under the provisions of the act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497), copy of which is appended hereto:

1. Any person desiring a copy of any such book, record, etc., within the custody of the Secretary of the Interior, the head of any bureau, office, or institution, or officer of this department, which is subject to be furnished under section 1 of said act when not prejudicial to the interests of the Government, must make written application for such copy to such custodian, except in cases coming within the second proviso of said section, stating in such application specifically (1) the particular book, record, etc., copy of which is desired; (2) the kind of copy desired, whether written, photographic, photolithographic, tracing, blue print, or other, and whether authenticated or unauthenticated; and (3) the purpose for which such copy is desired to be used; and shall deposit the approximate amount of the lawful charge for such copy, as provided in said act or other applicable law, rule, or regulation, which deposit will be returned to the applicant should his application be denied. Should the amount deposited be found to be insufficient to pay such lawful charge the desired copy will not be delivered until such deficiency is paid. Any excess deposited over such lawful charge will be returned to the applicant when such copy is delivered.

2. Charges for copies in cases not coming within section 5 of said act, or the laws specified therein, will be as provided in said section 1 for all written or typewritten portions only, where printed stock forms are used, in addition to the authentication charge provided in said act, where authentication is desired.

Charges for copies, and fees for authentication thereof, of records specified in section 5 of said act for which no charge or fee is provided by law will be determined upon application to the head of the office having custody of such records.

3. Under section 2 of said act, providing that inspection of records may be permitted by any person having any particular interest therein, inspection will not be permitted of any record which is deemed to be confidential under the rules of the department, or of any private claim, caveat, or pending application for letters patent, except upon the written authorization of the party filing same, or for other than a proper purpose to be stated by the party applying for inspection of a record, with a specification of the particular record desired to be inspected.

4. The question, under section 1 of said act, whether the furnishing of any desired copy is not prejudicial to the interests of the Government, and the questions under section 2 of said act, relating to inspection of records by persons having some particular interest therein, what is such particular interest as will warrant permission being given to inspect such record, and what is a proper purpose in making inspection thereof, will be determined primarily and promptly by the custodian of a record, etc., to whom application for a copy or for inspection is made, who may, if in doubt, submit the question to his official superior with a statement of any reasons which may exist why such copy should not be furnished or inspection permitted, or may deny the application, in which event the applicant may himself submit his application to such superior official, whose decision shall be final except for gross abuse of discretion shown to the satisfaction of the head of the bureau or department.

What may be prejudicial to the interests of the Government in furnishing copy of any record, etc., or what is such particular interest in a record as may warrant its inspection by any party, or what is a proper purpose in making inspection of any record, are questions upon which no general rule can be formulated, but each case must depend upon its own facts, and any subordinate official applied to for permission to inspect a record within his custody should be satisfied, before giving such permission, that no public or official interest would be prejudiced thereby.

5. These instructions will supersede all others in so far as in conflict or inconsistent therewith, and will be in force from and after this date.

CIRCULAR 777

CIRCULAR OF AUGUST 4, 1915, RELATIVE TO APPLICATIONS FOR COPIES OF RECORDS. MUST STATE PURPOSE FOR WHICH COPY IS DESIRED—MODIFIED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 22, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Surveyors General, Chiefs of Field Divisions, and other Field Officers.

GENTLEMEN: Departmental circular of August 4, 1915, providing, among other things, that applicants for copies of records must state " the purpose for which such copy is desired to be used," has been modified by the Secretary of the Interior under date of September 20, 1921, to the extent of revoking the requirement noted above, so far as the same applies to the field services of the General Land Office.

Very respectfully,

WILLIAM SPRY, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR NO. 504—REVISED

COST OF CERTIFIED COPIES OF RECORDS AND PAPERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 12, 1922.

1. Under existing laws, the following is a schedule of fees for the preparation and delivery of certified copies of records and papers by the General Land Office. Circular No. 504 (45 L. D. 485), is amended to read as follows:

(a) For written copies, 15 cents for each 100 words.

(b) For photographic copies, 15 cents for each sheet not exceeding 11½ by 15 inches; for larger sizes a proportionate cost, not to exceed 40 cents per sheet.

(c) For photolithographic copies of township plats, 50 cents each.

(d) For tracings or blue prints, a sum equal to the cost of preparing the same.

(e) For certifying a copy and affixing thereto the seal of the officer certifying, 25 cents.

(f) For each certified copy of any printed order or regulation intended for gratuitous distribution, 25 cents.

2. The cost of a certified photographic copy of a patent is ordinarily 40 cents and of a typewritten copy 85 cents.

3. A separate certificate and seal must be attached to each certified copy of a patent, as well as to each certified copy of a township plat; but where there have been two or more surveys of a township and a copy of each plat of survey is desired, all of such related plats may be certified under one certificate and seal.

4. All fees for certified copies must be paid in advance. In any case where the amount remitted is insufficient, the remitter will be promptly advised concerning the deficiency.

5. Remittances may be effected by means of New York exchange, certified check, cashier's check, or post-office money order, and should be made payable to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved.

NOTATION OF CANCELLATIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 5, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Inasmuch as valuable rights are often dependent upon ascertaining the exact time when orders of cancellation are noted on the tract book, the following rules are prescribed:

In noting the cancellation of an entry, prospecting permit, lease, selection, etc., the tract book will show the date and initial (division) of the letter of cancellation. The date and hour of the notation on the tract book will be immediately noted on the letter and on the serial register. In reporting the status of cases in connection with which the cancellation of a prior claim is material, you will report the time such cancellation was noted on the tract book.

When relinquishments of entries or withdrawals of applications are filed the hour of filing should be noted on the serial register as well as on the paper filed.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

RELINQUISHMENTS AND RECONVEYANCES

Circular No. 17

INSTRUCTIONS RE DISPOSITION OF TENDERED RECONVEYANCES OF PATENTED LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 19, 1911.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: It has been brought to the attention of this office that in certain instances deeds of reconveyances or relinquishments are submitted to local land officers by persons holding title to lands by patent from the Government. In such cases the local land officers transmit these deeds or relinquishments, after noting them upon the records of their office. Upon examination of the records in this office it is found that in most instances the lands relinquished or reconveyed are the subject of a suit to cancel patent brought upon the recommendation of this office by the Department of Justice.

In order that the practice in such instances may be uniform, it is directed that whenever relinquishments or deeds of reconveyance of patented lands are tendered to you, that you forward them at once to the proper chief of field division, with a statement of the circumstances under which the deeds or relinquishments were received by you. Under no circumstances, should you make notation of the reconveyance or relinquishment of such patented lands, nor allow any change in the status thereof, until advised by this office.

Very respectfully,

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

Circular No. 81

CONDITIONAL RELINQUISHMENTS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 13, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: By direction of the Secretary of the Interior you are advised that the practice now prevailing in some local offices of allowing the filing of a conditional relinquishment of an entry or claim subject to the allowance of an accompanying application for the land involved must be discontinued.

Accordingly you will advise all such parties that hereafter (except as noted below), the filing of a relinquishment of an entry or claim will be treated as absolute, the cancellation thereof at once noted of record, and the tract embraced therein will be subject to disposition under existing laws.

The only exceptions to this rule are relinquishments of approved rights of way, conditioned upon the approval of a subsequent application, filed as an amendment to the approved right of way, or as an independent application, but conflicting in whole or in part with the approved right of way. Such relinquishments should not be noted until you are advised of their acceptance by this office.

Many applications for amendment of entries are accompanied by relinquishments of the tracts sought to be excluded. This is unnecessary, and you should advise such applicants that if the relinquishment is filed it is your duty to at once make the same of record.

Respectfully,

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

INSTRUCTIONS—RELINQUISHMENTS WITH REPAYMENT CASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 12, 1922.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: In departmental instructions of March 30, 1922, it is directed that a relinquishment filed in support of an application for repayment, pursuant to the provisions of the act of June 16, 1880 (21 Stat. 287), and the regulations thereunder (45 L. D. 520),[a] should be treated as absolute and the entry canceled thereupon and the land involved opened to settlement and entry without further action, in conformity with the rule as enunciated in instructions of January 31, 1912 (40 L. D. 397),[b] regardless of whether or not the repayment claim should be subsequently allowed or denied, thereby overruling the decision in the case of Peter A. C. Hausman (37 L. D. 352), so far as it conflicts with said instructions.

It is to be noted that departmental instructions of March 30, 1922, apply only to cases wherein the entry shall have been relinquished in its entirety. Said instructions in no wise modify paragraph 15 of the repayment regulations of October 25, 1916 (45 L. D. 520, 522), which paragraph relates solely to applications for repayment of moneys paid in connections with commutation entries, final homestead entries, final desert-land entries, and other final certificates where it is the intention of the applicant for repayment to merely suffer cancellation of the final entry, leaving the basic entry intact subject to future compliance with the public land laws.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

REPAYMENTS

[Reported, 45 L. D. 520]

CIRCULAR NO. 513[1]

INSTRUCTIONS GOVERNING REPAYMENTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., October 25, 1916.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The following regulations and instructions governing the repayment of moneys received by the Government and covered into the United States Treasury, in connection with the disposal or attempted disposal of the public lands, are promulgated for your guidance and the information of the general public.

In addition to the provisions of sections 2362 and 2363, United States Revised Statutes, it will be observed from the laws printed in full as an appendix to this circular, that the general laws providing for the return of such moneys are contained in the acts of June 16, 1880 (21 Stat. 287), and March 26, 1908 (35 Stat. 48).

You will strictly observe and enforce the instructions herein contained.

APPLICATIONS

1. The following form of application for repayment is intended to cover every class of claims arising under the provisions of said acts, but the form may be modified by striking out such portions thereof as may be irrelevant to the particular claim presented:

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE:

I hereby make application for the repayment of such amount of money as may be found due, paid in connection with ______________________ No. ______, for the (Kind of application, etc.)
__________, section ______, township ______, range _________, _________ meridian, as per receiver's receipt No. _______ issued at ________, dated _______, which is surrendered herewith; and on oath declare that I am the same (or legal representative of the) person who made said payment and that there was no fraud or attempted fraud in connection with the effort to obtain title to the land described; that I have not sold, assigned, nor in any manner encumbered the title to the land described; and that the same has not become a matter of record.

[1] See Circular No. 728, p. 1292.

2. The affidavit necessary to an application for repayment may be made before either the register or receiver, or any officer authorized to administer oaths and using a seal.

3. When made before a justice of the peace, a certificate of official character is required.

ACT OF JUNE 16, 1880

FEES, COMMISSIONS, EXCESSES, ETC.

ON FRAUDULENT AND VOID ADDITIONAL SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' ENTRIES

4. Section 1 of this act authorizes the repayment of the fee, commissions, and excess payments required upon the location or entry of soldiers' and sailors' additional homestead rights, which locations or entries are found to be based upon spurious or forged papers and the entries are canceled as fraudulent and void.

5. Under this section repayment can be made only to the "innocent parties" who paid the moneys, and in order to present a claim thereunder it is necessary that the receipts issued to the claimant be surrendered as a part of the application for repayment.

6. In case the receipts can not be surrendered, an affidavit explaining the loss or destruction of the same is required, together with evidence to show that the moneys applied for were paid by the applicant.

7. The applicant will be required, in all cases where the void location or entry is made in the name of the original entryman, to furnish the power of attorney, or certified copy thereof, authorizing the applicant to make the additional entry; or furnish such other authenticated evidence as may be produced to show that the applicant is in fact the party who made the void additional entry and paid the moneys in connection therewith.

8. A concise statement, in the form of an affidavit, should accompany these applications for repayment, setting forth all the facts and circumstances in connection with the procurement and use of the fraudulent papers upon which the canceled entry was based, together with such other proof as may tend to establish the innocence of the applicant.

ON ENTRIES CANCELED FOR CONFLICT OR WHERE THE SAME HAVE BEEN ERRONEOUSLY ALLOWED AND CAN NOT BE CONFIRMED

9. The first clause of section 2 of this act provides for the repayment of fees, commissions, purchase money, and excesses paid in connection with entries of the public lands that have heretofore or shall hereafter be canceled for conflict, or where, from any cause, the entry was erroneously allowed and can not be confirmed. This clause directs that said moneys shall be repaid to the person who made such entry, or to his heirs or assigns, and it requires the surrender of the receipts issued and the execution of a proper relinquishment of all claims to the lands acquired under the invalid entry.

10. Claims for repayment should be made on Form 4–109, or the equivalent thereof, which application must contain an affidavit stating that the title to the land under the invalid entry has not been sold or assigned and that the same has not become a matter of record.

11. In cases where the entry has been made a matter of record, in the archives of the county recording officer, there should be added to the form of application (4–109) the words "except as shown by accompanying evidence," in which event the evidence hereinafter required must be furnished.

12.[2] A duly executed relinquishment must be furnished by the applicant in the following or equivalent form:

______ ______, ______, *19*__.

I hereby relinquish to the United States all my right, title, and interest in and to entry No. ______, made at ______________________________, the land being (Name land office where entry was made) described as follows: ______ ______, section ______, township ______, range ______, ______ meridian.

Acknowledged before me this ______ day of ______, 19__.

(Official designation of officer)

13. This relinquishment may be acknowledged before the register or receiver or before any officer authorized to take acknowledgments.

14. If acknowledged before a justice of the peace, a certificate of official character is required.

15.[2] In cases of commutation homestead entry, final homestead entry, final desert-land entry, and other final certificates, which are canceled, leaving the original entry or base intact, subject to future compliance with the requirements of law, a reservation should be incorporated into the relinquishment to the effect: "But excepting from the operation of this relinquishment all my rights and title to the described land under original entry No. ______."

16. The receipts, showing the payments of the moneys claimed, must be surrendered and also the duplicate certificates; but if the same have been lost or destroyed, an affidavit stating the facts must be furnished.

FINAL ENTRIES

17. With applications for repayment of the moneys paid upon canceled commuted homestead entries, final homestead entries, final desert-land entries, mineral entries, coal-land entries, and other final entries, the receiver's receipt and the duplicate certificate of entry, whenever such has issued, should be surrendered.

18. In case the receipt or certificate can not be surrendered or has been lost or destroyed, a certificate will be required from the proper recording officer of the county within which the land is situate, showing that the same has not become a matter of record and that there is no encumbrance of the title to the land thereunder.

19. A recorder's certificate must be furnished, as above, (a) in all cases where the application for repayment is made by another than the original entryman, and (b) in all cases where the claim is based upon an unrecorded deed from the entryman to the party applying for repayment.

---

[2] See Circular No. 820, p. 1284.

20. In all cases where patent has been issued, upon an invalid entry, a full reconveyance to the United States of all right and title to the land acquired under the patent and entry must be furnished, which deed must be recorded. If a certificate of the recording officer is produced showing that neither the entry nor the patent has been recorded, it is unnecessary to record the reconveyance in case the patent is surrendered.

21. If, however, the patent can not be surrendered, or should the entry or patent have been recorded, it is necessary that the proper party or parties execute a full reconveyance to the United States and have the same recorded as indicated in the next following paragraphs.

22. Where title under an invalid entry or patent has become a matter of record, a duly executed quitclaim deed, relinquishing to the United States all right, title, and claim to the land, acquired under the entry, or patent, must accompany the application for repayment.

23. This deed must be duly recorded, and a certificate must also be produced from the proper recording officer of the county wherein the land is situate, showing that said deed is so recorded and that the records of his office do not exhibit any other conveyance or incumbrance of the title to the land.

24. The reconveyance to the United States must conform in every particular to the laws of the State or Territory in which the land is located relative to transfers of real property; in the case of a married man, in localities where the right of dower, or equivalent, exists, the wife must join in the execution of the deed, and in case of an executor or administrator, due proof of authority to alienate the estate.

25. If the applicant has also acquired the valid title conveyed by the United States, a reconveyance of the land is unnecessary, but a relinquishment, waiving all claim under the illegal entry, is required, together with corroborative evidence of the facts, preferably an abstract of title and a statement in full in support of the claim for repayment.

HEIRS, EXECUTORS, ADMINISTRATORS, AND ASSIGNEES

26. Where application is made by heirs, satisfactory proof of heirship is required. This must be the best evidence that can be obtained and must show that the parties applying are the heirs and the only heirs of the deceased.

27. Proof of heirship should be made in the form of an affidavit, corroborated by two witnesses, setting forth the date of the death of the intestate; whether the intestate left surviving a husband or wife, as the case may be; the full name and age of such husband or wife; the names and ages of all children; and also state whether there is any issue of a deceased child or children. The affidavit should set forth all the facts, in order that this office may determine who are the legal heirs, in accordance with the laws of descent and distribution of the State where the land is situated.

28. In case there are minor heirs not under the guardianship of a duly appointed guardian, and the amount to be repaid is $200 or less, the surviving parent may execute the application as the natural guardian of such heirs. Such application should be supplemented with an affidavit stating all the facts in detail.

29. Where application is made by executors, a certificate of executorship from the probate court must accompany the application.

30. Where application is made by administrators, the original, or a certified copy, of the letters of administration must be furnished.

31. Where applications are made by assignees, the applicants must show their right to repayment by furnishing properly authenticated abstracts of title, or the original deeds or instruments of assignment, or certified copies thereof.

32. In the place of an abstract of title the applicant may furnish a certificate of the recording officer of the county in which the land is situate, showing all alienations or liens affecting title to the land in connection with the entry upon which the claim for repayment is based.

33. The applicants must also show by affidavits or otherwise that they have not been indemnified by their grantors or assignors for the failure of title, and that title has not been perfected in them by their grantors through other sources.

34. Where there has been a conveyance of the land and the original purchaser applies for repayment, he must show that he has indemnified his assignee or perfected the title in him through another source, or produce a full reconveyance to himself from the last grantee or assignee.

35. Those persons are assignees, within the meaning of the statutes authorizing the repayment of purchase money, who purchase the land after the entries thereof are completed and take assignments of the title under such entries prior to complete cancellation thereof, when the entries fail of confirmation for reasons contemplated by the law.

36. To construe said statutes so as to recognize the assignment or transfer of the mere claim against the United States for repayment of purchase money, or fees and commissions, disconnected from a sale of the land or attempted transfer of title thereto, would be against the settled policy of the Government and repugnant to section 3477 of the Revised Statutes. (2 Lawrence, First Comp. Dec. 264, 266, and 6 Dec. Comp. of the Treasury, 334, 359.)

37. Assignees of land who purchase after entry are, in general, deemed entitled to receive the repayment when the lands are found to have been erroneously sold by the Government. But this rule does not apply to the repayment of double-minimum excesses. (First Comp. Dec. in case of Adrian B. Owens, Copp's Pub. Land Laws, 1890, vol. 2, p. 1238.)

38. Mortgagees are not assignees within the meaning of the repayment laws, but may become such by pursuing the course suited to the particular case as follows:

(a) Where, after date of entry and prior to cancellation thereof, the land is mortgaged and the mortgagee receives a sheriff's deed under foreclosure proceedings, the mortgagee becomes an assignee. (See 193 U. S. 651; 28 L. D. 201, and 30 L. D. 136.)

(b) Where a mortgage is executed prior to the cancellation of an entry, and a deed made to the mortgagee after such cancellation, the holder of such deed becomes the assignee. (See 26 L. D. 425.)

39. In either case, complete evidence must be furnished to establish the applicant's right to repayment by producing the original deeds or instruments, or certified copies thereof showing all transactions, together with certified copies of the court proceedings.

DOUBLE-MINIMUM EXCESS

40. The last clause of the second section of the act provides that "in all cases where parties have paid double-minimum price for land which has afterwards been found not to be within the limits of a railroad land grant, the excess of $1.25 per acre shall in like manner be repaid to the purchaser thereof or to the heirs or assigns."

41. This clause has been practically absorbed by section 2 of the act of March 26, 1908. (Instructions following.)

42. The applicant must make the affidavit showing that he is the identical party who made the entry on which repayment is claimed, as contained in the form of application.

43. Repayment of double-minimum excess will be made only to the original entryman, his heirs or assigns. The sale and transfer of the land is not of itself treated as an assignment of the right to receive repayment of double-minimum excess.

ACT OF MARCH 26, 1908 [a]

44. The act of March 26, 1908 (35 Stat. 48), provides for the repayment of certain commissions, excess payments, and purchase moneys paid under the public land laws and is additional to the provisions of sections 2362 and 2363, United States Revised Statutes, and to the act of June 16, 1880 (supra).

45. The first section of this act authorizes the return to the applicant, or his legal representatives, of purchase moneys and commissions covered into the Treasury of the United States under any application to make any filing, location, selection, entry, or proof, where such application has been or shall hereafter be rejected, in cases where neither the applicant nor his or her legal representatives shall have been guilty of any fraud or attempted fraud in connection with said application.

46. This section refers more particularly to moneys covered into the Treasury of the United States which were paid in connection with rejected applications to make entry, proof, etc., but it also contemplates the repayment of moneys paid in connection with allowed entries and proofs, which entries or proofs should have been rejected. (See 43 L. D. 104.)

47. The second section authorizes the return to the person who made the payment, or to his legal representatives, of any moneys paid under any of the land laws of the United States, in excess of the legal requirements.

[a] See Circular No. 728, p. 1292.

LEGAL RERESENTATIVES

48. The term " legal representatives " includes heirs, executors, and administrators, and where application is made by either of them due proof must be furnished as required by paragraphs Nos. 29 or 30, as the case may be.

49. Assignees also come within the purview of this term, but only in such instances as would not be repugnant to section 3477, United States Revised Statutes.

50. Where applications are made by assignees, the evidence required under paragraphs Nos. 31 or 32, as the case may be, must be furnished.

51. Section 3477, United States Revised Statutes, prohibits the transfer or assignment of claims against the United States, and therefore any attempted transfer or assignment of a claim under either of the before-mentioned sections can not be recognized, except in certain cases, coming under section 1 of this act. (See 42 L. D. 181.)

52. The instances in which assignees are authorized to receive repayment under this act would be in cases where entries are allowed, but which should have been rejected, and after the date of such entries and prior to the cancellation thereof, valid attempts are made to transfer the lands entered; and further, in cases where proofs and payments are made, but certificates of entry withheld, and thereafter valid assignments are made of all right, title, and interest in and to the lands involved. (43 L. D. 477, and 44 L. D. 516.)

DEFINITION OF " ERRONEOUSLY ALLOWED "

53. This phrase, being the basis for the allowance of repayment under section 2 of the act of June 16, 1880 (supra), can not be given an interpretation of such latitude as would countenance fraud. If the records of the Land Office, or the proofs furnished, should show that the entry ought not to be permitted, and yet it were permitted, then it would be " erroneously allowed." But if a tract of land were subject to entry, and the proofs showed a compliance with law, and the entry should be canceled because the proofs were shown to be false, it could not be held that the entry was " erroneously allowed "; and in such case repayment would not be authorized.

FRAUD OR ATTEMPTED FRAUD

54. What constitutes " fraud or attempted fraud " within the meaning of section 1 of the act of March 26, 1908 (supra), such as will bar repayment, affords a wide degree of latitude, and it necessarily follows that each claim for repayment must be adjudicated upon a finding of the record in the case.

TRANSMITTAL OF APPLICATIONS

55. Applications for repayment may be filed either in this office or in the proper district land office.

56. When an application is filed in the district land office the register and receiver shall transmit the same with a full report of the facts in the case, as shown by their official records, and recommend either the allowance or the disallowance of the claim.

57. Where an application is filed, either in the district land office or in this office, it should be accompanied by a statement by the applicant setting forth fully the grounds upon which repayment is claimed.

CREDIT FOR PRIOR PAYMENT UPON SECOND PROOF

58. In cases where the commutation homestead proof, final homestead proof, final desert-land proof, or other proof based upon an original entry, upon which you have issued certificate, has been rejected by this office, the certificate canceled, and the original entry allowed to stand subject to future compliance with the law, if second proof is accepted, credit may be allowed for the money paid on the first proof, and the register will issue his certificate, bearing proper number and date, making notation thereon in accordance with paragraph 195, Circular No. 105, dated May 4, 1912.[b]

59. The entryman is required to pay the testimony fees in connection with the second proof, irrespective of the fees paid with the first proof, which fees are to be accounted for in accordance with instructions contained in said Circular No. 105.

60. If the entire entry is canceled and the entryman is allowed to begin proceedings de novo, as for instance, in a mineral entry, the purchase money paid upon the first entry can not be applied in payment for a second entry. The only relief that may be afforded, if any, will be upon application for repayment.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress, December 11, 1919, limiting the time of filing repayment claims under the act of March 26, 1908 (35 Stat. 48), to two years. The act of 1908, as amended, reads as follows:

> Section 1. That where purchase moneys and commissions paid under any public land law have been or shall hereafter be covered into the Treasury of the United States under any application to make any filing, location, selection, entry or proof, such purchase moneys and commissions shall be repaid to the person who made such application, entry, or proof, or to his legal representatives, in all cases where such application, entry, or proof has been or shall hereafter be rejected, and neither such applicant nor his legal representatives shall have been guilty of any fraud or attempted fraud in connection with such application: Provided, That such person or his legal representatives shall file a request for the repayment of such purchase moneys and commissions within two years from the rejection of such application, entry, or proof, or within two years from the passage of this act as to such applications, proofs, or entries, as have been heretofore rejected.

Sec. 2. That in all cases where it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that any person has heretofore or shall hereafter make any payments to the United States under the public land laws in excess of the amount he was lawfully required to pay under such laws, such excess shall be repaid to such person or to his legal representatives: Provided, That such person, or his legal representatives shall file a request for the repayment of such excess within two years after the patent has issued for the land embraced in such payment, or within two years from the passage of this act as to such excess payments as have heretofore been made.

Sec. 3. That when the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall ascertain the amount of any excess moneys, purchase moneys, or commissions in any case where repayment is authorized by this statute, the Secretary of the Interior shall at once certify such amounts to the Secretary of the Treasury, who is hereby authorized and directed to make repayment of all amounts so certified out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated and issue his warrant in settlement thereof.

Sec. 4. That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper for the purpose of carrying the provisions of this act into full force and effect.

Claims for repayment under the provisions of this act, which originated prior to its passage must be filed on or before December 11, 1921. After that date the time of filing claims for repayment will be limited to two years from rejection of the application, entry, or proof; and in case of payments in excess of lawful requirement, claims for repayment must be filed within two years from issuance of patent.

This circular should be posted in a conspicuous place in your office and should be given to the press as a news item.

RESERVOIRS, SPRINGS, AND WATER HOLES

[Reported, 49 L. D. 577]

CIRCULAR No. 893 [1]

FENCING OF STOCK-WATERING RESERVOIRS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 3, 1923.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: The act of Congress approved March 3, 1923 (42 Stat. 1437), amends section 1 of the act of January 13, 1897 (29 Stat. 484), "An act providing for the location and purchase of public lands for reservoir sites" by inserting at the end thereof, the following new sentence:

> The Secretary of the Interior, in his discretion, under such rules, regulations, and conditions as he may prescribe, upon application by such person, company, or corporation, may grant permission to fence such reservoirs in order to protect livestock, to conserve water, and to preserve its quality and conditions: Provided, That such reservoir shall be open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind; but any fence erected under the authority hereof shall be immediately removed on the order of the Secretary.

This act applies only to stock-watering reservoirs which have been or may hereafter be constructed, and due proof of construction filed in the General Land Office.

Any person, company, or corporation desiring to secure the benefits of this act should file in the local land office an application, under oath, duly corroborated by at least two disinterested witnesses, setting forth such facts as would show that it is necessary to fence such reservoir in order to protect the livestock, to conserve water, and to preserve its quality and condition. There should be filed with such application, and as a part thereof, a plat showing the land embraced in the reservoir as near as may be, the location of the proposed fence with respect to such reservoir, together with all gates or other openings and roadways leading to the same. In no instance will an application be considered unless said plat shows the location of at least two gates. Said gates shall be so constructed and maintained that they may be, at all times, readily opened and closed by any person desiring to water animals of any kind and such gates shall be so placed as to be readily accessible from the road or roads nearest the reservoir, which roads shall be the ones usually traveled and, where there are no such roads whereby to govern the location of such gates, they shall be so situated as to make the reservoir readily available from the adjacent public or other range; and that there shall be posted on the gates, and elsewhere if necessary, a notice stating that the reservoir is for stock-watering purposes, located on public lands, and that the same is open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind.

[1] See circular of June 6, 1908, p. 1314 et seq.

Upon the filing of such an application, it should be considered by the local office as an additional paper in the case and transmitted to this office by special letter under the serial number of the reservoir declaratory statement for such action as may be deemed proper.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved May 3, 1923.

Circular No. 1028 [2]

REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO THE USE OF LANDS WITHDRAWN AS PUBLIC WATER RESERVES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 27, 1925.

1. Permission may be obtained to use or improve lands withdrawn as or in connection with public water reserves, under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), or any other act, by filing application for such permission under the act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), in accordance with the regulations governing said act, as found in 36 L. D. page 367, as supplemented by these regulations.

2. As a condition precedent to the granting of any such permission, the applicant will be required to execute such stipulations and agreements as may be deemed proper and necessary by the Secretary of the Interior, to safeguard the public interests, after investigation of the facts, circumstances, and conditions in connection with each individual case.

3. Any citizen or association of citizens of the United States, or any corporation, duly created and existing under and by virtue of the laws of any State of the United States, who may desire to improve the productivity of any water hole or source of water supply within the boundaries of any public water reserve, or to conduct such waters from their source within such a reserve to a point or place more convenient for public use, may file in the office of the register of the United States land district, within which the reservation is situated, an application for permission so as to use the reserved land, or conduct the waters over or through the same.

Such application should be in the form of an affidavit, duly corroborated, by at least two persons, setting forth in detail the plan of the applicant for the improvement and care of the public water reserve, the public necessity for such improvement, the reasons why such plan will be more conducive to the public good and better conserve the waters for public use, and any other facts and circumstances pertinent thereto.

[2] See circular of June 6, 1908, p. 1314 et seq. Also see Circular No. 1122, p. 1544.

4. If the waters are to be conducted from their source within the reserve to a point outside of the reserve, the application should be accompanied by a map and separate field notes in duplicate, the map being delineated upon tracing linen, and prepared in accordance with the regulations of June 6, 1908, governing the submission of applications under the act of February 15, 1901, supra, also evidence that applicant has applied to the proper State official for permission to appropriate the waters to the uses contemplated, and has prosecuted such application in good faith to date of the filing of the application.

5. Upon receipt of such an application in the General Land Office, the commissioner will direct the division inspector to make careful field investigation as to the facts and circumstances set forth in the affidavit of applicant, as to the public necessity or desirability of the system proposed, and as to all other facts and circumstances germane to the granting of such a permit, together with recommendation as to any stipulations or agreements which to him may seem necessary or proper for the protection of the public interest, and the most economical conservation and use of such waters.

Upon receipt of said report the Commissioner of the General Land Office will transmit a copy of the same, together with the application to the Director of the Geological Survey, for report and suggestion relative to the feasibility of the plan and the terms and conditions upon which the permit should be issued, if at all.

7. If the place of use of the water is upon unreserved public land the applicant may be called upon to file a reservoir declaratory statement under the act of January 13, 1897 (29 Stat. 484), as well as the application under the act of February 15, 1901, supra, if deemed advisable.

8. Each permit shall contain, besides those found necessary in individual cases, the following conditions:

(a) That the right to appropriate the waters of the State to the uses contemplated shall be obtained within one year from and after the issuance of the permit and the permittee shall file a certificate to that effect issued by the proper State authority.

(b) That the proposed system shall be fully completed in substantial conformity with the plan upon which the permit is predicated, within two years from and after the issuance of such permit, unless a different period is specifically provided for in such permit.

(c) That the permittee shall, during the month of January, in each year after the completion of such system, file with the register of the land district within which the system is located, for transmission to the General Land Office, an affidavit of maintenance, in substantially the following form:

STATE OF ______
County of ______, ss:

______________________________, being duly sworn says that he is the President of the ______________________________ company (or person) to whom permit, (give land district and serial number), was issued by the Secretary of the Interior, (give date), in connection with public water reserve No. __. That the system as set forth and described in said permit has been kept in repair and water sufficient for the public needs has been kept therein during the whole of the calendar year of 19__, that the same has been kept open to the public at all times during the year, and that the said permittee has in all things, complied with the provisions of said permit, and the stipulations therein contained and the acts under which said permit was issued.

Notary Public.

In the event that the State certificate as to the right to appropriate the water is not filed within one year, or proof of the construction of the system, consisting of the affidavit of the permittee duly corroborated by two witnesses within two years or such other period as may be mentioned in the permit, or affidavit of maintenance is not filed as hereinbefore provided or in case any of the terms, conditions, provisions, or stipulations of the permit shall not be well and in good faith performed, observed, and carried out, then such permit shall become and be subject to cancellation. Nothing hereinbefore contained, however, is to be construed as limiting the power or authority of the Secretary of the Interior to cancel and determine the permit at any time when in his judgment such action is desirable.

Permits issued hereunder are transferable only upon the written authority and consent of the Secretary of the Interior.

11. If, at any time, it becomes necessary for the permittee to change his system or to erect structures other than those authorized by his permit, application for permission so to do, in the form of an affidavit setting forth in detail the reason and necessity for the change must be filed, and no such change shall be made until authorized in writing by the Secretary of the Interior.

Circular No. 1066 [3]

AMENDING ALL CIRCULARS AND REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO SELECTIONS, FILINGS, OR ENTRIES OF LANDS CONTAINING SPRINGS OR WATER HOLES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 25, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: By Executive order of April 17, 1926, the following order of withdrawal was issued:

> Under and pursuant to the provisions of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), entitled "An act to authorize the President of the United States to make withdrawals of public lands in certain cases," as amended

[3] Modified by Circular No. 1095, p. 1300; circular of Feb. 8, 1929, p. 1300; and Executive order of May 4, 1929, p. 1301.

by act of Congress approved August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497), it is hereby ordered that every smallest legal subdivision of the public-land surveys which is vacant unappropriated unreserved public land and contains a spring or water hole, and all land within one-quarter of a mile of every spring or water hole located on unsurveyed public land be, and the same is hereby, withdrawn from settlement, location, sale, or entry, and reserved for public use in accordance with the provisions of section 10 of the act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), and in aid of pending legislation.

The above order was designed to preserve for general public use and benefit unreserved public lands containing water holes or other bodies of water needed or used by the public for watering purposes. It is not therefore to be construed as applying to or reserving from homestead or other entry lands having small springs or water holes affording only enough water for the use of one family and its domestic animals. It withdraws those springs and water holes capable of providing enough water for general use for watering purposes.

In furtherance of said order, all General Land Office circulars and regulations pertaining to the selection, filing, or entry of public lands under any of the public land laws of the United States, are hereby amended so that in every instance it must be shown by a duly corroborated affidavit in connection with every selection, filing, or entry made upon or subsequent to the date of said Executive order, or theretofore filed but not allowed, that no spring or water hole exists, if it be a fact, upon any legal subdivision of the land sought to be appropriated, if surveyed, and if unsurveyed, within one-quarter of a mile from the exterior boundaries of said land. If there be any spring or water hole the affidavit should state the exact location and size thereof; together with an estimate of the quantity of water in gallons which it is capable of producing daily, and any other information necessary to determine whether or not it is valuable or necessary as a public water reserve.

In case the attempted appropriation of the land is one the allowance of which is within the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior or the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the showing hereinbefore referred to must be furnished, irrespective of the date of filing of the application, entry, or selection, before favorable action is taken thereon.

This circular shall not apply, however, to selections or filings made in pursuance of grants which have been determined to be "Grants in praesenti," and to have attached and become effective prior to April 17, 1926, or to valid settlement claims initiated prior to said date and thereafter maintained in accordance with the law applicable thereto.

You will make proper notations on your records of this withdrawal in order that it may be considered in connection with any applications filed.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

AFFIDAVITS AS TO SPRINGS OR WATER-HOLES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 7, 1929.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: By decision of January 30, 1929, in forest lieu selection case Gainesville 020662 the department directed that the selector be not required to furnish corroboration of the affidavit as to springs and water holes, because of the conditions existing in the State of Florida where the selected lands lie.

This brings up the question of the necessity of any affidavit as to springs and water holes in said State or in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota where like conditions exist.

As stated in Circular No. 1066, 51 L. D. 457, the object of the Executive order of April 17, 1926, was to—> preserve for general public use and benefit unreserved public lands containing water holes or other bodies of water needed or used by the public for watering purposes.

In none of the States named, so far as I am aware, are the springs or water holes, if any, on the public lands "needed or used by the public for watering purposes." The conditions in those States are entirely different from those in the other public-land States where grazing is carried on to a considerable extent and not only springs and water holes but other available sources of water supply are sometimes quite scarce. It appears, therefore, to me that there are no lands in the States mentioned that come within the purview of the Executive order of April 17, 1926, and a nonwater hole and nonspring affidavit is not required. If you agree with this view and by the approval of this letter adjudge the lands in such States as not containing springs and water holes needed for public watering places, this office will in the future eliminate said States from the requirement of Circular No. 1066.

RIGHT OF WAY—RAILROAD—CANAL—RESERVATION

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

Washington, D. C., November 27, 1896.

Registers and Receivers,
United States Land Offices.

SIRS: The honorable Secretary having held, in the case of Dunlap v. Shingle Springs and Placerville R. R. (23 L. D. 67) that "A railroad right of way under the act of March 3, 1875, is fully protected by the terms of the act as against subsequent adverse rights, and a reservation of such right of way, in final certificates and patents issued for lands traversed thereby, is therefore not necessary and should not be inserted" (syllabus), and having on October 16, 1896, denied a motion for review of said decision, you will be governed thereby.

The language of the canal and reservoir right of way act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), in reference to this matter, being the same as of the act of 1875, the ruling applies to it as well.

The effect of this decision is to revoke that part of the instructions at the bottom of page 6, circular of March 21, 1892, for railroads, and in paragraph 26, circular of February 20, 1894, for canals and reservoirs, relating to the notation to be made in red ink across the face of the certificate issued upon any entry apparently subject thereto, that the same is allowed, subject to the right of way of the road, or the canal or reservoir.[1] The notations on township plats and tract books should be made as heretofore.

It will be observed that the decisions above noted do not refer to cases where right of way has been granted under special acts. In the current annual report of this office will be found a list of approved rights of way in which are designated the cases where the grant has been made under special acts. See pages 266 and 267, Report of 1895.

REGULATIONS FOR RIGHTS OF WAY OVER PUBLIC LANDS AND RESERVATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
June 6, 1908.[2]

CANALS, DITCHES, AND RESERVOIRS

1. General statement.—Sections 18, 19, 20, and 21 of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," grant the right of way through the public lands and reservations of the United States for the use of canals, ditches, or reservoirs heretofore or hereafter constructed by corporations, individuals, or associations of individuals. If the right of way is upon a reservation not within the jurisdiction of the Interior Department, the application must be filed in accordance with these regulations, and will be submitted to the department having jurisdiction. A map and field notes of the portion within any reservation, except in the case of a national forest, must be submitted in addition to the duplicates required herein. All maps and field notes must conform to the provisions of this circular. The sections above noted read as follows:

SEC. 18. That the right of way through the public lands and reservations of the United States is hereby granted to any canal or ditch company formed for the purpose of irrigation, and duly organized under the laws of any State or Territory, which shall have filed or may hereafter file with the Secretary of the Interior a copy of its article of incorporation and due proofs of its organization under the same to the extent of the ground occupied by the water of the reservoir and of the canal and its laterals, and fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof; also the right to take from the public lands adjacent to the line of the canal or ditch, material, earth, and stone necessary for the construction of such canal or ditch: Provided, That no such right of way shall be so located as to interfere with the proper occupation by the Government of any such reservation, and all maps of location shall be subject to the approval of the department of the Government having jurisdiction of such reservation, and the privilege herein granted shall not be construed to interfere with the control of water for irrigation and other purposes under authority of the respective States or Territories.

SEC. 19. That any canal or ditch company desiring to secure the benefits of this act shall, within twelve months after the location of ten miles of its canal if the same be upon surveyed lands, and if upon unsurveyed lands within twelve months after the survey thereof by the United States, file with the register of the land office for the district where such land is located a map of its canal or ditch and reservoir; and upon the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior the same shall be noted upon the plats in said office, and thereafter all such lands over which such rights of way shall pass shall be disposed of subject to such right of way. Whenever any person or corporation in the construction of any canal, ditch, or reservoir injures or damages the possession of any settler on the public domain, the party committing such injury or damage shall be liable to the party injured for such injury or damage.

SEC. 20. That the provisions of this act shall apply to all canals, ditches, or reservoirs heretofore or hereafter constructed, whether constructed by corporations, individuals, or association of individuals, on the filing of the certificates and maps herein provided for. If such ditch, canal, or reservoir has been or shall be constructed by an individual or association of individuals, it shall be sufficient for such individual or association of individuals to file with the Secretary of the Interior and with the register of the land office where said land is located a map of the line of such canal, ditch, or reservoir, as in case of a corporation, with the name of the individual owner or owners thereof, together with the articles of association, if any there be. Plats heretofore filed shall have the benefits of this act from the date of their filing, as though filed under it: Provided, That if any section of said canal or ditch shall not be completed within five years after the location of said section the rights herein granted shall be forfeited as to any uncompleted section of said canal, ditch, or reservoir, to the extent that the same is not completed at the date of the forfeiture.

SEC. 21. That nothing in this act shall authorize such canals or ditch company to occupy such right of way except for the purpose of said canal or ditch, and then only so far as may be necessary for the construction, maintenance, and care of said canal or ditch.

2.[3] Material on adjacent lands.—The word adjacent, as used in section 18 of the act, in connection with the right to take material for construction from the public lands, must be construed according to the conditions of each case (28 L. D. 439). The right extends only to construction, and no public timber or material may be taken or used for repair or improvements (14 L. D. 566). These decisions were rendered under the railroad right-of-way act, and are applied to this act since the words are the same in both.

Section 2 of the act approved May 11, 1898 (30 Stat. 404), entitled "An act to amend an act to permit the use of the right of way through public lands for tramroads, canals, and reservoirs, and for other purposes," authorizes the use of rights of way granted under the act of 1891 for purposes subsidiary to the main purpose of irrigation. The language of said section is as follows:

SEC. 2. That rights of way for ditches, canals, or reservoirs heretofore or hereafter approved under the provisions of sections eighteen, nineteen, twenty, and twenty-one of the act entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, may be used for purposes of a public nature; and said rights of way may be used for purposes of water transportation, for domestic purposes, or for the development of power, as subsidiary to the main purpose of irrigation.

3. Control of water.—While these acts grant rights of way over the public lands necessary to the maintenance and use of ditches, canals, and reservoirs, the control of the flow and use of the water is, so far as this act is concerned, vested in the States or Territories, the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior being limited to the approval of maps carrying the right of way over the public lands. If the right of way applied for under this act in any wise involves the appropriation of natural sources of water supply, the damming of rivers, or the use of lakes, the maps should be accompanied by proof that the plans and purposes of the projectors have been regularly submitted and approved in accordance with the local laws or customs governing the use of water in the State or Territory in which such right of way is located. No general rule can be adopted in regard to this matter. Each case must rest upon the showing filed.

4. Nature of grant.—The right granted is not in the nature of a grant of lands, but is a base or qualified fee. The possession and right of use of the lands are given for the purposes contemplated by law, but a reversionary interest remains in the United States, to be conveyed by it to the person to whom the land may be patented, whose rights will be subject to those of the grantee of the right of way. All persons settling on a tract of public land, to part of which right of way has attached for a canal, ditch, or reservoir, take the land subject to such right of way, and at the total area of the subdivision entered, there being no authority to make deduction in such cases. If a settler has a valid claim to land existing at the date of the filing of the map of definite location, his right is superior, and he is entitled to such reasonable measure of damages for right of way as may be determined upon by agreement or in the courts, the question being one that does not fall within the jurisdiction of this department. Section 21 of the act of March 3, 1891, provides that the grant of a right of way for a canal, ditch, or reservoir does not necessarily carry with it a right to use of land 50 feet on each side, but only such land may be used as is necessary for construction, maintenance, and care of the canal, ditch, or reservoir. The width is not specified.

5. Right of way through national forests.—Whenever a right of way is through a national forest, the applicant must enter into such stipulation and execute such bond as the Forest Service may require for the protection of such national forest. No construction will be allowed in a national forest until an application for right of way has been regularly filed and approved by the Secretary of the Interior, or unless permission for such construction work has been specifically given.

6. Right of way through proposed national forest.—If the right of way is through land within a proposed national forest, the applicant must file the following stipulations under seal:

(a) That the proposed right of way is not so located as to interfere with the proper occupation and use of the reservation by the Government.

(b) That the applicant will cut no timber from the reserve outside the right of way, and will remove no timber from the land within the right of way except such as is rendered necessary for the proper use and enjoyment of the privilege for which application is made.

(c) That he will remove from the reservation, or destroy, under such safeguards as may be deemed necessary by the General Land Office, all standing, fallen, and dead timber, as well as all tops, lops, brush, and refuse cuttings on the right of way, for such distance on each side of the central line as may be required by the General Land Office to protect the forest from fire.

(d) That the applicant will furnish free of charge such assistance in men and material for fighting fires as may be spared without serious injury to the applicant's business.

(e) That should any portion of said right of way be included in a national forest, the applicant will build new roads, trails, and crossings, as required by the Forest Service, in case any roads or trails are destroyed or intercepted by construction work or flooding upon said right of way.

The applicant will also be required to give bond to be approved by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, stipulating that the United States will be compensated " for any and all damage to the public lands, timber, natural curiosities, or other public property on such reservation, or upon the lands of the United States, by reason of such use and occupation of the reserve, regardless of the cause or circumstances under which such damage may occur." A bond furnished by any surety company that has complied with the provisions of the act of August 13, 1894 (28 Stat. 279), will be accepted. The amount of the bond can not be fixed until the application has been submitted to the General Land Office, when a form of bond will be furnished and the amount thereof fixed.

7. Right of way partly on unsurveyed land.—Canals, ditches, or reservoirs lying partly upon unsurveyed land can be approved if the application and accompanying maps and papers conform to these regulations, but the approval will only relate to that portion traversing the surveyed lands. (For right of way wholly on unsurveyed land, see sec. 17.)

8. Application by corporation.—An incorporated company desiring to obtain the benefits of the law must file the papers and maps specified below with the register of the land district in which the canal, ditch, or reservoir is to be located. These papers and maps will be forwarded to the General Land Office and, after examination, they will be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with recommendation as to their approval:

(a)[4] A copy of its articles of incorporation, duty certified to by the proper officers of the company under its corporate seal, or by the secretary of the State or Territory where organized.

(b) A copy of the State or Territorial law under which the company was organized, (if it was organized under State or Territorial law), with certificate of the governor or secretary of the State or Territory, under seal, that the same was the law at the date of incorporation. (See par. (k) of this section.)

(c) If the State or Territorial law directs that the articles of incorporation or other papers connected with the organization be filed with any State or Territorial officer, there must be submitted the certificate of such officer that the same have been filed according to law, and giving the date of the filing thereof.

(d) When a company is operating in a State or Territory other than that in which it is incorporated, it must submit the certificate of the proper officer of the State or Territory that it has complied with the laws of that State or Territory governing foreign corporations to the extent required to entitle the company to operate in such State or Territory.

No forms are prescribed for the above portion of the "due proofs" required, as each case must be governed to some extent by the laws of the State or Territory.

(e) The official statement, by the proper officer, under the seal of the company, that the organization has been completed, that the company is fully authorized to proceed with construction according to the existing law of the State or Territory in which it is incorporated, and that the copy of the articles filed is true and correct. (See Form 1.)

(f)[4] A true list, signed by the president, under the seal of the company, showing the names and designations of its officers at the date of the filing of the proofs. (See Form 2.)

[4] See amendment, p. 1335.

(g) A copy of the company's title or right to appropriate the water needed for its canals, ditches, and reservoirs, certified as required by the State or Territorial laws. If the miner's inch is the unit used in such title, its equivalent in cubic feet per second must be stated. If the right to appropriate the water has not been adjudicated under the local laws, a certified copy of the notice of appropriation will be sufficient. If the notice of appropriation is accompanied by a map of the canal or reservoir it will not be necessary to furnish a copy of the map where the notice describes the location sufficiently to identify it with the canal or reservoir for which the right-of-way application is made. If the water-right claim has been transferred a number of times it is not necessary to furnish a copy of each instrument of transfer; an abstract of title will be accepted.

(h) A copy of the State or Territorial laws governing water rights and irrigation, with the certificate of the governor or secretary of the State or Territory that the same is the existing law. (See par. k of this section.)

(i) A separate statement as follows: The amount of water flowing in the stream supplying the canal, ditch, or reservoir, at the point of diversion or damming, during the preceding year or years. For this purpose it will be necessary to give the maximum, minimum, and average flow in cubic feet per second for each month during the period for which records are available. In cases of reservoirs of 5,000 acre-feet capacity or more, or of ditches of 100 cubic feet per second capacity or more, the amount of water, in acre-feet, available for storage or diversion, and the amount of water which it is proposed to divert annually from the stream or streams affected, with the period during which the water is to be diverted. The length, cross-section, grade, and capacity of the ditches to be constructed and the characteristics of each ditch as affecting the flow of water. The surveyor or engineer of the applicant must certify to the above, and must certify that all available records (specifying them), official and otherwise, have been consulted. If there is no well-defined flow which can be measured, or if there is no record of the flow, the area of the watershed, average annual rainfall, and estimated run-off at the point of diversion or damming must be given.

(j) Maps, field notes, and other papers, as hereinafter required.

(k) If certified copies of the existing laws regarding corporations and irrigation, and of new laws as passed from time to time, be forwarded to the General Land Office by the governor or secretary of the State or Territory, the applicant may file, in lieu of the requirements of paragraphs b and h of this section, a certificate of the governor or secretary of state, under seal, that no change has been made since a given date, not later than that of the laws last forwarded.[5]

9. Application by individuals.—Individuals or associations of individuals making applications for right of way are requred to file the information called for in paragraphs g, h, i, and j of the preceding section. Associations of individuals must, in addition, file their articles of association; if there be none, the fact must be stated over the signature of each member of the association.

[5] See additional paragraph, p. 1335.

10. Field notes.—Field notes of the surveys must be filed in duplicate, separate from the map, and in such form that they may be folded for filing. Complete field notes should not be placed on the map, but the following data should be shown thereon: (a) The station numbers where deflections or changes of numbering occur; (b) station numbers with distances to corners at points where the lines of the public surveys are crossed; and (c) the lines of reference of initial and terminal points, with their courses and distances. Typewritten field notes with clear carbon copies are preferred, as they expedite the examination of applications. The field notes should contain, in addition to the ordinary records of surveys, the data called for in this and in the following sections. They should state which line of the canal was run—whether middle or a specified side line. The stations or courses should be numbered in the field notes and on the map. The record should be so complete that from it the surveys could be accurately retraced by a competent surveyor with proper instruments. The field notes should show whether the lines were run on the true or the magnetic bearings, and if run on magnetic bearings the declination of the needle and date of determination must be stated. The kind and size of the instrument used in running the lines and its minimum reading on the horizontal circle should be noted. The line of survey should be that of the actual location of the proposed ditch and, as exactly as possible, the water line of the proposed reservoir. The method of running the grade lines of canals and the water lines of reservoirs must be described.

11. Maps.—The maps filed must be drawn on tracing linen in duplicate, and must be strictly conformable to the field notes of the survey. They must be filed in the land office for the district in which the right of way is located; but if the right of way is located in more than one district, duplicate maps and field notes need be filed in but one district and single sets in the others. Other canals, ditches, laterals, or reservoirs with which connections are made must be shown, but distinguished from those for which right of way is desired by ink of a different color.

The scale of the map should be 2,000 feet to the inch in the case of canals or ditches and 1,000 feet to the inch in the case of reservoirs. The scale may, however, be 1,000 feet to the inch in the case of canals or ditches and 500 feet to the inch in the case of reservoirs when such a scale is absolutely necessary to properly show the proposed works.

All subdivisions of the public surveys represented on the map should have their entire boundaries drawn, and on all lands affected by the right of way the smallest legal subdivisions (40-acre tracts and lots), must be shown. The section, township, and range must be clearly marked on the map.

The map must bear a statement of the width of each canal, ditch, or lateral at high-water line. If not of uniform width the limits of the deviations must be clearly defined on the map. The field notes should record the changes in such a manner as to admit of exact location on the ground. In the case of a pipe line the diameter of the pipe should be stated. The map must show the source of water supply.

In applications for right of way for a reservoir the capacity of the reservoir must be stated on the map in acre-feet (i. e., the number of acres that will be covered to a depth of 1 foot by the water that the reservoir will hold; 1 acre-foot is 43,560 cubic feet). The map must show the source of water supply for the reservoir and the location and height of the dam.

12. Initial and terminal points.—The terminal of a canal, ditch, or lateral should be fixed by reference of course and distance to the nearest existing corner of the public survey. The initial point of the survey of a reservoir should be fixed by reference of course and distance to the nearest existing corner outside the reservoir by a line that does not cross an area that will be covered with water when the reservoir is in use. The map, field notes, engineer's affidavit, and applicant's certificate (Forms 3 and 4) should each show these connections.

13. Connections on unsurveyed land.—When either terminal of a canal, ditch, or lateral is upon unsurveyed land, it must be connected by traverse with an established corner of the public survey, if not more than 6 miles distant, and the single bearing and distance from the terminal point to the corner must be computed and noted on the map, in the engineer's affidavit, and in the applicant's certificate (Forms 3 and 4). The notes and all data for the computation of the traverse must be given in the field notes.

14. Connections with monuments on unsurveyed land.—When an established corner of the public survey is more than 6 miles distant this connection will be made with a natural object or a permanent monument which can be readily found and recognized and which will fix and perpetuate the position of the terminal point. The map must show the position of such mark and must give the course and distance to the terminus. The field notes must give an accurate description of the mark and full data of the traverse as required above. The engineer's affidavit and applicant's certificate (Forms 3 and 4) must state the connections. These monuments are of great importance.

15. Forms for canal, etc., on unsurveyed land.—When a canal, ditch, or lateral lies partly on unsurveyed land, each portion lying within surveyed and unsurveyed land will be separately described in the field notes and in Forms 3 and 4 by connections of termini, length, and width, as though each portion were independent. (See secs. 12, 13, and 14.)

16. Forms for reservoir on unsurveyed land.—When a reservoir lies partly on unsurveyed land its initial point must be noted, as required for the termini of ditches in section 12. The reference line must not cross an area that will be covered with water when the reservoir is in use. The areas of the several parts lying on surveyed and unsurveyed land must be separately noted on the map, in the field notes, and in Forms 3 and 4.

17. Right of way wholly on unsurveyed land.—Maps showing canals, ditches, or reservoirs wholly upon unsurveyed lands may be received and placed on file in the General Land Office and the local land office of the district in which the land is located, for general information. The date of filing will be noted thereon; but the maps will not be submitted to nor approved by the Secretary of the Interior, as the act makes no provision for the approval of any but maps showing the location in connection with the public surveys. The filing of such maps will not dispense with the filing of maps after the survey of the lands and within the time specified by the act granting the right of way. If these maps are in all respects regular when filed, they will receive the Secretary's approval. In filing such maps the initial and terminal points will be fixed as indicated in sections 13 and 14.

18. Connections with public survey corners.—Whenever the line of survey crosses a township or section line of the public survey, the distance to the nearest existing corner should be ascertained and noted. In the case of a reservoir the distance must not be measured across an area which will be covered with water when the reservoir is in use. The map of the canal, ditch, or reservoir must show these distances, and the field notes must give the points of intersection and the distances. When corners are destroyed by the canal or reservoir, proceed as directed in sections 19 and 20.

19. Witness monuments for destroyed public survey corners.—Whenever a corner of the public survey will be covered by earth or water, or otherwise rendered useless, marked monuments, (one on each side of destroyed corner), must be set on each township or section line passing through, or one on each line terminating at, said corner. These monuments must comply with the requirements for witness corners of the Manual of Surveying Instructions issued by the General Land Office, and must be at such distance from the works as to be safe from interference during the construction and operation of the same. If two or more consecutive corners on the same line are destroyed, the monuments shall be set as required in the manual for the nearest corner on that line to be covered.

20. Method of establishing witness monuments.—The line on which such monument is set will be determined by running a random line from the corner to be destroyed to the first existing corner on the line to be marked by the monument, a temporary mark being set on the random line at the distance of the proposed monument. If the random line strikes the corner run to, the monument will be established at the place marked; if the random line passes to one side of the corner, the north and south or east and west distance to it will be measured and the true course calculated. The proper correction of the temporary mark will then be computed and a permanent monument set in the proper place. The field notes for the surveys establishing the monuments must be in duplicate and separate from those of the canal or reservoir, and must be certified by the surveyor under oath. They must comply with the form of field notes prescribed in the Manual of Surveying Instructions issued by the General Land Office.

When application is made for a canal or reservoir which is constructed and in operation, the method to be adopted in setting the monuments must be governed by the special features of each case and left to the judgment of the surveyor. No field notes will be accepted unless the lines on which the monuments are set conform to the lines shown by the field notes of the survey as made originally under the direction of this office, and unless the notes are in such form that the computation can be verified and the lines retraced on the ground.

21. Affidavit and certificate required.—The engineer's affidavit and applicant's certificate must both designate by termini (as in sections 12 to 17, inclusive) and length each canal, ditch, or lateral, and by initial point and area each reservoir shown on a map, for which right of way is asked. This affidavit and this certificate (changed where necessary when an application is made by an individual or association of individuals) must be written on the map in duplicate. Applicants under the act of March 3, 1891, must include in the certificate (Form 4) the statement: "And I further certify that the right of way herein described is desired for the main purpose of irrigation." (See Forms 3 and 4.) No changes or additions are allowable in the substance of these forms, except when the facts differ from those assumed therein.

22. Notation on maps and records.—When maps are filed, the register will note on each the name of the land office and the date of filing over his written signature. Notations will also be made on the records of the local land office, as to each unpatented tract affected, that application for right of way for a canal (or reservoir) is pending, giving date of filing and name of applicant. The register will certify on each map, over his written signature, that unpatented land is affected by the proposed right of way. The maps and field notes in duplicate, and any other papers filed in connection with the application, will then be promptly transmitted to the General Land Office with report that the required notations have been made on the records of the local land office. Any valid right existing at the date of the filing of the right-of-way application will not be affected by the filing or approval thereof. (See sec. 4.) If no unpatented land is involved in the application, the local offices will reject it, allowing the usual right of appeal.

Upon the approval of a map of location by the Secretary of the Interior, the duplicate copy will be sent to the local officers, who will mark upon the township plats the lines of the canals, ditches, or reservoirs, as laid down on the map. They will also note the approval in ink, on the tract books, opposite each tract marked as required above and report to the General Land Office that notations have been made and the applicant notified of approval.

23. Evidence of construction.—When the canal, ditch, or reservoir is constructed, an affidavit of the engineer and certificate of the applicant (Forms 5 and 6) must be filed in the local office, in duplicate, for transmission to the General Land Office. No new map will be required, unless there are deviations from the right of way previously approved, either before or after construction, when there must be filed new maps and field notes in full, as herein provided, bearing proper forms changed to agree with the facts in the case. The map must show clearly the portions amended or bear a statement describing them, and the location must be described in the forms as the amended survey and the amended definite location. In such cases the applicant must file a relinquishment, under seal, of all rights under the former approval as to the portions amended, said relinquishment to take effect when the map of amended definite location is approved by the Secretary of the Interior. If the canal or reservoir has been constructed on the location originally approved, and is to be used until the canal or reservoir on the amended location is ready for use, the relinquishment may be made to take effect upon the completion of the canal or reservoir on the amended location.

24. Right of way on segregated reservoir sites.—The act approved February 26, 1897 (29 Stat. 599), entitled "An act to provide for the use and occupation of reservoir sites reserved," permits the approval of applications under the above act of 1891 for right of way upon reservoir sites reserved under authority of the acts of October 2, 1888 (25 Stat. 505, 526), and August 30, 1890 (26 Stat. 371, 391). The text of the act is as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all reservoir sites reserved or to be reserved shall be open to use and occupation under the right-of-way act of March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one. And any State is hereby authorized to improve and occupy such reservoir sites to the same extent as an individual or private corporation, under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe: Provided, That the charges for water coming in whole or part from reservoir sites used or occupied under the provisions of this act shall always be subject to the control and regulation of the respective States and Territories in which such reservoirs are in whole or part situate.

When an application is made under this act a reference to it should be added to Forms 4 and 6. In other respects the application should be prepared according to the preceding regulations.

OIL PIPE LINES IN COLORADO AND WYOMING

25.[6] Requirements.—The act approved May 21, 1896 (29 Stat. 127), entitled "An act to grant right of way over the public domain for pipe lines in the States of Colorado and Wyoming," is similar in its requirements to the right-of-way act of March 3, 1891, and the preceding regulations furnish full information as to the preparation of the maps and papers. Applicants will be governed thereby so far as they are applicable.

The text of the act is as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the right of way through the public lands of the United States situate in the State of Colorado and in the State of Wyoming outside of the boundary lines of the Yellowstone National Park is hereby granted to any pipe-line company or corporation formed for the purpose of transporting oils, crude or refined, which shall have filed or may hereafter file with the Secretary of the Interior a copy of its articles of incorporation, and due proofs of its organization under the same, to the extent of the ground occupied by said pipe line and twenty-five feet on each side of the center of line of the same; also the right to take from the public lands adjacent to the line of said pipe-line material, earth, and stone necessary for the construction of said pipe line.
>
> SEC. 2. That any company or corporation desiring to secure the benefits of this act shall within twelve months after the location of ten miles of the pipe line if the same be upon surveyed lands; and if the same be upon unsurveyed lands, within twelve months after the survey thereof by the United States, file with the register of the land office for the district where such land is located a map of its line, and upon the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior the same shall be noted upon the plats in said office, and thereafter all such lands over which such right of way shall pass shall be disposed of subject to such right of way.
> SEC. 3. That if any section of said pipe line shall not be completed within five years after the location of said section the right herein granted shall be forfeited, as to any incomplete section of said pipe line, to the extent that the same is not completed at the date of the forfeiture.
>
> SEC. 4. That nothing in this act shall authorize the use of such right of way except for the pipe line, and then only so far as may be necessary for its construction, maintenance, and care.

RESERVOIR FOR WATERING STOCK

26.[7] General provisions.—The act approved January 13, 1897 (29 Stat. 484), entitled "An act providing for the location and purchase of public lands for reservoir sites," is as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any person, live-stock company, or transportation corporation engaged in breeding, grazing, driving, or transporting live stock may construct reservoirs upon unoccupied public lands of the United States, not mineral or otherwise reserved, for the purpose of furnishing water to such live stock, and shall have control of such reservoir, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and the lands upon which the same is constructed, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, so long as such reservoir is maintained and water kept therein for such purposes: Provided, That such reservoir shall not be fenced and shall be open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind.
>
> SEC. 2. That any person, live-stock company, or corporation desiring to avail themselves of the provisions of this act shall file a declaratory statement in the United States land office in the district where the land is situated, which statement shall describe the land where such reservoir is to be or has been constructed; shall state what business such corporation is engaged in; specify the capacity of the reservoir in gallons, and whether such company, person, or corporation has filed upon other reservoir sites within the same county; and if so, how many.
> SEC. 3. That at any time after the completion of such reservoir or reservoirs which, if not completed at the date of the passage of this act, shall be constructed and completed within two years after filing such declaratory statement, such person, company, or corporation shall have the same accurately surveyed, as hereinafter provided, and shall file in the United States land office in the district in which such reservoir is located a map or plat showing the location of such reservoir, which map or plat shall be transmitted by the register and receiver of said United States land office to the Secretary of the Interior and approved by him, and thereafter such land shall be reserved from sale by the Secretary of the Interior so long as such reservoir is kept in repair and water kept therein.
> SEC. 4. That Congress may at any time amend, alter, or repeal this act.

27. No lands sold.—Although the title indicates that lands are to be sold for reservoir sites, the act does not provide for the sale of any lands, and therefore no lands can be sold under its provisions. The act, however, directs the Secretary of the Interior to reserve the lands from sale after the approval of the map showing the location of the reservoir. Homestead entries are allowed for lands embraced in reservoir declaratory statements, prior to the completion of the reservoir and the approval of the map, subject, however, to cancellation if the reservoir is completed within the time specified by the act.

28. Declaratory statement.—Any person, livestock company, or transportation corporation engaged in breeding, grazing, driving, or transporting livestock, desiring to obtain the benefits of the act must file a declaratory statement in the United States land office in the district in which the land is located.

29. Application by corporation.—When the applicant is a corporation there should be filed a copy of its articles of incorporation and proofs of its organization, as required in section 8, paragraphs a, b, c, d, e, f, and k, of these regulations. If these papers are filed with the first declaratory statement made by the company, a reference thereto by its number will be sufficient in any subsequent application by the company.

---

[7] See Circulars Nos. 893, p. 1295, and 1028, p. 1296.

The declaratory statement must be made under oath and should be drawn in accordance with Form 9, and must contain the following:

(a) The post-office address of the applicant; the name of the county in which the reservoir is to be or has been constructed; the description by the smallest legal subdivision (40-acre tracts or lots) of the land sought to be reserved which under no circumstances must exceed 160 acres; certificate that the land is not occupied or otherwise claimed; certificate that to the best of the applicant's knowledge and belief the land is not mineral or otherwise reserved; statement of the business of the applicant, which statement shall include full and minute information concerning the extent to which he is engaged in breeding, grazing, driving, or transporting livestock, the number and kinds of such stock, the place where they are being bred or grazed, whether within an inclosure or upon uninclosed lands, and also the points from which and to which they are being driven or transported; description of the land owned or claimed by the applicant in the vicinity of the proposed reservoir and statement of its amount; certificate that no part of the land sought to be reserved is or will be fenced, that all the land will be kept open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind; and that the lands so sought to be reserved are not, by reason of their proximity to other lands reserved for reservoirs, excluded from reservation by the regulations and rulings of the Land Department.

(b) The location of the reservoir described by the smallest legal subdivisions (40-acre tracts or lots), its area in acres, its capacity in gallons, the source from which water is to be obtained for such reservoir, whether there are any streams or springs within 2 miles of the land sought to be reserved; and if so, where.

(c) The numbers, locations, and areas of all other reservoir sites filed upon by the applicant, especially designating those in the county in which the proposed reservoir is located.

30. Action by the Land Department on declaratory statements, and size, location, and number of reservoir sites.—When such declaratory statement is filed, the date of filing will be noted thereon over the signature of the officer receiving it, and the statements will be numbered according to order of June 1, 1908.[a] The register will make the usual notations on the records, in pencil, under the designation of "Reservoir declaratory statement, No. —," adding the date of the act. For the filing of such reservoir declaratory statement the local officers will be authorized to charge the usual fee. (Sec. 2238, U. S. Rev. Stat.) The local officers will forward the declaratory statement with the regular monthly returns, with abstracts, in the usual manner. In acting upon these statements the following general rules will be applied:

(a)[8] No reservation will be made for a reservoir of less than 250,000 gallons capacity, and for a reservoir of less than 500,000 gallons capacity not more than 10 acres can be reserved. For a reservoir of 500,000 gallons and less than 1,000,000 gallons capacity not more than 80 acres can be reserved. For a reservoir of 1,000,000 gallons and less than 1,500,000 gallons capacity not more than 120 acres can be reserved. For a reservoir of 1,500,000 gallons capacity or more 160 acres may be reserved.

[a] The order of June 1, 1908 (37 L. D. 45), relates to accounts. For later instructions, see Circular No. 616, p. 48.

[8] See amendment, p. 1360.

(b) Not more than 160 acres shall be reserved for this purpose in any section.

(c) Not more than 160 acres shall be reserved for this purpose in one group of tracts adjoining or cornering upon each other.

(d) A distance of one-half mile must be left between any two groups of tracts which aggregate more than 160 acres.

(e) The local officers will reject any reservoir declaratory statement not in conformity with these rules.

(f) Lands so reserved shall not be fenced, but shall be kept open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind. If lands so reserved are at any time fenced or otherwise inclosed, or if they are not kept open to the free use of any person desiring to water animals of any kind, or if the reservoir applicant attempts to use them for any other purpose, or if the reservation is not obtained for the bona fide and exclusive purpose of constructing and maintaining a reservoir thereon according to law, the declaratory statement, upon any such matter being made to appear, will be canceled and all rights thereunder be declared at an end.

(g) Notwithstanding the action of the local officers in accepting any such declaratory statement, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will reject the same if upon considering the matters set forth therein it appears that the declaratory statement is not filed in good faith for the sole purpose of accomplishing what the law authorizes to be done.

31. Construction.—The reservoir must be completed and constructed within two years after the filing of the declaratory statement; otherwise the declaratory statement will be subject to cancellation.

32. Map and field notes of constructed reservoir.—After the construction and completion of the reservoir the applicant shall have the same accurately surveyed and mapped, in accordance with the instructions of sections 10 to 22, inclusive, so far as they are applicable. The map and field notes, which are not to be prepared in duplicate, must be filed in the proper local office. The map must bear Forms 10 and 11, and the field notes must be sworn to by the surveyor.

33. Notations by local land officers.—When the map, field notes, and other papers have been filed in the local office, the date of filing will be noted thereon and the proper notations will be made on the local office records, as in the case of the declaratory statement. Local officers will then promptly forward the maps and papers to the General Land Office.

34. Approval.—The map and papers will be examined in the General Land Office to determine whether they comply with the law and the regulations, and whether the amount of land desired is warranted by the showing made in the application. If found satisfactory they will be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior, and upon approval the lands shown to be necessary for the proper use and enjoyment of the reservoir will be reserved from other disposition so long as the reservoir is maintained and water kept therein for the purposes named in the act. Upon the receipt of notice of such reservation from the General Land Office the local officers will make the proper notations on their records and report the making thereof promptly to the General Land Office.

35. Annual proof of maintenance.—In order that this reservation shall be continued it is necessary that the reservoir "shall be kept in repair and water kept therein." For this reason the owner of the reservoir will be required during the month of January of each year to file in the local office an affidavit to the effect that the reservoir has been kept in repair and water kept therein during the preceding year, and that all the provisions of the act have been complied with. Form 12 will be used for this affidavit. Upon failure to file such affidavit steps will be taken looking to the revocation of the reservation of the lands.

36.[9] Reservoir on unsurveyed land.—If the reservoir is located on unsurveyed land, the declaratory statement may be filed, the lands being described as closely as practicable.

The widely different conditions to be considered in the operations proposed by the applicants make it impossible to formulate regulations that will furnish the data necessary in all cases. Additional information will be called for whenever necessary for the proper consideration of any particular case.

TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE LINES, ELECTRICAL PLANTS, CANALS, AND RESERVOIRS [10]

37. General statement.—The act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), entitled "An act relating to rights of way through certain parks, reservations, and other public lands," is as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized and empowered, under general regulations to be fixed by him, to permit the use of rights of way through the public lands, forest and other reservations of the United States, and the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks, California, for electrical plants, poles, and lines for the generation and distribution of electrical power, and for telephone and telegraph purposes, and for canals, ditches, pipes and pipe lines, flumes, tunnels, or other water conduits, and for water plants, dams, and reservoirs used to promote irrigation or mining or quarrying, or the manufacturing or cutting of timber or lumber, or the supplying of water for domestic, public, or any other beneficial uses to the extent of the ground occupied by such canals, ditches, flumes, tunnels, reservoirs, or other water conduits or water plants, or electrical or other works permitted hereunder, and not to exceed fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof, or not to exceed fifty feet on each side of the center line of such pipes and pipe lines, electrical, telegraph, and telephone lines and poles, by any citizen, association, or corporation of the United States, where it is intended by such to exercise the use permitted hereunder or any one or more of the purposes herein named: Provided, That such permits shall be allowed within or through any of said parks or any forest, military, Indian, or other reservation only upon the approval of the chief officer of the department under whose supervision such park or reservation falls and upon a finding by him that the same is not incompatible with the public interest: Provided further, That all permits given hereunder for telegraph and telephone purposes shall be subject to the provision of title sixty-five of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and amendments thereto, regulating rights of [10] These instructions were superseded for certain purposes by regulations of Mar. 1, 1913, p. 1340, and the act of Feb. 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), has been superseded, in part, by the Federal water power act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063). See Circulars Nos. 893, p. 1295, and 1028, p. 1296.

> way for telegraph companies over the public domain: And provided further, That any permission given by the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of this act may be revoked by him or his successor in his discretion, and shall not be held to confer any right, or easement, or interest in, to, or over any public land, reservation, or park.

This act, in general terms, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under regulations to be fixed by him, to grant permission to use rights of way through the public lands, forests, and other reservations of the United States, and the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks in California, for every purpose contemplated by acts of January 21, 1895 (28 Stat. 635), May 14, 1896 (29 Stat. 120), and section 1 of the act of May 11, 1898 (30 Stat. 404), and for other purposes additional thereto, except for tramroads, the provisions relating to tramroads, contained in the act of 1895 and in section 1 of the act of 1898, aforesaid remaining unmodified and not being in any manner extended.

Although this act does not expressly repeal any provision of law relating to the granting of permission to use rights of way contained in the acts referred to, yet in view of the general scope and purpose of the act, and of the fact that Congress has, with the exception above noted, embodied therein the main features of the former acts relative to the granting of a mere permission or license for such use, it is evident that, for purposes of administration, the later act should control in so far as it pertains to the granting of permission to use rights of way for purposes therein specified. Accordingly all applications for permission to use rights of way for the purposes specified in this act must be submitted thereunder. Where, however, it is sought to acquire a right of way for the main purpose of irrigation, as contemplated by sections 18 to 21 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), and section 2 of the act of May 11, 1898, supra, the application must be submitted in accordance with the regulations issued under said acts.

Application for permission to use the desired right of way through the public lands and parks designated in the act must be filed and permission must be granted, as herein provided, before any rights can be claimed thereunder.

38.[11] Nature of grant.—It is to be specially noted that this act does not make a grant in the nature of an easement, but authorizes a mere permission in the nature of a license, revocable at any time, and it gives no right whatever to take from the public lands, reservations, or parks, adjacent to the right of way, any material, earth, or stone for construction or other purpose.

39. Applications for right of way through national forests.—By section 1 of the act of February 1, 1905 (33 Stat. 628), it is provided:

> That the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture shall, from and after the passage of this act, execute or cause to be executed all laws affecting public lands heretofore or hereafter reserved under the provisions of section twenty-four of the act entitled "An act to repeal the timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and acts supplemental to and amendatory thereof, after such lands have been so reserved, excepting such laws as affect the surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, relinquishing, reconveying, certifying, or patenting of any such lands.

[11] See amendmetns, pp. 1335 and 1362.

Under this provision it has been determined that the Department of Agriculture is invested with jurisdiction to pass upon all applications under any law of the United States providing for the granting of a permission to occupy and use lands in a national forest, provided this occupation or use is temporary, and will in no wise affect the fee or cloud the title of the United States should the reserve be discontinued.

Therefore, when it is desired to obtain permission to use a right of way over public lands wholly within a national forest, an application should be prepared in accordance with the instructions issued by the Department of Agriculture, and the same filed with the officer in charge of such national forest.

In case the application involves rights and privileges upon public lands partly within and partly without a national forest, separate applications must be prepared, and the one affecting lands within the national forest filed with the forest officer and the other filed in the local land office.

40. Applications for right of way through land outside of national forests.—Where permission to use a right of way over lands wholly outside of national forests is desired, the application must be prepared and filed in accordance with sections 4 to 22, inclusive, appropriate changes being made in the prescribed forms so as to specify and relate to the act under which the application is made.

An affidavit by the applicant that he is a citizen of the United States must accompany the application. If the applicant is an association of citizens, each member must make affidavit of citizenship, and a complete list of the members must be given in an affidavit by one of them. If he is not a native-born citizen he must file the usual proofs of naturalization. The applicant must also set forth in the affidavit the purposes for which the right of way is to be used, and must show that he in good faith intends to utilize the same for such purposes.

41. Buildings to be platted on map in main drawing and in separate drawing.—When application is made for right of way for electrical or water plants, the location and extent of ground proposed to be occupied by buildings or other structures necessary to be used in connection therewith must be clearly designated on the map and described in the field notes and forms (7 and 8) by reference to course and distance from a corner of the public survey. In addition to being shown in connection with the main drawing, the buildings or other structures must be platted on the map in a separate drawing on a scale sufficiently large to show clearly their dimensions and relative positions. When two or more of such proposed structures are to be located near each other, it will be sufficient to give the reference to a corner of the public survey for one of them, provided all the others are connected therewith by course and distance shown on the map. The applicant must also file an affidavit setting forth the dimensions and proposed use of each of the structures, and must show definitely that each one is necessary for a proper use of the right of way for the purposes contemplated in the act.

42. Unsurveyed lands.—Permission may be given under this act (Feb. 15, 1901) for rights of way upon unsurveyed lands, maps to be prepared in accordance with the requirements of this circular.

43.[12] National parks.—Whenever a right of way is through any of the national parks designated in the act, the applicant must show to the satisfaction of the department that the location and use of the right of way for the purposes contemplated will not interfere with the uses and purposes for which the park was originally dedicated, and will not result in damage or injury to the natural conditions of property or scenery existing therein. When the right of way is through any of the national parks designated in the act, the applicant must file the stipulations and bond required by section 6, but, in case of a telephone line, substitute the following: "That upon completion of the telephone lines they shall be subject to the free use of the park officers for all purposes incident to the administration of the park," for stipulation (e) under said section 6.

Whenever right of way within a park is desired for operations in connection with mining, quarrying, cutting timber, or manufacturing lumber, a satisfactory showing must be made of the applicant's right to engage in such operations within the park. If the application and the showing made in support thereof is satisfactory, the Secretary of the Interior will give the required permission in such form as may be deemed proper, according to the features of each case; and it is to be expressly understood, in accordance with the final proviso of the act, that any permission given thereunder may be modified or revoked by the Secretary or his successor, in his discretion, at any time, and shall not be held to confer any right, easement, or interest in, to, or over any public land or park. The final disposal by the United States of any tract traversed by the permitted right of way is of itself, without further act on the part of the department, a revocation of the permission so far as it affects that tract; and any permission granted hereunder is also subject so much further and future regulations as may be adopted by the department.

44. Indian reservations.—Applications for right of way under this act, all of which is located upon land within an Indian reservation, must be filed with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Applications for right of way affecting lands within and without Indian reservations must be filed in the local land office for forwarding to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. Before such applications are transmitted to the department they will be submitted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs for such action and recommendation as that officer may deem proper in so far as the same pertains to such Indian reservation. Applicants will be required to furnish, in triplicate, so much of the map and field notes as relate to that portion of the right of way within an Indian reservation; and if the application is subsequently granted, one copy of such portion of the map and field notes as pertains to such reservation will be placed on file in the Indian Office. In this connection attention is directed to the provisions of section 3 of the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1083), which authorizes the granting of permanent rights of way, in the nature of easements, for telegraph and telephone purposes only, through Indian reservations and other Indian lands, upon payment of proper compensation for the benefit of the Indians interested therein. The provisions of the act of March 3, 1901, and the nature and character of the rights authorized to be secured thereunder differ materially from the provisions of the act on which these regulations are based and the rights authorized to be conferred thereunder. Applicants, therefore, desiring to secure permanent rights of way through Indian reservations or other Indian lands for telegraph and telephone purposes will be required to submit their applications therefor under the act of March 3, 1901, supra, in accordance with the then current regulations issued thereunder. (For existing regulations under said act, see regulations approved March 26, 1901.[b])

[12] See amendment, p. 1335.

45. Notations and procedure.—Upon the filing of an application under this act, the register will note the same in pencil on the tract books, opposite the tracts traversed, giving date of filing and name of applicant, and also indorse on each map, over his written signature, the date of filing. If it appears that no portion of the public lands or parks designated in the act would be affected by the approval of such maps, they will be returned to the applicant with notice of that fact. If vacant public land or lands in any park so designated are affected by the proposed right of way, the register will so certify on the map and duplicate over his signature, and will promptly transmit the same to the General Land Office with report that the required notations have been made.

When permission to use the right of way applied for is given by the Secretary of the Interior, a copy of the original map will be sent to the local officers, who will mark upon the township plats the line of the right of way and will note in pencil, opposite each tract of public land affected, that such permission has been given, the date thereof, and a reference to the act.

TRAMROADS

46. Rights of way for tramroads.—The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to permit the use of rights of way for tramroads through the public lands of the United States, not within the limits of any park, national forest, or military or Indian reservation under the provisions of the act of Congress of January 21, 1895 (28 Stat. 635), as amended by section 1 of the act of May 11, 1898 (30 Stat. 404). The act of January 21, 1895, entitled "An act to permit the use of the right of way through the public lands for tramroads, canals, and reservoirs, and for other purposes," is as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized and empowered under general regulations to be fixed by him, to permit the use of the right of way through the public lands of the United States, not within the limits of any park, forest, military, or Indian reservation, for tramroads, canals, or reservoirs to the extent of the ground occupied by the water of the canals and reservoirs and fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof, or fifty feet on each side of the center line of the tramroad, by any citizen or any association of citizens of the United States engaged in the business of mining or quarrying or of cutting timber and manufacturing lumber.

---

[b] The regulations approved Mar. 26, 1901, have been superseded by regulations approved May 22, 1928. The latter are not carried in this publication. They are administered through the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This act was amended by section 1 of the act of May 11, 1898, supra, as follows:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the act entitled "An act to permit the use of the right of way through the public lands for tramroads, canals, and reservoirs, and for other purposes," approved January twenty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding thereto the following:
> "That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized and empowered, under general regulations to be fixed by him, to permit the use of right of way upon the public lands of the United States, not within limits of any park, forest, military, or Indian reservations, for tramways, canals, or reservoirs, to the extent of the ground occupied by the water of the canals and reservoirs, and fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof, or fifty feet on each side of the center line of the tramroad, by any citizen or association of citizens of the United States, for the purposes of furnishing water for domestic, public, and other beneficial uses."

Applications for permission to use rights of way for tramroads should be prepared and filed in accordance with the regulations hereinbefore prescribed relative to presentation of applications for rights of way under the act of February 15, 1901, and the then current regulations issued under the general railroad right-of-way act of March 3, 1875 (for existing regulations under the latter act see 32 L. D. 481), the prescribed forms in such regulations being so modified as to specify and relate to the acts under which the application is made. It is to be specially noted that the acts relating to tramroads do not authorize the granting of permission to use rights of way for such purpose within the limits of any park, national forest, or military or Indian reservation, and it is to be further noted that permission to use rights of way for tramroads over public lands, when granted, only confers a right in the nature of a license and is subject to all the conditions and limitations hereinbefore stated in section 43 of these regulations.

RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH NATIONAL FORESTS FOR DAMS, RESERVOIRS, WATER PLANTS, DITCHES, FLUMES, PIPES, TUNNELS, AND CANALS FOR MUNICIPAL OR MINING PURPOSES

47. General statement.—Section 4 of the act of Congress approved February 1, 1905 (33 Stat. 628), reads as follows:

> SEC. 4. That rights of way for the construction and maintenance of dams, reservoirs, water plants, ditches, flumes, pipes, tunnels, and canals, within and across the forest reserves of the United States, and hereby granted to citizens and corporations of the United States for municipal or mining purposes, and for the purposes of the milling and reduction of ores, during the period of the beneficial use, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and subject to the laws of the State or Territory in which said reserves are respectively situated.

This act grants rights of way through national forests to citizens and corporations of the United States for the objects therein specified, during the period of their beneficial use, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and subject to the laws of the State or Territory in which said forests are situated.

All applications for the right of way for the purposes set forth in said act must be submitted in accordance herewith.

No construction will be allowed in national forests until an application for right of way has been regularly filed in accordance with these regulations and has been approved by the Secretary of the Interior, or unless permission has been specifically given.

48. Nature of grant.—The right granted is not in the nature of a grant of lands, but is a base or qualified fee, giving the possession and right of use of the land for the purposes contemplated by the act, during the period of the beneficial use. When the use ceases the right terminates, and thereupon proper steps will be taken to revoke the grant.

No right, whatever, is given to take any material, earth, or stone for construction or other purposes, nor is any right given to use any land outside of what is actually necessary for the construction and maintenance of the works.

49. Preparation of applications.—Applications for right of way under this act should be made in the form of a map and field notes, in duplicate, and must be filed in the local land office for the district in which the land traversed by the right of way is situated; if the land is in more than one district, duplicate maps and field notes need be filed in only one district and single sets in the others. The maps, field notes, evidence of water rights, etc., and, when the applicant is a corporation, the articles of incorporation and proofs of organization must be prepared and filed in accordance with sections 7 to 21, inclusive, appropriate changes being made in the prescribed forms so as to specify and relate to the act under which the application is made.

An affidavit by the applicant that he is a citizen of the United States must accompany the application. If the applicant is an association of citizens, each member must make affidavit of citizenship, and a complete list of the members must be given in an affidavit of one of them. A copy of their articles of association must also be furnished, or if there be none, the fact must be stated over the signature of each member of the association.

If the applicant is not a native-born citizen, he must file the usual proof of naturalization. The applicant must set forth in the affidavit the purposes for which the right of way is desired.

50. Water-plant structures.—When application is made for right of way for water plants, the location and extent of ground proposed to be occupied by buildings, or other structure necessary to be used in connection therewith, must be clearly designated on the map and described in the field notes and forms (7 and 8) by reference to course and distance from a corner of the public survey. In addition to being shown in connection with the main drawing, the buildings or other structures must be platted on the map in a separate drawing on a scale sufficiently large to show clearly their dimensions and relative positions. When two or more of such structures are to be located near each other, it will be sufficient to give the reference to a corner of the public survey for one of them, provided all others are connected therewith by course and distance shown on the map.

The applicant must also file an affidavit setting forth the dimensions and proposed use of each of the structures, and must show definitely that each is necessary to a proper enjoyment of the right of way granted by the act.

51. Stipulation and bond.—The applicant must enter into such stipulation and execute such bond as the Forest Service may require for the protection of the national forest.

52. Notation by register.—Upon the filing of an application under this act, the register will note the same in pencil on the tract books, opposite the tracts traversed, giving date of filing and name of applicant, and also indorse on each map over his written signature the name of the land office and the date of filing.

If it appears that no portion of the public lands in a national forest would be affected by the approval of such maps, they will be returned to the applicant with notice of that fact. If unpatented lands are affected by the proposed right of way, the register will so certify on the map and duplicate, over his signature, and will promptly transmit the same to the General Land Office, with report that the required notations have been made.

Upon the approval of a map of location by the Secretary of the Interior, the duplicate copy will be sent to the local officers, who will mark upon the township plats the lines of the right of way as laid down on the map. They will also note the approval in ink on the tract books, opposite each legal subdivision affected, with a reference to the act mentioned on the map.

53.[13] Right of way through unsurveyed land.—Maps showing reservoirs, canals, water plants, etc., wholly upon unsurveyed lands, will be received and placed on file in the General Land Office and the local land office of the district in which the same is located, for general information, and the date of filing will be noted thereon.

REGULATIONS CONCERNING RAILROAD RIGHTS OF WAY OVER THE PUBLIC LANDS AND FORFEITURE ACTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
May 21, 1909.

The following is a copy of an act of Congress approved March 3, 1875, entitled "An act granting to railroads the right of way through the public lands of the United States:"

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the right of way through the public lands of the United States is hereby granted to any railroad company duly organized under the laws of any State or Territory, except the District of Columbia, or by the Congress of the United States, which shall have filed with the Secretary of the Interior a copy of its articles of incorporation, and due proofs of its organization under the same, to the extent of one hundred feet on each side of the central line of said road; also the right to take, from the public lands adjacent to the line of said road, material, earth, stone, and timber necessary for the construction of said railroad; also, ground adjacent to such right of way for station buildings, depots, machine shops, side tracks, turn-outs, and water stations, not to exceed in amount twenty acres for each station, to the extent of one station for each ten miles of its road.

[13] See amendment, p. 1360.

Sec. 2. That any railroad company whose right of way, or whose track or roadbed upon such right of way, passes through any canyon, pass, or defile, shall not prevent any other railroad company from the use and occupancy of said canyon, pass, or defile, for the purposes of its road, in common with the road first located, or the crossing of other railroads at grade. And the location of such right of way through any canyon, pass, or defile shall not cause the disuse of any wagon or other public highway now located therein, nor prevent the location through the same of any such wagon road or highway where such road or highway may be necessary for the public accommodation; and where any change in the location of such wagon road is necessary to permit the passage of such railroad through any canyon, pass, or defile, said railroad company shall, before entering upon the ground occupied by such wagon road, cause the same to be reconstructed at its own expense in the most favorable location, and in as perfect a manner as the original road: Provided, That such expenses shall be equitably divided between any number of railroad companies occupying and using the same canyon, pass, or defile.

Sec. 3. That the legislature of the proper Territory may provide for the manner in which private lands and possessory claims on the public lands of the United States may be condemned; and, where such provision shall not have been made, such condemnation may be made in accordance with section three of the act entitled "An act [to amend an act entitled an act] to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes, approved July first, eighteen hundred and sixty-two," approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

Sec. 4. That any railroad company desiring to secure the benefits of this act shall, within twelve months after the location of any section of twenty miles of its road, if the same be upon surveyed lands, and, if upon unsurveyed lands, within twelve months after the survey thereof by the United States, file with the register of the land office for the district where such land is located a profile of its road; and, upon approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior, the same shall be noted upon the plats in said office, and thereafter all such lands over which such right of way shall pass shall be disposed of subject to such right of way: Provided, That if any section of said road shall not be completed within five years after the location of said section, the rights herein granted shall be forfeited as to any such uncompleted section of said road.

Sec. 5. That this act shall not apply to any lands within the limits of any military park, or Indian reservation, or other lands specially reserved from sale, unless such right of way shall be provided for by treaty stipulation or by act of Congress heretofore passed.

Sec. 6. That Congress hereby reserves the right at any time to alter, amend, or repeal this act, or any part thereof.

Approved, March 3, 1875. (18 Stat. p. 482.)

By the act of Congress, approved March 3, 1899 (30 Stat. 1233), it is provided:

That in the form provided by existing law the Secretary of the Interior may file and approve surveys and plats of any right of way for a wagon road, railroad, or other highway over and across any forest reservation or reservoir site when in his judgment the public interests will not be injuriously affected thereby.

1. Nature of grant.—A railroad company to which a right of way is granted does not secure a full and complete title to the land on which the right of way is located. It obtains only the right to use the land for the purposes for which it is granted and for no other purpose, and may hold such possession, if it is necessary to that use, as long and only as long as that use continues. The Government conveys the fee simple title in the land over which the right of way is granted to the person to whom patent issues for the legal subdivision on which the right of way is located, and such patentee takes the fee, subject only to the railroad company's right of use and possession. All persons settling on a tract of public land, to part of which right of way has attached, take the same subject to such right of way, and at the total area of the subdivision entered, there being no authority to make deduction in such cases. If a settler has a valid claim to land existing at the date of the filing of the map of definite location, his right is superior, and he is entitled to such reasonable measure of damages for right of way as may be determined upon by agreement or in the courts, the question being one that does not fall within the jurisdiction of this department.

2. National forest.—When a right of way is located within a national forest the applicant must enter into such stipulation and execute such bond as the Forest Service may require for the protection of such national forest.

3. Proposed national forest.—When a right of way is located within a proposed national forest the applicant must file a stipulation under seal incorporating the following:

(a) That the proposed right of way is not so located as to interfere with the proper occupation of the reservation by the Government.

(b) That the applicant will cut no timber from the reserve outside the right of way and will remove no timber within the right of way, except only such as is rendered necessary for the proper use and enjoyment of the privilege for which application is made.

(c) That he will remove from the reservation or destroy, under such safeguards as may be deemed necessary by the General Land Office, all standing, fallen, and dead timber, as well as all tops, lops, brush, and refuse cuttings on the right of way for such distance on each side of the central line as may be required by the General Land Office to protect the forest from fire.

(d) That the applicant will furnish free of charge such assistance in men and material for fighting fires as may be spared without serious injury to the applicant's business.

(e) That should any portion of said right of way be included within a national forest the applicant shall clear and keep clear, as required by the Forester, such width on each side of the track as shall be determined by the Forester, and the applicant shall pay, as required by the Forester, for all national forest timber cut or destroyed in such clearing outside said right of way.

The applicant will also be required to give bond, to be approved by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, stipulating that the United States will be compensated for any and all damage to the public lands, timber, natural curiosities, or other public property on such proposed national forest, or upon the lands of the United States, by reason of such use and occupation of the proposed reserve, regardless of the cause or circumstances under which such damage may occur. A bond furnished by any surety company that has complied with the provisions of the act of August 13, 1894 (28 Stat. 279), will be accepted. The amount of the bond can not be fixed until the application has been submitted to the General Land Office, when a form of bond will be furnished and the amount thereof fixed.

No construction will be allowed in a national forest or a proposed national forest until an application for right of way has been regularly filed in accordance with the laws of the United States and has been approved, or has been considered by this department, and permission for such construction has been specifically given.

4. Right of way over private land.—Whenever any right of way shall pass over private land or possessory claims on lands of the United States, condemnation of the right of way across the same may be made in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of the act, or the right can be purchased as provided by section 2288 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by section 3 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095).

5. Articles of incorporation, etc.—Any railroad company desiring to obtain the benefits of the law is required to file in the General Land Office, or with the register of the land district in which the principal terminus of the road is to be located, who will forward them to the General Land Office—

(a) A copy of its articles of incorporation, duly certified to by the proper officer of the company under its corporate seal, or by the secretary of the State or Territory where organized.

(b) A copy of the state or territorial law under which the company was organized, with the certificate of the governor or secretary of the State or Territory that the same was the law at the date of incorporation. (See par. g of this section.)

(c) If the law directs that the articles of incorporation or other papers connected with the organization be filed with any state or territorial officer, there must be submitted the certificate of such officer that the same have been filed according to law, and giving the date of the filing thereof.

(d) When a company is operating in a State or Territory other than that in which it is incorporated it must submit the certificate of the proper officer of the State or Territory that it has complied with the laws of that State or Territory governing foreign corporations to the extent required to entitle the company to operate in such State or Territory.

No forms are prescribed for the above portion of the proofs required, as each case must be governed to some extent by the laws of the State or Territory.

(e) The official statement, by the proper officer, under the seal of the company, that the organization has been completed, that the company is fully authorized to proceed with the construction of the road according to the existing law of the State or Territory in which it is incorporated. (Form 1.)

(f) A certificate by the president, under the seal of the company, showing the names and designations of its officers at the date of the filing of the proofs. (Form 2.)

(g) If certified copies of the existing laws regarding such corporations, and of new laws as passed from time to time, be forwarded to the General Land Office by the governor or secretary of any State or Territory, a company organized in such State or Territory may file, in lieu of the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section a certificate of the governor or secretary of the State or Territory that no change has been made since a given date, not later than that of the laws last forwarded.

6. Maps.—The word profile as used in this act is understood to intend a map of alignment. All such maps and plats of station grounds are required by the act to be filed with the register of the land office for the district where the right of way is located; but if the right of way is located in more than one district, duplicate maps and field notes need be filed in but one district, and single sets in the others. The maps must be drawn on tracing linen, in duplicate, and must be strictly conformable to the field notes of the survey of the line of route or of the station grounds.

The maps should show any other road crossed, or with which connection is made, and whenever possible the station number on the survey thereof at the point of intersection. All such intersecting roads must be represented in ink of a different color from that used for the line for which applicant asks right of way. Field notes of the surveys should be written along the line on the map. If the map would thereby be too much crowded to be easily read. then duplicate field notes should be filed separate from the map. In such case it will be necessary to place on the map only a sufficient number of station numbers to make it convenient to follow the field notes on the map. In all cases station numbers should be given on the map where changes of numbering occur and where the lines of the public surveys are crossed, with distances to the nearest existing corner. The map must also show the lines of reference of initial and terminal points, with their courses and distances.

7. Field notes.—Typewritten field notes, with clear carbon copies, are preferred whenever separate field notes are necessary, as they expedite the examination of applications. The field notes, whether given on the map or filed separately, must be so complete that the line may be retraced from them on the ground. They should show whether lines were run on true or magnetic bearings, and if run on magnetic bearings the variation of the needle and date of determination must be stated. One or more bearings (or angular connections with public-survey lines) must be given. The 10-mile sections must be indicated and numbered on all lines of road submitted.

8. Scale of maps.—The scale of maps showing the line of route should be 2,000 feet to the inch ordinarily, but when absolutely necessary the scale may be increased to 1,000 feet to the inch. These scales are fixed so that maps may be readily handled and filed. In most cases, by furnishing separate field notes an increase of scale may be avoided. Plats of station grounds should be drawn on a scale of 500 feet to the inch, and must be filed separately from the map of the line of route. Such plats should show enough of the line of route to indicate the position of the tract with reference thereto.

9. Public-land subdivisions.—All subdivisions of the public surveys represented on the map should have their entire boundaries drawn, and all lands affected by the right of way the smallest legal subdivisions (40-acre tracts and lots) must be shown.

10. Termini.—The termini of the line of road should be fixed by reference of course and distance to the nearest existing corner of the public survey. The map, field notes, engineer's affidavit, and president's certificate (Forms 3 and 4), should each show these connections. The company must certify in Form 4 that the road is to be operated as a common carrier of passengers and freight. A tract for station grounds must be similarly referenced and described on the plat and in Forms 7 and 8, except when the tract conforms to the subdivisions of the public survey, in which case it may be described in the forms according to the subdivisions.

11. Connections on unsurveyed land.—When either terminal of the line of route is upon unsurveyed land, it must be connected by traverse with an established corner of the public survey, if not more than 6 miles distant, and the single bearing and distance from the terminal point to the corner must be computed and noted on the map, in the engineer's affidavit, and in the president's certificate, (Forms 3 and 4). The notes and all data for the computation of the traverse must be given.

12. Connections with monuments on unsurveyed land.—When an established corner of the public survey is more than 6 miles distant this connection will be made with a natural object or a permanent monument which can be readily found and recognized, and which will fix and perpetuate the position of the terminal point. The map must show the position of such mark and must give the course and distance to the terminus. There must be given an accurate description of the mark and full data of the traverse, as required above. The engineer's affidavit and president's certificate (Forms 3 and 4) must state the connections. These monuments are of great importance.

13. Surveyed and unsurveyed land.—When the line of route lies partly on unsurveyed land, each portion lying within surveyed and unsurveyed land will be separately stated in Forms 3 and 4 by connection of termini and length, as though each portion were independent.

When lands desired for station grounds lie partly on unsurveyed land, the areas of the several parts on surveyed and unsurveyed land must be separately stated on the map and in Forms 7 and 8.

Lines of route or station grounds lying partly upon unsurveyed land can be approved if the application and accompanying maps and papers conform to these regulations, but the approval will only relate to that portion traversing the surveyed lands. (For right of way wholly on unsurveyed land, see sec. 14.)

14. Right of way wholly on unsurveyed land.—Maps of lines of route or plats of station grounds lying wholly on unsurveyed lands may be received and placed on file in the General Land Office and the local land office of the district in which the same is situated, for general information, and the date of filing will be noted thereon; but the same will not be submitted to nor approved by the Secretary of the Interior, as the act makes no provision for the approval of any but maps showing the location in connection with the public surveys. The filing of such maps or plats will not dispense with the filing of maps or plats after the survey of the lands and within the time limited in the act granting the right of way. If these maps or plats are in all respects regular when filed, they will receive the Secretary's approval. In filing such maps or plats the initial and terminal points will be fixed as indicated in sections 11 and 12.

15. Connections with public survey corners.—Whenever the line of survey crosses a township or section line of the public survey, the distance to the nearest existing corner should be ascertained and noted. The map or plat should show these distances and the station numbers at the points of intersection. When field notes are submitted, they should also contain these distances and station numbers.

16. Affidavit and certificate required.—The engineer's affidavit and president's certificate must be written on the map, and must both designate by termini and length, in miles and decimals, the line of route for which right-of-way application is made. (See Forms 3 and 4.) Station grounds must be described by initial point and area in acres (see Forms 7 and 8), and when they are on surveyed land the smallest legal subdivision in which they are located should be stated. No changes or additions are allowable in the substance of any forms, except when the essential facts differ from those assumed therein. (See sec. 10.)

17. Spurs.—Where right of way is desired for spurs or short branch lines which will not greatly enlarge the size of the map, they may be shown on the same map with the main line, and should be separately described in the forms by termini and length. For longer branch lines separate maps should be filed.

18. Notation on maps and records.—When maps are filed the register will note on each the name of the land office and the date of filing, over his written signature. Notations will also be made on the records of the local land office, as to each unpatented tract affected, that application for right of way is pending, giving date of filing and name of applicant. The register will certify on each map, over his written signature, that unpatented land is affected by the proposed right of way. The maps and field notes in duplicate, and any other papers filed in connection with the application, will then be promptly transmitted to the General Land Office with report that the required notations have been made on the records of the local land office. Any valid right existing at the date of the filing of the right of way application will not be affected by the filing or approval thereof. (See sec. 1.) If no unpatented land is involved in the application the local officers will reject it, allowing the usual right of appeal.

Upon the approval of a map of location by the Secretary of the Interior the duplicate copy will be sent to the local officers, who will mark upon the township plats the line of the railroad or location of station grounds, as laid down on the map or plat. They will also note, in ink, on the tract books, opposite each tract marked as required by section 18, that the same is to be disposed of subject to the right of way for the railroad company's line of road or station grounds.

19. Evidence of construction.—When the railroad is constructed, an affidavit of the engineer and certificate of the president (Forms 5 and 6) must be filed in the local office, in duplicate, for transmission to the General Land Office. No new map will be required, except in case of deviations from the right of way previously approved, whether before or after construction, when there must be filed new maps and field notes in full, as herein provided, bearing proper forms, changed to agree with the facts in the case. The map must show clearly the portions amended, or bear a statement describing them, and the location must be described in the forms as the amended survey and the amended definite location. In such cases the company must file a relinquishment, under seal, of all rights under the former approval as to the portions amended, said relinquishment to take effect when the map of amended definite location is approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

20. Right of way through lands segregated from the Yosemite National Park and included in the Sierra National Forest.—The act of February 7, 1905 (33 Stat. 702), so far as it relates to the use of the lands within the addition to the Sierra National Forest made by it, for right-of-way purposes, is as follows:

> Provided, That all those tracts or parcels of land described in section one of the said act of October first, eighteen hundred and ninety, and not included within the metes and bounds of the land above described, be, and the same are hereby, included in and made part of the Sierra Forest Reserve: And provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior may require the payment of such price as he may deem proper for privileges on the land herein segregated from the Yosemite National Park and made a part of the Sierra Forest Reserve accorded under the act approved February fifteenth, nineteen hundred and one, relating to rights of way over certain parks, reservations, and other lands, and other acts concerning rights of way over public lands; and the moneys received from the privileges accorded on the lands herein segregated and included in the Sierra Forest Reserve shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, to be expended, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, in the management, improvement, and protection of the forest lands herein set aside and reserved, which shall hereafter be known as the "Yosemite National Park."
> SEC. 2. That none of the lands patented and in private ownership in the area hereby included in the Sierra Forest Reserve shall have the privileges of the lieu-land scrip provisions of the land laws, but otherwise to be in all respects under the laws and regulations affecting the forest reserves, and immediately upon the passage of this act all laws, rules, and regulations affecting forest reservations, including the right to change the boundaries thereof by executive proclamation, shall take effect and be in force within the limits of the territory excluded by this act from the Yosemite National Park, except as herein otherwise provided.

Before approval is given any application for right of way affecting these lands, the Secretary of the Interior will fix the price for the privilege, and payment thereof must be made. The applicant must expressly agree to enter into a contract to make further annual payments for such privilege should the Secretary of the Interior, upon consideration of the facts in each particular case, so prescribe. Such payments, when required, shall be made to the Secretary of the Interior, to be placed to the credit of the special fund provided for in this act, to be expended in the management, improvement, and protection of the Yosemite National Park.

An applicant for the privilege of transporting persons and material through the reserve to the Yosemite National Park will also be required, when in the judgment of the Secretary of the Interior the convenience of the public requires it, to file in the department a stipulation agreeing to transport the cars of any other person or company over its road upon the payment of such reasonable charge as may be determined upon between the parties, or by the Secretary of the Interior.

NOTATION OF RIGHTS OF WAY ON ORIGINAL AND FINAL ENTRY PAPERS AND PATENTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 3, 1909.[14]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: In order that all persons making entry of public lands which are affected by rights of way may have actual notice thereof, you are directed to note upon the original entry papers and upon the receiver's receipt issued to the entryman a reference to such right of way. You will make no such notation upon the final entry papers unless the right of way has been granted under an act of Congress which does not in terms protect the grantee against subsequent adverse rights, in which case you will place the same notation as to right of way upon the final entry papers, so that the reservation of the right of way will be made in the patent when issued. NOTATION OF RIGHTS OF WAY ON ENTRY PAPERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, February 2, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Some misapprehension having arisen as to the proper construction of departmental circulars of November 3, 1909 (38 L. D. 284), and January 19, 1910 (38 L. D. 399), governing notation of rights of way on entry papers, you are now instructed that such notations should be made only where your records show that the land involved, or some part of it, is covered by an approved application for right of way. In this connection, attention is directed to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway Co. v. Doughty (208 U. S. 251.) Applicants to enter public lands that are affected by a mere pending application for right of way, should be verbally informed thereof, and given all necessary information as to the character and extent of the project embraced by the right-of-way application; and, further, that they must take the land subject to whatever right may have attached thereto under the right-of-way application, and at the full area of the subdivisions entered, irrespective of the questions of priority or damages, these being questions for the courts to determine.

RAILROAD RIGHTS OF WAY—RESERVATION FOR CANALS AND DITCHES IN PATENTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, April 19, 1912.

First Assistant Secretary Adams to the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

Your letter of April 13, 1912, refers to recent order directing the insertion in approvals of rights of way granted under various easement acts of the reservation of a right of way through the lands for ditches and canals constructed by the authority of the United States, and asks instructions as to whether a similar reservation should be inserted in patents issued for lands granted to railroad companies, indemnity selections made by such companies, and selections made by the Northern Pacific Railway Co. under the act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597).

The act of August 30, 1890 (26 Stat. 391), requires—> that in all patents for lands hereafter taken up under any of the land laws of the United States or on entries or claims validated by this act, west of the one hundredth meridian, it shall be expressed that there is reserved from the lands in said patent described a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States.

In the case of grants of lands to railroad companies in what are commonly known as the granted or primary limits, the right of the railroad company thereto under the law attaches if the lands be subject to the grant at the date of the definite location of the railroad, and as to such lands, where title vested prior to August 30, 1890, the reservation clause should not be inserted in patents issued.

As a rule, indemnity selections are required to be made upon designated sections within the limits defined by law, but selections can only be made after and upon the basis of a loss occurring within the primary limits. Until selection the lands remain subject to appropriation and disposition under the applicable laws and no vested right in or to the selected lands accrues until the approval of the selections.

The act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 597), which permits the Northern Pacific Railway Co. to select nonmineral public lands in any State or Territory through which the road passes in lieu of lands within the granted or indemnity limits purchased from the United States or claimed in good faith by any qualified settler under color of title or claim of right under the public land laws, requires a selection by the railroad company, and until the lands are so selected, same remain disposable under the public land laws.

If of the character subject to selection and the selections be regularly made and perfected as required by the law, patents are issued to the company, but its right, in so far as the selected lands are concerned, does not relate back to the date of the original grant of lands to the company or to the date of the definite location of the road.

As in the case of indemnity selections, hereinbefore described, it has a right which, though based upon a grant made prior to August 30, 1890, is not initiated so far as the selected land is concerned, until the filing of selection. You are accordingly advised as follows:

The reservation required to be inserted in patents for public lands west of the one hundredth meridian is not required to be inserted in patents issued for lands to which the grant or right of a railroad company attached prior to the date of the said act. It should be inserted in all patents for lands covered by indemnity selections made by railroad companies and in selections made by the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. under the provisions of the act of July 1, 1898, supra, in all cases where such indemnity or other selections are approved subsequent to August 30, 1890.

CIRCULAR No. 108

ADDENDA TO THE RIGHT-OF-WAY REGULATIONS FOR CANALS, DITCHES, AND RESERVOIRS, ETC., OF JUNE 6, 1908

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, May 7, 1912.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

SIR: In the matter of the regulations approved June 6, 1908, concerning rights of way over public lands and reservations for canals, ditches, and reservoirs, and the use of a right of way for various purposes, I have to direct that modifications be made of paragraphs 38 and 43 thereof. As modified, these paragraphs will read as follows:

> 38. Nature of grant.—It is to be specially noted that this act does not make a grant in the nature of an easement but authorizes a mere permit in the nature of a license, which permit may be revoked by the Secretary, or his successor, at any time in his discretion. Further, it gives no right whatever to take from public lands, reservations, or parks adjacent to the right of way any materials, earth or stone, for construction or other purposes.
> 43. National parks.—Whenever a right of way is through any of the national parks designated in the act the applicant must show to the satisfaction of the department that the location and use of the right of way for the purposes contemplated will not interfere with the uses and purposes for which the park was originally dedicated, and will not result in damage or injury to the natural conditions of property or scenery existing therein. The applicant must also file the stipulations and bond required by section 6, but, in case of a telephone line, substitute the following: "That upon completion of the telephone lines they shall be subject to the free use of the park officers for all purposes incident to the administration of the park," for stipulation (e) under said section 6.
> Whenever right of way within a park is desired for operations in connection with mining, quarrying, cutting timber, or manufacturing lumber, a satisfactory showing must be made of the applicant's right to engage in such operations within the park. If the application and the showing made in support thereof is satisfactory, the Secretary of the Interior will give the required permission in such form as may be deemed proper, according to the features of each case; and any permission granted hereunder is also subject to such further and future regulations as may be adopted by the department.

You will see that these changes are made in an appropriate way in circulars hereafter distributed under this act.

Very respectfully,

SAMUEL ADAMS,
First Assistant Secretary.

ADDENDA TO RIGHT-OF-WAY REGULATIONS OF JUNE 6, 1908

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., November 16, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Under date of July 10, 1912, the department modified paragraphs a and f of section 8 of the regulations for rights of way over public lands and reservations (36 L. D. 567), to read as follows:

> (a) A copy of its articles of incorporation duly certified to by the proper officers of the company under its corporate seal, or by the secretary of the State or Territory where organized; also an uncertified copy of the articles of incorporation.

(f) A true list, in duplicate, signed by the president, under the seal of the company, showing the names and designations of its officers at the date of the filing of the proofs.

On October 8, 1912, the department added to said section 8 an additional paragraph (l), as follows:

(l) A separate statement, describing as near as may reasonably be done, by legal subdivisions, if practicable, the land to be irrigated by the proposed project; the approximate acreage and general condition and character of the lands; their ownership generally, and whether public or private; such negotiations or arrangements as have been had between the applicant and the owners or occupants of the lands.

Respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

REGULATIONS CONCERNING GRANTS FOR RIGHTS OF WAY OVER, ACROSS, AND UPON THE PUBLIC LANDS AND RESERVATIONS OF THE UNITED STATES UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR FOR ELECTRICAL POLES AND LINES FOR THE TRANSMISSION AND DISTRIBUTION OF ELECTRICAL POWER, AND FOR POLES AND LINES FOR TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH PURPOSES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
January 6, 1913.[20]

GENERAL STATEMENT

The act of March 4, 1911 [21] (36 Stat. 1253–1254), provides, among other things, as follows:

That the head of the department having jurisdiction over the lands be, and he hereby is, authorized and empowered, under general regulations to be fixed by him, to grant an easement for rights of way, for a period not exceeding fifty years from the date of the issuance of such grant, over, across, and upon the public lands, national forests, and reservations of the United States for electrical poles and lines for the transmission and distribution of electrical power, and for poles and lines for telephone and telegraph purposes, to the extent of twenty feet on each side of the center line of such electrical, telephone, and telegraph lines and poles, to any citizen, association, or corporation of the United States, where it is intended by such to exercise the right of way herein granted for any one or more of the purposes herein named: Provided, That such right of way shall be allowed within or through any national park, national forest, military, Indian, or any other reservation only upon the approval of the chief officer of the department under whose supervision or control such reservation falls, and upon a finding by him that the same is not incompatible with the public interest: Provided, That all or any part of such right of way may be forfeited and annulled by declaration of the head of the department having jurisdiction over the lands for nonuse for a period of two years or for abandonment.

That any citizen, association, or corporation of the United States to whom there has heretofore been issued a permit for any of the purposes specified herein under any existing law may obtain the benefit of this act upon the same terms and conditions as shall be required of citizens, associations, or corporations hereafter making application under the provisions of this statute.

[20] Amended by regulations approved Oct. 25, 1913, p. 1356.

[21] This act has been superseded, in part, by the Federal water power act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063).

For the purposes of this statute, national parks, Indian reservations, and reservations for water power sites, irrigation, classification of lands, or other public purposes, created under the withdrawal act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), are considered to be under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior; military reservations under the jurisdiction of the War Department; and reservations created for the special occupancy, use, or control of other departments under the jurisdiction of such departments, respectively. The Attorney General on February 3, 1912, advised the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture that, for this purpose, national forests are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture (29 Op. 303).

It will be observed that this act, which authorizes the granting of easements for electrical power transmission, and telephone and telegraph lines for stated periods not to exceed 50 years, follows, as closely as is possible in the accomplishment of its purposes, the language of the act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), which authorizes mere revocable permits or licenses not only for such lines but also for other purposes. This act, therefore, merely authorizes additional or larger grants and does not modify or repeal the act of 1901, and should be construed and applied in harmony with it.

REGULATIONS

REGULATION 1. Applications for rights of way for electric transmission lines under the said act of March 4, 1911, shall be presented and considered, except as herein otherwise provided, in the form and manner prescribed by the regulations issued August 24, 1912, and hereafter issued under the said act of February 15, 1901, in so far as the regulations issued under the act last aforesaid apply to electric transmission lines.

REG. 2. Applications for rights of way under the said act of March 4, 1911, for telephone and telegraph lines, shall be presented and considered, except as herein otherwise provided, in the form and manner prescribed by the regulations heretofore and hereafter issued under the said act of February 15, 1901, in so far as the regulations under the act last aforesaid apply to telephone and telegraph lines.

REG. 3. Applications for rights of way for electric transmission lines (hereinafter called "transmission line applications") are to be accompanied by:

(a) A description of the plant or plants which generate or will generate the power to be transmitted over such lines (hereinafter called "the connected generating plant," which term shall include all hydraulic, hydroelectric, and electric generating works), such description to be in sufficient detail to show, to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior, the character, capacity, and location of such plant.

(b) A statement in detail to the Secretary of the Interior showing whether the connected generating plant is located, in whole or in part, on land owned or controlled by the United States, or on land not so owned and controlled, and whether any part of the connected generating plant or of the system of transmission and distribution in connection with such plant affects lands in reservations other than those under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior.

REG. 4. Rights of way granted under these regulations shall not be used for the transmission of any power generated otherwise than by and at "the connected generating plant" as above defined in regulation 3 until the Secretary of the Interior shall have given written authority for such use and then only on the terms and conditions expressed in such written authority.

REG. 5. Grants of rights of way shall be for a period of 50 years or for such less period as may be expressed in the grant in any particular case.

Reg. 6.[22] Before any right of way is granted the applicant shall execute and file in or in amendment of his application a statement of the particular terms and conditions upon which and subject to which the applicant asks to receive and agrees to take the grant of right of way, and the grant may be made subject to such terms and conditions, in which case such terms and conditions, together with these regulations, shall define and limit the grant, which shall be effective only if and in so far as it is subject to such terms, conditions, and regulations. Such original or amended application with the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior shall together constitute the grant and express the terms and conditions thereof, and the fact of such approval shall be noted on the application maps.

Reg. 7. The grantee shall construct and thereafter during the term of the grant maintain and continuously operate for the transmission of electrical power the transmission lines for which right of way is granted except in so far as this condition may be temporarily waived by the Secretary of the Interior on a full showing to his satisfaction that such continuous operation is prevented by inevitable accidents or contingencies.

Reg. 8. The grantee shall annually, on or before the 1st day of February next following the close of each calendar year of the period for which right of way is granted, pay, by certified check to the order of the Secretary of the Interior, the following rental charges: For all energy delivered during the preceding calendar year of the first decade after the date of the grant over the lines for which right of way is granted, a rental charge of 5 mills ($0.005) per 1,000 kilowatt hours; and for all energy so delivered during the preceding calendar year of each decade after the first, a rental charge at such reasonable rate per 1,000 kilowatt hours so delivered as the Secretary of the Interior may fix before the beginning of such decade: Provided, That the burden of proving that any rate fixed by the said Secretary under this regulation is not reasonable shall be and remain upon the grantee: Provided further, That if no rate is so fixed for any particular decade, then the rental charge to be paid for each year of such decade shall be calculated and paid upon all energy delivered during such year over the lines for which right of way is granted at the rate per 1,000 kilowatt hours fixed for the preceding decade: Provided further, That any payment duly made by the grantee to the head or other officer of any department of the Federal Government having jurisdiction over national forests or other reservations of the United States occupied or used by any portion of the lines shown on the maps whereon approval of the grantee's application is noted under regulation 6 hereof, such payment having been made as or on account of a rental charge for such occupancy and use for any calendar year during the period for which right of way is granted under these regulations, shall be credited upon the rental charge imposed under this regulation for the same year, but such credit shall in no case exceed the total of the rental charge so imposed for such year.

Reg. 9. The grantee shall install at such places and maintain in good operating condition in such manner as shall be approved by the said Secretary accurate meters, or other devices approved by the said Secretary, adequate for the determination of the amount of electric energy delivered over the lines for which right of way is granted, or any part thereof, and shall keep accurate and sufficient records of the foregoing determinations to the satisfaction of the said Secretary, and shall make a return during January of each year under oath of such of the records of measurements for the year ending on December 31 preceding made by or in the possession of the grantee as may be required by the said Secretary.

Reg. 10. The books and records of the grantee shall be open at all times to the inspection and examination of the said Secretary, or other officer or agent of the United States duly authorized to make such inspection and examination.

Reg. 11. The lines constructed, maintained, and operated on the right of way granted shall not be owned, leased, trusteed, possessed, or controlled by any device or in any manner so that they form part of or in any way effect any combination in the form of an unlawful trust, or form the subject of any unlawful contract or conspiracy to limit the output of electric energy, or in unlawful restraint of trade with foreign nations or between two or more States, or within any one State, in the generation, sale, or distribution of electric energy or in the transmission of communications by telephone or telegraph.

[22] See amendment, p. 1356.

REG. 12. The grantee shall protect in a workmanlike manner according to the usual standards of safety for construction, operation, and maintenance in such cases all Government and other telephone, telegraph, and power-transmission lines at crossings of and at all places in proximity to the grantee's transmission, telephone, and telegraph lines on the right of way granted, and shall maintain his transmission, telephone, and telegraph lines thereon in such manner as not to menace life or property.

REG. 13. The grantee shall clear and keep clear all lands owned or controlled by the United States along the lines for which right of way is granted to such width and in such manner as the officer of the United States having supervision of such lands may direct.

REG. 14. The grantee shall, to the satisfaction of the officer last above described, dispose of all brush, refuse, or unused timber on lands owned or controlled by the United States caused by or left from the construction and maintenance of the lines for which right of way is granted.

REG. 15. The grantee shall pay on demand, by certified check to the order of the Secretary of the Interior, the full value as fixed by the said Secretary for all timber cut, injured, or destroyed on lands owned or controlled by the United States in the construction, maintenance, and operation of the lines for which right of way is granted.

REG. 16. The grantee shall sell and deliver power to the United States and to the State within which are the lands servient to the right of way granted, or any part thereof, and to any or all municipal corporations of such State, when duly requested, at as low a rate as is given to any other purchaser for a like use at the same time and under similar conditions: Provided, That the grantee can furnish the same without diminishing the quantity of power sold before such request to any other customer by a binding contract of sale: Provided further, That nothing in this clause shall be construed to require the grantee to increase permanent works or install additional generating machinery or construct any transmission line or connection beyond the limits fixed by the statute for the right of way granted.

REG. 17. The grantee shall do everything reasonably possible, both independently and on request of the Secretary of the Interior or other duly authorized officer or agent of the United States, to prevent and suppress fires on or near the right of way granted.

REG. 18. The grantee shall maintain a system of accounting for his entire power business in such form as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe and shall render annually such reports of the power business as the said Secretary may direct.

REG. 19. The grantee shall save harmless the United States against any liability for damages to life or property arising from the occupancy or use of the right of way granted.

REG. 20. The grantee shall not assign or transfer to any other person or corporation whatsoever the right of way granted, except with approval in writing first obtained from the Secretary of the Interior or other proper officer of the United States and upon terms and conditions prescribed in said written approval by such Secretary or other officer. The assignee or transferee under any such approval shall take and use the right of way subject to all the terms and conditions in these regulations together with the original approved application and grant set forth, and subject to such additional terms and conditions as may be provided by such written approval of the transfer.

REG. 21. In respect to the regulation, by any competent public authority, of the services to be rendered by the grantee or of the prices to be charged therefor, and in respect to any purchase or taking over of the works or business of the grantee or any part thereof by the United States or by any State within which the works are situated or business carried on in whole or in part, or by any municipal corporation of such State, no value whatsoever shall at any time be assigned to or claimed for the right of way granted, nor shall said right of way or grant ever be estimated or considered as property upon which the grantee shall be entitled to earn or receive any return, income, price, or compensation whatsoever.

REG. 22. The grantee, with respect to service rendered and power delivered over the right of way granted, (otherwise than in the performance of contracts upon the execution and performance of which the grant may be expressly conditioned under the provisions of regulation 6 hereof), and with respect to the prices charged and to be charged therefor, will comply with all such just and reasonable regulations as may be imposed by any duly constituted Federal, State, or other governmental authority having jurisdiction in the premises; and the grantee shall never, by reason of or in connection with the right of way granted, or otherwise, have, exercise, or claim any greater or other rights under contracts upon which the grant is so conditioned than could have rightfully been had, exercised, or claimed without such condition: Provided, That if, as to any conditions imposed upon the grantee by this paragraph, the regulations prescribed by the Federal Government, its officers or agents, are in conflict with the regulations prescribed by the State or any duly authorized agency thereof, compliance with the Federal regulations shall be deemed and taken to be a fulfillment of the requirements of this paragraph in so far as such conflict extends and no further.

REG. 23. Upon breach by the grantee of any of the terms or conditions set forth in these regulations or in the approved application or in the grant, the United States may have and enforce appropriate remedy therefor by suit for specific performance, injunction, action for damages, or otherwise. And if any such breach shall be continued or repeated after 30 days' notice thereof given in behalf of the United States to the grantee, the right of way granted, together with all rights thereunder and all rental charges and other moneys paid thereon, may be forfeited to the United States by a suit for that purpose in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Under the authority given by the above-quoted provision of the said act of March 4, 1911, the foregoing regulations are, on this 6th day of January, 1913, hereby made and fixed with respect to grants of rights of way for the purposes in said provision set forth, over, across, and upon the public lands and reservations of the United States under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

WALTER L. FISHER,
Secretary of the Interior.

[Reported, 41 L. D. 532]

REGULATIONS CONCERNING PERMITS FOR RIGHTS OF WAY FOR POWER PURPOSES THROUGH PUBLIC LANDS AND RESERVATIONS (EXCEPT NATIONAL FORESTS)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
March 1, 1913.[15]

GENERAL STATEMENT

1. The act of February 15, 1901,[16] chapter 372 (31 Stat. 790), entitled "An act relating to rights of way through certain parks, reservations, and other public lands," is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized and empowered, under general regulations to be fixed by him, to permit the use of rights of way through the public lands, forest and other reservations of the United States, and the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks, California, for electrical plants, poles, and lines for the generation and distribution of electrical power, and for telephone and telegraph purposes, and for canals, ditches, pipes and pipe lines, flumes, tunnels, or other water conduits, and for water plants, dams, and reservoirs used to promote irrigation or mining or quarrying, or the manufacturing or cutting of timber or lumber, or the supplying of water for domestic, public, or any other beneficial uses to the extent of the ground occupied by such canals, ditches, flumes, tunnels, reservoirs, or other water conduits or water plants, or electrical or other works permitted hereunder, and not to exceed fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof, or not to exceed fifty feet on each side of the center line of such pipes and pipe lines, electrical, telegraph and telephone lines and poles, by any citizen, association, or corporation of the United States, where it is intended by such to exercise the use permitted hereunder or any one or more of the purposes herein named: Provided, That such permits shall be allowed within or through any of the said parks or any forest, military, Indian, or other reservation only upon the approval of the chief officer of the department under whose supervision such park or reservation falls and upon a finding by him that the same is not incompatible with the public interest: Provided, further, That all permits given hereunder for telegraph and telephone purposes shall be subject to the provision of title sixty-five of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and amendments thereto, regulating rights of way for telegraph companies over the public domain: And provided further, That any permission given by the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of this act may be revoked by him or his successor in his discretion, and shall not be held to confer any right, or easement, or interest in, to, or over any public land, reservation, or park.

---

[15] Amended by regulation of July 19, 1913, p. 1356. See supplemental instructions of Aug. 21, 1929, p. 1364.

[16] This act has been superseded, in part, by the Federal water power act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063).

2. This act, in general terms, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, under regulations to be fixed by him, to grant permission to use rights of way through the public lands, forest, and other reservations of the United States, and the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks in California, for every purpose contemplated by sections 18 to 21 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095, 1101), and by acts of January 21, 1895 (28 Stat. 635), May 14, 1896 (29 Stat. 120), and May 11, 1898 (30 Stat. 404), and for other purposes additional thereto, except for tramroads, the provisions relating to tramroads, contained in the act of 1895 and in section 1 of the act of 1898, aforesaid remaining unmodified and not being in any manner extended.

3. Although this act does not expressly repeal any provision of law relating to the granting of permission to use rights of way contained in the acts referred to, yet in view of the general scope and purpose of the act, and of the fact that Congress has, with the exception above noted, embodied therein the main features of the former acts relative to the granting of a mere permission or license for such use, it is evident that, for purposes of administration, the later act should control in so far as it pertains to the granting of permission to use rights of way for purposes therein specified. Accordingly, all applications for permission to use rights of way for the purposes specified in this act must be submitted thereunder. Where, however, any canal or ditch company formed for the purpose of irrigation, any individual, or association of individuals, seeks to acquire a right of way for irrigation canals, ditches, or reservoirs, under said sections of the act of March 3, 1891, and section 2 of the act of May 11, 1898, supra, the application must be submitted in accordance with the regulations issued under said acts.

4. By section 1 of the act of February 1, 1905 (33 Stat. 628), it is provided:

That the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture shall, from and after the passage of this act, execute or cause to be executed all laws affecting public lands heretofore or hereafter reserved under the provisions of section twenty-four of the act entitled "An act to repeal the timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and acts supplemental to and amendatory thereof, after such lands have been so reserved, excepting such laws as affect the surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, relinquishing, reconveying, certifying, or patenting of any such lands.

5. Under this section it has been determined that the Department of Agriculture is invested with jurisdiction to pass upon all applications under the said act of February 15, 1901, for permission to occupy and use lands in national forests.

6. Therefore when it is desired to obtain permission to use a right of way over public lands within a national forest, an application should be prepared in accordance with the regulations issued by the Department of Agriculture and the same submitted to the proper officer of that department, as in these regulations more fully set forth.

7. Any occupancy or use of public lands, reservations, parks, or national forests for the purposes set forth in the statute, except under authority first secured from the proper department, is trespass.

8. The statute does not make a grant in the nature of an easement, but authorizes a mere permission revocable at any time, and it gives no right whatever to take from public lands, reservations, parks, or national forests adjacent to the right of way any material, earth, or stone for construction or other purposes.

9. Permission may be given under this statute for rights of way through unsurveyed as well as surveyed lands.

10. Public lands of the United States chiefly valuable for power purposes are from time to time withdrawn from settlement, location, sale, or entry and reserved for power purposes under the withdrawal act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), as amended by act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497), or under sections 13 and 14 of the omnibus Indian act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 855). Such reservation not only effects retention of the lands in Government ownership, but relieves the eventual permittee from the necessity of dealing with the numerous patentees or claimants that would otherwise succeed to the ownership, and provides for a more permanent right of way than could otherwise be secured from the United States under existing law. On approval of a power project under the following regulations, modification of the withdrawal to allow the issuance of the necessary permit is secured, so that the withdrawal in no way interferes with power development. It is suggested, therefore, that prospective applicants under these regulations furnish to the Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., at the earliest possible stage of operations, an approximate description by legal subdivisions of the land affected, together with a brief statement of the extent of the power resources involved and a request that a withdrawal be made. Such requests will be given immediate attention to the end that the unreserved lands affected may be withdrawn in so far as they are found to possess value for power purposes.

11. The following regulations govern the issuance of permits under the said act of February 15, 1901, that involve the use of or interference with valuable power resources or that involve rights of way for the development, transmission, or use of power. They are a revision of and supersede regulations on the same subject, approved August 24, 1912, which superseded sections 37 to 45, inclusive, of the "Regulations concerning right of way over public lands and reservations for canals, ditches, and reservoirs, and use of right of way for various purposes," approved June 6, 1908 (36 L. D. 579–583), so far as they relate to permits that involve the use of or interference with valuable power resources or that involve rights of way for the development, transmission, or use of power. Permits under said act that do not involve the use of or interference with valuable power resources and that do not involve rights of way for the development, transmission, or use of power are issued in accordance with the said sections of the regulations of June 6, 1908.

REGULATIONS

REGULATION 1. Preliminary power permits issued by the Secretary of the Interior allow the occupancy of the public lands and reservations of the United States, (except national forests), and of the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks, all hereinafter called "Interior Department lands," for the purpose of securing the data required for an application for final permit. Final power permits issued by the Secretary of the Interior allow the occupancy and use of Interior Department lands for the construction, maintenance, and operation of works that involve the use of or interference with valuable power resources or that involve the development, transmission, or use of power. All permits will be issued, extended, renewed, or revoked only by the Secretary of the Interior, hereafter in these regulations called "the Secretary."

REG. 2. Application for preliminary or final power permits for occupancy or use of lands of the United States should be submitted as follows:

For Interior Department lands: To the local land office of the land district in which the lands are situated. If the lands are situated in more than one district, the lands in both districts shall be embraced in one set of application papers, which shall be submitted in any one of such districts at the option of the applicant, who shall submit to the local land office in each of the other districts a print copy of the maps submitted to the local land office of the first district.

For national-forest lands: To the district forester of the district in which the lands are situated, unless otherwise directed by the regulations of the Department of Agriculture.

For lands in part national-forest lands and in part Interior Department lands: In the same manner as for national-forest lands, but the applicant shall also submit to the local land office in the land district in which the Interior Department lands are situated such maps and papers and copies thereof as are required in these regulations.

REG. 3. Priority of consideration of applications for final power permits shall be initiated in the order of filing complete applications whether such applications shall be for preliminary permit as prescribed in regulation 10 or for final permit as prescribed in either regulation 11 or regulation 12. If a preliminary permittee shall file such complete application for final permit before loss of priority initiated by the application for preliminary permit, the priority so initiated shall be maintained by the application for final permit and be effective as of the date of the application for the preliminary permit. Priority shall be maintained, however, only in so far as the projects shown in the application for final permit are within the approximate limits of diversion and discharge as shown in the application for the preliminary permit. Priority initiated or maintained by an application for final permit shall be lost if the applicant fails to make the payment required and to return a duly executed agreement, as prescribed in regulation 14 or in regulation 15, within 90 days from a date fixed in the letter transmitting such agreement to him, unless a longer time is allowed by written authority of the Secretary. Priority initiated by an application for preliminary permit shall be lost (1) if the initial payment is not made within 60 days of demand therefor, or (2) if the application for final permit is not filed within the time required in the preliminary permit. Priority initiated or maintained by an application for a permit shall be lost if the permit is revoked. No other application, either preliminary or final, for a like use covering in whole or in part the same or adjacent lands, will be accepted from the permittee whose priority is lost until the expiration of one year thereafter; and this restriction shall extend to transferees of the permittee and, if the permittee is a corporation, to reincorporations representing the same or associated interests, whenever in the judgment of the Secretary a transfer or reincorporation has been effected for the purpose or with the result of escaping the restriction of this regulation, it being the intent of such restriction to leave open to other applicants for a period of one year power sites upon which priorities have lapsed as provided in this regulation.

REG. 4. Final power permits will be issued only in case it appears that the proposed development will be in general accord with the most beneficial utilization of the resources involved and consistent with the pubic interest. No final power permit will be issued if the works to be constructed thereunder would in any way be incompatible with works operated or constructed or to be constructed under an existing final power permit. No final power permit will be issued for the construction of works within an area covered by a prior preliminary permit until after the filing of final application or the loss of priority by the prior preliminary permittee. Applications for final power permits involving in whole or in part the same lands will be examined in order of their priority, but before the issuance of final permit consideration may be given, in the discretion of the Secretary, to the financial ability and business connections and affiliations of the applicants. Successive preliminary permits may be issued covering the same power site, but in each successive preliminary permit it shall be specified that such permit is subordinate to all outstanding prior permits and shall not adversely affect any rights thereunder.

REG. 5. The applicant must file as a part of his application the evidence of initiation of water appropriation in these regulations hereafter required. Thereafter no protest against the issuance of a permit, if based upon alleged lack of water rights, will be considered; nor, in general, will any allegation that the time of beginning or completion of construction has been or is delayed by litigation over water rights be accepted as a sufficient reason for granting any extensions of time. Wherever the approval or permission of one or more State agencies is required by the State law as a condition precedent to the applicant's right to construct or operate or to take or use water in the operation of the works described in any application for a final power permit, duly certified evidence, in duplicate, of the approval or permission so required must be filed before issuance of such permit.

REG. 6.[17] Unless sooner revoked by the Secretary, a final power permit shall terminate at the expiration of 50 years from the date of the permit. If, however, at any time not less than 2 nor more than 12 years prior to the termination of the permit, the permittee shall formally notify the Secretary that he desires a new permit to occupy and use such lands as are occupied and used under the existing permit, and will comply with all then existing laws and regulations governing the occupancy and use of lands of the United States for power purposes, the existing permit will be considered as an application for such new permit.

REG. 7. The following terms, wherever used in these regulations, shall have the meaning hereby in this regulation assigned to them, respectively, viz:

"Municipal purposes" means and includes all purposes within municipal powers as defined by the charter of the municipal corporation, where any such purpose is directly pursued by the municipal corporation itself with the primary object of promoting the security, health, good government, or general convenience of its inhabitants.

"Power business" means the entire business of the applicant or permittee in the generation, distribution, and delivery of power by means of any one power system, together with all works and tangible property involved therein, including freeholds and leaseholds in real property.

"Power system" means all interconnected plants and works for the generation, distribution, and delivery of power.

"Power project" means a complete unit of power development, consisting of a power house, conduit or conduits conducting water thereto, all storage or diverting or fore-bay reservoirs used in connection therewith, the transmission line delivering power therefrom, any other miscellaneous structures used in connection with said unit or any part thereof, and all lands the occupancy and use of which are necessary or appropriate in the development of power in said unit.

"Project works" means the physical structures of a power project.

"Construction of the project works" means the actual construction of dams, water conduits, power houses, transmission lines, or some permanent structure necessary to the operation of the complete power project, and does not include surveys or the building of roads and trails or the clearing of reservoir sites or other lands to be occupied, or the performance of any work preliminary to the actual construction of the permanent project works.

"Operation period" means the period covered by final permit subsequent to the actual beginning of operation.

[17] See amendment, p. 1356.

"Survey-construction period" means the period covered by preliminary and final permits prior to the operation period.

"Nominal stream flow" means the sum of (a) the average of the values estimated for the mean natural flow for the two-month, (calendar), minimum-flow period in each successive five-year cycle or major fraction thereof, and (b) the increase in such average due to artificial means other than the project works.

"Project storage flow" means the estimated increase in nominal stream flow made practicable by the project works.

"Available stream flow" means the sum of nominal stream flow and project storage flow.

"Load factor" means the ratio of average power output to maximum power output.

"Total capacity of the power site" means the power estimated to be available for transmission, and is determined as the continued product of (1) the factor 0.08[18]; (2) the average effective head, in feet; (3) the available stream flow at the intake, (in second-feet and in amount not to exceed the maximum hydraulic capacity of the project works); and (4) a factor, not less than the average load factor of the power system, representing the degree of practicable utilization of the available stream flow, and based on the extent of practicable fore-bay storage and the load factor of the power system.

"Net capacity of the power site" means the capacity on which the calculation of the compensation hereinafter required to be paid is based, and is determined by making a deduction from the total capacity of the power site which, in per cent, shall be the product of the square of the distance of primary transmission in miles and the factor 0.001, but in no case shall such deduction exceed 25 per cent.

Reg. 8.[19] The occupancy and use of Interior Department lands (otherwise than by transmission lines) under a preliminary or final power permit for power sites of more than 100 horsepower total capacity (except permits exclusively for municipal purposes, for irrigation, or for temporary construction of project works as in this regulation hereafter specified) will be conditioned on the payment in advance for each calendar year of compensation calculated from the "net capacity of the power site," as defined in regulation 7, at not less than the following rates per horsepower per year:

For the unexpired portion of the calendar year and for the first full calendar year of the survey-construction period, and similarly for the operation period	$0.01
For the second full calendar year of each of said periods	.02
For the third year	.03
For the fourth year	.04
For the fifth year	.05
For the sixth year	.06
For the seventh year	.07
For the eighth year	.08
For the ninth year	.09
For the tenth and each succeeding year	.10

The rates per horsepower per year will be 10 times such minimum rates, however, unless good cause for fixing other rates appears.

The occupancy and use of Interior Department lands by transmission lines will be conditioned on the payment in advance for each calendar year of compensation to be fixed by the Secretary and specified in each permit according to the circumstances in each case.

The compensation on account of a preliminary power permit will be calculated from the net capacity of the power site as estimated by the Secretary at the time of granting such permit. The compensation on account of a final power permit will be calculated from the net capacity of the power site as estimated by the Secretary at the time of granting said final permit, provided that said estimated net capacity may be adjusted by the Secretary annually to provide for changes in length of primary transmission, for increase or decrease, by storage or otherwise, of available stream flow to an amount of 10 per cent or more, or for increase or decrease of 10 per cent or more in average effective head, or in degree of practicable utilization.

[18] The factor 0.08 represents the horsepower at 70 per cent efficiency of a second-foot of water falling through a head of 1 foot.

[19] See amendment, p. 1356.

The first payment by every permittee shall be the compensation for a full year, but any excess of said payment over the pro rata compensation for the unexpired portion of the calendar year in which the permit is issued will be credited to the permittee as a part of his payment for the first full calendar year.

All payments made for the survey-construction period will be credited to the permittee for the cancellation of charges as they become due in the operation period.

No compensation will be required for the occupancy and use of Interior Department lands under a preliminary or final power permit authorizing such occupancy and use exclusively for municipal purposes, for irrigation, or for the temporary development of power to be used in the construction of permanent project works under permit issued to the same permittee. All free permits issued under this paragraph will be subject to such special conditions as the Secretary may deem necessary in each case to fully protect the consumers of power for such municipal purposes and irrigation.

If all or any part of the amounts due for compensation as required in the preliminary permit shall, after due notice has been given, be in arrears for 60 days, then and thereupon the preliminary permit shall terminate and be void and will be formally revoked by the Secretary. If all or any part of the amounts due for compensation, as required in the final permit, shall, after due notice has been given, be in arrears for six months, then and thereupon the final permit shall terminate and be void and will be formally revoked by the Secretary.

At any time not less than 10 years after the issuance of final permit, or after the last revision of rates per horsepower per year thereunder, the Secretary may review such rates and impose such new rates per horsepower per year as he may decide to be reasonable and proper: Provided, That the new rates shall not be so great as to result in reducing the margin of income from the project over estimated and proper expenses, (including reasonable allowance for repairs and renewals), to an amount which, in view of all the circumstances, (including fair promotion costs and working capital), and risks of the enterprise, (including obsolescence), is unreasonably small; but the burden of proving such unreasonableness shall rest upon the permittee.

The decision of the Secretary shall be final as to all matters of fact upon which the calculation of the capacities or compensation depends.
